FISHING BOAT "FISH MAID" TURNS TURTLE IN STORM

Capsized Last Night in Deep Water Four Miles from Dundas Island---Capt. Chris. Johnson and His Crew of Five Men Were Saved by the Fishtug "Muirneag" of Claxton---Were Clinging to the Keel When Rescued by Capt. Macdonald.

While fishing off the banks four miles out from Dundas Island last night the gasoline fishingboat Fish Maid turned turtle, throwing her crew into the water. After an exciting time, during which the unfortunate men only saved themsleves by clinging onto keel of the upturned boat, the crew were saved by the gasoline fish-tug Muirneag of Claxton which was fishing near by. The men, suffering from exhaustion and exposure to the icy seas, were cared for and brought into the port this afternoon.

Had Heavy Cargo

The Fish Maid was a boat of about forty feet in length, long and slim of build—not a very good boat in bad weather. She was well known in Prince Rupert harbor, which she often visited with cargoes of fish. At the time of the disaster she had a cargo of seven thousand pounds of fish in her holds, and was on her way home from the banks. The weather was threatening, and the sea heavy. Captain Chris Johnson then had his boat a mile or so ahead of the Muirneag, which was to follow her on her way home before the storm broke.

Squall Struck Her

Captain Donald Macdonald of the Muirneag was watching her, when he saw a aquall strike her broadside, and the little craft with her cargo lay down among the seas and disappeared from sight. Leaving his nets he made all haste to the scene, and there discovered Captain Chris Johnson, Engineer Charlie Landry and four other men from the Fish Maid struggling in the waves. At great risk to his own boat he brought her alongside the wreck and got the men off. The vessel he had to leave, for in the height of the storm that broke it was dangerous to stay there.

The Vessel

The Fish Maid was a two masted ketch built in Vancouver. She came to Rupert a year ago, as the property of McKay and Butterfield, owners of a line of fishing boats, whose names all end in "Maid." She was at the wharf in Prince Rupert only the day before yesterday, before leaving for the halibut banks.

A Narrow Escape

The rescued men are all grateful for their rescue. They had no time to prepare for the disaster it came so suddenly. Their vessel had two dories but they had been battened down to the decks in preparation for the bad weather. When the Fish Maid turned turtle the crew only saved themselves by crawling out of the windows of their boat as she lay floating on her side.

By wirelass at 3 p.m.

Str. Humboldt sighted capsized Fishmaid 10.33 last night, a mile from Tree Point and righted her. Sea too heavy to tow, let her drift. Message from Baughman, master.

KITSELAS MEN START A LIBERAL ASSOCIATION

Satisfied That Reciprocity is a Good Thing, and as a Protest to the Provincial Government's Treatment of the Settler They Organize for Action---Had Some Kind Words to Say About The Daily News for Espousing the Cause of the Settler

(Special Correspondence)

Kitselas, May 1.—An organisation to be known as the Kitselas Liberal Association was formed here last night at a meeting of settlers and business men. There was a large attendance, and before the evening was over there were thirty-one fully paid up members enrolled. Much earnestness and enthusiasm was evinced, and the association expects to become a strong force in the district.

List of Officers

The following officers were elected:

Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. President.

Hon. William Templeman, Hon. Vice President.

Mr. J. E. McEwen, President.

Mr. R. C. Macdonald, Vice President.

Mr. J. D. Wells, Secretary and Treasurer.

Mr. Frank R. Angers, Mr. William E. Cannon, Mr. L. H. Kenny; Organizer Executive.

Favor Reciprocity

Speeches were delivered by several of those present in appreciation of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's work for the country, and of the benefits to be derived throughout the entire Dominion by the passage of the reciprocity bill.

Denounced Land Policy

Emphatic protests were made against the administration of the natural resources of British Columbia under the Conservative regime, more especially in lands, timber, petroleum and coal. A number of settlers who had hitherto been Conservatives, joined the association, and voiced their protest against the bitter partiality and discrimination that had been used to coerce voters.

Words of Praise

The secretary was instructed to express the thanks of the association to the Prince Rupert Daily News for its help in voicing the feeling of the settlers, for its fight to have the public lands administered in the interest of the bona fide settler, and to secure fair government.

The meeting closed with the singing of "God Save the King," and with a feeling of great hopefulness for the future of the Kitselas district.

TINY GASOLINE LAUNCH MAKES VERY LONG TRIPS

J. W. Strombeck Starts This Morning on Prospecting Trip After Having Navigated These Coasts from Cape Mudge to Stewart in an 18 ft. Open Boat With a 1 1-2 h. p. Motor

Early this morning J. W. Strombeck and his brother Charles G. Strombeck left Prince Rupert for Alice Arm on a prospecting tour. They are travelling in one of the most interesting gasoline boats that ever visited Prince Rupert. The boat is an eighteen foot "Andy Linton" 5 ft. 8 in. beam, double ended, and fitted with a 1 1-2 H. P. Palmer gasoline motor. In it J. W. Stromberg has journeyed from Prince Rupert to Campbell River only about 100 miles from Vancouver, to within a few miles of Stewart, and all around these coasts.

Snugly Equipped

For house, he has devised a strong light curved covering of cedar strips arched, and thin planking, canvas-covered. Within, the boat is most compactly fitted. All kinds of stores are snugged away in clever lockers and racks along the sides of the boat. At bow and stern there is room for any amount of gear. The boat carries gasoline enough for a 600 mile run. Under his prospector's licence Mr. Strombeck is entitled to shoot for food at all seasons and thus he need not carry a great store of provisions, but the boat is provisioned for all ordinary needs.

Can Face Rough Weather

Those who know these waters pretty well, realise that Mr. Strombeck must have a wonderful knowledge of the tides and coast conditions to enable him to run his tiny craft so successfully. The boat is a fine little sea-boat, and has faced very severe weather safely in the course of her journeyings. Her "skipper" carries charts and all the equipment needed for navigation. He sleeps aboard his boat, running her into the sheltered nooks he knows of better than most people along the coast. With his little stove going, and his craft dry as a bone inside, he can defy the worst weather. Should his gasoline give out, he can make sail and get along almost as merrily in a breeze as he could under engine-power. An ingenious sliding mast is fitted to the boat, and she carries the usual sprit sail common on these coasts.

Mr. Strombeck and his brother are to make a cruise extending to several months in the Alice Arm neighborhood. In their calling as prospectors they have located several likely properties. The brothers came originally from Finland, and finding the life of the cities a poor investment as regards health, J. W. Strombeck gave it up, and took to his boating life. He has never had cause to regret it.

TO MANAGE FISH PLANT

Mr. Job Rideout Goes to Queen Charlotte Co.

The announcement is made by the Queen Charlotte Cold Storage & Black Cod Fishing Company, Limited, that Mr. Job Rideout has been appointed superintendent. Mr. Rideout is a Newfoundlander, so that it is unnecessary to say that he knows something about fish.

This appointment means that the actual operations of the company at Queen Charlotte will now proceed without delay. The buildings are erected, the boats secured, the fishing banks selected and now with a capable and trustworthy superintendent, everything seems destined to proceed smoothly and profitably.

Seven Dollar's Worth

John Larsen, a Swede, paid the usual $5 and costs this morning for having been drunk and disorderly last night.

WILL REPRESENT US AT THE CORONATION

Col.-Sergt. Geo. Leek of the Earl Grey's Rifles Will Leave Prince Rupert in the Morning for London—Sketch of His Career—First Trip to His Old Home in Twenty Years—A Popular Representative

With eighteen years military service behind him Color Sergeant George Leek, of Earl Grey's Rifles, will leave on the S. S. Prince Rupert on Friday morning to officially represent the regiment and the city at the coronation of King George V. in London, England, on June 22.

No better type of a man will stand in that long various colored uniformed line of soldiers of all nations that will stretch from the gates of Buckingham Palace up and along the broad avenues and streets to ancient Westminster Abbey that has stood since the fourteenth century on the banks of the Thames and now in the shadow of the British Houses of Parliament, where the placing of the crown on the head of His Majesty, by the Archbishop of Canterbury, will take place.

No one would think to look at Color Sergeant George Leek that he once was a dry goods' clerk. It's true though. He started his business behind the counter in an English city and wielded the yardstick until he was 19 years of age. Red blood coursed through his veins, as it does through the veins of all healthy boys—it's a thousand per cent better than blue blood—and he pined to wear a red coat. In March 1890 he joined the famous crack regiment the Grenadier Guards and though he was only in the regiment four years he left with an excellent character and with a sergeant's rank.

Col.-Sergt. George Leek who leaves in the morning to attend the Coronation. While away Sergt. Leek will contribute a series of letters exclusively for readers of The Daily News.

Then he joined the Worcestershire constabulary and helped to keep the peace in a portion of the county until 1898, when he joined the Birmingham City Police.

In 1891 he found himself in Rochester, New York. There he fell back to his old business for a time as dry goods clerk. He stayed with it for twelve months and then transferred to El Paso, Texas, where he hung out his shingle as a real estate dealer. Dysentery and fever drove him out of there, so he went to Everett, Washington. Alaska gets most of the sightseers and roamers some time or other, so in time it got George Leek. He was in business as a real estate artist in Seward.

The sight of Canada made him feel a longing for the old flag, so Vancouver was his next home. There he put in some time with the 6th regiment which he joined. Three years ago he came to Prince Rupert and joined the Provincial Police. When Earl Grey's Rifles were formed here last April, but there, you know the rest.

Color Sergeant George Leek will join the members of the 6th regiment at Vancouver and start across the continent with them next Sunday. On the way across, contingents of other regiments will be picked up and the whole Canadian body of soldiers and police that is going to the big show will sail from Montreal at the end of this month.

The trip will not be all honey. There will be some stiff drilling to put in, but after the work is done, George and the other boys, will be free to visit their friends before they return. This will be the first trip to the old land for George Leek since he came to this side of the globe in 1891. He will, of course, visit the "old folks" who are looking forward to seeing their son again.

This afternoon the S. S. City of Seattle will call here on her way south, and will carry mail for Vancouver and southern ports. The S. S. State of California is due here from the south on Friday. The Camosun as usual this week on Friday.

The Busy Committee

This afternoon there will be a meeting of the Streets Committee, the committee which claims credit for being the busiest bunch of all.

DID THE PASTOR LIE TO GET THE COAL OPTION?

Particulars are Given of the Sensational Charge Which Mr. Z. M. Hamilton is Bringing Against Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis—Preacher Was Trading in Coal Land Options

Vancouver, May 10.—Full particulars of the charge of fraud against Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, in regard to coal lands on the Queen Charlotte Islands, valued at $20,000,000 were given out this morning. The properties in question are 20,000 acres of coal lands known as the Robertson and Wilson tracts on Graham Island.

Says Pastor Came

Mr. Z. M. Hamilton of Victoria, the original owner of the properties, alleges that Rev. Dr. Hillis came to him saying that he was the representative of Mr. Leigh S. J. Hunt, the noted capitalist, and that any contract made with him had equal force as with Mr. Hunt, he being Mr Hunt's agent. On the representation made Hamilton and associates gave an option on the coal lands valued at $20,000,000 to Rev. Hillis, who afterwards sold them to Mr. J. A. Moore, for the Western Steel Corporation of Seattle, which values the coal lands in its assets at $20,000,000; in fact, the lands are stated as the chief assets of the corporation.

Charges Fraud

Mr. Hamilton charges that these representations of Rev. Dr. Hillis were fraudulent, and he is asking the courts to revoke the contract of sale entered into, on the grounds that it was obtained by misrepresentation. As the ultimate purchasers, the Western Steel Corporation are said to purpose floating bonds on the security of the property, Mr. Hamilton and his associates have secured a lis pendens, tieing up the property until their action is disposed of.

Has Had Trouble Before

This is the second suit brought against Dr. Hillis in British Columbia courts as a result of his transactions in Graham Island coal lands. Early last month suit was filed in the Vancouver court in behalf of Mr. Edward Hodgson, an engineer, who asked for $50,000 stock in the Western Steel Corporation and $10,000 salary, alleging that Dr. Hillis owed him for this work in developing the coal lands and negotiating the sale of the property to the Western Steel Corporation.

A LESSON IN TOLERANCE FROM ENGLAND

Usually we think of old countries as toiling along the path of progress, burdened under precedents, and groaning under the weight of ancient growths. Young countries we think of as free from the tyranny of the past. The doctrine that the child is father to the man is held to be good among them.

Great Britain which of late years seems to have discovered the secret of the renewal of youth, upsets that doctrine. She is becoming more radical than her children. An English financier last week was explaining that the inroads of the Lloyd-George budget on the wealth of the British aristocracy was driving a lot of it to British Columbia for safety. Anomaly of anomalies.

Before the British House of Commons is now a bill—the Shops Bill—which because of its domestic character may get little notice abroad, but which is an object lesson in tolerance to the lawmakers in the Dominions over the seas. Some of us who know of the tyranny of the Lord's Day Alliance and its special legislation, might well doff our hats to the men who have drafted the Shops Bill and piloted it through to a Grand Committee of the British House.

In our own Dominion many a shopkeeper has been and is being convicted of a criminal offence for selling a loaf of bread on a Sunday, usually to some hapless family whose suppertable the previous night had been raided by friends, with the result that the next day the hosts had either to go hungry or break the law and get an extra loaf. One poor fellow who took a photograph of his house on the Sabbath was convicted at Toronto. Refreshment dealers are fined for selling ice cream, unless it is part of a full course dinner—as if an icecream appetite on Sunday is sin, and an ice-cream-and-meat-and-potatoes appetite is lawful. Even the purchase of a magazine to read on a Sunday is a criminal offence for which the Lord's Day Alliance hires detectives to work on Sundays to collect evidence and establish cases. To buy a postage stamp is a crime. About the only thing one can safely buy in our sister provinces is a Sunday cigar, it having been decided by an appeal court in Ontario that tobacco being mentioned in the pharmacopacia it follows that a cigar is a drug. But to keep the transaction free from the taint of crime, the customer must buy his Florfina or his Panatella from a druggist, and not from a cigar dealer.

In the Shops Bill, the British House proposes to throw over the Act of Charles II. under which small traders have been persecuted in some parts of the country, and make it lawful to sell or purchase on Sundays, newspapers, magazines, periodicals, medicine, milk, refreshments, and similar necessities and luxuries. The Bill bases its legislative proposals on the broad fact that certain customs have arisen in the country that involve great economic and industrial interests, and are necessary to the social happiness and education of large masses of the people.

In reply to a large deputation of ministers who waited upon him to urge the prohibition of Sunday papers, the Home Secretary, Mr. Churchill was very frank. "I would sooner leave Parliament than do such a thing," he said.

By removing intolerant interference with the necessities and pleasures of peaceable citizens, who prefer to spend their Sundays as they like, and not as some other folks with different ideas would like, the British Government will best achieve its end, which is to limit as far as possible all Sunday trading that is not necessary to the happiness and welfare of the people of Great Britain.

NOTES DUE

When Mr. D'Arcy Tate left Prince Rupert with the assessment agreement in his pocket he promised the city that a reply would be forthcoming by April 15th. Nearly a month has passed since that date, but no reply has been received. Companies have a reputation to maintain for breaking promises.

Last year the private owners of lots in Prince Rupert had to pay taxes on $4,700,822.50. This year they will have to pay taxes on $7,820,830. That is a liberal margin for improvements. It is an increase of a fraction over 66 per cent on last year's assessed values.

The news that the Dominion Government will carry out improvements at Naden Harbor, further improvements to the Government wharf at Stewart, and build a $75,000 fisheries cruiser for the Pacific coast is good news. Money invested by the Government on this coast is as sure of good returns as is the money of the private investor.

But there is one thing the Dominion Government might have done for Prince Rupert, it might have voted $50,000 to build us a wharf. We need it, sure enough. If the Dominion Government were to build us a good substantial steel and concrete wharf, it would probably last us until the other Government wharf is ready—the one that was started two years ago, and of which the first pile is not yet driven.

The first number of a new magazine, "The Pioneer Magazine" published in Seattle, comes to hand. It is cramful of excellent stories of Alaska, the North, and British Columbia and announces its policy to be "to tell its readers the inside facts relating to the industries of the West and its opportunities." It looks as if it is going to be a force in bringing the attractions of the northern Pacific coast to the notice of the world.

DAILY NEWS IS IN JAPAN

The Paper You are Reading Tonight Goes to Tokio

FAR-REACHING POWER

Sent East and Westward the Daily News is Now on the Verge of Linking Hands Right Round the World.

On the coming trade with Japan and the Orient generally Prince Rupert bases high hopes of great prosperity, and not without reason, as all the world knows. Already a most significant sign of the certain dawn of this great Oriental trade for Rupert is found in the interest taken in our city by the Japanese themselves and by European men of business in Japan.

A number of Janapese subscribers in the city and at Port Essington read the Daily News, and forward it to their homeland. The paper is thus becoming known in the cities of Japan which are looking already towards Prince Rupert, and from Tokio the other day, came in a subscription from a prominent English banking house to which the Daily News is now being regularly forwarded.

For some time the Daily News, in its old form as The Optimist, has been reaching all the principal European countries. Now it looks as if the friendly newspaper which you open every day had only a little to go in its reach East and West, to join hands with itself right round the world. Thus the daily doings that tell of the ever increasing vitality of Prince Rupert are sent in their attractive Daily News dress through continent and over ocean into the older business centres to awaken and keep on the grow the world's interest in our city.

MAY ALTER EARL GREYS

New Color of Uniform Supersedes Khaki

GERMANY'S NEW SHADE

Slate Blue with a Little Green in It is Llikey to be the New Military "Invisible Hue"—Successful Experiment With It.

Germany has set the fashion for a new army service uniform. Khaki has had its innings. It was adopted by the British army and spread to practically all the armies of the world. Then it was discovered that although the khaki color was very suitable as a service dress for soldiers in the dusty plains of Africa and India, it was hardly efficient against the green summer backgrounds and grey-white winter coloring of a European terrain.

A German officer wandering on the Indian frontier had his attention drawn to the peculiar slate-colored body cloths affected by Yaghistan Afridis. He was told that the reason this color was so generally worn was that it disappeared rapidly on a rock-bound hillside, even in a blazing sun, and became invisible at a few feet distant in the night, and that it was used by the Afridis as an artificial protection in their blood feuds by day and thieving expeditions by night. He returned to Berlin with a report that set the army clothing experts thinking.

As a result of exhaustive tests the German general staff hit upon a blue-green-grey mixture that blended with the summer green and the blue-grey winter shadows of European scenery. Trials have given entire satisfaction, so much so that bodies of hussars when wearing the new uniform were mistaken for parties of led horses.

France has now decided to adopt a similar color, and the Ministry of War has selected a light grey-green for the kit that is to supersede the blue great coat and the red trousers that French soldiers have worn in victory and defeat for half a century. Two battalions taking part in this year's French manoeuvres will be supplied with uniforms made from the new material.

DEVOTED PRINCIPALLY TO THE INTERESTS OF WOMEN

This is a little section of the paper, which from day to day will be devoted to subjects of special interest to women. Any and all of the ladies of Prince Rupert are invited to contribute to its columns, and to take part in its discussions. Suggestions and criticisms are invited by the editor. The hope is expressed that "The Cosy Corner" will fill a social need.

Stunning Linen Gown

Plain and embroidered linen are put together in a manner shown in our sketch which introduces the short waist line and surplice collar on bodice. The latter when becoming is most effective, but one must be sure of one's figure to wear it satisfactorily. The tunic arrangement of embroidered linen is new and opens over the plain linen in panel effect.

The hat worn with this frock is allover embroidery, trimmed with rose leaves.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. C. F. Robinson of Seventh Avenue will not receive on Thursday of this week.

Mrs. Geo. Tite will not receive tomorrow nor again this season.

TEN ROBBER TOES

There is a story that I have been told,
And it's just as old as babies are old,
For Sweet Mother Eve, as everyone knows,
Told her babies the tale of the toes.

Told to her babies how ten little toes,
Each one as pink as the pinkest pink rose,
Once on a time were naughty and bad;
And sorrow and trouble in consequence had.

How this big toe wanted butter and bread,
After his mamma had put him to bed;
And this lying next said: "S'posen we go
Down to the pantry and get it, you know."

And this wicked toe cried, "Come along quick;
Let's sugar the butter ever so thick."
And this naughty toe cried: "Jelly for me
Top of the butter and bread, you see."

And this little toe cried: "Goody let's go,
We'll slip down the stair so quiet and slow."
So ten robber toes, all tipped with red,
Stole silently out of their snowy white bed.

While this wicked toe, so jolly and fat,
Helped nine naughty toes to pitty-pat-pat
Along the big hall, with pillars of white,
And down the back stairs devoid of light.

Then this little toe got a terrible scare,
For he thought in the dark of a big grizzly bear,
And this little toe said: "Nurse must be right
That goblins and witches are living at night."

And this little toe said: "A fox may be hid
In the hat-rack box right under the lid,"
And this little toe cried: "Dearie me, oh!
Lions and tigers is coming, I know"

Then Mama came with the beautiful light
Caught ten robber toes all ready for flight,
Yes, she caught and she kissed those ten robber toes,
Till redder they were than any red rose.

ECONOMY IN HONEYMOONS

Unintentional Coquetry of Milliner Supplants Another

William Christian Langenau, described by most of the ship's company of the Hamburg-American liner Cleveland as a Cleveland millionaire, has returned to New York after spending his honeymoon in the Mediterranean. Mrs Langenau, who was a milliner of Chicago when she became the bride of Mr. Langenau, admitted that it was true she had become acquainted with her husband when he went into her store last November and asked her for the finest and dearest hat she had.

He confided to her that the hat was for the woman he was going to marry and that he intended to take her out on a honeymoon that would not cost him less than $100,000. She said that she looked upon that as rather a too gorgeous expenditure even for a sixty-year-old widower. He asked her what her idea was about the expense of a honeymoon, and she said she thought she could have the time of her life on $50,000, or even less. Then he proposed and she accepted him, and, selling out her store, she went to Cleveland and they were married.

Mrs. Langenau said it was true that the bridegroom had popped the question in the manner related, and that she knew the name of the other lady but would not tell it.

Old Land Baseball

Charles C. Spink of St. Louis, will sail for England on Wednesday to organize a baseball league for the Britons. It is said there are enough Americans in England to support a small league. A few teams already have been formed, but there is no organization. Spink will look over the situation and if the prospects are at all encouraging he hopes to establish a six-club league and get a number of his players from America.

Strengthen Portland

The Portland team is to be strengthened. Judge McCredie has already decided to turn over to Nick Williams Outfielder Gough, who is a hard hitter. Gough was originally a pitcher. Jack Barry, who played outfield for Milwaukee last year and batted about .250 in the American Association, is slated for Williams' team. Archer, a swell left-hand pitcher, is also on the list and if the judge can get waivers on Fullerton, who has been doing fine work for Portland in the Coast league, he will transfer him.

Jack Johnson at It

Jack Johnson, negro champion, has returned from his two months, trip, and the first thing he did was to enter into a tentative agreement to box "Confessor Jack O'Brien before the latter's club in Quakerburg. No date has been set, but it will be during the first week in June. O'Brien guarantees Johnson a lump sum of $10,000.

Can He Come Back?

Rumors are current in boxing circles that Abe Attell, featherweight champion, may be compelled to retire from the ring. Attell's physicians say that the champion can not box again for at least one year because of the broken bone in his left arm in his recent bout with Frankie Burns.

CROSSING OF JORDAN

Resulted in Assault Charge by Gustave Gervais

PROVINCIAL POLICE CASE

Little Breeze on the Skeena During Voyage of S. S. Port Simpson. Case was Dismissed by Magistrate McMullin.

"After you, my dear Gustave," was what Ernest Jordan, mate of the S. S. Port Simpson did not say yesterday when Gustave Gervais had a little misunderstanding with him on the boat. All the same Gervais who is a Frenchman, came to the conclusion that Jordan was after him, for he charged the mate last night with assault. Magistrate McMullin investigated the matter with the result that the charge was dismissed. It was clearly a misunderstanding. In attending to his own business on the boat Gervais unfortunately effected the crossing of Jordan, but Jordan was not very cross, and amicable relations have been restored.

EXAMINED SIDEWALK

Mayor and Deputation Inspect Second Avenue

The conditions on Second avenue between Seventh and Eighth streets which make it impossible for the fire brigade to reach that point without great difficulty, are to be improved by a temporary sidewalk to do until the street is in shape for vehicles.

Yesterday afternoon the Mayor, Alderman Morrissey, and several members of the group of citizens who petitioned for a sidewalk at this point, paid a visit to the place. It was arranged that the city shall assist the petitioners in the construction of temporary means of access there, to get over the present difficulty.

There may be nothing new under the sun, but there are some improvements. Reilly's Bakery Lunch is an improvement over all other lunch rooms in Prince Rupert. 104-105

THE BEAR WAS A PIG

Graham Island Settler Had Some Fun With a Gun

TOOK NO CHANCES

He Fired into the Bush at a Big Black Bear, and Down Fell a Dead Pig—A Case of Mistaken Identity.

(Special Correspondence)

Massett, May 10.—The settlers around Massett are quietly retailing a story at the expense of one of their number, who shall be nameless. He had been very anxious to land a bear, and visions of juicy bear steaks, and a beautiful black fur robe rose before him when he heard a scrambling in the thicket a few days ago.

Carefully loading his gun, and creeping out into the bush he went to get Mr. Bruin. Cautiously creeping round tree stumps he got nearer and nearer to the sounds. Then he rose rifle in hand just a great big black bear about the size of the east wall of a house rose at him.

He took no chances. Bringing his gun into play he let fly right into the heart of the mass. When the sounds of the Dying animal's squeals and groans had subsided, and he knew the animal was dead, he went up to examine his prize, and found—a neighbor's' pig. There is mourning in the neighboring pig stye now, and subdued laughter wherever two or three of the settlers are gathered together.

THE HISTORY OF A FIRE

Prompt and Satisfactory Settlement of Claim

Dwellers in the old established countries are often guided by the axiom "slow but sure." This is not always true of this western country and an instance of promptitude in settling a claim for fire loss has just come to notice.

The fire which made a total loss of the premises and stock of Messrs. Stalker & Wells at their Hays Cove Circle Branch, is still fresh in the mind of the reader. The policy of insurance written with The Western Canada Fire Insurance Co. by The Mack Realty & Insurance Co. covering Messrs. Stalker & Wells' stock carried with it a certainty of prompt settlement which is a very important feature when a policy becomes a claim, particularly to a business firm.

This claim was settled by wire in six days.

You can be certain of the same prompt treatment by taking out a policy with The Western Canada Fire Insurance Co.

See The Mack Realty and Insurance Co. about it.

Vote for Alder to-morrow, May 11th, at the City Hall.

Edinburgh, Scotland, May 10.—Toward the close of the performance in the Empire Palace Theatre here last night fire broke out on the stage. The house was emptied without mishap to the audience but it is believed that a number of artists have been burned to death. Search of the ruins today revealed seven charred remains near the stage. One body has been partly identified as that of Lafayette who was performing when the fire broke out.

Price : Quality

A few large tailoring concerns are able to pay much larger salaries to expert designers than is possible for the small concern to stand, and being able to do this they very naturally get better men. Price is a consideration with about 95 per cent of men. On this the small tailor is absolutely without argument. He buys his piece goods in small cuts and from a jobber who is about three or four times removed from the source of the material. That means 50 per cent. profit every time the geods change hands. Figure the difference in cost as against the purchase by 20th Century tailors direct from the mills in necessarily great quantities. This same rule applies to everything else used in the make-up of a garment. Taking into consideration these two features, does it not appeal to you as reasonable that we are better able to supply your needs? If so, give us a trial, and then you will become one more in the long line of "well pleased."

Corduroy Pants
