FO R KILLED; TWENTY WOUNDED

Mexica. eported to Have Lost 200 Killed as Result of Resisting Advance of American Forces.

U. S. in Possession of Customs Houses and Part of Vera Cruz.

Salute to American Flag no Longer Satisfactory Reparation—Apology and Guarantee Demanded.

Washington, April 21.—Marines and bluejackets from the American navy today took the customs house and a large section of Vera Cruz with a loss of four killed and 20 wounded.

The loss of the Mexican garrison was not officially known here tonight but was estimated at 200 killed. This was the first step in the program of reprisal by the United States against the Huerta government for the arrest of American bluejackets at Tampico and other offences "against the rights and dignity of the United States."

It was the first clash between the forces of the United States and Mexico since the revolution broke out in the southern republic in 1910, and gave the Washington administration a Mexican problem.

Although fighting had not ceased at a late hour tonight, Rear Admiral Fletcher had warned the federal commander that he would use the big guns of the American fleet if his men did not stop firing. The American forces have orders only to fire to defend themselves. The United States intends to take no offensive steps for the present.

Salute Not Sufficient.

The salute of the flag which Huerta refused will not be satisfactory reparation. It is understood a declaration of apology as well as a salute and a guarantee that the rights and dignity of the United States will be respected can alone acuse a withdrawal of the American forces.

While the American marines and bluejackets were fighting the senate debated the Mexican situation before crowded galleries. The joint resolution which has passed the house supporting the president's proposal to use the army and navy to obtain reparation was being debater in the senate at midnight with prospects of an all night session. Many Republicans wanted the resolution broadened to authorize steps to obtain reparation for all offences committed against Americans in Mexico.

The administration senators fought this as tantamount to a declaration of war, saying the United States had no quarrel with the Mexican people, but with the Huerta government controlling a small portion of it.

The president, while anxious for congress to act went ahead on the authority of the executive in accord with precedent, because he believed an emergency existed. He gave Rear Admiral Fletcher authority to seize the customs house at Vera Cruz to prevent the landing there today of a German merchant vessel with a big consignment of arms and ammunition for the Huerta government.

Secretary Bryan conferred with the German ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, and it is believed the influence of the German government will be interested to prevent the consignment from landing elsewhere in Mexico and complicating the situation. The ship carries 15,000,000 rounds of ammunition and two rapid fire guns and thousands of rifles.

No Orders to Army.

The president was in conference with the secretaries of war, state and navy early tonight. No orders were issued to the army but Rear Admiral Badger was ordered to Tampico where another customs house may be seized. Mr. Wilson intends to act slowly to force Huerta to yield, and hopes to avert war. With the taking of the railroad for a few miles inland from Vera Cruz, and the two customs houses, it is believed no other aggressive steps will be taken. It is admitted by many officials that offensive action by Huerta may draw the American forces into conflict tantamount to war. All preparations possible have been made by the army and navy, although no orders have gone out to the army or to the militia of the states, nor has the naval militia been called upon.

Joint plans of the army and navy were worked over at the departments during the night and the wireless, the cable and the telegraph carried scores of orders over land and sea, making preparations for all eventualities.

The national capital was thrilled with excitement. Crowds thronged the senate and listened to the debate. Newspaper bulletins were eagerly read by thousands as were also frequent extra editions. In executive quarters clerks and officers of the army and navy were busily at work all night. Cabinet members were at their desks until after midnight and the whole legislative machinery of the government was adjusted to the Mexican crisis.

OCCUPATION COST BLOOD.

Stubborn Resistance Offered by the Mexicans Under General Maas.

Vera Cruz, April 21.—Vera Cruz tonight is in the hands of forces from the United States warships, but the occupation of the port was not accomplished without loss of American lives.

Four Americans, blue-jackets and marines, were killed by the fire of the Mexican soldiers, and twenty fell wounded. The Mexican loss is not known, but it is believed to have been heavy.

The waterfront, the customs house and all important piers, including those under the terminal works from which extend the railroads to the capital, have been occupied. All the territory around the American consulate is strongly patrolled, and detachments hold other sections of the city.

The Mexican commander, General Gustavo Maas, offered a stubborn resistance and for many hours there was fighting in the streets. Towards nightfall it was reported that the main body of the federal garrison was in retreat to the westward.

Maas Refused Demand.

Rear Admiral Fletcher, in command of the United States warships, prefaced his occupation of the port by a demand, through the American consul, W. W. Canada, for its surrender. General Maas promptly declined to accede to this demand and shortly afterward ten whale boats were sent off from the side of the transport Prairie loaded with marines. These boats effected a landing in the neighborhood of the customs house before noon and a few minutes later Captain William R. Rush, of the battleship Florida, who was in command of the operations ashore, brought his flag in.

Captain Rush's men had already taken up their positions. They numbered 150 blue-jackets from the Florida. Later these forces were augmented by a detachment from the Utah.

The coming of the American forces was not heralded by any great excitement, but small crowds gathered to watch the landing. Soon the bluejackets and marines marched through the streets, leading from the waterfront and along the railroad yards. Others proceeded to the American consulate, while still others were deployed along the approaches to Central Plaza, in which General Maas had concentrated his men.

Firing Commences.

These manoeuvres were effected without opposition, but suddenly General Maas challenged the advance with the first shots—a volley fired from a point three blocks from the marines and two blocks south of the main plaza. The marines replied immediately, but the action ceased in a moment. There was a lull for ten minutes and then another brief exchange from the west end of Monte-

KING AND QUEEN ROYALLY GREETED

England's Rulers Joyously Welcomed by the President of France—Banquet Last Night.

Paris, April 21.—For the first time not only in the history of the French republic, but also in the longer history of the city of Paris, a British king and queen today made a state progress through the streets of the French capital.

The greeting accorded King George and Queen Mary was a flattering one. The evening newspapers published their welcome to the royal couple in English.

At tonight's banquet in their honor President Poincare proposed the toast of Their Majesties. He declared that public opinion on both sides of the channel associated in a fresh demonstration of confidence in the mutual sympathies of the governments of the two countries. Their majesties' visit consummated the friendship which had endured the test of time and experience and undoubtedly the bonds and intimacy were daily drawing closer.

The king, in reply, referred to the intimate and cordial relations of the two countries which permitted their joint labor in the humanitarian work of civilization and peace.

Securing Log Booms.

The Sea Lion, reputed one of the most powerful tugs employed on the river, has berthed at the market wharf and tomorrow will begin towing the booms belonging to the B. C. Lumber company, at present moored at Annieville. The booms will be stored at Port Kells, the old booming ground of the Royal City mills. Most of the river tugs are engaged storing booms in anticipation of the freshet.

3,000,000 Feet of Logs Loose.

Yesterday morning several booms of logs belonging to the Fraser Mills, containing three million feet of lumber, broke from their moorings above Westminster bridge and lodged against the out works of the structure. Five tugs were soon engaged in fixing the booms and with the return of the tide they were again secured to the south bank of the river.

EVIDENCE HEARD IN DAMAGE CASE

Suit of Carl von Mackenson Against Surrey Municipality for $5000 Damages.

Evidence was adduced all yesterday before the honorable Justice Clement in the action for $5000 damages by Carl von Mackenson, proprietor of the Black, White and Red poultry farm, Port Kells, against Surrey municipality. The suit arose out of an accident which befell the plaintiff on December 14 last year, by which he broke two ribs and sustained a chill and nervous shock on the Jericho road, and it was alleged to have been caused by the dangerous condition of the thoroughfare through the negligence of the municipality.

The defence was a general denial, and that the Jericho road is not a road in the true sense of the term, but merely a trail, and that with reasonable care the accident might have been avoided.

F. J. McDougall, with Mr. Cameron, of Vancouver, appeared for the plaintiff, and W. G. McQuarrie, assisted by G. Cassady, represented Surrey.

Where the Accident Happened.

Plaintiff stated that the accident occurred at a point about 100 yards from the boundary line between Surrey and Langley. There was half a mile of the Jericho road in Surrey. He was driving a democrat with two horses attached, from Langley, very slowly when suddenly the front right wheel of his wagon sunk and threw him into the pool on the road. The wagon sank the height of the wagon box, and the wheel passed over him. The road was covered with dirty water and he could not see the punching. The logs or punching were loose. He saw there was a ditch on the south side of the road, but had safely traversed it an hour before. It was a bad road and he drove very slowly. He was laid up for four weeks. Plaintiff valued his services in running the ranch at $250 a month. He had 150 chickens at the time.

By the Court—He got a man to attend to his chickens when he was laid up. The man was not specially employed, he was an employee on the ranch at the time. He had had a lot of experience with horses.

Cross-examined — The man who looked after his chickens in his absence got $35 a month and his board. The seats were securely fastened in the wagon. There was another man with him when the accident happened. He drove on the right side of the road both going to and returning from Langley. Plaintiff noticed the logs swimming on the top of the water on the road. He had a crate of chickens in the wagon coming back. The horses were quiet and he had perfect control of them.

By the Court—I had to submerge the floating logs when I crossed the pool on the road.

Witness continuing in answer to Mr. McQuarrie said he knew he was taking chances and drove very carefully. He considered there was no more danger in returning than going to Langley. He judged he was about two feet from the edge of the road. His wagon was four feet wide between the wheels.

Mr. McQuarrie—Is it not a fact that the road there is not more than eight feet wide?

Witness—Yes. In Germany, his home country, the rule of the road was to keep to the right. He knew it was the left in British Columbia. The wagon did not upset at the time of the accident and his companion did not fall out. The horses went on about 20 yards and stopped of their own accord as the reins were trailing.

Considered It a Bad Road.

J. A. King, C. E., of Vancouver, reported the result of a visit to the scene of the accident on April 10. It was a very bad road covered with punching laid transversely. There was approximately about 18 inches

STRIKE BATTLE IN COLORADO

Women and Children Reported Killed by the State Troops at Ludlow.

Trinidad, Colo., April 21.—With seven identified dead in Trinidad morgues and a list of 18 missing and reported dead, the toll of yesterday's battle between state troops and the strikers at and near Ludlow will probably reach 25. Among those reported missing are four women and 12 children, who are believed to have been suffocated by the fire which destroyed the strikers' tents at the close of yesterday's fight. Earlier in the day they had hidden in the trenches in the colony to escape the rifle and machine gun fire that raked the tents. The list of known injured consists of three soldiers who were brought to Trinidad tonight.

Trinidad is horror-stricken tonight by reports of the murder of women, children and non-combatants who lost their lives in yesterday's battle and in the fire which followed.

"It is horrible," said John McLennan, president of District No. 15, United Mine Workers of America, who is in charge at local headquarters. "They were caught like rats in a trap," he added.

"The bodies of two women and ten men were seen in one trench, and God only knows how many yet will be fonud."

Major Hammock tonight denied the report that the Ludlow tents were set on fire by the militia. The blaze started, he said, near the southwest corner by the colony, while the troops were engaged in an attack upon the strikers entrenched in the pump house and fanned by a brisk west wind the flames spread with incredible speed and in a few minutes the entire colony was a smouldering heap of ashes.

He also reiterated the statement that the fighting was precipitated by a band of Greek strikers under Luis Tikas, who opened fire upon military tents at Ludlow. Tikas, he declared, had promised a few minutes previously to go out among a party of strikers that had entrenched in an arroyo west of the colony and induce them to disarm. The soldiers were driven out of their camp by a hail of bullets, according to the officer. Later, he said, the strikers moved around back of the colony and took a position along the Colorado and Southern tracks and attacked the Linderfelt detachment.

Major Hammock then moved up and placed his men in the railroad yards.

The union officials issued no statement.

More than 200 women and children, refugees from the miners' colony, are tonight being cared for in Trinidad. The hall of the Trinidad trades assembly has been turned into a temporary dormitory and hospital. Many are suffering from burns and injuries but none are said to be serious. Food and bedding is being provided by the union.

A force of armed strikers numbering 600 or more, is entrenched in the hills north and east of the ruins of the tents. Two hundred militia men under Major Mammock, Capt. Carson, Lieut. Linderfelt, Lieut. Lawrence and Lieut. Chase, are stationed in and about Ludlow. Militiamen and strikers today professed fear of an attack should they appear to search for bodies among the ruins of the colony.

Undertakers, with a flag of truce, left tonight for search for bodies. A supply of ammunition is said to have been received by both militiamen and strikers during the day. Extra sentries have been posted by both sides. The troops are said to be preparing to move on the men in the hills. The troops are in possession of four machine guns. The problem of food and water has become a serious one on both sides.

James Fyler, who was killed during the fighting late yesterday, has been a prominent figure during the strike. He was a witness for the union during the recent congressional strike investigation here.

A NEW INDUSTRY FOR BURNABY

Application Made for Water Rights Preparatory to Erection of Building.

Still another industry is going to locate in D. L. 161, Burnaby, according to information obtained by The News yesterday. All papers connected with the location of the Shull shingle mill, bordering the north arm of the river, were fixed up yesterday and just as soon as Mr. Tucker, the designer, can prepare plans, actual construction work will commence. Mr. Tucker is now engaged in preparing all details and also comparing prices for material and machinery.

Just what the new industry will be was not divulged by the owners but a deputation left for Washington state yesterday for the purpose of laying all details of the location of the property before the head of the American firm.

Arrangements are being made with Burnaby municipality for a plentiful supply of water for use in the boilers and also for fire protection. A 6-inch main runs along the River road which borders the property, and assurance has been given by the municipal council that an extension will be made whenever necessary.

The location of the shingle mill on the property will mean the erection of at least a dozen houses immediately in order to accommodate several of the workmen and officials, word to this effect being given the Burnaby council when the application for a rate for water was made.

LIFE AND HABITS OF SALMON FRY

Provincial Government Seeking Data to Increase Salmon Production in This Province.

For the purpose of collecting all possible data regarding the life and habits of the salmon fry with a view of increasing the annual harvest, and also to supply the fishermen with advance information as to the estimated quantity of shoals each year, the provincial government is sending out seven men who will be stationed at various points at the headwaters of the Naas river, Rivers inlet, the Fraser river and the Skeena river.

Fred Markland, provincial constable, who last year acted as fishery overseer for the Fraser river district, will leave this week for Quesnel lake, at the head of the Fraser, 250 miles from the sea. He will make his camp on the site of the old Bullion mining camp dam.

This is a new departure made by the government, no such observations having been taken in years past. In a few weeks the young salmon fry will be sufficiently big and strong to make their way down stream to the sea, there to start on their four years' journey to unknown feeding grounds.

Good Season Expected.

The northern cannery men are preparing for a busy season, the various plants being fitted up in readiness for the advance guard of the sockeye. Owing to climatic conditions the northern district did not enjoy a prosperous year in 1914 but present conditions point to a return of good times.

The four year run does not affect the northern rivers and inlets so much as it does the Fraser and less than half the canneries on the latter stream are expected to be in operation for the 1914 pack.

The arrival of the sanitary can will mean the elimination of scores of Chinese at the canneries this season, many of the owners having contracted with the American Can company for a supply of cans instead of having them made in the various canneries.

MAJOR GENERAL COTTON DEAD.

Deceased Was a Brother of A. F. Cotton of This City.

A wire was received by A. F. Cotton, 418 First street, yesterday morning notifying him of the death of his brother, Major General W. H. Cotton, which occurred at the residence of his son-in-law at Almonte, Ont., late Monday evening. General Cotton was out on the coast in September, 1913, paying a visit of inspection. Mr. Cotton, of this city, was unable to meet his brother on that occasion, being away in the northern country on a surveying trip. The last time the two brothers met was in 1910.

Miles P. Cotton, of M. P. Cotton Co., Vancouver, is a son of General Cotton.

Choral and Orchestral Society.

Arrangements were made at a rehearsal of the New Westminster Choral and Orchestral society, held last night in St. George's hall, to give another concert in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church on May 5. Vocal selections will be rendered from the "Elijah." Refreshments were served following the practice last night after which a dance was held. The next rehearsal will be held on Monday, May 4.

MISS ATKINSON GREATLY SURPRISED

The Honor of Being Elected May Queen Entirely Unexpected.

May Day Committee Holds Important Meeting—Arrangements Being Completed for Grand Event.

A more surprised girl lived not in the city than Miss Eva Atkinson, May Queen elect, yesterday morning when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Atkinson, 319 Hospital street, notified her that she had been elected May Queen.

Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson are early risers but The News got there ahead of them and after congratulating each other on the success of their daughter to the highest honor at the disposal of Royal City school girls, immediately awakened Miss Eva to announce the glad news.

"I could hardly believe it," said the May Queen elect to The News last night. "While I knew my name was on the ballot lists I had no idea whatever that such luck could come my way."

Before the morning was far advanced the Atkinson home was besieged by the friends of Miss Eva and the family, who showered congratulations upon her, while a constant stream of visitors made their way to the home throughout the afternoon and evening.

The Maids of Honor.

Yesterday the Queen-elect selected her maids of honor, who are Miss Edna Johnston and Miss Donna Mackay.

Miss Johnston is a close personal friend of the queen-elect, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Johnston of Sapperton. Both have attended the Richard McBride school together for a number of years.

Miss Donna Mackay is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Mackay, 510 St. George street and was a strong contender for the title of queen, being one of the nine from which the final selection was made.

Sapperton residents can pride themselves that the May Queen elect was born and brought up in the east end district. Twelve years of age she shows no signs of nervousness whatsoever as to the coming crowning event and will undoubtedly carry out her share of the program in a manner befitting the occasion. Her parents came to this city 17 years ago, locating at Sapperton.

MAY DAY EVENTS.

Satisfactory Reports Received by the May Day Committee.

The reports of committees at the meeting of the general May Day committee last evening showed that preparations for the annual event are practically completed, leaving but a few details to be worked out. Every committee reported and each report showed that good work had been done.

The usual number of street cars will be provided to take children to the grounds. It has been decided that no prizes will be given for the best decorated autos appearing in the parade this year.

The report of the collecting committee was reported as well under way, the members stating that they had met with the usual generous response.

The ball committee reported that everything would be in readiness for the evening's entertainment.

Chocolate bars will be distributed to the children again this year.

Music by the Band.

The city band will provide music for the afternoon and evening in addition to which there will be a boy scouts' bugle band and the hayseed band.

A big program of sports for the children has been prepared and this feature promises to be a greater attraction than ever.

The May Queen committee reported that Miss Eva Atkinson had been elected May Queen for this year and had selected as her maids of honor Miss Edna Johnston and Miss Donna Mackay.

Compliments for the Queen.

Complimentary references were made of the May Queen elect by all the members of the committee who have had the pleasure of meeting her.

The folk dance committee has everything running smoothly and the May pole and folk dances will be well handled this year.

Boy Scouts.

Over 150 boy scouts are expected to be in line for the parade, including a bugle band. This feature of the parade will be better than ever this year.

The chairmen of the grounds and folk dances committee will act together in arranging the grounds for the day.

A new feature will be the providing of a booth where lost children may be taken, so that anxious mothers may find their stray ones quickly. The police commissioners will be asked to place Mrs. Patchell in charge of this booth.

A banner is required for the folk dance competition and Messrs Peele and Maxwell were appointed to secure one.

The usual holiday on May Day has been granted by the school board.

Sale of Fancy Work.

A sale of work, plain and fancy, will be held tomorrow afternoon in St. Mary's church, Sapperton, from 3 to 6 o'clock. Tea will be served by the women's auxiliary.

Garden Competition for Boys and Girls Is Open

Prizes Offered for Best Displays of Flowers and Vegetables Grown by the School Children of New Westminster—This Is the Young Folks' Chance to Help Make Their City Beautiful and to Earn Some Pin Money for Themselves.

This is where the juvenile garden scheme for the beautifying of New Westminster gets right down to business and from now on during the summer The News will devote space every Friday morning to the work of the school children and their flower and vegetable plots.

Before we go any farther, let's take a look over the prizes which are being offered for competition.

The Prizes.

A ten dollar prize for the boy or girl who, in the opinion of the judges, maintains the best flower garden throughout the season.

A ten dollar prize for the boy or girl who, in the opinion of the judges, shows the best results from a vegetable garden during the season.

A five dollar first prize, a three dollar second prize and a one dollar third prize for the best, second best and third displays of cut flowers grown under the rules of this competition and shown at the provincial exhibition held in this city next fall.

WHAT WAR WOULD MEAN.

In outlining the gravity of the Mexican situation to a group of newspaper correspondents the other day, President Woodrow Wilson of the United States took deliberate care to urge that the element of hysteria in press reports and comments be eliminated from all discussion of the question and that all pains be taken to avoid rousing the feeling of the nation into a popular demand for war.

It may be assumed that President Wilson has not neglected to place himself in possession of all available information with regard to Mexico. It is certain that he has first hand reports on the situation from every angle and, knowing what he does, his advice to the newspaper men was a veiled warning that the last thing the United States should hope for in the present crisis is war.

The head of the American nation is in a position to know that a conflict with Mexico, while capable of having only one possible outcome, would during its existence call for enormous sacrifices of life and money on the part of the American people, sacrifices with which hysterical jingoists neglect to reckon when they attempt to fan the embers of popular feeling into the red flames of battle.

His actions since assuming the executive position at Washington have stamped Woodrow Wilson as a conscientious man and as such he must take into account the other elements in the situation which raise the question above the level of a possible conflict between a world power and a weak and divided nation.

President Wilson cannot overlook the fact which undoubtedly has been brought to his attention, that there is no man more heartily hated throughout the length and breadth of Mexico than the American. Why such is the case, those Americans in Mexico probably best can tell, but nevertheless it is so. Common feeling against their powerful neighbor, if nothing else, would urge all Mexican factions to unite against the Stars and Stripes. The atrocities which have characterized the campaign between Huerta and Villa would be perpetrated with added zest of hatred against the United States soldiers.

The fact that there is no stable government in Mexico would render an American campaign on Mexican territory more difficult. It would mean guerilla warfare from the opening gun, the worst kind of guerilla warfare, and while the capitulation of the supposed leaders might be comparatively easy to obtain under actual force of arms, the millions of common people who have grown up with a steadfast hatred of everything American would nurse that vendetta with the undying tenacity of their combined Latin and Indian blood.

Certainly, in his efforts to avoid war, President Wilson is following the dictates of his conscience and it is a pity his humanitarian request for the assistance of the American press in this crisis of his administration has not received the whole-hearted response which it deserved.

Down, ye varlets, on your marrowbones and pay your respects to your rightful May Queen.

Everybody seems to be busy estimating Mexico's war strength. What Uncle Sam's generals are most interested in is that country's weaknesses.

Carson and his Ulstermen are taking a back seat these days in the news columns with Huerta and Rojas in the bald-headed row.

It is reported that there might be a deadlock at Ottawa over the redistribution bill. They should call that measure the re-disturbance bill.

A St. Louis man died the other day from blood poisoning which developed after he had sat down on a tack. This paper always has contended that it was unsafe to sit down on tacks.

This talk of a defence conference between the colonies is all right, but what's the matter with settling our oriental question first?

Those portable engineer's offices which mark the sites of various civic street jobs which are not now being prosecuted would look a whole lot better if they were out of sight.

President Huerta of Mexico guarantees the safety of all foreign residents in his republic, says a news dispatch. With Villa on the job and the U.S. hammering at his doors, Huerta will be kept busy looking after his own safety.

If there's an organization in this city entitled to public support it's the Anti-tuberculosis society, so, by the same token, don't forget the business men's luncheon on the 30th inst.

FIGHT TO PREVENT CLOSING OF SCHOOL

Lochiel People Anxious to Have Teacher for Children and Guarantee Attendance.

At the last regular meeting of the Langley board of school trustees Alexander Cameron and Fred Harding waited on the board requesting that a teacher be appointed to Lochiel wall at Belmont was being repaired and that as the work was costing more than he anticipated he had stopped it. The account for labor amounting to $74 was ordered paid and the chairman was authorized to call for tenders for the completion of the work to be in at next meeting.

The Langley Prairie committee reported regarding the matter of procuring a site for the proposed new school and asked that the other members of the board accompany them to the ground and look over the different propositions they had to make before closing a deal. The board acted on this suggestion and proceeded to Langley Prairie. The three acre site situated on the south side of the Yale road and near to the corner of the Duffy road met with most favor and Trustees Howes and Towle moved that the owner be offered $400 per acre and that if the offer is not accepted that expropriation proceedings be instituted.

The board then proceeded to the hall and Trustee Harris moved that the thanks of the board be tendered Trustee Wark for his kindness in conveying them to Langley Prairie.

On motion of Trustees Wark and Harris the secretary was instructed to replace all the desks in the Glen Valley school with new ones, to procure blackboards for Glen Valley, Springbrook, Otter and Glenwood and East Langley, and a supply of examination paper for all schools.

Bills and accounts amounting to $2002 were passed for payment.

The board adjourned to meet at Murrayville on Thursday, May 7.

TO MAKE STUDY OF TAX SYSTEMS IN CANADA

Messrs Alex. Walker, city assessor and surveyor of municipal rates, and Baillie Thomas McMillan, senior magistrate, have been authorized by the city council of Glasgow to visit Canada and the United States and investigate systems of land valuation and taxation. The delegates will arrive in Vancouver the latter part of May.

While there the Glasgow officials will make a close study of the single tax in vogue in Vancouver. Other cities in western Canada who have followed Vancouver's lead either partly or wholly will also be visited and observations made as to experiences in this subject. They will visit Ottawa for two days on their way home.

Mr. Burbank really selected the colors for these beautiful poppies by carefully selecting the different strains and has built them up to their present acknowledged superiority by twelve years of the most painstaking effort and scientific horticulture.

Burbank Poppies are just one of the twelve varieties of the Burbank garden for $1.25. The other varieties include the gigantic Crimson Morning Glory, the gigantic Evening Primrose, Rainbow Corn, Giant Zinnia, and seven others of equal merit.

Beside the Burbank Garden for $1.25, we carry a wide assortment of seeds originated by Luther Burbank. Ours is the only store in New Westminster that has the right to sell Burbank seeds.

Don't fail to get some of these wonderful Seeds now and have a most unique garden this spring and summer.

With every $1.25 purchase we will give you a copy of the book written by Luther Burbank himself, "The Culture of Flowers, Fruits and Vegetables."

Look for the Seal. It is on each package of Seed and is your protection and guarantee of an original Luther Burbank Production.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS.

COAL MINING rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee will be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

BRAVES HARDSHIPS AS SIMPLE DUTY

What Others Have Done for Gold Bishop of Yukon Endures as Part of the Day's Work.

Heroism that endured, as a matter of simply duty, hardships that only the lust for gold drove others to; tales of the North, mystery, adventure and romance, from Eskimo weddings to starvation on the trail; of good times in the camps, too; of fighting tuberculosis among the Eskimos and eating sealskin boots when food gave out, are features of an interview with the bishop of the Yukon, while he was in Bloomsbury, England, as told by a writer in the Christian Commonwealth. The article follows:

Meeting Changes View.

Before I met the bishop of the Yukon I thought that all the romance and attraction of that vast region lying beyond the White pass existed only for the gold miners. They, I imagined vaguely, monopolized the dangers and hardships of the long journey north through storms of snow and wind, driven by the fierce lust for gold, risking death in icy-cold rivers and on wide, desolate plains; they, the miners and prospectors, rioting in gambling dens and drinking saloons in the "mining cities," making and losing fabulous fortunes in a day, incarnated for me the wonder and mystery and heroism involved in the elemental strife of man with nature in her starkest and least benignant moods.

My talk with the tall, clean-shaven, firm-lipped bishop, in a Bloomsbury sitting room, gave a new turn to my thoughts. I began to see another kind of heroism and a deeper mystery; a heroism that endured identical hardships and dangers, with many others superadded, without advertisement or complaint, but as a simple matter of duty coming in the day's work, a courage and steadfastness born of religion.

200,000 Square Miles.

Dr. Isaac O. Stringer is the very type of missionary bishop needed for such work as that which he has done in the Yukon diocese. He is consecrated to an area of 200,000 square miles, and has already given nearly ten years of his life to the work. Before he succeeded the late Bishop Bompas, the first bishop of the diocese, who spent forty-one years in the north, only once returning to England. Dr. Stringer served as a missionary in the Mackenzie river diocese, his headquarters being on Herschel island, in the Arctic ocean. His eldest child, born on that desolate island among the Eskimos, 400 miles and more from the nearest white family, is the first white child born so far north. Mrs. Stringer showed me the photographs of themselves and their children in the dresses they wore among the Eskimos, and told me many things about the sufferings and perils endured by the bishop that I should never have learned from Dr. Stringer himself.

Marriage Easily Arranged.

Marriage among the Eskimos in some places in the north was very easily arranged; if a man wanted a woman to be his wife, he simply ran after her round the house, and if she allowed him to catch her it was understood that she, too, was willing; if the couple completed the circle of the house before the man overtook her it meant, I suppose, that she did not want to marry that particular suitor.

While touring his diocese in 1912, Dr. Stringner arrived at Fort McPherson, where more than 200 Eskimos had come to meet him, some at considerable loss to themselves, since it was in the fishing and whaling season. Dr. Stringer told them of the new tribe of Eskimos, discovered by Mr. Stefansson, about 1,000 miles east of Herschel island, living under practically the same conditions that obtained in the stone age.

No Lack of Volunteers.

The difficulty of sending the gospel to this newly opened field was increased by the absence of workers, but Dr. Stringer, having one white man free to go, appealed to the Christian Eskimos to volunteer to accompany the white missionary.

After a little pause a leading Eskimo said they were all willing to go, but that some might not be suitable; would the bishop name those he thought fit to go? He and the Rev. C. E. Whittaker selected twelve, five married couples and two single men, the remaining Eskimos provided four whale boats and provisions for two years, and gave the bishop nearly £80 in offertories, part of which they desired should be spent on evangelizing the newly discovered tribe. Their generosity, in striking contrast to their former habit of begging on the least pretext, proves how deeply they have been permeated by the same spirit of self-sacrifice that inspires the labors of the Chritsian missionaries among them.

Eating Sealskin Boots.

Dr. Stringer describes himself as a traveling missionary, and that in the most literal sense he is. On one of his longest journeys he and his companion, Mr. Johnson, were actually reduced to the necessity of eating their sealskin boots.

The bishop set out in May, 1909, to visit the Eskimos along the Arctic coast, and, having successfully covered this first stage, he hoped to cross the great divide over the Rocky mountains in order to reach Dawson City in the Yukon, the headquarters of his diocese. The sickness of the Indian guide delayed them some time, the winter closing earlier than usual, and they had to travel through a region which offered scarcely any game for food. The bishop's diary shows how serious a risk the travelers ran of being starved to death, as well as of losing their way. Many meals on this quite terrible journey consisted only of a teaspoonful of Grape Nuts and a square or two of chocolate, and going from 7:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. without any meal at all.

Soles Most Palatable.

When the travelers began to eat their sealskin boots they were reduced to less than two pounds of flour and bacon and a small handful of rice, they had only two cartridges left. The sealskin boots they toasted and the bishop remarked that they found them palatable enough; other strips they boiled and toasted, using the sole first. When they came to eat the top of the boot, the bishop recorded the fact that it was "not as good as the sole." The diary also records quite casually that they saw a marten trap baited with a piece of rabbit, which they felt like taking for supper, but refrained—a piece of heroism much bigger than it looks. On that journey Dr. Stringer lost fifty pounds in weight.

After reaching human habitation and recuperating for two weeks, he again set off to cover the 800 miles between him and his home in Dawson City, which he had not seen for more than half a year. Mrs. Stringer had expected him to return early in October, but the 4-year-old son of the bishop's traveling companion persisted in saying that his father would not be home until December 9. On that date Dr. Stringer reached Circle City, in Alaska, a small settlement 200 or 300 miles from Dawson, where he was able to send a wireless telegram to his wife—the first message she had received during these months of anxiety. She telegraphed back that a boy had been born to them during the bishop's absence, and that all was well.

These are a few of the details that have changed my thoughts about the romance clinging to the lives of the gold miners and prospectors in the Yukon territory. There is finer stuff of romance in the history of this quiet, strong Christian, who will not tell you his story very readily—I heard most of it from Mrs. Stringer while the bishop sat by tracing out on the map the vast area of his diocese, and outlining with a pencil the sort of journeys he undertakes.

He does not merely carry upon his board shoulders the care of all the churches, with a working staff of eight clergy, six lay readers, several teachers, and four Indian catechists; he has started a practical campaign against tuberculosis, the great scourge of the Indians. He lectures to them about the disease, illustrating what he tells them with lantern pictures, the slides procured through the kindness of Prof. Wrong, of Toronto university, of which Dr. Stringer is a graduate.

He shows them the dangers of infection through poor ventilation, unsuitable food, and lack of cleanliness; he distributes soap, mops, wash tubs and scrubbing boards. He has established schools for the Indian children, and on his journeys he often picks up an orphan child whom he brings back with him to the school. He has started reading rooms in several of the settlements, and the Yukon government so appreciated the first reading room opened that they granted £120 a year to its support. Dr. Stringer is visiting this country now for the purpose of getting men and money to carry this work on on larger lines. An endowment fund of £10,000 is needed to guarantee the bishop's stipend of £500 a year to develop and continue the work. About half is assured, but the remainder is urgently needed if this immense region is to be kept open.

MOVING MOUNTAIN THREATENS TOWN

French Hamlet Wiped Out and Another In Path of Destruction—Inhabitants Terrified.

The prosperous little village of Noailhac—in the department of Correze—built under the sheltering wing of the ancient castle of the Dukes of Noailles, is threatened with extinction. Already a neighboring hamlet, a little higher up the mountain side on which it is perched, has been wiped out, but one of its buildings being left to tell the tale, and now the inhabitants of Noailhac are awaiting the inevitable with as much stolidity as they can muster. "It is the will of God," they say, and know that no mortal means can save their homeplace from ruin.

For the mountain that hangs over Noailhac is moving onwards, and as it progresses on its journey the paltry erections of man in its path are swept aside as if built of straw and paper. Last Wednesday subterranean rumblings from the heart of the hill terrified the neighborhood; the earth shook, and the walls of the hamlet of Gouriat suddenly sprang great cracks that made web-like tracery over the plaster and brick.

Mountain Split in Half.

And then, on Saturday morning, an immense crevasse suddenly opened across the summit of the highest peak of the mountain, 1,200 feet up. Three-quarters of a mile that great trench stretched, and those who had courage to go and see declare that it yawned 45 feet deep. That, however, was but the start; the abyss is deeper and wider now—100 yards across, perhaps; the mountain is slowly splitting in two, and it seems as if one-half would fall into the valley beneath. No longer does it tower over a smiling vale; 150 feet of its height has been shorn off, and avalanches of rock and stone and earth have turned the place into a wilderness.

Meantime the villagers of Gouriat had fled; from all the countryside round willing hands helped in the removal of household goods; and now not one stone is left standing upon another—except in one dwelling alone. A millstone and pile of wreckage represent all that is left of the ancient mill; a bridge that crossed the vanished brook that ran hard by has been swept fifty yards away from where it stood and reduced to fragments. The roads that once led to the spot have vanished, and farms and barns have disappeared as if they never existed.

Yesterday alone ten more houses were destroyed and now the landslip overhangs part of the little market town of Noailhac, and already one of the outlying houses has had to be abandoned. All that is hoped is that the rain does not come, for if it does the whole mass will descend at once with immediate ruin in its wake. Around about the earth has opened out, and here and there, where once there were roads and lanes, deep crevasses, some 150 deep, have appeared.

The disaster is said not to be due to earthquake, but to the infiltration of rain. The soil of the district consists of sandstone rock on a bed of clay. The water percolating through to the clay has caused it to spread, and so provoked a subsidence.

ANTI-SEMITISM ON WANE IN CZAR'S DOMINIONS

Odessa, Russia, April 21.—It would really appear that Russia is never to hear the last of the Beiliss case. M. Tarnavski, proprietor editor of the Kievski Myssl, has been condemned to three months' imprisonment, without the option of a fine for an article which the Kieff crown attorney considered as an improper reflection upon the prosecution in the Beiliss process. By order of the criminal court before which M. Tarnavski was arraigned, 65,000 copies of the incriminated journal seized by the police have been destroyed.

Another announcement from Kieff, however, is of a satisfactory nature. It is to the effect that the so-called patriotic association known as the League of the Two-headed Eagle (Dvuglavi Orel), has been suppressed as a danger to public peace and order in the Ukraine capital. The sole and avowed object of the Black Hundred society was the "effective control" of the Jews, or, in plain terms, the harassment and persecution of the Kieff Jewry.

Great Northern Agent Myers has received word from headquarters to the effect that the round trip week-end and commutation tickets between Vancouver, New Westminster and Crescent, Ocean Park and White Rock will go into force on Friday, May 29 and each Friday, Saturday and Sunday thereafter until September 27. Individual commutation tickets will be placed on sale June 15 to September 30 inclusive. The same tariff as was in effect last summer applies for this year also.

Appointed a Delegate.

The meeting of the down river fishermen in connection with the movement to exclude the Japanese from the Fraser river industry, was given further impetus on Monday night when the Retail Merchants' association endorsed the stand taken by the white and Indian fishermen. D. E. MacKenzie was appointed as a delegate to attend the meeting while the Provincial Retailers' association will be asked to aid the movement to eliminate the yellow hordes from the river.

Decision Reserved.

In supreme court in Vancouver the honorable Justice Morrison has reserved decision in the certiorari proceedings instituted by the Citizens' league against the bottle license held by L. G. Haynes, of this city, and granted to him by last year's board of license commissioners. This is the second case to be brought up by the league, that of the Thomas Freeman license still awaiting the final order of the honorable Justice Gregory's court.

Mayor Baxter Condemned.

The stand taken by New Westminster against the libelling of the Fraser river by Vancouver is by no means ended as far as this city is concerned. At a meeting of the Retail Merchants' association the members vigorously condemned the action taken by the Vancouver delegation to Winnipeg, particularly naming Mayor Baxter as being a leader in the misrepresentations of the river. Every merchant a member of the association who deals with Vancouver wholesalers, will forward a copy of the resolution to the Terminal City tradesmen.

A Financial Mix-up.

The liquidation of the Canadian Mineral Rubber company, the paving concern that constructed Kingsway through Burnaby last summer, has caused a mix-up in connection with finances which is likely to be into the courts before final settlement. A balance is due from the province for the work, and intimation has been received by Burnaby that the amount will be paid into the municipal treasury, the province washing its hands of all entanglements as regards creditors' demands. Gilley Bros., of this city, and Evans, Coleman and Evans, of Vancouver, are the heaviest creditors, and these firms ask that the outstanding amount be paid to them instead of to the liquidators. The Burnaby finance committee together with W. G. McQuarrie, municipal solicitor, will hold a special meeting to discuss the situation.

Deceased was 65 years old and past dictator of the local lodge of Moose, members of the order having charge of the funeral services.

STEWART—The funeral of the late Donald Stewart, of Clayburn, held on Monday afternoon, was largely attended by residents of the city and district thus showing their respect and esteem of one who could be termed a part builder of the Fraser valley. The interment was made in the Fraser cemetery, Rev. Mr. Miller, of Clayburn, assisted by Rev. Dr. Dunn, of this city, officiating. A widow and three children survive him.

RICHARDS—The funeral of the late S. Richards, of Edmonds, who died at Kamloops on Sunday, will be held from the Murchie undertaking parlors this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Deceased, who resided at the corner of Edmonds street and Humphries avenue, was a former resident of Sapperton, afterwards moving to Burnaby. He left this city for Kamloops about a month ago. He was 56 years old and is survived by a wife and three daughters, Miss Lavina Richards, Miss Rosalind Richards and Mrs. V. Preston, all of this city. Mr. Preston left on Monday for Kamloops returning with the body late last evening.

"THE EASIEST WAY."

"The Easiest Way," the current play at the opera house, has created a tremendous impression in Westminster. Everywhere people are talking of the wonderful gripping power of this great drama, and the splendid realism of the vivid picture of real life it represents. The author has chosen a difficult theme, a phase of the white slave traffic, but his work is so humanly interesting, so vivid and unshrinking that tremendous approval greets every scene.

A large house greeted the Griffith company in their beautiful new home, and signified its friendship and approval by hearty applause, and a perfect ovation on the final curtain. The company give a wonderful performance, each person finished and artistic in their respective parts. And the handsome stage setting, the large amount of room and the beautiful clothes worn by the ladies all go to make up a performance that none can afford to miss.

WOMEN WORKERS WAGE.

Washington Commission Declares the Minmum Wages Shall Be $10.

Olympia, Wash., April 21.—The state minimum wage commission tonight fixed the minimum wage for women workers in mercantile establishments at $10 a week in conformance with the recommendations made by the conference of employers and employees held here two weeks ago. The minimum wage for apprentices was fixed at $6 a week for the first six months and $7.50 a week for the next six months. After a year of apprenticeship beginners are to receive the $10 minimum.

U. S. Soldiers Saptured.

Douglas, Ariz., April 21.—A special to the Douglas International from from Tombstone, says 15 members of troop B, 10th cavalry, are being held by the constitutionalists at a point just below the border between Naco and Hereford, Ariz. The troops on border patrol wandered across the line last night without being aware of the fact and were taken prisoners by a large detachment. Troop A, 10th, left Fort Huachua this morning to investigate affairs.

HOSPITAL WORK SOON TO RESUME

Present Building to Be Torn Down Next Month—Contractors Desire Payment for Work Done.

Work on the west wing of the new Royal Columbian hospital building will be commenced on or about June 1, according to arrangements entered into between the contractors and the building committee of the hospital board at a meeting held Monday afternoon. This decision means that the old building will be vacated by the end of May in order to allow the wrecking crew to commence tearing down the wooden structure which for a number of years has given good service in harboring the sick and injured of this district.

Contractors Need Money.

The meeting was called on behalf of the contractors who made the request that a definite time be set as to when they would be allowed to continue on the new building and also that a certain percentage of the monies being kept back by the board be paid over as it was working a hardship for them to meet payments on stock and material on the ground. Each contractor, in the first instance, was required to furnish a bond that the release of 75 per cent. of the money which has been retained by the board does not endanger the board in any way.

The last of the furniture is expected to arrive late in the week after which active work will commence on cleaning up the entire new building so as to be ready for occupancy. According to Mayor Gray, chairman of the building committee, there is no danger of any of the contractors backing out of their contracts, a second bond being required before any release of finances is accomplished.

ST. STEPHEN'S VESTRY MEETING

Election of Officers Held and Encouraging Reports Received.

A meeting of St. Stephen's vestry, Burquitlam, was held on Friday evening in the church. Rev. Frank Plaskett, vicar of St. Mary's, Sapperton, presided. The officers elected for the year were: G. Bray, vicar's warden; W. A. Holme, people's warden; lay delegates, C. W. Silk and the two wardens; church trustees, E. A. Wiltshire, R. Newman, F. T. Hart, Percy Baker and Arthur Shaw.

The reports for the six months the church has been in existence were very encouraging, the membership and attendance having recently greatly increased, and several anonymous donations having been received to the building fund of the church which were gratefully acknowledged.

sinos street, where a federal outpost was stationed.

At 12:30 the firing became general and at 1 o'clock the guns of the transport Prairie went into action.

Prior to this a detachment of bluejackets from Utah, holding the ground between the consulate and the waterfront opened fire with two of their three-inch guns. The first shots from these pieces were directed against an ancient tower which once served as a lighthouse. This was occupied by Mexican sharpshooters.

Lieutenant Commander Buchanan of the Florida ordered that it be destroyed. Five shots brought the old Benito Juarez tower down.

Refugees Are Safe.

The women of the American colony in Vera Cruz had already been placed abcard the chartered steamers Esperanza and Mexico, but the foreign colony, especially the American section, was greatly augmented this morning when three trainloads arrived from the capital. Some of these remained ashore, but many were taken aboard the steamers. So far as can be learned, none of the refugees was injured.

The postoffice, government telegraph office and cable office, were the first buildings occupied after the customs house. A squad of marines was placed in charge of the cable office. The telegraph wires were found intact and enough Mexican operators were retained to man the lines to Mexico City.

After General Maas had been driven from his position in the Central Plaza the Americans found themselves the objects of fusilades from the tops of houses, where small groups of soldiers and citizens had taken up positions. It was learned only tonight that the greater part of those engaged in this resistance were civilians who refused to accept the American occupation passively. They obtained guns and stationed themselves at points of vantage and did much to prolong the action.

Lieutenant Colonel Wendall C. Neville, commanding marines from the Prairie and Majors Reid and Berkeley and Captains Hughes, Hill and Dyer along the line. Every precaution is being taken to prevent a Mexican attack and the lines have been reinforced by a detachment which was originally in position beyond the terminal works.

Mexicans Seek Sand Hills.

Towards the middle of the afternoon a large body of Mexicans exacuated their positions and are now somewhere in the sand hills back in the interior, where it is reported from Mexican sources they are expecting to be joined by reinforcements from the capital.

This withdrawal, however, was not exactly premeditated. Those watching on the ships observed through their glasses a large force of Mexicans moving over the hills in the western outskirts of the city, apparently with the intention of flanking a battalion of marines in the railway yards and along Montesinos street, which runs east and west, not far from the American consulate.

MEETING TONIGHT

Intermediate Lacrosse Leagues Will Organize for Season—Three Teams in League.

With every club in the league organized, the magnates of the Intermediate Lacrosse league will hold their annual session at 8 o'clock this evening in the office of Gray and Gilchrist, corner of Lorne and Carnarvon streets. New faces will be seen on many of the teams this summer, the managers showing a general desire to give the youngsters every chance to break into faster company if they can stand the pace.

East Burnaby organized on Monday night, the following being elected to office: Hon. president, Reeve H. M. Fraser; hon. vice-president, Councillor W. S. Rose; president, Geo. Salt; vice-presidents, Councillor J. C. Allen and D. McDonald; secretary-treasurer, H. Parsons; delegates to the league, George Atkinson and Walter Lewis.

BOY SCOUTS' CUP

Judge Howay Donates Trophy for Rifle Competition—Rules and Conditions.

For the purpose of allowing competition among the Boy Scouts in the city in rifle shooting his honor Judge Howay yesterday came through with a handsome offer in the shape of a silver cup which will be presented to the boy securing the greatest total aggregate points during five monthly shoots of ten rounds each. Col. J. D. Taylor, M.P., officer commanding the 104th regiment, has placed the use of the miniature rifle range at the armories at the disposal of the scouts.

The conditions of the competition are as follows:

1. The cup to go to the boy making the highest total score of the year and to remain in his possession for the ensuing year.
2. The boy winning the cup for any three years to retain it as his personal property.
3. The score to be based on five monthly shoots of ten rounds each, making a total of 250 points for the year.

MINTO CUP

Winnipeg Writer Paints Dark Picture of Chances of Silverware Remaining Another Year in City.

The following article from the pen of Chester Stein, sporting editor of the Winnipeg Tribune might be of interest to New Westminster fans. Stein some few months ago created a little sensation in local sport circles when he came through with some interesting dope regarding the Salmon Belly lacrosse team and its relations to Tommy Gifford. The Winnipeg writer is fully acquainted with local conditions, having stayed on the coast several months last summer recuperating in health.

Here is his latest contribution:

Len Turnbull, Cliff Spring and probably Tom Rennie of the world champion New Westminster lacrosse club, will depart shortly for eastern Canada, where they will play with the Torontos of the D.L.A.—News item.

This brief announcement conveys an important fact to the Canadian lacrosse world—the passing of one of the greatest teams in the annals of the national pastime.

Ever since the Salmonbellies invaded the east years ago and plucked the Minto cup from the Montreal Shamrocks, New Westminster, with the exception of one season, when Con Jones' imported stars won the coast championship, has been supreme in lacrosse.

Last Word in Lacrosse.

All efforts on the part of eastern clubs to take the silver bowl away from the Salmonbellies failed and for many seasons New Westminster has been the last word in lacrosse.

This wonderful machine, however, is crumpling. When the leaves begin to fall there will be new champions. Not only are Spring, Turnbull and Rennie making ready to play in the east, but other Salmonbelly stars have announced their intention of migrating to D. L. A. haunts.

Whether the coast league will be in existence is a matter of doubt but even should New Westminster field a team it is a foregone conclusion, with the loss of so many players, that the old ability to successfully defend the world's title will be a negligible quantity.

Depended on "Homebrews."

New Westminster has occupied a unique position in lacrosse in that it has been able to develop its players. In its long years of omnipotence New Westminster has only at rare intervals been compelled to go outside for talent.

Moreover the Salmonbellies introduced playing features that have helped revolutionize lacrosse throughout the land.

When will another city of such modest proportions equal New Westminster's record?

BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Y.M.C.A. Teams of Vancouver and Westminster in the Finals.

The intermediate basketball championship of the province will be at stake at the Y.M.C.A. this evening, when the Hustlers, city champions, will clash in the first of home and home games with the Y. M. C. A. intermediates of Vancouver.

Although far past the regular season, the Sangtser brothers have been licked into shape during the past few days by strenuous practice and should be able to garner a lead in points in tonight's game, so as to get away with the silverware on Saturday night at Vancouver.

A preliminary between two of the church league teams will be staged at 8 o'clock, followed by the main encounter at 9 o'clock sharp.

St. Andrew's Baseball Club.

At a meeting of the baseball club of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, held last evening, arrangements were made for an early opening, together with the appointment of Gordon Curry as manager and Gordon Rowley as captain of the team.

CALL FOR PRACTICE

Senior Amateurs Will Get Down to Practice at Queen's Park Tonight.

The first call for practice was issued by Manager Alex Turnbull of the senior amateurs yesterday, and commencing at 6 o'clock this evening the youngsters whom New Westminster fans are trusting to win the world's amateur championship title, will commence training for the opening game of the season, which takes place in this city on Saturday, May 16.

Practically all of last year's team has signed the roll, and with several promising intermediates available apparently there is no reason why a flying start cannot be made on May 16 from which the Royals can never be headed.

Manager Turnbull is turning the greater part of his attention to perfecting a combination to stack up against the Vancouver club, figuring that Victoria will be of the same strength as last season finishing in third place.

The dressing rooms have been fixed up, the lockers repaired and a shower bath installed so that every comfort will be accorded the players.

The following players are especially requested to be on deck at 6 o'clock this evening: Stoddart, Bill Patchell, W. Patchell, L. Gregory, E. Cooper, H. Battson, L. Nelson, G. Feeney, T. Storme, B. Johnston, Murray, Pentland, Lougheed, Allison, Atkinson, Huff and Ham Sclater.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

Bathing In the Surf Is Popular With Little People.

A YOUNGSTER'S FIRST DIP.

The Initial Plunge In Old Ocean Not Always a Joyous Occasion—Things of Interest to Boys and Girls—Some Good Games.

Bathing now is the popular diversion of all both great and small. In ocean, lake and river, when skies are bright and Old Sol is turning on the heat with scorching intensity, every one who can do so takes to the water. Children especially delight in playing on the shore, wading in the brooks and dipping in the surf.

BATHING UNDER PROTEST.

Little folks, however, must be careful when playing in or near the water and should never do so unattended by some one old enough to exercise careful supervision. The ocean surf is decidedly unsafe for little folks. When a roller comes in it will overthrow the strongest, and sometimes strong swimmers are overwhelmed and drowned. The small boy in the picture is in no danger, but he plainly shows a dislike for bathing. After a few dips he will get over his fear, and then he will need to be restrained. The picture was taken at Coney Island and is one that can be duplicated any day during the summer.

Odd Workbasket.

Nearly everything in the world can be made to serve a double purpose if one only has a little ingenuity. Take, for instance, the summer hat, the soft, floppy straw hat that was in vogue this year. This hat can be made into a workbasket for Christmas.

First rip off all the trimmings, then turn the hat upside down. Take some silk or cretonne to harmonize with the straw and line the inside of the crown, making a tiny frill all around the edge. Put bias pieces of the material here and there along the sides of the basket in which to insert papers of needles and spools of thread. Make also a thimble case, which you sew securely to the frilled edge.

Rip off a section of straw from the brim of the hat and with this make a handle, or if the brim is not wide enough use ribbon, with a bow at the top. The summer hat has become a useful article.

between the surface of the punching and the hardpan. There might have been a small ditch there originally. The drainage seemed to be from south to north.

Mr. McQuarrie contended that the road was never a municipal road in the proper sense and he would prove that it had been constructed by land owners in Langley for their own convenience and that it was really a trail or short cut, and that it was reasonably sufficient for the purposes intended, and that with care the accident should not have occurred.

George Lawrence, a farmer, swore to making the road 25 years ago, with other people, to get their goods to their homes. None of them were paid for it. There was very little traffic on the road as there were no people living in that part of Surrey now, the farms having been abandoned. He received no authority from Surrey to make the road. He went over it in the middle of last December and had no trouble. There was no water over the punching, but there was water on both sides.

Robert Grant deposed to using the road about once a month, sometimes with a loaded wagon. He never had any trouble.

Alexander Murchison, a farmer, Councillor Hebron and Constable Matheson, Cloverdale, gave similar testimony.

Reeve Sullivan said he had been reeve for five years and had been on the council for three years previous, and had never heard complaints about the road. The clearance between the punching and the hardpan was about 10 inches. He had gone over the road at the scene of the accident with a heavy motor car and found the road rough, but passable. If reasonable care had been exercised there should have been no accident. In January last and Easter Monday the punching was not covered with water.

L. J. Carncross, municipal clerk, in his examination admitted that he had found $202.20 charged against Jericho road in the civic records.

Plaintiff on being recalled, said in reply to the court, that his companion in the mishap had gone to Okanagan and he had not got his address.

SCOUT SUICIDE; MURDER CLAIMED

Relatives of Miss Annie Noll Request Aid of Dominion Police to Investigate Death.

No alarm is being felt by the local police over a press dispatch of yesterday from Berlin, Ont., to the effect that relatives of Miss Annie Noll scout the idea of suicide by that young lady and that she was murdered in this city on Sept. 27, 1913. The report further stated that her relatives have requested the Dominion police department to institute a thorough investigation.

The body of an unkonwn woman was found dead in a local hotel on the night of Sunday, Sept. 28 last, every evidence pointing to death by swallowing carbolic acid. An empty bottle was found in the room while the woman's mouth was burned by the acid, as proven by the autopsy made by Dr. Jones. The jury brought in a verdict of suicide. Last week a Vancouver resident visited the city and became positive that the woman was Miss Annie Noll of Berlin, notification of such being forwarded to Berlin where her relatives reside.

The woman had registered at the hotel under the assumed name of "Miss Annie Kruger, Nelson, B.C."

NEW COUNSEL NAMED IN THE POWELL CASE

Douglas Armour Mentioned Prominently for Crown Prosecutor—A. S. Johnson for Defence.

In the trial of Martin Powell, charged with complicity in the looting of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal on Sept. 21, 1911, which is expected to be heard in the coming criminal assize court, an entirely new array of counsel on both sides will be seen.

The absence of E. P. Davies, K.C., and A. H. MacNeill, K.C., who are in England, necessitates new crown counsel being retained, Douglas Armour, K.C., being prominently mentioned for the post.

Contrary to expectations, J. M. Reeve, K.C., of Vancouver, who represented Powell in the fall assize court hearing in 1913, will not figure in the approaching case, Adam S. Johnson of this city, being in full control of the defence operations on behalf of the Detroit man. Mr. Johnson has been connected with the defence of all the men arrested for alleged complicity in the bank robbery, appearing for John McNamara, who is now serving a long term in the penitentiary and also assisted in the successful defence of Charles Dean.

MEN OF TALENT IN RANKS OF WORKERS

Drivers of Trams and Taxis Can Compose Good Music—Striking Examples.

It is a too common notion, says Lloyd's News, that because a man spends most of his waking hours in a round of laborious toil he is not and cannot be a person of good taste or fine accomplishments. A little knowledge of the world soon dispels that idea and serves to show that many men, who work long and severely at common occupations, have instincts and skill which might, in favorable circumstances, have brought them more of the pleasures of life than they enjoy and, perhaps even some amount of public recognition.

Lloyd's News has recently brought to light many instances of working men who have real artistic talent and can paint real pictures that have a value in the market. Art, however, is not the only means by which working men can express themselves and find some relief from the strain and burden of their daily lives.

At a recent church parade in St. Mark's church, Kennington, of St. Mark's Tramway and Taxi-drivers' brotherhoods, a feature of the proceedings was the unveiling of two mosaic emblems representing the badges of the two brotherhoods. These mosaics which were admittedly of a high class were the work of an amateur, J. Myall, who is a London county council tramway conductor, and has never had a lesson in the ancient and delicate craft of piecing together little bits of different colored glass so as to make a perfect artistic design.

On the same occasion a tramway conductor and a taxi-cab driver read the lessons, while a taxi-driver, T. S. King, and a tramway conductor, W. J. Clark, sang solos, and another conductor, C. A. Lewis, sang a solo to music of his own composition.

With these men a representative of Lloyd's News has had most interesting and instructive conversations and has carried away an impression of much excellent work done under difficult and adverse circumstances.

Tramway and Pianist.

To sit, for instance and talk with Charles A. Lewis in the front parlor of his house at Finsbury park and listen to him singing and playing the piano, and hear him say almost vehemently, "I don't know what I should do without my music," is to gain a great insight into the recreations and ideals of many working men.

"Ever since I was a little chap," he says—he is 42 now—"I have suffered more or less from illness. I was born in London, and, as soon as I was old enough, I joined a church choir—St. John's Kilburn—and I was a choir boy until I was too big to sit in the boys' stalls. I then sat with the men and took up alto singing. Curiously enough I have no recollection of my voice breaking and I am still an alto singer, not a falsetto"—and Mr. Lewis illustrated the difference between the two voices by singing in each a short musical selection.

Advancing from choir to choir at different London churches, Mr. Lewis finally became a professional singer, at the same time conducting on his own account a business as a stationer and news agent. About this time he entered Clement Coleman's choir, taking the place of Haydon Grover, a leading London professional alto and a brother of Herbert Grover, a well-known and popular tenor of some years ago. Later he was asked to join a pierrot troupe at the seaside for a summer season but declined. At this period, having given up the news agent's business Mr. Lewis was depending entirely on his concert work but as this is seasonal, he, as he put it, "went on the cars." He intended this to be only a summer engagement but it has lasted, and he somewhat regretfully confesses now that he thinks it was "a wrong move." One reason is that since he became a conductor he has been "cut" by several friends whom he knew as a singer, but who do not recognize him as a tramway conductor.

"However," he adds, "I stayed on the cars and, as a tramwayman became acquainted with Rev. Dr. Darlington, vicar of St. Mark's Kennington, who takes a deep interest in the tramwaymen. I joined the brotherhood of tramwaymen he formed and when the vicar discovered that I could sing arrangements were made with the L. C. C. with regard to my duty so that I could get off every other Sunday to assist in St. Mark's choir. I also took charge of the tubular bells, the gift of Dr. Darlington to St. Marks, and I found a new delight in ringing hymn tunes on them. Illness, however, again played me up and the need of more rest obliged me to give up both choir and bells. I still do a little singing just to keep in practice and in a few weeks I am singing at St. John's Kilburn, where, as a boy, I first sang in a church choir."

Pastor Given Reprimand.

New York, April 21.—Though admonished as "guilty of imprudent and unministerial conduct," following charges made by women of his congregation, Rev. Dr. Jacob E. Price, pastor of Washington Heights M. E. church, will be allowed to retain his charge. Mrs. Hilma Dohl, who said she had been kissed and that she was never so shocked in her life, scarcely looked like a siren who would tempt a clergyfan from the path of rectitude. She is little and gray haired, and wears big spectacles to aid a pair of pale eyes.

BIG AGRICULTURAL LAND OPENING

TWELVE HUNDRED AND FIFTY TRACTS of five and ten acres each to be granted to prospective settlers in throwing open Twenty Thousand Acres of Rich, Southern Georgia Land, which is admirably adapted to the growing of celery, sweet and Irish potatoes, canteloupes, watermelons, corn, oats, cotton, hay—in fact, all staple crops grown in this fertile section, as well as a large variety of semi-tropical fruits, and the famous immensely profitable paper-shell pecans.

Providing you are eligible under the classifications prescribed by us, you are now offered an excellent opportunity to break away from the drudgery and toil of a small wage, or working for the benefit of landlords, and go back to the land of plenty, to which, if granted, you will hold a warranty deed and abstract.

The best security on earth is the earth itself, and land is the basis of all wealth. Owners of productive lands are benefiting by the increasing high cost of living, while others are suffering from it.

An Opportunity to Secure Rich Productive Land Without Capital

You will not be required to leave your present surroundings now. All we ask of those to whom we grant tracts is that they plant, or arrange to have planted, a crop of one of the above-mentioned products within three years, after which we will have it operated (harvested and replanted) for grantees, in consideration of 25 per cent. of the net profits derived from the sale of the crops, thereby allowing such time as they determine just what the yield of their acres amounts to. Consider what this may mean as a source of income, when statistics show that the yield of one acre of celery amounted to $1,268.45, and that one acre of well-cared-for paper shell pecans, in full bearing, should net its owner as high as $500.00 per year. We are of the opinion that after it is proven by actual results obtained in operating the land that they will need no further urging, and waste no time in locating in this land of plenty. We also require guarantees to occupy the land within ten years, or sell it to some one who will occupy it; otherwise it reverts back to the grantor.

The land included in this opening is located directly on and adjoining the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad, about twenty-five miles west of Brunswick, a thriving city of fifteen thousand, having direct steamship service to New York and Boston, and excellent railroad transportation facilities to all points. The average temperature for six months of the year, from April to October, is 77 degrees; the climate is most healthful, delightful, and invigorating, and there is an ample rainfall of 51 inches per year.

OUR AIM IS FOR MUTUALLY BENEFICIAL RESULTS

As we are extremely desirous of having settlers locate on this property, and assist in its development, and thereby greatly increase the value of surrounding and intervening property, which we will hold, and to increase the traffic along the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad, and thus facilitate the service, we feel warranted in granting these tracts to those who register with us. We also have in mind business and residence plots which we will offer for sale after the opening, but which will not be included in it. We have "money-making afterward" considerations in this liberal-minded opening, similiar to those of the Northern Pacific and other railroads when they granted their lands, and we expect to benefit thereby, as well as the ones who will receive the tracts.

We have also planned to develop what is designed to be the best-equipped, most up-to-date, scientific, commercial farm and orchard in existence. It will consist of six thousand acres, and will be included in this opening. All who register and receive tracts will get the benefit of the experiments and scientific methods in vogue thereon. While we are arranging to prevent over-registration, we will avoid many disappointments, such as occurred in other land openings conducted by the United States Government and railroads, by granting those who register in excess of the number of tracts to be granted, an interest in this commercial farm and orchard enterprise, in the hope that they may later locate in one of our town sites.

Examination of the land will cheerfully be permitted, and the opening will be held at Browntown, Wayne County, Georgia, one of the stations of the A. B. & A. Railroad, which is located on this property, and will occur as soon after the closing of registrations as arrangements can be made.

The presence of those registered will not be necessary at Browntown on the opening day, unless they wish to attend, for there will be no favoritism shown anyone. It will be conducted by a committee selected for the purpose, and those registered will be notified of what they have been granted, as soon as possible.

With the ever-increasing population of this country there is no corresponding increase in the area of land, and naturally as the population increases and seeks the land in pursuit of health, happiness and independence, it will continue to be harder to secure.

The prosperous and contented class of Europe today are the descendants of those who secured land there when it was plentiful, while the descendants of those who obtained no land are now the peasants and slaves. You must realize that this may be your last chance to secure land in this country without a large outlay of capital, so it should not be necessary to urge you to act at once by forwarding us the application for registration attached to this announcement.

Consider These Things Mr. Advertiser

The "keen edge of self-interest" is keenest in the morning. Thus the impression made by advertising in a morning newspaper is stronger than that made by advertising which is "glanced at" after a tiring and an enthusiasm-capping day.

As you begin the day, you want to be up to date in your knowledge of what's going on in the world—so you read your morning paper NECESSARILY. As you begin the day, if the day's routine calls for some buying of goods, or chattels, you want knowledge of the latest offers and proffers made by the stores—so again you turn to your morning paper. For it is TODAY'S PAPER.

As people want the last fact, the latest developments, in news, so they do in advertising. Assuming that a woman intends to purchase certain things, and plans to go to the store some time during the day, it is natural that she should want to know what the stores offer in relation to the immediate buying opportunities she seeks. So she will read the ads in her morning paper—for that is the last paper she will read before going shopping.

THE MORNING PAPER'S advertisements supply shoppers with the information they seek and act upon in the day's buying.

Is a rested mind not easier to impress, more apt to consider an offer or a selling argument, than a TIRED MIND?

The morning finds the rested mind—the evening the tired mind. Advertising in a good morning paper is INTERESTING because the reader is alert and interested in his own interests—not tired, blue and bored.

A good morning newspaper is an influence—not a mere incident—in the daily lives of people.

The advertising in its columns shares in that influence—is a part of it. A morning newspaper's contents are edited and prepared with the knowledge that every line in the paper will be read—not every line by every reader of course. But every line, ads and all, will have its readers.

One of the large items of expense in the making of a dependable morning newspaper is the obtaining and VERIFYING OF FACTS in connection with the news. Facts are sometimes hard to get—sometimes they cost a great deal of money. Always, in the making of a real newspaper THEY MUST BE OBTAINED, at whatever cost of effort or expense. Conjectures as to the facts and details in such news events as accidents and disasters is a serious shortcoming in a newspaper, involving perhaps needless anxiety for hundreds of people.

The readers of a newspaper to whom a news event has any special interest will always want to know the actual facts and details. And is it not your experience that, in most cases, these must be found in a morning newspaper? The advertising in a morning newspaper—as a matter of course—receives corresponding consideration.

NOW IT'S KARAKULE.

Prince Edward Islanders Have Gone In For Persian Lamb Fur.

Canada's fur-raising province—that is certainly Prince Edward Island—is now going in for Karakule stock, and this seems likely to prove a most lucrative phase of the industry.

On a farm near Charlottetown, there is a herd of eleven pure-bred Karakule sheep which were brought over from the desert of Kokhara to this country some little time ago.

These animals are used in their native country to produce Persian lamb, Astrachan, Krimmer, and Broadtail, or baby lamb fur. These different kinds of fur come from the offspring of the Karakule sheep, the very best Persian lamb fur being secured from the young animal as soon after birth as possible.

More recently a shipment of 350 Lincoln sheep were sent to Prince Edward Island. These will be used to cross with the thoroughbred karakule stock, and it is expected that pelts will be supplied to the London market shortly.

Government tests in the United States, where the first herd of these foreign sheep were brought in 1908 by Dr. C. C. Young, the eminent Russian experimentalist, with the co-operation of ex-President Theodore Roosevelt, show that Karakule sheep when crossed with English long-wool breeds, such as Lincolns, Cotswolds, or Highland Black Faces, will produce skins valued at from $6 to $13 each in wholesale lots of 160 to 200 skins per lot.

According to Mr. J. Walter Jones, B.S.A., of Charlottetown, whose report to the Conservation Commission on fur-farming in Canada has made him a recognized authority on breeding and raising of fur-bearing animals in captivity, the prospects of the Persian lamb fur industry in his province are exceedingly bright. Dr. Young, who has been conducting his experiments since 1908 in Texas, with the only other herd of pure-bred Karakules which was brought to America from Bokhara, is interested in the new Prince Edward Island company.

America has been paying out every year for a considerable period, Mr. Jones points out, some $14,000,000 for the fur pelts of the Persian lamb, which he claims by the way, is not a product of the Persian sheep. "Persian lamb" is merely a commercial term established by furriers, according to him, and that fur is really produced from the Karakule sheep which are found in greatest abundance on the Bokhara desert north of Persia.

It is very evident that fur farmers in Canada are not deterred by the lower prices prevalent in the fur market just now, and look for a good business next season.

Eskimo Woman's Heroism.

The heroism of an Eskimo woman who, while ill, assisted her husband to drag a sled bearing a sick man for six weeks is one of the tales related by Rev. E. W. Greenshield, recently returned from mission work among the inhabitants of far northern Canada.

The sick man was Prof. Hantsch, the German explorer, who finally succumbed to his hardships. Prof. Hantsch intended to chart the great inland lake in Baffin's Land. During the expedition food ran short. One of the Eskimos returned alone on foot to a store, 10 days' journey. His only nourishment outbound was one tin of condensed milk, though he carried back a heavy load of provisions.

With only one Eskimo and his wife and a dog sledge, Prof. Hantsch pressed north another 300 miles. When his health failed the two Eskimos dragged him homeward on the sledge for six weeks, although the woman was seriously ill herself.

They reached the main camp, where Prof. Hantsch died, the Eskimos reading the Church of England service in their own tongue over his primitive grave and singing a hymn.

A Permanent Issue.

When the late Hon. John Haggart was soliciting the renewed support of the electors of South Lanark during the campaign of 1911, it was suggested to him by the Conservative party organizers that speakers should be sent into his riding to support the anti-reciprocity cause. Now Haggart had represented South Lanark for forty years, and his personal strength made Liberal opposition of little avail. When the suggestion of outside speakers was broached to him, he drawled in reply:

"Well, I don't know that it would do much good. You had better use your speakers elsewhere. I want to tell you that reciprocity is not an issue in the county of South Lanark. The only issue we have had there for forty years is 'The Battle of the Boyne!'"

Prayer Beads for Council.

Thomas McAuley, a veteran bookseller of Kingston, Ont., caused a sensation at the Council meeting recently by sending the mayor and each alderman a set of prayer beads, saying that they would be able to pray with one hand in their pocket and use the other to pound the desk at the same time. Several years ago Mr. McAuley sent the Council the ten commandments, but he observed in his letter that the mayor and aldermen had very severely broken them, and that they needed another reminder that they should pray as well as legislate.

Consequences of Moisture.

An alcoholic correspondent wrote a long letter to one of the Nova Scotia country papers, complaining bitterly of the condition of the village streets.

"After every rain," he wrote, "the water lies in the ditches for hours."

The paper printed the letter in full with the following "Ed. Note":

"So does our esteemed correspondent."

A "patriotic citizen" is one who besides throwing his flag to the breeze at every whipstitch, spends his time and money helping to elect some other fellow to office merely for the sake of appearing as toastmaster at a public banquet once or twice a year. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

CALLS IT PLACING BAN ON MARRIAGE

London, Eng., Council's Proposal With Respect to Married Women Officials Meets With Opposition.

London, April 21.—The discussion which arose at the meeting of the London county council as to whether it should be obligatory for woman doctors to resign their official positions upon marrying, has aroused much indignation in the profession.

Dr. Jane Walker, president of the Association of Registered Medical Women, asked what was the association's attitude, replied: "There can be no doubt about it; all are of one mind. The thing is ridiculous and unjust. Until recently it only affected certain other branches under the London county council, but now that it is to affect our profession steps will almost certainly be taken to have the condition removed from the contracts. A resolution upon the subject will probably come up at our next monthly meeting."

Dr. Ethel Vaughan-Sawyer, of Harley street, said that in her opinion it was absolutely necessary that the system should be abolished. Otherwise the tendency will be to exclude from the teaching profession, and from the medical appointments dealing with the care of children just the very women most needed for the work, and to place the care of children entirely in the hands of unmarried women. Further, the authorities will not get the best women for the work; they will get either women without the maternal instinct, who have no desire to marry, and are therefore not fitted to look after children, or else women who take up the work merely as a temporary occupation, and do not throw their whole heart and energy into it, as they would in the case of a permanent appointment. Dr. Walker ridiculed the idea that woman doctors might be unavoidably prevented from continuing their work after marriage. If, she said, they have large families, they will naturally resign of their own accord.

Dr. Frances Barry, of Wimpole street, was of the same opinion, and hoped that the Association of Registered Medical Women would take the matter up vigorously and obtain justice for the profession.

THREE PROPOSALS DURING MARCH

Mrs. Barnett O'Hara Has Greater Economic Value Than Her Husband.

Cleveland, O., April 21.—Lieutenant Governor O'Hara of Illinois, candidate for the United States senate and chairman of the Illinois vice commission, admitted today that his economis value is about $4 a week—minimum unknown.

"Mrs. O'Hara is more valuable than I am from an economic standpoint," explained the youthful official today, in telling of a personal probe of wage conditions in the east.

During the Illinois vice commission probe the minimum wage for girls was one of the problems O'Hara became chiefly interested in. O'Hara told how he and his wife investigated conditions first hand at Bridgeport, Conn. Roughly dressed, the two parted at the Bridgeport railroad station. O'Hara finally secured a position in a corset factory as a roustabout at $4 a week. When he demurred at the wage offered he was told that it would at least "buy bread and soup."

O'Hara held the position three days and was discharged. His job was filled by a stalwart man who had the muscle.

In the meantime Mrs. O'Hara secured work in a knitting factory at $5 a week. She held her job the entire week and was not discharged. In addition Mrs. O'Hara received three proposals of marriage. One would-be husband explained that he was making $11 a week and "they could live."

The lieutenant governor and his wife spent a month investigating conditions in the east. "Deplorable" is the best explanation they agreed today

PRIVATE GETS DAMAGES AGAINST HIS COLONEL

Geneva, Switzerland, April 21.—A strange military-civil lawsuit, which could not have taken place in any other country than Switzerland, came to a conclusion yesterday before the civil court of St. Gall, when Private Geiger was awarded £12 damages against his commanding officer, Colonel H. Stahel, while the other officers of his battalion, who were also defendants in the case, were acquitted.

Geiger, who is the proprietor of a cafe at Appenzell, should have served as a private in his battalion during the recent maneuvers near his town, but somehow obtained leave. His officers, believing that he had acted from interested motives, issued an order to the men to boycott Geiger's cafe during their stay at Appenzell. After the maneuvers the private promptly brought a civil action against his officers for damages as a result of the boycott, claiming £200 damages. The commanding officer will have to pay the damages out of his own pocket.

The newspapers are indignant at the verdict, which, they state, creates a dangerous precedent against discipline and authority in a citizen army when both are difficult to obtain. According to the Swiss law, however, when military service is finished officers and men alike become civilians and equal.

No Dust No Dirt Nothing but virtuous, fragrant tea leaves, giving their full quota of deliciousness in the tea-pot.

club of five boys or girls maintaining the best flower and vegetable garden on any vacant lot within the city limits.

A fifteen dollar first prize, a ten dollar second prize and a five dollar third prize for the best, second and third displays of flowers and vegetables grown under the rules of this competition on vacant lots within the city limits by any of the clubs of boys or girls mentioned above and shown at the provincial exhibition here next fall.

There doubtless will be some other prizes to announce later from people who are interested in helping the boys and girls of New Westminster make their town beautiful, but these will not interfere with the competition and will be simply an added incentive for the young folk to do their best.

The Rules.

There are very few rules to hamper competitors. All the entries must be registered with the teachers of the classes which the competitors attend. Competitors must be over the age of ten years and must be attending school in New Westminster. The work in the gardens must all be done by the competitors without any actual help from their parents or grown-up friends, though they may glean information from any source they choose. The judging of the gardens will be done by judges chosen by Miss Strong, municipal school inspector, and the editor of The News, while the judging of the displays at the exhibition will, with the permission of the Royal Agricultural and Industrial society, be done by that organization's regular judges.

All Must Register.

It is important that all the competitors enter their names and the addresses of their gardens with their teachers, as the judges of this competition will go around at different times throughout the summer and unregistered entries will be overlooked.

Competitors are invited to write to this paper as often as they choose for information to help them in their work and to tell how their gardens are progressing. All questions will be referred to an expert gardener and will be answered in these columns each Friday. When you write to let us know how you are getting along, make your letter as short and businesslike as possible so that The News may publish it.

Remember we are all in this to help each other and above all to make New Westminster the prettiest city in the west. We can do it if we all pull together and Miss Strong and the editor of The News will be ready to give every assistance in their power.

Finally, remember that the biggest garden is not always the best. Variety of flowers or vegetables will count, but quality and neatness will be big factors in the judging.

The prizes will be distributed to the winners during exhibition week next fall.

HOW LUTHER BURBANK WORKS.

Hints to the Gardener and Orchardist that Will Prove Valuable.

In this, the early spring days, when the men and women whose diversion involves work in the garden and in the orchard, it might be well to take a lesson from the resultful methods of the greatest of all horticulturists, Luther Burbank. While the world knows much of his achievements in the creation of new forms of plant life, only a very small number of those familiar with his work really know how he gets the phenomenal results that have made him the genius that he is.

Luther Burbank has several fundamental methods of procedure—perhaps the most important being the hybridizing of more or less closely related species and varieties of plants. Early in his career he discovered that he could produce new varieties, and in some cases new species, by cross-fertilizing different species of plants.

Burbank's method precludes guess work. He always knows exactly what he is striving for and only uses such examples as contain in the embryo the ultimate qualities desired. If he desires to make the cherry larger, wider, redder and juicier he reduces the size of the plant and shortens the stem to make the tree a hardy and a prolific bearer. He blends the right heredities and after securing plants that show a given combination in a superlative degree, he then proceeds to produce a great quantity of seedlings.

The Secret of Success.

Here, perhaps, lies the secret of his success, for by this he accomplishes, within a comparatively short time, what would otherwise take years to do. After his attention is attracted to a plant, Burbank saves all of the seeds and sows them in soil placed in green house boxes about 18 inches square and 4½ inches deep. The soil itself is prepared by mixing 50 parts of pure sand, 40 parts of loam containing leaf-mold, eight parts powdered moss or peat and two parts bone fertilizer. The soil is moistened by dropping the boxes into a tub of water. The seeds are sown on the surface and covered lightly with a thin layer of soil and powdered moss.

The seedings are transplanted into a field and then subjected to a rigid inspection—out of many thousand seedings Burbank may select less than a dozen for further experiment. In his selection, he lays particular stress on the sturdiness of the stock, the branches, round fat buds, large thick leaves, rich color, vigor and tendency to upright growth.

At the Burbank proving grounds at Sebastopol, will be found many trees with a score or more of grafungs on each and every one of them.

All of Burbank's work has a permanent quality in it, and the methods that he employs, might be used by anyone who has more than a mere cursory interest in plant development.
