 A dance will be given in the Miners' Union hall on Tuesday evening, July 22, under the auspices of the Sandon baseball club.
 Four carloads of piping from St. Louis arrived over the K. & S. this week for the Payne mine. The duty on the pipe was $1100.
 Dr. Hendryx and party of the Last Chance came in Monday evening on the C. P. R. to attend the annual meeting of the Last Chance Company.
 P. H. Murphy, proprietor of the Filbert, and R. Hood, gentleman, located a claim near Bear lake last Tuesday, and named it Rain-in-the-face.
 The Orangemen's excursion to Nelson on the glorious 12th was largely attended over 100 going from Sandon, New Denver and Slocan city. All report having had an enjoyable time.
 Alderman Fletcher of Kaslo is now shack on the jerkwater line. Things are so quiet in the windy city that the balance of the aldermen would like to get into the roundhouse as wipers.
 It is reported that a big regatta will be held at Nelson some time next week. The event has been poorly advertised. An ad in the Paystreak would have broke the news gently to the outside world.
 D. J. McLaughlin, who has the armory contract at Kaslo, was in town for a couple of days this week. He reports work on the building progressing rapidly, and expects to be finished about the middle of August.

P. J. Hickey and son returned from Spokane on Sunday.
 Among the many recent inventions typifying the genius of British Columbia, for which patents have been granted, the Paystreak notes an amalgamator by Billie Bedel, Dan McPhail and Theo Adams of Kaslo.
 Boys, get in on the ground floor and secure a ticket for the grand ball to be held in the Miners' Union hall next Tuesday night, under the auspices of the Sandon baseball club. Good dance, good music and good supper.
 The C. P. R. will issue return tickets for the Knights of Pythias convention at San Francisco, August 1 to 5, from Kootenay common points, at $50 for the return, good all rail, or via steamer, including meals and birth from Portland, Victoria or Seattle.
 At the examinations held during the month of May and June thruout the province for entrance to the central high school, Miss Mabel P. Karr of Sandon passed, having 654 per cent. Miss Margaret Dewar of Three Forks also was successful, with 607.

Next Monday is nomination day.
 H. Giegerich of Kaslo was a visitor yesterday.
 Born—In Sandon, on Friday, July 18, to the wife of George Creetch, a son.
 Andy Hendrickson of the Miners' hotel left Tuesday morning for Frank, Alberta, where he intends going into business.
 At the full court sitting in Victoria on July 28 the appeal in the Star Mining Company vs Byron White & Company, is to be continued.
 The lobster who writes the impertinent pars for the Kaslo Kootenaiian ought to get hit on the head with a sledge hammer. His proper occupation during the present season is helping the city scavenger.
 George Roger, who left Sandon last May on a visit to his old home in Sarnia, Ontario, returned to town Tuesday night looking fat and hearty. While absent George visited the principle cities of the east, on both sides of the line, but was glad to get back to the salubrious climate of the Slocan.

Mining Float.

 The shipments this week were as follows: Rambler 120, Whitewater 60, Star 21, Payne 40, Ruth 20. Total 261 tons.
 The Last Chance started operations Thursday with a small force, which will be gradually increased as the work is taken up.
 Sandon is the best mining camp in the west. Her hills cover more of the precious metals than those of any other place in the world.

SENTENCED TO NINE MONTHS

VICTORIA, July 18.—William MacAdams, editor of Paystreak, was up before the full court today for contempt of court and was sentenced to nine months in the provincial jail at Victoria; also required to furnish four securities of $1000 each for good conduct; failure to provide which another year's imprisonment will be added.

B. J. Perry holds the piscatorial record of Slocan lake. He landed a 7 1/2 pound trout with a fly at Wilson creek on Saturday. B. J. is an enthusiastic disciple of Isaac Walton and he intends to attract the attention of coast fishermen to the resources of Slocan lake.
 The tail end of a Kaslo hurricane struck camp last Monday night. No damage was done here, but traffic was slightly interfered with on the C. P. R. and K. & S. roads, by trees falling across the tracks. At Kaslo it is reported, the storm was so furious that it blew the mortgages off the buildings.
 In the Harris vs Kerlin case, judgment was delivered last Friday. This case was first tried in 1900 before judge Walkem, but the judgment was only announced last week. It was in favor of the plaintiff, John M. Harris, and involved the title to the Sandon town-site, the defendants being squatters.
 The baseball match at Nelson last Saturday between Sandon and Nelson was won by the latter by a score of 8 to 4. It was a good game, and had pitcher McIntyre's arm, which was hurt at Revelstoke a couple of weeks ago, been right Nelson never would have scored. This is the first game Nelson has won in over two years. The Sandon team will play again in Nelson on July 25 and 26, and will send one of the strongest aggregation of freaks that ever came down the porphyry dyke.

A Subterranean Fish.
 A correspondent at McGuigan, who signs himself "Joe Bush," sends the Paystreak the following fish story:
 On the evening of July 14, when the men were lowered on shift in the Rambler mine, a large fish was discovered in the sump on the 600 foot level. After a fierce struggle the monster was secured and hoisted to the surface where it is still on exhibition. The creature measures 6 1/2 feet in length and weighs 30 pounds to the foot. It posses vocal organs and is apparently amphibious. The men who figured in the capture are somewhat confused in their descriptions of the leviathan while in the water. Some say its movements resembled those of a gigantic frog; others say it looked more like a small whale, while a few thought it was some sort of a sea serpent. What is a devil-fish like?
 You have them bad, Joe. Interview Dr. Keeley, and steer clear of the McGuigan booze. N. B.—A devil-fish looks like a ping pong player. The only difference is that the ping ponger has a jelly-fish head.
 That brainy rag, the Ayr (Ontario) News, remarks: "A child two-years old, lost its arm at Orillia, by falling from the platform under a moving train." Peculiar place for a platform.

Howard West Drowned
 The citizens of Sandon were startled Monday morning when the intelligence reached here that Howard West, the well-known assayer of this town had been drowned in Slocan Lake. A row boat had been picked up drifting on the lake near the west shore opposite Six-mile creek, containing the clothing of Mr. West, with bath towels, etc. Mr. West went down to New Denver last Sunday to spend the day with friends. After spending the evening at the home of friends he rented a boat and put out upon the lake for a swim before retiring. This was the last seen of him. The supposition is that he was taking a swim in the lake, using the boat as his dressing raft, and that he was taken with cramps in the chilly water and could not reach the boat.
 Parties have been searching all week along the lake shore for some trace of the body, but without success. He rests in the lake waters, and there is very little hope that his body will ever be recovered.
 Mr. West came to the Slocan in '94, and by strict integrity and honorable business methods soon won for himself the distinction of being the most reliable assayer in the country.
 Socially, as in business, Mr. West was the soul of honor, and his loss to the community will be much felt. He was born in London, England, and was a graduate of the Royal School of Mines of that city, and was always looked upon as an authority in metallurgical and mining matters.
 A business man that allows himself to think bad times cannot succeed.

Iron Production.

The blast furnaces at Irondale, Washington, derive their iron ore from British Columbia. It is declared the pig iron produced by those furnaces from our ore is the best, with one exception, manufactured in the world, and this broad statement is made by a United States government official connected with the iron industry. Mr. Carrigan, treasurer of the Irondale Smelting Company, speaking to a Victorian, said: "It has already been a matter for astonishment to myself and Mr. Swaney that you people of Victoria did not years ago undertake the development of your immense iron deposits. You have the ore, the coal, the timber, and the fluxes practically side by side, you have the very best shipping facilities, and yet you have done nothing. It is quite incomprehensible. We have proved now, beyond question, that your iron ores are second to none in the world, and we are in a fair way of securing the trade of the Pacific coast. We have just placed a large order in San Francisco, and we have sold one of your local concerns a small lot. We expect to furnish the Moran Bros. of Seattle all the pig iron necessary in the construction of the battleship Nebraska, the keel of which was laid on July 4, and if business will warrant the outlay, and present indications are that it will very shortly, we will instal rolling mills and a Bessemer plant and turn out steel plates and rails."

Opinion of Its Judiciary.

Toronto Telegram.

Canada has abased herself at the feet of the mere mortals who form the much-lauded judiciary of this country. Judge worship is a disease which afflicts the press, the bar and the legislature of all the Canadian provinces. Popular respect for the judiciary has degenerated into something like contempt for every principle which may conflict with the whims or prejudices or comfort of the judiciary. The judiciary of Canada generally, and of Ontario particularly, deserves respect. Public opinion in Ontario at least is not slow to give the judiciary all the respect that it deserves. The bar is sycophantic, the press is obsequious, and Ontario is not served by that healthy and critical public and editorial opinion which restrains the arrogance of the English judiciary.

Old Lists Cancelled

The amended provincial elections act comes into force on September 1st next. All the lists at present existing will be cancelled on the last day of August next when the collectors will be busy making up new ones for the next election. They will commence to make them up after September 1st next and until the last Monday in September. They will then post the lists publicly, and on the first Monday in the following November they will hold a court of revision, and the list as then decided will be the one used for the next general election—when we shall have the opportunity of seeing the effect of Mr. Martin's experience of voters' registers. One thing is certain, it will stop the custom which has been in vogue, and which has been played with so much success hitherto, to the serious detriment of the country.

Wouldn't This Jar Your Anatomy.

The London Morning Post of June 16, mentions among those presented at the court held by the king and queen at Buckingham palace on the preceding Friday, Mrs. Dunsmuir presented by countess of Onslow, and Miss Dunsmuir presented by her mother. The account says:

"Mrs. James Dunsmuir, the wife of the premier of British Columbia, wore an exquisite dress, the skirt in ivory satin with trellis work of point re gaize paillette, connected with jeweled chiffon roses, flounce and back panel in gold and diamond embroidery, and the bodice in gold and embroidery satin point de gaize and rose garniture, the train in rose pink panne lined with petal shaded chiffon, with trails of La France roses, and she carried a boquet of La France roses.

Miss Bessie Dunsmuir's skirt was in cream chiffon embroidered lisse and chiffon roses pailletted silver over white satin; bodice in embroidered chiffon with garniture of lilies of the valley; train in white chiffon composed entirely of deep tucks mounted on cloth of silver, with garlands of lilies of the valley, and she carried a boquet of the same flowers."

"Anarchist" Altgeld.

The following were the last words delivered by John P. Altgeld just before he was stricken: "I am not discouraged. Things will right themselves. A pendulum swings one way and then another, but the steady pull of gravitation is toward the center of the earth. Any structure must be plumb if it is to endure. So it is with nations. Wrongs may seem to triumph; right may seem to be defeated; but the gravitation of eternal justice is upward and toward the throne of God. Any political institution, if it is to endure, must be plumb with that line of justice.

Tender-Hearted Bess.

She wouldn't beat the carpet,
 She wouldn't whip the cream,
 She wouldn't pound the beefsteak,
 Too cruel it did seem.
 She wouldn't strike the matches,
 She'd give hot tea no blows;
 She made no hit at baking,
 She wouldn't wring the clothes.
 She wouldn't cut a chicken,
 Or think of drowning care,
 She wouldn't mash potatoes
 Or bang her golden hair.
 She wouldn't do all these things,
 My tender-hearted Bess,
 And so she smashed all records
 At downright laziness.

Ain't It the Truth.

"A woman is not dressed until she puts on feathers," observes a fashionable eastern man, "whereas a hen is not dressed until all the feathers are taken off." That may go all right in the west, but in the east a woman is not considered to be in full dress until she is reduced to about the same state as the plucked hen.

Striking Contrast.

Must have been easy to gain notoriety in the olden times. Job had a few boils and got his name in the Bible. Nowadays if a man has smallpox and boils all over him half the town is running after the editor asking that his name be kept out of the paper.

Keep Away From Dawson

Dawson is overcrowded with laboring men. Hundreds are going idle on the streets. With all the public works and railroad building going on the market is overstocked. The conditions at White Horse are almost identical with those of Dawson. Stay away from the north, as the chances of free lunches are extremely limited.

If Christ Came to London

What would he see? All the sacred edifices on the line of route of the coronation procession disgraced by being hidden in masses of ugly staging and tawdry decoration. And for the most sordid of reasons—profit. The established clergy have taken to heart Iago's advice, "Put money in thy purse." They have disgraced the houses of God for certain pieces of silver. The lineal descendants of the money-changers whom Christ drove out of the temple seem to have emigrated to England.

SANDON, JULY 19, 1902.

AUGUST NINE is the date set for putting a crown on Edward. It will not be as big a show as the one that was to have taken place on June 26.

EUGENE V. DEBS says that the Progressive Party is no good because it is a half-way affair. For just exactly the same reason the Progressives believe that their party is all right.

THE Nelson Economist murmurs thusly: Premier Ross has a majority of one. Even with one he is better fixed than Premier Dunsmuir, who has very often a minority of three or four.

OVER in Spokane a stranger held a pair of pistols that beat the strongest hand in a gambling house. There was $1600 in the pot and nobody called the stranger. A little later the police were called.

KING EDWARD is improving. That is, the other day he asked for a cigar and smoked it. When a sick man begins to hanker for the weed, he's all right. It is worth a whole column of doctors' bulletins.

THE latest society fad in New York is a monkey dinner, at which African monkeys dressed in red have seats at the table. Native American monkeys in evening dress do not fill the bill for New York's swell set.

A HOUSTON, Texas, judge has decided that a man with a paid up union card on his person is not a vagrant, even tho he is out of work and owns nothing but the clothes on his back. The union card is bound to become a passport.

FROM Alaska comes the report that Noah's ark has been discovered there perched on a lofty peak, and petrified. The story lacks verification. There are grave chances that the man who told it has not reflected sufficiently upon the fate that awaits the liar.

INDIANA authorities are said to be worried because a check for $635,000, drawn in favor of that state by the government, has gone astray. There seems no occasion for losing sleep. Any hobo who turns up with the check and tries to get it cashed will be viewed with suspicion so marked that he will never get the money.

THE Grits and Tories of Nelson played a game of ball last week at which Honorable Joseph Martin acted as umpire. Joe filled the job to perfection. Whenever he found that the crowd was dissatisfied with a decision he immediately reversed it or amended it to suit the grand stand.

THE Spanish court is seriously alarmed because the king takes a quiet sneak once in a while to play the all-night dances around the tough joints of Madrid. If Alphonso would come to Sandon some of the Silver City's sporting element would probably make arrangements to give him a run for his money.

AS A KIND of a sideshow of the coronation festivities, London's poor were given a square meal. There were 90 miles of tables and 80,000 waiters. Over 800,000 people sat down to eat the bread of charity. Think of it, fellow pilgrims, over one-tenth of London's inhabitants looking for a hand-out. In the light of this awful truth, what a mockery the coronation pageant does seem.

WILLIAM BLAKEMORE is probably the most able mining man in British Columbia. He emphatically declares that the coal reserves at Fernie should be opened by the government so that the Crow's Nest Coal Company could not tie up the whole Kootenay country when they fail to agree with their men. This is an endorsation of the Progressive platform by a man who knows what he is talking about.

THE printing press has made presidents, killed poets and furnished bustles for beauties. It curtailed the power of kings, converted bankers into paupers and graced pantry shelves. It has made paupers out of college presidents; it has educated the homeless and robbed the philosopher of his reason; it smiles and cries and dies, but it can't be run to suit everybody, and the man will go crazy who tries.

HAVING no cable connection with the outside world, Honolulu pulled off its coronation festivities on schedule time, entirely unaware of the fact that the London show had been postponed. When a ship arrived with the news that the coronation was postponed because King Edward was not in condition to stand up and be crowned the Sandwich Islanders assured the bearers of this intelligence that such a mishap made not the slightest difference to them. They had officially declared Edward crowned king and had duly celebrated the event. If Edward had failed to carry out his end of the program that was no fault of theirs. So far as they were concerned the matter was closed.

ALL voters' lists will be cancelled on the last day of August. The recorder of voters will begin on the first day of September to make up new lists and will accept applications until the last Monday in September, the 28th, when the lists will be closed for revision. A new form of application has been adopted, the blanks for which have not yet been issued, but will be forthcoming before the first of September. Everyone entitled to a vote will have to register between the 1st and 28th of September, no matter whether his name was on the old lists or not. No recorder of voters has yet been appointed for the Slocan constituency, and unless the government makes an appointment all applications will have to be forwarded to the registrar of voters, Kaslo. Everyone entitled to a vote should bear this fact in mind that they will have to register over again or lose their franchise.

THE hangers-on around the Spanish court are spending their spare time guessing whether or not the Spanish king is crazy. If you leave it too this great family journal, he certainly is. So are all other kings, emperors, czars and hereditary rulers of every kind. Any man who would let a gang of priests, soldiers and sycophants plunk a crown on his head, place a sceptre in his hand, wrap him up in the royal robes of state, sequestre him from the great throbbing, pulsating throng of humanity whom they call his subjects, and tell him that he rules these people whom he does not even know by a God-given divine right, is crazy beyond the slightest shadow of a doubt. All the histories of all the ages prove that hereditary rulers from Belchazzar to Emperor William and King Alphonso are egotists and fools. No sane man could believe that the accident of his birth makes him an earthly agent of the Almighty God.

HARRY TRACY has once more proved the fact that the day of the dime-novel hero is not quite over on the American continent. With the sudden demise of Jesse James, the peaceful incarceration of the Younger brothers and the later wild finale to the careers of Rube Burrows and Sontag & Evans, the two-handed gun man was supposed to have passed out. But Tracy has revived all this and newspapers and magazines east and west are awakened to reminiscences and traditions of earlier days, when the gun play and the holdup was the conventional pastime, when the draw was quick and the aim was certain. Those were the days when men carried their lives in their hands, when every man was a law unto himself and the only arbitration was the crack of the six-shooter. Those were the times when the dancing masters of the west called off the changes with a Smith & Wesson, when chivalry consisted of being ready to shoot at the drop of the hat and the society lion was the man with notches on his gun. In "Her Letter" Bret Hart makes the belle of Poverty Flat speak with fond memory of "the night that I danced down the middle with the man that shot Sandy McGee." But those days have been buried with the past and the tales that come down to us now are touched with the glamor of romance and the mellowing, softening influence of time. The cowboy is the last cavalier, but his days are numbered and his scope constantly lessened by the irrigation ditch and the barb wire fence. The man who rode the range from the Rio Grande to the Saskatchewan, who applied his artistic potentialities and a piece of red-hot hay wire to transmogrifying brands, who shot the father and married the daughter, who chased Indians from the LaPlatte to Old Fort Whoop-up and sold them whisky when he caught up with them, this man has passed his time limit and his finish is in sight. It is only when some daredevil like Tracy goes out in single handed protest against the world that such memories are revived.

The odds against Tracy are big—the world against one man—and for the safety of society it will be better when he dies with his boots on. But there is something picturesque and admirable about the audacity of the desperado which will cause many a law-abiding citizen to wish him luck. As a criminal he is probably the least dangerous kind to have at large. The smooth, sleek bank swindler who will rob widows and orphans by a skillful system of deflection and then escape thru the medium of an artful lawyer and a bribed judge or jury, is a thousand times more despicable than the gun-carrying Tracy. The swindler takes only one chance, that he might by accident meet an honest jury. The desperado takes a gambling chance against the universe. Self-preservation is the first law of nature and Tracy lives up to it. He breaks jail to escape from a penalty worse than death, and he overcomes his captors in the only effectual manner—by killing them. As an outlaw he seeks no unnecessary quarrels. When he shoots, he shoots to kill, because he knows the deputy sheriffs mean to do the same. His daring is spectacular, his endurance is almost incredible and his generalship is grand. In his little war with the world Tracy is showing an ability and bravery which if it had been used in the right time and the right place would have brot millions to his feet to worship him as a national hero. As an individual it is murder for him to kill a sheriff in order to preserve his own life, but as a soldier in uniform he might have won rank, honor and the adulation of the mutable many for deeds less honorable and more blood-thirsty. Such are the contradictions and inconsistencies of our scheme of civilization.

Wants the Whole Thing

EBS CONSIDERS THE PROGRESSIVE PARTY A HALF WAY MOVEMENT THAT WILL GO FLUEY.

Writing to the Canadian Socialist, published in Vancouver, Eugene V. Debs says:

The trip I have just concluded in British Columbia was remarkable for the large attendance at the several meetings and the great enthusiasm which marked the proceedings at each point. The trouble was that the hall capacity was inadequate at almost every meeting. In most places many could not be admitted for the want of room. There has been a great change since my previous visit to the province a little over two years ago.

While an undercurrent of opposition was felt, it really amounted to little and did not get above the surface anywhere. The only thing in this line I deem important enough to mention is the Provincial Progressive Party, a middle class movement, which proposes to take the short cut to power and distribute official favors. In this party are to be found anarchists, single-taxers, direct-legislationists, cast-off capitalist politicians and many honest, but misguided men, who know little or nothing about socialism. The party promises those who are inclined to socialism that it is the very party needed at this time to lead up to socialism. In the next breath it assures others, who are opposed to socialism, that it is just the party to head off the socialist movement. The platform may be properly described as a jar of mixed pickles. Among other things it provides that judges and other officials shall be granted annual passes by the railroad corporations. Its chief recommendations to the unthinking is that it will grow quickly and deliver the gold bricks while you wait.

The party has no mission except to retard the progress of the bona fide socialist movement. It will do this for but a very short time and in twelve months, or less, it will have ceased to exist. What is wanted in Canada, as elsewhere, is a strait-out class-conscious socialist party, and such a party is the socialist party of Canada, to whom men are bound to turn, when they realize that there can be no compromise with the enemy and that a party that seeks to harmonize the conflicting interests of the classes involved in the class-struggle is simply the party of the capitalist class and should be shunned by every man who favors the emancipation of the workers from the centuries of slavery and inhumanity.

I take this occasion to return my cordial thanks to the members of Trades Unions and others for their kind and hospitable treatment which I appreciate and shall gratefully remember.

Latest About Tracey

By Wireless to The Paystreak.

SEATTLE, July 18.—The latest received here from Cudihee's scouts: They have Tracey surrounded and he may be shot or lassoed at any moment; and they haven't Tracey surrounded and haven't seen him for days. He is supposed to be enjoying a clam bake somewhere on the Pacific slope. This is official.

Very Sensitive.

Vancouver World.

That enterprising member of the Tourist Association who ventured to suggest that American visitors be shown our supreme court in session, had best beware. As Billy MacAdams can attest, these same judges in their glory of wigs and ermine are distinctly sensitive on the subject of contempt.

Not a Dangerous Man.

Nelson News.

MacAdams has to answer to a charge of contempt of court for publishing in his paper an article which ruffled the dignity of the court. Billy may be to blame in the matter, but it by no means follows that there is any desire on the part of the community to see him cinched. The country has less to fear from a man of MacAdams' stamp than it has from the toadies whose chief endeavor is to gloss over all the shortcomings of those in authority.

Boquet From the Cent Belt

Toronto Moon.

The Paystreak, Sandon, B. C., has a very severe case, and there may be others. The S. C. of B. C. has William MacAdams in its folds. Mac has been saying things about the courts of B. C. which is contrary to the British constitution, which distinctly provides that any person shall have perfect liberty of thought and speech, provided that the bosses have it not "sub-judice." In the meantime, mum's the word.

It seems that one J. K. Clark has been trying to get J. Frank Collum to pay up on sales of 83,333 mining shares. He didn't try the supreme court of B. C. till September, 1900, and now, because the thing has been put off on an appeal till—some time, Mac kicks. Now, MacAdams, gird up your loins like a man and answer. What are appeals for but to be heard? Who can hear an appeal but a court? Therefore, if A sues B and B appeals that A has no case, what can a court do but wait? Q. E. D.

And MacAdams kicks and says that Clark is put off so that in time he may die or quit. The court does not want Clark to do anything of the sort. They want him to live, and, after the other side win their appeal, let Clark appeal, and so keep grist in the mill.

MacAdams ought to know—if he knew as much as a smoked salmon, that the judiciary should have a while shooting in the fall when he brought on his little business. Then comes Christmas, when even a loon wouldn't go to law. Then winter sets in and the roads are blocked. Then spring freshets and washouts leave the roads worse than in winter, and when the roads dry up there is the trout fishing, that even a judge might enjoy. Then come the days, when even a dog wouldn't be a judge, unless he got a judge's pay, so that a hearing of the case is a difficulty, unless we can get God to make a longer year, or quicker judges. And Mac kicks because there are two odd years used up. Two years are as nothing to him who allowed legislatures to make judges. There is an eternity ahead of us, Mac. Cheer up. Time will not cease for a bit.

The Medical record finds that times of war are times of low birth rate and high death rate. War, therefore, burns the nation's candle at both ends.
