THE WEEK, SATURDAY, AUGUST 7, 1909

ONE DOLLAR PER ANNUM

At times the Colonist prints some very remarkable editorials, especially bearing in mind that it is a Conservative newspaper. One of the most remarkable appeared on Thursday last on the subject of the British Budget and Tariff reform. The whole article was written from the standpoint and conviction of a Free Trader. Indeed some of the principles enunciated would entitle the writer to rank as a strict Cobdenite. The main attention was that the British people will have to swallow the Lloyd George Budget whether they like it or not, that the project of the Lords will avail nothing, that Tariff Reform is almost, if not quite a dead issue, and that there is little likelihood of England abandoning or materially modifying her Free Trade policy. To this I added the comment that after all it is the business of Canada's, and we could afford to be indifferent to whatever results. Now as a matter of fact everyone of these conclusions is erroneous and betrays a lamentable ignorance, not only on actual conditions, but of the trend of public opinion in England and the probable issue of the conflict. As to whether Tariff Reform is a dead issue could only remain a matter of doubt to one who has not followed the course of events in England for the last seven years. When Mr. Chamberlain announced his propaganda he was met with a storm of opposition, such subversive economic doctrines as he enunciated were declared to constitute a menace to the country, and there was a loud call on the part of the Free Traders for a closing of the ranks and concentrated effort to overwhelm the Free Traders. Mr. Balfour not only held aloof but was at first distinctly hostile, today he has adopted the platform on behalf of the Conservative party, and has won most of the bye-elections through making it the paramount issue. This shows that both the people and the leaders have been aroused to the necessity for doing something in the direction advocated by Mr. Chamberlain. That his proposals will be accepted in their entirety, at any rate for many years to come, even he did not expect, but that the principle of Imperial preference has been accepted by the country no close observer can doubt. It is its development which will be watched with the keenest interest. To suggest that Canada is, or can afford to be indifferent is to miss the point of Canadian interests. A few words will state the case in this respect: Ten years ago the Canadian Government voluntarily offered England a Trade preference which has been in operation ever since. Mr. Fielding, the Finance Minister, on the authority of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, announced that this was a purely voluntary offering and that Canada looked for nothing in return. At the next Colonial conference Mr. Fielding had to tell a different story, for meanwhile the subject had been debated from one end of the Dominion to the other and Mr. Fielding told the British Government that Canada did exact "quid pro quo" for the Preference, and that while she would not dictate as to the exact form it should take he suggested that reciprocity would be obtained by taxing the raw products of other countries and allowing the colonies to send theirs in free. Naturally the Cobdenites stigmatized this as a scheme to raise the cost of the poor man's loaf and fought it for all they were worth, but they have never yet overcome the argument that the cost of the poor man's loaf bears a very distinct relation to its ability to pay for it, and that with so many people out of employment and on the verge of starvation a system which would find them occupation and increase their earnings might well enable them to pay a little more for the loaf. However the point The Week wishes to make is this that there will be no Preferential Tariff within the Empire at the instigation of the Lloyd George Party, and the only possible chance for any measure of reciprocity is if the Tariff Reform Party get into power. This indicates a very lively interest in the whole subject for Canada, and those who have followed the subject closely will be surprised if the ultimate outcome of Mr. Chamberlain's propaganda is not to establish a new departure in inter-Imperial trade which will benefit the Empire as a whole at the expense of competitors who have for so long crippled the Mother Country.

An Empire Builder.

This week Seattle has erected a monument to the memory of J. J. Hill, whom it has fallen down, and worshipped, and whom it designates as 'the Empire Builder of the West.' No doubt the eminent Canadian who has contributed so much to the development of the country lying West of Minneapolis and St. Paul is deserving of a monument; many men who have done less have been so honoured, and The Week is quite willing to add its little hurrah! to the greetings which were tendered the railway magnate by the people of Seattle. It, however, has a little account of its own to settle with him, and perhaps this is an appropriate time to bring the matter forward and remind the "empire builder" that the people of British Columbia are not altogether satisfied with his conduct. Five years ago, after a tremendous lobby fight at Ottawa, he secured control of McLean Bros. charter for the V. V. & E. railway. In order to do this he made some very big promises and made them with a great deal of emphasis and vehemence. One was that the line would be completed from Midway to the Coast within two years, another was that after crossing the boundary at Oroville it would be constructed entirely upon Canadian territory. Many people, and especially those familiar with Mr. Hill's previous railway exploits in this Province, disbelieved both statements; they were even so unkind as to go further and suggest that he never intended to complete the line on Canadian territory, but that when he reached Princeton he would turn South and find an outlet to Everett by way of the Skagit and Roche Rivers. For the faith that was within them these people were able to cite the evidence of numerous surveys by men in Mr. Hill's employ along the latter route, and in view of the fact that the up-building of American industries by the transportation of Canadian raw produce was known to be one of the cardinal doctrines of Mr. Hill's commercial creed, they felt sure that if he could have his way the ultimate destination of the ores and mattes of the Similkameen and Boundary would be the smelters of Everett. All this took place five years ago and what are the facts today? First, that Mr. Hill has only completed his railway to Hedley City and is already shipping the products of the Hedley mines camp and of the lower Similkameen Valley to the American side of the line. Beyond Hedley construction lags although grading is not far from Princeton. It is now an open secret that Mr. Hill's representatives have made urgent representations that they should be allowed to construct the Western end of the railway down the Skagit river, under the plea that the Hope mountain summit, while not actually impracticable, is too costly, and they even shy at the more tortuous but cheaper route by the Coquihala. Thus after five years the cat is out of the bag, and Mr. Hill wants to do exactly what was predicted by those who opposed his acquiring of the charter. In these premises there is only one thing to be said, that whether Mr. Hill builds south or not he must be compelled to complete the line direct to the coast on Canadian territory. It is not necessary at this late day to discuss the advantages which the Boundary and Kootenay countries expect to derive from this railway. They are known even to school children. The line if completed by the Hope Summit will bring the Kootenay within ten hours of the coast, to the enormous advantage of the inner country as well as the merchants at Victoria and Vancouver. The question of cost must not be allowed to enter into the matter because it was always known that the Hope Mountain would present engineering and financial difficulties, but Mr. Hill's surveyors were as well acquainted with these when he was fighting for the charter as they are today, and the people of British Columbia will look to the Provincial Government to see that construction is completed on the lines originally provided for. There is no reason to doubt that they are fully alive to the importance of this, and that "the Empire builder" of the West will find that the Premier of British Columbia, who made such graceful references to the Seattle monument carries "within a velvet scabbard a sword of steel" when British Columbian interests have to be fought.

Editorial Comment.

The editor of the Okanagan thinks that the editor of the Week "is a pretty fair example of a partisan run wild." The editor of The Week is not quite sure what the editor of the Okanagan is a "fair" example of, but is quite certain that he is in the habit of writing editorials on matters of moment without taking the trouble to acquaint himself with the facts. To receive the compliment of half the editorial space of a small weekly is very gratifying to one's "amour propre," but it would be even more agreeable if the criticism were based upon an intelligent conception of the facts. The editor of The Week may be "an arm chair critic" but the editor of the Okanagan is the first to dub him a "bigot".

Vancouver Island.

The topic of the moment in Victoria is the development of Vancouver Island. Everything must give way to that because at last it is realized that the future of the Capital depends on the development of the hinterland. To this end the Island Development League is working over-time. The Government is being importuned to lend its aid. The Transcontinental railway companies are being urged to invade the island, and make it the Western terminus of their system.

The movement is backed by the press, and with so many helpers should not lack success. The resources of the Island have been carefully studied and extensively advertised. Mr. Lugin's pamphlet, to which The Week has previously called attention, is an admirable production and cannot be too freely used. The sum of $500 has just been set apart for a re-print, but the main thing is to get the endorsement of the Government for some practical scheme which will materially advance development. Surface road construction they have already undertaken, and public works of various kinds are under way and will be pushed by the energetic minister who has recently assumed command. In this respect the Government is taking good care of the situation, but the important point is to secure additional railway construction, and this cannot be done without Government assistance. The question is, what price the Province is willing to pay for immediate construction. If the inducement is sufficient there is reason to believe that the Canadian Northern will do more than establish a ferry service to Victoria. A site has been suggested north of Sydney, from which a line could be built to the Capital, and which would materially shorten the time of communication between the Mainland and the Island. It is hoped that this scheme may take definite shape in a short time. In addition the C.P.R. must be extended to the North, and the Barkley Sound railway should also be pushed. This is a pretty extensive programme, but not at all beyond the reasonable requirements of the Island. Any money expended in this direction will secure a prompt return; indeed there is no part of Canada in which valuable natural products are so compressed into a small area, and when once Vancouver Island begins to move there will be something doing that will astonish the whole of the Dominion.

The Spanish Revolution.

It may be too early to say that the Spanish revolution has petered out, but evidence certainly points in that direction. A week ago it was thought possible that the Bourbon Dynasty would see its finish, and that Alfonso would have to flee for his life. Prompt, decisive, action on the part of the Government has averted a crisis. Don Jaime, the Pretender, showed more discretion than might have been expected, and refused to become a candidate for the block. The Government shot down the rebels by the hundred, and undoubtedly instilled terror into their ranks. The result has been temporarily to suppress rebellion, and to drive the conspirators into retreat. Whether the revolution is killed or merely scotched it is too soon to conjecture, but there are many evidences that the latter is nearer the truth than the former. Disaffection is widespread. The action of the Government in Morocco is strongly disapproved of, and there may be a difficulty in carrying on the war. The masses have risen in Spain, as in France, against the monasteries. Indeed there are many signs which point to a general upheaval, and the portent of a change which will usher in a more democratic form of Government, and the same predominance for the labouring classes in Spain as they have attained in other civilized countries. It has been a long time since a review of European affairs revealed so many elements of discord.

Modern Tendencies

By BOHEMIAN.

I have been thinking of some modern tendencies and have almost come to the conclusion that one of the most obvious is the development of cosmopolitanism. In this connection there are two startling facts which almost constitute a paradox. The one is that intercommunication of various kinds is rapidly eliminating the boundary lines of different nationalities, its antithesis is that national traits are not thereby materially modified.

To illustrate: The world is more truly one today than ever it was. This oneness has been effected by the railway and the telegraph, any happening of importance is flashed to every civilized country, and by an ingenious arrangement of press agencies and newspapers circulated in every village and almost every hamlet.

It seems incredible for the twentieth century to pick up an old magazine of the eighteenth, and read of important battles, the result of which was not known in London until several weeks later. The railway, if not so swift in its operation has possibly affected even more than the telegraph in bringing men of different countries together. To know each other has been to respect each other, and to realize that differences and distinctions do not necessarily imply inferiority.

It is only a few years since the outside world thought of Siberia as one vast frozen desert, and one huge imperial charnel house for political prisoners. The Trans-Siberian Railway has been a great educator, its chief service to mankind has not been to furnish a means for transporting the produce of the country, but to enlighten the world as to the vastness and the possibilities of a great Empire, and at the same time it set a limit to the possibilities of Russian persecution.

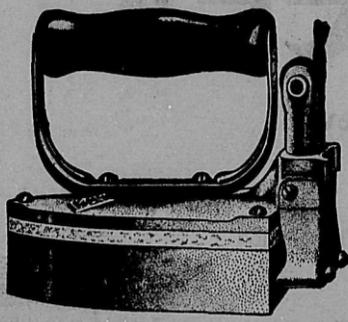

Cecil Rhodes' dream of a Cape to Cairo Railway is being realized, and already the romance of the Dark Continent surpasses in interest the material advantages of a railway. These two great developments of science and civilization, the telegraph and the railway, are everywhere breaking down barriers, and joining their common forces to the moral influences which are working towards a realization of the brotherhood of man.

The outcome of this greater facility of communication is seen in International organizations, especially in connection with labour. Indeed throughout the civilized world the solidarity of labour has been realized, and International Congresses itinerating from one country to another mark the progress of industrial development. There is a oneness of purpose and a definiteness of aim.

The elementary demands of labour are being complied with, first among them longer hours and larger wages. Following this came improved conditions for the toiler, both in the prosecution of his work and in his home. But organized labour the world over is rising beyond these elementary considerations to the study of economics, and is taking a hand more and more in legislation and government. Just what the issue of this universal solidarity may be, it is premature to conjecture, but it will make itself felt in many ways, and in some conspicuously, probably its first effect will be to rally the forces of labour against militarism.

And this brings me to consider the respect in which my antithesis is correctly stated, that national and racial characteristics have not been modified, and that they prevail in the last issue. Thus while the English, the German, and the French workmen will combine to obtain an advantage from the employer, they are just as ready as ever to fight each other in what is conceived to be a national interest. There is no reason to believe that this tendency will ever be eradicated, for while social conditions and international relationships will undergo many changes as a result of concerted action, nature has determined that certain innate tendencies of the race shall be permanent, and among these patriotism is one of the greatest. The old proverb that "blood is thicker than water" is a truth not modified in the least degree even by the most obvious of modern tendencies.

Wishing Him a Long Life.

Richardson, the painter, used to speak of an honest, open country gentleman who one day asked him to come to his house, adding: "I wish very much to see you, for I have just purchased a picture of ubens. It is a rare good one. Brown saw it and says it's a copy. Copy! If any man living dares to say it is a copy, I will break every bone in his skin. Pray, call on me and give your opinion."

Mrs. Berkeley entertained her friends at bridge last Wednesday afternoon at her pretty camp at Kanaka Ranch.

Let us come, however, to the common sense Japan wants to teach its people. Certainly, a nation whose every individual thought with one mind and had the same practical outlook on all matters would be most formidable; but would the world as a whole be such a pleasant place as it is at present? I personally should not like to live in it if everywhere I went I was compelled to meet and talk to replicas of (let me call them) Mrs. Brown and Mr. Smith. These two people are the embodiment of the principle of common sense as generally understood. Mrs. Brown adjures her clothing according to the barometer. Heat spells find her provided with light garments; while the treacherous cold of these May evenings never catches her napping—extra wraps never fail to be close to Mrs. Brown's hand. Her food follows all the laws of proportion. Do you dine with her, you may be sure that your system will be recuperated with just the proper amount of proteids, carbohydrates, and all the rest; and so much does common sense hover over the table that, however much you would like to transgress hygienic rules by asking for a second helping, you would never be desperate enough to do it. I always pity Mrs. Brown when she has a party to whom she has not been able to explain her care for their individual well-being, and the members of which sometimes neglect one dish and have double the prescribed amount of another. In other people's houses Mrs. Brown still shows her common sense. She regards the menu as an insidious attempt at poisoning, but she valiantly brings her common sense to bear, and, by contenting herself with infinitesimal helpings and explaining to her neighbours the injurious properties of everything they are eating, she manages to get through with equanimity. As for Mrs. Brown's children, except through the ill-placed charity of servants and friends, who give them surreptitious feasts, they would be ignorant that food had any flavour outside of milk-pudding and vegetable puree. At school their mother's common sense gives them the distinction of feeling that they are never dressed like the other boys and girls. But Mrs. Brown's virtues would need a book for their detailing—and I have not yet touched on Mr. Smith. Mr. Smith is sixty-five—a small, spare man. He has very scanty hair, which he gets clipped once a week. By this method his common sense tells him his hair is never allowed to grow so long that its removal will give him a cold. In clothes he sticks strictly (for all occasions) to a Norfolk coat and a soft collar—to the despair and humiliation of his wife and daughters, who have to be continually explaining him away. He is a believer in a "joint" dinner and a cold bath in all weathers. Need I say more? Everyone who knows them will tell you that they never met two people with more common sense than Mrs. Brown and Mr. Smith—yet everyone avoids them as much as possible.

BABETTE.

Grace—Who is that man they're all quarreling with?

Jack—Why, he's keeping the score.

Grace—Oh! And won't he give it up?

Best Carpet Values

GUARANTEED SQUARES AND CARPETS

You'll find our prices on carpet squares are fairest. You'll find the qualities superior to those offered at higher prices elsewhere. That's a big claim but we'll back it up with the goods if you give us the opportunity. There's a reason and it's mainly because we enjoy the largest carpet business in the city and are able to secure, through big purchases for cash, the best prices and the exclusive sale for this territory of the products of the foremost carpet makers in the world. We guarantee all our carpets.

Here is a sample value chosen from our stock of seamless Axminster squares. These squares measure 9x12 ft. They are from Templetons—the foremost makers of carpets in the world. Big choice of colorings—reds, greens, blues, fawns—in floral and oriental patterns. Compare the price with that quoted anywhere on a similar square .....$26.50

Morris Chairs from $9

We show a great choice of that favorite chair—the Morris. We don't think you'll see such an excellent collection elsewhere in the city. The range includes many excellent chair styles in many woods and finishes, and upholstered in a great variety of materials. In leather upholstered styles the choice is particularly broad. Many are products of our own factory. See the range of chairs at from .....$9 to $45

"There's very little heat. But try this with an ordinary lamp and see what happens."

LIGHT—NOT HEAT

The Angle Lamp gives less heat than any other method except incandescent electricity. Will not scorch or discolor your ceiling, etc. Eliminates possibility of fire. Gives well distributed shadowless light without dangerous and unpleasant heat—delightful to read or work by.

is the simple, economical, convenient and perfectly satisfactory method of burning common kerosene. It never smokes or smells whether burned at full height or turned low. Lighted and extinguished like gas. Filled like a water bottle. Requires filling about once a week.

The Cheapest Form of Light
Being fully 1/3 to 1/2 more economical than even the ordinary lamp it soon saves its cost. It is made in 32 varieties. Come in and see it or write for catalog.

Priced from $3.75

NEW LINOLEUMS

VERY NEWEST PATTERNS ARE SHOWN

Dozens of delightful patterns are shown among our linoleums—the neatest and most attractive designs imaginable. You'll be pleasantly surprised at the variety, but the greatest surprise will be the values.

We take it for granted you are a homekeeper who appreciates the economy of quality, who agrees that it is the poorest of economy to purchase trashy second quality goods. Then your surprise will be doubly interesting for you'll see first quality linoleums priced like those "seconds." We sell nothing but the very finest linoleums:

Printed Linoleums, from, per yard .....50c
Inlaid Linoleums, from, per yard .....75c

STYLISH FIBRE SQUARES

Outside of the decidedly artistic appearance of these fiber squares there is much to commend them. They are sanitary, easily kept clean (a damp cloth does it) design goes right through, giving it a double wearing surface.

These squares are specially desirable for summer use, being delightfully cool in appearance but are ideal for every season. They have become very popular for bedroom use. Art designs and colorings that please. Come in and see them.

Size 6x9 ft. ....$10.00
Size 7 1/2 x 10 1/2 ft. ....$12.50
Size 8 ft. 3 in. by 10 1/2 ft. ....$14.50
Size 9x12 ft. ....$16.00

MUSIC AND THE STAGE

Victoria Theatre.

On Wednesday night a dramatized version of Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks," was staged at the Victoria Theatre. The Company was poor, the mountings poor, and the play rotten. Miss Beryl Hope may not unfairly be called the wreck of an emotional actress; she is totally unsuited both in appearance and style for such a part as that of the Queen of Sardinia. The only redeeming feature of the play was the admirable work of the young Englishman, and even he was not well suited to the part. People who went expecting a sensation looked for it eagerly through three acts and a prologue, but were disappointed. There was not even a thrill. The only attempt at one was in the balcony scene which was cribbed wholesale from Sapho. The play is if possible, worse than the book, and that is saying a great deal.

The New Grand.

Manager Jameson is giving an excellent show at the New Grand this week; in fact I do not know when I have enjoyed myself more at the chief vaudeville house. The best turn, and it is a thriller, is that given by the two Woods, flying ring artists; it is fine. The highest class turn is that of Vera de Bassini, the Italian nightingale, who has a beautiful soprano voice and uses it like an artist. The whole show is excellent, but these two turns are exceptionally good and have been witnessed by packed houses at every performance. Next week a versatile bill is coming to the New Grand theatre, commencing at the Monday matinee and consisting of a Scotch singer, a comedy playlet, and a high class vocalist. Tom and Stasia Moore, known throughout the length and breadth of the land are the pair that promise a new production here. They will offer a repertoire of songs and dances and both are premier singers renowned in their line.

George Edward Murphy, Walt Whitman and Florence Bates Horsfall are bringing a comedy playlet of the right kind entitled "The Prodigal Girl," and dealing with American politics with a heart story interwoven.

Billy Court, in "A Wee Bit of Scotch Laughter," Mr. and Mrs. J. May Smith, high class comedy sketch entitled "Is Marriage a Failure," and Anna Merrill, a well known and successful vocalist, are the other turns. The bill contains variety enough to suit all and the most exacting is sure to be satisfied. Thomas J. Price's voice will be heard to special advantage in "The Holy City," which will be illustrated with views sixteen in number, and new French comedy motion pictures will bring the bill to an end.

Parting of the Ways.

The country parson was condoling with the bereft widow.
"Alas!" he continued earnestly, "I cannot tell you how pained I was to learn that your husband had gone to heaven. We were bosom friends, but we shall never meet again."

Her Wasted Efforts.

The public school teacher was explaining the meaning of the word "glutton."
"Now, Tommy, she asked, "what would you call a man who is constantly overeating?"

"Oh," said Tommy, whose father was a sea captain, "he's what you call a stowaway, I guess!"

His Observation.

They were looking at the paintings in the art gallery.

"Alfred, said the young bride, "do you think angels really have wings?"
"No, Elfieda," answered the young husband. "The sweetest angel I know of isn't disfigured with a pair of wings, I am happy to say."

In ecstatic silence they continued to look at the pictures.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Vancouver Island Trunk Road—Centre Sections.

Sealed Tenders, superscribed "Tender for ten miles, Vancouver Island Trunk Road," will be received by the Hon. the Minister of Public Works up to and including Saturday, the 28th day of August, 1909, for constructing and completing Sections 2, 3, 4 and 5, in all ten miles in length, more or less, of the Vancouver Island Trunk Road.
Plan, profile, drawings, specifications, and forms of contract and tender may be seen by intending tenderers on and after Wednesday, the 11th day of August, 1909, at the office of the undersigned, Public Works Department, Victoria, B.C., and at the office of the Government Agent, Duncan, B.C.
Intending tenderers can obtain one set of the location plan and profile, and of the specification, for the sum of five ($5) dollars per set, on application to the Public Works Engineer.

Each tender shall be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque or certificate of deposit on a chartered bank of Canada, made payable to the order of the Hon. the Minister of Public Works, in the sum of fifteen hundred ($1,500) dollars, which shall be forfeited if the party tendering decline or neglect to enter into contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for.

Tenders will not be considered unless made out on the forms supplied, signed with the actual signatures of the tenderers, accompanied by the above-mentioned cheque and enclosed in the envelope furnished.

The Minister of Public Works is not bound to accept the lowest or any tender.

A Good Recipe BEEFSTEAK PIE A Good Recipe

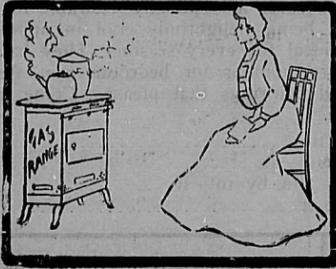

Take some tender steaks, beat them a little, season with a saltspoonful pepper and a teaspoonful salt to a two-pound steak; put bits of butter size of a walnut over the whole surface, dredge a teaspoonful flour over, then roll up and cut in pieces two inches long; put a rich pie paste around the side and bottom of a tin dish; put in the pieces of steak, nearly fill the basin with water, add a piece of butter size of a large egg cut small, dredge in a teaspoonful flour; add a little pepper and salt, lay skewers across the basin, roll a top crust to half an inch thickness, cut a slit in centre, dip your fingers in flour and neatly pinch the top and side crust together all round the edge. Bake one hour in a quick gas oven.

Fine results in your cooking can only be expected if the heat of your oven is just right. If you use a gas range you will be able to regulate the heat to a nicety. There's nothing uncertain about gas, therefore it is the best fuel for any class of cooking. For the baking of bread, pies, cakes, etc. it is absolutely unrivalled.

Summer cooking has no terror to the housewife who dreads a hot kitchen, when a gas stove is installed. Even on the hottest day she can prepare a many course meal with gas and yet keep her kitchen delightfully cool and pleasant. The ideal summer kitchen is unquestionably the one in which gas is used for cooking.

We will gladly give you particulars of our gas ranges and stoves for the asking. Pleased to see you in our showrooms at any time. Remember a visit here places you under no obligation to purchase. Easy terms of payment if you desire.

CERTIFICATE OF THE REGISTRAR OF AN EXTRA-PROVINCIAL COMPANY.
"Companies Act, 1897."

I HEREBY CERTIFY that the "United Iron Works," an Extra-Provincial Company, has this day been registered as a Company, under the "Companies Act, 1897," to carry out or effect all or any of the objects of the Company to which the legislative authority of the Legislature of British Columbia extends.
The head office of the Company is situated at the City of Oakland, in the County of Alameda, State of California. The amount of the capital of the Company is five hundred thousand dollars, divided into five thousand shares of one hundred dollars each.
The head office of the Company in this Province is situated at Vancouver, and Crickmay Bros., Agents, whose address is Vancouver aforesaid, is the attorney for the Company, not empowered to issue and transfer stock.
The time of the existence of the Company is fifty years, from July 2nd, 1903. Given under my hand and seal of office at Victoria, Province of British Columbia, this 21st day of June, one thousand nine hundred and nine.
(L.S.) S. Y. WOOTTON,
Registrar of Joint Stock Companies.

The following are the objects for which the Company has been incorporated:
(a) To carry on and conduct a general foundry business, machine shop and boiler shop;
(b) To buy, sell, trade in and deal with, mould, make, build, manufacture, construct and erect all kinds of ironwork, machinery and other structures composed of wood, metal and other materials, either separately or in any form of combination, and to carry on and conduct any and all kinds of business connected therewith;

(c) To buy, sell, trade in and deal with, construct, equip, repair and own vessels and water craft of every kind, and to carry on and conduct any and every kind of business connected therewith;

(d) To construct and erect wharves, docks, dry docks and to carry on and conduct any and every kind of business connected therewith;

(e) To manufacture, buy, sell, trade in and deal with supplies, material, merchandise and personal property of any and every class or description necessary for the above purposes, and to hold, own, mortgage, sell or otherwise dispose of, trade in and deal with the same;

(f) To act as an agent and factor; to receive goods on consignment, and to sell the same and account for the proceeds thereof;

(g) To make consignments of any and all kinds of personal property, and to compel an accounting thereof;

(h) To acquire and undertake, hold, buy and sell the good will, property, rights, franchises, trade, business and assets of any and every kind of any person, firm, association or corporation, either wholly or partly, and pay for the same in cash, merchandise, shares of the capital stock, or bonds of this or any other corporation;

(i) To enter into, make, perform and carry out contracts of any and every kind, for any lawful purpose with any person, firm, association or corporation;

(j) To buy, barter for, sell, exchange and deal in the shares of its own capital stock or bonds, and in the shares of the capital stock, bonds or debentures, or other evidence of indebtedness of individuals, firms or other corporations, and while the owner, to exercise all the rights and privileges of the ownership thereof;

(k) To borrow money, mortgage and hypothecate any or all of the corporation property, and to draw, make, issue, indorse, discount, execute promissory notes, bonds, bills of exchange and other evidences of indebtedness thereof;

(l) To buy, barter for, lease or otherwise acquire the use of inventions, letters patent and patent rights of every kind and nature, and to hold, use, sell or otherwise dispose of the same;

(m) To buy, lease or otherwise acquire real property and to lease, mortgage or sell the same; and to carry on, conduct and engage in any business transaction or transactions which may or can be included in, or which appertain to any of the matters aforesaid; and to do and perform any and all other and further acts or things which may be necessary, useful, convenient or auxiliary to any of the purposes of the corporation.

Victoria Country Club MEET IS A SUCCESS

This is pleasurable; it shows the great interest taken in British Columbia in good horseflesh and a clean, manly sport. The most perfect type of race horses, and well set up, are to be seen daily on the Willows track. Victorians are satisfied and the stranger within our gates is delighted that our beautiful city is not so dead as it is painted, and he goes away smiling and declaring that he has seen "The best race ever run, sir." Cheers go up for the favorite and afterwards on the "home stretch," G. H. Mumm and Co.'s champagne proves an easy first. Nothing so fit as Mumm's Selected Brut or Extra Dry to drink to the health of the winner. Speaking of champagnes, the rest of the field never have a chance to be in the money. It is "Mumm's," "Mumm's" all the time with the class of people who drink champagne, because this class must have the best procurable.

At The Street Corner

By THE LOUNGER

I happened to be lounging in the temporary quarters of the Council at the City Hall when the Mayor and Water Commissioner Raymur made their historic onslaught on the poor reporters. A sense of justice impelled me to declare that in the case of the Water Commissioner at any rate, the incident has been magnified, or at any rate has been taken too seriously. As far as the Mayor is concerned, I am not so sure that he is entitled to much consideration in the matter, although it is hardly in keeping with a him because he is no longer a "persona grata" to the Liberal party. Unfortunately his record in connection with press matters is not spotless, for whatever may have happened this week, it is an undoubted fact that he excluded the reporters from a committee meeting a few weeks ago.

I much fear that our worthy Mayor belongs to that numerous class of public men who are willing to take all the pap that the press will give them, but will not swallow their medicine. The press has been very kind to Mayor Hall. It placed him in his present position; he has not been a shining success and it might easily have held him up to ridicule, and convicted him of inconsistency and playing to the gallery. That it has refrained from doing so to any considerable extent may or may not be accounted into it for righteousness, but at any rate it disentitles the Mayor to adopt any attitude of truculence when dealing with the members of "the fourth estate."

I have been much amused at the inconsistency not only of the promoters of the movement, but of the members of the City Council who are advocating a new by-law to rigidly enforce Sunday trading. It is the straining of a good principle which amuses me, and the struggle on the part of the Aldermen to square themselves with the so-called reform element in view of what will happen in January next. Ten days ago at a Council meeting at which eight members were present, four, Messrs. Stewart, Turner, Ross and Humber, voted against any further tinkering with the by-law, and in favor of allowing it to drop for the time being. A week later, after having been interviewed by some of their constituents, they all flopped over except Alderman Humber, who alone remained true to his colours. I fail to see how men who "Gee" and "Haw" like this can expect to retain public confidence. In this connection I am reminded of the fact that the promoters of Sunday closing have shifted their ground. They always denied that they had a religious object, and contended that they simply wanted to secure one day of rest in seven for all men. Then they abandoned this and adopted the economic aspect of the question, and now they have passed to the patriotic, and we are told that the object of Sunday closing is to build up a Canada of lofty ideals. In a matter of such moment, and upon the principle of which there is no difference of opinion, it ought not to be necessary to shuffle, the ground of contention should be chosen and maintained. Consistency in advocating Sunday closing would go a long way to ensure it.

I have heard many comments on the new observation car which the B.C.E.R. have put on the Victoria lines, and they are all favourable. By common consent it is the best car of its kind in the West, and I do not know that there is anything better in the East. I wish, however, that it were possible for the Company to take out of commission some of the little, old, see-saw cars, which so effectually simulate the rocking and rolling motion of a ship at sea. I know for a fact that lady passengers frequently suffer from "mal-de-mer" while riding in them, probably they are booked to go at an early date, and certainly none of them will be missed.

I understand that the tramway company are going to erect one or two shelters for passengers on the Foul Bay line. I want to put in a plea for one at the crossing of Moss and May streets, and another at the intersection of Dallas Road and May Street, near the West entrance to the Cemetery. At both points there are many passengers and no shelter of any kind. I am sure the genial manager will only require to read this note before giving instructions for carrying out such a modest request.

I want to pay a tribute to the excellence of the Moving Picture shows in Victoria. There are four in operation, two as an addendum to vaudeville, and two as the whole show. Looking back over the last few years since this form of entertainment became so popular, I notice a vast improvement both in the character of the films and the class of subjects. Many of them now are real works of art, and new features are continually introduced which greatly improve the picture and increase the effect. I saw a very fine series at the Romano this week; they bore the trade mark of "Pathe Freres," and were reproduced in sepia. I cannot but think that the French films are far superior to any others, they are not only sharper and clearer but more artistic in connection and arrangement. The Empress has a splendid show, and does a big business right along, in fact I imagine that it is the success attained by this, the premier picture show house, which has enticed the Romano into the business. People measure the progress of Victoria in various ways; I believe that one very fair test is to be found in the fact that whereas four years ago there was only one vaudeville and popular show house, there are now four; and the standard theatre, the Victoria, does a better business than ever.
