YOUNG TURKS GIVE PRAISE TO CHURCH

RETURNED MISSIONARY DESCRIBES CONDITIONS IN OTTOMAN EMPIRE—GREAT PROGRESS UNDER NEW REGIME.

After spending seven years laboring as a missionary in Asia Minor, Rev. H. M. Irwin, a former pastor of Knox church, Sapperton, is back in this city on a short visit, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kennedy, of Sapperton. On Sunday evening Mr. Irwin will occupy his old pulpit and will preach once again to his old congregation.

Before returning to Winnipeg, where he plans to spend most of his furlough, Mr. Irwin will visit Vancouver, Victoria, Nanaimo and Prince Rupert, the last named a city which has sprung into existence and grown to good sized proportions during his absence from Canada.

Seen by a News representative at Mr. Kennedy's home yesterday evening, Mr. Irwin discussed interestingly the questions of paramount importance in Turkey at the present time. Leaving here in 1903 after a year's pastorate at Knox church, he made the long journey to Cesarea, the centre of Asia Minor, two hundred miles northeast of Koni (the city of Iconium in the days of the Apostle Paul), making his headquarters there with the other Presbyterian missionaries.

Development of Turkey.

For the first five years of Mr. Irwin's stay in the Ottoman empire, the progress in all branches of public life was slow, owing to the Sultan's policy of suppression and inactivity, but with the accession to power of the Young Turks two years ago a great change has come over the country, and immence strides are now being made towards a civilization that will compare favorably with that of the more advanced nations of Europe.

Five Great Things.

In answer to a question Mr. Irwin summarized the progressive policy of the Young Turks as follows:

Constitutional government.
Freedom of the press.
Freedom of speech.
Security of life and property.
Freedom of travel.

A better educational system was also noted, but this was really an improvement on old conditions, and not strictly an innovation.

Praises the Missionaries.

"Much of the credit for the reforms now being worked out in Turkey must be given to the missionaries," remarked the returned worker. "This is well expressed in the words of Tahir Bey, one of the leaders of the Young Turk party, who, when called upon to speak at a public meeting over which one of our missionaries presided last year, laid his hand on the white man's shoulder as he remarked:

"Friends, it is to these men that we owe the success which has attended our efforts to secure a constitutional form of government. They brought schools to this country; in self defence the other religions and sects had to follow, first the Armenian, then the Greek, then away behind, but forced to it at last, the Turk. And once we secured education we understood what we had been pining for, for centuries, and we understood how to go about in order to secure it, and we did it."

What "Freedom of Travel" Is.

Defining freedom of travel, Mr. Irwin explained that under the old regime it was necessary for travellers to procure passports in order to be able to move from one part of the country to another, these being only procurable at considerable expense and with the aid of corruption and bribery, long delays being usually the rule before the necessary permit was forthcoming. Now an application for a passport and the payment of a small fee is all that is necessary. No class distinction is drawn and the utmost freedom prevails.

Successful Church Work.

The Presbyterian church has at present 52,000 adherents in Asia Minor, 14,000 of these being members of the church. There are 48,000 pupils in the schools and colleges under the care of the missionaries. The church has been working in the Ottoman empire for about ninety years now, but it is only during the past sixty years that noticeable progress has been made. The biggest strides, of course, have been during the past decade.

Industrial Development.

As showing the industrial development of the country, Mr. Irwin instanced the building of railways, wagon roads, and the planning of large irrigation works in Mesopotamia, the latter under the supervision of Wilcox, the English engineer who supervised the building of the world famous Assouan dam. The irrigation scheme will entail an expenditure of 39,000,000 lire, and will occupy several years to complete. A lire is approximately $4.20 in Canadian money.

AVIATION RECORD.

Aviators in Texas Travel 106 Miles in Two Hours and Seven Minutes.

Laredo, Texas, March 4.—A world's aviation record was smashed yesterday afternoon at Eagle Pass, where Lieutenant Fowler, of the U. S. army, and Aviator Parmalee travelled 106 miles in two hours and seven minutes. Their machine was under perfect control all the time.

Rioting Is Over.

Springhill, N. S., March 3.—Following the riots of yesterday comparative quiet prevailed at the mines today. Manager Sharpe has been arrested for inciting to riot. The strike of the miners is now eighteen months old.

MANITOBA VISITOR.

Former Liberal M. P. Plans to Make Westminster His Home.

John Crawford, a former Liberal member in the Manitoba legislature, was a visitor in the city yesterday and whilst here was the guest of E. J. Boughen and F. B. Ennis, who escorted him round. The Easterner was surprised at the size of this city and expressed himself in terms of the highest praise for all he had seen. Before departing for Vancouver, which he will visit prior to the last stage of his journey to the east, Mr. Crawford gave it out that when he had settled up all his business in his home town, he would make Westminster his headquarters in the not far distant future.

It is his intention to invest in real estate in this region as, being a farmer of more than local standing in his part of the Dominion, he feels that this province is just the thing for him.

Mr. Crawford was an interested visitor at the city markets in the early morning and interviewed many of the farmers from the outlying district, gathering facts and figures which may come in handy for future references.

SCOTSMEN IN CANADA.

Work of Pioneers to Be Shown at the National Exhibition at Glasgow.

London, March 3.—How intimately the Scottish race has been associated with the development of Canada will be shown by the Canadian section of the Scottish exhibition which opens at Glasgow in May. Speaking to your correspondent, the secretary of the exhibition said that nearly every phase of Scotch-Canadian history would be represented.

"The landing in Nova Scotia of the earliest Scotch emigrants from the brig Hector, will recall the early struggles of the virile men who people the new Scotland and whose energy has been so much responsible for the prosperity of the province," he said.

"A life-size figure of William Davidson, the first lumberman in Canada, cutting masts for the British navy, will bring to mind the days—now, I hope, to be repeated—when New Brunswick built some of the 'wooden walls' of old England.

"Their military prowess will be brought home by a representation of the storming of the Heights of Quebec by the Fraser Highlanders and the great part these hardy pioneers played in developing the west will be portrayed in replica's of some of the actual scenes of the days of Lord Selkirk's colonists.

"The discovery of the Fraser river by Simon Fraser will represent part of Scotsmen's work in British Columbia, and a collection of Scotch relics and documents which is being gathered for this exhibition will prove the outstanding part of the Scotch have taken in the making of Canada."

Suffragettes Active.

Chicago, March 3.—Ninety Chicago women, prominent in club and social life, announced their intention yesterday of going to Springfield next Tuesday to work for the equal suffrage bill, which will be introduced in both houses of the legislature on that day. They will travel on a special train.

AUSTRIA IS RUSHING TROOPS TO THE BORDER

Relations Between Germany, Italy and Austria Are Strained Almost to the Breaking Point.

London, March 3.—The agitation in Italy to regain possession of Trieste and Trent from Austria took active form today when the government hurried troops and guns to the frontier Despatches today say Austria is also rushing troops toward the border.

Further evidence that the relations between Ausiria, Germany and Italy are strained is seen in the announcement that Emperors William and Francis Joseph will not visit King Emmanuel during the celebration of the jubilee of Italy's unification.

German Capitalists Plan Monopoly

Berlin, March 3.—German Capitalists are about to enter the Brazilian state of Sao Paulo in competition with British and American enterprises, with the design of ultimately ousting the latter and gaining a complete monopoly.

It was announced today that the "International Mining and Industrial company, of Erkelenz," which is a creation of the Deutsche bank and allied institutions, has obtained a concession for a line of railway, which would be the first of a net of railways with which it is planned to cover the state.

BILL MINER IS SENTENCED TO TWENTY YEARS IN PEN

Gainsville, Ga., March 4.—George Anderson, alias Bill Miner, who was arrested a few days ago in connection with the holding up of an express car on a Southern train at White Sulphur, was yesterday given a prison sentence of twenty years.

Miner's two companions were given sentences of fifteen years for complicity in the robbery.

The sentencing of Miner means that the notorious bandit will not be extradited to Canada, as would probably have been the case had the Georgia authorities been unable to secure a conviction.

Twenty years imprisonment is a long sentence to any man, but in the case of Miner it is equivalent to a life sentence, as the train robber is now about sixty-five years of age. With the record of crime that he has behind him, it is improbable that the convict will ever be granted liberty either on parole or ticket of leave, as his exploits of the past clearly prove that the man is unsafe to be at large.

If he lives long enough, and the Georgia penitentiary holds him until that time Miner will be free in 1931. He will then be liable to extradition for breaking away from the penitentiary in this city in 1907.

Miner is apparently a man fond of aliases. He was convicted here under the name of George Edwards, now he is sentenced as George Anderson. He has been known under many other names in this province and in the states. The name under which he has achieved world-wide notoriety, Mill Miner, is as false as the others he has used.

If Miner cared to tell the true story of his life, it would make mighty interesting reading.

TAFT, DISAPPOINTED, TO CALL EXTRA SESSION

American Senate Unlikely to Pass Reciprocity Agreement Without Being "Kept In."

Washington, March 4.—From the White House yesterday afternoon—almost from the lips of the president himself—came the announcement that Taft had abandoned all hope of the senate passing the Canadian reciprocity agreement at this session. The president is greatly disappointed at the failure, and is determined to call an extra session to provide time for a full discussion of the measure.

Ottawa, March 4.—Interest in the reciprocity agreement overshadowed everything else at the capital yesterday. The Conservative members openly express the hope that the American senate will shelve the measure, while the Liberals are disappointed at the almost certain prospect of the measure not going through without the necessity of an extra session.

WOULD PLACE EMPRESSES ON RUN TO WEST INDIES

Business Men Coming to Montreal from Islands to Induce C. P. R. to Better Steamer Service.

Montreal, March 4.—A party of representative business men from the West Indies will soon reach here to consult with the government and the C. P. R. authorities regarding the scheme which has been suggested that the C. P. R. place the Pacific Empresses on the Atlantic in the new service between Canada, Boston and the West Indies.

BOY SEEKS PROTECTION OF HISTORICAL MONUMENT

Denver, March 3.—George Allen, a nine-year-old boy of Sopris, Colo., made two speeches before the joint session of the Colorado legislature recently. His first address on the floor of the senate was an appeal from the boy scouts of Colorado praying for the passage of a bill protecting the historical monuments of the state.

Again he spoke before a senate committee in the presence of the boy scouts of the city. The senate chamber was crowded with interested listeners.

"This bill which is now before the legislature was drawn by the scouts of Sopris and Trinidad after destruction by boys and tourists of a monument to George Simpson, a pioneer," said the boy speaker. "George Simpson was a companion of Kit Carson, and, while travelling along the old Santa Fe trail one day, he was attacked by forty Indians. He fled to the top of a high mountain near where Trinidad now stands, and hid in a cave. When he died he asked that he be buried at the top of that mountain. Years later a monument was erected to his memory, and the place is now called Simpson's Rest. That monument has been destroyed by boys and tourists. It ought to be protected."

Relief for Chinese.

Seattle, March 3.—The army transport Buford will sail on Sunday morning with a full cargo for the famine sufferers in North China. The food has been almost entirely supplied by residents of Seattle.

TEMPERANCE REFORMER SPEAKS OF "DRY" BLAINE

Man Who Drove Drink from Border Town Anxious to See Westminster Banish the Bar.

The Rev. Clarence B. Seeley, of Blaine, delivered an address yesterday evening in the Olivet Baptist church on "Local Option and How It Affected Blaine." The audience, although meagre numerically, followed the remarks of the American, with the closest attention. Mr. Seeley at the beginning of his discourse asked the people to keep right on the track of the authorities and demand legislation on the much vexed question of the control of drink. Men might work single handed, but there would never be anything stirring until the municipalities took up the matter and as a community thrashed it out.

The speaker maintained that half a dozen men, backed by a saloon, could run any town and he asked that the Westminster residents become alive to the facts as presented to them every day and endeavor to stamp this awful curse from the temptations of those who fall easily.

The remarkable thing about the dry state of his city (Blaine) and for which he was given the credit, was that drunkards and tipplers signed the petition for the temperance party, giving as their version for the action that if drink was removed from their range, they would be quite content to go without it, and so it had proved. In further proof that dry towns make for the uplifting of a town he quoted instances of a number, where since they had become dry "sidewalks had been laid down, electric cars had been organized" and a number of other improvements made which had hitherto been neglected. A clean municipality was the finest advertisement any city, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, could have, and it had been a source of satisfaction to him and those who studied the liquor question that from that standpoint alone the argument was the strongest. In a city like Westminster, where land was being sold every day of the week, temperance would bring more buyers, who knowing that they were coming to a dry place, would the more readily invest their money.

"We on the American side of the line," said the speaker, "have every confidence in the people of British Columbia and we feel that they will, through their officials, carry out the promise made to us some time ago, to remove the place where drinks are sold, so very near Blaine. Immediately before the election which made Blaine dry, dry for ever, I hope, we were informed in the event of us carrying the day, that your officials would take the license away from that house which is on your side. Up to now that promise has not been kept, but we live in hopes that ere long this will be affected.

A number of questions were asked the speaker at the conclusion of his interesting talk and the answers proved that the temperance cause had a strong supporter in Mr. Seeley.

Engineers Protest.

El Paso, Texas, March 3.—American engineers in Mexico have protested to C. H. Hudson, vice-president of the Mexican National railways, against being ordered to run troop trains. Consular Agent C. V. Carothers, of Durango, has joined them in a protest.

Rebuild Capitol.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 3.—The state senate yesterday passed a bill submitting to the people at a special election, to be called by Governor Hadley, a proposition to vote $3,000,000 bonds for rebuilding the burned capitol here.

Cholera in Honolulu.

Honolulu, March 4.—Two more deaths have occurred from cholera, bringing the total since the epidemic started up to thirteen. Fifteen victims were reported to the authorities. It is believed the worst is now over.

PLEASES EASTERNER.

William T. Ramsay, who arrived in the city yesterday morning from St. John, N. B., speaks in glowing terms of Westminster as he has found it from a first impression. Mr. Ramsay comes to join the firm of Reid & Co., but yesterday put in his time assisting in the completing of A. S. Mill's new premises on Columbia street, which open tonight. As a window dresser Mr. Ramsay has gained name and fame in the east and it is in that branch of the dry goods business that he has come to this part, and in Westminster he intends to make his home.

In the course of a short conversation with the Daily News, Mr. Ramsay said he had often heard of this city, the lacrosse team having been the means whereby this place had become known in the far eastern point.

"I am surprised to see the facilities you already have and also the wonderful city this is. I am confident that if the people in my part of the country knew that Westminster was such a go-ahead city and so near to Vancouver many would quickly make this their home. I think I am safe in predicting for Westminster a glorious future."

CHINAMAN FREED.

The Chinese quarter was largely represented yesterday afternoon at Magistrate Pittendrigh's court when Wing Hong, who was charged last June with perjury, was, after a lengthy wait for the prosecution, ordered released from custody. Judge W. Norman Bole, K.C., who appeared for the Celestial, made out a strong case and the court, after a careful and judicial interval, signed the papers necessary for the freedom of the queue wearer.

Sixty seconds after an officer had been despatched with the papers to the pen, counsel for the prosecution arrived breathless from Vancouver and apologized to the court for the delay. Ways and means whereby a case could be brought against the by this time freed man were argued at length, but nothing of a definite nature was arrived at.

BARS FRIENDS AND FLOWERS AT FUNERAL

New York, March 3.—This was the letter left by David Nichols, who died at his home, No. 141 Wilson street, Williamsburg:

"I want no flowers at my funeral. I want no obituary notice in the newspapers, nor do I want any one outside of my immediate family and the few I have named here to know anything of my death. I have lived simply and apart from the world, never seeking publicity or notority, and it is my desire that my death should pass in the same manner, unnoticed, as I have been."

Mr. Nichols was eighty-one years old. While he lived at the Wilson street address for many years he scarcely ventured far from home after retiring from the wood engraving business.

DRINKS TO COST MORE IN TORONTO THE GOOD

Proposed Tax on Bar Earnings Over $40 a Day Furnishes Excuse for Increase in Price of Liquids.

Toronto, March 4.—Legislation introduced in the provincial house today to tax hotel bar earnings, over $40 a day, means that the price of drinks in this city and other parts of the province will be increased. Instead of the rule being two drinks for twenty-five cents, the tariff will in future be fifteen cents straight.

The temperance people, who will not be affected by the hoist in the cost of refreshers, have been instrumental in bringing the measure before the house.

$25,000 FIRE.

McLaughlin Carriage Co.'s Premises in Winnipeg Suffer Badly.

Winnipeg, March 4.—Fire yesterday afternoon did damage amounting from $20,000 to $25,000 in the McLaughlin Carriage company's premises at the corner of Ross and Princess streets.

The fire started in the elevator shaft and shot up three stories. The building was not badly damaged. Insurance is ample.

Receiver Appointed.

Santa Fe, N. M., March 3.—Judge John R. McFie yesterday appointed Charles Fastley receiver for the New Mexico Fuel & Iron company, upon application of its manager, W. H. Hopewell. The liabilities are $295,000 and no schedule assets is filed.

MCBRIDE HOLDS OUT NO HOPE FOR INDIANS

NINETY-SIX CHIEFS AND DELEGATES, REPRESENTING RED MEN OF B. C., GET NO ENCOURAGEMENT AT CAPITAL.

Victoria, March 4.—Ninety-six Indian chiefs and delegates from all parts of the province assembled in the capital yesterday and presented a memorial to the executive of the provincial government asking for the proprietary rights of all unsurrendered lands.

The spokesman of the party said:

"We wish to hear whether you claim this country of British Columbia belongs to you, or whether you are of opinion that it belongs to the Indians. If you, representing the white people of this province, lay claim to it, we wish to inform you we hold contrary opinions, and we desire to go to some big court house in order to get the matter settled."

Premier McBride, in his reply, informed the Indians that he did not believe they had any claim on the unsurrendered lands of the province.

DIPTHERIA OUTBREAK AT JOHNS HOPKINS

Baltimore, Md., March 3.—The diphtheria epidemic at Johns Hopkins hospital is spreading rapidly. Today there weresixty-eight cases in the institution, consisting mostly of doctors, nurses and students.

There are a number of patients also suffering from the disease. The hospital is under quarantine, all the public wards being closed. The students who have contracted the disease have been ordered from their boarding houses to the hospital.

There is now a general outbreak of diphtheria in the north section of the city according to Dr. Norton, acting superintendent of Johns Hopkins. The north section is the most densely populated in Baltimore. The general outbreak of diphtheria at Johns Hopkins has practically closed the institution both to parents and visitors.

INDIAN DESPERADO DEAD.

Redskin Whose Exploits Alarmed Duck Lake District, Died in Cells.

Prince Albert, Sask., March 3.—Blackhand, a notorious Indian, who caused excitement in the Duck Lake district, some months ago, by breaking jail, and was later captured after being shot in the arm by Constable Dirion, of the Mounted Police, is dead at the Prince Albert jail.

After being shot by the policeman near Duck Lake, Blackhand was brought to the Victoria hospital here, where it took him weeks to recover from his injury, during which time he was guarded night and day by police, lest he should make another effort to escape. He was regarded as one of the most dangerous Indians of the Duck Lake district.

CANADIAN EXHIBITS AT CRYSTAL PALACE

London, March 3.—Colonel Hutchison, the Dominion exhibition commissioner and the representative of the C. P. R. and G. T. P.—the latter Mr. Cummings who was at Buffalo, St. Louis and Brussels, are kept busy preparing for their respective exhibits at the Crystal Palace.

So far as Canada is concerned the extent and attractiveness of the display which is to be made undoubtedly will excel anything in the same line ever attempted on this side of the Atlantic, though the extent to which the Dominion benefited by its unique exhibit at the Franco-British exhibition is now generally admitted, and copious signs of its results are being received by government offices in London.

The Crystal Palace affair is being more systematically advertised than is generally the case with English managements of such exhibitions. Facing the Strand near the law courts a large building has been erected in which an elaborate model of the lay out of the grounds and buildings is shown; it is always crowded with visitors.

THIS PRODIGAL SON WAS TURNED AWAY

Jackson, O., March 3.—Returning home after an absence of thirty-one years Cliston Miller, a former Jackson boy, was turned from the parental door. Miller, when a boy of thirteen, ran away from home and was mourned as dead. Meantime every member of the family except the mother, Mrs. Eliza Miller, has died, and she has been living here.

A few nights ago a stranger appeared at her door and said he was her long missing son. The aged woman failed to recognize the man and, being suspicious of strangers, asked him to go away.

The next day she became convinced he was her son and sought him.

Miller disappeared as mysteriously as he came. Relatives have learned that he is a prosperous business man in a southern city.

MARKET REPORT

Eggs fell heavily yesterday at the city market, but were not broken. What was broken was the heart of the dealer who fancied he would get a much higher price for his goods, but as hens are laying much more regular now that the weather has turned for the better, the season for big prices looks like being over for many months at least.

From an early hour the attendance was a record breaker in many ways, the sunny and warm weather being responsible for the influx.

A feature of the morning's work was the unloading of the heavy consignment from Huntingdon, two new trucks being brought specially into use for the job. Those responsible for these, the latest purchases of the city, are to be congratulated as the manner of unloading and the swiftness with which it was carried out is worthy of the highest praise to all concerned with the innovation.

The poultry section which has been the feature of the market for the past few weeks was rather slack yesterday. Dealers were asking rather high prices for the quality of birds offered and fewer sales were made.

Buying in the meat section was brisk and almost all offered changed hands. The supply was fairly good except in mutton and lamb. Prices advanced as the supply diminished.

Beyond a small supply of potatoes the vegetables were rather short. Spuds went at $30 and $32 per ton and $1.75 the sack. The demand for apples was stronger and a small supply had a tendency to increase the quotations. The auction sales on the market square were well patronized and a number of fine animals were put under the hammer.

Vancouver's Industries Become Visible

ON NORTH SHORE WITH SECURING OF DOCKYARD

VANCOUVER ENERGY WINS BIG DOMINION SUBSIDY

Prince Rupert, St. John. Victoria, Montreal and Quebec Still Asking for What Vancouver Has Secured

As the spinal column is the mainspring of the human body, so is Manufacturing Industry the mainspring of Municipal existence. Dress a man in the finest clothes, put money into his pockets, give him the golden key that will open the doors into the most select circles—it is useless without that mainspring. He is a case without works; a bauble to be cast aside and eventually to sink into oblivion. The same argument applies even in a greater degree to municipal life. Certain combinations of circumstances result in a number of people congregating at a given point; they build their homes and places of business, and follow their usual avoations. The natural consequence is that a village springs into existence. If the people are endowed with sufficient "backbone" the village will give place to a town, and in the process of time the town becomes a city. Should the natural advantages be great (as they are in Vancouver), the city will continue to grow for a time in spite of a lack of energy and push on the part of its citizens; but a time always comes when the natural advantages become exhausted and, in consequence, the city stands still for a while, and then slowly but surely revolves the other way. All through the United States and Canada towns, villages and cities are on this retrograde movement, and in ninety-nine cases out of every hundred, instead of the excuse of "hard times," it is the simple fact that the citizens lack the backbone necessary to improve on and assist the natural advantages of the place. Sometimes a foolish father gives his son so much money that the boy grows into manhood without the slightest knowledge of how to fight his way in the world. Without a moment's warning the "old man" (the natural advantages) fails, the son is thrown on his own resources (which are nil), and in consequence begins to revolve the other way, and often drops out of sight. Some cities have so many natural advantages that the citizens get to feel that all they have to do in life is to enjoy them. After a while the "old man" fails them and they, like the "son," soon get the backward gait, while other towns who have no "old man" to assist, rely on their own pluck, energy and backbone, each citizen putting his shoulder to the wheel, go past the more favored but "supine" cities and beat them to a frazzle. ("Frazzle" is a good word.)

There was a time when Vancouver was in great danger of being like the son with the "old man behind;" but that time has, I trust, passed away forever, and from this time forward she intends to make the best of everything that Nature has blessed her with, and in the future she will be known not only as a great seaport, but as one of the great industrial centers of North America.

The Imperial Car Company requires assistance to carry out a great work for this city, a work that will not only stamp Vancouver as a great industrial center, but at the same time will enrich every man or woman who will put good money into it. Already the company has shown itself capable of great things. Commencing with nothing, it has bought and more than half paid for one of the most beautiful townsites in the world today; a townsite with as many natural advantages as can be found anywhere in North America.

This company last year went to the Dominion Government and proved its claims to such an extent that it was given nearly $1,100,000 to assist it in its work, while Prince Rupert, Victoria, St. John, Montreal and Quebec, who asked at the same time, "are asking yet," and some of them will ask forever. Why was Vancouver more favored by a Liberal Government while still represented by one out of the fold (a Conservative)?

It was simply and purely that our company went after that subsidy just like it goes after everything else it requires, namely, went after it with a determination to "get it" and stay with it until it does. Is this not the sort of company to tie up to?

There are other things the company wants that are just as good as the subsidy. Will you come and help, and receive your share of the profits? Don't put this paper down till you have read all this page, and then come in and see us. We are going to win, anyway. Everyone will tell you that now, but we need you to help us, and in doing so help yourselves and families.

WHAT WE REFUSED

What is Vancouver's gain is another city's loss. Less than six months ago one of the largest cities in the Western States held a series of meetings of its chamber of commerce, and after going fully into every detail of our proposition, including our sleeping car patents and their possibilities, made a representative of our company the offer of 500 acres of land as a site for our car works and the city to take $250,000 of our stock on condition the Imperial Car Company locate its works in their city. The truth of this statement we can prove beyond a doubt to any interested party. We simply withhold the name of the city from a feeling of courtesy, while, on the other hand, it is only justice to our company that the people of Vancouver should know this, and to a certain extent give our company the appreciation which is its due.

IMPERIAL CAR COMPANY MAKES A BIG PROFIT

Shares Will Shortly Be Marked Up to Par---Important Negotiation on Eve of Successful Conclusion

THE ANNOUNCEMENT

A short time ago the Imperial Car Company informed the readers of the daily papers that the purchase price of its shares would be raised from $50 to $100, which is the par value of its stock. It was also stated at that time that the reason for this important step would be given shortly. Young companies, like young cities, or young business men, encounter many hard problems in the earlier stages of their existence, and the Imperial Car Company has been no exception to the rule; but by constantly keeping a sharp lookout ahead, we have avoided every rock, and are now comparatively in smooth water. We can prove beyond a doubt that we have made a profit during the past year of $2,000,000, and we do not believe that any other company in Canada, outside of the C. P. R. or the C. N. R., can truthfully say as much. We have just been reading the twenty-first annual report of one of Canada's best fire insurance companies, in which the president congratulates the shareholders for being worth $750,000. Think of it—after twenty-one years of hard work. The Imperial Car company has enriched its shareholders in ONE YEAR to the extent of nearly $2,000,000. Is that not a sufficient reason to raise the price of its shares? We think it is, and at the same time, something to be proud of. This is one of the reasons, however: The company has succeeded in financing all its capital for the building of the DRY DOCK. This has caused the company a great deal of hard-headed thinking in the past few months, and is certainly a great burden lifted from its shoulders. These and a number of other things have been the cause of the company's determination for the change in price. Therefore, after the 20th day of March, 1911, no one will be able to buy one share of the treasury stock of this company for less than $100, being the par value of the shares.

A LITTLE TALK ON IMPERIAL MINES

Some people would rather buy into a speculation than a sure thing. This sounds funny, but it is true as it is funny. For instance, we find people who would rather buy Oil Shares on the off chance of after boring several thousand feet into the earth they MAY STRIKE OIL, at the same time they know it is a slim chance, and that not more than one out of every 500 ever really do strike oil. The same thing applies to mines. There seems to be a certain spirit of speculation dormant or otherwise in all natures. I confess to have it myself largely developed, and have to constantly keep a check upon my nature in this respect, so I do not for a moment condemn anyone given to this sort of thing; rather I sympathize with them.

By this explanation the reader will understand how intensely interested I am in "Imperial Mines." The company has a gang of men constantly at work drifting a tunnel into the mountain, and every time one of the men came into town I examined the samples as if they were nuggets of pure gold. We are now some 75 or 80 feet in, and there is absolutely no rock, just a pure body of iron ore in high grade, full of streaks of yellow copper, and every day marks an improvement. One thing is proven beyond doubt: The Imperial Mines are one vast body of iron and copper ore, millions and millions of tons in extent. Many of our shareholders who profess to understand these things claim that our mines will be the most profitable part of our business. Situated only eight miles from the center of the city of Vancouver, the tunnel of the mine is literally at our very door. However rich the mine may be, the fact remains that shares in the Imperial Car Company will reap a dividend from every asset owned by the company.

HOW TO FINANCE A BIG PROPOSITION

"When are you going to begin work?" is asked me every day. "We are nearly half done now," we answer. We are well into the financial part of the work, and when this is completed we consider the whole thing half and more than half accomplished. There are a number of methods of raising money with which to finance an undertaking, namely, selling shares in the proposition to the public, selling guaranteed bonds to investors, and borrowing money by mortgage on the property at certain rates of interest.

For instance, every time we sell a share we are taking in a partner in the profits. He may be a cantankerous person who will make trouble in the company, and in addition the company must pay a large commission to the agent who sells the shares.

The sale of bonds is much better from a company's standpoint, as the bondholder has nothing to say in the business, and receives no profit except the interest on his bonds. Borrowing by mortgage is the best plan of all, but in order to be in a position to do this the company must have assets at least three times the value of its loan. One of the strongest loan companies in Canada has been looking into our proposition. They have sent sent their representatives here, who stayed a week looking over everything, and the report is so favorable that the company have practically promised to advance us all the money we require to carry out our extensive plans. Should we be successful in closing this deal, the company will immediately raise the price of the stock to $250 per share and take the Treasury Stock entirely off the market.

BRINGS INDUSTRIES FIRST, SELLS LOTS AFTERWARDS

Ordinary Real Estate Selling Methods Reversed by Corporation Which Is Erecting Manufacturing Centre Across Inlet

The Imperial Car Company claims to be in a position to make more money from a real estate standpoint for its shareholders than any other real estate concern in British Columbia. Listen: The ordinary real estate office generally does business as follows—They first look out for a sub-division, and then form a syndicate to purchase it. This done, it is then resubdivided into lots and sold to you and me for certain advanced prices, we holding our lots until the city grows out to them or a railway goes through the place, or something else happens to increase the values, in which case we unload and try it again.

Now, notice the difference: The Imperial Car Company buy up a whole townsite in a locality commanding nearly two miles of deep sea waterfrontage. It buys this at a time when no one felt it was of much value, consequently the price was practically nothing compared to its present and future value. In place of waiting until the city or something else builds out to it, the company commences to build a real industrial town itself. First, the company gets the Red Fir Lumber Company to undertake to build the most modern sawmill on the Pacific Coast on the property. Next, it secures from the Dominion Government a subsidy to build the largest Dry Dock on the Pacific Coast on the property, then it commences to build a steel car works on the property that will employ to begin with 250 and in the future 2500 men. These and a number of kindred industries will soon line the shores of the townsite, and naturally have raised the value of the company's townsite to a remarkable degree. The company will have, before it stops buying, about 10,000 lots, and will not offer any for sale until a value has been reached that amply repays the company for its farsightedness. The beauty of all this is that every shareholder will receive the full benefit of every dollar of increase.

Now, my friend, when you take a notion you would rather buy real estate than "shares," remember, the best real estate you ever bought is shares in the Imperial Car Company.

In two years time the whole of this townsite will be cleared and its streets graded, and the hum of busy factories will be heard all along its shores, while ships from all over the world will be waiting their turn to enter the vast dry docks and shipyards.

Incidentally we might say that one of the largest companies in England have taken an option on 900 feet of our waterfront, and are bound in five years' time to have shipyards costing a million dollars, employing possibly 3000 men, and capable of building either Dreadnoughts, or what is still better, the largest merchant vessels afloat.

Do you desire a portion of this great profit for yourself? We think you do, and the only way is to come in and secure your share before it is too late.

A LAST WORD

Investor or Speculator, whatever you may be, are you not convinced, after reading this page, how worthy is the project we place before you?

You can purchase until March 20th shares in this, the best and safest company in British Columbia, a company that is richer by $2,000,000 than it was a year ago, a company that cannot help by the natural trend of events but make an equal amount next year, a company that has been endorsed by the Dominion Government to the extent of $1,062,000, and a company that is located on the borders of Vancouver, a city with a greater future than any city in the Dominion of Canada. It will only be a month till the shares will rise 100 per cent, and if (and it seems very likely) our loan is completed, the stock will go at once to $250. No sane man now doubts the future of the Imperial Car Company. Its success is as sure as the success of the city itself. If you do not know enough about it, come to see us. We shall be glad to show you every detail.

OUR GARDEN CITY.

There is but little doubt that the experiment about to be made in the establishment of a garden city at Pitt Meadows will be watched with considerable interest, not only by people in this province, but by those in other parts of the Dominion as well. We believe a similar movement has been or is about to be made in Toronto, but with this exception the Pitt Meadows settlement will be the only one of its kind in Canada. The experiment is the outcome of an address delivered in Vancouver last fall by Mr. Henry Vivian, a well known Englishman, and member of parliament for Birkenhead, who has been closely identified with the garden city movement which has proved so successful in the mother country. To name the proposed new settlement after Mr. Vivian was certainly a happy idea.

Social conditions and the character of land tenure in this country differ a good deal from those which prevail on the other side of the Atlantic, and it has been questioned by some whether the garden city idea will meet with the same measure of acceptance and success in British Columbia as it has done in the old country. Granting, however, that these premises are correct, that our social conditions and land tenure do differ, we do not see why the experiment at Vivian should not succeed. In fact we regard the popular interest in real estate, which prevails here, as likely to facilitate rather than hinder the success of the new settlement.

The basis of the garden city idea is co-operative ownership, and this principle has been developed along such well designed lines that some of the more recently established settlements around the British metropolis, like the Ealing Tenants Limited, and the Hampstead Garden Suburb Limited, have proved even more successful than some of the earlier movements like that of Letchworth, Hertfordshire. Another very important feature is that the scheme of planning these settlements is such as to ensure at once the greatest comfort and convenience of the residents, and the provision of all necessary circumstances to secure an amplitude of fresh air, space for recreation and all the requisites to ensure the prevalence of the best hygienic conditions. Mankind is dominated by the gregarious instinct and it is because these settlements facilitate the congregation of residents under the most pleasing conditions and provide for a communal interest that they are so popular.

We look forward to the Vivian settlement proving not only a success as an individual experiment, but as the forerunner of many other settlements of a like kind. The position selected at Pitt Meadows, though at present lacking the means of direct communication with surrounding points, will, we believe, from information which has reached us, soon be directly connected with the cities of New Westminster and Vancouver by an electric car line. Pitt Meadows is a fertile and healthy district, with the advantage of lying adjacent to the river Fraser, and having the most beautiful scenic surroundings in British Columbia.

MAKES PUBLIC HER GUILT.

Woman Finds Bracelet in August, Advertises to Ease Conscience.

Amherst, Ohio, March 1.—"I want to be square with the world and God," wrote an Amherst woman to a Defiance, Ohio, paper, when she enclosed money to pay for an advertisement tardily detailing the finding by her of a gold bracelet at the quarrymen's picnic at Cedar Point, last August.

The loser of the bracelet wrote to an Amherst newspaper that she is willing to give a reward and would be glad to relieve a troubled conscience. Her letter says:

"The woman who found a bracelet at Cedar Point last August can find owner by writing to Lillian DeVaux, Defiance, Ohio. A reward will be given to the finder. I heard that a woman living near Amherst found my bracelet, but as I do not know her name, I am hoping that I can reach her by this means."

The funeral of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Scott, widow of Colonel J. T. Scott, Port Moody, will take place from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. R. B. Kelly, 815 Kennedy street, at 2 p.m. today to Holy Trinity cathedral.

Sports Past and Present Reviewed, Commended and Condemned

Wilson's Weekly Comments on Current Sporting Events Include Boxing, Swimming, Lacrosse, Bowling and the Latest "White Hope"---Discovers Old Friend Who Calls Him "Little Bobbie", Much to His Annoyance—Boosting For Worth While Club for Sportsmen.

WHEN will sportsmen of Westminster become members of the "Worth While club?" I have wondered repeatedly since coming to this city why it is that there is no amateur club where those who follow sport could gathered either from time to time, or for that matter all the time. Surely it must strike anyone who goes into the subject that a city like Westminster with a population of something like 15,000, must have been asleep for many years when there is not an organization where games of all kinds can be practised. Do not think I am a knocker; a thing of that nature is furthest from my thoughts and I am sorry that no one has arisen and not only asked for such an institution, but demanded it. In countless small cities I have been in, over the border, one of the leading buildings has been one dedicated to sport, and rarely have I seen such an edifice which has not been self-supporting. If you don't ask you will never get, and if you do not hustle you will never succeed. Get lively, Westminster!

HAVING started on this subject I, although a new-comer in your midst, am going right through with this matter, and I will not rest content until there is in this wonderful, this great city of the future, an athletic club where the young men can go o'nights and there indulge in his favorite pastime or sport. Show me a non-sporting town or city, and I will in turn show you a town or city that is in a comatose condition. Anything this writer can do to further the interests of sport here, will be done with a glad heart, and ere the week is out there will be something doing, believe me. This city is bangful of live sportsmen and such being the case it is not only not right, but a cruel shame that something on the lines suggested has not been started years ago. Get next to yourselves; take a great joy in living, because when the time does come when you pass in your checks and procure a single, you will be an awful long time away. An athletic club makes for a clean life and goes hand in hand in the manner speaking. Cleanliness in mind and body goes next to godliness, everytime.

AT last one of my dreams has come true and I want to tell my readers something about the history of England's new lightweight champion boxer, Matt Wells, the man who this week beat Freddie Welsh for the title and the Lonsdale belt. After Wells, whom I have known for many years, won the amateur lightweight championship for the fourth year, I suggested to him to enter the professional ranks, as I, with my knowledge of the mitt game, saw a big future for him in the money ranks. Being in a good position—he is an engineer by profession—Matt could not see the force of my argument for a while, but when his master one day hinted to him that things were not financially strong, Wells came to me and we talked over the subject matter of my first suggestion. To make a long story short, Wells made the plunge into those ranks where the hair is trimmed short, and what has been the result? Victory after victory right along the line, and now the culminating one, and he stands today at the head and on the top rung of the ladder in the old country. An irresponsible writer in a Vancouver paper, writing on the Welsh-Wells bout, spoke of the winner as being an unknown man, and as one who had just sprung up from nowhere. Let me inform this critic (save the mark) that I invited Wells to come to the United States with me, but he not make the journey until I had been in the west for some months. Charlie Harvey, Owen Moran's manager, to whom I spoke in New York on the subject of handling Wells, was responsible for all his engagements this side of the streak, and out of twelve contests Wells won ten and drew two, and yet we read of this same Wells being unknown! A funny incident in connection with Well's debut in the states was the fact that when he won three bouts in New York, Harvey was not pleased with his display, and I remember when in San Francisco, I butted into the irrepressible Charlie, he asked with a tone akin to pain in his voice where I had dug up this piece of pie from. "He'll never make good, Wils, old man, and I think I'll send him back," were Harvey's words to me. But Matt stayed long enough to make good and this surely must be one of the rare instances in the career of Harvey, who has been following sport for more years than I care to recall that he went off the course. Wells is a clean-living fellow; a non-drinker and non-smoker, and is a pride to the fistic game. He is built on what might be called bulky lines. He has not the symmetrical build of Nelson, Wolgast or Moran, but resembles in boxing attire a heavy-light, like One-Round Hogan and Cyclone Thompson, minus, always minus, the features of that pair. Here's your health, Matt!

TIME flies in this dear old world of ours, but the truth has rarely been brought home to me with such force as it was during the week, when the lacrosse conference called me to Vancouver. Owing to the postponement of the meeting I had some few minutes on my hands and I strolled into the Orpheum to renew acquaintance with the peer of the swimming world, Jimmy Finney. Vaudeville shows have no longer any attraction for me, as I've seen enough to satisfy me for life, so I meandered round to the stage door and asked for the "merman." The information was taken to his room and the words which Jim said in reply to the stage hand when he was told that a paper man wanted to see him would not make good reading. He complained of being wet and tired and something about seeing him when he was through with his show. I got to his heart through the thin partition by enquiring after members of his family and then the door opened and in walked the tormentor. Fifteen years makes a big change in the majority of folks, but sizing me up for a bit, Finney stood back and then exclaimed "why, it's little Bobby Wilson." Little, foresooth! Why I'm bigger than Jim, but he for the moment forgot the speed of time, and so did I. Medical men tell you that too much swimming is injurious to the health, brings on consumption and of, ever so many other diseases. Does it? Look at Finney and then go and tell these medicos to think again. When I first saw Jim he was slender and a demon for the water; now he's fat, awful fat, and more of a demon than ever for the wet elements. We talked of the long-ago; of the days of our youth, as it were, and of the swimmers who had jumped into the spot light, with a blare of trumpets, made a short stay, and then jumped out again, leaving behind them a few records which are now all to the bad and forgotten by the present generation of aquatic followers. Dear old Finney. When he spoke of going to Scotland away back, to take part in the complimentary galas organized for a leader in the sport he called up in my mind happy times which will never, alas, come again. He was, I think I am safe in saying, the first English swimmer to travel to Auld Scotia to show the Northerners what real classy swimming was in those days beyond recall, and it was through coming to these affairs that he won the Scottish championships over 1000 yards and 220 yards. I would like to tell the story, but there are few in these parts who would appreciate it, besides space is precious. He spoke in terms of highest praise of the man who invented water polo and who was also responsible for the formation of the Royal Life Saving society and of the work that man has done for swimming the world over, and whilst I did not show it, I felt none the less that he was pay-

Victoria, March 3.—(Special to the Daily News.)—The Columbian college basketball team this afternoon defeated the Victoria Y. M. C. A. quintette by 40 points to 29. The Victoria High school team will be met tomorrow afternoon.

KNOCKOUT BROWN WINS FROM WOLGAST ON POINTS

At last Adolph Wolgast, German American boxer, who up until twelve months ago was known to boxing fans as Kid Wolgast, has got his, and there are few lovers of the game who will regret the defeat which he suffered last night at the hands of Knockout Brown, of New York. Valentine Brownseime, to call the New Yorker by his birth name, will, of course, never cut much ice in the boxing game, which only goes to show what a lemon Mister Adolph must be.

The result of last night's bout, which was over the ten round journey, is further proof, if any were required, that Battling Nelson had his day out when twelve months ago he lost to the Cadillac youth in California. It is a sign of the times, and a healthy one too, that Brown won on points, and it further shows that Wolgast has not the powerful punch with either hand as some would have us believe.

Last night's battle being over the short distance does not take from Wolgast the world's title which he holds, as it is accepted that a contest for the premier honors must be scheduled over twenty or more rounds.

If Wolgast intends to retain his championship he had better hustle or the good-bye sign will soon be flying around his camp.

Sports Past and Present Reviewed, Commended and Condemned

ing a compliment to me in a way. The man he spoke of was my father.

ANOTHER "white hope" has been unearthed, this time by the American newspaper men in London. Bill Chase is his name, and according to the cabled messages he will in a very short period be ready to meet Jack Johnson and the other claimants for the crown of the heavy brigade. Help! help! Bill Chase, the aforesaid. W. H. has taken part in so many novices' sompetitions in London during my connection with the sport that in the columns of one of the journals to which I had the honor to be attached I was forced to propound the question: "What is an novice?" and I answered the query myself in these words: "An novice is one who has taken part in numberless competitions at the National Sporting club and other places, but who has not won an English Championship." Bill Chase has been, is, and always will be a good third-rater. In proof of these statements I met an old country sport follower in this city during the week and told him of the wonderful find over in the Big Smoke. "What!" he fairly screached, "Bill Chase, the butcher? Why, man, he's been boxing for years!" And this is the man who is going to do things to Johnson. Oh, for a newspaper censor!

RARELY do I reply to sport correspondence through the mail. One correspondent in particular, during the week has asked that I tell him on the quiet the names of the world's champions for the past fifteen years for the purpose of clinching an argument. To do this would hardly be fair to the man who has been arguing the point with you, A. B., would it? I am willing at all times to be of assistance to the readers of this "dope," but must ask that on matters of this kind all publicity be given to the correspondence. For a number of reasons I print in full a letter which came to hand Thursday: "Dear Sir—If you are the same R. A. Wilson who refereed the fight between the Coffee Cooler and Fred Drummond in London some years ago, I think you might write some articles on fights you have refereed and witnessed as things of this kind would liven up the pages of the paper and be a novelty in this province." This is truly a big contract to ask of me but a consultation with my chief, the man who foots the bill, was also to his way of thinking, and whilst I would like to oblige my correspondent, time is, at least at present, too valuable to allow of my sitting down and writing stories such as has been suggested. In the off-season I will be pleased to oblige, and doubtless the stories just told as I have seen them might prove of interest. As regards the query as to whether I am the same Wilson that refereed the Coffee Cooler's contest (it was a fight all right), I must plead guilty to the charge. At this writing I cannot give date, but it was well, a few years ago.

ERE I leave this subject, I may be permitted to say something on that contest, as it brings up the subject of the life led by the average professional boxer and gives the lie direct to those who would have it that a pugilist is a no good member of society. Frank Craig, better known to fame as the "Coffee Cooler," has been for many years one of the best boxers in the world, and when I use that word I appreciate the term is a far-reaching one. Year in and year out Craig has shown that he could be a professional boxer and at the same time conduct himself as a gentleman and I defy anyone to point a finger at Craig and class him with being a nontryer or a coward. Craig is a colored man, but he is one of the whitest black men I have ever seen. This may seem paradoxical but analyze it and you will get at my meaning. Drummond at the time he met Craig was a youngster at the game, but his backers saw a big future for him and matched him over the long route with the coon. Although I dislike the term fight, it has unfortunately to be used on this occasion, as although I have been the third man in the ring many scores of times this was one of, if not the hardest battles I have ever figured in. What was not going to be done with me by the respective partisans of the principals in the event of the bout going to a decision was a shame. When the bout, fight, call it what you will, did conclude with Drummond winning, I bore more resemblance to a stuck pig which had escaped from the slaughter house than a human being. Although that contest took place many years ago Craig is still the well-dressed, well-behaved, quiet man he was when he first went to London and met Frank Slavin.

YESTERDAY I had some interesting chats with leaders in the lacrosse world of Westminster, on the question of amateur standing of the players and to use an Irishism, the more I thought of the matter, the less I thought of it. I want to say right here that I bow to no man in my appreciation of an amateur, and having for a long period had much to do with amateurs AND amateurs, I know just something of the workings behind the scenes. In the old country, there is a class of athlete who, if his records were enquired into, in the manner they should be, would be looking for some kind of job where he could hide his head and bid himself good-bye for the rest of his life. I can see in my mind's eye, those who whilst posing as amateurs, are making not only a good living but a fat and lucrative one travelling from place to place throughout the season and competing against bona fide amateurs those who go in for the branch of sport for the sake of their love for that sport. We thought the day of shady amateurism was past when the A. A. A. suspended Shrubb, Bradley, and that contemporaneous school, but there still are in England a bunch of so-called amateurs who should be forced into retirement. And on the question of lacrosse amateurs. What is an amateur?

ONE is an amateur who has never, etc., etc. You all know the remainder of that time worn rule laid down by the governing bodies of sport the world over, and I will not take up the time to give in detail the wording, but what I do want, and that badly, is to quote the proviso in the rules of the B. C. A. L. O.: "Article VI. . . . It shall, however be lawful for an amateur to compete with or against a professional without detriment to his amateur standing." Who was responsible for that proviso being introduced into the rule book? The whole thing is so ridiculous as to be stupid. If an amateur lacrosse player takes part in a game or games with one who is paid for playing that game or these games he, the amateur, must ipso facto become likewise a professional. This must surely appeal to the sober-minded reader as a logical conclusion. I am told that formerly the B. C. A. L. A. was strictly an amateur one. In the fall of 1908 they applied to the A. A. F. O. C. for membership and were admitted, but previous to that time they were not allowed to play with or against professionals without endangering their amateur status, but the A. A. F. O. C. on consideration of all the points gave a ruling that by playing with or against professionals did not warrant these amateurs being disqualified. Fred Lynch tells me that the reason for this move was that the clubs in the east who had held the Minto cup were all permitted to play in the series, against professionals and the law must hold here. When the Westminster team did lift the Minto cup the B. C. A. A. U. stipulated that the clubs affiliated to that organization must abide by the strict letter of the amateur reading, but this the Salmon Bellies and other western clubs aver they could not do as if, and watch the argument adduced, with an amateur club and with absolutely local men, it would be impossible to face on the field the strong professional players who would be brought from the east to endeavor to take the trophy back in that direction again. Mr. Lynch's own words are: "After winning the cup we would have to defend it with professionals." Just how this comes to pass I cannot figure out. I contend that striking an average the amateur in any branch of sport is as good and very often in many instances a better exponent than the man who gains openly a payment for services rendered. In proof of this bold statement I would ask he who reads these lines to spend half an hour in going through the record books of ANY BRANCH OF SPORT FOR THE PAST TWENTY-FIVE YEARS, and there will be found figures and facts to uphold my points.

It has been stated that the Salmon Bellies wish to be amateurs, but they say that under existing circumstances they cannot afford to be. Did any sane man ever hear such a lame excuse. It has been rumored that at the last general meeting of the B. C. A. L. A. a motion to delete the word "amateur" from the association's publications and laws was carried, but on investigation I find that this was not the case. At the meeting to be held in Vancouver this month a motion to that effect will, I have every reason to believe, be put to the delegates for their consideration and those who love sport whether it be amateur or professional will hope that the different representatives then gathered will pass without any undue deliberations the motion when it crops up. Let us have one of two things, but do not pretend to be what you are not. Mr. Lynch in many points is with me and he made a confession when he stated that if the lacrosse players of this association went to any other part of the world and endeavored to take part in an amateur sport that they would by virture of having played with or against a professional, be classed as one.

This surely makes the case as clear, if not clearer, than I have done.

Nobody dislikes a professional when he comes out and says he is such, but it is a travesty on the word "amateur" when that amateur gets paid for his services. It does not matter a brass button that the members of this team do not get a fixed salary, but receive something which takes a monetary form at the end of the season. The very fact of getting that something when the season closes is my point and without a shadow of a doubt they are professionals out and out. I am not kicking at any men being professionals, I include many friends in the paid ranks. I was one myself once, but I was always man enough to acknowledge it.

UNLESS something unforeseen happens between the publication of these notes and night fall there will be something stirring in bowling annals this afternoon, as with a view to make the game of bowling more popular in this city my chief has organized a team to meet a quintette from the Beaver cigar factory. It has been arranged that every member of the teams shall never have handled a bowl before. From the games which I have witnessed it has been brought home to me that this is a game which calls for strength, agility and a degree of skill. The proprietors of the Front street alleys have been warned that the game is scheduled, as those responsible for the fixture feel that the men who own the place should be protected in some way. Insurance is not very high in this city, and therefore it would be well that something in that direction be done as the damage is certain to be heavy.

SWIMMING will with the coming of that tank in the Y. M. C. A. building take a new lease of life in Westminster, and I for one, will follow the watery sport with the keenest interest, as I take second place to no man in my appreciation of the benefits to be derived from the participation in the damp element. Years ago—more years than I care to confess—I represented my native Scotland against the swimming demons of England, and had the honor to be the only braw wee Scot to swim with and against fourteen nations in the Seine in Paris, fourteen years ago, this being my last time in the fluid for competitive purposes, although I even after my suspension by the ruling amateur body was actively engaged endeavoring to impart to others some of that knowledge which I gained in early boyhood. Miss Grace Goddard, who is in the city during the season instructing in physical culture, is a water nymph of no mean standing, and in her native Birmingham, was a few years ago a match for many of the sterner sex when it came to arguments in the tank. It is the intention of Miss Goddard to organize classes for learners in the natatorial art, and arrangements are under way with that end in view, either at the Y. M. C. A. or the Columbian college.

BOWLING

The closest bowling match played on the local alleys since the oldest timer was a boy was pulled off last night, when the Bank of Montreal nosed out a victory from the Peoples' Trust team, winning out by the featherweight majority of five pins. The balance of power shifted from one team to the other from beginning to end of the mixup, the issue being in doubt at the start and half a minute before the finish, and all the time in between.

These were the heroes, and these the things they did:

The Healthfulness of Tea

Physicians who often forbid the use of Coffee and Cocoa to the well, prescribe tea for the sick. Of the three, tea is the only beverage that can be drunk for a lifetime without injurious effects. It is a harmless tonic—a gentle stimulant without reaction.

As tea is the most desirable beverage, so "Salada" is tea in its most desirable form.

"Salada" Ceylon Tea comes from tea plant to tea pot untouched by human hands, from the time the leaves fall into the picker's baskets. Its delicate aroma and delicious flavor are perfectly preserved in sealed, air-tight packages.

LADY CORRESPONDENT IN WASHINGTON PRESS GALLERY

Washington, March 3.—The sacred precincts of the Capitol press galleries have been conquered by femininity—by the admission thereto of Miss Mary Kouncelor Brookes, the Washington correspondent of two Texas papers, the Fort Worth Record and the Houston Post. Miss Brookes is the regular telegraphic correspondent of these papers, sending political news, as well as the chit-chat of Washington society.

She is the first woman to be admitted to the press gallery, one of the highest honors that can come to an American newspaper man or woman. She was cordially welcomed by her comrades when she made her debut there.

Miss Brookes wins this honor after only four years' newspaper experience in Texas. On the Fort Worth Record she established the first Sunday dramatic page in Texas journalism.

Since she has been in Washington Miss Brookes has landed several notable beats for her papers, and thoroughly justified the use of women as political correspondents. She is a native of Texas, and her father, the late H. H. Brookes, editor and publisher of the Amarillo Champion, was a well known newspaper man of the south.
