RUMANIA WILL MOBILIZE WITHIN A FEW HOURS

SERBS ARE HOLDING BACK THE AUSTRIAN ATTACK

Allies Making Some Progress Elsewhere Against Enemy

Russia Is Now Bombarding The Austrian Port Of Varna

Along Western Front Allies Have Been Holding Their Own

Paris, Oct. 7.—An official report says:

"A violent bombardment on both sides has occurred in the Environs of Nieuport, in the sector of Steenstraate. Artillery activity continued on all sides.

"In Artois we made slight progress to the south of the Lus, near the road from Arras to Lille.

"A sudden attack attempted by the enemy on one of our advance posts, near Popincourt to the south of Roye, was completely repulsed.

"On the Aisne our batteries caused two very violent explosions in the enemy's lines, in the region of Jougincourt.

"In Champagne the Germans during the course of the day delivered two counter attacks against our positions to the west of Navarin farm. They were both repulsed. The enemy suffered heavily in losses from engagements with bombs and grenades which took place.

"In Argonne, at La Fille Haute, Chevauches, the enemy directed on different points of the Lorraine front, an especially strong cannonade, to which we replied effectively.

"In the Vosges we dispersed a strong German reconnaissance which started to attack one of our posts to the east of the Valley of Sonderack.

"One of our aeroplanes shot down in Champagne a German captive balloon which fell in flames within the enemy's lines."

Hon. Joseph H. Choate Expresses Opinion Relative To War

"I am a neutral and therefore my tongue is nationally tied, but I can say for myself that wherever men are fighting for liberty and justice and civilization I am in full sympathy with them, and it is only fair for me to say that I believe of the 100,000,000 of my countrymen, at least 90,000,000 are in full sympathy with me."

In these words Hon. Joseph H. Choate, former Ambassador of United States to Great Britain, replied on behalf of the six distinguished Americans of the Peace Centenary Committee, who were given the honorary degree of L. L. D. by the Senate of the University of Toronto.

Torn To Shreds.

"When I went to The Hague as the delegate of the United States in 1907," continued Mr. Choate, "to attend the Peace Conference, all nations of the world, great and small, were living in peace with each other. No war nor battle-sound was heard. We sat four months cheek by jowl with the Germans, the Austrians, the Turks and all other outlying nations. (Laughter.) We thought we had done something at the end of the four months to advance the cause of peace, to prevent the breaking out of war, and, if war must come, to mitigate the horrors of war. Well, it seems that our success was only for the moment, it was only transient. Everything we did at that conference, every provision that we enacted for the purpose of preventing war or mitigating its horrors, has been trampled upon and violated, and all our agreements have been torn into shreds of paper and thrown to the winds.

What Will Be The End?

"I am often asked what is going to be the end of all this. Is it a fact that a century of united labors on the part of all the universities of the world, including this great University of Toronto and the University of McGill, have all been for nothing? Has civilization been thrown to the winds? Has liberty been entirely forgotten? Has justice ceased to be respected among men? And what is to be the end of all this? Well, by-and-bye peace will come. We do not know when or how, but it will come and the work of the universities will have to be resumed with greater success than before. I should like to recommend the motto of my own University of Harvard for general acceptance and as a guide of conduct for the universities of the world. That motto is 'Veritas,' the Truth. Harvard has flourished under that watchword for nearly 300 years. There is only one thing that can hold civil society together. There is only one rule which can hold the nations of the world together in peace, and that is the law of good faith, and nobody knows it better than the men who are fighting in the trenches on your side and on the other side.

Rule Of Good Faith.

"I have little confidence in, although much sympathy with all the schemes that are on foot for promoting peace, but it is no use crying 'Peace, peace' when there is no peace and no possibility of peace—(applause)—no possibility of peace until the authors of this awful war are brought to a condition where their adversaries and the whole world can see that hereafter they will obey our rule, the rule of good faith, the rule of keeping contracts, the rule that when they make a treaty they should stand by it, whether it is to their interest or not, and prevent this awful code of law which has governed the world during the last twelve months: that whenever their interests required they could throw all treaties and contracts to the winds.

"When war broke out," continued the speaker, "the idea prevailed in some malignant minds that the British Empire would fall to pieces, that Canada, Australia and New Zealand, and other parts, would go their own way; but instead of that, when the first blow was struck, when Belgium was invaded, the British Empire was more closely united and more impregnable than before. (Loud applause.)

THE WHITE COMRADE ON THE BATTLEFIELDS

Army Chaplain Tells Of Reported Visitation To Wounded Soldiers.

Preaching recently in London on the miracles of the war, Rev. C. E. Doudney, an army chaplain home on short leave, in the course of a striking sermon spoke of the "White Comrade" of wounded. The extract of his sermon reads as follows:

"One had heard a great many tales about what was called "The White Comrade"—that again and again he had appeared on the battlefield. There was a very short distance between the opposing trenches—three or four hundred yards and sometimes considerably less than that. In the daytime it was impossible to get into that piece of 'No Man's Land,' and after dark there was the constant light of starshells and through the night so that no man could even crawl across. Often and often it occurred that men had been left wounded in that area—left to die. Attacks were nearly always made early in the morning, generally, recently between 3 and 4, or just at dawn; and from very early, say, 4 o'clock in the morning, right through the terrible heat they had been having lately with no shelter from the burning sun, and with that awful

Austrians Held Back By The Serbians In Attempt On Front

Nish, Oct. 7.—An official report says:—A lively artillery duel has occurred on the Save front. A battery of the enemy, advancing on Beljaia Heights was driven back. There has been heavy bombardment by the enemy on some of the Serbian positions which was ineffective in disturbing our defence. Twenty aeroplanes dropped bombs on Parejedapetz, Goritza without casualties.

During twenty-four hours, machine guns of the enemy bombarded a fortress at Belgrade without result.

The Serbians repulsed an attempt of the Austrians to cross the Save opposite Banevo.

Serbs Hate Germans.

The news of the landing of French and British troops at Salonika has created the most intense enthusiasm, and has dissipated all fear of Germany being able to cross the Serbian frontier.

STEAMER MAVERICK CARRIED WHOLE ARSENAL ABOARD

San Francisco, Oct. 7.—The Jebsen steamer Maverick, the mystery ship of the Pacific, has been found to contain a submarine in parts, 50,000 rifles, 21 machine guns and 21 cannon.

It is believed that the vessel was intended to form a German submarine base in the Pacific on the outbreak of war.

A rigid investigation is proceeding, and it is believed that it will reveal the fact that there has been connivance on the part of officials.

British Making Slow Progress At Surla Bay

London, Oct. 7. — The fighting during the past month at Suvla Bay has not been on a scale calling for special reports. Every night there have been patrol actions with bomb attacks. We gained on an average a little over three hundred yards along the whole centre, covering the four miles of the Suvla front.

THE W. R. LORD BROUGHT IN 16,000 POUNDS YESTERDAY

The Demand Is Greater Than The Local Firms Can Fill.

The arrivals of halibut from the banks is not equal to the demand on the consuming markets at present. Rough weather accounts undoubtedly for part of the shortage. There is little reaching port at southern points either.

Yeesterday the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Company had the W. R. Lord in with 16,000 pounds.

BRITISH FISH TRADE IS UPSET

MR. JOHNSON OF HULL IS HERE ON A VISIT TO HIS BROTHER

Demand In Britain Is In Excess Of The Supply Resulting From War.

T. H. Johnson, manager of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Company, has as his guest for a few weeks his brother, who is identified with the immense fish business at Hull, England, with which the Johnson name is identified. Mr. Johnson says that the condition of the fish market in England this year is such that it is comparatively easy to get away for a time. The war has upset conditions and cut down the supply so that there is difficulty in meeting the demand.

He points out that there is a certain degree of compensation in connection with the matter. With the war raging, many of the hawkers of fish joined the colors, so that the demand was reduced considerably. With that has come the cutting off of the supply of fish, so that the demand keeps above the supply.

Mr. Johnson is interested now in watching how the Norwegian herring trade with Hull is to be affected. Last year the German submarines did not interfere with this trade, which extends from about December to May. What the situation will be this year remains to be seen.

He points out that the herrings are brought from Norway in carriers, averaging 200 tons of fish. At Hull they were accustomed to get about 24 shipments a week of these. If one of these carriers is blown up he fears the trade will stop at once.

The British fishing fleet has been young men were marching to the fight, when we heard of their great and gallant achievements, when we heard how freely they laid down their lives in this cause of liberty and justice and civilization, our hearts bled forth with yours, and the people of the United States were actually in full sympathy with them. (Applause.) Of course there are a few, shall I say, malignants. (Laughter.) I do not wish to use any offensive words, but we have many millions of men of foreign descent, one-half of them on one side and one-half on the other. But if we should go to war with you against an unspeakable enemy—I do not want to mention its name—I think nineteen-twentieths of all those people would stand by our flag, the Stars and Stripes." WHITE COMRADE.

thirst which must, of course, follow immediately on a bad wound, men lay—not one or two here and there but often in his own brief experience in hundreds—throughout the day. It was impossible to imagine anything worse or more awful to bear. There were their comrades within a few yards longing to help them but they dared not and could not. And there the men died. Well might it be said by them 'God has forgotten us' as they raved in their sufferings. But it has been said again and again that through that suffering and horror walked a man in white—the men called Him the 'White Comrade,' but they knew He was tending the wounded.

"The story has been doubted of course and men cynically said it was the heated imagination of the wounded in the agony of their fever. Possibly it might be so and it might be absolutely false that these men could see with their natural eyes the 'White Comrade' moving over the battlefield; but he did know this, and the men had learned it, that whether it could be seen with natural eyes or not it was seen by those men as they lay there. They saw with spiritual eyes far more clearly than that congregation, that God was with them and that the 'White Comrade' moved with them. Men whose lives had not been known to be religious in the least, upon whose lips blasphemy perhaps had been more frequent than any decent words, who had been known perchance to their comrades as 'a bad lot,' had in their agony on the battlefield known the presence of the 'White Comrade.'

At Mons, too, the story was often told of the angels who appeared and shielded a battery from the German cavalry charge."

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS.

Coal mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 per acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Applications for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal subdivisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5, which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only; but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10 per acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior

very materially reduced. Out of perhaps 400 craft that formerly operated out of Hull in the fishing business, there are now only about 80 remaining in the trade. The most of the others have been given employment by the Admiralty in mine sweeping, mine laying and other departments of work.

Like all Britishers, Mr. Johnson has no misgiving as to the end of the war. It must be settled, he says, by the crushing of the Germans. In England it is realized that this will take considerable time, but it must be done no matter how long it takes. Some incline to the opinion that it will take fully three years from the other hand, he says, an impression prevails that by a year from this fall, with another winter campaign staring them in the face, there may be a special effort made to conclude the war.

Mr. Johnson has never visited Prince Rupert before. He arrived by the train on Wednesday night, and his impressions of the place, as far as he has been able to look into the conditions here, are very favorable. He can see no reason why this should not become a very great fish centre.
