Rumania Forces Making Good Progress In The War

Will Get Data Ready For Royal Commissions That Will Be Here

During the next few weeks the city will be visited by commissions getting information as to trade opportunities within the Empire. Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, will be here in connection with the Dominion Royal Commission. This will be from September 15 to September 17. There will also be at the same time representatives of the Commission relating to trade within the Empire.

At the meeting of the Board of Trade last night it was decided to appoint a committee to take up the matter of getting data ready to present at that time.

RUMANIA IS MAKING PROGRESS AGAINST AUSTRIA

Bucharest, Sept. 1.—The Rumanians now occupy the Bulgarian City of Rustchuk. Rustchuk is on the northern boundary of Bulgaria and has a population of thirty-five thousand. It is situated on the main line of railroad communication to Varna, on the Black Sea.

There are rapid developments in the diplomatic situation in Athens and it appears that King Constantine is ready to abandon his policy of neutrality. All absent staff officers have been recalled for active service, but there are no indications as to whether the King will yield to the wishes of the people and call upon Venizelos to form a new government.

ELECTION TIME REFLECTIONS

VOTE FOR HON. WILLIAM MANSON AND THE BOWSER GOVERNMENT

While the Liberals are now weeping crocodile tears because John T. Scott is not given immunity by the Attorney-General from arrest upon criminal charges, Honest John Oliver has been driven to admit that he, Brewster and Macdonald sat cheek by jowl with Scott and conferred while the Investigating Committee was at work in Victoria. And yet they would not have him appear to give evidence, but got him into the House and out again under an assumed name.

The following appears in the Columbian, of New Westminster, describing a meeting held a day or two ago at Mud Bay: "Sensational feature after sensational feature marked the Liberal rally here Saturday night, when under provocative heckling John Oliver admitted that he was present at the conference between Scott, Brewster and Macdonald, which was held in Macdonald's room in the Capital while the Investigating Committee was sitting fifty feet away, and while search was being made for Scott by a subpoena server after which Scott was smuggled out of the buildings and out of the country under an assumed name by which he entered the building.

* * * *

The leaders of the Plugger Brigade of the Liberal party know well that the Attorney-General dare not consent to withdraw the charges against Scott for criminal acts and allow him to return to British Columbia. If Mr. Bowser did so there would be a loud howl and none would join louder in the chorus than the Liberals. The intereference with the administration

Unfounded Criticisms By Liberals Against Prominent Conservatives

British Columbia Forever is still anxious to come back to the attack against the local Liberals. He contributes today the following correspondence:

To the Editor,—

Jock Turnbull's premature death in editorial effusions compels me to take a new subject. When the Liberals heretofore had been expelled from the Provincial Legislature by the high court of the country, the people, by the honest use of the franchise—it reminds one of Milton's descriptions of the banishment of Lucifer from the glories of Heaven. Lucifer set up his court in Hades—and selected a certain cabinet. So says Milton. One trade in money; one in deception and lies; another in assailing the character of honest men, etc.

The present campaign, in the absence of any honest representation being made to the people for the necessity of a change, prompts one to wonder how any man claiming the slightest portion of intelligence can believe he could be elected to the Legislatue of this Province by no other means than personal abuse or one of the cleanest men, one of the most honest men, one of the most reliable men, a man who has been in public life in Northern British Columbia for more than 10 years and no man can say worse than that William Manson is a gentleman from the ground up.

It is abuse of such a man as this by one who has left a $4,000 travelling bill to be paid by the ratepayers of Prince Rupert. Does this not remind one of Milton's representations of Lucifer's Cabinet in Paradise Lost. I glory in you Jock that you have so great a sense of shame as to refuse to champion such a cause or that you should act as imp for such a court.

Let Accident Brewster control his canneries and engage all the Japanese and Chinese he desires.

Let Macdonald pay Gosden as many borrowed dollars as he desires

Premier Bowser In Opening Campaign In Victoria Dealt With Liberal Attempts To Tie Up Business And Block Legislation

(Special to The Journal.)

Victoria, Aug. 29.—Premier Bowser delivered a splendid fighting speech at the Victoria Theatre last night, the occasion being the formal opening of the local campaign. Outlining in succinct manner the record of the Government and proving to the full the proud boast that every claim and every promise he had made in his manifesto a year ago had been carried out to the letter, the Premier contrasted threwith the lack of policy which the Liberals have shown and their inability to offer to the electors of the Province the slightest argument why there should be a change in the administration. His severe arraignment of the tactics of the Opposition in the last session of the Legislature when, with full opportunity to prove their charges that the Government was the most corrupt in Canada, they had miserably failed, was given with telling effect, and his criticism of the Liberal leader's action in attempting to hold up the entire business of the Government by the issuance of the now infamous writ, was relished by the crowded house.

Defeat In By-elections.

"I remember my rebuff at the recent by-election in Vancouver and later here in Victoria," said the Premier during the course of his address. "There were reasons for those defeats. There had been charges of graft against the Manitoba ministers which appear to have been well founded; then coming west we had charges against the Scott Government of Saskatchewan, so much so that members of that government did not wait to be investigated, but absconded and some were later caught in the lumber camps of Washington. In Alberta also there were reports of governmental wrongdoing, but there, when the resolution for the appointment of a Royal Commission was presented in the House, Premier Sifton took advantage of his majority and voted that resolution down.

But we in British Columbia did not take any such stand. The Liberals here made the statement, and repeatedly asserted it, that we were the most corrupt government in Canada. I was convinced from what I knew of my ministers that the charges were false; I felt that if there was any wrongdoing I was the one who should take the first stand looking to a thorough investigation. I stated on the floor of the Legislature that if, in investigation, any wrongdoings were discovered I would be the first to mete out justice to the wrongdoer.

Doors Thrown Open.

Under the rules of the House an investigation into the public accounts could be undertaken only into the accounts for the preceding fiscal year. But we did not take advantage of that. I opened the investigation as far back as 1903, the year when the Conservative party came into power. I was convinced that any investigation would show no such record as our friends of the Opposition claimed.

Accordingly, when Mr. Brewster in the House asked that the Government permit the investigation to go back three years, we threw it open for thirteen. What did they find? They found that some $90,000,000 had been spent on public works in this Province and not a single dollar had been misappropriated. It is to the credit of British Columbia, to the undying credit of our civil service. It showed that our public servants have been honest, that not a dollar has gone astray.

Mr. Brewster knew that I had a policy which would bring this Province back upon the tracks of progress. That policy must have been an exceptionally good one, for Mr. Brewster only divided the House on three out of the many acts which were submitted. He knew those policies were in the public interest and he did not dare to vote against them on the eve of an election."

Would Kill Legislation.

CHICAGO DEALERS AND FISH TRADE

THEY WANT PRINCE RUPERT TO RETAIN THE TRADE

The Halibut They Contend Gets To Them In Better Condition.

While the representatives of the Canadian Government at Washington, working in conjunction with the British Ambassador, are trying to prevent the bringing into effect of the restriction with regard to shipping American caught fish through Canadian ports, a new situation has arisen to aid them. The dealers in Chicago, through Representative Rainey, of Illinois, have pressed that the shipping facilities be allowed to remain as they are.

These dealers represent that the fish reaches them from Prince Rupert in far better shape than from Seattle.

Correspondence

Criticism Of Christian Science.

To the Editor,—

A few crititcisms of the address of Prof. H. S. Hering, of the Christian Science Church, are herein appended:

In the first place let us consider his disposal of "Matter." He, theoretically, dissolved the table before him, first into a mass of broken wood and then into its chemical elemen's of molecules, atoms and finally electrons or force. Consequently, said he, matter does not exist. Let us examine this a little closer. Suppose, for arguments sake, we accept his reduction of matter to force, let us go a little further and say that force may be a product of thought and then we are up against the Orthodox belief in the fiat of the creator as the origin of all things. If we accept this, and it is perfectly logical, we would look upon Matter as a product of thought or what we might call "chrystalized thought," in which case it is as real as "Thought" or "Spirit" or "Truth" is. In other words, matter would have the same relation to thought that ice has to steam. If we did not have the means of analysing steam and knowing its constitutes we would think it just as wonderful to see it transformed into a soiid, as ice, as to see thought transformed into matter. In order, therefore, to believe that Spirit is the origin of all things it is not necessary to affirm the unreality of matter, for matter plays such an important part in the evolution of nature that the fact of its existence is very vital, not only to progress but to Truth. It is also clear that to follow the lecturers definition of matter to its logical conclusion is not to destroy it but to give it a Spiritual origin.

In the next place he said that sin, sickness and disease were not real, but a negative quality, as darkness, which is the absence of light and had no power whatever in itself; it was only a state of mind or thought, and in order to cure it all that was necessary was to change the point of view, to realize that because all things were created by God there could not be any such thing as sin or disease. Following that to its logical conclusion, man's not a moral being at all, for he lives in a perfect world where only one course is open to him. There is no free will nor any virtue in adopting one course more than another, for there is only one course in existence. Man, instead of being a moral being that responds of his own accord to the will of the Creator, is a machine that has no say whatever in his conduct. Going a little further, the tragedy of the sinking of the Titanic is a myth, and even the terror of this present war is an impossibility, for nothing but the good is real, or exists.

The other point of view is that instead of making a machine the Creator made a moral being when he made man, and gave him the awful responsibility of choosing his own course, thereby evolving toward perfection or retrograting toward destruction. That sin and disease, instead of being unreal, is a product of the human mind; (Not the Christian Science Carnal mind, which they say does not exist, but the spiritual being called man, and, who is himself a spark off the Divine) that the possibility of sin is an essential concomitant of freedom of action; that disease in the same way is the result of a moral being refusing to follow the paths of truth and health, choosing rather to follow the ways of ease and pleasure.

Putting the argument in other words it is as follows: There is a phenomenon known as disease which no one disputes. One party, however, assures us that it only exists in the error of our imaginations; that in order to get rid of it all you have to do is to realize that everything in the world is of God and perfect, and that instead of being sick you are in perfect health as God is. The other party believes that disease and sickness are realities, in some cases the result perhaps of wrong thinking, in other cases by a disregard of the laws of nature and health. They believe in the reality of disease because they are convinced that matter is real, perhaps indeed of spiritual origin; as heretofore set out, but they also have come face to face with the bacteria of disease under the microscope of the scientist.

There is no doubt in the world but that diseases are being and have been cured without the assistance of any material remedy; that whether you call it Christian Science, or the power of mind over matter the fact remains that the cures take place. Prof. Hering warned his hearers that the cures of Christian Science were effected by different means than that of the so-called Mental Healers. In this he contradicts himself: He admits cures by other parties, but says they are not Christian, but a few minutes before he had said that there was only one reality, being mind or God. If this is so, all cures of whatever name must be from the same source. It follows, therefore, that the important thing is the cure and not the Philosophy of it. This, to my mind, is where Christian Science, so-called, falls down: They have adopted the Dogmaticism of the medieval Church in insisting that only their own interpretation of a phenomenon is admissable. It is a well known rule of Science that where a phenomenon is being explained one should not resort to supernatural causes so long as a natural explanation exists. The explanation given by Christian Science is one that is beyond the realm of human experience and consequently a mere speculation.

Mind or personality is such a wonderful thing that it would be foolish to limit its possibilities. Human Mind and Divine Mind are no doubt one in kind and are supreme over all other laws of nature. When men find out how to apply this wonderful power upon the conditions of their bodies it tis a bold man who will limit its scope. One thing is certain, however, that just as wonderful cures are being perofrmed by those who do not hold to the teachings of Christian Science as those who do, and that apparently there are a great many cases that neither party can affect, otherwise there would be an abnormal change in the death rate. So long, therefore, as we get the same results with either body let us cling to the one that stays closer to reason. Let us grasp the truth wherever we find it and accept whatever human experience proves to be good, but let us not put a high fence around it and declare that only our own interpretation of it is to be allowed.

of justice would be denounced far and wide.

* * * *

Why should the Liberals not have won the by-elections in Vancouver and Victoria? It has been shown now on investigation that at least 800 voted in Victoria at that election wh were not entitled to vote. And the Liberals were to have carried this same system into effect at the general elections which are now approaching. Prince Rupert district was to have been included and part of the Plugger Brigade was on the ground here. It was to have been an easy victory for the great party of political purity.

W. E. WILLIAMS FORMALLY REPORTED TO BOARD OF TRADE ON LABOR SITUATION

Committee's Report Was Not Yet Ready Dealing With Question.

At the meeting of the Board of Trade last evening W. E. Williams was appointed to act as Chairman in the absence of the President and Vice-President. During the evening Mr. Williams verbally reported upon the situation as to labor, which had been referred to the Legislative Committee. He said the Committee had not yet had the report prepared. As Chairman, he said he had written to different employers of labor, including the mining companies. About fifty per cent. of the concerns had replied and they all complained it was impossible to get sufficient labor. They recommended that the embargo be taken off. He had looked about the city, and, while there were a certain number of people here out of labor, there was a real shortage of labor in the district at the present time. He expected the Committee would report along that line. Mr. McGinnis suggested that some publication be given as to the design of the registration. Some men left his location because they feared it was intended for the purpose of conscription.

No action was taken, pending the report on the subject being received.

tempt of the Opposition to terminate the life of the last session at midnight, March 14, Mr. Bowser said: "If we had been bluffed by that threat what would have been the result? The Workmen's Compensation Act, the acts affecting the gallant men on active service, the mining legislation, the great question of Prohibition and Women's Suffrage, these and other important acts passed by us at that session would never have been placed on the statute books. There would have been no supply, no aid for hospitals or schools, no public works, because there would have been no money. At that time we had not passed a single act in the House. Had Mr. Brewster had his way there would have been no legislation, there could have been no legislation passed. They are appealing to the workingmen of the country. If there was anyone against the workingmen it was Mr. Brewster. When he tried to force us to dissolve I told him: 'You have said we are corrupt. We have legislation which we propose to put through and you will stay until June 1 and make good your charges, or, if you are an honorable man, you will retract your charges.' We forced them to continue and they objected to but three bills. The Shipping Bill they opposed, and within 60 days, I am proud to say, ten wooden ships, seven at Vancouver and three at Victoria, were on the stocks. The plans and specifications of these ships have been passed by Lloyds as Class A for thirteen years."

If Prince Rupert people will deal at home they will find our price about the same as elsewhere for equal quality, as our freight bills are not heavy, and home dealers will be encouraged to keep proper stocks.

Let us compare, for instance, Eaton's price, $5.70 on a 7 Jeweled Waitham. Our Price is $6.00, but it is worth the 30c to see what you are getting when you want it, and have it guaranteed right here.

Take also the highest priced Waltham, a 23 Jeweled Vanguard at $44.60. Our Price is $45.00. Not very much difference.

Many articles, of course, are not so easily compared, and are made in many qualities and often look big for the money in the catalogue.
