GERMANS [illegible] DEFEATED; WAR NOT YET COMMENCED

Words of Warning from Both London and Paris—Public Must Expect to Hear of Reverses—Only Small Skirmishes so far Have Occurred—German Version of the Fight at Mulhausen—Three German Dirigibles Captured by the French—Another Attempt to Cross the Meuse Repulsed—Engagement in North Sea Reported.

London, Aug. 18.—The Chronicle takes the occasion of the announcement of the relative British expeditionary forces to reduce to their true proportions the engagements so far fought.

"It is a great misfortune," it says, "that a large section of the British public are getting the impression that the Germans are already beaten. This impression is quite premature. The military calculation at the outset of the war was that Germany would probably win the first ground, but if our nation and the French could go on after that without panic, they would with pressing persistence pull her down. This is still probable. The calculation is that the first round has not yet been fought, it has not even begun. There has so far only been sparring.."

The Chronicle's editorial referring to the official publication of the news of the landing of the British expeditionary force on French soil, says:

"The announcement shows that under Kitchener's direction the nation is now in a position to assert what influence its small but highly trained army can have on the military fortunes of war. It does not show more nor should it at this stage when all must still be in secrecy in preparation for the great blows which have not yet been struck."

ARRIVAL OF FRENCH SOLDIERS STOPS EXECUTION.

Paris, Aug. 18.—11:50 p.m.—French troops have brought down a German aeroplane four miles south of Namur, Belgium. The pilot was killed and the observation officers taken prisoners. The machine was not damaged.

The above official statement was issued here tonight and to it was added: "When our troops entered Blamont—department of Meurthe-et-Moselle, France—a few days ago, they found notices posted on the walls that the next morning the mayor and prominent inhabitants of the town would be shot. The sudden arrival of the French and the disorderly retreat of the Germans, however, saved the persons from death."

FRENCH WARNING OF BAD NEWS.

Paris, Aug. 18.—The French authorities and other official writers here continue to warn the public that it must be prepared for bad as well as good news, as it is evident that along such an immense battle line the fortunes of war must vary. Granted, they say, that the German army has not the strong inspiration of the allies—and the accumulation of details of outrages on defenceless villages indicates that they are to some extent demoralized before the campaign is fully developed—it is only an untrained imagination that enormous armies of today can rush to sudden and universal victory."

GERMAN MOVEMENT CHECKED.

London, Aug. 19.—12:50 a.m.—In a dispatch from the Brussels office, the Exchange Telegraph company's correspondent says: "The German movement toward the Belgian centre seems to have been checked at Landes and Gembloux. No further movement of the enemy's troops have been observed. The German prisoners in Belgium will be sent to England."

AUSTRIAN CRUISER ZENTA SUNK.

London, Aug. 19.—12:20 a.m.—An official message received in Rome from Vienna, says the Austrian cruiser Zenta was sunk in a naval battle off Antiveri last Sunday, according to a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company. The cruiser Zenta, which was built at Pola in 1897, was 303 feet in length and displaced 2264 tons.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO CROSS MEUSE.

London, Aug. 18.—11:50 p.m.—A Reuter dispatch from Brussels says the Germans made another attempt to cross the Meuse today by a bridge not far from Dinant, where cannonading was resumed. The French artillery repelled the attack with considerable loss.

ENGAGEMENT IN NORTH SEA REPORTED.

London, Aug. 19.—12:05 a.m.—A dispatch to the Central News from Harwich, says that an engagement occurred early Tuesday morning in the North Sea, about 100 miles off Harwich. The statement of the correspondent is not confirmed by the official bureau.

BRITISH AND GERMAN SHIPS EXCHANGE SHOTS.

London, Aug. 19.—1:17 a.m.—The British official press bureau announces that some desultory firing occurred Tuesday between the British patrolling squadrons and flotillas and German cruisers, which were reconnoitering. No losses were reported or claimed.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT OPENS WAR SESSION OF PARLIAMENT

Party Politics Dropped in the Desire to Aid and Assist the Empire in Her Hour of Trial—Address from Throne.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—The fourth session of the twentieth Canadian Parliament which opened today, and which promises to be the briefest, least contentious and most momentous on record, got under way in a most democratic fashion. There were no frills or ceremonies, and an unusual air of seriousness marked the proceedings. The members, who are here in comparatively large numbers, did not show the slightest disposition to talk party politics. On the contrary the talk was all about the war and the expedition with which the Canadian parliament could demonstrate to the empire that Canadians are a united people when it comes to a question of giving support to the mother country in a time of need.

Speech From the Throne.

The governor-general was accompanied by the usual escort furnished by the Princess Louise Dragoon guards and on arrival on Parliament Hill was awaited by the customary bodyguard from the Governor-General's footguards, but, within the senate chamber, when his royal highness mounted the dias to read the speech from the throne, an unusual air of solemnity prevailed. The galleries were not filled with representatives of society admitted by ticket, but by representatives of all classes of people to whom the doors were thrown open. The same democratic air prevaded the floor of the house where the members appeared behind the bar to hear the governor-general read the most momentous speech from the throne ever listened to by the representatives of

INDEPENDENT OFFER NOT ACCEPTABLE

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—Sir Rodmond Roblin, premier of Manitoba, is at Ottawa today. While here he conferred with the minister of militia in connection with the part which the province might play in the present crisis. Col. Hughes stated that an independent offer of men by the province was not acceptable at the present juncture, but informed the premier that he would be advised later as to how best assistance could be given. A similar answer was given to the province of New Brunswick, which offered an independent regiment.

Moose Jaw, Aug. 18.—Following the lead of the city council, the Trades and Labor council tonight telegraphed Sir Robert Borden asking the government to exercise control over the prices of all foodstuffs in view of the manner in which prices have risen since the beginning of the European war.

Paris, Aug. 18.—A German monoplane, which had hoisted the French flag, today dropped three bombs on Luneville, 16 miles east of Nancy, from a height of 4,500 feet, according to an official announcement issued this evening. The missiles exploded in a public garden. No one was hurt and only slight damage was done to property.

Heart to Heart Appeal to Men

Kitchener's Words to Departing Members of Expeditionary Force.

London, Aug. 18.—Field Marshal Earl Kitchener's soldierly homily to the men of the British expeditionary force, which he directed that every soldier should keep in his active service paybook, was textually as follows:

"You are ordered abroad as a soldier of the king to help your French comrades against the invasion of a common enemy.

"You have to perform a task which will need your courage, your energy and your patience.

"Remember that the honor of the British army depends on your individual conduct.

Set an Example.

"It will be your duty not only to set an example of discipline and perfect steadiness under fire, but also to maintain the most friendly relations with those whom you help in this struggle.

"The operations which you will be engaged in will be in a friendly country, and you can do your own country no better service than showing yourself in France and Belgium the character of a British soldier by being invariably courteous, considerate and kind.

Confidence and Trust.

"Never do anything likely to injure or destroy property and always look on rioting as a disgraceful act. You are sure to meet with a welcome and to be trusted. Your conduct must therefore justify that confidence and that trust.

"Your duty cannot be done unless your health is sound, so keep constantly on your guard against unwise excesses.

"In this new experience you must find temptation both in wine and women. You must entirely resist both temptations and while treating all women with perfect courtesy, you should avoid any intimacy.

"Do your duty bravely. Fear God and honor the king.

(Signed) "KITCHENER,
"Field Marshal."

Liege Enigma Is Explained

General Stein, of the German Army Gives Cause of Slow Campaign.

Berlin, via Copenhagen and London, Aug. 18.—9:05 a.m.—A series of statements of the Liege enigma is published from the headquarters of General Stein, according to which French officers and perhaps also French soldiers were sent to Liege before the war to instruct the Belgian troops in the defence of the fortifications.

"It was impossible to protest against these," says General Stein, "but after the war began this conduct had to be regarded as an infraction of Belgian neutrality by France. We had to act with all speed and mobilize. Regiments were sent to the front and marched on Liege. Six brigades on a peace footing, with some cavalry and artillery took Liege.

"The brigades were mobilized at Liege and there received as reinforcements their own reserves. Two other regiments came later. Our mobilization has just finished. Our enemies thought that 100,000 Germans were at Liege, and, owing to difficulties with the commissiarat were unable to render service. This, however, was a mistake. There was a reason for pause.

"Now the forward march can begin and our opponents will have an opportunity to convince themselves that the German forces is well supplied with food and arms The emperor has given the word not to sacrifice a drop of blood to capture the Liege forts. The enemy did not know our methods of attack and believed themselves secure in the forts, but already the fire of our weakest big guns have forced the forts to surrender, or quickly demolished them, burying the garrisons in the ruins. The Liege fortifications will no longer serve our enemies, but will be a support to the German army."

Prince Will See Ative Service

Alexander of Teck Expected to Join the Second Life Guards.

London, Aug. 18.—Prince Alexander of Teck, governor general designate of Canada, called at the colonial office today. It is reported that his highness intends proceeding to active service. He is a major in the Second Life Guards, and formerly held commissions as captain in the Seventh Hussars and the Royal Horse Guards. He went through the Matabele campaign, being mentioned in dispatches, and was again mentioned in dispatches in the South African war, obtaining the D.S.O. and the Queen's Medal with five clasps.

PRINCE ALBERT FAST ON ROCKS.

Vancouver, Aug. 18.—Word has been received that the steamer Prince Albert is fast on Butterworth Rocks in Brown's Pass, a short distance from Prince Rupert. She is reported to be fast breaking to pieces. Steamers have gone to her assistance. It is not known how many passengers she had aboard. The Prince Albert hit the rocks in a dense fog.

UNITED STATES AND MEXICO WERE ON THE VERGE OF WAR

President Wilson Refused to Allow Advance on Mexico City in Opposition to Advise of His Cabinet.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Just how close the United States came to be involved in a war with Mexico as recently as a fortnight ago was revealed today by some high officials of the administration. When General Carranza abruptly rejected the overtures of the peace envoys sent by Provisional President Carbajal and at the same time ignored the diplomatic efforts of the American government to bring about a peaceful entry of the constitutionalists into Mexico City, drastic measures were urged upon President Wilson. Many members of the cabinet—it is said a majority—argued in favor of sending American troops from Vera Cruz to the Mexican capital to prevent the anarchy that was then expected to follow from the failure of the Carbajal government and the constitutionalists to reach an agreement.

President Wilson, however, finally resisted all pressure, arguing that the sending of American troops to Mexico City even on a mission of order would probably mean war with the approaching constitutionalists.

A few days later actual overtures came from the Carbajal government in an indirect way to the effect that if American troops would come to preserve order they would not be opposed by the assisted. These assurances, according to official messages here, were given by Minister Lujan, of Carbajal's cabinet, with the authority, it is said, of Mr. Carbajal. Other promises were made—the United States was to be given a coaling station in Magdalena bay, the Chamizal claims were to be adjusted, and many other things of particular interest to the American government were to be arranged.

Canadian Force 22,218 Men

Number of Officers and Men in Various Units of Overseas Contingent.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—An order in council providing for the Canadian expeditionary force of one army division defines the number of officers and men in the various units. The total embarking strength of the force is to be 22,218 although upwards of 25,000 men will mobilize at Valcartier. Commanders and staffs total 90; cavalry 157; artillery, 3888; engineers, 442; signal service, 598; army veterinary service, 11; ordnance corps, 18; army pay corps, 2; postal corps, 15.

In addition to this there will be 1750 officers and men at the overseas base and 2395 in the administrative units available for reserve or reinforcing purposes;; infantry, 12,025; army service corps, 567 and army medical service, 698.

British Troops Land in France

Entire Expeditionary Force Landed Without a Single Mishap.

London, Aug. 18.—The official war information bureau announces that the British expeditionary forces have landed safely on the French shore.

The embarkation, transport of disembarking of the men and horses was carried through with the greatest precision, without a single casualty. More than 500 guns have been taken to France.

Preparations are rapidly going forward to send more troops into France. The greatest activity prevailed at the war office today. The French gave their British allies a tremendous ovation.

Every man of the British expeditionary force which has landed in France carries in his knapsack a little pamphlet signed by Earl Kitchener, containing 200 words of sound, soldierly advice. The field-marshal tells them to fear God and honor the King and their country, to remember that they will be fighting on the soil of a friendly nation, to abstain from liquor and looting, and to be more than courteous to women.

The official news bureau announces that General Sir Horace Smith-Dorrion has been appointed to command one of the army corps of the expeditionary force, in succession to Lieut.-General Sir James Grierson, who died yesterday.

Message from King George.

A message from King George to the expeditionary force was read out to each regiment as it left its part on departure under sealed orders. It was as follows:

"You are leaving home to fight for the safety and honor of my empire. Belgium, whose country we are pledged to defend, has been attacked, and France is about to be invaded by the same powerful foe.

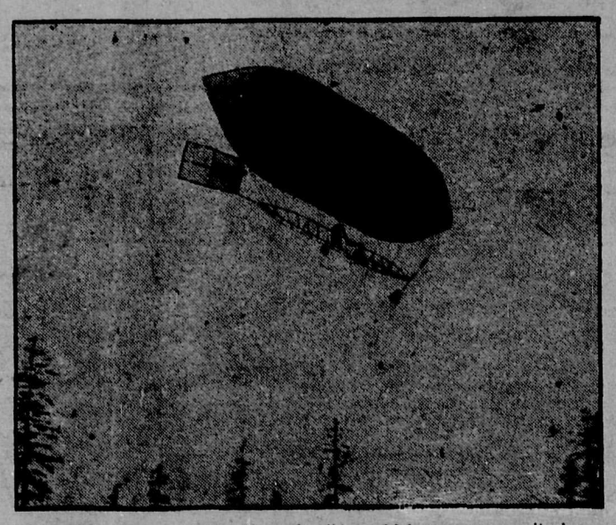
"I have implicit confidence in you, my soldiers. Duty is your watchword, and I know your duty will be nobly done. I shall follow your every movement with the deepest interest and shall mark with eager satisfaction our daily progress. Indeed, your welfare will never be absent from my thoughts.

"I pray to God to bless and guard you and to bring you back victorious."

AEROPLANES FOR CANADIAN USE

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—The militia department has acquired several aeroplanes of recent design for use in connection with Canada's expeditionary force, if on trial they are found to be up to expectations. There are more aviators in Canada than was generally thought and the government has been informed during the past few days of numerous machines in the Dominion which have hitherto been applied to private purposes by the inventors. Dr. Graham-Bell has been for a considerable time conducting aviation experiments at Baddick, in Cape Breton, and his latest achievements will be made use of by the government for military purposes.

Three German Dirigibles Are Wrecked



London, Aug. 18.—A Paris dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says:

"Senator Paul Doumer, former French minister of finance, who has returned from the fighting line in Belgium, says that three Zeppelin dirigibles which were reconnoitering over the war zone were destroyed and one fell into a forest and was wrecked. The spirits of the French soldiers, according to M. Doumer, is strengthened by the feeling that their artillery is superior to that of the Germans."

104TH PRESENTS SPLENDID APPEARANCE ON REVIEW

Japan Bound To Intervene

Agreement with Other Nations Forces Mikado to War on Germany.

Paris, Aug. 18.—An editorial by Stephen Pichon in the Petit Journals, entitled "Japan's Ultimatum," cannot fail to interest, owing to M. Pichon's knowledge. He says:

"As foreign minister in the Clemenceau cabinet I was invited to negotiate, with the full assent of my colleagues, the agreement of 1907 between France and the Tokio government, which was a prelude to the entente some weeks later between Japan and Russia. I cannot overpraise the ability of M. Ishwolsky (ambassador of Russia in Paris), whose task was the establishment of the entente with England and the Russian reconciliation with Japan. We see its developments today.

"Japan, allied with England, having signed with France a convention whose range is far wider than has been stated and having settled with Russia all difficulties consequent on the war, was absolutely bound to intervene in the crisis produced by the German emperor. She did so by handing an ultimatum which is tantamount to a declaration of war.

"Japan's form of action calls for remarks from those familiar with the far east and aware of the world-wide events affecting China.

Not Seeking Pretext.

"The error must be dispelled that Japan is seeking a pretext to war on China or means to permit acts of violence against China.

"Japan's initiative is inspired by far loftier and extensive interests. It is dictated primarily by the terms of the alliance with Great Britain. It has a further deep reason in view of Germany's position in the province of Shan Tung, which rests in the Japanese empire.

"Suppose Germany, as the possessor of a European hegemony and able to dispose of considerable economic and military resources in the Far east, [illegible] some of Japan's power, from a military and commercial standpoint.

"Therefore, the preservation of the Mikado was by no means assured by anything affecting the integrity of China. Any honorable person can immediately be assured regarding this. But, unfortunately, everyone is not honorable—for instance, Germany and Austria.

"It would have been preferable not to leave the question in suspension for a week which is liable to cause a controversy with China. Presumably Berlin will try to secure Pekin's sympathy for itself by declaring that Germany has ceded Shan Tung to the Chinese. It will be the task of Japan and her allies to frustrate this manoeuvre if it be attempted."

Vessels Cost Over a Million

As Much More Was also Spent in Armament of Troops to Date.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—Copies of orders-in-council passed since the outbreak of the war and tabled in the commons this afternoon show that the government paid $1,050,000 for the two submarines purchased from Chile; that an order was placed with the Ross Rifle company for 30,00 rifles and bayonets at $33.25 for each rifle complete, aggregating approximately $1,000,000, and that a third war expenditure was an order to the Canada Tool and Specialty company, of New Glasgow, for the conversion of 10,000 long Ross rifles and sights to correspond with the present Mark III. rifle at $3.50 each. This work is to be completed by April 1, 1915. The total expenditures on these three items is about $2,100,000.

Description of Submarines.

The expenditure for the submarines, which had to be made at once, was covered by governor-general's warrant. The dimensions of the submarines are given as follows:

Displacement, 313 tons; length, 134 feet and 152 feet, respectively; beam, 15 feet; speed, 13 knots submerged. The order-in-council ratifying the purchase was passed on August 7, or three days after war had actually been declared by Great Britain. As a matter of fact, the purchase had been actually made just on the eve of the declaration of war by Sir Richard McBride, acting for the British Columbia government. Thus international complications for the purchase of war vessels in foreign countries while Great Britain was actually at war was avoided.

Ottawa, Aug. 18. — Hon. C. J. Doherty, minister of justice, acting minister of the interior, has given notice of a bill to amend the immigration act by providing that no immigrants may enter Canada who are citizens of countries at war with Britain. This will apply to Germans and Austrians who seek to enter Canada from the United States.

Thousands Join in Enthusiastic Applause to Overseas Contingent.

Regiment Turns Out 470 Strong and is Reviewed by Major Doherty —More Recruits Enrolled.

Swinging along with military precision, the 104th regiment presented a fine object lesson to spectators last evening when the local unit of Canadian militia paraded for the last time prior to the embarkation of the overseas contingent for Quebec which is expected to uphold the honor of the Royal City in the fight now proceeding in Europe.

Headed by the regimental band and the drum and bugle band, the regiment, 470 strong, made a splendid impression upon the thousands of spectators who lined the route. New Westminster appeared to be out. From the time the regiment left their camping ground at Queens park, hundreds of people lined the thoroughfares until Columbia street was reached when the hundreds increased to thousands.

Given an Ovation.

It was on Columbia street that the crowd stampeded and a glance at the boys as they marched shoulder to shoulder, made every person loosen up and give expression to his or her appreciation and satisfaction at the showing made.

Naturally all eyes were turned to the overseas contingent which made up the vanguard of the parade.

Attired in the full dress uniform of the regiment, the scarlet tunic and blue trousers gave a splash of color to the scene which everyone appreciated. The week of hard drilling at the park had left its stamp. The men evidently realized the seriousness and significance of the parade and the set jaws and swinging shoulders spoke volumes.

Band and Bugle Music.

After the active service men came the rest of the regiment, in the khaki uniforms, company after company marching, keeping step to the martial music of the band and the bugles.

A touch of the old and the new was [illegible] Marching from Leopold Place the [illegible] form and led the parade along with Major Doherty, acting commander in [illegible]

German Version Of a Defeat

Investigation of Alsacian Population in Search of Treachery.

Berlin, Aug. 18—Via Copenhagen and Denmark.—The Wolff bureau, the semi-official German news agency, today gives out the following account of the battle of Mulhausen:

"One and a half French army corps entered upper Alsace while our troops were still concentrating. Nevertheless, we attacked the enemy which was thrown back toward Belfort, but whose march afterwards continued.

"A small section of artillery from Strassburg was defeated and two batteries which had been rendered useless were taken by the enemy, who then marched toward Schirmeck, eight miles from Saarles, Alsace.

"An investigation has begun to ascertain if any treachery exists among the local population."

EVIDENCE CONFLICTS REGARDING SHOOTING

Official Inquiry Into the Death of the French Reservist at Montreal Takes Place.

Montreal, Aug. 18.—The military inquiry into the shooting of Antoine Notter, the French reservist, by Sergt. Hooten, on Friday afternoon, took place today under the presidency of Lieut-Col. Davidson of the Fifth Royal Highlanders, assisted by Capt. Archambault and Capt. Stairs.

The evidence was conflicting as to whether the fatal shooting took place in the street near the Craig street armory or in the nearby restaurant. Sergt. Hooten swore it was on the street and he shot at Notter because he thought the latter was about to pull a revolver on him. Hooten will remain under guard until a report of the proceedings has been presented to Col. Dennison, commander in chief of the Montreal garrison.

London, Aug. 19.—The British official press bureau announces that some desultory fighting occurred Tuesday between the British patrolling squadron and German cruisers which were reconnoitering. No losses were reported.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 19, 1914.

THE WAR HAS NOT YET BEGUN.

hough it seemed a long while since the war cloud broke over Europe he waiting for anything like a decisive engagement has been anxious edious, it is just three weeks and four days since Austria sent to the ultimatum which sprang the trap.

Granting that Austria began her mobilization a week before notice served on Servia, it will take yet another week and a half from today ll the forces of the dual monarchy will be ready for a campaign. In opinion of experts, Austria cannot mobilize inside of six weeks to her and second line war strength of 810,000 men.

Till there was some excuse for her to do so, Germany could not risk charge of desiring war by ordering mobilization, therefore it may assumed that active preparations for moving her troops were not dertaken by Germany till the Austrian note was delivered at Belgrade probably not till some days later. From that date, however, July 24 t, it may be assumed that the kaiser's troops were under orders to obilize. In Germany's first and second fighting line there are 2,500,000 en, and, in the opinion of experts, all of these could not possibly be made ady for service in much less than eight weeks. Practically one million ould be available in less than half that time, but the remainder of those n the first and second lines and those in the reserve lines would take at least five weeks longer.

In the first and second line forces of France there are, approximately, 1,250,000, capable of being completely mobilized in from five to seven weeks.

Russia numbers in her first and second lines 1,900,000, but, with her enormous peace footing of 1,500,000 men, Russia is able to complete her first and second lines on war strength in comparatively less time than the other three powers named.

On the basis of these estimates it would appear that Austria will not be in a position to strike in force for another week at the earliest. Germany may be expected to have a million men, or perhaps more, in available shape by next Friday, with one million and a quarter more becoming effective in divisions from that date till about September 18, when she should be at her strongest as far as first class fighting men are concerned. France, with probably three-quarters of a million men in the field now, cannot, according to military experts, be at her top war strength within five and more likely within seven weeks from the date she commenced mobilization, which would place her at her best somewhere between September 15 and 22, or about the same time as Germany reaches initial efficiency. Russia for the numbers estimated in her first and second lines at 1,900,000, should have, roughly, one million in hand at this date, with the other nine hundred thousand following as soon as troop trains can bring them across country from the the Caucasus, Western Siberia and Eastern Siberia. At this state of preparations, Russia appears to have a slight advantage over the other two powers, on account of her large peace footing of a million and a half.

But behind these first and second lines are millions of additional available troops, now in process of mobilization and far outnumbering those already mentioned. They are not the trained, first class soldiers of the countries engaged, but are reservists, time expired men, militia of a hundred different kinds, genarmerie and civilian corps, all to be counted on in a great struggle.

Of this class Austria, it is said, can put in the field in about nine weeks from the start of preparatons 1,190,000, bringing her total up to 2,000,000. Germany can put in the field an additional 2,950,000 within a space of eleven weeks, thus making her aggregate of fighting men 5,200,000. France is counted on for 2,750,000 more in thirteen weeks, giving her a host of 4,000,000 men in all. Russia's great extent of territory handicaps her in mobilizing her back lines and it would take her at least four months to bring up her additional 3,640,000, and make her fighting total the estimated 5,500,000.

Working from these figures, which are necessarily only approximates, since they were compiled in advance by the military experts of the different powers, it turns out that the different continental nations engaged in conflict probably would reach their complete mobilization on the following dates: Austria, September 25; Germany, October 9; France, October 23; Russia, November 24.

Viewed in this light, it is not at all surprising that the world still is waiting for news of a decisive engagement.

ARMY RESERVISTS CALLED TO COLORS

Seven Residents of the City Leave for England this Evening.

Sidney Bass, William Taylor and A. H. Wheeler Among Those Who Will Report on Firing Line.

Seven army reservists, residents of New Westminster, yesterday received the official blue envelope enclosing instructions to report immediately at Quebec from whence they will be sent on to the old country to rejoin their regiments.

Sidney Bass, a member of the local police force, will be one of the seven. Bass has been expecting such an order for some little time and but for this would have hitched up with the Canadian overseas contingent. He first served with the Tenth hussars and later was sent to Egypt where he became a member of the Egyptian camel corps, a unit of the British military service which has distinguished itself in many a battle with the Mad Mullah and his Dervishes. After some little time in the Soudan, Bass was sent home where he became a member of the Duke of Cornwall's light infantry, of which he is a reservist.

Both Bass and his wife come of military and naval parentage. Mrs. Bass is the daughter of a former member of the Egyptian camel corps who lost his life in the Soudan.

William Taylor is another reservist, his regiment being the Scottish Borderers. Taylor is a postal carrier in the city and following the call issued to him, his fellow carriers clubbed together and presented him with a signet ring which he will carry with him back to the old country and to the seat of war. J. Gough read the address while the presentation was made by Postmaster D. J. McQuarrie. The carriers also made other arrangements, the details of which are not divulged.

A. H. Wheeler, a late member of the No. 3 fire hall squad, is another to receive the call, his regiment being the First Warwickshire. Wheeler was one of the first to join the overseas contingent from the 104th regiment, but this move will probably be offset by the receipt of orders to report at Quebec.

Probably owing to a lack of knowledge as to the cost of travel between the Pacific coast and Quebec by the British army authorities, the men are only allowed $5 and a second class railway ticket. The money will not be sufficient to purchase meals on the way without considering a berth for sleeping. However none of the men are complaining of this.

It is probable that the 8:40 o'clock C. P. R. train leaving here tonight will see the boys off. The National Reserve which parades on the high school grounds at 7:30 o'clock will be on deck to wish them good cheer and God speed while the letter carriers are planning to be present to give Taylor a "bon voyage."

$150 FINE FOR DRIVING WHILE DRUNK

Vancouver Man Heavily Mulcted for Running Auto While in an Intoxicated Condition.

As evidence that he considers a charge of being intoxicated while driving an automobile a serious matter, Magistrate Edmonds in the police court yesterday forfeited the bail of J. Ernest, who did not appear when his name was called and further issued a bench warrant for the accused's arrest. Later Ernest put in an appearance and was fined $150.

It is said that Ernest, who hails from Vancouver, was so far gone in a state of intoxication on Monday that he allowed his machine to back down the Tenth street grade without being able to stop it. Several pedestrians saw him in his car and the matter was reported to the police. The autoist was taken into custody and permitted to go on three hundred dollars' bail. Yesterday morning, when he failed to appear, George E. Martin, of McQuarrie, Martin & Cassady, acting for the city, asked that the bail be forfeited and that a bench warrant issued for the accused's arrest. Later, however, he turned up and was fined as reported above.

"POST-SEASON" RUN ABOVE EXPECTATIONS

Reports of Fine Sockeye Catches at Bellingham— River Boats Report Fair Catches.

That the sockeye season is by no means over was demonstrated yesterday morning when the Bellingham correspondent reported catches of 13,000 sockeyes together with about 300 cohoes while Anacortes received 4500, all trap fish. This is in the nature of a "post season" run and will go far towards swelling the catch, which was somewhat smaller than expected.

The river boats reported fair catches yesterday both up and down river and these will afford considerable employment to the cannery hands who were expecting to be reduced with the slacking off of the run. The fishermen reported considerable numbers of sockeyes in the gulf and off Point Grey which means fair catches for the river boats for the rest of the week.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED IN DEATH OF UNKNOWN

Body of Unidentified Man Found in the Fraser with Indications of Murder

Evidence of possible foul play was found on the body of a man taken out of the river yesterday at Port Mann, a rope being found tied around the body. The crew of the Kitty S. reported the matter to the provincial police, who left in a motor boat and brought the body to Murchie's undertaking parlors. The body is that of a strong heavy man and from its condition had evidently been in the river for several months. Senior Constable Stevenson is making investigation prior to the inquest, which will probably be held sometime today.

POPE'S CONDITION IS NOT SERIOUS

Rome, Aug. 18, via Paris.—Pope Pius X is not in so serious a condition as has been reported, according to the statement of Dr. Marchiafava, the attending physician. The pontiff's sisters and niece have been allowed to see him, as in the case of his previous illness, as that relieves him and distracts his attention from the gravity of the European situation, because of which he suffered a depression.

Dr. Marchiafava said today: "There is nothing alarming in the condition of the pope. His indisposition would pass unnoticed except for the high office which he holds and his extreme age. His present indisposition is much less grave than past illnesses."

At the Theatres

THE EDISON.

"The Lily of the Valley," a Selig photoplay in three parts, is the feature at the Edison theatre today. It is a stirring and pathetic drama, interesting from start to finish and well upholds the company that presents it.

Part one describes Lily Dale, whose gentle ministrations to the poor folk make her the idol of a small mill town where the family lives. Her brother Philip is a lieutenant in the National Guard and is called out when a strike occurs in the big mills. Men are shot down and in order to stop the carnage Lily attempts to obtain the signature of the owner of the mills. She is shot dead by the strikers, and in revenge Philip, her brother, opens fire with a deadly machine gun which cuts down scores including the father and brother of a girl named Anna. Anna determines to find and slay the soldier who robbed her of father and brother. The strike ended, Philip and Anna become acquainted and eventually marry. Anna, still searching for the slayer of her parent, discovered Philip's uniform and suspecting that he was the man who killed her father, determines to take revenge. She enters the room, but love overcomes her hatred and she casts away the weapon and holds out her arms. The end comes when a shot fired from the street pierces his broast and he falls dead at her feet.

ROYAL THEATRE.

The sinking of a big ocean liner in mid-ocean is one of the actual scenes in "Atlantis" filmed from the famous novel of the same name. In order to make this motion picture masterpiece as realistic as possible and not sparing any expense the Great Northern company who produced this wonderful feature, bought a 16,000 ton liner and with the principle characters and over 1000 extras as passengers gave the world a most startling and vivid tragedy at sea. Amid dance and gaiety all unaware of the lurking danger comes the crash, in an instant confusion reigns, the rush for the life boats, terror stricken passengers leaping overboard, some heroic rescues, the liner sinking, are a series of scenes in quick succession which will always be remembered by those fortunate enough to see this filmized story which brought fame and fortune to an author and which cost over $100,000 to produce in motion pictures. "Atlantis" comes direct from His Majesty's theatre, Montreal where it played for several weeks to enormous crowds. The Royal theatre, in keeping with their policy to give the New Westminster public the best there is in pictures, has secured this massive special feature and will present it for two days only, commencing today.

FINAL LEAGUE GAME

Electrics and Circle F Clash Next Sunday—Big Crowd Likely to Attend.

August 23 is the date set for the championship game between the Electrics and Circle F, the contest to be staged on the Fraser Mills diamond. Everything points to stubborn battle as both Slaton and Brandt are paying special attention to training. The big southpaw of the Electrics is confident that he can administer a shutout on the lumbermen providing his support is anything strong. Brandt, of the Fraser Mills, is of the same frame of mind in his opinion of the stick work of the Electrics so that no matter which teams win the dope is sure to be upset.

Rumors are spreading through the city that both aggregations are willing to spend a small pile of expense money in bringing in several coast stars. Pinkey Grindle, the substitute of the Vancouver Beavers is one name mentioned as being scheduled to wear a Circle F uniform. If this can be confirmed by the Electrics before Saturday the no limit sign will be hung up. Special arrangements are being made with the B. C. E. R. to transport the fans to and from the game. Providing the weather holds good it is probable that four extra cars will be necessary to take care of the crowd.

SPORT CHATTER

(By the Potter.)

Quite a few local baseball fans are perking up these days watching the doings of the Boston Nationals. Such enthusiasm, however, is quite natural. Everybody wants to pull for the under dog.

Through distant glasses it looks as if Stallings' pitching staff cannot stand the pace. Rudolph and James are mere youngsters in the great arena. James was with Seattle last year, while Rudolph did not show enough class with John McGraw to hold his place with the Giants. The peppery manager of the New York team sums up the situation this way: "To beat us, the Braves would have to play at a .625 clip—as good as the Athletics have been going all season—while we are breaking even. That would be asking a little too much."

Don't be a bit surprised if McGraw pulls off a deal with Hank O'Day, of the Chicago Cubs, for the transfer of Heinie Zimmerman. Heinie is going a pretty good pace with the Cubs, but his little scrap with Roger Bresnahan the other day may induce O'Day to consider a trade.

Through thick and thin George Cassady sticks by the Giants.

Still clinging to baseball, it is rumored that Hal Chase is making such a failure holding down first with the Buffalo Feds that the fans are clamoring for a switch.

We know of one follow who is lucky enough to grab a good sized piece of dough on the Philadelphia Athletics each year, and who surprised everybody yesterday by coming out of his hole by planking a two dollar bill on the Braves. Most probably he is scared that should the Braves win out in the National his Connie Mack coin will be on a par with a Confederate $10 bill.

OWES HER LIFE TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Cured Both Stomach Trouble and Headaches

PALMERSTON, ONT., JUNE 20th, 1913.

"I really believe that I owe my life to "Fruit-a-tives". Ever since childhood, I have been under the care of physicians and have been paying doctor's bills. I was so sick and worn out that people on the street often asked me if I thought I could get along without help. The same old Stomach Trouble and distressing Headaches nearly drove me wild. Sometime ago, I got a box of "Fruit-a-tives" and the first box did me good. My husband was delighted and advised a continuation of their use.

Today, I am feeling fine, and a physician meeting me on the street, noticed my improved appearance and asked the reason. I replied, "I am taking Fruit-a-tives". He said, "Well, if Fruit-a-tives are making you look so well, go ahead and take them. They are doing more for you than I can".

MRS. H. S. WILLIAMS.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

WAR ENCYCLOPEDIA

LOUVAIN.—Sometimes spelled Leuvon, a Belgian city of between forty and fifty thousand inhabitants about seventeen miles east of Brussels. It is an important transportation centre and marks the junction of several steam lines, and one electric tramway. Last Sunday there was a rather extensive cavalry engagement at Louvain, where a detachment of German Uhlans and Hussars, with a mounted machine gun section, came down from St. Trond with the intention of effecting a surprise. Owing to the fact that the advance squadrons of the Germans wore Belgium uniforms they were able to get close to the Belgian cavalry and deliver a volley before their identity was discovered. The Belgian horse, however, quickly mounted and rallied, charged and drove the Germans before them in defeat. The outcome of this engagement was considerably different from another action at Louvain which took place in July, 1831, shortly after King Leopold accepted the Belgian throne from the country's congress. At that time the king of Holland sent his son, the Prince of Orange, at the head of an expeditionary force into Belgium and in a scrambling action, called by courtesy, the battle of Louvain, the Dutch defeated the raw Belgian levies. Louvain lies nineteen miles northeast of the battlefield of Waterloo.

MAINZ.—Often called Mayence, is an important German fortified city situated in the grand duchy of Hesse at the point where the Main river empties into the Rhine. It is eight miles south of the popular continental resort, Wiesbaden, and is now in the public eye owing to the report that Kaiser Wilhelm, together with three of his sons, has moved to Mainz to be close to the German line of advance on France. The seat of a papal archbishop, Mainz is about thirty miles north of the old city of Worms, a great religious centre at the time of Martin Luther and prominent in many ways before the Reformation. Mainz is less than twenty miles east of Bingen on the river Rhine, made famous in historical legend as the site of the "Rat Tower" where, it is said, a grasping German baron during a time of famine was eaten by rats in his own castle, which was stored with grain he refused to distribute among the famished people. The battlefield of Hochet, the scene of actions in 1622 and 1795, lies twelve miles northeast of Mainz.

ANTWERP.—A city which has played a great part in European history is once again in the thick of conflict and has been made the temporary capital of Belgium, owing to the advance of the Germans towards Brussels. A place of 275,000 inhabitants, it is the second greatest port in the world in point of tonnage registered and cleared, while it also has the strongest and most modern fortifications in Belgium. The Schelde river broadens at Antwerp into an arm of the sea and finds its way to the salt water through the low-lying lands of Zeeland. Experts believe it was part of the German plan of campaign, which, unfortunately for the Germans, was checked at Liege, to dash across Belgium and seize Antwerp, a scheme which, if accomplished, would have given the kaiser's navy a first class protected base fronting on England. In 1576 Antwerp was sacked by the Spaniards amid indescribable scenes of slaughter and brutality. In 1584 and 1585 it witnessed further horrors of war and in 1832 it was bombarded by the Dutch shortly after King Leopold ascended the Belgian throne. Antwerp, as the crow flies, lies just fifty-six miles distant from Andrew Carnegie's great Palace of Peace at The Hague in Holland.

WATERLOO—The historic battlefield of this name, twelve miles south of Brussels, in Belgium, promises, unless the apparent plans of the Germans and their British, French and Belgian opponents change, to become the scene of another and immeasurably greater conflict under conditions considerably different from those which existed on that famous Sunday, June 18, 1815, ninety-nine years ago. At that time the actual battle line of the defending British and allied forces under Wellington extended a little more than two miles from a ridge on the road to Wavre to a series of heights in the rear of the chateau of Hougomont. Then the French were the attackers and the British, Dutch, Belgians, Brunswickers and Germans resisted the onslaught. Wellington prayed for Blucher's German reinforcements of fifty thousand men; Napoleon prayed for the arrival of Grouchy. Blucher came and Grouchy did not. Opinions differ as to whether Wellington would have been able to hold out had Blucher not arrived, while another debated point is whether or not the final French charge of the day, that of the twenty-six squadrons of the guards, up Mont St. Jean, would have succeeded against the British squares had the advancing horsemen not come unexpectedly on the hollow way of Ohain in which hundreds of them were buried alive and the whole effect of the onslaught weakened. All these conditions would be absent should Waterloo again prove a great battlefield. Under the present circumstances it could only witness a small part of the general engagement, for the defending front, instead of extending only two miles, as in 1815, now stretches across practically seventy-five miles of territory. In 1915 the French attacked, today the Germans are advancing. In 1815 the arrival of fifty thousand men helped to finally decide the battle in favor of the British and Germans, while today such a force would be able to make only a small impression at any one point along the front where millions of troops are opposed. In 1815 the hollow way of Ohain wrecked Napoleon's finest effort, the charge of the old guard; today such a thing would be impossible, the areoplanes would have warned the commander of every indentation in the ground and behind Mont St. Jean there would be no great, unexpected grave yawning to receive the flower of the advancing cavalry. Hougomon chateau, where the British grenadier guards with the Brunswickers, held out all day against the French artillery in 1815, would be wrecked now in 15 minutes by the powerful modern guns. In 1815 the Belgians fled; today they are standing their ground nobly. Even the face of the old battlefield is changed. The undulations of the plain on which the encounter between Wellington and Napoleon took place are no longer as they were on June 18, 1815. Where the huge pyramid of earth surmounted by the commemorating stone lion now stands, there was a crest, which on the side of the Nivelles road had a fairly easy ascent, but which on the Genappe road side was almost impracticable. Thousands of cartloads of earth were used to build the mound for the Waterloo memorial, which is one hundred and fifty feet high and half a mile in circumference. This makes the Mont St. Jean plateau now easily accessible by a gentle incline, but on the day of the battle in 1815 it was steep and abrupt. Along the centre of the crest of the plateau ran a ditch, the hollow way of Ohain, into which tumbled Napoleon's charging guards as they swept on to ensure the victory which their emperor believed within his grasp. There is no ditch there today. Instead on the left there stands the English tomb, on the right the German. "There is no French tomb," writes Victor Hugo. "For France the whole plain is a sepulchre."

MRS. GILLIS THANKS PUBLIC.

I wish to thank the general public for their kind patronage during the period in which I have managed the Royal theatre. Although being continually hampered and cautioned to keep expenses down it has been my aim to give the public as good a show as possible under the circumstances. In case I hold a like position in Westminster again I will endeavor to offer at all times only such entertainment as will be consistent with the dignity of our native manhood. My house will be a theatre for mothers, daughters, wives and sisters; where purity of thoughts will be conserved above all other things.

LEIPZIG COLLIDES WITH BRITISH BARQUE

San Francisco, Aug. 18.—While the German cruiser Leipzig was putting to sea early today, in charge of an American pilot, she collided with the British steel barque Lord Templetown, lying at anchor in the stream off the Vallejo street wharf.

The Briton lost some of his running gear and was badly enough battered by the glancing blow struck him to necessitate a survey by the marine underwriters today.

The German held his outward course, but the yards of the sailing vessel are believed to have carried away the antennae of his wireless apparatus, and he is thought to have injured his bows. The damage to the wireless could probably be repaired at sea. If not, the cruiser would be seriously handicapped.

regiment was in column of route formation but on arrival at the B. C. E. R. depot they formed into column square and marched past the reviewing stand where Col. Johnson and Major Doherty were stationed, the band in the meantime breaking out with "The Maple Leaf Forever."

The enthusiasm broke out more emphatic than ever especially at the overseas contingent, their line being almost perfect as the saluting point was passed.

Making up the rear of the parade, last but by no means least, was the Canadian army medical corps, in charge of Dr. Manchester, this unit lending a significant touch and a suggestion of what the future might be. Rev. J. S. Henderson, chaplain of the regiment, marched with Dr. Manchester.

The regiment then formed again in column of route, the march being up Sixth street to Fourth avenue and thence back to Queens park.

At one point of the evening's ceremony, the horse of Major Doherty slipped on the cement pavement, throwing its rider. No one was hurt in the mishap and upon remounting the major was given an ovation by the crowd. Chief Bradshaw had all his force on duty keeping back the crowd which threatened every moment to break away from the sidewalk.

Visited by Commander Stuart.

Yesterday the camp at Queens park was visited by Lieut.-Colonel J. Duff Stuart, commander of the 23rd infantry brigade, and Major H. S. Tobin, brigade major. Instructions were issued by the brigadier to Major Doherty to have the overseas contingent ready for entrainment at a moment's notice and all leave was stopped from yesterday. Orders from Ottawa are expected hourly ordering the Vancouver and New Westminster troops to entrain for Valcartier, Que., and today will probably see the first local detachment leave for the east.

Recruiting Brisk

Recruiting was exceptionally brisk yesterday, some thirty additional names being added to the roster. More are expected today, many names being obtained at several points across the river, at Port Coquitlam and Maillardville.

The inability of Major Coote, of Chilliwack, to pass the regulation medical test has resulted in Captain Leslie E. Haines being made senior officer of the overseas force from the 104th regiment.

Captain Haines joined the regiment following the reorganization of the entire staff and had previously seen service with English troops. The adjutant's post vacated by Captain Haines has been taken by Captain P. H. Smith, who held the position before Colonel Taylor assumed command.

Rev. J. S. Henderson, formerly pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church and chaplain of the 104th regiment, will be in the city today when he is expected to address the overseas contingent. It is rumored that Mr. Henderson intends making the trip to Quebec and possibly to the front if suitable arrangements can be made.

the people. The Duchess of Connaught, Princess Patricia and two ladies-in-waiting were the only ladies on the floor of the house.

Describes Present Conditions.

The speech from the throne, which was read by his royal highness the Duke of Connaught, described the present conditions and general sentiment of the Canadian people in eloquent terms, but refrained from going into any details as to the nature of the bills which are to be introduced.

These have already been outlined in a general way, and include, in addition to the supply bills of from fifty to seventy-five millions, bills to validate action already taken for the defence of the Dominion, and for sending aid to Great Britain, to control the price of foodstuffs and othert products; to authorize the government to declare a moratorium should trade conditions warrant such action at any time in the future, and other legislation of a less important character made necessary by the war. There is a possibility that the business of the session may be disposed of in four days, and that the prorogation of the house will take place on Saturday evening, but this is not certain.

The speech from the throne was as follows:

Duke of Connaught's Address.

"Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate;
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

"Very grave events vitally affecting the interests of all His Majesty's dominions have transpired since the unfortunate outbreak of war. It is immediately imperative for my ministers to take extraordinary measures for the defence of Canada and for the maintenance of the honor and integrity of our empire. With respect to such of these measures as may require the sanction and approval of parliament, the necessary legislative proposals will be submitted for your consideration, other bills authorizing additional measures which are essential for the public safety will also be presented to you without delay.

"Gentlemen of the House of Commons, estimates will be laid before you to provide for expenditure which has been or may be caused by the outbreak of hostilities.

Patriotism Aroused.

"Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate, Gentlemen of the House of Commons,—The critical period on to which we have just entered has aroused to the full the patriotism and loyalty which have always actuated the Canadian people. From every province and indeed from every community the response to the call of duty has been all that could be desired. The spirit which thus animates Canada inspires also His Majesty's dominions throughout the world and we may be assured that united action to repel the common danger will not fail to strengthen the ties that bind together those vast dominions in the possession and enjoyment of the blessings of British liberty. As the representative of His Majesty the King, I must add my expression of thanks and admiration for the splendid spirit of patriotism and generosity that has been displayed throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion.

Fifty Million Appropriation.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—The war appropriation will be fifty million dollars. Notice was given by Sir Robert Borden this afternoon that on Thursday he would move in committee of the whole a resolution granting fifty million dollars to His Majesty toward defraying any expense for:

"The defence and security of Canada.

"The conduct of naval or military operations by Canada.

"The promoting of the continuance of trade, industry and business communication whether by means of insurance or indemnity against war risks or otherwise.

"The carrying out of any measure necessary or advisable by the governor in council, in consequence of a state of war."

The resolution further empowers the governor in council to raise such monies as are required by loan.

This step is taken to mean that at present at least there will be no war taxes, but that the money required will be raised by loan and added to the public debt.
