ease the patrol service, Fra- district—We recommend that of the great expansion of the dustry, additional patrol of- uld be appointed, and that ore speedy patrol launches to the present fishery patrol the Fraser river.

nority report, presented by Mr. Commissioner Brown, is as follows:

Had the majority of the commission omitted from its report the recommendation to make the weekly close time on the river longer than that on outside waters, I should have contented myself with the remark that the limitation to residents of the right to fish above the New Westminster bridge should not apply to "big run" years, and that, say, 75 meshes instead of 60 only should have been allowed in sockeye nets. The evidence taken by the commission, I think, fully supports both these contentions.

But against the recommendation to make the close time on the river twenty-four hours longer than on outside waters, I beg to enter the strongest protest.

The chief objections to it are:

1. It would subordinate the rights of our own fishermen to the profit and advantage of the Puget sound fishing interests to an extent which the latter neither asked for nor expected, and in return for which we should receive nothing.

2. It would be a most unjust discrimination in favor of the Japanese, as against the white fishermen, and would make it unprofitable for most of the latter, who are settled along the river side, to continue in the business.

3. Its value as a measure of protection (if it were necessary, which it is not) would be doubled by reversing it; making the longer close time outside the river.

4. It was brought before the commission in executive session at almost the last possible moment. There was no opportunity to take evidence with regard to it.

Taking these points in order, I beg to cite:

1. The statement made by Mr. Gorman (chairman) and the other members of the Washington commission (see report proceedings international conference, page 12). Mr. Gorman said: "At the expiration of the thirty-six hours, you take your traps and nets, and hike up above the New Westminster bridge, or as far up as the fish get; there put out your gear, and capture fish that would otherwise have got to the spawning grounds." And again (page 16): "In other words, you have not confined your fishermen between the Mission bridge and the New Westminster bridge to the gear that figures there from day to day. You take the gear which ordinarily is operated near the mouth of the river, and follow the fish up that have been permitted to escape from this gear during the thirty-six hours, in order to intercept them." And both Mr. Gorman and Mr. Deming (page 17) make it plain that their complaint referred only to "small run" years. In Mr. Deming's words, "In the big year, I do not care for any close season at all, neither on the Fraser nor here—there would be fish enough." If words have any meaning, the words that I have quoted mean that the American commission asked and expected only that we should limit fishing above New Westminster bridge to resident fishermen. In Mr. Gorman's words, " to the gear that figures there from day to day." They told us that they knew all about our methods and operations. "We have been careful," said Mr. Gorman (page 12) "to be well informed," yet they did not suggest any other restriction, such as those on depth and length of nets, for example. In return for the limitation of fishing above the New Westminster bridge, they were willing to continue their weekly close time, and to make it effective, and that is all they promise now. This was emphasized by the proceedings of a convention of the Puget Sound fishing interests, held in Seattle a month after our conference (in December, 1905. The proposed "closed year," in 1908, was condemned, and the weekly close time approved, by a strong majority.

2. Practically all the Japanese fish at or outside the mouth of the river, while a large majority of the white fishermen (whose aggregate capital invested in boats and nets, is estimated at some $250,000) fish in the river. They would, of course, have the legal right to go outside, but as

THE QUITTER'S LAMENT.

I was deluged, sir, with telegrams
  Which did me congratulate;
But their number, sir, my modesty
  Permits me not to state.
I was feted, sir, and wined, and dined,
  (At least they said they'd do it),
At all points in the Province, when Returning, I came through it.
And yet I do not know, sir; I'm haunted by a doubt;
I almost wish--I really do--I'd stayed and fought it out!

When to the Capital I came,
  They met me, sir, with honor;
They swore I'd done the trick just right—
  Macdonald was a goner.
The red fire blazed, the banners waved,
  And all the small boys shouted;
It certainly did look as if
  The Grits, sir, they were routed.
And yet I do not know, sir; I'm haunted by a doubt;
I almost wish--I really do--I'd stayed and fought it out!

To great applause my piece I spoke,
  With novel local hits, sir;
All the boys were hugely tickled—
  They whispered: "Give 'em fits," sir.
I carefully explained, sir,
  The fact that I was IT;
All the organs---paid to do it, sir---
  They swore I made a hit!
And yet I do not know, sir; I'm haunted by a doubt;
I almost wish--I really do--I'd stayed and fought it out!

The Lid Is On Tight— No Drinks on Sunday

From 11 o'clock on Saturday evening until 5 o'clock this morning, not one glass of liquor was sold over the polished mahogany counters that grace the local hotel bars, and for the first time in many years it was impossible to obtain a cooling draught at any of the popular refreshment dispensaries. Men with long thirsts and dark brown tastes in their mouths wandered disconsolately from hotel to hotel, begging and pleading to be given just one drink to drive away that nasty morning-after taste; but all to no purpose. It was no use. The hotel man's heart was as adamant, and no persuasion could induce him to open the door and let the promoter of joy flow forth.

The fact that one was unable to obtain a drink in New Westminster yesterday was so unusual that it occasioned considerable comment, and the poor unfortunate Bacchus devotee who craved for a stimulant was quickly informed that the lid was on, good and tight, and that, metaphorically speaking, Chief McIntosh and his force were sitting on it, and that the lid would not be removed until it broke down under the combined weight of the local police.

There is not the slightest hope held out by the hotel men that this state of affairs will be changed in the near future. They have looked carefully into the new by-law, but so far have been unable to find a flaw of which they can take advantage. But they still live in hopes. The barkeepers experienced the greatest difficulty yesterday in convincing the Hindus that they could not obtain any whiskey. The dark skinned men simply would not be denied, and followed the keeper of the keys all over the hotel, and in many cases had to be forcibly ejected from the building.

Early in the morning Chief McIntosh paid a visit to all the hotels and informed the proprietors that the blinds of all windows in the bar room had to be raised, and that a clear view of the bar must be permitted. These instructions were carried out in most cases. Several of the hotels did a wholesale business just before closing time on Saturday evening, and dozens of bottles of liquor changed hands. The man with a bottle had many friends yesterday, and the bigger the bottle, the more friends. An endless procession of men crossed the Fraser river bridge and partook of refreshments at Wise's hotel, on the Surrey side, where the new by-law does not apply. A large number of determined thirst chasers travelled to Vancouver, where the law is quite as strict, but where side doors are more numerous and easy of access.

MILITIA PATROLS HAMILTON STREETS

Strike Disorders Continue, Riot Act is Read, and the End is Not Yet.

Hamilton, Nov. 25.—Street cars were run here to-night, but not until the riot act had been read by Sheriff Middleton and police and militia had charged the crowd, several thousand of whom had collected in front of the city hall. Probably fifty people were injured by batons of police, but none seriously. Wholesale arrests are being made, and militia are patrolling the streets in the central part of the city. Several stones were thrown, but little damage ensued. In addition to the military, every member of the police force was called out.

Mayor Biggar issued proclamation as follows:

"In view of the recent disturbances in connection with the strike of the street railway employes, all persons are hereby commanded not to assemble on the public streets, places or squares of the city."

The publication of this proclamation, and the reading of the riot act, renders everyone who "congregates" liable to arrest and imprisonment for life.

In the afternoon large crowds gathered in the streets, and although there was no serious disturbance, the soldiers were jeered and jostled.

Frank Fitzgerald, who poked his head out to see what was the cause of trouble at Sanford avenue barns, and was struck over the head with a pick-axe handle in the hands of one of the strikers, lies at the point of death at the city hospital.

Sad Accident.

Montreal, Nov. 25.—Five boys were drowned at Varennes on Friday afternoon, while skating.

Quite a Blaze.

Rosthern, Sask., Nov. 25.—Fire destroyed the store of the Union Supply Co. here yesterday, causing a loss of $15,000; insurance $13,500.

MINISTERS CONDEMN THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Temperance Sunday is Marked by Strong Denunciations of Intoxicants---Dr. Taylor Advocates Suppressing Vice Regardless of Cost.

The Rev. W. H. Barraclough took for his theme yesterday morning in the Queen's avenue Methodist church "The Relation of the Liquor Traffic to all Christian Effort." His text was "How long shall the wicked triumph." Psalm XC:3. The speaker said that he wished to keep the dual thought of temperance and missions before the congregation. The liquor traffic was the sworn enemy of the church, the home and the individual. It was opposed to all philanthropic effort, and instead of helping the wretched and unfortunate the liquor dealer took all, then cut him adrift. True, they were known to subscribe considerable sums to provincial exhibitions and things of that description, but it was on certain conditions. They were in the business simply because it was an easy way of making money. The traffic in intoxicants had caused the undoing of the Indians along this coast. Years of faithful work had been done among them and many had professed their faith in Christ, and then the liquor came in and the poor Indian was plunged down deeper than ever before into vice and degradation. The Roman Catholics and the Methodists had spent thousands of dollars in missionary effort and what did it all amount to. The same Indians who had listened day after day to the word of God were almost every day being fined for being drunk and in possession of liquor.

The attitude of the church should be one of uncompromising hostility, and they should not let up till every trace of the traffic had been eradicated. The minister should speak out loud and persistently, and for the future he refused to close his eyes to the evil that was going on, and would speak out fearlessly of what he saw; it was the duty of the church to shoulder its share of the burden. The liquor dealers laughed and sneered at the action of the ministers and the churches. They said: "The churchmen lack persistence; all we have to do is to lay low, and the agitation will blow over." They pointed to the minister and to members of his congregation as they went along the street and said "Hypocrite and coward." Some might say that the speaker had nothing to gain by speaking along that line, but for his part, the gauntlet was thrown down, and would never be lifted again till something definite was accomplished. If the city was to be made clean, the church must get alive and do something, and stay with it without faltering or looking backwards.

"Progressive Temperance" was the theme of Rev. Dr. Rugg's discourse in the Baptist church last night. He took for his text 1 Chron. 12: 32, and Acts 17: 30. His opening remarks were to the effect that responsibility always accompanied privilege. The ancients had some measure of light, while abundance of light and privilege was showered down upon those of the present day; it was therefore expected that the people of to-day should be an improvement on the people of ancient times.

Temperance should be progressive, for what the fathers did was not a standard for the children. There had been an advancement along the line of temperance, as was shown by public sentiment. Till quite recently all were drinkers; now there were exceptions amongst all classes of society. Temperance defined was "a moderate use of that which was good, and a total abstinence from that which was evil."

The speaker thought that an addition to the annual fair could be made by a "drink exhibit." Not the ordinary articles, such as shining beer barrels and sparkling whiskey bottles; but let a fresh and healthy boy represent the raw material; a moderate drinker, the work in progress; the drunkard in delirium tremens, the work advanced; a wretched home, the by-product; a grave with a tombstone inscribed "The Finished Article," and for an epitaph, "No drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of God." In conclusion, the speaker said that he stood for total abstinence for the individual, and prohibition for the community.

The Rev. T. Wardlaw Taylor, M.A., Ph.D., also had a few words to say on one of the topics of live interest in his sermon last evening, and touched upon what he termed the "putrescence of respectability" in no measured terms. The recent revelations of the conditions that prevail in this city, he said, had been a great surprise to his brother ministers, but he had long known that this was the case. The ease with which men could go down to ruin on the Pacific coast was simply appalling. The way in which reform should be attempted was not solely by reform leagues, reform councils and increased police forces, but more particularly by every Christian man doing what he could to bring it about.

It was not to the police force that the citizens must look for reform. No matter how efficient a force there might be, and how earnest the policeman, he always remembers that he has been face to face with this vice problem all his life, that the problem was there before his day, and that it will be there long after he passes away. He realizes that it is a hard problem, and is content if things are going smoothly from day to day, because he knows that he has a hard and thankless task. It was the same thing with a reform council. It entered upon the task with enthusiasm, but was very soon appalled by the magnitude of the difficulties, and visions of reform remain visions all the time. Another thing that greatly deferred the suppression of vice was the cost of securing convictions, because it was very difficult to prove a case, and after meeting with several legal defeats, a man would seldom risk another battle. The police should be told that they must secure the conviction of the guilty at any cost if crime is to be suppressed. Moral problems are always hard, but with the help of the best citizens, this town could be made a clean town.

SCHOOL SHIP DURNS IN TOULON HARBOR

Vessel With Five Hundred Men on Board is Totally Destroyed— Three Are Missing.

Toulon, France, Nov. 25.—The torpedo school ship Aliesiras, stationed in this harbor, was totaliy destroyed by fire at a late hour this evening. The burning of the school ship created the greatest alarm throughout the city. The news of the fire was first conveyed, at about 11 o'clock, by the firing of cannon in the harbor. The people hurriedly left the cafes and theatres and rushed to the docks, whence they could see the Allesiras a mass of flames. The burning vessel stood out brilliantly in the encircling darkness, and the flames lit up the other shipping, the wharves and the coast.

There was terrible anxiety concerning the fate of the five hundred men on board, until the authorities announced that everybody had been taken in boats and saved with the exception of three. These men did not answer the roll call, and it is presumed they were burned to death.

The entire garrison here was called out to render assistance, and the crews of the warships of this division hurriedly launched their boats to go to the rescue of their comrades who were on board the Allesiras.

To Command in Ireland.

London, Nov. 25.—Lieut.-General Arthur Henry Paget has been selected to succeed General Francis Walter Grenfell as commander-in-chief of the forces in Ireland.

Still After the Big Mug.

Liverpool, Nov. 25.—Sir Thos. Lipton, who arrived here on the Carmania, in an interview to-day repeated the statements formerly made by him concerning a challenge for the America's cup. He said he did not intend to make anyother voyage to the United States until there was a cup race, and declared that he had great faith in the willingness of the New York Yacht club to do the right thing.

THE BOOMERANG.

One of the Most Peculiar Weapons of War Ever Invented.

The boomerang is an instrument used both in war and in the chase by the aborigines of Australia. It is usually about two feet in length, made of hard wood bent into a curve resembling an obtuse angle, flat on one side and rounded on the other. The method of using this curious weapon is very peculiar. The thrower takes it in one hand, holding the bent side downward, and hurls it forward as if to hit some object twenty or twenty-five yards in advance. Instead of continuing to go directly forward in accordance with the Newtonian law it slowly ascends in the air, whirling round and round, describing a beautiful and geometrical curved line till it reaches a considerable height, when it begins to retrograde, finally sweeping over the head of the projector, striking the object for which it was intended, which is always in the rear.

An English officer has this to say of the singular weapon: "The boomerang is one of the most curious weapons of war ever invented, at least by a barbarous people, nor is it easy to comprehend by what law of projectiles it is made to take the singular directions that it frequently does. I have seen a native throw one so as to make it go forty or fifty yards horizontally and not more than four feet from the ground. It would then suddenly dart into the air to the height of fifty or sixty yards, describe a very considerable curve and finally fall at his feet. In all cases, no matter how thrown, the boomerang keeps turning with great rapidity, like as if on a pivot, making a loud, whizzing noise all the while."

HIGHLAND CROFTERS.

How They Lived In the Middle of the Last Century.

In the middle of the last century the crofters in the west highlands seldom saw money and never needed it. They erected for themselves huts mostly built of turf, floored with clay and roofed with heather. They kept a few cattle, goats and sheep, which grazed at will on the open hillside and provided them with milk and wool. They lived a truly simple life, and their needs were few. They grew oats for their own food and potatoes, which formed their other chief article of diet. Tea was an unknown luxury. It was by no means uncommon to find persons who had never tasted it. Wheaten bread had never been seen in those parts. Their clothes were made from the fleeces of their own sheep, spun and woven by the good wives during the long winter nights and dyed from the simple dyes made from the lichens which grew on the stems of trees or on the bowlders of rock in the neighborhood. The whisky they drank came from secret stills on the hillside and had never paid excise. The nearest parish church was often many miles away. No school was there for the children. Very few of them, indeed, could read or write. Still fewer had ever heard a word of English spoken. Their spiritual needs, however, were not neglected, for they received constant visits from the "men," as they were called, who had constituted themselves the spiritual guides of their neighborhood —Blackwood's Magazine.

Old Time Floggings.

An act of the time of Queen Elizabeth ordained that vagrants were to be "stripped from the middle upward and whipped till the body is bloody." Fourpence each was the recognized charge made by the "whipman" for every male and female vagrant who passed through his hands, but on special occasions this sum was exceeded. Says the constable's account of Great Staughton, Huntingdonshire: "May, 1691.—Paid in charges taking up a distracted woman, watching her and whipping her next day, 8 shillings 6 pence." After whipping people according to the statute the authorities sometimes gave them a letter recommending constables and others "to be as charitable as the law permits."

The Mind's Eye.

It will probably be news to most people to hear that rudimentary traces of a third eye exist among all vertebrates, including man. In the human race the third eye forms part of the pineal gland, a small mass about the size of a pea in almost the very center of the brain. Possibly, therefore, there was more actual truth in the well known expression "the mind's eye" than its originator dreamed of.

A Disperser.

A street preacher in a west of Scotland town complained to a passing policeman about being annoyed by a part of the audience and asked him to remove the obnoxious ones. "Weel, ye see," replied the cautious officer, "it would be a hard job for me tae spot them, but I'll tell ye what I'd dae if I were you." "What would you do?" eagerly inquired the preacher. "Just ga round wi' the hat!"

Finance.

Many words of most august sound prove to be of quite commonplace ancestry when traced to their origins. "Finance" is really only "settling up." Literally, it is just "ending" and was formerly used in that very simple sense in the English language. Then it came to signify settling up with a creditor and acquired the special sense of ransom.

Very Deep.

Flatter—Your boy, I hear, is a deep student. Popley—He's always at the bottom of his class, if that's what you mean.

NAPOLEON'S ACCOUNT BOOK

Some Entries Made During His Exile at St. Helena.

There was recently sold in London the last book of accounts of Napoleon at St. Helena, from 1818 to 1821. The expenses are classified by month and were kept by Pierron, the ex-emperor's maitre d'hotel, with entries by Montholon.

There are many corrections in pencil by the august exile himself, for he verified all the accounts and changed English money, where it was used, into francs. Some of the entries are highly interesting. Thus, on Aug. 15, 1819, the fete of the emperor, here is one by Montholon: "Artificial flowers, £5. Extraordinary expenses, £1 5s."

Napoleon's resources at St. Helena were very modest, but his tradesmen, as regarded their prices, never forgot that he was an emperor—though an exiled one. Among other occupations to while away the time that hung so heavily on his hands, Napoleon went in for gardening, and among the entries are found: "Four watering cans, £1 8s.; 2 pairs of pruners, £3; 2 axes, £4 10s."—prices which look as if the exile was simply regarded as a subject for fleecing. "For mending the emperor's bed" £2 is charged.

Toward the end of his life Napoleon's nourishment consisted almost entirely of chickens, pigeons, and eggs, and there are numerous entries for medicines. In March, 1821, for instance, thirty bottles of sirup, one case of prunes, two cases of Burgundy plums; in April, ten bottles of sirup, eight dozen oranges, eight dozen lemons.—London Globe.

Dangerous.

A contributor to the "Transactions of the Devonshire association" says that when he came to a certain place as vicar he asked whether there were any sick to be visited.

"Oh, no, sir!" was the answer. "Nobody is ever ill in Berrynarbor. There is an old man, to be sure, over ninety, who has taken lately to his bed, but there hain't much the matter with him that I know of."

"I thought to myself," added the vicar, "of the story of the Scotchman who said to his doctor:

"'Ye pu' a vara long face, doctor. D'ye think I'm dangerously ill?'

"'Na, na,' was the reply. 'I don't think ye're dangerously ill, but I think ye're dangerously old.'"

Something Wrong.

Hotel Proprietor (to his wife)—Maria, you haven't sent that man in No. 12 his bill yet. Maria—Oh, yes I have, my dear. Hotel Proprietor—That's odd. I can still hear him singing happily.—London World.

TWO POWERS UNITE AGAINST ANARCHY

France and Spain Decide to Maintain Warships and Men at Tangier.

Paris, Nov. 25.—The measures which France and Spain have agreed to take together, on account of anarchy in Morocco, have been made public. They are strictly precautionary, and are designed solely to meet the requirements of an emergency and to safeguard the lives and property of foreigners at Tangier. Pending the formal policing of the ports of Morocco, to be undertaken upon the ratification of the international agreement reached at Algeciras, each power will maintain warships at Tangier, and be prepared to land a total of 3,000 men. It is distinctly understood that this joint movement will not assume the nature of an occupation, and the mission of the troops is limited "to safeguarding and re-establishing the authority of the pasha at Tangier, as against Raisuli."

"Owl" Train.

An "owl" train from New Westminster to Seattle and vice versa is to be put on by the Great Northern very shortly. This will be a convenience which the travelling public has not anticipated. F. C. Meyers, agent of the Great Northern, stated yesterday to the Daily News that the service would be effective on Dec. 9.

The train will leave New Westminster 11.55 p.m. daily, arriving at Seattle at 7 a.m. The time of departure from Seattle and arrival here will be the same. The trains will carry two of the most modern and up-to-date first-class sleepers, one running from Vancouver to Seattle, picking up another sleeper at Bellingham. The berth rate to be charged will be $1.50 from New Westminster. This additional train will make regular stops at all agency stations. The operation of sleeping cars on local runs is an entirely new departure, and the placing of this additional train in service will be a great boon for the travelling public. It gives one an idea of how the passenger business to and from the Sound has increase, as this will make three trains operated out of here daily by the Great Northern.

THE PREMIER'S SPEECH.

According to the report in the Columbian, Mr. McBride, in his speech last Friday night said, "Under the resolution which he (McBride) could not accept, British Columbia would have got $115,000 more. Though 165 larger than P. E. I., it would have received only $45,000 more than it." In the first place, Mr. McBride voted for, not again, the resolution which he describes. Instead of refusing to accept it, he supported it. In the second place, what has the comparative size of British Columbia and Prince Edward Island to do with the question? The resolution related to the general readjustment of existing provincial subsidies, apart altogether from any question of special claims, and without prejudice to those claims. This general readjustment was on the existing basis—the basis adopted in the constitution—which is population, not square miles. Having, at Ottawa, consented to this, Mr. McBride exposes himself to very unpleasant criticism by now talking as he does. More than that, his talk about square miles raises at once the question of the manner in which the natural wealth of the Province has been administered, and Mr. McBride cannot afford to face fair discussion of that point. His talk on Friday night, if his organ reports his correctly, was worse even than silly clap-trap; it was misleading.

It was different when the hon. gentleman came to speak of financial affairs. There he was absolutely "frank and candid," so far as one may judge from the Columbian's report. True, his claim that large increases in the rate of taxation had helped the industries of the country was ridiculous enough, but that is a small matter in comparison with his honest avowal that the financial policy of the country had been dictated by the banking interests. The Daily News feels that he has, in making that admission, done it a peculiar kindness, seeing that this paper has put in the forefront of its indictment of the Government, the babyish incompetence displayed in handing over the Province to the banking interest. Eight years ago, when the business part of New Westminster lay in ruins, the city had to face a somewhat similar situation, but it refused to be held up.

Summarizing the speech, it must be divided into two parts, that which relates to better terms, and that which relates to the general policy of the Government.

As to better terms, there is really no controvrsy. The whole question there is the absurd conduct of Mr. McBride himself, at Ottawa, when he bounced out and banged the door.

As to general policy, the key to that is found in the Premier's "frank and candid" admission, that the Government has meekly followed the dictates of the large financial interests, which desire that the natural wealth of the country be handed over to them for exploitation, while the support of the administration is provided for by general taxation. Such a policy will bring results which can, for a time, be cited as indications of prosperity, before the burdensome legacy of debt and taxation makes itself strongly and generally felt.

We print this morning that part of the fishery commission's recommendations which relates to Fraser river. The parts omitted are, a long preamble which merely gives an outline of the appointment and movements of the commission, a few mere details and the regulations as to the observance of the close time by fish traps on both sides of the international boundary. It is recommended that the latter be amended with the object of making them more effective, and that the minimum penalty for violation be raised from $50 to $250, the American commissioners agreeing to recommend these points to the Washington legislature. Another recommendation is that the Dominion regulations be amended as soon as possible in the direction proposed.

Did it never occur to the hypercritical Daily News that "a statement of fact" may be made for "political purposes"?—Colonist.

Very nicely put, but hardly to the point. The Daily News founds its political discussions on statements of fact, and to that extent uses them for political purposes; but the Colonist, in the article we criticized, set "a statement made for political purposes" over against "a statement of fact," as if it recognized an essential difference between them. We are glad to infer, from the paragraph quoted above ,that our venerable contemporary is coming to a better state of mind.

Prof. Burgess, Dean of Columbia College, New York, was recently installed as "Roosevelt" professor of American history at the University of Berlin, and has made some statements to an interviewer that have aroused comment on this side of the Atlantic. He holds that the Monroe doctrine and Protection (with the big P) are antiquated and senseless. Commenting on this, the Montreal Witness remarks: "As for protection, Professor Burgess has just said what every educated economist anywhere in the world would say. The doctrine of protection involves always and everywhere unwarrantable privilege and false economy."

WOOD PIPE COMPANY PREPARES TO BUILD

Property on Carnarvon Street to be Cleared and Large Structures Erected.

The Wood Stave Pipe Co. will start to-day to clear the land for their proposed new places of business, on Carnarvon street, in the rear of the Royal City mills, and immediately west of the new Vulcan Boiler works building. They will erect a main building 138 feet long and 68 feet deep, with an upper storey 70 x 80. There will be no pillars throughout the building, and the roof will be built on the truss principle. The working department will occupy the centre of the building, and for that purpose a room 18 x 70 will be reserved. In the machine room an 85 horse power boiler will be installed, and will provide the steam for a powerful engine. The machinery will all be of the most up-to-date description. The huge mud sills which will form the foundation will be here to-morrow. A large dry kiln will be built, large enough to handle the estimated output for the next five years. The C.P.R. is running a switch to the premises, and will cross the B.C.E.R. at a point in the rear of the Royal City mills office. This when completed will traverse both the back and front of the building, providing unexcelled advantages along the line of shipping facilities.

When ready for business, the firm will employ all skilled labor, which will mean the payment of large wages which will directly benefit this city. The company will spend in building and equipment, as a start, about $10,000. The work of construction will be superintended by T. Turnbull, of this city.

Nomination.

F. J. McKenzie has been nominated as the Conservative candidate for the Delta district, and will contest the seat now held by John Oliver, M.P.P., at the forthcoming elections. The nomination was made public at a gathering of the Conservatives of the district held at Cloverdale on Saturday, when Premier McBride made another spread-eagle speech, and told the people all about the wonderful work he had done for the province of British Columbia. Mr. McKenzie is established in business as a druggist at Ladner, and is well known around the Delta district. But, then, so is John Oliver, M.P.P.

A Letter of Importance.

THE INHABITANTS OF NEW WESTMINSTER IN GENERAL, AND OUR FRIENDS IN PARTICULAR:

Lately we have been constantly asked if we are selling out, or moving larger premises. These enquiries have no doubt been created by the large shipments of furniture leaving our stores and warehouses daily.

No, we are not leaving our present site, but we certainly are selling out (for the time). Not with any catchpenny reductions, but a genuine legitimate method of trading which we have made successful by always marking our goods lower than the lowest of other furniture houses in British Columbia.

NOW, IT'S UP TO YOU whether you want old and out of date goods at any old price, or the very latest and newest goods that money and experience can buy.

Just come in and pay us a friendly visit; no one will bother you to buy. New Christmas goods constantly arriving. Look them over, and if you want something good, select it, and we will deliver any time or anywhere you wish. We will advise you in purchasing Morris Chairs, Morris Rockers, Dining Chairs, Extension Tables, Pictures, Sideboards, Buffets, etc.

It is expected that in the very near future a branch of the Canadian labor party will be organized in this city. The grand organizer is expected to come over from Victoria within the next two or three weeks to talk the matter over with the local workingmen.

There will be a special meeting of the Liberals of the city on Thursday evening next, Nov. 29, for the purpose of nominating a candidate to represent them in the forthcoming election. The meeting will be held in the Liberal committee rooms, and a large attendance is looked for.

Commission agents are about to start on a potato buying tour around the rural districts. The object of the buyers is to corral all the spuds they can get hold of for re-shipment to New Zealand, where there is a potato famine. Potatoes there are wholesaling at $45 a ton and the retail price asked puts them almost out of the reach of the average man.

The keel has just been laid for the first of a number of large coal barges which are to be constructed in Crane's ship yard on Lulu island. The vessel will be the first of its kind to be built on this coast. It will be 80 fee long and 7 feet deep. The craft will draw about 6 feet of water, and will be capable of carrying 200 tons of coal. Mr. Crane also has a number of large scows to build, and at the present time has about 14 men employed in the yard.

A claimant for the labor vote of New Westminster has arisen in the person of G. S. Raney, who intends to make a bold bid for a seat in the provincial house at the forthcoming election. Although his acceptance of the labor candidature has not yet been officially announced, it is known that a committee has been actively working in his interests for some time past, and those who are on the inside track as regards labor politics are confident that Mr. Raney will make a good run for the office of local member.

About twenty of the High school boys participated in a paper chase on Saturday morning. The hares were R. McMillan and R. McKenzie. They started from the school about 9 o'clock and reached home soon after 11. They went around by the new reservoir by way of a start; along Wise road to Twelfth street, where the hares laid some false trails, and doubled back along Seventh avenue to Sixth street, where they were sighted by some of the hounds and had an exciting chase back to the school yards, which they reached uncaught. At the school H. White entertained his comrades at lunch, and a pleasant half hour was spent.

CARPENTERS' UNION STATES ITS CASE

Appoint Committee to Send Information Concerning Local Conditions to Old Country.

The Daily News has been requested to publish the following:

A little while ago, the carpenters' union of this city appointed a committee to watch the agitation that was being carried on by a certain class in this province whose object is to flood the country with the surplus labor of the European countries. At the last meeting this committee reported as follows:

"That the board of trade of almost every city in the province was busy devising ways and means whereby that object could be accomplished. They propose to try and influence the C.P.R. to give a cheap rate through to the coast, and also devise some system of governmental assistance. The provincial government is reported to be negotiating with the Salvation Army in regard to bringing in laborers. Mr. Macdonald, the leader of the opposition, is also reported to have stated at a meeting held in the upper country, that if the Liberals came into power at the forthcoming election they would see that there would be no such scarcity of labor in the future as there had been in the past. The committee were therefore of the opinion that notwithstanding the fact that both parties were so solicitous in regard to those who have commodities to sell, by enacting legislation for their protection, both parties seem to be prepared to take a diametrically opposite course in regard to the interests of those who have only their labor to sell. The committee therefore recommends that they be empowered to draft a communication explaining the local conditions and send the same together with some clippings from the local papers to the leading newspapers of the industrial centres of the old country."

CUNNING ANIMALS.

Those That Feign Death For the Sake of Protection.

The habit of feigning death for the sake of protection can be observed among many of the lower animals—animals which differ widely in family, genus and species. Indeed, this habit is to be observed in creatures microscopic in size and of exceedingly low organization, as well as in those as high in the scale of animal life as man himself, for even man does not hesitate on occasions to avail himself of this natural subterfuge when he thinks it will aid in the preservation of his life.

With the aid of the microscope one can observe and study the natural history of the minute animal world, which otherwise would remain a closed and unread volume. This instrument has shown me beyond cavil that creatures as low in the scale as actinophryans, very minute, microscopic animalcules, practice death feigning when surprised by an enemy from which they cannot otherwise escape. Thus I have, says a naturalist, repeatedly seen actinophryans fold their delicate, hairlike legs or cilia and sink to the bottom of their miniature lake (a drop of water) when approached by a water louse, which preys upon them. They remain to all appearances absolutely without life until the water louse swims away, when they unfold their cilia and go back to their feeding grounds—a bit of water weed or moss or decayed wood.

EIGHT DAY CLOCKS.

The Reason They Are Not Made to Run Just a Week.

The French have a fashion of expressing an indefinite but short period of time by the phrase "about eight days." Under similar conditions we would say "about a week." The French method seems unnatural, ours natural, for a week is a distinctly recognized period. We believe there is only one way in which we use the eight day period, and that is in making clocks.

Did it ever occur to you why we have what is called an eight day clock and not one made to run exactly seven days? There is a good reason for it. A clock that is made to run eight days is pretty sure to be wound on a certain day of the week, for it would be almost impossible for any one to remember to wind it on every eighth day. Therefore the interval between windings is seven days, precisely as the maker desired and expected.

The reason is that a clock runs better when it is not allowed to run down, or even nearly so. The same plan is followed in making a watch; it will run for thirty hours, but as nearly every man winds his watch at the same hour every day or night, the spring is never fully exhausted. Regularity in winding is one of the best means of keeping a timepiece in order.

The Opal.

It was Sir Walter Scott who helped, in "Anne of Geierstein," to arouse the fears of the superstitious concerning the wearing of that very beautiful stone, the opal, and it was a German dealer in gems who fostered that fear very successfully for other ends than those of romance. He came to England years ago, we are told by a jeweler, to fill an order from one of the royal families in Germany—a wedding order, if I remember rightly. Opals were then high. He had printed the story that opals were unlucky and spread the report diligently. In a short time the price went down, and he was enabled to fill his order and make a handsome profit.—Westminster Gazette.

Hard Luck.

"Yes; her husband robbed her of every penny she had."

"Poor dear! And all she married him for was because she was afraid of burglars."

There is precious instruction to be gotten by finding we are wrong.—Carlyle.

Dredging in the Rivers of Manitoba and the N. W. T., excepting the Yukon Territory—A free miner may obtain only two leases of five miles each for a term of twenty years, renewable in the discretion of the Minister of the Interior.

No free miner shall receive a grant of more than one mining claim on each separate river, creek or gulch, but the same miner may hold any number of claims by purchase, and free miners may work their claims in partnership by filing notice and paying fee of $2. RECOMMENDATION WOULD CLOSE RIVER that would involve a boat journey, out and back, of from 20 to 80 miles, few of them could profitably do so.

The sockeye season lasts for six weeks of five and a half days each; the proposed regulation would cut the week on the river to four and a half days, and would therefore, on its face, give the Japanese thirty-three days' fishing, as against twenty-seven for the white fishermen. I say "on its face," because its real effect would be much more far-reaching. Examined on the question of extending the close time above New Westminster bridge only 12 hours, J. J. Wilson, fishery guardian, said (report of evidence, page 55, answering Mr. Hall): "Well, we'll say that the close time above New Westminster bridge was extended until 6 o'clock Sunday night, there would be no fish here on Monday morning—the gates would be closed." The same witness said (page 50), answering Mr. Taylor): "The mouth of the river is completely barred throughout the week." Similar evidence was given by a number of witnesses, fishermen, fish dealers and canners. Of the points as to which the commission took evidence, none was more clearly established than that of the effective barring of the river mouth by nets. If, then, these barriers be in operation at the mouth of the river for twenty-four hours before fishing in the river begins, it follows that the latter would be of little value. The practical effect of the regulation would be to close the river against fishing, the fish being caught outside, by seines and traps, and by those fishermen who come to the river for the sockeye only, the great majority of whom are Japanese. Our resident fisherman, who are permanent settlers, would be driven out of the business.

3. Side channels, shoals and snags make it impossible to bar any part of the river by nets. Of the fish which get fairly into the river, a good percentage will go through to the spawning grounds. This was repeated by witness after witness, and is proved by experience of the present season. On the other hand, it is possible to establish a pretty effective barrier of nets on the sand heads, just outside the river. Plainly, therefore, if the close time is to be lengthened in any one part of the Fraser waters, as a measure of protection, the longer close time should be outside the river. But the proposed regulation is not necessary. The run of this season (1906) was a small one; fishing above New Westminster bridge was in full swing; deep and long nets were in use, and yet there were in the hatchery pens at the bginning of September almost enough sockeye to stock all the Dominion hatcheries to their full capacity, and the sockeye have been running in considerable numbers during the whole of the month.

4. On this point I do not care, in an official report, to do more than cite the fact that a recommendation (previously assented to) to keep the ship channel at the mouth of the river free from nets (a regulation of considerable value as a protective measure, and which would have been of some advantage to our resident fishermen) was struck out, and this drastice recommendation, the effect of which would be to drive hundreds of the best class of our fishermen out of the business, was substituted, brought before the commission, as I have said, at the last moment.

In conclusion, I beg to point out that every restriction proposed operates, or would operate, to the disadvantage of our resident white fishermen, and to their disadvantage only, except, perhaps, the abolition of the double length net.

On Thursday, the 29th, at the opera house, we are to have a revival of that very funny musical farce, "The Two Johns," by J. C. Stewart. When first produced, this comedy was one of the best and most successful on the road, and undoubtedly those who have seen it will want to see it again.

New College in Rome.

Rome, Nov. 25.—The Augustinians inaugurated a new international college here to-day. The ceremonies were attended by Father Rodriguez, the general of the order, Cardinals Rampolla, Vives Y Tuto and Martinelli, and Rev. J. J. Harty, archbishop of Manila. The archbishop was questioned by a number of other prelates regarding the standing and affairs of the Augustinians in the Philippine islands.

New York, Nov. 25.—Three officers of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Co., who were indicted on charges of grand larceny and forgery, following the insurance investigation of a year ago, will go on trial on Monday. They are Frederick A. Burnham, president of the company; George D. Eldridge, vice-president, and Geo. Burnham, secretary.

Appreciated.

The Chilliwack Progress says: "Dr. Davies, who has had a cottage erected on his property on the Avenue, brought his family up from New Westminster last week, and will in future make Chilliwack his home. The doctor has been practicing his profession in New Westminster since the year 1894, and for the past four years he has had as a partner Dr. Smith, who continues the business in New Westminster. In his profession Dr. Davies had a wide repute as a capable man, and his popularity as a citizen is attested to by the fact that for the last two years he has been a member of the city council. Chilliwack gains a professional man of ability and a citizen with experience in Dr. Davies' setling with us."

CONGRESS WILL DEAL WITH POSTAL TROUBLE

U. S. Post Office Department is Expected to Meet Canada's Recent Demand.

Washington, Nov. 25.—The United States post office department will be guided by congressional legislation in dealing with the issue, raised by the Canadian government, of abrogating the provisions of the postal convention between the two countries relating to second class matter, which provision, according to Canada's notice, will expire May 7, 1907. This convention permits the transmission through the mails of periodicals and other publications, including newspapers, at the rate of one cent per pound. A joint commission of the senate and house, of which Senator Penrose is chairman has been engaged since Oct. 1 in taking testimony covering the whole subject of second class matter and as an outcome of the enquiry the general expectation is that some legislation will be enacted. If no legislation be enacted, the two governments will fall back on the international union postal rates, when the provision in the existing treaty expires, unless in the meantime Canada comes forward with a new proposition for the consideration of the American government. The international postal union rates on this class of matter are one cent for two ounces.

For some time past the Canadian government has found fault with the construction placed on classes of second class mail matter by the American government, when it came to the matter of its application for transmission through Canadian territory. Probably one hundred different periodicals which are transmitted through the United States mail at second class rates have been denied similar privileges in the Canadian mail service, although some of them were subsequently restored to the privilege. American periodicals have enjoyed a large circulation throughout Canada, which, with the attractive advertisements, it is suggested at the post office department, have worked prejudicially to the trade interests of the Canadians, and to the periodicals published there.

Polish Archbishop Dies.

Posen, Nov. 25.—MonsignorStablewski, Roman Catholic archbishop of Posen, who recently had been active in combatting the German government's order to teach the children of Poland religion in the German tongue, was found dead in a chair in his study here last night. His death was caused by heart disease.

Rome, Nov. 25.—The sudden death at Posen of Mgr. Stablewski has caused deep regret here. Together with Cardinal Copp, Bishop of Breslau, Mgr. Stablewski was playing a prominent part in the Polish question. His death will not ameliorate the situation, as it is foreseen that Germany will insist that his successor be a German, and to this the Poles will object with every means in their power. It is recalled that the predecessor of the late Archbishop of Posen, who was a German, found his position so difficult that he is reported to have died of a broken heart.
