ORT MANN TOWNSITE IS TO BE EXTENDED

ig Industrial Concerns Allied With C. N. R. Require Much Land.

Big industrial interests, allied with e Canadian Northern, have decided locate at Port Mann, the railway wn just across the river. These ncerns will require a larger area land than can be allotted to them thin the present boundaries of Port nn, and, as their plants must be in se proximity to the railway yards, has been practically decided to eatly enlarge the townsite, in fact most doubling its size.

The present site covers an area of mething like 2800 acres. This will obably be increased to 4000 acres, e addition being on the south and st sides, a portion of the Hjorth d being included.

The property required will be purased or expropriated before the subviding of the townsite is further oceeded with.

While the name of the concerns interested have not been given out, they e known to be among the wealthiest rporations on the American conent. English capital is heavily interested in these firms, the representives of which have recently been oking over the ground with a view deciding on the location of their dustries.

NION MEN WILL BUILD CHURCH ON LABOR DAY

ng Beach Carpenters Forego Parade and Will Give Services Free at Church Building Bee.

Long Beach, Cal., Aug. 31.—Instead taking advantage of Labor Day as holiday, the Long Beach Carpenters' ion No. 710 has offered the services its members to the East Long ach Christian church, which exts to start and finish the building A house of worship between sunand sundown of that day.

The vote of the union to assist without pay was unanimous.

OVEL SCHEME TO WATER CROPS IN NEW JERSEY

New York, Aug. 31.—George T. Hulzer, of Livingston, N. J., has successfully applied the science of aviation to griculture to offset the effect of the nnual dry spell. Hulsizer has two cres of land under cultivation, planted with late vegetables.

The plants suffered in the recent rought. Hulsizer rigged up a biplane "glider," the dimensions of hich about equal an old style Wright achine. To this he attached a 100allon boiler and equipped it with a prinkler. At the end of a rope attached to a windlass it rose from the orce of the wind in the air and when t had reached the right position over he farm the sprinkler was opened by ulling a cable. The water descended n a refreshing shower on the plants, nd the field was sprinkled by drawng in or unwinding the rope on the indlass.

MAPLE LEAF LONG EMBLEM.

Chaplain of Red River Expedition Says It Dates Beyond 1860.

London, Aug. 31.—Stewart Paterson, senior chaplain of the Red River xpedition of 1870, writes to the press hat the maple leaf was the recognized emblem of Canada long before 1860, the date claimed for its first ecognition. On the initiative of the late Dr. Richardson, of Toronto, he, as secretary of the Patriotic association of Peterborough, in 1858 designed a badge on which there was a wreath of maple leaves. He also wrote verses mentioning the maple leaf and ranking it with the rose, shamrock and thistle.

ROOSEVELT DELIVERS A POWERFUL SPEECH

Public Ownership of Railways Hinted at—Suggested Criticism of Taft.

Osawatomie, Kas., Aug. 31—In clear and emphatic fashion Theodore Roosevelt announced his political creed here today. It was a creed of progressive Republicanism. It aligned him definitely with the progressive movement. It placed him on record as an advocate of some of the policies which are favored by insurgents and as an opponent of every "special interest" which he believes exercises a sinister influence on the affairs of the people.

It was probably the most important speech of his western tour. He drew an absolutely undivided line between the rights of men and the rights of property, hailing the new era in which the latter would be subservient to the former.

He declared that the American government should be free from the sinister influences of control of special interests.

Roosevelt hinted at the possible future public ownership of railways and advocated the suppression of the corporations which controlled the necessities of life. He maintained that all efforts at prohibiting all combinations had failed and pointed out that the only way lay, not in the attempt to prevent such combination, but in the complete control in the interest of the public. There was more than a suggestion of a criticism of the Taft administration when he declared that there was a widespread belief among the people that under-methods in connection with tariff legislation had hitherto prevailed, because special interests were too powerful.

APPELLATE COURT SITTINGS.

Attorney General Says There Will Not Be Restricted to Victoria.

Victoria, Aug. 31.—That there has been any serious proposal to establish special quarters for the British Columbia Appellate court in Victoria, and restrict the sitting of this high tribunal to the capital city, is denied by Attorney General Bowser. Since a very large proportion of the appeal business of the country originates in Vancouver, it would, it is pointed out, be manifestly unfair to both the profession and to litigants to consider such a proposal should it be advanced.

The desirability of providing separate accommodation for the appellate court when the contemplated reconstruction of the Parliament buildings is taken in hand, was, it is stated, mooted by one of the judges especially interested, but as this would involve the provision also of a new and independent law library—law libraries being provided, not by the province, but by the Law society through the fees of members of the profession contributed to that society—such a proposition could not be looked upon with favor.

CUSTOMS RETURNS SHOW HEALTHY STATE OF TRADE

The following are the customs returns for the month of August. They show a tremendous increase over the totals for last month and indicate an exceedingly healthy state of trade in the Royal City:

August, 1909: Port, $11,285.68; outports, $8456.08; total, $19.741.76.
August, 1910: Port, $18.611.99; outports, $8977.15; total, $27,589.14.
Increase: Port, $7326.31; outports, $521.07; total, $7847.38.

WICKERSHAM AND NAGEL ARE VISITING CORDOVA

Cordova, Alaska, Aug. 31—Attorney-General Wickersham and Secretary of Commerce and Labor Charles Nagel arrived here today. They were taken over the Copper River railroad. They inspected the mines and visited the famous Childs glacier. The returned to Cordova tonight and will be guests of honor at an informal reception.

SIXTY ACRES OF LAND SOLD FOR $48,000

W. J. Walker Disposes of Property in Port Mann for Big Figure.

A deal which has been pending for some time was closed yesterday, when W. J. Walker transferred to an outside capitalist sixty acres of land within the townsite of Port Mann, the consideration being $800 per acre, $48,000 for the property.

The sale was negotiated by White, Shiles & Co. This piece of property is one of the few isolated ones not secured by Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann several months ago, they refusing to pay the figure demanded by Mr. Walker. As far as is known, there are still two pieces of land privately owned within the townsite, one being a five acre property and the other comprising ten acres.

Mr. Walker bought the land sold yesterday many years ago, when farms across the river could almost be had for the asking.

PROPOSE EXTENSION OF I. C. R. TO TORONTO

Government Railroad May Be Built to Good City—Cabinet Will Discuss Matter.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—When the regular sittings of the cabinet are resumed, one of the subjects which will have to be taken up is the extension of the Intercolonial railway to Toronto. The agitation has reached such proportions and such influential bodies are moving in the matter that it is stated in government circles that it will have to be dealt with. Whether it will go beyond the stage of "careful consideration" is another matter.

To build the line to Toronto it will involve, according to reliable and semi-official estimates, an expenditure of twenty million dollars. There would be no great construction difficulties in the way. The board of management views favorably the extension idea, though they hesitate to be quoted about it, on the ground that their function is to manage and operate the line, while it is for the government alone to determine matters of policies such as this.

MAY REOPEN RAILWAY BELT TO SETTLERS AGAIN

Ottawa Official Here on Business Supposed to Be Connected with New Settlement Regulations.

According to S. Maher, an official of the department of the interior at Ottawa, at present doing some official business at the Dominion lands agency here, the crop in the northwest is not as bad as has been reported. In midsummer the outlook was bad, but recently the conditions have been favorable and although all the districts will not have a full crop there will be a fair average all over the provinces.

One of the reasons for the reports that have been spread abroad is that the main line of the C. P. R. over which all travellers from the east has to come passes through the southern country and that is where the crop is the poorest. In Northern Saskatchewan and Alberta there is a fine crop and the yield there will pull up the average all over the northwest.

Mr. Maher did not wish to say anything about his work here, but it is thought to have something to do with the question of again opening the railway belt for settlement. There were some new regulations prepared which were to have come into force some months ago, but at the request of a number of squatters near Shuswap lake, whose interests would have been affected by the change the regulations were suspended until they had stated their claims and as soon as they are considered, probably in the course of a month or two, some regulations regarding the settlement of Dominion lands in the railway belt will go into force.

North Yakima Grows Fast.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The population of North Yakima, Wash., is 14,182, as compared with 3154 in 1900.

Appreciation.

As an expressiation of his recognition of the good work done by the firemen in saving his house from destruction by fire on Monday afternoon, Dr. Drew has forwarded a cheque for $100 to the city fire department.

FOREST FIRES IN WASHINGTON OVER

Heavy Rainfall in State Yesterday Effectively Extinguished Blazes.

Seattle, Aug. 31.—All the forest fires in Washington have been extinguished or are under control.

This announcement was made at the headquarters of the Washington Forest Fires association tonight, after reports had been received telling of heavy rainfalls throughout the western slope of the Cascades, where the most vicious fires have been raging during the last ten days.

HOG BITE KILLS MAN.

Porker's Attack on Farmer Is Followed by Blood Poisoning.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 31.—John H. Bartlett, a farmer, is dead as a result of a hog bite. He was attacked by a hog weighing 400 pounds, a few days ago, receiving a slight wound on his leg, which latter developed blood poisoning. Bartlett died today.

ADDITIONAL TRACK WILL IMPROVE TRAM SERVICE

C. P. R. Building Stretch of Road at Entrance to the City—Eburne Schedule to Improve.

In a few days the passengers on the B. C. E. R. line to Eburne will not have to put up with any delay at Twelfth street. The C. P. R. is now grading for a track from Ninth street to Twelfth street and when this line is finished the line at present jointly in use by the B. C. E. R. and the C. P. R. will be handed over to the B. C. E. R. for sole use.

This will give the B. C. E. R. a double track from the car barns to Twelfth street and the Eburne cars can be run independently of the Vancouver cars. At present there is a wait at Twelfth street, both coming in and going out, but the proposed improvement will eliminate this.

The grading on the line is now almost finished and by Saturday the ties will be laid. As soon as it is completed it will be put in use. The change was made imperative on account of the proposed fast service over the old Vancouver line.

DISTRICT FOREST FIRES THOUGHT TO BE OVER NOW

Heavy Rain Yesterday Morning Believed to Have Extinguished Bush Fires—Damage Light.

It is thought that the heavy rain yesterday morning practically finished the dry season, and probably has rendered the timber safe for another year. Yesterday no reports of fires were received and they are now all practically out.

The crown timber suffered very little this year, considering the drouth, which has been unequalled in the province. The fire at Port Moody was the only one in this district of any consequence and it did comparatively little damage. Between Yale and Agassiz the damage to crown timber from forest fires will not amount to more than one or two hundred dollars, and all through the railway belt the fires have been few and unimportant.

CHEECHAKOS WALLOP THE NATIVE SONS

Home Made Aggregation Failed to Come Up to Standard of Rank Outsiders

The Native Sons lacrosse team last night failed to make good its mighty boast that it could play any twelve players brought together from amongst those who come from Bruce county, other parts of rural Ontario and the rest of the world.

They almost did it, but the Cheechakos managed to peel off one more admittance coupon to the inside of the lacrosse nets than did their opponents.

Voluminous was the uncouth encouragement of the Native Son rooters who exhorted their heroes with barbarous advice in more or less indifferent Chinook; but alas for the mountain-bred sons of the old timers; they caused the ball to be faced off in the centre but seven times while the foreign usurpers from the vast and dark regions on the east side of the Rockies caused the same to be done eight times.

To make a plain statement of an historic event of vast significance, the score was eight to seven.

Owing to circumstances over which Bill Turnbull, Don Digby and Roy Pearson had no control, they were not in the game, and the teams went to the grass with eleven men on each side. The contest was witnessed by some thousands of people who never paid less for more in their lives, for the game was good from the time Alderman Gray trotted on the field in an atrocious white sweater, followed by Tom Rennie in a still more violent blue one, until J. R. Payne, at the command of Harry Major, past master of the Ingersoll, pushed the button that rang the bell that ended the game that amused the crowd that did not pay one measly cent to see it all.

But the game: C. Smith dirtied the score board in less than a minute. That does not mean to say that Churg spread the entrails of one of the Foreigners over the board in question, but merely that he scored a goal on one of the neatest shots ever imagined by Con Jones after he has smoked seven Beaver cigars and had a drink of Premier beer.

Smith did the daring deed before any of the spectators had time to get a line on the players, but after he was through taking off his hat to the cheering crowds there was a long scoreless period in which things could be sized up.

It was supposed to be a match between the defence and home of the seniors, but for a time the Native Son defence surprised themselves by good work, and the regular home could not make an impression. With Sandy Gray as the kingpin of the defence and Hughie Gifford and Warwick playing in front of him, the two Springs and Latham circled around in vain.

At the other end of the field, Kenny, Smith and Swanson, the intermediate home, backed up by Len Turnbull, Feeney and Wintemute, had the Newcomers guessing all the time. But after more than half the quarter had passed in this wise and Punk Wintemute had scored another goal, the tide turned. George Rennie scored and twenty seconds later Grumpy Spring duplicated, tieing the score.

In the second quarter the Newcomers found their gait and put four goals past Coutts at intervals of about three minutes. Len Turnbull saved the Native Sons from annihilation by scoring one just about one second before time.

In the third quarter things were exactly reversed and the Native Sons scored four while the Newcomers had to be content with one, thus tieing the score once more, seven all. In this quarter there was some mighty good lacrosse. There was an occasional bad pass, but there was some of the

VISITOR DROPS DEAD AT HARRISON SPRINGS

P. V. Johnson, of Seattle, Suddenly Expires, Likely From Heart Failure.

P. V. Johnson, of Seattle, dropped dead yesterday at Harrison Hot Springs. Mr. Johnson was a brother of F. Johnson, one of the sub-contractors on the C. N. R. grading across the river, and had been working with him and living at the Russell hotel here for some weeks.

On Tuesday, Mrs. Johnson not being well, Mr. Johnson started with her for Harrison Hot Springs, intending to leave her there for a week or two and come back to work. On Wednesday afternoon he dropped dead without warning.

The brotner was telephoned for from here, and he went to the Springs last night, but in the meantime, Mrs. Johnson had had the body taken here and the brother must have passed the dead body on the way. The remains are at present lying at W. E. Fales' morgue and they will probably be taken to Seattle for burial.

The late Mr. Johnson leaves a wife and several children. It is supposed that his death was caused by heart failure. He had never complained of feeling unwell and was a strong man.

CHILDREN'S HOAX MAKES FIREMEN COURT DEATH

Fibbing Youngsters Tell of Playmate Falling Through Manhole—Rescue Party Overcome by Gas.

New York, Aug. 31.—Ten Brooklyn firemen and policemen are under the care of surgeons after having nearly lost their lives as the result of being hoaxed by children.

The firemen were told by the children yesterday that one of their number, a little girl, had fallen through a manhole into a great sewer. The men organized a rescue expedition and went into the big pipe in search of the supposed missing child. They were overcome by the deadly sewer gases and were brought to the surface unconscious.

The children were badly frightened when they saw how seriously their "joke" was resulting for the victims.

ISLAND OF HAINAN A WHITE ELEPHANT

The Courier d' Haiphong devotes an articles to what French Indo-China spends on the island of Hainan. There is a doctor stationed at Hoihow, costing the French colony some 25,000 francs a year;, which in eight years has not yet produced any one capable of acting locally as an interpreter; a postoffice, costing 12,000 francs a year, and a subsidy of $12,000 a year for a steam launch service around the island.

The last is the only item of local interest. On this the writer says: This subsidy of $12,000 a year was granted, quite ten years ago, to a Chinaman naturalized as a French citizen, for important services that he rendered (as cook I believe) to a former French minister in Siam.

Since this subsidy was granted it has changed hands several times, but none of the holders has succeeded in showing that it serves a useful purpose. The object of the article is to induce the government to retrench on this expenditure in Hainan.

CHINESE AWAKENING TO POTENTIALITIES

Returned Resident Speaks of Great Change—Adopting Modern Conveniences.

Sir Robert Bredon, acting inspector general of Chinese customs, now in England on a holiday, speaks of the many psychological, social and industrial changes taking place within the Celestial empire. "China," he says, "is indeed changing, but as to the future, who knows. I, for one, have no prophesies to offer, but this much is obvious to any recent student of Chinese affairs, that the world at large cannot continue to treat as a negligible quantity either politically or industrially, a homogeneous race of 400,000,000 human beings, a large percentage of whom are now fully alive to the potentialities of their race and country.

"Since I went out in 1897 practically a new Pekin has arisen. Equally remarkable have been some of the changes in the outlook, and habits of the people since the Boxer rising and the Russo-Japanese war. A considerable portion of the capital is now in process of rebuilding after the style of up-to-date European models, and the old, unpaved, methitic thoroughfares are giving way to spacious macadamized roads, lighted by electricity in place of the old-fashioned and almost useless oil lamps. An adequate and pure water supply on European lines has replaced the old surface wells.

"Again, the sedan chair is being superseded among the wealthy Chinese by the use of broughams drawn by splendid horses of Australian breed, and several thousand rickshaws have largely taken the place of mule and donkey traffic. This, of course, has necessitated the reorganization of the police force.

"The native press, too, is more active, and a large public is reached through the medium of several places which may be described as a sort of public reading room where the native journals are on view. In many other ways the Chinese are showing themselves what may be termed permeable to western ideas. There is a new demand for schools with a more extensive and liberal curriculum. Much illiteracy, of course, prevails among the lower classes, but among the upper and educated classes—whose intelligence is, to my mind, unequalled—there is a recognition of the value and the power of western knowledge.

Confucianism and the classics are still read and expounded with unbounded love for the Chinese have a great respect for their great national literature, but it is felt that, a more scientific and commercial education is needed. The educational movement is only a matter of time. There is, for instance, the case of a lady, the wife of a Mongol prince, who has at least fifty Chinese girls in a private school she maintains.

"Equally significant is the movement against the use of opium which is now being conducted in most of the provinces. Many classes of Chinese now recognize the evil of opium-smoking, and would like to see the practice diminished and finally extinguished. There is not much opium exported to the foreign countries. It is mostly an inter-provincial trade and from reports which I recived before I am of opinion that all the provinces are making an effort to deal with the opium problems.

"It is quite remarkable to see the way in which the Chinese have adapted themselves to the more rapid modes of transit, and have come to see their importance for commercial purposes. Most of the railways are in Chinese hands, and they are doing very well. Everywhere markets are being opened up for agricultural produce. As an instance, on the northern railways I am told that the collection of freight on the one item of cabbage alone was $20,000. Not long ago this vegetable rotted in large quantities simply because there were no means of finding a market for it. In the same way the growth of the fruit business in Northern China has made great progress. Trade at Hankow has been enormously increased since the town became a railway center. In certain districts the Chinese show a tendency to make railways for themselves. A great deal of iron used in the construction of the railways is produced in China."

THIS LITTLE MAN IS HUMAN MEGAPHONE

San Francisco, Aug. 31.—Harry White, arrested for vagrancy by Patrolman James Cullinane, has a voice that would have excited the envy of Stentor himself. When Police Judge Conlan called the name of White, reading from his calendar, the voice responded "Here" with such volume that the magistrate wheeled about in his chair to gaze into the dock. Even the prisoners were startled and craned their necks backward to look at a diminutive, sunken-cheeked individual, who stood with his hands on the back of the rear bench.

"Was it you that said 'Here?'" asked Judge Conlan, perplexed.

The response caused Judge Conlan to remark: "That settles it. You're a human megaphone."

"He was in a shed," said Patrolman Cullinane, "and he was talking to himself. I thought he was speaking through a megaphone. He was sitting in this old tool shed and talking about fate, but the rafters fairly shook."

"M yvoice has always got me into trouble," began White in such a tone, that Stenographer Drew placed his hands to his ears.

"Never mind," said Judge Conlan, "leave out the rest of it. I will decide your case tomorrow."

NOVEL SCHEME TO MAKE EAST WARM

Asserted Gulf Stream Can be Made to Warm Much of the Coast.

New York, Aug. 31.—A geographical expert who has made a special study of the ocean currents and streams believes he has found a way to utilize the tremendous energies of the Rockefeller foundation to good advantage and in such a way that the major portion of the advantage need not accrue to the benefit of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey and elsewhere.

His scheme is to cut a great channel from the Bay of Fundy to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. He says that if the Rockefeller foundation is put to that use it will put New England in the sub-tropical class and set palm trees waving their fronded tops where the oak and the pine and the sugar maple now breast the boreal blast. He says that then the banana will thrive on Boston common, that the pineapple may become the staple product of the Nutmeg state, and that the palmetto will grow in Battery park.

Not So Wild.

And the scheme is not so wild as it sounds.

The course of ocean currents is determined by the conformation of the land whose shores they wash. To the peculiar shape of the north Atlantic seaboard is attributed the fact that England, with the latitude of Labrador, is really a warmer place than New England with the latitude of Spain. Change the contour of your seaboard and you change the ocean currents.

The gulf stream is caused by the revolution of the earth. The earth revolves towards the east and the water naturally piles up at the equator and along all eastern seaboards. Consequently there are streams flowing from the equator northward and southward along those eastern seaboards, because of course the piled up water must run somewhere. The gulf stream caught by the sloping north coast of South America as by a funnel dives into the Gulf of Mexico, and having nowhere else to go rushes swiftly out into the Atlantic again through the gap between Cuba and Florida, and thus up along the Atlantic coast.

Now, as is well known the highest tides in the world are in the Bay of Fundy. The coast of New England and the coast of Nova Scotia form a funnel that concentrates the tide and drives it with a rush into a place from which there is no escape. So in the cul-de-sac of Funday the tide sometimes rises upwards of seventy feet.

The dead water caught in this funnel with the stopped up spout serves to push the gulf stream still farther from the course it takes from Cape Hatteras.

But if the funnel were opened—that is to say if the Rockefeller foundation for instance could be persuaded to cut the Bay of Fundy through into the Gulf of St. Lawrence and maybe if the straits of Fundy—then there would be a rush of waters that, like some other persons and things could not "come back." At least most of the water couldn't come back. They would be swept out on the ebb from the great river and back to the ocean another way.

Thus each day the gulf stream would be sucked toward the Atlantic coast and the cold waters of the Arctic current would have to dive to the bottom of the ocean sooner than they now do. And thus might bananas be persuaded to grow on Boston common and palm trees on Battery park.

TOO WORRIED BY MEN, GIRL DONS BOY'S CLOTHES

New York, Aug. 31.—Certainly there was no suggestion in the appearance of little Flora Landon in the Florence Crittenden mission today, as she tearfully told of her experiences of the last two months in masquerading as a man in New York that would lead anyone to believe she could be successful in the deception for a minute. Yet she had held several positions posing as a man. She was a waiter, an amateur detective, and grocer's delivery boy, and no one had directly accused her of the imposture.

She was taken to the night court by Detective Robert Geary, to whom she had appealed for aid. When asked by Magistrate House why she preferred boy's attire to that of her own sex, this is the story she told:

"No girl who has a pretty face or a bit of a figure can work independently for a living in New York and escape being annoyed to desperation by the men, unless she happens to be without feelings or is used to it from childhood. American men, especially those who have no home and have to dine at restaurants, are terrible. They worry a girl nearly to death. They are not like that in England. I think it is the lack of home life in New York that is to blame for this.

"It is because I was insulted and worried so by men until I could stand it no longer that I have had all this trouble. All I wanted was to be let alone so that I could earn my living in peace, but I found the independence of the working woman in America, of which I had heard so much at home, was a fairy tale. So I decided that the only way I could get the protection I wanted was to dress as a man. Now all I want is to get back to England. I will never leave England again.

"I have a good home in London," Miss Landon said, "and as soon as I am clear of this trouble I shall return immediately to my parents there."

BANKERS: MERCHANTS BANK OF CANADA, NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C.

The above company was formed in February of this year, and duly registered under the Company's Act of 1897, with the main object of acquiring properties in New Westminster's beautiful suburb of Edmonds, upon the Burnaby Heights, and developing and building upon same.

The settler or the investor has only to glance at the general development of Edmonds within the last twelve months and to note in particular the work accomplished by the Edmonds Development Company in the district, to see at a glance where lies the choicest field in the neighborhood of New Westminster for safe investment and splendidly situated and healthy residence.

Whilst the Edmonds Development Company is in the best sense of the word a co-operative foundation, and considers the claims of its investors as prior to all others, where the development of property by means of the company's funds is sought; it takes also into the fullest consideration the claims of the settler who wishes to acquire property in the neighborhood, or, having land, wishes to build a home thereon.

Those operations in realty and construction which the Edmonds Development Company has already undertaken in Burnaby during the current year, have shown a net return to investors, upon the capital subscribed to date, of over 25 per cent., and during the seven months of the Company's active existence they have acquired at cheap cost some very valuable permanent assets in the district, among which may be mentioned that splendidly situated triangular business lot at the junction of the Vancouver and Edmonds roads, and bungalow sites upon the latter highway.

With the object of immediately extending the field of the Company's operations, the Directors of the Edmonds Development Company, Ltd., now propose to place upon the market a further block of $10,000 worth of stock, and they look with confidence to residents of the districts of New Westminster and of Burnaby and Edmonds in particular, to respond in subscribing for shares in the Company.

The stock of the Edmonds Development Company has never been advertised or "boomed." The occasion for such has never arisen. The corporation has hitherto gone smoothly along, making interest quietly and steadily, and its directors have touched none but safe and profitable investments, whilst many of its shareholders have considerably increased their holdings.

Applications for stock may be made upon the following form, which should be cut out and forwarded to the undersigned:

THE DOMINIONS AND TREATY-MAKING POWER.

No diplomatic correspondence of more importance has been published for some years, says The Times, than that which has just appeared with respect to the treaty-making power affecting the self-governing Dominions. It was published the day after Empire Day, and although, like most official publications of this nature, it does not bring the history of the question with which it deals quite up to date, it contains enough to give food for very serious reflection to those who greatly prize the unity of the Empire. We hail with pleasure every form of constitutional recognition of the great Commonwealths beyond the seas. They are free to grow in their own way, and it is the pride of the mother country to watch their rapid development along the lines of self-government in which she has preceded them. Every year brings fresh proof of the wisdom of the policy which has long governed the relations of the various parts of the Empire. Any deviation from that policy has long become impracticable, and we should be the last to counsel it, if such deviation or retrogression were possible. But the treaty-making power—that is, the regulation of the foreign affairs of the Empire—is a matter which stands by itself. It is essential, for many reasons, including the interests of the Dominions themselves, that it should be lodged in the hands of the sovereign; the value in practice of this constitutional principle is recognized by all colonial statesmen who have had actual experience of diplomatic negotiation with foreign powers, and in itself it presents no difficulty. The Canadian, the Australian, the South African, or the New Zealand government is as much His Majesty's government as the British government; they can all negotiate with equal right, if not with equal authority, in the King's name. The practical question of authority is, however, of paramount importance. It is manifest that their individual authority is not equal to their joint authority, and that the preservation unimpaired of their joint authority must depend in the long run upon the maintenance, in all questions of importance, of a single channel of communication between themselves and foreign governments. Such a channel already exists in the British government, which for the present not only has the wider outlook and longer experience, but also takes the main risk in all diplomatic embarrassments. What is required is the gradual broadening of this channel, to represent more fully than at present, and as fully as possible, the views of all His Majesty's governments; but it is very essential that all development in the transition period should be directed to the broadening of the existing channel, and not to the creation of others. It would be a mistake to seek to lay down any hard-and-fast rule or prematurely to attempt to settle a matter which good sense has so far dealt with satisfactorily. "Fata viam invenient." It would be no less unfortunate if it were taken for granted that a well recognized constitutional principle must be treated as in any way obsolete, or should be still further rapidly relaxed.

The correspondence testifies to a somewhat remarkable development in a few years of diplomatic usage and etiquette. There has grown up a wholesome practice of recognizing the separate and independent interests of dominions and colonies in regard to commercial conventions. It is usual, in any commercial treaty between Great Britain and a foreign power, to provide that it shall bind only those colonies which adhere to it, and those which do so may by giving twelve months' notice terminate their adhesion. Often there is a stipulation in conventions that they shall apply only to those colonies on whose behalf a notice has been given by the mother country. We recall these facts as indicative of the frank recognition on the part of the Imperial government for many years past of the right of the self-governing dominions to give full effect to the fiscal systems which they see fit to establish and to employ the services of their own statesmen and officials in negotiations on matters with which they themselves are primarily concerned. At present no colonial statesman of eminence gives utterance to the constitutional heresies which Mr. E. Blake some years ago enunciated as to the right of the colonies to negotiate independently; nor is there any general desire for separate action. But, in spite of that there is a certain tendency to separate action, which arises simply from the fact that joint action, although generally more satisfactory in its results, is always a little more cumbrous and exacting for those who are actually engaged in negotiation. This difficulty has been very greatly reduced of late. The British embassy, for instance, during recent negotiations between Canada and the United States, has placed itself unreservedly at the disposal of the Canadian representatives, and has made a practice of sending all despatches in duplicate simultaneously to Ottawa and Westminster. When so much has already been done we have the right to expect that colonial ministers, on their side, will show a careful and even jealous regard for the necessities of a period of transition, and will not allow themselves, in pursuit of temporary convenience or advantage, to weaken or impair a course of procedure essential to the end which they and we have equally at heart. There is no statesmanship without patience.

VISITS HUNGARIAN COLONISTS.

Baron Yossika May Institute Colonization Scheme From Austria.

Winnipeg, Aug. 31.—Baron Yossika, of Budapesth, a prominent member of the Hungarian nobility, arrived in Winnipeg yesterday from the east on a trip of inspection of the Hungarian colonies of western Canada, and before he returns expects to visit a large number of settlers from Hungary who are settled in many parts of the west.

It is understood that on his return to Hungary, Baron Yossika will make detailed reports as to the progress of Hungarians in Canada, and if these prove favorable, an extensive colonization scheme will be entered into by which thousands of families from that country will be assisted to settle on lands in the west. Baron Yossika will go west tonight, his first call being on the Hungarian colony west of Yorkton.

CHANCE IS BEST PAID OF ALL BALL PLAYERS

The Leader of the Cubs Makes About $25,000 a Year Out of the American National Pastime.

The fan is always deeply interested in the salaries paid baseball players, and the estimates made usually are above the actual figures. The higher figures sound better.

As a matter of fact, club owners are loth to mention the actual amounts paid, not so much because they do not wish the public to know—unless, perchance, the figures are niggardly—but because of the dissatisfaction that might follow among the other members of the team.

Of all the men actually playing the game, eliminating Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, who owns stock in the club, Frank Chance, manager of the Cubs, is considered to be far and away above all other active players in his earnings from baseball. This, too, is because Chance also is a stockholder in the Chicago club, owning a one-tenth interest.

Chance's Deal.

Prior to the season 1909, Chance received a salary of $5000 a year, which was augmented by his dividends and the share of one player in post-season and exhibition game receipts. Chance then signed a four-year contract at $7,500 a year; but a dispute arose between hi mand Charley Murphy, president of the club, and he announced that he would not play with the Cubs. A Chicago man was sent to California to arrange a truce between Chance and Murphy. One of the conditions of the truce was that no party to it should ever reveal the salary part of the deal, whether raised or continued the same. But with his dividends on his one-tenth interest, Chance earns between $20,000 and $30,000 a year, probably $25,000 a year on an average.

This one-tenth interest was obtained for Chance in the same manner in which Murphy obtained a majority of the stock. Charles P. Taft, brother of President Taft, loaned money to Murphy and Chance to buy the club, which was sold at the bargain price of $105,000 in 1905, a figure so small that several persons to whom the franchise was offered thought something was wrong and refused to consider it.

Kling Well Paid.

Because of the national commission decision in his case, sentencing him to play for his contract salary, it is known that Johnny Kling signed a three-year contract for $4,500. To this, of course, must be added what the players get from the post-season series, which, when played, may run up to $1,500 or $2,000 extra. Brown, overall, Tinker and Evers probably receive amounts varying from $4,000 to $5,000.

Fred Clarke, of the world's champion Pirates, is reputed to receive $12,500 annually for services as player and manager, while Wagner is called a $10,000 beauty, although it is not likely that figure is correct. Ty Cobb, of Detroit, gets the biggest salary in the American league.

The average player of experience on a winning club considers himself worth from $2500 to $3000, while one with pretentions to being a star estimates himself as worth from $3,500 to $5,000, depending on the club and his ability. This is good money for seven months of work, including the training season; more, probably, than the same players could average in other lines of endeavor. But the life of a ball player is short, club owners with winning teams are raking in enormous profits, and of sentiment there is little.

It is pretty safe to say that the players earn all they get.

GOLF CLUB.

Enthusiasts Discuss Proposal to Form Club with 650 Members.

The public golf meeting called for last night in the board of trade room was attended by a number of enthusiasts. J. H. Vidal occupied the chair and there were also present several men from Vancouver. A general discussion took place as to the best means of raising sufficient capital to secure a suitable course. It was proposed that two hundred life members be canvassed for; the first hundred who signified their intention of joining being asked to subscribe $100, payable $50 cash and balance at call; the second hundred $150. This would entitle them to all the privileges of the club during their life time. The total membership of the club to be 600 men and 150 ladies, the entrance fee and annual subscription for ordinary or non-life members to be decided on once the club is incorporated.

A committee of six was appointed pro tem comprising the following: C. H. Stuart Wade, J. H. Vidal, T. D. Sheriff, J. R. Duncan, New Westminster, and J. R. Brown and F. T. Furnivale, Vancouver.

Any one desiring further information relative to the scheme is requested to communicate with members of the committee.

It was moved by T. D. Sheriff and seconded by F. T. Furnivale that the meeting be adjourned to Vancouver, the date and place of meeting to be publicly announced at a later date.

Curtis Breaks Record.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 31.—Glenn Curtiss today established a new world's record for aeroplane flying when he flew from Euclid Beach, nine miles east of Cleveland, to Cedar Point, sixty miles, in one hour and nineteen minutes. It is the longest over water flight on record.

BALMORALS AND ALERTS WILL PLAY AT MISSION

Labor Day Celebration Committee Will Receive Baseball Visitors in Style on Monday.

Mission is to be a happy town on Monday, for a real baseball game is to be seen in that thriving burgh, the Alerts and the Balmorals having accepted an offer made by J. A. Bates on behalf of the Mission Labor Day celebration committee, to play off a league game in that city, the Missionites footing the travelling expenses and hard refreshment bill.

The game is to start at three o'clock in the afternoon, and is to be the feature of the day. The Bals and the Alerts have been playing well for some time and should put up a good exhibition.

W. E. Sinclair has been making the arrangements from this city, while J. A. Bates has represented Mission. Ernie forwarded a formal offer last week to play at Mission on Labor Day. This was discussed at a meeting of the celebration committee on Saturday and so heartily approved that the committee decided to meet the train in a body and give the boys a royal reception.

NATIONALS WANT LALLY TO REFEREE CUP GAMES

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—The Montreal Nationals, new champions of the N. L. U., forwarded their challenge yesterday to P. D. Ross, chairman of the board of Minto Cup trustees. They want to go to the coast in quest of the world's championship immediately, and have suggested September 17 and 25 as the most suitable dates for their games against the New Westminster team.

It is likely that the challenge will be accepted and the defending club requested to suggest dates after which the trustees will decide.

The Nationals also plead for an eastern official, alleging that it is impossible for a team from the N. L. U. to make a good showing under British Columbia officials. They suggest Joe Lally, who is now on his way west on business.

COLORADO E. BREAKS TWO WORLD'S RECORDS

Readville, Mass., Aug. 31.—Colorado E., owned by George H. Estabrook, of Denver, smashed the world's record for three year old trotters today at the grand circuit here by lowering the time of 2:06¾ to 2:06½ for one mile.

By winning the second of the American Horse Breeders' futurity in 2:07¾, he also made a new record for two consecutive heats. It was a misty feat, as wind was blowing almost a gale in the face of the homestretch. He did the quarter in 32 seconds, the half in 1:03¼ and the three-quarters in 1:33¼.

Another Montreal Whine.

Montreal is now feeling the effects of the Minto Cup trip in the tremendously stiff series of games they are running into. It looked, after the August 6 game with Toronto, as if the cup trip had not hurt the team, but last Saturday's affair has changed that view somewhat.—Montreal Gazette.

Strange how the more time rolls on, the worse the Montreals feel. In another hundred years the players will all be dead, probably as a result of the Minto Cup matches.

Bundy Winner at Tennis.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 31.—T. C. Bundy today won the intermountain tennis championship in singles.

They'll Enjoy It.

Now the National lacrosse team is going to come out after the Minto Cup. They will probably enjoy the scenery.—Calgary Herald.

Game Law Violated.

Victoria, Aug. 31.—From several localities on Vancouver Island, notably in the vicinity of Nanaimo, and about Sooke Lake, reports are coming to hand of general and wanton violation of the game law, particularly in the premature shooting of the grouse. In the Sooke Lake district several promising conveys have been quite extinguished during the past week or two.

World's Champion Dish Washer.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Joseph Vogel met and defeated Mrs. Mary Nelson, the Clark Station, Ind., champion dishwasher, in a contest for the middle west championship. Vogel washed and dried 200 dishes in thirteen minutes and nineteen seconds. Mrs. Nelson's time was fifteen minutes. Vogel has issued a challenge to the world.

neatest combination work ever seen on Queens park. One of the sights of the evening was the way in which Hughie Gifford beat his brother down the field after Tom had carried the ball to the Native Son end. Kenny starred in this quarter.

In the last the game see-sawed up and down and caused the crowd to gasp at the rate of about three gasps to the minute, but there was no score for ten minutes. Then Grumpy Spring annexed the ball and rolled it in for the final tally.

By the time Spring scored it was getting dark, but the play did not relax. It was Tommie Gifford's ambition to score a goal before time was called and the ball was given to him time after time, but he could not make it go. Just before time Jimmy Gifford attracted the only penalty of the game for tripping. He was sent off for the rest of the game by Tom Rennie, but instead of going to the fence, he took up his stand behind the Native Son goal. When the ball came down and there seemed to be a good chance for a goal he scragged Coutts and dragged him off into the field. In the excitement the ball went into the net. Jimmy was chased off the field by an infuriated mob and the referee declared that the goal would not count.

MINE INTERESTS IN KOOTENAY ARE MERGED

Forty Claims Consolidated by Merger of Hall Mining Co. and Kootenay Development Syndicate.

Nelson, Aug. 31.—The largest and most important mining merger ever consummated in the Kootenays has just been made public. Practically the whole of Toad mountain is included in the properties consolidated, comprising the total assets of the Hall Mining & Smelting Co., Ltd., now owned by trustees of the debenture holders, and the assets of the Kootenay Development Syndicate, Ltd., which company had these properties under lease. The whole comprises forty mineral claims or about 15,000 acres of mineral land, in addition to the smelter, tramway, electric power lines and plant equipment. The names of the purchasers and the price is withheld for the present.

The deal was consummated through Attorneys Lennie & Wragge here.

An exceptionally strong group of Pacific coast capitalists are interested in the big deal.

Mr. Hyman's Injuries Serious.

London, Ont., Aug. 31.—Hon. C. S. Hyman, who was injured when his auto collided head-on with a street car, spent a very restless night, and the attending physicians fear internal injuries but are of the opinion that they may not prove serious. Mr. Hyman lost two teeth and sustained a cut about the head.

Woman Kills Lion.

Chico, Cal., Aug. 31.—Miss Mamie Avilla, a young huntress, whose deeds are celebrated in Butte county, was stalking deer on a forest ridge near here yesterday. Looking up, she saw a few yards away a big lion glaring as it crouched on a branch. Taking aim she fired and the lion leaped screaming to the earth. The single shot had inflicted a fatal wound.

GAIN OF ONE MILLION IS SHOWN EACH MONTH

Dominoin Customs Receipts Reach $6,479,795 for Month of August—Big Increase Over 1909.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—The customs receipts for the Dominion continue to maintain their increase of over a million dollars per month over the corresponding months last year.

If the present rate of increase is maintained the collections for the year will easily lead those of the previous twelve months, which constituted a record year by from thirteen to fifteen million dollars.

For the first five months of the fiscal year the collections have been $29,091,605, an increase of $5,747,994 over the same period last year. For the month of August alone the collections were $6,479,795, an increase of $1,139,388 over August, 1909.

Republican Leaders Pleased.

Lawrence, Kas., Aug. 31.—Progressive Republican leaders in the state were enthusiastic in their approval of Colonel Roosevelt's speech at Osawatomie today. They declared that it meant much for them in Kansas and that its effect would be felt all over the nation.

ALL COMERS WELCOME IF THEY KNOW FARMING

Canada Safe in Taking Agricultural Settlers From All Parts of Europe.

Toronto, Aug. 31.—Col. Andrew D. Davidson is back in Toronto again after six months in Europe. Col. Davidson is the man who invented the phrases that have made Canada a household word among the nations. "The breadbasket of the world" was one of Col. Davidson's many inspirations. It was he who gave the hail for "the last west-"

But if Col. Davidson is a phraseur, he is by no means a poseur. No man works harder. No man is more unassuming. No man gets more real business through his hands. You might think that his position as head of the Canadian Northern Immigration department was enough for one man. Not a bit of it, when the man is a man like this Irish-Scotch Canadian. Men with this pedigree are always whales for work, and Col. Davidson is a whole shoal.

Davidson in Many Concerns.

He is in the Saskatchewan Elevator company, the Western Canada Flour Mills, Ltd., the Virginia and Rainy Lake railway and Lumber company, the Zenith Furnace company, the Great Lakes Dredging company, the Fraser River Lumber company, the Anacortes Lumber and Box company, the Canadian Loans and Securities company, the Winnipeg Insurance and Vessel agency, the Canadian Northern Prairie Land company, the Davidson & McRae stock farm, the largest in Minnesota, and after all these he is president of ten banks. And they say he has more standing timber in his holdings than any man in America.

But the biggest thing Col. Davidson has done was to cut the first channel in the sluice through which Uncle Sam's best farmers are now pouring over into the northwest. How he started that stream is now a matter of history. It is not difficult to see that immigration is after all, his pet study.

"Yes," he said yesterday, "I have been out in the west and I have spent six months on the continent of Europe and in England. We will have close to 150,000 from the States this year and also a large immigration from Europe."

In reply to a question he uttered one of those illuminating statements which do away with columns of argument.

"It seems to me that we are quite safe in taking settlers from any part of Europe where agriculture is the principal part of the business of the people who come to us." Here is the whole immigration question in a sentence. Unless land is developed Canada can have no future. The people who must do the developing are to be had from the agricultural areas.

The Biggest Yet.

Col. Davidson expects the coming year to be the largest for immigration in the history of the country. With regard to the assimilation of the people he thinks Canada is to be congratulated on the remarkable success of the governments of the country in being able to deal with the numerous foreigners coming in.

"I have information from a reliable source in Saskatchewan that of the foreigners coming in there in the last five years over 85 per cent of those eligible have taken advantage of it and became citizens. The province of Saskatchewan has several members either in the provincial or dominion parliaments who came from the United States in the last ten years. It is true that some are repatriated Canadians, but it is also true that some of them held office in the United States."

"We think it is wiser," said the colonel, taking up another point, "not to form colonies of any one nationality. Settlements are more progressive and contented and on the whole get on better when they are formed from those of different countries. To men from the old country this may be a little more lonesome at first, but it has the advantages of experience with settlers from countries where similar conditions prevail.

Will Work the Railways.

"The crop acreage in the west is fully some 2,000,000 greater than in 1909," declared Col. Davidson, when this topic was introduced. "Consequently I think the west will harvest as much crop this year as last, and at equally good prices. This means that the railways will have as much grain to move as last year, and with coal, lumber, and other merchandise as much or more than last year, as we have nearly 300,000 more people there now than before."

"I think large immigration to British Columbia will develop next season. The rich lands in the valleys of that province offer special inducements to men who want to go into farming in a small way—market gardening and fruit farming, for which there is a good market in the prairie provinces and the Pacific coast cities. The settlers from Great Britain seem well pleased with the climate and with other conditions in British Columbia, for the reason that they are more accustomed to small farms in Great Britain than with the vast areas occupied by famers in the prairie provinces.

Labor In Demand.

"With regard to labor, everything points to great numbers of people being required. The railways need a large amount of labor and the lumber and mining companies are developing their properties. I presume 20,000 men could find employment on the farms of Canada, so that conditions in Canada are very favorable to good, strong, able-bodied men who know how, and who are willing to work. In fact, I cannot remember any time when conditions were more favorable to laboring people. The lumbering and mining interests in British Columbia are paying higher wages than anywhere in the United States, and even at that labor is difficult to obtain.

"While I am not much of an advocate of assisted immigration from the old land, still conditions are such in Great Britain that there is a vast difference in the man who has been assisted and the man who has been receiving money from the poor rates. The assisted man may have been out of employment for three or four months.

Assisted Man Is All Right.

"I made quite a study of this class of immigrant in Great Britain, and took pains to meet hundreds of them, and I must confess most of them were fine, strong, able-bodied men, just such as we need in Canada to go on government lands or to take employment.

"While I was abroad I visited England, Ireland, Scotland, Holland, France, Austria and Germany. There is a large immigration from Austria, Hungary, Poland and Finland. These people have made very good settlers in the United States, and we have found them a quite desirable class of settlers in western Canada."

And then Col. Davidson turned to six months' arrears of correspondence, most of which it is to be hoped would answer itself.

FIGURES ARE GIVEN FOR THREE NAVIES

Great Britain Allays Alarm by Comparison With Germany and United States

London, Aug. 31.—England has her full share of alarmists who are vociferously confident that it is only a question of time when a German fleet will sail up the Thames and blow down Westminster hall, or a German army descends on the coast and devours the country, or a fleet or flock or whatever an aggregation of airships may be called, fly across the North sea and, amidst a shower of bombs, obliterate England from the map.

These wails are generally loudest around election time, but even now Lord Charles Beresford is insisting that Great Britain shall lay down twelve super-Dreadnoughts at once so that the integrity of the empire may be preserved.

As a rule the government does not worry about these alarms. Occasionally, however, a few figures are given out to keep John Bull from becoming too greatly frightened. Thus, Mr. McKenna, first lord of the admiralty, has just issued the following comparison of the displacement tonnage of effective fighting ships in the navies of Great Britain, Germany and the United States:

Year—	Britain. Tons.	Germany. Tons.	U. S. Tons.
1900	1,889,614	293,461	209,300
1906	1,891,307	441,656	476,276
1907	1,885,966	447,820	547,222
1908	1,934,368	538,714	629,747
1909	2,046,126	544,073	706,107

From 1906 onwards only first-class ships are counted.

SAW PASSION PLAY.

Capt. Hart-McHarg Says It Is a Most Wonderful Spectacle.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—"One of the most wonderful things I ever saw." This is the way Capt. Hart-McHarg, of Vancouver, describes the passion play at Oberammergau. Captain Hart-McHarg, who was in England this year with the Bisley team, went over to Germany after the meeting, and in the course of his short trip through that country, went to the little village of Oberammergau, where the most famous play in the world is having its decennial performance. He is shooting this week at the D. R. A. meet.

To a reporter Captain Hart-McHarg described the play, illustrating his remarks with a mass of pictures which he had brought back with him.

"I went there in a spirit of curiosity," he said. "But I came away very much impressed. The play is produced in a sort of open-air theatre. The people sit in a long building, the stage end of which is open. Thus, while the audience is under cover, the players are working in the open air.

"What impresses one most is the extreme devotion which is exhibited by the players. There was not a jarring note in the whole performance. If the language spoken was not German, you could easily imagine that you were looking at the actual scenes that are being represented."

"Do you think the play has an actual religious value to the spectators, apart from the players themselves?" he was asked.

"Most certainly people don't go there originally to get good out of it; but it cannot fail to inspire a feeling of reverence for the religion of which it is the expression, and of which the scenes it represents are the basis.

"The reality of the thing is most impressive. There is no make up. The men and boys who are to take part let their hair start to grow a year before the time for the play. Then they are a very good living people, very simple in their habits, and comparatively untouched by the world, in their little village among the mountains. Their very expression of countenance give a reality to the performance, which I doubt could be obtained anywhere else in the world. It is with them a religious ceremony, and despite the crowds that go there to see it, the players continue to treat it as such."

MUSICIAN ACTS DETECTIVE.

Locates Three Robbers Who Stole His Beloved Instrument.

Kansas, City, Aug. 31.—Out in his little cottage near the suburbs of the city, M. V. Wandell, an aged musician, today mourns the loss of his violin more than he has at any time since it was stolen from him a year ago. Yesterday he located the thief and last of the men who stole the instrument and from the thief's lips came the story that his two partners had told that the violin had been destroyed.

The instrument was more than 150 years old and had been handed down to the musician by his ancestors. He played for a living and to him there was no music so sweet as that which the beloved violin gave forth. The robbers set upon him one night and tore his instrument from his arms. He remembered their faces and located all of them unaided.

Hamilton Denied Injunction.

New York, Aug. 31.—The petition of Charles K. Hamilton, the aviator, for a preliminary injunction to restrain Glenn H. Curtiss from interfering with his contracts for flying exhibitions was denied today by Judge Lacombe in the United States court. Hamilton complained that Curtiss blocked him in his arrangement for giving flying exhibitions at the San Francisco and Harvard aeronautical meetings.
