PROV. LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY JUN 20 1912 VICTORIA, B. C.

TRANSPORTATION IS BURNABY'S QUEST

Delegation Goes to Interview Premier Today--Council Favors Publicity Bureau Scheme--Important Bylaw on Subdivision Matters Passed--Newsboys and Licenses.

Edmonds, June 17.—Burnaby has entered into the publicity scheme along with thirteen other municipalities of the Fraser valley and will work towards offsetting the encroachment of the Vancouver people in securing the majority of the newly arrived settlers from eastern and old country points.

At a previous meeting of the council, the letter concerning this was laid on the table, some of the council feeling that the municipality was in no position to assist in the movement financially. After hearing Mr. B. G. Walker, president of the Burnaby board of trade, the council unanimously reconsidered its decision.

Mr. Walker pointed out how Vancouver was attempting to belittle the advantages of the Fraser valley and Westminster, and said that the latest move was to monopolize the labor improvements for Vancouver alone. The sand from the banks at the mouth of the Fraser was being flung into the faces of Burnaby and "we must up and be doing."

Councillor Madill will represent the council and Mr. Walker the board of trade at the meeting of all the bodies interested in the Westminster city hall on Friday next.

Premier and B. C. E. R.

Reeve Weart and Councillor MacDonald were appointed to join the other representatives of the municipalities on the lower mainland, who leave tomorrow morning for Victoria, where they will interview Premier Sir Richard McBride regarding B. C. E. R. franchises affecting the lower peninsula. The deputation appears to be determined to secure some statement from the premier, as his recent visit to London was made in connection with transportation. Burnaby, as well as other municipalities, is suffering from lack of transportation and wants a speedy settlement of the vexed question.

The matter of licensing powder men was discussed at length. A letter signed by the chief of police and the municipal engineer was read, recommending that in order to prevent careless blasting, which endangers life in Burnaby today, something has to be done and they thought the only plan would be to license the men. The matter was referred to the solicitor for advice.

License Newsboys?

Magistrate B. G. Walker brought up a peculiar recommendation, in that newsboys operating in Burnaby should be licensed. This was not a financial move by any means, the letter stated, but it has been brought to the notice of himself and the chief of police that many boys who had no regular routes were in the habit of boarding moving street cars, and unless some check was made upon them someone was liable to be killed or maimed. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Important Innovation.

Another innovation, which is said to be the first in the province was the passing of the Burnaby maps approved by-law. Hereafter an owner of a subdivision is compelled to stump, clear and rough grade streets running through his property before the subdivision map is approved.

While this is said to be some hardship to the property owner, it has been proved that a large amount of the money expended on road work is spent on opening up temporary roads through the bush to a new settler's home, which the municipality is compelled to do, if the said owner furnishes a bond. The money to be saved by this new by-law will be spent on more permanent improvements, such as macadamizing the roadbeds and laying sidewalks.

Armed Contractors.

The board of works rescinded the contract held by L. G. Robinson for constructing a road in North Burnaby. Robinson, although warned as to the time limit, failed to complete the road within the prescribed time, although given extensions. This contract has been in the limelight before, as only a few weeks ago, Councillor Fau Vel made a statement that a system parallel to the days of slave trading, was being engaged in on the contract, and that in order to keep the workmen at work, a drawn knife and loaded gun had to be shown by the foremen in charge. Mr. Robinson appeared in person and attempted to show extenuating circumstances why he had not completed the work, but his plea received little consideration from the councillors who turned over the work to Construction Engineer Thompson.

FINED FOR VIOLATING PROVINCIAL BOILER ACT

A violation of the provincial boiler act was heard before Stipendiary Magistrate Clute yesterday morning when Mr. Joseph Crane, a scow builder on Lulu Island, answered a charge of allowing a boiler to be used without a certificated man in charge, and Samuel Forrest also answered a charge for using the boiler without the necessary license.

The prosecution was made by the provincial boiler inspector. A fine of $100 and costs was assessed against Mr. Crane while Mr. Forrest was fined a like amount. This is the minimum allowed under the law.

BURNABY WATER SYSTEM.

Opening on July 15 Will Be General Gala Day.

Edmonds, June 17.—The municipal waterworks system which has been in course of installation for the past eleven months, will be officially opened on July 15. This announcement was made by Reeve Weart last evening, who suggested that such an occasion should call for a general celebration by the whole of the municipality, and that he would declare a civic holiday on that date.

The scheme outlined by the reeve calls for an official party leaving New Westminster by special car on the B. C. E. R. to North Burnaby where the water will be turned on through the mains. The party will then return to Central Park where speeches by prominent persons will be made. Athletic sports will be held in the park, refreshments served and the ceremony will end with an old time dance in the agricultural hall.

The South Vancouver band will be engaged and citizens of the municipality, together with delegations from the adjoining municipalities invited to attend. This plan was approved by the councillors.

ASK GOVERNMENT TO EXTEND TIME

Delta Representatives and Big Reclamation Scheme for Which $15,000 Is Granted.

Mr. Frank T. MacKenzie, M. L. A., accompanied by Reeve Sullivan and Messrs. Bowes and Smith of Delta municipality, are in Victoria today taking up with the government the details connected with the big reclamation scheme on the Nicomekl and Serpentine rivers.

It appears that in the legislative session of 1910, the government passed an appropriation of $15,000 to aid in the scheme, but the fact that permission was not received to dam the rivers was not obtained until six months ago, halted the work until that time. The grant from the government is such that unless it is paid towards the work on or before the 20th of this month, it will require another vote at the next session of the legislature, which Mr. MacKenzie claims will tie up the work considerably.

The party is interviewing the officials connected with the work in the hopes of securing an extension of time. This Mr. MacKenzie is confident he will obtain on behalf of the commission. The party left the city on Sunday evening.

Sapperton License.

Mayor Lee has announced that although the application for a license for the proposed hotel at Sapperton has not come formally before the license commissioners it is extremely unlikely that it will be granted, as that body is distinctly opposed to granting any additional licenses in the city under existing circumstances. Last evening a meeting was held at Sapperton for the purpose of protesting against the establishment of the new hotel. Dr. Spencer, of Vancouver, was the principal speaker.

Australian Naval Policy.

Sydney, N. S. Wales, June 17.—The Prime Minister Rt. Hon. Andrew Fisher, speaking in regard to the naval policy of Australia, recently said:

"The Commonwealth policy relieves British ships and crews for service in their home waters. Australians have cheerfully undertaken to defend their country by sea and land, and are prepared to make all other personal sacrifices necessary. The suggestion that the Commonwealth should copy New Zealand and split the fleet unit is unpractical and unstatesmanlike.

AUTO SMASH ON COLUMBIA STREET

Shortly after 8 o'clock last evening another automobile accident occurred, fortunately without any damage to life or limb.

Five residents of Sumas were journeying to Westminster and at the time mentioned had just crossed the bridge and were turning on to Columbia street after mounting the grade, the speed being, according to an eyewitness, some seven miles per hour.

Just at this moment the Millside car which left the mills at 8 p.m., came along and a collision occurred. None of the five persons in the car was hurt, but the front wheel and splashboard were smashed and bent.

WATERFRONT GAINS ANOTHER INDUSTRY

Chocolate Manufacture Will Begin by September—Building Now Being Erected.

Down on the waterfront where everything transpires quickly and where busy and farsighted business men are laying the foundations—or have laid them for industries destined to prosper with the city's growth there are weekly—almost daily changes, which loom substantially suggestive of progress on the commercial horizon.

Chocloate—plain, ordinary, everyday chocolate, is the delectable substance which the Pacific Chocolate company who are building a large plant just adjacent to the Vulcan iron works and the condensed milk factory will specialize in; manufacturing the multitudinous by products from the humble cocoa bean.

Yesterday morning Mr. M. Fredenhagen, secretary-treasurer of the newly formed company stated to the Westminster Daily News that it was the intention of his firm to start the manufactory about the first of September. Already a number of men were at work erecting the building which would contain their plant. This was being put up on the wharf just east of the condensed milk factory.

"The building for our plant," stated Mr. Fredenhagen, "will be 72 feet long by 56 feet broad and is to be three stories in height. Operations will be begun directly the machinery which has an aggregate weight of over 60 tons, is installed.

"Milk chocolate, made directly from the cocoa bean," declared Mr. Fredenhagen, "will be the one product to which the company will direct its particular attention. The demand for this on the Pacific coast, and in fact all over the world for the last two or three years, has become so vast that chocolate men and confectionery men everywhere are beginning to realize the possibilities of the industry. There is an opening for a plant of this kind in British Columbia where up to the present time no firm has exploited the field in this regard save at Mission, where the Kootenay Jam company has a small plant.

"Our proximity to the milk factory," declared Mr. Fredenhagen, "will make the manufacture of milk chocolate very much easier as we will be able to select the class of goods we require right here in Westminster—that is with the exception of the cocoa beans themselves which we are forced to obtain from London, Eng., New York or some other metropolitan centre where the beans are imported on a wholesale scale from the tropical climes in which they grow.

"We also intend, once we are well under way," declared Mr. Fredenhagen, "to install machinery capable of handling all the by products, such as cocoa butter, and in working up the pure chocolate itself into the various delicious confections which today are so popular. These will include breakfast cocoa bar, unsweetened chocolate, soda fountain chocolate, and other forms of confectionery combined with nuts of various descriptions, also almond paste and other novel delicacies.

"The value of chocolate is being realized by scientists," went on Mr. Fredenhagen, "to be something more than a sweet for the erising generation to eat. It has been adopted by the British, American and German armies and is used by them as a staple article of rations, valued for its nourishing and stimulating propensities."

In concluding the interview Mr. Fredenhagen declared that the plant when thoroughly under way would be one of the most complete and up to date on the Pacific coast, and would in all probability mean that the nucelus of the Western Canada chocolate trade would be located here as they would be in a position to compete favorably with the larger manufacturing American firms who were handicapped by having to pay a large duty.

Local capital is largely interested in the venture, Mr. Hugh McDonald, of this city, is president of the company.

Wedding Bells.

Miss Priscella Hurford, of Tynehead, and Mr. Thomas Campbell, of this city, were united in marriage on Sunday afternoon at the manse of the Sapperton Methodist church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. D. Braden.

MAYOR AND COUNCIL TO EXPLAIN BYLAWS

First Meeting in St. George's Hall, Thursday—Two More Next Week.

Mayor Lee announced last evening that the series of public meetings to be held for the purpose of allowing the chairmen of the various committees to explain the money by-laws to the ratepayers will be commenced on Thursday of this week, when he and the aldermen will speak in St. George's hall.

At this meeting the mayor declared that the different by-laws would be separately outlined in order to allow the voters to obtain a more thorough grasp of their significance, and what they mean to the city of New Westminster.

On the following Monday there would be no council meeting and in the evening public meetings will be held in the city, and in Sapperton, at which the measures will be explained.

On Tuesday a mass meeting will be held in the opera house or some other large public building which the mayor and all the aldermen will attend.

SPRING MAID WAS CHARMING COMEDY

Full House Greets Miss Mizzi Hajos—Pretty Girls and Catchy Tunes.

"The Spring Maid" has come and gone. All Westminster turned out to see Miss Mizzi Hajos, the one particular star of the caste, and she was a very plump little, dainty little star too, with a will of her own perhaps but then she had auburn hair and to those with auburn hair much is forgiven. Are they not sweet even in a temper?

The play was a great success, just as every musical comedy that puts up one good actress, a few pretty girls and a catchy tune or two, always is. There is nothing unusual about "The Spring Maid," the dresses are pretty and so are some of the girls, the singing is up to musical comedy standard and everything moves along particularly well. Apart from Miss Hajos, Charles McNaughton as Roland, the famous English tragedian, was far the best of the caste. His interludes,—for after all they were nothing more, but equally after all musical comedies are nothing but interludes from beginning to end,—his interludes, it must be said, were very amusing. Whether he was teaching a pretty white rabbit with particularly fascinating "listeners" to "hop from the hip," or throttling Desdomona with a patent "lingering grip," he kept the audience genuinely amused. He was a comedian of no mean merit.

The piece does not possess any very catchy numbers. "Day Dreams" is far the best of the songs, and the author seems to have realized this for he runs it in as often as possible, whenever his inventive genius seems to have failed him. "The Fountain Fay" was another agreeable number that pleased the audience.

It was a very pleasant change to see the opera house packed. Every seat seemed to be filled, and as the big audience went away perfectly contented it is likely that they will turn out in full force to the next first class offering submitted by the management.

Ontario's Care for Girls.

Toronto, June 17.—The first party of young women emigrants to leave Great Britain under the care of a government matron has set forth for Ontario.

Acting upon instructions from the Ontario Government, Mr. N. B. Colcolk, the province's agent in London, has secured the services of three capable women who will make fortnightly trips between Great Britain and Toronto in charge of girls. The matrons will not leave their charges until they are safely in Toronto and under the watchful guidance of officials of the colonization and immigration department.

The first party left Liverpool on June 6 by the Lake Manitoba of the Canadian Pacific Line.

A PROGRESSIVE PAPER FOR A PROGRESSIVE CITY

Yesterday morning marked a milestone of progress in the history of newspaper enterprice in this city. For the first time a Westminster journal appeared with an original cartoon depicting currert events, and drawn by a member of its staff.

That this departure met with general commendation was abundantly evidenced, and the publishers of the Westminster Daily News wish to state that this feature will be continued weekly henceforth.

There are many other features which it is intended to add to this publication. The best is not too good for Westminster and to meet the demand for an up to date newspaper is the object of the Westminster Daily News.

At present we are handicapped; so much so that we are not able to print even as much live local news as we would wish.

These drawbacks will shortly be eliminated. The city is progressing and we mean to progress until our object is attained, namely, that of providing Westminster people with a paper worthy of themselves and of the city.

CITY'S PUBLICITY SYSTEM ARRANGED

Committee of Control Drawn From City Council, Board of Trade, and Progressive Association Is Appointed--Vancouver Information Bureau--Employment Office.

For the systematic advertising of the city at which work at the present time three bodies are engaged, and in order that there might be no conflicting or friction between these organizations, the report and recommendation of the Publicity Committee which was submitted at last evening's meeting of the city council was adopted by that body.

Alderman Curtis read the report which was the result of a conference between the publicity committee of the city council and representatives of the Board of Trade and the New Westminster Progressive Association. It recommended that a publicity committee of control be appointed by the city council from the members of the three bodies mentioned, and it was proposed that all publicity matters concerning all or any of the organizations, should be referred to this control committee who would in turn allocate to each body its particular work.

The city council was to be represented in this control committee by Mayor Lee, who was to be the chairman. The president and vice-president of the Board of Trade would represent that body, while the president and secretary would be the active members on the committee for the Progressive Association.

This scheme was adopted by the council in its entirety.

Bureau of Information.

The recommendation of Mr. C. H. Stewart Wade, Publicity Commissioner, which was also incorporated in the report read by Alderman Curtis, recommended that the Mayor convene a meeting of all the representatives from all the municipal and civic councils in districts bordering on the Fraser, in order to take up the scheme of placing a co-operative inter-municipal bureau of information in Vancouver, which would be controlled by the different municipalities, and who would also contribute to its upkeep.

This report was adopted by the council.

Labor Bureau.

Mr. B. D. Grant, secretary of the local branch of the Trades and Labor council, asked on behalf of the labor men in Westminster that the city council should co-operate with them in establishing a free labor bureau.

Mr. Grant stated that at the present time there was practically one in existence at the Labor hall, but that they were unable to keep a man at the hall all day without considerable expense and this they were not prepared to meet. With Westminster's growth there was danger that the "Employment sharks" who he said at this time were infesting Vancouver, would open shops here, and in such an event the Labor Union had deemed it advisable that the control of all bureaus should either be in the hands of the city council or the employed themselves.

This request was acceeded to and Mayor Lee appointed Aldermen Dodd, Gray and White to take the matter up.

Increase License Fees.

Mr. W. A. Duncan, the city clerk, reported that at a recent meeting of the board of License Commissioners a resolution was passed recommending that the hotel license fee be increased from $200 to $400 per annum and the shop wholesale license fees from $50 to $100 each year.

This recommendation was adopted.

Brewery Sidings.

Mr. Nels. Nelson, of the Westminster Brewery, alleged in a communication read by the city clerk that the new Millside extension of the B.C.E.R had altered the condition of his firm's G.N.R. siding and had made the handling of it a great inconvenience. He requested that the railway company be asked to place a siding on the Brewery side of Brunette street. This matter was referred to th board of works.

In regard to the request of Mr. Beach, of the Westminster Mill Co., for information as to whether as, to the B. C. Electric Railway company was granted permission to lay tracks to the mill from Ewen avenue on Mercer and Duncan streets, the chairman of the board of works was instructed to take the matter up with his committee.

Mr. G. W. Beach, of the Westminster Mill company, in a communication to the council, asked that the city make an alteration in the approach to Ewen avenue by cutting off a very small corner at the intersection of Fulness street. Mr. Beach asked that the council consider this matter before leasing their land at Lulu island when the change would be far more difficult to make than at the present time.

A petition was received from a number of property owners near Buena Vista who thanked the council for their work in opening Surrey street, which gave access to their homes, and asked that Holmes street be opened to connect with Armstrong street in order to give an outlet at the golf links station, Westminster city limits. The matter was also referred to the board of works to report.

Tenders for Paving.

A number of tenders were received for paving First, Second and Fourth streets, Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth avenues. The materials specified in many of the tenders were widely different, in one case a contractor presenting no less than six separate tenders for the same work.

By motion of Alderman Kellington the tenders were referred to the engineers for tabulation, after which they were to be handed over to the council who would consider them at a special meeting on Thursday. The tenderers were Messrs. T. R. Nixon & Co., Canadian Mineral company, Columbia Bithulithic company, Hassam Paving company, Romano Pinto company, McAdam & Co. The tenders which were received from a number of contractors for manhole covers were also referred to the special meeting on Thursday.

The following recommendations of the water committee were adopted:

That the application of Mr. P. Barth, of Fraser Mills, for supply of water to Frenchtown be granted under conditions.

That the assessment commissioner be instructed to prepare a list of vacant lots situated on streets on which a water main exists and houses not supplied with city water and similarly situated, for the purpose of putting the provisions of section 43 of the waterworks regulation amendment by-law, 1912, into force.

NOW IS THE TIME CITY NEEDS HELP

Ladies Auxiliary Endorse Hospital By-law—Need for Every Citizen to Act.

With one accord the members of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Royal Columbian hospital at their meeting yesterday afternoon endorsed the action of the city council in submitting the $100,000 by-law for the erection of a new hospital.

In a very eloquent address Miss Scott, lady superintendent of the hospital, set forth the great benefits which would accrue to the city and the general public by the construction of the proposed institution which was without doubt absolutely necessary. During the course of her remarks Miss Scott spoke feelingly of the daily nurses' routine in the city's health factory, adding a touch of pathos here and there which could not but carry the conviction to her hearers that she was intensely interested in her work.

Miss Wright, president of the auxiliary, spoke of the ever increasing usefulness of the organization and declared that the city needed help now more than at any other juncture in its history. It was the parting of the ways. The city needed the hospital and the hospital needed the money. Concluding Miss Wright called the attention of the members to the fact that it was not always the votes which were cast directly against a measure which were responsible for its defeat, rather it was the votes which were not cast at all. The by-law which was of such vital necessity to the city, would be defeated if the citizens one and all did not rise up and make use of their separate interests and influence in having the measure passed.

Rev. Mr. Bartlett and Rev. Mr. Henderson were also among the speakers of the afternoon.

The financial report of the year submitted by Mrs. Dr. Manchester, acting treasurer, was as follows: Total amounts collected from all sources, $1207.05; expenditures, $687.75; cash on hand, $529.33.

On recommendation of Miss Scott, the purchasing committee was authorized to procure linen, patients' nightgowns, and dressing robes in a quantity to be specified later by the authorities at the hospital.

The following officers were elected for the current year: Miss Wright, president; Miss F. Armstrong, secretary; Miss Briggs, treasurer; Mrs. Gordon, first vice-president; Mrs. Manchester, second vice-president; Mrs. Houghton, third vice-president.

Committees: Entertainment, Mrs. Eddy, Mrs. McAllister, Mrs. Goulet; sewing committee, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Pearce, Mrs. Anderson; purchasing committee, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Manchester, Mrs. T. R. Briggs; auditing committee, Mrs. C. A. Welsh and Mrs. Alexander Lamb.

BURNABY WILL SELL $250,000 CERTIFICATES

Edmonds, June 17—Burnaby is to sell certificates aggregating $250,000 in order to tide over the municipal work until the London money market warrants the council placing the bond issue for sale. The school board was authorized to borrow 40 per cent. of the money voted upon by the people for school purposes if such is required.

IN A REBEL'S GRAVE

TOMB OF AMERRY GIROD IS IN HEART OF MONTREAL.

Where Sherbrooke Street Crosses St. Lawrence In the Busiest Part of the Commercial Metropolis Is the Burial Place of the Swashbuckler, Whose Rebellion Was Crushed 75 Years Ago—A Strange Career.

This story tells of the tragic end of a remarkable man whose remains have mouldered into dust in the strangest grave ever dug on the island of Montreal. Two of the great thoroughfares of the Montreal of to-day are Sherbrooke street, running through the heart of the finest residential quarter, and St. Lawrence street, which, running in from the country to the northwest, cuts the city in two and crosses Sherbrooke street at right angles. Beneath the pavement where these streets cross is the grave of this remarkable man, who played the game of rebellion and lost, and then dying a suicide, was buried, according to the custom of the time, at this cross-road. Seventy-five years have passed since that strange burial took place, and the traffic of a great city passes over the grave. The man buried there has long since been forgotten, but the story of the closing scene of his chequered career can be gleaned from history, and it is briefly retold here.

His name was Amerry Girod, and he came to Canada about the year 1827, or ten years before the breaking out of what is commonly called the Papineau rebellion. Whence he came no one precisely knew. By some his birth-place was in Switzerland, by others in the Province of Alsace, then part of France, now part of Germany. He claimed to have passed his youth at a model school of agriculture, and subsequently to have served as an officer of cavalry in Mexico. He was an excellent linguist, speaking not only English and French, but German, Italian and Spanish as well. He seems to have been a soldier of fortune.

Coming to Quebec he won the friendship of Mr. Perreault, prothonotary of the district, who placed him on one of his properties to establish a model farm. The end of the enterprise was heavy debts, which Mr. Perreault had to pay, and the ingratitude of the man whom he had befriended.

Girod then came on to Varennes, on the south side of the St. Lawrence and only a few miles below Montreal. There he found favor with one of the great men of the village, Dr. Duchesnois, a great supporter of Papineau. At Varennes Girod married Dr. Duchesnois' sister-in-law, the daughter of Mr. Ainse, Seignior of St. Therese, and from that time the adventurer lived on the property of his father-in-law, and devoted himself principally to the trade of a political agitator.

It is not proposed to trace the course of that agitation, or of the rebellion in which it culminated, but simply to follow the fortunes of Girod through the bloodiest chapter of the drama—the chapter which tells of the uprising to the west of Montreal, which was crushed at St. Eustache, on December 14, 1837.

One of the earliest overt acts of the St. Eustache insurgents was to plunder the Indian mission of Two Mountains where guns and ammunition were carried away from the Government stores and a small cannon, belonging to the superior of the mission. Girod was one of the party, and he employed his best cunning to persuade the Indians to give up the arms in their possession and their two small cannon. The Indians showed such determination to resist any attempt to remove their property that Girod and his companions departed without the arms they had demanded.

During the two weeks of turmoil that preceded the battle, Girod was one of the principal agitators. At times he seems to have dominated the situation and to have influenced for the worse Dr. Chenier, whom some historians have made the hero of the uprising. Girod was practically the general in command. He forbade the priests to leave the village, and he practically detained them several days as prisoners. He sent men to destroy the bridge at St. Rose, and his men succeeded in making the bridge impassable. He harangued the crowd, but no attempt was made to drill them or to prepare them to resist the troops that would be sent against them. In fact, the misguided insurgents were told that the troops dare not come to St. Eustache, and that the insurgents would take Montreal without drawing a trigger.

But the troops came, and soon all was over. On Dec. 13, Sir John Colborne set out from Montreal with what was a small army in comparison with the force it was going to attack.

On the following day the force reached St. Eustache and at once began the attack, the artillery opening fire upon the church. The battle lasted only a short time and Girod, the swashbuckler, was found when the insurgents surrendered to have gone for reinforcements. The loyalists started out on his trail. Girod's wanderings lasted four days, with his pursuers always on his tracks and ever drawing nearer. He turned northward and then circled to the east, making for the St. Lawrence River. He succeeded in reaching the outskirts of the village of Pointe-aux-Trembles, about eight miles below Montreal.

Finding himself surrounded, Girod drew his pistol and with it he blew out his brains.

Girod's body was at once brought up to Montreal, and the authorities ordered that it should be buried "at what was then called Cote a Barron, in the middle of the cross-roads of the St. Lawrence Main street and Sherbrooke street."

"And so do things pass away like a tale that is told."—The Montreal Standard.

THE PRAIRIE BACHELOR.

He Is One of the Most Hospitable Creatures on Earth.

In a part of the west which was virgin prairie six or seven years ago, and where the homesteads are still in all stages of infancy, the bachelor abounds. He has been in the country longer than the married man, and is still in the majority. Sometimes he has some of his own people living with him, or at least a sister, who "holds up" the feminine end of the establishment; but more often he lives alone, being his own housekeeper, cook, washer and baker, in fact, ministering to himself in all things. He has, therefore, many household duties to perform, as well as his day's work on the farm, so that his life is by no means an easy one.

To a man so situated, marriage would bring greater ease and comfort. It would relieve him of many small cares; but, then, a homesteader's wife has a hard time of it, and it may be that chivalrous considerations keep the homesteads so often without a mistress. The bachelor seems quite contented, and no more vulnerable in matter of love than a man who has more to divert his mind. Though the homesteader sees comparatively few women, he is fastidious enough in his ideas of them. He does not even strive for the favor of the fair by trying to look his best. As a rule, he surpasses the average man in height and good looks, generally, but he is as unconscious of this fact as he is of all the rules of becomingness. The laundryman and the clothes presser are far distant, and his own exertions do not extend to giving his garments that care which must be given if the wearer is to look spick and span. These words cannot often be used in describing this bachelor's appearance, and his attire frequently needs all the force of his good looks to carry it off. Indeed, girls, he is not the ready-made prey to your charms that you imagine him to be. So do not extend to him unbounded sympathy for his hardships and the desolateness of his home and his life. No doubt there are such drawbacks present, but he is accustomed to them.

After all, his activities are often only those demanded by the care of a one-roomed shack (of which, by a process of evolution, the house will be the final achievement). But it is said that the narrower the limits, the greater the difficulty in preserving order. Housekeeping bachelors here and there share this opinion, and are so fully convinced of its soundness that they forego all efforts towards tidiness.

But there are some, whether living in shacks or houses, whom no woman could rival in neatness and general domestic ability. They are good cooks, or are looked upon as such. But their reputation has been won by skill in a few simple lines. They attempt nothing elaborate. One of them has explained that recipes in cookery books bring with them a difficulty which baulks the bachelor at the very outset. The first direction is generally: "Take a clean dish."

These men are as much addicted to visiting one another as were the three curates in "Shirley," with their perpetual "triangle of visits." It is generally on Sunday that the farmers seek each others' society, forming into twos and threes for the purpose. Sometimes they are five or six strong, yet they are received by an undismayed host. Probably, the fact is that he is well prepared for such an invasion, for it is usually the most capable who have the greatest number of guests. The unmarried homesteader who entertains is surely one of the most hospitable creatures on earth.

Seton a Success.

Ernest Thompson Seton, naturalist to the Government of Manitoba, and chief of the American Scouts, has been a huge success over in England. He has lectured, publicly and privately, a dozen times, and talked with such sound commonsense and acceptability that he has been received rather as an old friend than as a new acquaintance. His quaint enunciation, his imitation of birds and animals, his intimate knowledge of natural history and forest lore have proved most fascinating. The Countess of Carrick, among many others, has taken him up, and has introduced him to everybody worth knowing.

His books are selling by the thousand, and his unique personality gains him friends at every party he goes to. The other night he was at the House of Commons, listening to a coal strike debate, and he dined there in company with the Right Hon. John Burns.

Mr. Thompson Seton has spent a lot of time in several visits to the Zoological Gardens, and a keeper there, not knowing who he was, said to a friend:

"He is just wonderful, that chap; talks to the beasts as though he were one of them himself!"

An Anglo-Canadian Hostess.

Lady Kirkpatrick, who is now in the south of France, is one of the most prominent of Anglo-Canadian hostesses in London. Her connection with social circles in the metropolis, of course, dates from the time, when, as a girl, she made regular visits to that country. Like so many other Canadian ladies, she has succumbed to the charms of the capital, and for some years has made it her residence. Many of the intellectual leaders of Britain and Canada are to be met at her flat in Hyde Park Gate.

Never a Goose Quill.

Only one hitch occurred a few days ago when the West Indies treaty was being finally agreed to. It is customary to sign the treaty with a goose quill, but none could be found. An armed policeman was sent through the city of Ottawa, but searched in vain, with the result that an ordinary pen performed the deed. H.R.H. the Governor-General made a happy speech to the representatives of the two countries after the ceremony of signing had been concluded.

ROYAL SOCIETY MEDAL FOR LORD STRATHCONA

London, June 17.—The Albert medal of the Royal Society of Arts for the current year, has been awarded by the council with the approval of the president of the society, H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, to Lord Strathcona, for his services in improving railway communications, developing the resources and promoting the commerce and industry of Canada and other parts of the British Empire.

LOOKS GOOD FOR BIG WHEAT YIELD

Montreal, June 16.—A conservative estimate of the spring wheat crop for this year given by James Carruthers, the grain dealer of this city, is 250,000,000 bushels.

"If," said Mr. Carruthers today, "our estimate works out and we have reason to believe it will, if the weather conditions in the northwest stay as good as at present, we will have produced the biggest wheat crop in the history of Canada.

REPUBLIC WILL REPAY DEBTS OF LATE MONARCH

Lisbon, June 16.—The Portuguese Government has decided to sell part of the private property of the former Royal House to liquidate the advances made to the late King Carlos, the dethroned Don Manuel, and the Duke of Oporto. The total advances amounted to $4,900,000.

The advances claimed by the gov- perties contends that these expenses in connection with the official visit of the late King Carlos to Paris and London, as well as the expenses of entertaining King Edward, the Emperor of Germany, the King of Spain and President Loubet on their official visits to Lisbon.

The administrator of the Royal properties contends that thes expenses pertained to the state, and should not come out of the Royal family's civil list. Moreover the administrator claims that most of the Crown jewels and Dom Miguel's jewels, estimated to be worth $7,000,000, are the private property of the house of Braganza, as they were mostly presents from Indian, Moorish and other rulers to ancient Portuguese kings.

In all prabability the matter will be presented to parliament for discussion.

Fun and Whipping.

The Tokio Press is making much fun of an administrative order contained in the "Official Gazette," giving minute directions as to the method of application of corporal punishment in the Korean peninsula.

The culprit shall lie on his stomach his hands stretched out above his head and fastened. Straps are to be passed round the body and round the knee joints and arms, with the clothes so arranged as to expose the hips. The executioner shall stand with his whip at arm's length, the tip protruding three inches over the edge of the prisoner's body. The executioner's left hand shall be on his left side, palm upwards, the right foot in advance, and bearing the weight of the body.

The stroke is to be delivered perpendicularly, and the skin is under no circumstances to be broken. The punishment is to take place one hour after a meal, and the prisoner, if he requires refreshment during the operations, shall be given a drink of fresh water.

The Press suggests that Mr. Yamamoto, Minister of Finance, might obtain something towards covering the deficit in the Budget by making the spectacle a public one at a charge of a penny per head for spectators.

MERRY ENGLAND.

What Would Dallas, Texas, Say to This Osculatory Orgie?

Just when England is beginning to pride itself on its progress of modernity, Hungerford, on the borders of Berkshire and Wiltshire, slips back into the centuries because it is Hockney Tuesday.

Unless you have lived through Hockney Tuesday you can have no conception of what it means. It needs strong nerves and a stronger constitution thoroughly to enter the spirit of ancient times.

At 8 o'clock the town crier, in gray and scarlet, with brass buttons, comes out of the town hall and blows three notes on the ancient horn given by John o' Gaunt, and that is the signal for two tutti men to emerge from the constable's house with stave tipped with flowers—daffodils, primroses and tulips surmounted by an orange.

It is their business to go forth and kiss the damsels of the town, irrespective of age or beauty, according to custom.

James Blake and Anthony Bowsher were the tutti men to-day. Mr. Blake is 60 years old, Mr. Bowsher is younger, but both of them kissed vigorously from 8 o'clock until 7 in the evening, with a break for dinner.

Tradition decrees that they shall be liberal with oranges and pennies. Therefore, having kissed a maid they gave her an orange as a solace and they hurled oranges among the crowd of urchins who followed them about all day.

It was a perfect orgy of kissing. They knocked at doors, and little, high-pitched shrieks floated out into the street, showing how nobly the tutti men were doing their duty.

They went to the workhouse and kissed all the old ladies, including Ann Benson, who is 99 years old; they went to the laundry, with their floral staves. Up and down for five miles they wandered, from house to house, kissing, kissing, kissing, until at the time of the sunset there were no more left to kiss.

They wanted to start again, but that is against the ancient laws.

Meanwhile, during these goings on, the Hocktide court had been sitting, doing the serious business of the year appointing a constable, a port reeve, an ale-taster and what not, and at the end of the entire court adjourned to the Three Swans for church warden pipes and bowls of smoking punch.

Every one agreed that "they were good old times."—London Daily Express.

"SOME HA'E MEAT, AND CANNA EAT"

So Bobby Burns tersely describes the rich, but still poor, dyspeptics. But their case is not now so desperate as when Burns wrote. For the man who has the food now can eat without suffering for it, if he just follows the meal with a Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablet.

These remarkable tablets banish the troubles of the chronic dyspeptic—the man who is bilious—the sufferer from heartburn, gas on the stomach or occasional indigestion. You can eat hearty meals of wholesome food—and digest them, too—if you take Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets.

Compounded by expert chemists, after probably the best formula known to medical science, they are quick and certain in their action, giving prompt relief from all forms of stomach trouble, toning up and strengthening the digestive organs and bringing about permanent cures.

A man is no stronger than his stomach. Fit yourself for your best work by taking Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets. 50c. at your druggist's. National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Montreal. 146

High Commissioner Resigns.

London, June 17.—Sir W. Hall-Jones, high commissioner of New Zealand in London, resigned at the end of May. It was in deference to Sir Joseph Ward's request that he consented to an extension of his appointment as a successor was promised for the end of May, but as none is forthcoming, he has refused to accede to the request of the New Zealand government for a further extension of time. It is stated that the real object of the delay in appointing a successor to Sir W. Hall-Jones is to allow time for Sir Joseph Ward to take up the duties of high commissioner in the near future. Wray Palliser, Sir Hall-Jones secretary, is temporarily acting as high commissioner.

LOCAL BOY'S ESSAY WINS SECOND PRIZE

Albert Watson, Westminster High School Student, Writes on Good Roads.

Albert Watson, the winner of the silver medal offered by Mr. W. J. Kerr as the second prize in the Canadian Highway association's essay competition on "What Good Roads Mean to Canada," is a Westminster High school student, and was just four months inside the age limit of eighteen years at the time of writing his paper. He is a son of Fire Chief Watson, and is at present away from the city, having joined a surveying party some weeks ago.

The essay submitted by Watson, which is reproduced below, is comprehensive and well written—it had to be to merit the second place among 462 papers. As it is here reproduced, it has undergone no changes at the hands of the editor, arrangement, punctuation and spelling being as in the original.

In the opinion of the judges, Mr. Watson only failed in the treatment of his essay in one important particular; he overlooked the important relation of good roads to the tourist traffic.

Good roads mean to Canada what they mean to every country on the face of the globe—Safe, sure, and permanent development. A first-class highway is indispensable to the full development of the country, and splendid as is the apparent destiny of the Dominion, to exploit our natural resources we must have good roads. They are as important as railroads, for they form the feeders of such, enhancing the value of the agricultural lands through which the railroads pass.

Then again, good roads are a real financial asset to a country. Improved traffic conditions will materially reduce the cost of production and benefit both the manufacturer and the consumer. The continual loss to trade from poor roads is incalculable. The obsolete road-building methods of the past had little regard to future utility and it is entirely due to these methods, if they may be called such, that the cost of transportation per ton in many parts of British Columbia is as high as thirty cents a mile. It is thus readily seen, that to attract foreign capital and to augment the immense industrial and agricultural activities with which Canada is blessed, there must be an improved standard to our national roads.

There are three factors which make profits to the producer and at the same time a decreased cost of living to the consumer—the cost of production, the demand, and the cost of transportation. The cost of production is uniform and the demand is steady. Thus it is seen that the cost of transportation is the thing on which on which the profits depend. With a network of good roads throughout the country the expense of carriage from one part to another would decrease and the inland commerce of the nation would be facilitated. The great encumbrance of poor highways being removed, the demand for all goods would strengthen and their production would be encouraged.

Among the laboring classes there is a prejudice against expenditure on roads of a permanent nature, as they think good roads will benefit only the farmers and other producers. This view is entirely incorrect as good roads will not only lessen the cost of living, but promote an industrial condition that will benefit and strengthen the whole nation. Instead of having poor roads as a millstone around their necks, all classes will have a boon in the shape of good roads. The advanced standard of modern requirements calls for the inauguration of a road system superior to that of the past. Game tracks must go and their place be taken by modern highways that stand for quick and solid development.

Another ground on which progressive road-building is attacked is that of the initial cost. The construction of a permanent and efficient roadway calls for considerable financial expenditure but the decreased cost of maintenance will soon pay the difference.

Probably the best exponents of permanent road-building were the Romans. The earliest roads of history were the great highways for war and commerce, extending into districts not readily accessible by water. The Carthaginians began, and the Romans continued, the science of road-building. The Appian Way, which dates from 312 B. C. and extended three hundred and sixty miles from Rome to Brundisium, was provided with deep and durable pavement which was later adopted on other Roman highways. These roads were a great factor in the rise of the Roman Empire. They enabled Rome, not only to conquer, but to hold tributary, practically all of the then known world.

England, up to the beginning of the nineteenth century, possessed few highways of any merit. Since then an impetus in road construction by the increase in vehicular traffic and the roads have been steadily improved. In 1800 a farmer living ten miles from a town was practically shut off from anything but local markets. Now, even at a distance of fifty miles, with the help of first-class highways, he has the markets of the world at his command.

Again, a good road is necessary for public safety. The upkeep of a road devolves upon the department under whose jurisdiction it lies, and they become liable for accidents caused by defects in the roads, subject to conditions established by law.

But the people of Canada are awakening to the nature and magnitude of the road problem. All manner of transportation facilities are taxed to their uttermost and every section of the Dominion requires extensive and immediate road improvement. Moreover, good roads must be built into the vast, but sparsely settled, lands of the Dominion. The natural wealth of these regions is unbounded and not until they are settled will Canada begin to enjoy the full share of prosperity which is rightfully her own. Our land, the best and richest on earth, needs development. That development can be quickest and most expediently secured by good roads which in themselves mean a bigger and a better Canada.

DUTY REDUCED.

By One-Half on Cement—Shortage in West.

Ottawa, June 17.—The duty on Portland cement and hydraulic or water lime in barrels, bags or casks has been cut in two or reduced one-half by the government. This remission of one half of the duty is for a limited period and will date from importations made from June 12 to Oct. 31, both days inclusive. All customs officers throughout the Dominion will be advised to this effect.

This important announcement was made last week by Hon. W. T. White, minister of finance, who has been investigating the shortage in the west and the agitation which it brought about.

Minister's Statement.

Hon. W. T. White, in explanation of the government's action says:

"From information I have obtained I am convinced that a serious shortage in cement exists in various sections of the Dominion due to both an unprecedented demand for the commodity and to the difficulty experienced by eastern producers in promptly making shipments by rail or water.

"Urgent messages have been received both from municipal authorities, boards of trade and construction firms in the west stating that heavy financial loss and public inconvenience are threatened by reason of the suspension of building and street paving operations, and requesting that partial or total remission of customs duty upon cement should be granted during the remainder of the season.

"Under all the circumstances and having given the matter the full consideration which its importance deserves, I am of the opinion that it is only fair and just that the remission asked for should be allowed to the extent of one-half the duty paid upon cement and its coverings during the period from June 12 to Oct. 31 next.

"Such a remission is equivalent to about 26 cents per barrel of 350 pounds, under the general, 23 cents under the intermediate, and 17 cents under the preferential.

"Manufacturers of cement in the east have large shipments now in transit and will no doubt, in conjunction with the railway and steamship companies, use every effort to overtake their orders. From all sources of supply I hope that the cement situation will be relieved in the near future."

Old-Time Hangings.

Executions, when criminals were hanged in the Old Bailey in London had certain customary sequels. The Governor of Newgate, for instance, always gave a breakfast to those friends he had invited to see the hanging, and by established custom devilled kidneys always formed the principal dish, although, as John Hollingshead had related, nearly every one was obliged to swallow a glass of brandy first.

Another function described in London in the Sixties was the reception held afterward by the hangman at the Green Dragon, in Fleet street, where he took refreshment with his admirers and sold the fatal rope at the rate of sixpence per inch.

In the good old times nearly every criminal who was executed was credited with a confession and 'last dying words,' whether he uttered them or not. These were printed in thousands by Mr. Catnach of Seven Dials. And sometimes an offender was reprieved on his way to Tyburn and had the pleasure, like Lord Brougham, of reading his own obituary notice.

Many of these broadsides, printed on a peculiar whitey-brown paper, can still be obtained in the neighborhood of The Dials at certain quaint little shops that seem to have defied alike time and the "improvement acts." You can see them in the window alongside of old ballads, forgotten comic songs, children's toys, and bottles of sticky looking sweets.

An execution which never came off was that of Edward Dennis, the public hangman, who in 1780 was sentenced to death for complicity in the Gordon riots. He was respited and resumed his occupation. So thoroughly did Dennis regain favor that in 1785 the sheriffs of London presented him with a gorgeous official robe "as a testimony to his excellent mode of performing business." Denn's found his robe not only inconvenient when at work but rather conspicuous at other times, so he sold it to Old Cain, a well-known charlatan of the day. Decked in the hangman's robe and a pasteboard crown the fortune-teller cut an imposing figure.

OLD INSTRUCTIONS COME IN HANDY

Paris, June 16.—The English language has superseded French at the American Embassy, and for the first time in 25 years the diplomatic business of the United States in France is being conducted in the mother tongue. Myron T. Herrick, the new ambassador, is not as familiar with French as he wants to be, and when he presented his credentials to President Fallieries he spoke in English.

Ambassador Herrick immediately looked for a precedent and discovered not only that an American ambassador to France a quarter of a century ago used English in his official business, but he found actual instructions from Washington demand that English be written and spoken at the embassy here. Official documents for the Foreign Office are now written in English and are accompanied by French translations.

BUSINESS MAKES STEADY PROGRESS

Review of Conditions in Whole Dominion During This Last Week.

New York, June 17.—Steady progress continues to be made throughout the Dominion according to despatches received by Dun's Review from branch offices of R. G. Dun & Company. More seasonable weather in most sections is stimulating activity in practically every department of trade.

Montreal reports that there is a liberal distribution of merchandise at wholesale. Building is active and there is a brisk demand for hardware and metals. Leather is quiet but very firm. At Quebec both wholesalers and retailers report a satisfactory volume of business. Wholesale continues active at Toronto, prices of the leading staples are firm and all classes of merchandise are going rapidly into consumption with dry goods, hardware and metals and building metals in especially good demand.

Hamilton reports a well maintained volume of trade in most lines and manufacturing plants busy.

Conditions are normal at London, but some lines of seasonable goods are increasing in demand.

In the north and northwest progress continues to be well sustained by the almost perfect conditions of the crops.

Winnipeg reports that the receipts of grain are heavy, but demand is good and there is a strong demand for all grades. The strong volume of seasonable merchandise is liberal, and the volume of business as a whole is in excess of last year.

At Saskatoon weather conditions have been favorable, and in the city a heavy retail trade is being done.

Regina reports a good business in most lines with an especially active demand for shoes.

Retail dealers at Calgary express satisfaction with prevailing conditions, favorable weather resulting in a good demand for dry goods, clothing and other staple merchandise.

At Edmonton the most notable feature is the activity in building, although there is a well maintained demand for nearly all kinds of seasonable goods.

Business at Vancouver continues to show satisfactory activity.

At Victoria staple merchandise is in especially brisk demand, and the outlook is exceptionally encouraging.

Gross earnings for all Canadian railways reported to date for the first week of June show a gain of 19.76 per cent as compared with the earnings of the same roads for the corresponding period a year ago. Commercial failures in the Dominion this week numbered 29 against 19 last week and 18 the same week last year.

AUSTRALIA SPENDS MONEY ON DEFENCE

Sydney, N. S. W., June 17.—The Commonwealth Minister of Defence has allotted every penny available for the promulgation of the defence scheme for military airships.

The Federal Government is determined to link up the eastern and western portions of the country as quickly as possible, and with this in view has ordered full-speed ahead on work of constructing the transcontinental railway to Port Darwin.

Developing the northern portions of Australia is occupying the attention of Federal politicians. This part of the Commonwealth, which is often referred to as the back door of Australia, is now recognized as being the front door to the eastern races, and the government is determined to keep this front door closed to them.

The sum of $500,000 has been placed in the estimates for preliminary work in connection with the new Federal capital.

Be a Booster.

Do you know there's lots of people
Setting round in every town,
Growlin' like a broody chicken,
Knockin' every good thing down?
Don't you be that kind of cattle,
'Cause they ain't no use on earth,
You be just a booster rooster,
Crow and boost for all your worth.
If your town needs boostin' boost her;
Don't hold back and wait to see
If some other fellow's willing—
Sail right in, this country's free.
No one's got a mortgage on it,
If your town is shy on boosters
You get in the boostin' biz,
If things just don't seem to suit you
And the world sems kinder wrong,
What's the matter with a-boostin'
Just to help the thing along?
'Cause if things should stop again,
We'd be in a sorry plight.
You just keep that horn ablowin'
Boost her up with all your might.

An English Chemist Has Discovered How to Grow Hair

In England the ladies have entirely abandoned wearing rats, which is due entirely to this new discovery.

It has been proven that Henna leaves contain the ingredients that will positively grow hair. That they contain this long-looked-for article is proven every day.

The Americans are now placing on the market a preparation containing the extract from Henna leaves, which is having a phenomenal sale.

This preparation is called SALVIA and is being sold with a guarantee to cure Dandruff and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed, SALVIA makes a most pleasant hair dressing. Ryall, your druggist, is the first to import this preparation into New Westminster, and a large, generous bottle can be purchased for 50c.

PAPERS AND PEOPLE.

Down in Buenos Aires, one of the great cities of that Argentine republic, which is the one country that during the past twelvemonth has made even greater progress than has Canada, there is a newspaper which recently celebrated its fiftieth birthday. This was made the occasion of national rejoicing, for the journal itself is a national institution. There is nothing quite like it in the world. It is an independently-owned paper, but is completely indentified with the people, has grown with them, and now has a myriad department—quite outside the ordinary scope of a paper—which are devoted to furthering the public welfare.

It is a brilliant example of the way in which papers and people are each dependent on the other and what may be accomplished to the good of both through their mutual co-operation.

But whether one considers La Prenza, The Times, or any of the great journals of continental Europe or America, there are some points in the relations between public and press that it may be well to consider.

If the public demands an up-to-date and progressive paper, it must be up to date and progressive itself. Its members must come out into the limelight and see to it that the press is informed of their doings. They are the makers of the events of each day, the press records the history of those happenings. It knows nothing until told. A very large proportion of the news printed is written by men who never see the events they chronicle, and the wonder is that at second hand their work is so free from error.

Naturally an individual in many cases does not wish to talk about himself or his doings, but doubtless that same person is interested in reading of the doings of other people, their aims and work.

A journal cannot lead public opinion. It can only be in advance of it. If it has struck the right note paper and public progress together. If it has not its advance along any line is of no more utility than would be the charge of a colonel in front of his regiment while the regiment stayed behind.

KANSAS LADIES ARE KEEN FOR OFFICE

Topeka, Kan., June 17.—Political announcements are beginning to blossom forth in the Kansas county papers, and it is noticeable that in hardly a county of the state, although it still is early is there an absence of women candidates. In fact, it is expected that there will be more women candidates for office in Kansas this spring than ever before, certainly not less than two hundred and probably twice that many names on the primary ballot in August.

The women appear to believe that this is a propitious year for them to run for office, with the state being stirred from end to end with the suffrage campaign.

More than 50 counties now have women superintendents of schools, and scattered over the state are half a dozen women in other offices. But the race this year is not confined almost exclusively to the office of County Superintendent. The other offices most sought are County Clerk and Registrar of Deeds.

These and that of clerks of the district court are more in line with women's fitness, although in one county a woman has announced for sheriff.

She is Mrs. L. P. Heck, of Salina whose husband was sheriff of Saline county for several years. Mrs. Heck is familiar with the duties of the office, having served as a deputy under her husband.

One thing in favor of the women is that all those who have been elected to office have given general satisfaction, and in many cases they have gone into office leading the ticket. The politicians have come to see that a popular woman candidate on a ticket is likely to draw most of the independent vote. Generally, in fact nomination for a popular woman candidate, no matter on which ticket she runs, is equivalent to election. This has resulted in bringing out the women candidates this year in greater numbers than ever.

While the women cannot vote in State elections in Kansas, or for county officers, they can hold any office in the state from Governor down. In Populist days women were particularly favored and while none of them held state offices, many were appointed on State boards, and to other positions. Mrs. Eva Blackman of Leavenworth, served more than two years as one of the three Police Commissioners of that town, and, being the personal representative of the governor, was practically the Chief of Police.

PROMISE IS GOOD FOR FIVE HUNDRED

Membership Campaign of Progressive Association Starts Off Well.

The first day of the membership campaign being conducted this week by the Progressive association was marked with great success. Shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday the various committees began their work and a little later the names of the newly joined members began to roll in.

President Dr. Smith was among the first of the workers to show pay dirt when he walked into the secretary's office with a list of six; after him one by one the solicitors of the committees came, each with the welcome intelligence that some other or others had joined the grand and glorious march of the optimistic. Early in the afternoon the century mark was passed, and the results later on indicate that the ambition of the association to enroll 500 names of bona fide and patriotic citizens will not be impossible.

Itemized lists containing the names of the new members may be seen on application to the secretary at the office of the association, who also will be glad to explain to anyone taking the trouble to ask, how essential the movement now projected will be in turning the eyes of the world toward Westminster which just now is on the eve of the greatest commercial epoch in her history.

The secretary also reports that the tickets for the first public luncheon of the Progressive Association which will be held on Wednesday, are selling rapidly, the affair already giving promise of being a very successful one.

At this luncheon Mayor Lee and Mr. J. D. Taylor, M. P., will speak on subjects relative to the good of the city, while the various committees engaged in campaign work will be enabled to exchange suggestions and helpful hints which will tend to make the canvas more comprehensive and effective.

Last evening it was given out that although three committees had reported to headquarters the membership roll had reached a total of 124.

BUSINESS IS BRISK ALONG MILLSIDE LINE

Fraser Mills Families, on Business and Pleasure Bent, Demand Multiple Unit.

On Saturday and Sunday business on the new B. C. E. R. Millside extension fully warranted the construction of the line. On Saturday particularly traffic was so heavy that from 5 p. m. to 12 p. m. the company were forced to run a train of two cars instead of the usual one in order to accommodate the population of Fraser Mills, who were in the city to do their week-end shopping—a privilege accorded them for the first time since the completion of the line.

On Sunday the Millside cars were also crowded, many employees of the mills and their families taking advantage of the convenience to make a Sunday trip to Chilliwack, which is rapidly growing in popularity as a resort for the weary workers in and around Westminster, who, having spent six days in unremitting toil, turn on the seventh to the places where nature exists fresh and unspoiled, where the green swards shrink pleasantly beneath feet more accustomed to concrete sidewalks and where fresh, pure air, untainted by the gritty soot of industry, sweeps cobwebs from the brain, and fits one for the succeeding six-sevenths days of work in the allotted place in the city's mart.

Yesterday's total of passengers carried shows that this innovation in the city's transportation system is well appreciated.

Sir George Reid in Berlin.

Berlin, June 17.—Sir George Reid high commissioner for Australia, who is visiting the German capital, is doubtless gratified by the welcome he is given in the columns of the "Berliner Tageblatt," in which a long article appears insisting on the advantages to both countries which would arise from more intimate relations between Germany and Australia, both of which are at present profoundly ignorant of each other. Sir George Reid is to give a lecture on the subject before the members of the Reichstag and other interested persons.

A Fancy Story.

New York, June 17.—Miss Mary Hedger, a wealthy young English woman, who says she has been handicapped by her father's riches reached New York yesterday on board the liner La Provence in quest of a job. The young woman, who is a close friend of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the Suffragette leader says she is 22, an astrologer, an artist, a musician, a singer and a Suffragette, but said that she had not decided upon an occupation. She added that she had long wanted to make her own living, but never had a chance to do so in England.

BISHOP TO VISIT CARIBOO COUNTRY

New Church Consecrated at Tynehead Yesterday—Gift of Mr. W. J. Walker.

Bishop de Pencier spent a busy time on Sunday and Monday visiting different points on the lower mainland in connection with church matters. On Sunday morning, he confirmed a large class of candidates in St. John's Church, Central Park, leaving there at noon for Port Moody where a new parsonage has been erected. This building was opened with a service during the afternoon while in the evening he conducted a confirmation service in the little church there.

Yesterday the Bishop visited Tyne Head, where he consecrated a new church there, which has been erected through the kind generosity of Mr. W. J. Walker. This makes the third edifice given to the church by Mr. Walker. The new mission at Whonock is to have a pastor in the person of Rev. E. C. Collins, who comes from the diocese of Qu'Appelle. He will assume charge on July 7.

Bishop de Pencier leaves at the end of the month on a visit in the Cariboo district. This will be his first official call in the northern section of the province, and the bishop is looking forward to the trip which will take him into this rapidly developing section of the province. He expects to have to undergo some hardships in the way of travel before he arrives back in the city some time during the middle of July.

The Church of England has purchased a new site on Cordova street, Vancouver, to be used as a Japanese mission. The old property was sold, the price obtained being far in excess of what the church paid for it some years ago. The new mission is said to be better situated, and the bishop has high hopes of making the work more successful than has been done in the past.

Racing for Life.

Toronto, June 17.—A wild screeching rush through space of the modern mogul engine, with the whirring revolution of the wheels, the rays from the locomotive's headlight cutting the midnight blackness, the engineer with hand on the throttle encouraging his iron steed to do its utmost, while in the only coach is an anxious surgeon with a dread realization that somewhere in the blackness ahead is a patient lingering between life and death and that a minute more or less may mean Death's victory or defeat; such is the "emergency special" frequent enough in fiction but a somewhat unusual thing in actual life.

Occasionally the public read of the startling record race across a continent against time and death of a railroad magnate or great financier, but the cost of such accommodation places the "emergency special" beyond persons of ordinary means. The recent record trip of Herbert A. Bruce from Toronto to North Bay to perform a surgical operation gives the subject an opportune interest and may justify a passing consideration.

An item of between five and six hundred dollars added to a doctor's bill on account of traveling expenses is no small matter even in cases of emergency. Yet such is the cost of an emergency special train from Toronto to North Bay and return. The rate is based on mileage. There is a minimum charge of $25, while for 100 miles the tariff charge is $150 one way and $250 return.

For distances over 100 miles the rate is $1.50 per mile of such excess one way or $2.50 for the round trip. On this basis as North Bay is 227 miles distant this round trip charge would be in excess of $550.

The cost is prohibitive except to the well-to-do and makes the "emergency special" a rather unpopular luxury.

Local railroad officials state that calls for such special trains are few aad far between. Three or four a year is the average for the C. P. R. and G. T. R. For the Grand Trunk the special to North Bay was the first this year. Moreover, it is said to be the longest run in the history of the road for an emergency special, with one exception. The latter was a run to Montreal two or three years ago but G. T. R. officials have forgotten the circumstances and no special records are kept.

Passenger motive power is generally available and a special train may be ready on about an hour's notice. The emergency special of course has the right of way over other traffic.

As frequent, if not more so, as special trains for doctors on emergency calls are incoming emergency cases. But even these are uncommon. Due to the cost and the fact that there are fairly good medical ability and hospital facilities in outside towns calls for emergency specials are not numerous.

Telephone Revolution.

"An announcement from Rome of messages sent by wireless telephony over a distance of 160 miles is such a remarkable jump in distance that it may, perhaps, mark an epoch in the advance of this invention as momentous as the intelligence in 1899, only thirteen years ago, that Mr. Marconi had succeeded in sending wireless telegraphic signals across the English Channel. The wireless station on Monte Mario, in Italy, succeeded a month ago in sending a wireless telephonic message to the Island of Ponza, a distance of 65 miles. Last week by some improved method of transmission, this distance was increased till the messages reached another wireless station on Maddalena Island; and it is said that the message was transmitted with such distinctness that a long newspaper extract was heard, and even a change in the voice of reading it was detected. This is a more positive statement of success than any made hitherto."—Pall Mall Gazette.

SPORTS

PLUMBERS AND PRESS AT DAGGERS DRAWN

Fireworks Expected in Coming Lacrosse Game—Alex. Turnbull's Services Sought.

The rumblings that have been heard by residents on Clarkson street during the past few days have at last been fathomed. The staff of the British Columbian are out with a lacrosse challenge against the plumbers of Mahoney and Kennedy, and truth to tell, this self same challenge was snapped up without a murmur.

It's sure to be some game this, as the feeling between the two firms has not been of the best in the sporting world for some little time. Manager Maiden, of the Balmorals, was elected the chief monka monk of the Fourth Estate aggregation yesterday and he at once went the rounds getting the necessary registration papers signed. This has to be done as a clause in the contract expressly demands that no ringers are allowed to participate. The game is to be staged on the Queens park oval some evening next week and from all accounts will be a hummer from start to finish.

Want Referee Alex.

The members of the executive are now trying to secure Alex. Turnbull as referee as this gentleman appears to be the only individual that can keep the two teams in check. The following is the list of players who will represent the two teams:

British Columbian—Joe Tyler, goal; Biscuit Peele, point; Ed. Peck, cover point; Smithers, Brunett, Standish, defence field; Bob Stephens, centre; Roy McDonald, Chambers, Rufus Sangster, Bill Maiden, G. J. Levy, home field. The hoodoes will be J. J. Randolph, McCormick, Harry Gibb and J. W. Cunningham.

Plumbers—Lindahl, goal; J. J. Kennedy, point; Tom Kennedy, cover point; Bill Galbraith, Grumpy Spring, Doc Sibley, defence field; Hughie Gifford, centre; Parnell Keary, Captain Cook, John A. Johnson, J. Parr, T. Davies, home field. Helpers, R. L. Peters, Rade Ree and Walter Muir.

The timekeepers are not yet announced, but unless the plumbers have charge of the time sheets, they will protest the game. Needless to say the game will reach the maximum length allowed.

Fourth Estate Challenge.

After the Columbian staff has recovered from the injuries received in the lacrosse encounter with the plumbers, there will remain another enemy to tackle. Yesterday a challenge was sent to the sporting editor of the afternoon contemporary from the baseball nine of the Westminster Daily News.

From an unofficial source it is understood that the same has been accepted and from now on the newspaper boys of the city will be seen cavorting around the dark lanes of the city getting in training for the coming event. It's sure to be some game and 'twould be well for the managers of the different city league teams to be on the side lines in the hopes of signing any possible stars.

Of course it is always natural for the manager of the home team to shoot out a little free advertising as to the merits of his bunch of bush leaguers, and in an interview late last evening, he gave out the startling information that the Roosevelt-Taft fight would fade into oblivion compared with the local scrap. The date of the mill is yet to be fixed.

SATURDAY'S AFTERMATH.

Scribes Still Commenting—B. C. L. A. Meets This Afternoon.

The various reasons for the Vancouvers' defeat on Saturday, which have been given out in the Terminal City papers extending over the past three days, have about reached the joke stage. The limit was reached yesterday morning when a Vancouver scribe explained that Griffith was ruled off for cross-checking Grumpy Spring "after the whistle had blown."

If a player does not deserve the rest of the game for swinging at an opponent after the gong has sounded then it is about time to shut up shop. As for the referee, not a single check was handed out that was undeserved, and the Westminster players got the same impartial treatment regarding handouts as did the green shirts.

The B. C. L. A. will hold a meeting in the Vancouver Press club this afternoon for the purpose of filling the vacancy on the lacrosse commission caused by the resignation of Dr. Doherty. Several names have been mentioned, but until the executive of the two teams meet, nothing can be gained by purporting to make a guess at their decision.

Sappertons Attention!

The Sapperton intermediate lacrosse team are requested to meet at the store of C. A. Welsh, Sapperton, this evening at 6 o'clock, where autos will be in attendance.

Baseball Tonight.

The Moose and Balmorals will battle on the Queens park diamond this evening. Both captains are out for a win, so a good game should result.

The Balmorals will field the following team: Stein, Williams, Digman, Silver, Ryall, Sherbino, Sinclair, Mason, Brown. Spares will be Canfield, Small, Glass, Henry and Frith.

The game will start at 6:30 o'clock sharp. Umpire Turner, assisted by a Millside man, will officiate.

BASSANO FIGHT.

Bayley Training Hard at Calgary—Reason Date Changed.

Bassano, June 17.—Joe Bayley, who arrived in Calgary a short time ago, is now training at the National Hotel, East Calgary. He has a ring constructed there suitable for milling and Cyclone Scott, a champion from the West Coast, is his trainer.

A large number of people visit these training quarters every day to watch the western champion get into shape. They are all of one opinion, that Bayley is looking good and should be able to give the eastern champion, on June 27, at Bassano, the hardest battle of his career.

The date of the bout between Bayley and Allen has been changed from June 29 to June 27. This change has been made to make it possible to secure railroad accommodation for the large crowds.

On June 29 the volunteer camps of Alberta break up and all available cars will be in use to transport them to their different destinations. On June 28 also, the cars will be used for the same purpose. June 27 will be a much better date for everybody, as Saturday is a bad time for clerks and business men to leave.

This change of date will not affect the condition of the boxers in the least. Both boxers will have to weigh in at ringside 133 pounds.

Allen is now on his road to Calgary and will stop off at Chicago, Toronto and Winnipeg en route. He will start training at Calgary immediately upon his arrival here.

Bayley's training is causing much comment among sports in Calgary. He is a trim, well-developed athlete, and is like lightning on his feet. He has a punch with either hand, upon which he depends a great deal to win the coming bout. His two and three-round bouts with Scott are fast and hard and Bayley shows considerably more science than Scott, who is much heavier.

The people here seem to think that Bayley will win the contest, but as few of them have seen Allen work, this opinion may not be lasting.

Poor Treatment.

The gentlemen representing the great nations of the civilized world and having charge of the Olympic games, throw open their contests to amateur sportsmen, whatever their race or color. A Toronto hotelkeeper turns away a guest, who is almost certain to be an Olympic competitor, because his skin is black. That is the difference between Toronto's point of view and that of the Olympic commitee and those having to do with the Olympic meet, and among these men are not only commoners, but noblemen and even princes. Toronto's exclusiveness is on a par with that of a Mississippi village.

Stone Age Men Deformed.

Paris, June 17.—We hear a good deal of the degeneracy caused by the spread of civilization and luxury, and therefore learn with some satisfaction that our primeval ancestors were just as rheumatic as some of their descendants may be. Dr Lucas Championniere announces the results of a very careful investigation undertaken by Dr. Marcel Baudouin, who has been directing the researches engaged in by the Prehistoric Society of France at Vendrest, in the Seine et Marne. Dr. Baudouin has examined the skeletons of upwards of 100 men and women who lived in the stone age, and he has observed deformations in the backbones of a number of them. In the male skeletons these deformations were chiefly to be noticed at the base of the neck and in the lumbar region, while in the case of the female skeletons they were mostly conspicuous in the back.

These defects Dr. Championniere attributes to chronic arthritis, and in the very interesting communication which he has just made to the Academy of Science, he argues that the dwellers in caverns in that remote age were quite as rheumatic, as gouty and as dyspeptic as people are at the present day. In fact, prehistoric men had all the ailments of their descendant without the port wine and the good dinners. Primitive men could develop gout on Spartan fare.

Duke of Fife's Will.

London, June 17.—The will of the late Duke of Fife, brother-in-law of King George, who died in Egypt on Jan. 29, has been probated. The duke left property of the gross value of $5,000,000. As the will is a royal one it is not available for inspection.

CLIFFORD SPRING

SOCCER FOOTBALL IS POPULAR IN U. S.

Colleges Are Taking Up the Game—New League Is Now Being Formed.

New York, June 17.—Soccer football is stealthily gaining a foothold in the east and in the central western part of the country. Already it has crowded out the American game of the Pacific coast, and while it has not yet supplanted the eastern game on the Atlantic coast, a league has been formed with six colleges as members and indications are that two more will join for the next year.

Princeton and Brown have been formally invited to join the Intercollegiate Association Football League, whose membership already comprises Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Columbia, Pennsylvania and Haverford. It is believed that the invitations will be accepted as the athletic authorities at Princeton and Brown have already indicated their desire to compete.

As will be seen, the personnel of league is, with the exception of Haverford, entirely "big teams." The schedule is so arranged that every team meets the other seven. It will be this very feature that will in time enable "association" to considerably undermine and dethrone the American game in the end, according to undergraduate talk.

Aged and timeworn "scraps" between the various of the large universities have resulted in the severance of football relations with many, so that at present they are not linked up with any series of games. Pennsylvania is a rank outsider and Cornell is almost in the same boat. Harvard and Princeton were kept apart for years on account of a silly mistaken idea.

The fact that the English game is what has brought all of these universities, by their athletic teams, into amicable relations, is what makes lovers of the great American gridiron sport fear for its life.

Add to that the annual outlay against fatalities and injuries in the rushing style of play, and the fatalities and injuries that always recur through the season, and the reason for these contentions is apparent.

But this it not all. The alterations and changes made to American football every year when the rules committee gets in its deadly work is weakening the game more than any other single cause, it is claimed. Coaches and candidates find every fall that it is necessary to learn practically the entire game over again, so changed and revamped are the provisions of the new rule book.

A good proportion of the 'old time' alumni of six or seven years back are backing the undergradutes who clamor for a return to the old style of play. The allowance of the forward pass under certain conditions is the only innovation which has found universal favor.

Association football was introduced as a side line on the Pacific coast and is now the one fall sport at Stanford and California universities. The University of Southern California took it up then and the University of Nevada followed suit. Announcements have been made at universities in Washington and Oregon that they too will put soccer teams in the field next fall. They clung to the American game as long as possible, but lack of opponents caused the change.

Coming further east, Utah University features both branches of football—English and American—each having about the same number of adherents. This year several Colorado institutions will have soccer teams and the University of Wyoming is thinking of following suit.

Still further east, it is learned that several disgruntled members of the university conference body in the central section will turn their attention to soccer since football games outside of conference members is barred. Minnesota and Michigan will have English teams in September.

Along the Atlantic coast, is is apparent that Dartmouth, West Point Annapolis and Syracuse are the only large athletic institutions that are not represented in the British game. The Carlisle Indians have a soccer team which plays a few games in the fall.

PLANS FOR PRINCES.

Queen Mary Decides Course of Instruction.

London, June 17.—Plans for the education of the younger sons of King George and Queen Mary have been arranged, and the Queen has had much to do with the decisions which have ben made.

Prince Albert is to go to Cambridge for a time, and is also to spend several months in a German university, probably either Heidelberg or Bonn. Prince Henry is not to go to Harrow, as was at first suggested. When he leaves Broadstairs he is to enter Wellington and later either Cambridge or Oxford.

Prince George, who is now at St. Peter's Court, will go to Osborne and Dartmouth and have a seaman's career, as with his father's name he has also the King's taste for a seafaring life. Little Prince John, who is not yet 7, is the only one for whom definite plans have not been made. At present he is under the care of a governess and tutor, who are trying to find out which way his inclinations are turning.

When Woman Rules.

Brockton Mass., June 17.—There is consternation among the men of Brockton because the women are agitating for a city ordinance to prohibit smoking on crowded public streets.

The anti-crowded street smoking campaign was launched last week, and society women headed the movement.

"Ashes from cigars in the eyes of pedestrians are a source of danger, and far from comfortable," one agitator said. "Lighted cigars may be held too near thin dresses, and there are other reasons too numerous to mention."

The Brockton women have succeeded for 25 years in keeping the saloon out of Brockton, and there are lots of other things they have done. Woman's will has been man's way thus far.

The Bernard Sisters

A Mystery That Hung About Them Was Finally Solved

By JEAN WINTER

I lived with my mother and sister in an apartment building and there became acquainted with the Bernard sisters, who occupied a small suit at the other end of the floor on which we were located. They lived very simply and without a maid. Their names were Margaret and Grace, Margaret being the older. Their names expressed their general makeup, Margaret being strong both physically and mentally; Grace gentle and pliable. I supposed at first that they had a small income on which they lived. At any rate, they did not go out regularly each day, as women do who work for their living. But my sister, who was at home all day, said they went out irregularly, usually remaining away from their rooms from two to three hours at a time. She believed they went to keep some business engagement, but they never mentioned where they had been.

Soon after we met them in the apartment house my sister, thinking that they must be lonely sitting by themselves, asked them to come into our rooms. They did so, and we were delighted with them. Both seemed endowed with the same gift, but in different ways. Possessing a keen knowledge of human nature, they could be very entertaining in portraying it in stories taken from their own observations of everyday life. When Margaret told of some woman of high degree, some tragic episode, some thrilling adventure, she threw herself into her part as if she were a professional actress. Grace was equally apt in narrating events concerning girls of her own kind. Margaret was a Portia, Grace a Juliet.

My favorite of the two sisters was Grace. Margaret was of a pattern to be admired. Grace was lovable. It occurred to me that Margaret was not only a woman of strength, but of violent emotions. I was not surprised one day to hear a storm going on in the sisters' rooms. The doors were all shut, and a window of theirs which faced one of ours was hung with a rug—it seemed to me to prevent sound from being heard. Nevertheless I could hear Margaret Bernard hurling vituperations upon her sister that made my blood curdle. I was tempted to go in and protect the poor girl from her unnatural sister's wrath. I restrained myself, and after the sounds ceased I rejoiced at my forbearance, for when in my sound senses I would never think of interfering in family broils.

Naturally the sympathy I felt for the younger girl drew me closer to her. I did not see her till the next day, when I met her in the hall connecting our and their apartments. It seemed to me that her face should wear a sad expression, but she showed no trace of the "roasting" she had endured. Indeed, she greeted me with a smile, and her smiles were beginning to go straight to my heart. I could not refrain from referring to her sister and was conscious of a frown passing over my face at the mere mention of her, but Grace appeared to be unconscious of any wrong done her by Margaret and spoke of her as usual. This I attributed to her forgiving nature.

But I was soon after destined to receive a shock. One evening when I came in from business my sister came into my room, closed the door behind her and looked at me in a way that told me she had some bad news for me.

"I have noticed your growing attachment for Grace Bernard," she said, "and, considering the mystery that hangs over these girls, I have been very much worried. Some time ago I overheard Margaret violently rating Grace for something, and I took a violent dislike to her for doing so."

"I overheard that, too," I put in.

"Today I overheard another trouble between the two. I could only catch snatches of what was being said, but it was enough to convince me that, after all, Margaret was right. This morning I overheard Grace making the most appalling confession to her sister. Grace seemed so crushed by what she had done, so penitent, so filled with despair, that I found myself weeping for her. And you should have heard how nobly Margaret talked to her. She was motherly as well as sisterly and was as encouraging as could be expected to one who had sunk so deep in shame."

"For heaven's sake!" I exclaimed, horror stricken. "Did you learn the nature of the crime?"

"Only this: I heard Grace say, moaning all the while: 'On my life, when I went to live with Harry I did not know that he was married. I believed myself to be his lawful wife. When he turned me off I was so sunken that all sense of shame had gone out of me, and when Maynard took me up'"—

I heard no more, for, burying my face in the pillows on my bed, I put my hands to my ears to shut out the rest of the horrid revelation. Betty quietly withdrew and left me to recover from the shock alone, knowing from experience that this was the best way to comfort me. And this was the finale of that blessed contentment which for weeks had been stealing over me, realizing as I did that I loved and was loved; this the girl to whom my affections had gone out! How could she have been able to hear those first tender words I had spoken to her knowing what she was? Had she possessed a spark of real purity she would have winced at being addressed as I addressed her, she knowing the while what she was. Bet had said that she was penitent. Had she grieved for her fall it would have been impossible for her to accept what I had said to her with that modest look on her face. Her self control had been marvelous. But I have always heard that those deepest dyed in iniquity maintain consummate assurance.

What should I do? Not for the world would I meet again the girl who had deceived me. I arose from the bed and began throwing some clothes in a suit case. Bet heard me and returned. She asked me where I was going, and I told her anywhere that would prevent my meeting that shameless girl again. Bet tried to quiet me, but it was no use. I was frantic. Fortunately I couldn't go away that night, for I had not decided where to go. Bet made me promise that I would not go in the morning without seeing her and left me to myself. She brought up my dinner to me, and I managed to swallow a few mouthfuls. After dinner I went out and walked the streets till late, then went in and to bed.

I awoke shortly before daylight with a realization of some frightful trouble hanging over me, but it was not till I had rubbed my eyes that I remembered what it was. Then the whole thing rushed upon me. I went down to breakfast and drank a cup of coffee. I knew that it wouldn't do for me to appear at the office in my present condition of mind, so I telephoned that I was indisposed and would not go down before afternoon. Then I sat down in the library and took up the morning paper. Bet came in and, standing behind me, soothingly put her arms on my shoulders. Then she called my attention to the fact that I was holding the paper upside down. I smiled a sickly smile and reversed it.

About 11 o'clock Bet came to me again with a scared look on her face and said:

"Oh, Henry, there's some awful trouble between those girls. I can hear them plainly in my room. Margaret has been treating Grace so badly that the worm has turned. She's desperate. Margaret is goading her, and she will either go mad or kill her sister or both. I do think you ought to go in there and stop it."

Springing up, I followed Bet to her room, and, putting my ear close up against the wall where she indicated, I listened. Grace was speaking, but I could only distinguish what she said when she spoke in her highest pitch. Her apparently subdued nature seemed to have been fired by taunting to despair. I listened till I heard Margaret say calmly, "Put down the weapon;" then I bolted for the hall and in another moment was rapping at the Bernard sister's door. Bet followed me, and when the door opened she and I stood on one side of the threshold, while the sisters stood on the other side.

"What's the matter?" asked both girls in a breath.

"Matter! What's the matter here?"

"Nothing."

"Nothing! Are confessed crimes, tauntings, threats at murder"—

I paused. A change was coming over the faces of the two girls. They looked at each other, then burst out laughing.

"Did you hear?"

"Of course we heard!"

"We thought we had the sound deadened. Come in and we will explain."

And they did explain. They sat as models for artists who portray the passions. Just previous to a sitting for any especial part they were accustomed to work themselves up to feel and consequently to look it. They committed to memory scenes in plays and rehearsed them to each other, then went at once to the sitting with the impression fresh. It was these rehearsals we had overheard. There was nothing to be ashamed of in their work, but it was unusual, and persons who knew of it asked so many questions that the sisters became tired of answering them.

I married Miss Grace Bernard and stopped the rehearsals. Her sister soon after married, and numerous artists were disappointed at losing valuable models.

CITY OF NEW WESTMINSTER.

"Street Improvement Debenture By-Law 1912, No. 2."
By-law No.—.

A By-law to enable the Municipal Council of The Corporation of the City of New Westminster, to raise by Loan the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000.00) for Street Improvements within the City of New Westminster, and in particular:

(a) For Clearing, Grading and Macadamising Streets generally.

(b) For constructing Culverts, Ditches, Crossings, Sidewalks and any other works necessary in connection with same.

(c) To pay a proportion toward the cost of permanent improvements to streets, including Paving, Curbing, facilities for Lighting, Storm Sewers and any other works necessary in connection with same, under Local Improvement By-laws.

(d) To pay a proportion toward the cost of constructing sanitary sewers under Local Improvement By-laws.

(e) To commute in whole or in part the City's proportion of the Assessment for Local Improvements on City property fronting on Queen's and Royal Avenue and other streets where permanent improvements are made under Local Improvement By-laws.

WHEREAS certain sums of money have been expended out of the general revenue of the City for the construction, improvement and repair of sewers, streets and sidewalks, and it is expedient that additional sums be expended in like manner and that the Corporation at large contribute such proportion of the expense of improving streets by the laying of sewers, sidewalks and pavements as the Council may determine, part of the cost of which is levied and raised under Local Improvement By-laws, and the amount required to be raised to pay the cost of such street improvements, including the contribution to the cost of local improvements is the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000.00).

AND WHEREAS it appears that if the said sum of $250,000.00 be appropriated from the general revenue of the City for the current year the rate of taxation will be excessive, and it is expedient that such excessive taxation should be avoided, and the said sum should be raised on the credit of the Corporation and that debentures should be issued for that amount.

AND WHEREAS for the payment of interest on the debentures proposed to be issued under this By-law and for creating a sinking fund for the payment of the said debentures when due it will be necessary to raise by special rate in addition to all other rates each year during the currency of the said debentures the sum of Thirteen Thousand Four Hundred and Sixty-six and 38-100 Dollars ($13,466.38).

AND WHEREAS in order to raise the said yearly sum of $13,466.38 an equal special rate on the dollar will be required to be levied on the whole rateable property of the City of New Westminster.

AND WHEREAS the whole rateable property of the said City according to the last revised Assessment Roll thereof is Seventeen Million Five Hundred and Ten Dollars ($17,000,510.00).

AND WHEREAS the total amount of the existing debenture debt of the said City is Two Million Five Hundred and Twenty-nine Thousand Nine Hundred Dollars ($2,529,900.00) irrespective of the sums proposed to be raised under this By-law and the "Harbor Improvement Debenture By-law, 1912," "Gas Plant Debenture By-law, 1912," "Hospital Debenture By-law, 1912," "Waterworks Debenture By-law, 1912, No. 2," "Parks Improvement Debenture By-law, 1912," and the "Civic Storehouse Debenture By-law, 1912," of which none of the principal or interest is in arrears.

NOW THEREFORE the Municipal Council of The Corporation of the City of New Westminster enacts as follows:

1. It shall be lawful for the Mayor of the said City to raise by way of loan from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate who may be willing to advance the same on the credit of the debentures hereinafter mentioned, any sum or sums of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of $250,000.00 and to cause the same to be paid into the Treasury of the said City for the purposes mentioned herein.

2. It shall be lawful for the Mayor to cause any number of debentures to be made not exceeding in the whole the sum of $250,000.00 for such sums of money as may be required, not less than $100.00 each or an equivalent expressed in pounds sterling of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, at a value of 4.866 to the pound sterling; and all such debentures shall be sealed with the Seal of the Corporation, signed by the Mayor and countersigned by the Treasurer thereof, or by such other person or persons as may be thereunto lawfully authorized.

3. The said debentures shall be payable on the first day of July, 1962 at such place or places as the Council of the said Corporation may from time to time appoint with the approval of the holders thereof, and shall bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per centum per annum, payable half-yearly on the first day of January and the first day of July in each and every year, and the debentures shall have attached to them coupons for the payment of interest which said coupons shall be signed by the said Mayor.

4. A special rate on the dollar shall be levied and raised in each year, in addition to all other rates, on all the rateable property of the City, sufficient to pay the interest upon the debentures and to create a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof when due, subject to any Act or enactment respecting the same.

5. Subject as aforesaid, there shall be raised annually by special rate as aforesaid, during the currency of the said debentures, the sum of Eleven Thousand Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars ($11,250.00) for the payment of interest thereon, and the sum of Two Thousand Two Hundred and Sixteen and 38-100 Dollars ($2216.38) to provide for the re-payment of the principal.

6. The proceeds of the sale of the said debentures shall be applied as follows and not otherwise: Towards paying the cost of the passing of this By-law and the issue and sale of the debentures therein referred to and all expenses connected with the issuance of the said loan, and the balance shall be paid over from time to time as required by the City Treasurer to the several persons to whom moneys are payable.

7. This By-law shall take effect on the 2nd day of July, 1912, and may be cited as the "STREET IMPROVEMENT DEBENTURE BY-LAW 1912 NO. 2."

8. This By-law before the final passing thereof shall receive the assent of the Electors of the said City in the manner required by law.

RECEIVED the assent of the Electors on the day of ————, 1912.

YOUR DOCTOR WILL RECOMMEND US.

We have been so exact in the compounding of prescriptions that we now possess a well earned reputation for accuracy and promptness. Never has a physician had a cause for complaint in one way or another. This sounds like self praise, but it is the duty of every pharmaist to see that such a service is given to his trade.

Bring your prescriptions to Muir's and the speed and sureness of your recovery from illness will be more certain.

See your doctor, then see us.

At a special meeting of the council which will be held on Thursday afternoon, tenders will be awarded for the paving of several streets, and other matters of importance will also be considered.

The protest recently voiced by Mr. B. D. Grant, secretary of the Trades and Labor council, Westminster branch, against the alleged employment by the city of unskilled painters in decorating the public library, has been referred to the board of works.

Arthur Lee, a resident of this city for over fourteen years, died yesterday afternoon at his home at 812 Henley street. The body has been removed to the undertaking parlors of Messrs. Murchie. The funeral announcement has not been given out yet.

Benjamin Eyles died yesterday afternoon in the Royal Columbian hospital after a short illness. The deceased had been a resident of New Westminster for nearly twenty-five years. The body now lies at Murchie's undertaking parlors.

Mr. W. E. Scott, deputy minister of agriculture, was at a meeting held at Strawberry Hill last night concerning a dispute which has arisen connected with the local Farmers' Institute.

Mr. George H. Steffins, assistant assessor of Burnaby, was last evening appointed assessor in place of Mr. H. D. Curtis, who recently resigned.

The name of Mr. A. G. Moore, clerk of Burnaby council, will be recommended to Attorney General Bowser for appointment as justice of the peace.

Mayor Lee and other city officials visited Burnaby yesterday to witness a road oiling operation there. This city has secured permission from the Burnaby council to use the machine for oiling Eighth street.

James Murray, who disappeared from his home in Buena Vista on Saturday, is still reported missing by the Burnaby police, who have the case in charge. After a vigorous search they have found no clue other than that he made his way towards the Burnaby Lake branch of the B. C. E. R.

Fire Chief Watson and Building Inspector Turnbull visited three city schools yesterday morning and turned in alarms of fire without even notifying the teachers. The 500 or more pupils at the Lord Kelvin school made their exit in just 40 seconds. At the Central school and at the High school both institutions were emptied in the amazing time of 56 seconds. The officials were thoroughly satisfied with the discipline kept up in the schools in regard to fire drill.

COMMITTEE.

Opium Suppression.

Bombay, June 17.—The merchants suggest that the government avert the threatened crisis by arranging with the Chinese government to take over the present stock of opium in India and distribute it according to the needs for the drug in China. The merchants say they are ready to close up the trade in opium if the government adopts their proposed plan.
