VOL. 4, NO. 14 LILLOOET, B. C., FRIDAY, JANUARY 29, 1915. $2 PER YEAR

General News of Lillooet District

Boxing on February 6.

Joe Russell left this week, for an extended cruise.

Mrs. David Craig arrived home this week from the coast cities.

Alex. Mcleod of Pemberton Meadows is a visitor to Lillooet these days.

Messrs Downton, Leslie and Swann, left for Vancouver, the begining of the week,

About thirty men from off the grade up the lakes, passed thru town enroute for camps up the river.

Mrs. Hemus, wife of the Supt. of Dr. Jones' ranch, arrived home from the coast yesterday, not two weeks ago.

Mr. A. F. Noel, arrived in Lillooet from 'Frisco last week, to look after his interests here. He will return to the coast cities in a few days.

Steel on the Pacific Great Eastern is now laid to the head of Seaton Lake, and is expected in Lillooet by the 15th of next month.

Wm. Durban, rancher on the Portage, was in our midst for a few days during the past week. He says that things are looking pretty good in his locality.

Mr. Kelly, famous for the three definitions of Englishmen, left town this week on an extended trip over the Pacific Great Eastern railway. Going west.

Sunday's naval engagemen on the North sea makes considerably better reading, than the bombarding of defenceless fishing towns and pleasure resorts.

Teacher. Now children, can you tell me what are the national flowers of England?
Class. Roses.
Teacher And France?
Class. Lillies.
Teacher. And Spain?
Silence of a minute and then a small voice at back of the schoolroom---Bulrushes, ma'am.

The total amount now standing to the credit of the Lillooet War Fund is $30.30.

The Secy-Treasurer wishes to state that the amount paid the Parisien Costumiers of Vancouver, viz. $13.60 for articles for use at the concert on December 11, 1914, and which were too late to be used at that entertainment, has been refunded by that Firm, and has been placed to the credit of the War Fund.

The Hague—"We must maintain under the colors our entire army, for any moment incidents are possible which may render it necessary for us to make an appeal to arms," said P. W. A. Vander Linden, premier of the Netherlands.

The statement was made in the second chamber of the Dutch Parliament when a bill for the extension of the military service was being discussed.

The Premier added that the government could not disclose the information it possessed concerning the foreign situation, because much of it was based on confidential documents.

Naval Engagement on the North Sea

London, January 27—Captain Erdmann of the German armored cruiser Bluecher, which was sunk in Sunday's batttle in the North sea, has been placed among the wounded, according to the Edinburgh correspondent of the Times He is suffering from shock.

The Lion and the Tiger were the only British cruisers that sustained material damage in the fight, the correspondent adds. The Lion had her speed reduced, but that soon can be remided. The Princess Royal, another of the British battle cruisers, which had almost as big a part in the action, is practically unscathed.

Most of the warships engaged in the battle returned home Monday and during Monday night, it was announced here today. The Lion, the flagship of Sir David Beatty, was the last of the battle cruisers to arrive. She returned Tuesday morning when the Arethusa and the Laurel, among the light cruisers, some of the destroyers and the battle cruiser Tiger, Princess Royal, Indomitable and New Zealand were already at their moorings.

The Lion arrived at 11 o'clock and was greeted with vociferous cheers by the crews of the anchored warships. It was a spontaneous tribute of affection to Vice-Admiral Beatty and his flagship.

The total number of casualties among the officers and men reported to the admiralty is:

On the Lion, 17 men wounded; on the Tiger, one officer and nine men killed and three officers and eight men wounded; on the Meteor, four men killed and one man wounded. It is not believed that any other casualties occurred.

The Lion was struck by a German shell close to the water line and some of her forward compartments were flooded. The details of the damages sustained by the Meteor are not announced.

The Scotsman prints accounts of the battle as gathered from men engaged in it. They describe it as one of the greatest struggles in naval history and thrilling in every respect.

From the position of the German fleet when it was first encountered, these men assumed that it virtually certain its objective was Newscastle. The strength of the raiding squadron was quickly ascertained and as the entire raiding force sheered off immediately after it was discovered the chase was a long one before the guns began their work.

For forty minutes the two fleets raced along over the shortest route for Heligoland before the guns did any real damage. Then the Lion, which was leading, overhauled the Bluecher and, in passing her, gave her a broadside, causing frightful damage. The Lion did not wait, however, but continued in persuit of the Derflinger, Seydlitz and Moltke.

The Tiger, which came next, also poured a broadside into the Bluecher, as did also the Princess Royal, both of which were speeding on to join in the chase of the others. It was already evident at this time, according to the newspaper's informants, that the Bluecher, abandoned by her swifter consorts, was a doomed ship.

After a chase for two hours the bigger ships were now being steadily overhauled and pounded by the British cruisers. The Tiger, Princess Royal, and Indomitable were now within range and great damage is said to nave been caused on the German battle cruisers. The fire of the Derfinger and Jeydlity, it is asserted, grew weaker and weaker as the running fight proceeded Within half an hours run of the mine area, the Derflinger was on fire, and no answering shots came from her guns.

The third vessel in line is reported to have suffered even worse. One after another her guns wer smashed and put out of action and there was great execution among her crew. She was a silent ship, running for shelter with deck ablaze.

Special

Special service will be held in the Methodist Church next Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock, in aid of the Belgian relief fund. Suitable addresses and solos for the occasion.

Lillooet War Fund.

The following letter has been received by the Secretary-Treas. of the War Fund in acknowledgement of the draft of $500.00 forwarded to the Canadian Patriotic Fund, Victoria, B.C.

Percy Le Mare, Esq,
Hon. Sec-Treas..
Lillooet War Fund,
Lillooet, B. C.

Dear Sir,

I have your letter of January 15th, enclosing draft on the Bank of British, North America for $500.00, being a contribution from the people of Lillooet and adjacent country to the Canadian Patriotic Fund.

I am instructed by the Committee to express their sincere thanks to the people of Lillooet and district for their splendid contribution, which has been duly placed to the credit of the Fund.

Yours truly,

W. J. GOEPEL,
Hon. Sec-Treas.
Canadian Patriotic Fund

London, Jan. 26. —In a letter andsersep to the English Zionist Federation, Dr. Nordau says that great events are in store for Judaism and that they must maintain the Zionist organization in good condition so as to be able, at a given moment, to convince those responsible for the destinies of Palestine that the Jews are ready and able to assume administrative, political and financial responsibility.

The Daily World, a new morning paper, is the largest Yiddish newspaper ever published in England.

Wise or Otherwise

Mr. Green has called to pay his respects to you, sir.

Disappointed again. I thought he had come to pay me that ten dollars he owes me.

A Scotish recruit stood on guard before a colonel's tent, when the colonel, putting out his head, said sternly to the new soldier:
"Who are you?"
The recruit grinned and said:
"Fine! Hoo's yerself?"

The Vicar. "For shame, my lad! What have those poor little fish done to be imprisoned upon the day of rest?"
Tommy. "Tha - that's what they got for-for chasing worms on a Sunday, sir."

Lady (who during a short trip had to put her pug dog in board at a neighbor's family) Well, children, have you always been kind to my pet?
Chorus. Yes!
Little Carl (blurting out) And he can swim now, too!

The motor-car was, until recently, a thing unheard of in a certain part of Ireland. A peasant was very much astonished one day when he saw one go by without any visible means of locomotion. His eyes bulged, however, when a motor-cycle followed closely, and disappeared like a flash round a bend in the road.
"'Begorra," he said, turning to his son, "who would have thought that thing had a colt."

A revival was bein conducted by a muscular preacher. He was disturbed by two young men who scoffed at everything they saw or heard.
He paused and asked them why they had attended the meeting.
"We came to see miracles performed," imprudently replied one of them,
Leaving the pulpit and walking quietly down the aisle, the minister seized one after the other by the collar and, as the disappeared out of the door, remarked
"We don't perform miracles here, but we do cast out devils."

Patrick stood, watching his father busily engaged hanging pictures on the plaster walls of best parlor. Pat watched with silent admiration as nail after nail was successfully driven in.
Then the inevitable happened, Pat's father's thumb mad a dent in the plaster, and was for a brief second, hidden entirely from view by the head of the hefty hammer. The flow of oloquence, that poured from the father's mouth was a revelation to the watchful lad. With a gentle sigh he stole quietly from the room and went for a stroll.
He had not gone far when he pappened on the vicar diligently hammering nails into the rectory fence.
Patrick immediately became absorbed in the good man's labors
"You seem interested, my little man. Are you fond of carpentering?" asked the minister.
"No" answered Pat shortly.
"Then why do you stand there watching me at work?"
"'Cause I want to see what a parson says when he swipes his thumb!" answered Patrick, who was the soul of truth.

Annual Report of Lillooet Mining Division

(Report of Minister of Mines)

Broken Hill.—I had heard that John Hunt had acquired some mineral claims near, up a small creek, which I had expected to examine, but, as I could find no one who could show me the locations or give me any definite information about them, I had to omit visiting them.

Later, however, at Lillooet I met John Hunt, who with associates, has acquired the mineral claims to which I referred as being located near "Jack's Landing," and he informed me that the property designated as the Broken Hill group consisted of six claims, the McLeod, Mineral Wonder, the Broken Hill, Silver standard, and Standard Nos. 1 and 2. These are situated about two miles up Sebring creek, which flows into Bridge river about a mile above the bridge near Jack's Landing; they are at an elevation of about 4,000 feet and were staked during 1912.

Mr. Hunt described the trail as being "merely a deer trail," and the work so far done as being confined to stripping the surface, which work, he said, had exposed a large mineralized ledge, which could be traced on the surface for quite a long distance, but, he also said, the work done was not sufficient to enable anyone to form much of an idea as to the values or material facts. He showed me some fifteen assay certificates, most of which, he said, showed the results from assaying samples of ore that had been taken by W. C. Thomas, late of the Boundary Falls smelter. The best values were shown as $9.60 in gold, 24.12 oz. silver, 5.20 per cent. copper, and decreased by a sliding scale to 30 cents in gold, silver between 5 and 6 oz. and copper down to 1 per cent.

Mr. Thomas, in his report says that the strike of the vein is east and west, dip north, into the mountains, and that the general geological structure is a quartz capping, the hanging-wall granite and lime-shale, and the foot-wall of quartzite.

I proceeded across the bridge to the south side of Bridge river and to the foot of Mission mountain, which is now traversed by an excellently graded waggon-road, about eight miles in length, replacing the old steep switchback trail used, but often "cussed" in past years. This road brought me to the Mission Landing, on the north shore of Seton lake, about four miles from its head, where a few Indians live at the rancherie, which is very picturesquely situated on a small flat at the foot of the mountain.

The grade of the Pacific Great Eastern along the shore has obliterated the old trail to the foot of the lake, blasted out along the precipitous side of the mountain which rises abruptly from the the water, so that the horses have to be transported by steamers down the lake. As the boat did not stop on that day, I passed the night at a railway - construction camp and next morning rode to the head of the lake, travelling along an old Indian trail across the hills a short distance back from the lake, and took passage from there on the steamer to the foot of the lake, distance three and a half miles from the town of Lillooet.

From the Mission landing towards the east the mountains on both sides of the lake are apparently made up of greenish and blackish quartzose schists, with dykes of grey granite, and masses of quartz-porphyry, so classified by the late Dr. Geo. M. Dawson.

The grade of the railroad, for practically the entire distance from the head of Anderson lake to the foot of Seton lake, except across the short portage between the two, has been blasted out along the base of the base of the mountains near the water line, following the sinuosities of the shore-line, except at one point on Seton lake near its head, where a tunnel has been driven. This is one of the most picturesque pieces of scenery in British Columbia.
