WATER SITUATION IS WELL IN HAND

City Engineer Reports Upon it at Council Meeting---Medical Health Officer Finds that the Supply is free from all Contamination and is in Good Condition for Use---Pains will be Taken to Avoid any Pollution.

The city water situation is well in hand by the engineer and there is no immediate danger of trouble. Later there may require to be a curtailing of the hours during which it may be used. Moreover, Dr. Reddie, the medical health officer, says the water is good for use. His analysis given at the council meeting last night showed that there were no impurities in the water used by the city and it was absolutely safe for use.

The city engineer presented the following report:

To the Chairman and Members of the Waterworks Committee.

Gentlemen—Re water supply, I beg to report on the supply of water at the present time.

It was necessary to start the Morse Creek pump on May 10 to help out the gravity supply, and since that time the gravity supply has been too small to be of any practical service. About ten days ago the flow over the waste weir of Morse Creek dam ceased and since that time the supply has been taken from the Morse Creek reserve, the level of the water falling eighteen inches. On May 22, the Morse Creek pump was stopped and the gasoline pump at Hays Creek started. The level of water in Morse Creek dam is now slowly rising. The draught from Hays Creek exceeds the amount coming in, and as the reserve in Hays Creek is very small it will be impossible to continue for very long to obtain the entire supply from this source.

I estimate the daily water consumption at 300,000 gallons, and the inflow to the Morse Creek dam, 150,000 gallons.

So long as the monthly rainfall keeps up to the minimum rainfall of which we have a record, viz., 3.67 inches, in August, 1911, there will be sufficient water for all purposes, but so far in May there has only been 2 inches, while in May, 1911, the monthly rainfall was 4.53 inches.

One thousand tons of cast iron pipe have been shipped and should reach here early in June. With this shipment is sufficient 18-inch pipe to extend from Shawatlans Passage to the corner of Frederick Street and Eleventh Avenue.

The steel pipe for the section from Shawatlans Lake to Shawatlans Passage should reach here before the end of June. The flexible jointed pipe for the submarine work will be in the next shipment. By having this flexible jointed pipe shipped by rail across the continent six weeks would be gained in the time of delivery and enable the completion of the line of Shawatlans Lake to Eleventh Avenue, where a temporary wood pipe line, 1,000 feet long, could be laid to connect with the existing 3-inch wood pipe on Eighth Avenue. I do not consider, however, that this would be of much advantage, for it would be of no use for fire protection on account of the small sized existing main. It would, therefore, be impossible to move the Morse Creek pump and a new pump would be necessary, to procure which would require considerable time and money.

Under the circumstances, if rain does not come, in my opinion the best course to pursue is to continue pumping from Hays Creek as long as the supply will permit; when this source is exhausted, pump from Morse Creek. When the level of the water in the Morse Creek dam is two feet below the crest the use of water should be curtailed; first, by pumping only at night, and if the dry weather continues it may even be necessary to restrict the

WANT TO SEE ROLL

Real Estate Exchange Requests Privilege of Taking Copy of Assessors Figures.

The Mayor and the Chairmen of the Different Committees Will Go Into the Whole Subject

The Prince Rupert Real Estate Exchange has asked the council for permission to examine the rolls of the assessor for the purpose of ascertaining the assessed value of each lot. This came up last night at the council meeting on a letter from R. White, secretary of the exchange. It was decided to refer the matter to the mayor and the chairmen of the different committees.

When the matter came up the mayor said that this had been before the finance committee. That committee had decided against granting the request. The matter was now before the whole council.

Alderman Clayton felt that the roll was open to the public. As long as the time of the officials was not interfered with he was agreeable to allow the privilege. He moved that the request be granted upon the conditions he referred to.

Alderman Bullock-Webster said that if the Real Estate Exchange was entitled to this, in common with other citizens, he was agreeable to giving it. He did not want to see any special privileges allowed.

Alderman Douglas thought that there were going to be special privileges to one class.

Alderman Kerr pointed out that the exchange was willing to take any time that was allotted to it. The result of this would be that the city would be well advertised.

Alderman Dybhavn was opposed to granting this privilege, as it would embarass the assessor.

Alderman Clayton said he was not in favor of doing anything that would interfere with the assessor's work. He asked to hear from the assessor.

Mr. McLennan said that he felt that the cutting off of the real estate men from his books worked some hurt to the real estate men. There were real estate men who had nearly as much information as he himself had. He did not want to keep back any information. He suggested that if a committee took this up some solution might be found.

Alderman Bullock-Webster moved in amendment that the mayor and chairmen of the committees should consider the matter, being given power to act.

The vote resulted in a tie, which was broken by the mayor voting in favor.

Rent for Poles

The Prince Rupert Hydro-Electric Company will be charged $5 a month for the use of the telephone poles belonging to the city along which they will carry a private telephone line.

To Deliver Pipe

Tenders are to be called by the city for delivering 1,000 tons of water pipe at the trenches. The mayor, believing this was a proposal for ordering new pipe, advised caution on the start, until he found it was only delivering pipe ordered. The city engineer will be asked to submit an estimate on the work, but not to tender owing, as Alderman Clayton pointed out, to the fact that he was not in a position to compete as he would have to go out and hire teams.

THE COLD STORAGE

George H. Collins in Victoria Tells of What His Company is Doing Here.

He Will Have His Trawlers at Work on the Coast This Fall to Begin Operations

George H. Collins, managing director of the Prince Rupert Fish and Cold Storage Company, which has established at the Grand Trunk terminals one of the largest cold storage plants in the world, was in the city on business, says the Victoria Times. Mr. Collins, who was the prime mover in the big enterprise to which Prince Rupert points with no little pride, recently returned from England, where he was in consultation with prominent financial interests relative to an amplification of the company's plans which may result in other extensive fisheries' plants along the northern British Columbia coast.

To a Times representative last evening Mr. Collins said the company's outlay to date was about three-quarters of a million dollars. This included $400,000 for the enormour reinforced concrete cold storage buildings at Prince Rupert, four steel trawlers ordered in England some time ago, and other essential equipment. The trawlers, each of which will have a capacity of 300,000 pounds of halibut, will be here in November or December, and the enterprise will be started in full swing about the beginning of next year. In addition to the trawlers there will be six wooden fishing boats which are to be constructed on the coast.

The cold storage establishment has a capacity of 14,000,000 pounds of halibut, which, Mr. Collins says, is not equalled by any single cold storage warehouse in the world. Halibut, for which there is an illimitable market, particularly in the New England States, will be the principal fish shipped, but much is expected of the cod fisheries. "You will be surprised to learn," Mr. Collins observed, "that the grey cod catch in England last year exceeded in value the whole salmon pack in British Columbia." There is a boundless market for cod in Russia. Pending the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway the company will make other arrangements for the transport of their fish, but there is no doubt that when the new transcontinental is ready to receive freight one of its most important feeders will be the immense enterprise of the Prince Rupert Fish and Cold Storage Company. Steam will be turned on at the big plant shortly and the company will manufacture ice during the summer months. A fertilizer plant will also be established at Tuck's Inlet; lumber and piles have been ordered for the wharf to be constructed there without delay.

Mr. Collins has been working on this big fisheries enterprise for several years. He made numerous trips to the east and the Old Country, and succeeded in enlisting the cooperation of powerful financial interests who were quick to appreciate the immense possibilities of the British Columbia deep-sea fisheries. Mr. Collins also submitted an application to the Dominion government for the subsidy provided for the encouragement of the cold storage industry, and this was granted. He will soon have the satisfaction of seeing in full operation the result of his tireless efforts, an enterprise which will not have its counterpart on this continent at least.

FIGURES RELATING TO MONEY BYLAWS

How the Money has Been Expended on the Electric Light and Telephone Systems---Ald. Montgommery Objects to the way the Telephone Extensions are Being Paid for---Mayor Reflects on Past Councils

The necessary 10 per cent of the assessable property in the city has been represented on the signatures to the petitions for the three bylaws which are now to be submitted to the people to provide $35,000 for the city hall, $66,000 for addition to the electric light and $20,000 for the telephone extensions. The bylaws were introduced last night at the council meeting and put through the council for submission to the people. It was very late in the evening when these measures were brought forward and several of the council left before they were disposed of.

Alderman Douglas, as the father of the bylaws—triplets, no less—had for his guidance figures submitted by the heads of the departments which showed the financial situation with respect to the electric light department and the telephone. These figures show that in the light department there were the following capital charges:

|---|---|
| Salaries | $ 597.33 |
| Pole line | 35,352.80 |
| Advertising | 133.02 |
| Miscellaneous | 2,166.95 |
| Power, etc. | 163.82 |
| Plant and equipment | 45,619.66 |
| Supplies, miscellaneous | 100.76 |
| Tools and appliance | 505.00 |
| Real estate | 5,000.00 |
| Plank roadway | 975.86 |
| Connections | 442.05 |
| Street lighting | 1,311.70 |
| Meters | 599.20 |
| Freight cartage, etc. | 173.35 |
| Arc lights | 535.46 |
| | $93,791.23 |
| Amount authorized by the present bylaw | $66,000,00 |
| Amount in excess of that authorized | $27,791.23 |
| Capital charges and additions proposed by Mr. Matthews | $37.570.00 |
| | $65,361.23 |

On this total estimate it is proposed to raise $66,000 by the new bylaw.

On the telephone construction the expenditure is put as follows:

|---|---|
| Tools and appliances | $ 176.90 |
| Miscellaneous | 567.41 |
| Pole line | 15,983.35 |
| Fixtures and equipment | 492.02 |
| Switchboard | 5,075.55 |
| Instruments | 4,968.13 |
| Connections | 3,934.03 |
| Stores, etc. | 3,916.60 |

| Real estate | 8,000.00 |
| | $47,994.83 |
| Amount authorized by bylaw | $40,000.00 |
| Amount in excess of authorized expenditure | $ 7,994.83 |
| Amount Manager Love's estimate | $ 9,482.65 |
| | $17,477.48 |

In connection with the telephone bylaw, Alderman Montgomery raised objection to the way in which it was being financed. It was proposed to put $1,000 into extensions. To that extent, the borrowing power of the city would be affected. The benefits from the telephone were confined to that part of the public that used the

VOTING ON BYLAWS

The vote on the bylaws will be on June 20 at the new city hall with City Clerk Woods returning officer.

REDUCING THE STAFF

City Engineer's Department will be Relieved of Draftsman Parker at End of Month.

Alderman Montgomery Not satisfied With the Way This Is Being Done —Thinks It Inconsistent

The city engineer's staff is being reduced in compliance with the promise made some time ago by the head of the department that he would be able to reduce it. J. J. Miller has retired and Colonel Davis reported that Mr. Parker could also be relieved of duty.

Alderman Bullock-Webster moved the adoption of the report.

Alderman Montgomery could not see that a consistent course was being followed. He referred to the star chamber meeting and the action agreed upon there. He thought they should follow some course.

The mayor explained that this had come in as a result of a discussion he had with the city engineer, when he suggested that if there were any reductions that could be made it should be done.

In reply to Alderman Morrissey, the city engineer said that Mr. Hewitt would take over the work of the drafting room.

Alderman Morrissey said there were inconsistencies. There had been a report from the engineering office recommending an increase all round.

The mayor said there was no such report read.

Alderman Montgomery thought it was not fair to Mr. Parker. They had reached a decision to call for the resignations of all the staff and should abide by that.

The motion to adopt the report carried.

SECTION TWO TENDERS

Tenders will be called for the work of improving Section Two as asked for by those concerned. Alderman Kerr moved that tenders be called for and that the city engineer tender also. The motion carried.

Members of reconstructed Ministry Endorsed by the Electorate on Appeal to People

Edmonton, May 27.—In the by-elections here today Hon. Charles W. Cross, the government supporter in Edmonton, was elected by 500 of a majority.

The government candidate is leading in Sedgwick, and Studgeon in Cardston will probably be elected.

The only constituency in doubt is Claresholm, where Hon. Mr. McKenzie is leading but is having a hard fight owing to his personal unpapularity.

PUNISHED REBEL

Member of one of Chief Families of Mexico Put to Death by Federals.

Millionaire Is Executed for Treason by the Governing Section of Mexican Republic

Winnipeg, May 27.—The south side of Second Street, in the business section of Wainwright, Alberta, was swept by fire today with a loss of $100,000. The town hall, Union Bank, the fire hall and other buildings were destroyed.

GOVERNMENT MONEY

At the council meeting last night the provincial government filed a formal request for $132,615.71 due from the city. The mayor referred it to the finance committee, "with power to act," he added.

Alderman Kerr suggested that before this was paid the government might be asked to repair some sewers built by them.

The mayor said there were a good deal of repairs to be made and government lots to be sold.

FIRE IN THEATRE

Eighty Persons Lose Lives in Spanish Play House Following Explosion.

Moving Picture Machine Exploded With Fatal Results Last Night in Spain

Castellon, Spain, May 7.—Eighty persons were killed tonight in a fire in a theatre at Villareal caused by the explosion of a cinematographe.

Tenders for Sand

Tenders for sand were opened at the council meeting last night for use at the reservoir at Acropolis Hill. The Westholme company bid $2.75, while Bellingham & Craig offered it for $1.40 on the scow at the wharf. The tenders were referred to the city engineer for report.

ENGAGING JANITOR

Council Discusses at Length Method of Securing Caretaker for New City Hall.

It Has Been Decided to Have a Call Made by Placing Notice on Bulletin Board at the Building

Some considerable time was given at the council meeting last night to the question of what was the best way to get a janitor for the new building. The mayor suggested that perhaps the police could supply the labor to do it, presumably by prisoners. It was finally decided to get a permanent janitor, applications to be called for by a notice on the billboard outside the hall. The question came up upon the receiving of additional applications.

Alderman Clayton asked when it was supposed that the question of a janitor would come up. He asked this simply for information.

The mayor said there was the possibility that after the police moved into the hall that they might be able to do this work.

Alderman Kerr said that his experience had been that the system of having a place looked after other than by a regular janitor was unsatisfactory. He moved that the council proceed to select a janitor.

Alderman Clayton agreed that it would be better to have a regular janitor.

Alderman Bullock-Webster suggested that they advertise for a janitor before alloting the post.

THE JAUNDICED EYE

In the organ of the Progressives last evening appeared a letter purporting to have been written by W. Sibbald insinuating all kinds of evil in connection with the new post office buildings. Lest there might be some misconception with respect to the matter, we give some of the chief facts in connection with that building.

When the Conservative Executive of this city, in line with the expressed desire of many of the public bodies of the city and citizens generally, requested the removal of the post office from the present site and asked for a location more in the heart of the business section of the city, they found in the sitting member, Mr. Clements, a ready worker in their interests. There was an expressed desire that the removal should not be delayed until the permanent office was erected for that would, it was felt, be too long to wait. The member for the district was met with the expressed willingness on the part of the government to accede to the request provided a building were obtained at a reasonable rent. In turn, this phase of the situation was passed on to Prinse Rupert and the situation had to be faced that there was no building that could be obtained that would serve the purpose.

After some delay a proposal was made by the company that has erected the post office building that they would construct the building and do it to suit the needs of the department. The facts were communicated to Ottawa, and that done, the work of the Conservative Executive ended. The matter was then one of negotiations between the owners of the proposed building and the officials of the department at Ottawa. Terms were agreed upon and the building put up on a rush order and in a manner that does credit to the builders of it.

The matter of rent was purely a departmental matters and the returns that are being obtained from the building in the matter of rents are anything but unreasonable. Had they not been reasonable there is no doubt whatever that the building would never have been rented to the government.

But to the jaundiced eye all things are yellow and there are those who can see in the enterprise that prompted the erection of a building like that put up nothing but graft. It is only reasonable to expect that, however, from sources that expect graft. The new building reflects credit upon those who undertook its erection. It is to be hoped that it will be a financial success and that there may be more such structures erected in the city.

FIGURES RELATING TO MONEY BYLAWS

phone. He felt that this should all be paid by the profits from the system. Instead of that, they were borrowing on the credit of the city for something that benefitted the few.

The city solicitor explained that the bylaw would not create a charge upon the general revenues. On the contrary, it was expected, from the past record of the system, that the profits would pay the interest and sinking fund.

Alderman Clayton explained that the intention was to devote 20 per cent of the profits to extensions, but no more.

Later on Alderman Montgomery asked what last year's council did in the matter of increasing expenditures in the electric light.

It was explained that the machinery had been ordered by last year's council, and in reply to Alderman Montgomery as to how the council expected to have it paid for, Alderman Clayton suggested that it was probably by bylaw—that was the only way it could be done.

The city solicitor acquiesced in this.

Alderman Montgomery wanted to know why a bylaw was not floated before expending the money.

The mayor said the policy of past councils was to expend money first and float the bylaws later. That was why the present council was loaded with these debts.

The bylaws carried, awaiting only the vote of the people to be finally adopted.

LOWER LICENSES

The holders of liquor licenses in the city last night wrote the council requesting a reduction in the license fees in view of the fact that the hours of selling had been curtailed; that the license fee was the maximum and the returns were not what they had been.

Alderman Montgomery moved to refer this to the finance committee for report. In explanation, he said that he was not in favor of the hotels but he felt there should be a reduction in the license when the hours were shortened. He was not in favor of taking much from the hotels.

The motion carried.

TRADES AND LABOR

Interest in Organization Is Increasing—Will Meet Once a Month During Summer

At the Trades and Labor Council last evening a number of question affecting local labor conditions were brought up and ably dealt with by the members present. The council is being well attended and a number of new organizations will soon be sending in delegates.

At the meeting last evening the council decided to meet once a month only during the months of June, July and August. The meeting night will be the fourth Monday of the month.

Football Tonight

This evening at 8 o'clock the caledonian football club will play a team picked from the carpenters. An eight a side team will be chosen. Members of the Callies will meet in their club rooms at 7:30, when the team will be picked. The match will take place on Second Avenue. A business meeting of the club will be held in the club rooms after the match.

CONTRACTS AWARDED

The contracts for lead wool for connections in the water pipe were awarded last night by the council. The tenders as received had been referred to the engineer, who found that Crane & Co. were $88 lower on the whole quantity. H. H. Clarke, the next, asked $8, while Crane & Co. asked $7.80. Later, Mr. Clarke in a message received offered to supply it for $7.70.

Alderman Morrissey felt that this offer of Mr. Clarke's could not be received, as the tenders were all in before.

Alderman Clayton favored the Clarke offer. The tender of $8 could be accepted and then a rebate allowed.

The city solicitor pointed out the difficulty that lay in the way of Mr. Clarke's offer, not being such as he could be held to, as his stated prices might change.

Alderman Dybhavn thought the only thing that could be done was to accept the offer of Crane Bros.

Alderman Maitland said it would not be business to do otherwise.

Ald. Bullock-Webster thought the public would not sanction giving it in such a way as was suggested should be done in the matter of the Clarke bid.

Alderman Montgomery moved to accept Crane & Co.'s tender.

Alderman Clayton felt that $88 of a difference even, having in view the fact that it would go to local men, was not too much to expect should the rebate not be allowed.

Alderman Montgomery felt that personal feeling could not be taken into account.

The offer of Crane & Co. was accepted.

On the pig lead, where the difference was $35 only, it was decided to give the contract to Crane & Co., although Howe & McNulty were the next tenderers.

FOREST FIRES

In the past forest fires have generally been regarded as acts of Providence, which could not be prevented, but must be accepted in a spirit of more or less patient resignation. More recently, however, it has been shown conclusively that forest fire damage can be practically prevented if proper measures are taken. The rapid rise in timber values has made owners less willing than formerly to submit to unnecessary loss, and this is in turn is bringing about the adoption of protective measures not only by railroads but by owners of timberlands. The latter are in part inspired by the desire to save their own property and in part to eliminate carelessness which might result in damage suits by neighboring owners. The rigid enforcement of the law of responsibility for carelessness in setting forest fires will perhaps go further in preventing damage from this source than any other measure. As long as it is cheaper to containue careless methods than to take proper precautions, fires will continue to devastate our forests.

An example along this line is the suit recently heard before the supreme court at Vancouver against the Paterson Timber Company, for $10,239 damages caused by fire spreading from the defendants lands. The court held the company liable and the amount of damages to be recovered will be determined at a future hearing. The responsibility of railroads for fires spreading from their right of ways is clearly established in two cases also recently heard in British Columbia.

In Clarkson vs. Nelson & Fort Shephard Railway is involved the largest claim for damages ever entered in a British Columbia timber case. The original claim for $375,000 involved 8,320 acres of timber limits, and now another area of 4,210 acres has been brought into the case, in respect of which, additional damages of $408,000 are claimed. The defendant company has been held responsible for the fire, but the award for damages has not yet been made.

The suit of the King Lumber Mills, Limited, located near York, B. C., against the Canadian Pacific Railway is similar in principle. The amount claimed in this case is $140,000. The jury was unable to determine positively the source of the fire, which spread from the company's right of way. It found, however, that the company was negligent in failing to maintain a clear right of way, and in failing to properly attend the fire when reported by its employees. It also finds that the railroad did not take reasonable precautions to prevent the fire spreading. The amount of damages to be paid to the plaintiffs has yet to be decided by the supreme court.

A few such cases as those will go further toward preventing the occurrence of fires than any amount of legislation.

GILLIS AND MARATHON

Vancouver athletic circles are in a condition of "flurry" following the statement made by Dunc Gillis that he will be unable to partake in the Olympic trials at Montreal on June 8, says the News-Advertiser. To put it less modestly than in the words of the famous athlete, he will be unable to compete in the great weight events at Stockholm this July. Mr. Gillis has commenced business as a real estate broker. He feels that to make a business a success it must be sent off to a good start, and he thinks that were he to absent himself from Vancouver for several weeks, it might be a big setback to him. However, there is another point of view worthy of Mr. Gillis' consideration, and there can be no doubt that it will receive his attention—at least Dr. Davidson, president of the B. C. A. A., is endeavoring to make it as convincing as possible.

Those who follow athletics in Vancouver, and they number some of the most prominent business men in the city, have a high regard for Mr. Gillis. They wish to see him successful in his business. But everybody wishes to see him go to Stockholm and win a glorious victory for British Columbia and Canada. Then, again, would a few months abroad be disadvantageous to this popular athlete's business career? Surely not. A man who snatches high honors from Olympus must surely be regarded as one whom the Gods of Fortune specially delights to cherish. Sherring, who won the Marathon at Athens, was a brakesman on a railroad operating in Ontario. Behold him, returned from Athens but a few months, a prosperous business man. Everybody wished to meet him. Had Sherring had a thousand lots to sell it is safe to say he would have disposed of every one. This spring Mr. Gillis throw the hammer a distance of 190 feet. The record for the Olympic games is 174 feet. Dunc Gillis is the great hope of Canada for this event. He is the one outstanding figure of all our aspirants to Olympic honors. Canada hopes to win many other events. Vancouver will probably send two—at least one runner—to Stockholm. But, then, there are many other runners, whereas there can be but few formidable rivals of Dunc Gillis in the weight events. His throwing of the hammer is phenomenal. He is nearly as much at home with the discus and it will be a tremendous disappointment to his many friends if he does not reconsider his decision and decide to go to Montreal. Mr. Gillis will be on hand for the Olympic trials at Brockton Point, and it is to be hoped that he will decide there and then to leave his business for a few weeks in the hands of his capable partner, and go right after the big prizes.

IMPERIAL ATHLETES

British athletes will make a great effort to redeem their somewhat impaired prestige at the Olympic games in Stockholm at the end of June. This attempt will take the form of a closely unified imperial struggle; in other words the athletes of the Mother Country are going to train and fight together. Hitherto they have trained quite separately and made no effort to ecrate an imperial athletic esprit de corps. This year teams representing Australia, Canada and South Africa are going to England considerably in advance of the Stockholm games to train with the athletes in England and go to Sweden in company with them. They will not be permitted to compete as one team but they will have the satisfaction of flying one flag and comparing notes as to methods. It is expected that they will draw a great deal of useful stimulus from the comradeship.

Great Britain is without any athlete at present who stands head and shoulders above his fellows. Nevertheless, the average of the men is high and they are expected on the whole to make a much more brilliant record than they did four years ago. Lord Desborough is of the opinion that the change of balance in the world of athletics resulting from the contests in 1908 when Americans and others scored many victories over Englishmen, is not due to deterioration of the English, but to the remarkable progress recently on the part of foreigners; that is to say, the English are as good as ever, but the foreigners are much better than they were formerly.

One of the bitter facts of the internation struggle of 1908, from the point of view of the English, was the loss of the Marathon race. They deemed themselves peerless as long distance runners, but they were beaten by the visitors. They are determined to do their utmost to capture the Marathon at Stockholm and are arranging a big Marathon tryout open to all comers, from Windsor Castle to private grounds. Swimmers, wrestlers and cyclists are also on their mettle and those who win over the English this year will probably be forced to excel the performances at the late Olympiad.

Two steamers have been chartered to carry the British entrants to Stockholm in two large parties. Each competitor will wear an overcoat and straw hat like those of each of the others so that the British contingent will present a harmonious picture on the opening day.

BAILEY IN TRAINING

If Joe Bailey, who is going to battle with Billy Allen for the Canadian lightweight championship on June 29 at Bassano, Alta., does not "bring back the bacon" it will not be for want of hard drill and careful, intelligent attention to his physical condition, says the Victoria Colonist.

Since Joe entered the professional boxing game he has learned a lot. He is now what the ring fans call a "wise guy." Since it was defintely assured that Tommy Burns had succeeded in making him a match with Allen, who holds the Flanagan belt, the title, and all those other ornaments for which the Victoria whirlwind pines, the latter has made a hermit of himself. His place of seclusions is the Four Mile House. Here his friends may see him if they call, or talk to him if they telephone. But Joe's familiar figure is never seen about the streets. He has left all his old haunts, temporarily cut out his comrades and well-wishers, and is bending his will and devoting his time to putting himself in condition to win next month's battle.

"How are you feeling?" was the query shot at Joe over the telephone yesterday. "Fine," was the cheery reply.

"Do you find country life dull?"

"Too much to do to think about that," was the chirpy answer. "I get up at 6 o'clock and spend an hour or two on the road. A little skipping, some more running, shower baths and rubbing, in addition to three squares, fills up my day. I'm not doing any sparring on account of my hand. It seems to have healed perfectly but I'm taking no chances. There will be lots of time, I figure, to put on the gloves during the couple of weeks I will spend in Calgary before the mill.

"Weight? Oh, I don't need to worry about that. I've got my $200 forfeit up, but as I am below the 133 pound mark, I guess I'll collect that along with the purse."

It is not so much what Joe is going to get out of this particular match that he is thinking about. He knows that, if he does not make good now, it is the lathing business again for him. If he wins he realizes better than anyone else, for he has given the matter a lot of intent thought, what it will mean. He will have his foot on the ladder to pugilistic fame. Matches will come as thick as blackberries in July, and they all mean coin of the realm, and that is what Joe, quite sensibly, is thinking about. He thinks once he gets rid of Allen and has that championship safely stowed away, that the rest will come easy. As has been shown, he is not going to allow anything to remain undone that will help in bringing the title to the west.

Crusade Against Tuberculosis in Canada is Being Waged with Success.

It Is Felt That Local Treatment of the Disease Is of Decided Advantage in the Fight

Tuberculosis is a disease that is frequently co-incident with poverty. The treatment necessary is generally expensive, and the patient is often for long periods of time incapable of doing any work. It is not surprising, therefore, that the charitably inclined should take a deep interest in the crusade against the disease.

In Canada a number of institutions and organizations have been established for the care of the tuberculous. Most of these have been brought into existence by social workers. Sometimes, however, provincial governments have provided sanatoria, either wholly or in part at their own expense. In other instances, the provinces—notably Ontario—have assisted in erecting buildings as well as in their maintenance when completed. Still another class are what might be called municipal sanatoria—this, they are erected and supported largely by local municipalities. Some of these only accept patients from the contributing municipalities; while others accept pay patients whether residents of the municipality or not.

With such a variety of institutions to support, it is not surprising that various means have been devised for raising funds. Nor is it surprising that there has grown up confusion amongst would-be contributors as to how their subscriptions should be directed.

In order to avoid such confusion, and at the same time to co-ordinate the efforts that are being made for the suppression of the disease, it is essential that the situation be clearly understood. In the first place, tuberculosis is a communicable disease, and as such comes directly under the purview of the municipal health authorities. In any attempt at co-ordination, therefore, the work must centre around the municipal health officials. If this is not done there will be overlapping and consequent waste of effort.

In the second place, it should be remembered that locally managed tuberculosis work commands the confidence and support of municipal organizations. This is true, because the good results can be daily demonstrated, thus proving a valuable educational advantage to the ratepayers. Not only that, but the local sanatorium makes it possible for the patient to see his friends frequently, which is a very important factor. It has been very truthfully stated that fresh air, sunlight, and good food are the chief needs of the tuberculous. The two former can be found anywhere in Canada, and the latter can be provided by any well managed local sanitorium.

In the third place, it should be clearly understood that this important work cannot be directed solely by any one charitable organization. The province, the municipality and the individual contributor have each to be considered. But in any case, if confusion is to be avoided, the chief authority must be vested in the medical officer of health.

There are many examples of effective municipal anti-tuberculosis work to be found in Canada. This is perhaps particularly true of Ontario. Ottawa possesses a sanitorium and dispensary, the work of which is encouraged in every way by an appreciative local interest. It is managed by an association of men and women who have strong local interests. Patients are received only from municipalities that contribute to the maintenance of the sanatorium. There are now four such institutions in Ontario, all of which are doing excellent work. At least four others will be established in the near future, and in time the whole province will be covered with similar local sanatoria.

WATER SITUATION IS WELL IN HAND

time of pumping to two or three hours per day.

This restriction of the use of water will cause more or less inconvenience to manufacturers and others, but it may not be possible to avoid it, and by adopting prompt and strict measures to economize the reserve of water, any suffering by other consumers for want of water will be prevented.

In order to protect the supply on both creeks from pollution, I would recommend having this district patrolled for a time by the police.

Respectfully submitted,

WM. MAHLON DAVIS,
City Engineer.

Alderman Morrissey was afraid city was going to be up against stagnant water in view of the outlook for a dry summer.

Alderman Clayton said the best was being done. If any alderman had a solution to improve the situation it should be put forward. Was it safe to take the large pump to Shawatlans? The city had to take chances one way or the other. To put in a new pump would cost perhaps $12,000.

Alderman Montgomery said that the city was taking no chances. The matter was well in hand by the engineer.

In reply to a question of Alderman Bullock-Webster, the city engineer said that it was proposed to have police patrol part of the water source to see that no contamination was allowed to exist. Someone without knowledge of the situation had allowed cows to run near part of the watershed. Prosecutions would follow if the offence was repeated.

Alderman Morrissey suggested that a committee of citizens should be called in.

Alderman Clayton said the citizens would then properly say: "What, in heaven's name, are those fellows there for? We always thought they were no good. Why don't they get out of office and allow the election of honest and capable men?"

The report was adopted.

ENGAGING JANITOR

Alderman Douglas agreed with this move.

Alderman Bullock-Webster formally moved in the matter of advertising.

Alderman Morrissey thought they could ill afford to advertise this.

Alderman Maitland said if the city was too poor to advertise for a janitor a notice might be put on the bulletin board outside the hall.

Alderman Bullock-Webster, not getting support on his motion, altered the amendment to one of putting a notice outside the city hall.

The motion was declared lost by the mayor, only three voting for it, although Alderman Montgomery did not vote at all. The original motion was then declared carried, Alderman Montgomery again not voting, and being counted as in the affirmative. The point was taken up that Alderman Montgomery had not been so counted on the vote on the amendment. After some discussion of the ruling it was decided to take the vote again, when the amendment to advertise on the bulletin board carried.

City Switchboard

The question of installing a switchboard in the city hall at a cost of about $80 instead of bringing a cable to the hall from the central station will be considered by the finance committee.
