Greatest Industry in The Pacific Northwest

The constantly increasing work of the Forest Branch has necessitated an enlargement of the Forest office accommodation in Lillooet, and this has just been completed.

Chief Forester H. R. MacMillan, in his widely circulated and highly commended address before the Western Forestry and Conservation Association at Tacoma, said:

"We in the Pacific Northwest pride ourselves justly on the size and beauty of our cities, upon our growth in population, upon the magnitude and stability of our financial institutions, factories and supply houses, and upon our transport facilities. These institutions are the conspicuous organs of our commercial body. The lumber industry is the heart of that organization, constantly pumping through it the nourishing financial blood without which it could never have grown, and without which it could not maintain even its present size.

"Representative lumbermen throughout the Northwest realize that the same methods must be adopted to market lumber that have been proven successful in the marketing of tobacco, cement or farm implements. Every citizen must be taught the qualities and uses of lumber, and just as the tobacco people endeavor to teach the boy to chew, the lumbermen must unite to teach the boy to handle tools, build, be his own carpenter. Technical schools, engineering schools, must no longer be permitted to specialize in teaching to budding engineers and architects the qualities of steel and cement, to the total neglect of timber. The best salesmen, the most successful organizers of selling campaigns, in the whole of America must be attracted to the lumber industry to devise and carry out means of arousing in the consumer an admiration for the many quantities of timber, to make it more easily possible for any citizen to buy the timber he needs, to inject into the retail lumbermen a greater capacity to work the market that lies before his door. Someone may say 'this is too ambitious a program'—I say, 'no program is too ambitious for the greatest industry in the Northwest.'"

But the work of the Forest Branch is being more and more extended from time to time and includes the protection of the forest from fires, forest surveys, sale of timber, inspection of logging operations, improvement of trails etc., land classification, afforestation, and investigation of the grazing possibilities of the country in the forage produced both in the timber and in the meadows and parks of the mountain slopes and plateaux of the interior.

Lillooet Board of Trade

A movement was inaugurated yesterday which is calculated to do much in the promotion of the welfare of town and vicinity of Lillooet.

A representative body of citizens got together to consider the formation of a Board of Trade.

No time was lost and after preliminary resolutions had been passed, the following officers were elected:—

President:
Dr. H. A. Christie
First-Vice President:
F. Pyman

Second-Vice President
W. J. Abercrombie

Secretary: S. A. Macfarlane
Treasurer: A. E. Greig.

One of the main objects of the Board of Trade is, by acting as a publicity association, to keep prominently and constantly before the outside world the advantages and attractions of Lillooet and also to take any necessary action for the advancement of the best interests of the town.

The Secretary is taking immediate steps to get into touch with outside Boards of Trade and other associations—and also with the daily newspapers—in furtherance of a plan to carry out the main objects of the association.

It is gratifying to know that a Board of Trade has been organized, as there will now be a representative body to deal with various matters, in the interests of the town, instead of depending upon well-intentioned individual efforts in this regard.

The membership fee has been placed at one dollar every six months—to cover the cost of stationary and postage—the secretary giving his services gratis.

Every business man and property owner should become a member.

A Creed For the Business Man

I BELIEVE.

That life is what we make it—and that business is a big part of life.

That unless we are in to win, we are better not to be it at all.

And the man who labors for the love of it, is the man who is doubly paid.

That advertising is the fire under the boiler of business, and we must keep these fires hot if we expect to attain and maintain success.

That one step will not take you far—you've got to keep walking.

That one word will not tell folks who you are—you've got to keep talking.

That co-operation is the most far-reaching business word in the English language.

That to live up to its full meaning is to profit by advertising's mightiest power.

And that in advertising, as in all things, success has no foe but fear—no limitations save those that are our own.

That, therefore, courage and confidence and energy in advertising are as sure to win—as sure to bring prosperity to us—as the dawn of tomorrow brings a new day.

Depot Erected

The rails on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway are now laid to Lillooet. A depot has been erected just across Cayoosh creek, and a station agent placed in charge.

War Gleanings

London, Feb. 16. The prophecy that Italy would mobilize her army within a fortnight was made here today by Rtecottti Garibaldi, the Italian patriot. He said that unless the Italian government decided to participate in the war there would be a revolution.

Ottawa, Feb. 16. The first official announcement that the Canadian troops are in France was made this morning, when Sir George Perley cabled urgently for a large stock of field comforts for the use of the soldiers in the field. All kinds of warm clothing are particularly required as soon as possible.

In the House of Commons this afternoon Premier Borden read the following cablegram from Colonial Secretary Harcourt to the Duke of Connaught.

"Your ministers will be glad to learn that the whole of the Canadian contingent are doing well at the front, having safely crossed over to France."

New York, Feb. 16. Of the steamships clearing from New York within the last two weeks, maritime records show today that twenty-seven are due to be within the war zone declared by Germany around Great Britain on and after February 18, the day set to establish the zone. Four ships of this fleet are American-owned and fly the American flag, and five of the steamers carry passengers. The four American ships are the Surgna, Cushing, Kansan, and the Philadelphia, a passenger carrying ship.

The four other vessels carrying passengers are the Adriatic, Norwegian steamer Bergensfjord, Cunarder Orduna, (British) and the French liner Niagara.

The Philadelphia carried 250 passengers, the Adriatic (British) 400, and the other three liners had fewer passengers aboard.

Rome, Feb. 17.—Commenting on the diplomatic exchange between the United States and Germany on the question of the submarine blockade of England, the Giornale D'Italia says: "The German note to the United States does not deny the rights of neutrals of which the great American republic has become the champion, nor does it renounce the threatened reprisals."

"The German purpose has not been revealed. All the noisy and somewhat ridiculous manoeuvres of the imaginary maritime blockade had for their sole object the compelling of neutrals to make their voices heard in Britain, asking the British government to permit provisions to enter Germany. Germany has been asserting that the danger of famine was non-existent: as a matter of fact Berlin is seriously anxious, the scarcity of food already is being felt among the less well-to-do of the German civilian population."

General News of Lillooet District

Answer to enquiry:—Yes, the Prospector is the only newspaper printed and published in the Lillooet district! The only paper on the P.G.E. Railway, between Vancouver and Quesnel.

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—Hon. Rodolph Lemieux has given notice of a resolution providing for the sending of all mail matter to Canadian soldiers on active service free of charge.

Mr. T. G. Wynn, Inspector of Provincial Police and Inspector of Licenced premises, was in town this week on a tour of inspection.

The school children had a half holiday this week to enable them to witness the track-laying machinery doing its work.

Mr. J. K. More, Govt. Road Superintendent, was here last week for the express purpose of completing arrangements for the building of the bridge across Cayoosh creek, thus linking Lillooet to the P. G. E. Depot.

The bridge to be built is a high Level Truss Bridge, with a span of 164 feet. The material is expected to arrive any day now, as the rails are now laid to Lillooet. Work will be commenced as soon as the material arrives.

The placing of an order for delivery of a million bushels of wheat for next July by High Commissioner McKenzie representing New Zealand at London, is but another indication of the National duty of this country to increase the acreage of wheat next spring—still another stronger argument may be found in the price which is being quoted on futures. It is Canada's business to grow wheat—and more wheat—and there is a place on the land for many who have found their industrial vocations closed for the time being. And what is more it is good business.

Victoria, Feb 17.—The horticultural branch of the department of agriculture has issued a large quantity of valuable information regarding the spraying of fruit trees in the form of calendars which inform the reader in a comprehensive manner what should be done with various kinds of fruit and vegetables at the different stages of their growth. The circulars have been compiled by Mr. J. W. Eastham, the provincial pathologist and entomologist. The tables refer particularly to apples, pears, peaches, plums, prunes, cherries, curants, gooseberries and potatoes. Some valuable information is contained in the tables concerning pests that are not controlled by spraying, giving the remedies which may be used for their extermination. Three thousand circulars have already been sent away to various parts of the province and can be obtained upon application.

London, Feb 16. The prohibition against foodstuffs destined for Germany will be formally proclaimed by Great Britain either tonight or tomorrow, according to the present expectations, and the government's retaliatory measures against the threatened German submarine "blockade" will go into immediate effect.

Bonar Law on the Splendid Material of British Army

In the course of a recent speech, Mr. Bonar Law, the Unionist leader, made this reference to the services of the army:

"Let me tell you, if I may an incident—one of many—which was told to me by a friend who was at the front, and which made me realize what this war means. He said that a battalion, full strength, went into the trenches. They stayed there day after day without relief, resisting and resisting successfully, overwhelming forces which were trying to drive them out. At last the time for relief came. They came out out of the trenches but only one fourth of those who had gone into them, and they came out under the command of one who had become their senior officer, a boy of sixteen. When they came out he formed up his men. He gave them the order to march and then he burst into tears, and fell fainting to the ground. When duty required it he had done all that was wanted of him, but when it was over the strain was too much and he broke down. That is the kind of thing that is being done by our soldiers everywhere, and we are very proud of this.

"It was in numbers a contemptible little army, the kaiser called it, but small as it was it is no exaggeration, if it is no disparagement to our French allies who are fighting so bravely, to say that that 'contemptible little army' saved Paris in the hour of her need. But before we have done we may need, and we must have, not a small but a great army, and we must have it fighting our battles now, and we will have it.

"In the last few weeks I have been present at two encampments where soldiers are training, 20,000 men in each, and a finer body of men never shouldered a rifle in any country in the world. It is a marvellous thing, the number of men who under our arrangements have flocked to enlist under the old flag. There has been nothing like it. No army of this dimension has ever before been raised by voluntary enlistment, and it is my opinion that in no country in the world could such an army have been raised by such means except in this country of ours. We all know that the question of national service has always been a debatable one, and to have raised it now would not have helped us to get the men. Everyone knows it would never be adopted in this country at a time like this till the old system had failed, but if we had been starting with a clean sheet one might take another view. I at least am not blind, and I am sure you are not, to the advantages of the present system. We know that under it some who ought to have gone have remained here and we know that many who ought not to have been called to go until others had gone have gone and are fighting the country's battles. I don't say that it is the best arrangement, but at a time like this the best arrangement is that which works the most quickly. Just as we have got all the men we need up to now so we shall get them. Of this also I am sure, that the nation as a whole realize the danger in which we stand, that it is determined at all costs to see this thing through, and if the men don't come voluntarily the whole nation will demand that they shall be made to come compulsory." Natal Reporter.

Use Your Own Town

We sometimes wonder how many citizens use this town to the greatest possible advantage to themselves. Suppose everybody looks upon this town as an organization designed especially to contribute to his comfort, his progress and his happiness. What has it to offer that he must have in order to be happy and contented and that he cannot secure elsewhere? How often does the citizen—farmer or townsman—as he goes to the bank to cash a check or to the post office to mail a letter, think of what conditions would be without bank or post office? Can he imagine bank and post office without a town? Can he imagine a town without stores and other places of business? Can he imagine the existence of stores without patronage? Let him for a moment consider the intimate relations and connections that exist between local population and the patronage of local merchants, the supporting and maintaining of schools, churches and places amusement, the performing of governmental functions, and indeed the maintenance of civilization. Though he may shut his eyes to these connections and ignore his duty to the premises, the connections none the less exist and the duty is none the less obvious.--American Lumberman.

America's Debt to Britain

"All of the early practice of liberty and the teachings of John Milton about civil and religious liberty; the assurance, finally, that national efficiency can be developed to a higher degree under free autocratic institutions"

Such, in the words of Chas. W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, is the debt we owe to Britain, the reason for American sympathy with her in her present struggle.

"I have received many letters expressing displeasure at my stand in favor of the allies," he said. They ask me if I am an Englishman, and where I was born, and what the British pay me, and what we owe to Britain. So I have thought about our debt to Britain."

This debt, he said, lay in her practice and teachings of civil and religious liberty; in her example that a nation could be more efficient under free than autocratic rule. Natal Reporter.

Co-operative Growth

The growth of the co-operative movement in Saskatchewan is shown by the increase in creameries in that province. There were only four of these in 1907 with a patronage of 213 and an output of 66,246 lbs. of butter, while in 1914 there were thirteen creameries with a patronage of 3,625 and an output of 1,161,230 pounds of butter.
