GREAT BRITAIN THREATENS GERMANY WITH WAR

LITTLE LAD WAS LOYAL TO THE OLD UNION JACK

Pretty Incident in the Sunset Glow on Sixth Street Last Night—Curly Headed Prince Rupert Baby Boy Refuses Four-bit Bribe to Strike His Colors.

Sixth street was warmly aglow with the soft evening sunshine streaming over the water about seven o'clock last night. You could hear from the barber's shop as you lay back luxuriously in the tonsorial arm chair, the voices of the passersby, the men talking of buildings or street grading, the ripple of girlish gossip, the shrill merry chatter of the children at play. Suddenly a broad shadow swept past the sunlit window, and a thrill of excited boyish laughter rang out as a curly headed laddie bearing a huge tattered and dust Union Jack ran gleefully along.

Some Kid That

It was a veritable veteran flag, but the standard bearer was such a bright baby boy! His fair hair caught the ruddy sunglint, his merry eyes sparkled. His happy little voice rang out in the aeon-old, ever unconquerable challenge to the world of Youth, and Hope, and Love, and Joy. All the men looked up as the laddie passed, responding to the boy nature that years cannot age out of the hearts of the best and strongest. "Gee, that is some kid, isn't he?" was the exclamation, and the barber at the door made a jocular sporting offer to the youngster.

Strike the Flag? Never!

"Say, Kid, I'll give you four bits to run round with the Stars and Stripes instead of that flag you've got." The laddie paused. He may have been too young to know the worth of patriotism or to appreciate the imaginary terrors of the Annexation Bogey. His may have been only the practical boy sense that "A Union Jack in the hand is worth all the Stars and Stripes in the bush." Anyway he turned down the offer with royal disdain shaking his curly little head with all the determination of the Canadian Northwest. They tried to tell him it was a foreign flag, a Montenegrin flag, but no, no, he knew better. It was an old flag, a torn flag, and a dusty flag, but by jiminy it was his own flag and he would fight for it!

Challenged "The Army"

So waving his standard defiantly he darted off up Sixth street towards where to the tinkle of tambourines and rub-a-dub of drum, the banner of "Blood and Fire" led on the advance of the Salvation Army. Wide waved the "Blood and Fire" flag fresh in its unsullied glory. Wide too, waved that dusty old Union Jack so proudly borne by young Canada. Right alongside the Salvation Army standard-bearer the youngster stood, ready to give ground to none, ready to do battle to the death with any who dared attempt to displace him. All sunlit Sixth street, all the business end of Third avenue looked on with admiration. Young Canada, live, glad, and defiant beneath the worn and dusty folds of the dear old flag, what freeborn Canadian, what lover of the old land, Scottish, English, Irish or American, could have failed to admire?

PARLIAMENT STANDS UNITED

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, July 28.---The most pessimistic views regarding the acuteness of the Moroccan crisis were confirmed by Mr. Asquith in the House of Commons last night when he read from a manuscript which had been carefully prepared, a warning to Germany that Great Britain proposes to stand for what she considered are her rights, and to maintain the balance of power in Europe.

A further testimony of the gravity of the situation is given by the fact that the Prime Minister obviously had taken the leader of the opposition into the Government's confidence, for Mr. Balfour's declaration was no less firm than Premier Asquith's.

Such plain speaking on a question so fraught with the possibilities of a great European war has not been heard in the British Parliament in many years. The outcome of the situation now appears to rest almost wholly on Germany's shoulders.

The English newspapers are united in supporting the Government. They strongly urge that Germany be not permitted to make any African incursion that would seriously damage Great Britain's national interests.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, July 28—.(Later)—All the papers give prominence this morning to the Morocco question. They say that owing to the strong statements issued by Premier Asquith and endorsed by Mr. Balfour, these will tend to have a peaceful effect.

The Daily Chronicle, the Government organ, has authority to say that the international situation is easier today than it has been for some days, when peace was trembling in the balance.

The Paris and Berlin papers express satisfaction at the tone of Mr. Asquith's speech which all claim opens the way to a peaceful settlement.

Cause of the Trouble

The Moroccan question is not a new one. It has agitated the powers of Europe and threatened to turn Europe into a battlefield for several years past.

Morocco is the key to Africa from the Mediterranean. It is governed by a Sultan and a weak native government, and subject to constant internal troubles.

Conflict of Jealousy

The great European powers are in a conflict of jealousy lest any their number secure possession of Morocco and secure themselves there—such as for instance the way in which Russia obtained a foothold in Manchuria, or Great Britain in Egypt.

Interests at Stake

Especial rivalry exists between France and Germany. France is facing Morocco on the other side of the Mediterranean. She has a vital interest in seeing that her great rival does not secure possession of Morocco. Germany is ambitious commercially and territorially. She realises the strategic advantage of territory on the Mediterranean coast of Africa. And all of the great powers are alive to the commercial avdantage of getting a foothold in Morocco, and of keeping out all rivals.

Nearly War in 1906

In 1906 the question nearly led to war, owing to the intervention of France in Moroccan affairs being resented by Germany. Germany's threats over the Algeciras incident led to the retirement of M. Delcasse from the French Foreign Office and a subsequent international agreement.

Now Germany is the offender. To cap the list of grievances which France has against her, Germany three weeks ago sent a warship to Agadir. This move precipitated the whole question again.

British Fleet Ready

In the present dispute, Great Britain is in the attitude of backing up France in her resistance to German aggression.

A British fleet has been in readiness since July 4th, so delicate has been the situation.

"EMPRESS OF CHINA" IS NOW A TOTAL WRECK

Famous Pacific Liner Struck Submerged Rock While Going at Full Speed Outside Tokio Harbor—Japanese Warships Rescued Passengers and Mail—Feared Vessel is Total Loss.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Tokio, July 28.—The palatia. C. P. R. steamer Empress of China, which for years has been famous on the Pacific Ocean was wrecked last evening outside Tokio harbor. She struck a submerged rock while streaming at full speed off the Nojimisaki Light, in rounding the southern point of Awa peninsula.

May be Complete Wreck

The liner was in-bound with a full list of passengers from Yokahama at the time she struck. Her bottom was torn open by the rocks, and she rapidly began to fill, but there was no panic on board. The crew and passengers behaved with splendid presence of mind and restraint.

Warships to the Rescue

The vessel's syren drew the attention of the Japanese cruisers Aso and Soya which were in the harbor at Tokio at the time. They immediately steamed to the assistance of the wrecked liner. Their boats and launches were quickly lowered and the Japanese sailors saved the lives of all the passengers together with the steamer's mail.

The spot where the wreck occurred is a dangerous one. In the spring of 1907 the liner Dakota was wrecked close by. It is feared that the Empress of China will become a total loss. Even if repairs are possible, it will take at least three months to put her into commission again.

Large Passenger List

The passenger list was very large, and contained a great number of Vancouver people. Their names are not yet obtainable, but it is known that all are saved. The Empress of China left Vancouver for Japan on July 12th.

OBSTRUCTION IS STILL IN FORCE

Tactics may Result in Parliament Being Dissolved at Any Moment Now.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, July 28.—Another day devoted to an apparent obstruction by the Conservatives to the Government motion to proceed with the reciprocity proposals in the Commons has brought the inevitable dissolution of Parliament nearer.

It may come now any time, possibly by Saturday and certainly not later than the end of next week.

COMETS WERE EXTINGUISHED BY QUILLDRIVERS TEAM

Second Match of Indoor Baseball League Was a Very One-Sided Affair—At Seventh Round the Game Ended with Score 69 to 3

Comets have tails. Prince Rupert's Indoor Baseball Comets have just one tale. It is a tale of woe. They met the Quill Drivers at the Auditorium last night in the second of the League series of indoor baseball matches. At the seventh round the game was called off. The score then was 69–3 in favor of the Pen Pushers. Nuff Sed?

Well, the youngsters did their best anyway, but the Comets are mostly very boyish still, and though live and anxious to score, they lacked the weight and experience of the Quill Drivers' really capable team. Their deficiency is one which time will cure, and some of the boys who got so badly beaten last night will yet figure as formidable players in Rupert's First Outdoor Baseball League Teams.

Today the laddies may be unmercifully twitted by their chums who didn't step out on the diamond before such fearful odds. They will be told that Comets generally make a great stir about their approach, but when they arrive there is nothing to them but blazing gas and hot air. They may be referred to derisively as "Comics" and regarded accordingly in the light of a joke. But against even odds in the battlefield of banter they will be able to hold their own, and though they may not play another league match with the same lineup, the lightest and youngest of them may yet prove the finest ball player in Northern B. C.

FOUND BODY ON BEACH WITH WOUND ON HEAD

Dead Body of "Old Geo.," the Crab Man, Discovered by Tom Collins---Suspicions of Foul Play are Aroused---Dead Man's Dog Kept Guard Over His Body Until Help Came---Provincial Police are Investigating the Matter.

With a bad bruise on his forehead, and every suspicion of having been done to death by foul play the body of the old crab-man, George Lichtnauer, was found lying dead in about two feet of water over on the beach at the mouth of McNicholl Creek across the harbor this morning, close by his cabin door.

The body was found by Tom Collins, who worked with the Cold Storage Company and who lives about a mile inshore on that side of the harbor. Collins at once rowed over to the Davis Wharf, and summoned the police. Provincial Constable Godson with another officer, and Mr. Collins left at once for the spot in a launch. The body was taken out of the water, and found to have a mark as of a blow on the left temple. Blood streamed down the face, and was oozing from the eye and nostrils. The body had been about twenty-four hours in the water.

Pathetic Scene

When the police boat, closely followed by a "Daily News" special launch approached the drowned man, the miserable howling of a little skye terrier made the raising of the body still more pathetic. The poor little creature was wading out into the water trying to get as near as possible to its drowned master, but the water was too deep for it.

The drowned man was clad in canvas trousers and a dark shirt. His hands were stretched out before him. A metal watch chain showed at his shirt breast. Reverently he was laid in a boat and left while the police went ashore to examine his shack.

Food, Fresh Fish There

On the beach in a crab boat close by the shack there was a sack of provisions evidently purchased only lately. Some canned goods were there and some rye bread. On a board at the door of the shack there lay a fresh flounder. It might have been caught less than a day ago.

DOCTOR SAW MAN'S SPIRIT AS IT LEFT DYING BODY

Dr. O'Donnell of Chicago Convinced That he Witnessed the Flight of Life—Is an Expert Student of Spirit Phenomena

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, July 27.—That the flight of life from a human being has been witnessed, is the assertion tonight of Dr. Patrick S. O'Donnell, a famous X-Ray expert, who alleges that he actually winessed the spirit leaving a dying man who was a patient in Mercy hospital. Dr. O'Donnell couples with his announcement an assertion that he believes that he has discovered what in fact constitutes the soul or spirit, at least the "electrical current" which controls the actions and movements of the body.

Dr. O'Donnell already has surprised a score of Chicago physicians by demonstrating several experiments whereby the human aurora or electrical radiation was seen by the human eye. Several persons attended his demonstrations at Mercy hospital. Using a film of dicyanin and other chemicals, held between two small plates of glass, he seated together all the physicians admitted so that by looking through the screen they could distinguish the auras of the different subjects. The aura was shown as a strong radiation of light, surrounding the entire outline of the body and head. In carrying on these experiments Dr. O'Donnell has followed a discovery made by Dr. W. J. Killner of London. Satisfied that he had seen the human aura, Dr. O'Donnell conducted the experiment which he declares revealed to him the "flight of life."

DAILY EDITION. FRIDAY, JULY 28

IN THE NAME OF IMPERIALISM

The "tariff reformers" of Great Britain have sent word to the Conservative leaders at Ottawa to draw on them for a sum of half a million dollars to defeat reciprocity. The Conservative party is also expecting large sums of mopey from the opponents of reciprocity in the United States. This is the gist of the telegraphic despatches which came from Ottawa yesterday. They are worth probing into.

Half a million dollars is a great sum of money. It can do a lot of good—if rightly used. Incidentally, it can do a lot of harm if improperly used. What is the motive behind the act of the "tariff reformers" of Great Britain to prompt them to an act of such a kind? Is it a good motive, or a bad motive?

It can hardly be philanthropy. No philanthropist would send money from Great Britain to Canada. In England there are slum areas to abolish, child labor industries to root out, countless thousands of aged and infirm and unfit to be cared for. It cannot be philanthropy.

It cannot be political idealism, for there are ancient wrongs and iniquities enough in Great Britain to spend money upon in combatting.

Who are the "tariff reformers" in England? They are not tariff reformers at all. There is no commercial tariff to reform. England is a free trade country.

The "tariff reformers" in Great Britain are really "tariff deformers." They are chiefly manufacturers and capitalists, who, are anxious to have a tariff instituted in Great Britain, in order to supplement their legitimate profits with the illegitimate profits which a tariff makes possible.

They are so anxious to help the progress of the iniquitious tariff system, in the hope that it will be extended to Great Britain, that they are ready to invest half a million dollars in their effort to prevent the Government of Canada from removing the taxes on food products.

And this is done in the name of Imperialism? —? —?

Reciprocity is merely a proposal to remove the taxes from the food products of Canada and the United States. Its object is to reduce the high cost of living by removing the taxes from food. It is a purely domestic piece of business between the people of Canada and the people of the United States. It is being contested by a portion of the Conservative party of Canada for political reasons, with money supplied by Canadian manufacturers who get inflated profits under the tariff, by United States interests which fatten on illegal profits under the tariff, and the British "tariff reformers" who hope some day to join their companions at the swill tub of tariff-wrung extortions.

If the Conservative leaders at Ottawa had a sense of national spirit, they would throw the tainted money of the United States grafters and of the British tariff deformers in their faces, and tell them to devote it to undoing some of the wrongs in their own countries.

This combination of United States plutocracy and British gold to defeat the efforts of the Government of Canada to legislate for the best interests of the people of Canada, should enlighten the eyes of the people to the nature of the opposition that is being made against the reciprocal proposal to abolish food-taxes.

GOVERNMENTAL CARE OF HEALTH

In the social work of applying the laws of hygiene and sanitation, municipal, state and national governments must all take a hand. Each has a different function to perform.

To the municipality falls the task of providing for its citizens clean air, clean water, clean milk, clean streets, clean houses, and protection from infectious diseases. This implies abolition of the smoke nuisance, the closing of the sewers, prompt removal of the garbage, adequate cleaning of the streets, enforcement of ordinances against spitting, maintenance of an absolutely pure water supply, inspection of meat, milk and other foods, enactment and enforcement of strict building laws, publication and isolation of infectious disease, support of bacteriological laboratories, distribution and administration of anti-toxin and vaccine, free medical service, and above all, regular inspection and free treatment for the children in the public schools.

To the state falls the duty of seeing that the vital resources of the nation are not sapped at the root through child labor and the industrial employment of prospective and nursing mothers, or wasted by the subjection of its adult citizens to unphysiological hours of labor or conditions in mine, shop or factory.

The function of national governments is to prevent the importation of disease, through strict quarantine at all ports of entry, and the transfer of disease from one state to another, through strict supervision of all inter-state carriers; to disseminate information on every point pertaining to the vitality of the people; and to collect and tabulate vital statistics—a most important branch of the work of conservation which is at present sadly neglected.—(F. M. Bjorkman in "The World's Work" Magazine.)

LIVE PICTURE ARTIST'S PLAN

Will not Arrive until Wednesday Next in Order that He May Secure Picture of Both Prince George and Prince Rupert at Sea.

All Prince Rupert must pray for three months spell of superb summer sunshine to last long into the fall. There is every reason to believe it will say the old timers. But there is a special reason to hope that it will be as fine on Wednesday next as it has been for many Wednesdays past. W. H. Harbeck, the long hoped for cinematograph specialist whose beautiful work shown by Dr. Slocum was so much admired, will arrive on Wednesday 2nd August. He was expected by the Prince George tomorrow, but has altered his plans in order that he may have an opportunity of taking a moving picture of both the George and the Rupert at the particular point where they will pass each other on their north and south trips next week.

INTEREST DUE FOR 450 YEARS

Doubts Thrown on Right of Great Britain to the Orkney and Shetland Isles.

Doubts are cast upon the British ownership of the Orkney and Shetland Isles. The islands may, in fact, only belong to Great Britain in the sense that a pawned watch belongs to the pawnbroker. At the opening of the Norse Gallery in the Scottish Exhibition in Glasgow, Lord Salvesen said that, speaking as a lawyer, he was not quite sure whether the islands do not belong to Norway still. He is fortified by very high authority in the opinion that the crown of Norway, if prepared to pay the money for which they were pledged, with interest, would be entitled to redeem them. Plenipotentiaries assembled at Buda in 1668 decided not only that the right of redemption had not been barred by the lapse of time, but that it was imprescribable. The islands were pledged to the Scottish crown in 1468, so that interest is now due for nearly four and a half centuries.

ALBERTANS AND B.C. WEATHER

Chuckling Because They Think We Have Hot and Mosquito Infested Tracts in B. C.

The Alberta Press is chuckling over this wire which hails from Vancouver and says:

"Up in the interior the tableland of British Columbia, the weather is so hot that it is breaking records, while on the lower mainland the mosquitoes are so plentiful that they are seriously interfering with hay making operations. One saw-mill forty miles up country from Vancouver, was forced to close down last week for two days on account of mosquitoes, and surveyors for the Canadian Northern, though protected by gloves and nets, were forced to stop work. In Kamloops the thermometer stood around 106 in the shade.

Meanwhile Prince Rupert continues to enjoy fine weather—cool, sunny—summer to perfection.

HAVE You Been Getting Poor on the Money You Have "Saved" by Using Cheap Printing?

The business man who seeks cheapness as the First consideration in buying his printing, never really pays much attention to other elements in the transaction—except, perhaps, the matter of getting it done Quickly.

The money SAVED by buying CHEAP printing is money on which you have paid an absolutely ruinous premium!

It will make you poor if you persist in saving enough of it!

This is a little section of the paper, which from day to day will be devoted to subjects of special interest to women. The hope is expressed that "The Cosy Corner" will fill a social need.

PAPER BAG COOKING

Original Method as Discovered in Switzerland

Paper-bag cooking is by no means uncommon on the continent. The "bakes" managed by professional "bake" makers along the shores at various seaside resorts always have one paper-bag course, often more. A traveller in Switzerland, writing of some of her experiences for an American publication, says:

"When staying in a Swiss chalet, where pots and pans seemed to be scarce, I was curious as to how so many appetizing dishes could be prepared for a meal with a small stove and f pots. Going to town one day, I was requested to bring back a considerable quantity of thick grease proof paper. Such an unusual demand for a household where no cooked food or butter appeared to be sent out! Later, I was asked to help in the task of cutting paper for bags of various sizes; also, I was told these were used for cooking in the chalet.

"Then at once I realized the secret of the many delicious dishes that I had enjoyed, for no flavor or juices can escape in this method of cooking.

"I was also let into the secret of the bag-making, the paste for these being prepared with a well-beaten egg, mixed with flour to a thin paste. Two sheets of paper were cut to the size needed to contain a shoulder of lamb. These were smeared with the paste along both sides and one end, about an inch and a half deep. The sheets were then laid on each other, the two pasted parts touching, the bag was dried and ready for use, the paste hardening further when in the oven."

WOMAN AND MAN

Strength and Proportion of the Sexes Compared by Science

Woman's strength at most is only about two-thirds of that of man, while her height is as sixteen to seventeen and her weight as nine to ten. In woman the trunk is, relatively to the arms and legs, longer than in man. The head is also carried less upright, and the gait is comparatively unsteady and indirect. The greater length of the first finger, as compared with the third, is a feminine peculiarity. This relation, seldom found in man, is not uncommon among women.

Woman's lung capacity is in proportion to her size much less than man's, and the amount of carbonic gas expired is consequently less. Differences in the blood are well marked and are said to be significant. In woman it contains a less number of red corpuscles—about 4,500,000 in a cubic millimetre to 5,000,000 in a man.

Have you learned that "keeping boarders" is a business matter—and that it involves timely advertising in the classified columns of The News?

MAKING A NEEDLE

Dates Back to the Earliest Days. Probably Eve Used One

The early manufacture of needles was accompanied by more difficulties than at the present day and that these now very common articles were not within the reach bof everyody, for the poorer housewives had to do their mending and sewing with very clumsy articles fashioned either of wood or fish bones. Later on the best needles were made largely in Spain, and Stowe tells us that "a negro made fine Spanish needles in Cheapside, but would never teach his art to any."

England, it would seem, learned the manufacture in which she now excels from Germany. The "Needlemakers' Company" orginated in the reign of Henry VIII., and received their first charter of incorporation in 1656, and many curious powers were granted them.

It was at Long Crendon, in Buckinghamshire in 1650, that the wholesale manufacture of needles commenced, but Redditch soon became the centre of the industry, and has remained so ever since. It is, however, only three-quarters of a century that the process of manufacturing needles by machinery has been in operation, and the innovation was met by riotous opposition.

It takes in all about nine days to make a needle, and the cost per ton to the manufacturers is somewhere about 60 pounds. There are about forty thousand of the smallest-sized needles to a pound avoirdupois, but no counting is ever done nowadays by hand.

Arthur Bues of Seattle, turned in a hit last week that the fans will talk about for a long time to come. In the fifth inning, with Householder on second, Arthur caught the ball right on the nose. It went down the field and almost as high as the birdman was when he circled over Seattle. Netzel backed up on the ball and much to his surprise and chagrin found his back against the flagpole. He could not remedy the situation, because the ball hit the pole well above his head and shot off to the left. Bues had an easy time making a real home run inside the grounds and scoring Householder ahead of him.

New York, July 26.—Tom Kennedy, for two years amateur heavyweight champion boxer of America, has signified his intention of turning professional. Shortstop Bush of the Detroits is a member of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Ball Players. He states: "I have never had the spikes on my shoes sharpened. I don't believe in it, for the reason that I may dangerously cut another player. I suppose if I would sharpen up and go spike-first into the bases the opposing players would have more respect for my base-running ability. I am losing stolen bases right along. Yet, I haven't the heart to spike and maybe maim a player for life."

FOUND BODY ON THE BEACH

The little dog followed the men and whined piteously about the shack. It refused food however and seemed disconsolate only for the dead man.

"News" Races Police

The "Daily News" man took charge of the terrier while the police pursued their further investigations. The Daily News representative in the launch "Cloyah" driven by M. Ingalls romped across the harbor in record time and landed at the moment the police were raising the body. Forty-five minutes after the finding of the body the "Daily News" machines were clicking on the copy.

Dead Man Well Known

"Old George Lichtnauer, the crab man, was well known about town and many people used to patronise his wares. He was last seen in Prince Ruperrt the day before yesterday, but no one seems to have heard much of his movements since. There was no mark of violence about the body beyond the bruised eye and blood trickle. The police suggest that this may have been caused by a rock.

Old George Lichtnaeur came here from Texas a year or two ago. He has some people still living. Deceased was a clever piano player, and has played at little private socials frequently in Prince Rupert. Curiously enough the position of the dead man's outstretched hands when he was taken from the water was the position of the hands on the keyboard. It would seem that the ruling passion held even in death.

ORE SHIPMENTS FROM STEWART

August First will See Railway Ready for and Red Cliff Ready with the Ore According to A. Erskine Smith.

"Copper-gold ore from the Red Cliff mines will reach the Tyee smelter at Ladysmith in thirty days at the latest, said Mr. A. Erskine Smith, president and general manager of the Red Cliff Mining Company and president of the Vancouver Mining Exchange.

"Our ore bunkers are filled and we are smelting only the completion of the twelve miles of track connecting the Red Cliff district with Stewart to begin shipping. The railroad has been promised for some time, and Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann have assured us that they will complete the line before August 1. The tracks will be laid right under our bunkers.

"We are drifting on ore in three levels, and it appears as though Red Cliff Mountain were largely composed of valuable mineral bodies. The ore we are selling to the Tyee smelter is about equal parts copper and gold and we shall ship 100 tons a day if the boat service is as good as we expect.

"Our water power system is complete and we have discarded the old steam equipment. The gravity tram from mine to bunkers will be completed during the first week in August, and then we shall start shipping in earnest. Fifty men are at work at the mine, and with them we shall be able to take out as much ore daily as the boats can handle.

AT THE THEATRE

Splendid Performance of "Paid in Full" by May Roberts and Company.

Again last night the Empress Theatre was packed to hear May Roberts and her company of players. The play selected was Eugene Walters' well-known drama "Paid in Full."

The story is a dramatic one. Joe Brooks, an $18 dollar a week accountant for the Latin American S. S. line, is married to pretty Emma Brooks. Emma longs for pretty dresses and other things that can't be got on $18 a week. Two unhappy young people and an interfering mother-in-law, packed into a four-roomed Harlem flat is not an earthly Paradise.

Finally from borrowing money from the safe to take his pretty Emma to the show, Joe helps himself to thousands of dollars. His family circle move to a swell house. A raise of salary and a bonus of back pay, is Joe's explanation to Emma for their new found splendor and comfort.

Then when the crash comes, and Emma's faithful admirer Jimsy Smith, warns Joe that his arrest is imminent, Joe turns white-livered and worse. He insists on his pretty wife going at midnight to the suite of the president of his company and offering terms to settle the matter. Joe calculated on the president's tastes and Emma's charms.

Jimsy also made some lightning calculations, and he warned Captain Williams the hard living old president of the line, of what kind of funeral awaits him if any harm befalls Emma at his hands.

As a reward for the way in which she spurned his suggestions of how the little matter might be settled, Captain Williams wrote out a settlement in full of Joe's defalcations and gave it to Emma.

But the incident opened Emma's eyes to the character of the skunk she married: also to the kind of man Jimsy proved to be. The curtain comes down with Emma leaving her husband to go home to mother. The audience is left to calculate that some day she will become Mrs. Jimsy Smith, and that Joe Brooks will get no alimony.

In their respective parts the company showed themselves well suited. May Roberts as Emma showed her emotional ability and some very pretty gowns to great advantage. Ira Robertson represented the hard living Captain Williams with great gusto, and quite endeared himself to the audience. Victor Gilland gave a powerful impersonation of Jimsy Smith. The part of the sore-headed crave Joe Brooks was excellently impersonated by Geo. Zucco.

Tonight, Miss Roberts promises to display some of her Parisian gowns when she takes the title role in "The Adventuress."

NO NEW COAL FOR MONTHS

Even Though Strike is Ended Mines Cannot Immediately Operate. Men Have Left the District.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Calgary, July 27.—The Michel mines are a mass of flames, while the Frank mines will not be operated this winter, was the declaration of Mr. Hanna of the Bow Centre collieries in trying to show the coal committee that even if the strike is settled now there will be little chance of any shipments of coal for months yet.

Should the coal strike cease Monday next, as Sir William Whyte of the C. P. R. considers probable, the trouble of getting coal to the surface will only just have begun. Extensive repair work has to be conducted in the Frank mines, while it is impossible to guage how long it will take to put out the fierce fires raging in the Michel mines. Thousands of miners have left the Pass, and it will be hard work to secure enough men to operate the mines fully for months to come.

Every mine that has been closed down will have to be fixed before it can be worked.

UNIQUE FEAT IN SURGERY

New Leg Grafted on to Old Girl Operation was Successful. Over the Line "Special."

New York, July 27.—By grafting the shinbone of a man to a woman suffering from cancer, thus practically giving her a whole new lower leg, the surgeons of the New York Hospital for Deformities have completed an operation unique in surgery. Up to now operation of this sorts have been confined to experimental work done on dogs.

The first essential was to get a place of the one eaten by disease. After a time ane of the hospitals which handled emergency cases reported that a man had been killed in an accident. As the body was unclaimed and would have gone either to Potter's Field or the dissecting table of some medical college, requisition was made for one of the legs, from which the tibia was taken. It was kept in an icebox, immersed in a strong salt solution, until the surgeon was ready to use it.
