SOCKEYES TO BE LET UP THE NAAS

J. P. Babcock Has Returned From Meziaden Lake Where Fish Ladder Is Being Put In There---Will Be Ready By Time Run Reaches There

The importance of the northern fishing grounds is such that the attention of the authorities is being more and more attracted to the means that must be adopted to preserve the fish. In the matter of the salmon it is essential that the fish shall be able to ascend to the spawning grounds in the proper season and thus propagate the streams for the future years. Attention has been directed in this matter to the Skeena and the Naas, the great streams of the north, for some time and more and more is the attention being centred on them.

Last season a start was made in the direction of the opening up of Meziaden Lake to the sockeye. This lake, which is a beautiful one, drains into the Naas and it is an established fact that sockeye salmon only ascend streams that have a lake at the end. There was a waterfall on the Meziaden River that connected the lake with the Naas and made it exceedingly difficult for any fish to run up it, except at very high water. In view of the fact that the time when the sockeye were running the water was rather low it was very problematical whether there were any fish getting up.

With the co-operation of the Dominion Government, the Provincial authorities last year started in on a policy of opening the stream up for the fish. The rocks that interfered with the ascent were blasted out and prepartions made for the putting in of the fish ladder that would allow the fish to get up. The blasting was done in the winter when there was low water and this summer the work of putting in a cement ladder for the fish is in progress.

J. P. Babcock, the fishery expert of the Provincial Government, is in the city, having arrived last evening after a visit to the locality. He reports that the work is going along all right. He expects that before the sockeye get to the place there will be the facilities for getting into the higher waters and if the fish run there this summer they will be able to freely reach the spawning ground beyond.

In the Naas, in common with the Skeena and all the other rivers this year, there is an absence so far of sockeyes. Mr. Babcock expects that there will be a run later, but he says that this is something about which

Following the Slackening This Year Things Will Return to Normal He Says.

"There is every indication that the wheat crop this year will be equal to the best yield in the past and the Canadian Northern Railway will be in better shape than ever before to take care of it."

This is what Sir William Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern, who has just returned from a tour through the West, said in Toronto about prospects out there.

"I was not through the whole country myself," he went on, "but the reports of our superintendents and agents throughout the West are uniformly favorable. I expect a very large crop. We shall be in good

OIL REPORTED AT YAKOUN RIVER

QUEENSTOWN NOW TO HAVE A WEEKLY PAPER—ISLANDER PLANT TO BE MOVED.

Boat Building Plant Is Arranged for Woden River—Wharves and Other Improvements.

(Special Correspondence.)

Masset, July 10.—A report is in circulation that oil has been struck at the coal drilling plant on the Yakoun River. It has been held by experts for some time that this might reasonably be expected to result.

Mr. Cullison, with a crew of workmen, is erecting the light at Langara Island. It is expected the lighthouse will be in operation before the close of this year.

It is the intention of the B.C. Fisheries Company to erect a saltery on Langara Island at the entrance to Parry Passage. Work will be commenced on the buildings at the close of the fishing season.

Chief James Stanley, one of the most popular of the Masset Indians, died at Langara Island on the 29th ult. The remains were brought to the Masset reserve, the whole of the Indians leaving the fishing grounds to attend the funeral.

The Queen Charlotte Islander, of which J. M. Campbell is editor, will in future be published at Queenstown. The Islander was formerly located at Queen Charlotte City and will be the second weekly publication that Masset Inlet settlers have to their credit.

James Martin, the progressive merchant of Masset and Queenstown, proposes to clear ground and erect a store at Sewell City. A mill is running there and a number of settlers have taken up locations on the property of the Star Realty Company.

W. G. Gillett has completed the wharf at Sandspit and is now constructing one at Lockport. He built the wharf at Masset and placed the piling for the bridge over Delkatla Bay. It is probable that he will construct the new wharf at Queenstown and a floating wharf at Woden River.

A boat building establishment is in course of erection at the Woden River. The settlement now boasts of a church, store and several poultry raising yards, with a number of clearings on which settlers with their wives and families are located. An application has been sent in for the erection of a school building.

ON THE FISHING GROUNDS OF THE SPRING SALMON

The Waters Off The Queen Charlottes Abound In This Variety---The Industry Is Now A Thriving One Every Season---In Addition To The Commercial Value Of The Proposition There Is A Great Attraction For Tourists As The "Springs" Are A Sport Fish Of The First Order---As Time Goes On It Will Become Great Attraction For The Many Visitors

Masset, July 10.—It has been the custom for generations to catch salmon off the rocky coast of Langara Island. The Indians were the only fishermen and they trolled for a few days in each year, for the food they required, before the Hudson's Bay Company first sent in their traders. One of the intelligent Indians of the Masset band informed Mr. Wallace of the Wallace Fisheries that "king," or what the Indians called "spring" salmon might be caught in large numbers and it was decided to make the attempt in a commercial way during the month of June of last year.

A cannery was erected at Naden Harbor and one hundred Indians went out in their small boats, starting early in June, and continuing until the middle of July. They received three cents per pound for the fish and turned in three thousand dollars worth of this kind of fish. The placing of the spring salmon in cans had never been tried before in large quantities, and it was found that the canned product resembled "pink" salmon, or what is commonly known as "humpback," the salmon changing color when prepared for export from a deep red to a pink. This product will not bring the same prices on the market with "sockeye" and "cohoe" salmon, which retain their deep red color, and it was decided to discontinue canning and mild cure this year's catch.

Early in the spring it was apparent that there would be a large demand for spring salmon, and the Indians prepared to make a record catch. They built boats and obtained a large number of trolling lines during the winter, and all of the families left for Langara Island on May 1 last. A number of Icelanders arrived and they also took up the work. Hundreds of fishermen from the south and from Prince Rupert decided to "try their fortune" in the new occupation. When the season commenced over four hundred boats were on the fishing grounds. Three companies sent out launches and steamers to gather in the harvest and the fishing commenced in earnest on May 20.

Each fisherman carries a line from 100 to 300 feet in length; some have "spoons" which spin through the water, flashing as they turn and much resembling a small fish in motion. Other fishermen used herring bait. The boats are rowed hither and thither, about one-half mile off shore, and only stop when a fish is on the line. It has not been unusual to see one fisherman haul in ten salmon during a day averaging thirty pounds. One of the largest caught this year weighed one hundred pounds.

Several tourists are engaging in the sport, including Seton Ker, the noted traveler and writer. A few of the suffragist sex are also fishing, one of the women having over one hundred fish to her credit. During the early days of the fishing season the fish were very large and some trouble originated with the fishermen over the price of the fish. The Indians asked for five cents per pound, an increase of two cents over the price paid last year. The purchasers considered this demand too high and fishing was suspended for a few days. A number of the white fishermen held meetings and decided to demand five cents also. The purchasers offered four cents per pound and a compromise was effected which has been in force ever since.

The fishermen do not leave the fishing grounds to hand over their catch, a mosquito fleet dodging in and out along the coast gathering and weighing the fish, each fishermen having an account book in which the catch is entered. That the fishermen have been doing well is evidenced by the fact that one of the Indians turned in $350 worth of fish after twenty days fishing during the month of June.

It was thought that the only haunt of this fish in the neighboring waters of Hecate Straits was around Langara Island, but the "prospectors" sent out by the canneries and cold storage plants have ascertained that the spring salmon are plentiful all around Graham Island. At the present time but one company is purchasing the fish, for the reason that those now being caught are not so large as those captured in the early part of the season, many of the Indians being of the opinion that they are of the species known as "blue-backs," and weighing from ten to twenty pounds each. It is a problem to be explained where these fish have their spawning ground. The small rivers of the Queen Charlotte Islands are visited by very few of the spring salmon. It is probable that they come from the rivers of Alaska and the Naas and Skeena rivers. In the waters of no other part of the Pacific Coast are they so plentiful as around the Queen Charlotte Islands. Each year they return and disappear about the 26th of this month. The fishing season lasts from the middle of May until that date.

Following the spring salmon will come the pinks and cohoes. Later in the year, the "dog" salmon, which is prized by the Indians, will run. Last year the pink or humpback salmon were so plentiful that it was found impossible by the canneries to handle them. There appears to be a misunderstanding regarding this fish. In the open waters and at the mouth of a river they are the most beautiful of fish. As a food fish they are not excelled by the sockeye or cohoe. Although of the same color when caught, the pink salmon changes after canning and does not bring the same price as the other species. A marked change comes over the pink salmon as it ascends the rivers and streams. It flattens out with a hump forming on the back and is one of the most wretched sights to be encountered along the banks of the streams. The bears, eagles, ravens, and other birds and beasts prey on the pink salmon and the dogfish attack it in the open waters.

According to the regulations of the Fisheries Department fishing for salmon is not allowed in the rivers and streams of the islands. None of the rivers are navigable for large steamers and a net stretched across the mouth of any river would block the whole entrance. Experts have recently visited the streams and lakes for the purpose of inspecting the spawning grounds. The Yakoun, Ain, West, Woden, Mammin, Owen, Deenan, Jaloun, Tel-el, Hi-elen, Skidegate Chuck, and smaller streams are all visited by salmon. The large lakes at the head of each river are filled with trout.

When the tourist travel over the Grand Trunk Pacific is in full swing

MUNICIPAL BONDS.

The municipal bond sale in Canada for June, as compiled by The Monetary Times, amounted to $2,435,726, compared with $1,880,630 for May, and $1,890,344 for the corresponding period last year, and making a total for the year of $11,422,011.

Seven provinces were in the market. The largest issues were made by London, Ont., and Kamloops, B.C.

The amount of Canadian municipal bonds sold in the United States during June was as follows:

Edmonton Schools Alta...$1,250,000
Fort Francis, Ont., 10,000 6 p.c. 20 years.

The following are the particulars by provinces:

WAS NOT NIGGARDLY.

Some have been complaining that Mr. Stefansson has received niggardly treatment from the Canadian Government in connection with his trip to the Arctic. Mr. Stefanss apparently does not share their opinions. Writing to Lloyd's News, London, he says:

"This expedition, I may claim, differs in a fortunate way from any others that have sailed northward. While money has not been squandered on its equipment, the Canadian Government has stinted no expenditure in order to provide everything necessary. The Dominion has also given me a perfectly free hand in choosing the men and equipment and stores, and for that I am very grateful, for it means much to a leader that he should not be trammelled in this respect."

SPORTS

WILL DEFEND TITLE.

Willie Ritchie, world's lightweight champion, will defend his title at Vancouver, on Labor Day, if the promoters in that city will post a guarantee of $10,000. He will let them name their opponent, but wants to meet Freddie Welsh and has been assured by Chet McIntyre that he will get this match on Labor Day. Harry Pollok, manager of Freddie Welsh, is due at Vancouver and Ritchie will await word from him before making any definite announcement. The champion still has the New York offer under consideration, but prefers to make a match on the Coast if at all possible.

POPULAR ATHLETE DEAD.

Jack Gillis, former Canadian all-round champion athlete and runner-up for the world's title at Chicago four years ago, passed away on Saturday last at his old home in North Sydney, Nova Scotia, after a prolonged illness. The announcement of his death was contained in a special dispatch to The News-Advertiser from Mr. P. D. Gillis, brother of the deceased. The deceased young man fell a victim to tuberculosis over a year ago, and for a time was confined in the sanatorium at Tranquille. He left that institution last winter, but was compelled to return. Last month his brother came to the Coast and at Jack's request took him to his old home on the Atlantic Coast, where he passed peacefully away.

The deceased young man was Vancouver's most successful point winner at all championship meets up until 1911, when he retired. He walked across the continent from Nova Scotia six years ago, and upon his arrival joined the police force. He competed for the P.M.B.A. in all championship meets and then joined the V.A.C. He was a member of the police association when he won the Canadian all-round championship, and in 1909 he finished second in the world's competition at Chicago. During his athletic career he won numerous trophies and was one of the most popular athletes in the country.

NO SEASICKNESS SOON.

At a conversazione of the Royal Society at Burlington House a couple of days ago, Sir John Thornycroft, the well-known naval architect and engineer, exhibited an arrangement of moving rods and discs which he described as a model to "illustrate the effect of a compound cross sea on vessels of various rolling periods."

The surface of the sea was represented by a piece of glass rocked by ingenious mechanism, and the ships by rolling discs. " I certainly believe that the time will come when rolling will be done away with on the best passenger boats,' Sir John told a Daily News representative. "Some years ago I experimented pretty successfully with movable ballast, and the idea has now been embodied in one or two of the most up-to-date liners. I hear that the captain of one of these vessels holds that the arrangement interferes with speed, but speed is not everything.

"Then I see that an American scientist claims to have solved the problem by the use of the gyroscope. Scientifically, there is no doubt that the thing can be done, but the question is, can it be done in such a way as to make it commercially worth while?"

FISHERY EXPERT TO VISIT INTERIOR

J. P. BABCOCK WILL PROCEED TO MORRICETOWN TO INSPECT FALLS.

He Will Make Examination As to Whether Fish Are Being Held Back.

J. P. Babcock, of the Provincial Fisheries Department, will leave here again this morning for the interior in connection with his work. He will go to Morricetown on the Bulkley for the express purpose of examining the river there to see if there is any improvement needed to allow the fish to get up the stream.

There is a falls there and from time to time there have been reports that the salmon are not able to get up there. He will visit the place himself and on the ground judge of the situation and decide what is to be done.

TIMES SHOULD IMPROVE SOON.

shape to handle a bumper crop. We have more rolling stock and our lines are in better condition. Our terminal facilities are excellent.

"If we find the strain at Fort Willian getting severe we can switch over to Duluth. By the middle of the winter I expect we shall be able to move grain right to Montreal by rail. The connecting lines are rapidly approaching completion.

"At present, of course, the Canadian Pacific Railway affords the only means of shipping grain east, but in another few months there will be three—the Grand Trunk Pacific and our own line as well."

"Do you expect the present financial stringency to affect the movement of the crops unfavorably?" he was asked.

"No, I don't think so," he replied. "The banks always seem able to scrape together enough money for that. I don't think the stringency will be so serious then, anyway. People are not so eager to go into new enterprises now as they were some time ago, and there is not much demand for money for new projects.

"The present tightness has been due largely to the great prosperity of the last few years, where it has caused a great expansion in all lines of business and consegent heavy call for capital. Slackening this year should bring things back to normal."

ON THE FISHING GROUNDS OF SALMON

there is little doubt that thousands will visit the islands for rest and recreation, where they may engage in fishing to their hearts' content. When such men as Seton Ker, who is a world-wide traveler, spends two seasons at our fishing grounds after trying all the known sporting grounds of the world there is reason to assume that others will become interested in the many features for spending a vacation on the "evergreen islands," only a few miles from Prince Rupert.

SOCKEYES TO BE LET UP THE NAAS

no one can speak with authority. The whaling stations are not getting many whales this year. Those engaged report that there is an absence of the recognized food of the whales, which is likewise the common food of the salmon and other fish, namely a small shrimp that usually abounds in great numbers. There is no assurance that there has not been a falling off of the salmon for the year through some misadventure relative to the food supply. There is not enough known with regard to the habits of the fish with regard to the feeding grounds to be assured of all points with respect to the run of them.
