VOL. IX. No. 49 NINTH YEAR THE WEEK, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1911 NINTH YEAR ONE DOLLAR PER ANNUM

THE McNAMARA CASE—The result of the McNamara case has shocked the civilized world. It is impossible to exaggerate its seriousness. It has shattered whatever fragments of confidence the American people may have had in the administration of their courts. It has delivered a staggering blow at that faith in humanity which civilization aims at cultivating, and it has shaken the foundations of unionism. It would be a waste of time to dwell on the farcical proceedings of the last few months, when every ingenuity which unscrupulous lawyers and their backers could devise was used to prevent the election of a jury to try the case. All the truth is not yet known, but it is generally accepted that after exhausting every other expedient, bribery was resorted to. Just what negotiations took place between the bench and the bar we are ignorant of, but it is clear that, with the consent of both, the intended plea of "Not guilty" was abandoned and the prisoners pleaded "Guilty" in order to escape the penalty of their misdoings. The most pregnant lesson which this deplorable incident teaches is that the American judicial system broke down at the critical point, and in order to secure any measure of justice the court had to consent to abrogate its most sacred functions and literally to bargain for a mitigated penalty. It is not necessary to speculate on the improbability of the sentences which were imposed being insisted on. In fact, the public conscience has received such a shock that it matters little now what the penalty is. Of the prisoners little need be said. James B. McNamara is one of the most contemptible criminals in the annals of crime. The English language is inadequate to describe his degradation. He deliberately committed an act which resulted in the death of twenty-one people and might well have increased the number to one hundred or more. Yet for more than a year he protested his innocence and he and his agents collected no one knows how many thousands of dollars from labour organizations in the United States and Canada to defend an avowedly innocent man "who was being victimised by Capital because he represented Labour." The Week does not hesitate to extend its sympathy to the thousands of deluded workmen who were imposed upon by such an unscrupulous scoundrel. At the last moment he has thrown them down to save his own neck, and no one is more surprised than his fellow unionists to whom he protested his innocence, and who have all along believed in him. The result is a blow to organized labour, because many people will not understand that those who were so anxious to defend McNamara believed in his innocence, and yet, while the whole incident is regrettable to a degree, it would be unfair to regard it as reflecting on the tens of thousands of decent, honourable working men who are affiliated with trades unions, not because they have any sympathy with deeds of violence, but because they know that without organization it is impossible for Labour to protect itself. It is in this, as in many other cases, the innocent suffer with the guilty, but no fair-minded man will brand unionism as a system because of the Los Angeles "contretemps," and because some men, who are unworthy, have disgraced its ranks. If organized labour would be wise enough to take one step at this present crisis in its history and boldly denounce the crime of the McNamaras, and at the same time subscribe even a tithe of the money which it expended on their defence in relieving the needs of their victims, unionism, as a system, would be rehabilitated in the public estimate.

INNER HARBOUR RAILWAY—The promoters of the Inner Harbour Railway have matured their scheme and are preparing to go to the next session of the Legislature for the necessary endorsation. This is one of the most ambitious schemes which has ever been launched in Victoria and is second only in importance to the Breakwater project also now under way. The Week has every desire to support a scheme which will undoubtedly do much to develop the commercial interests of the city and to perfect its transportation facilities. It goes further and concedes that some such scheme is a necessary complement to the projected Breakwater, and the wharfage extensions contemplated. But there is one essential point in which it differs from the promoters, and with respect to which it has no doubt that the citizens of Victoria will be found almost unanimously antagonistic. That is the intention to carry the railway across the Causeway and along the Embankment fronting the Parliament Buildings. When the scheme was first mooted the promoters declared that this portion of the work would be executed in such a manner that it would not be an eyesore and would not in any way detract from the present aspect of the water-front. There is only one way in which such a result could be achieved; that is by tunnelling or covering the railway for the whole distance between the Post-office corner and the C. P. R. Wharf. But the plans which have now been published show no such design. Instead, the road-bed of the railway is shown all round the water-front, without protection, and any freight cars passing over would present a full view. As a matter of fact it is not feasible to bury the railway except at enormous cost, and The Week is convinced that the people of Victoria will never consent to mar the beauty of one of the finest esplanades and water-fronts in the Dominion. To take this stand is not to condemn the scheme, because, as will presently be shown, there is a much better way of answering every purpose which the promoters have in view, and that is to build a Bascule bridge from the extreme south-easterly point of the Songhees Reserve to Laurel Point. The cost would not exceed the expenditure necessary to properly obscure the railway over the Causeway. It would give a shorter and more direct route from the terminals which would be established on the Songhees Reserve to the Outer Wharf and Breakwater. It would be just as easy to serve the water-front with laterals, as by a circular railway, and the only portion of the water-front which would be deprived of the railway would be the portion between the Post-office and the C. P. R. Wharf which does not require it. Moreover, it must be borne in mind that if Victoria is to become, as we all believe, a really great shipping port, it will not be many years before a single line of railway round the Inner Harbour would be totally inadequate and if one line of railway is now built it will be impossible to resist the demand for a second line later on. The view of The Week is that the railway should be built where it will best serve the demands of the future, and in any event must not be built where it would greatly damage, if not destroy, one of the finest assets of the city. The Week urges that the City Council, who will have a great deal to say in this matter, at once approach the Provincial Government, who are about to settle the question of terminals on the Songhees Reserve, and endeavour to arrange for a reservation of the right to build a bridge in the position indicated above and to retain the necessary approaches to it. If the thing be not done now it can never be done, and while there are other details in the Inner Harbour Railway scheme, such as the closing of street ends upon which the citizens will have something to say, the matter raised above is of far greater importance than any other, as upon its judicious settlement will depend the acceptance or rejection of the whole scheme by the citizens of Victoria.

STREET PAVING—Some rather serious mistakes have been made in connection with street paving in Victoria, and as time goes on the result of these mistakes becomes more apparent. The complaint has reference rather to organization than to the actual work itself. At the present time, while most of the streets in the centre of the city have been paved, nearly all the outlets from the city are blocked and in several important localities such as the neighbourhood of the Outer Wharf, Fairfield Road, Esquimalt Road, Douglas Street and Burnside Road traffic of any kind is carried on under great difficulties. This condition would not have developed if those who had the mapping out of the programme for the season's work had looked a little further ahead. If, for instance, the Worswick Company had been allowed to pave the twenty odd streets in the Fairfield region for which their tender was the lowest, the Canadian Mineral Rubber Company would long ere this have completed their work in other sections of the city which are now in an impassable condition. This was mistake number one. The next mistake, quite as serious, was the blundering of someone in connection with the passing of necessary by-laws. This held up the work on many streets and the condition was aggravated by the neglect of the Engineering Department to have the necessary mains laid in time for the Paving Company to commence work. Now a third condition has developed. On Kingston and Ontario Streets the asphalt recently laid is crumbling and wearing away. There is little doubt that the whole of these two streets, and possibly some others near by, will have to be re-paved in the spring. Presumably this will not involve the city in any loss, because the terms of the contract compel the contractors to keep them in condition for some years. But it is none the less regrettable that the defect should have arisen. It is claimed that this is due to the exceptional quantity of mud deposited on the asphalt by heavy teams. Others say that it is the result of improper or insufficient mixture of the asphalting material. If so, the person to blame is the inspector, who is paid by the city to see that the asphalt mixture at all times contains the proper ingredients. However, the condition of the paving is such that it will have to be the subject of investigation and no doubt the fault, whatever it is, will be discovered. The intention of The Week in calling attention to these matters is that if possible the Council shall be induced to make better arrangements with respect to the carrying out of future paving contracts. With so much work unfinished it will be a mistake to rush into new contracts at the present time. There is plenty of work on hand to keep the paving companies busy for at least six months. Meanwhile, any future paving schemes should be carefully mapped out, all the preliminary work done and the Paving Company turned loose only when the way is clear for rapid execution of their work.

SMITH'S HILL RESERVOIR—It may not be out of place to call attention to the condition of affairs at Smith's Hill Reservoir as disclosed by recent inspections. To enable intending tenderers to make the necessary examination for their estimates the Reservoir was emptied, at least it was emptied as far as possible, for the first condition revealed is that the water lies a foot deep on the floor in places whilst other portions stand up some inches above water level. The plug-holes which were discovered by the diver to be leaking, and which were supposed to have been plugged with rich cement were found to have been plugged with a mixture of tar or pitch and clay. This mixture is so soft that it can be dug out with the fingers and crushed in the hand. The walls of the Reservoir are badly cracked and many of the joints between the panels leak. Altogether the condition may be described as deplorable and in the opinion of the best judges treatment of the most drastic character will be required. The Week has no desire to forecast the probable cost of these repairs, except to say that it will certainly reach the highest figure that has been mentioned, assuming always that it is decided to make the repairs thorough. To do this it will be necessary, after carefully plugging all leakages, to put a layer of at least three or four inches of cement on the floor and an even greater thickness on the side walls. However, this will be dealt with in the tenders which will shortly be submitted. The only object The Week has in detailing the above facts is that the public may know what the condition of the Reservoir actually is, and how far from the truth all efforts to minimise the defective workmanship now revealed. It is too late for the city to secure any satisfaction. The conditions have resulted from incompetency and neglect, and there will be few people who will not agree that the responsibility must be shared by the engineer who had charge and the foreman who was supposed to have supervised.

SEISMOLOGY—A reference to our correspondence columns will show that the sub-Committee appointed by the Board of Trade six months ago has been successful in securing Government recognition for the valuable seismological researches of Mr. F. Napier Denison. After reporting to the Board of Trade the Committee made a special representation to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and Mr. G. H. Barnard, M. P. for Victoria, and Mr. F. H. Shepherd, M. P. for Nanaimo, have recently pressed the matter upon the attention of the newly appointed Minister, the Hon. J. D. Hazen. The result is shown in the letters printed in current issue. The Minister has granted an appropriation of $2,000 to assist Mr. Denison in his work, the money to be applied to the purchase of suitable instruments to enable him to continue his observations in a thoroughly scientific manner. There is little doubt that the character of Mr. Denison's work will be emphasized by the additional facilities thus afforded, and that the outcome will be that the request of the Commissioners and the Board of Trade for the establishment of a Seismological Observatory in Victoria will ultimately be granted.

A DISINGENUOUS DEFENCE—In its last issue Toronto Saturday Night attempts to clear its skirts with reference to the ill-advised and scurrilous attack which it recently made on the labour unions of the Pacific Coast, and with respect to which Mr. G. H. Barnard, M.P., made a statement on the floor of the House. Saturday Night does not know when professional etiquette demands that it should take "backwater." Instead of admitting that its statements were too

The management of the Victoria Theatre is to be congratulated on its novel and brilliant idea for entertaining and at the same time instructing the audience between the Acts. In many theatres the tedium of waiting is relieved by music, but owing to some hitch in which I believe the musical unions are concerned it has been found impossible to fill in the intervals with orchestral strains. Under the new system at present being tried the audience is encouraged to study American spelling. Much has been said and more has been written regarding the advantages of phonetic spelling and as is well known our cousins on the other side of the Line have been foremost in the field of progress. In order that Victorians may not lag behind but may also appreciate to the full the benefits which the new orthography possesses a curtain filled with local advertising matter, set forth with all the vagaries of the Rooseveltian spelling, is exhibited between the Acts. On this the American advertising agent displays the sensible method of spelling "Goverment." He finds that there is no use for the "n" and so wisely leaves it out. In order to impress this upon the public he omits it in four different places. On the whole it is not surprising perhaps to find that the spelling of this word differs from the English version as much as does the application thereof in the United States. To prove that there is no connection between "acre" and "acreage" the latter word is spelt "acerage." The superfluous "y" in "formerly" is banished and a word appears which is neither adjective nor adverb. "Center" with an "er" occupies the most prominent position on the curtain. There are many other similar eccentricities displayed, but the above will suffice to give some idea of the educational scheme projected. This is merely another step in the Americanization of the Canadian stage and is one which cannot fail to meet with the approval of all theatre-goers who patronise the playhouse with a loftier motive than that of mere pleasure.

More than once a plea has appeared in these columns for lower steps on all the street cars and some of the latter are now equipped with steps which suit the old and invalid. But there are still many cars which offer insuperable difficulties to those of the community whose limbs have lost the agility of youth. I am aware that car shops are working over-time in the desperate rush to make and deliver cars fast enough, and here in Victoria we have to possess our souls in patience. At the same time a gentle reminder to the Company may not be out of season and I would urge that as soon as possible all cars be equipped with lower steps. The cars with longitudinal seats at the ends which sometimes run on the Cook Street route are examples of what should be, and when the day dawns which sees all the street cars in Victoria similarly equipped a sigh of relief and thankfulness will go up from many ladies and gentlemen who at present find the getting in and out of the cars a severe tax upon them.

The public convenience for which I agitated for so many years is now open and one crying scandal is removed from Victoria. It seems to me, however, that it is somewhat of a pity that the man in charge should have been chosen from the ranks of those who hail from Sunny Italy. There must be in our midst many old men who have worked for the city during the hey-day of their youth and who would be better employed wielding a pick and shovel. The polishing and sweeping could be capably done by a man who was too feeble to obtain outside work and doubtless there are many such who would have jumped at the chance. Whilst on this subject I might remark that my words anent the public convenience at Foul Bay were evidently read by some person in authority. The place has been shut up and locked and whether it be tidy and sanitary or not does not much matter now as it is no longer open to the public. It seems a pity, however, because when all is said and done an institution of this nature loses much of its usefulness if it is kept locked.

For some reason or other coincidence is supposed to have a long arm; at any rate one always talks about "the long arm of coincidence," and I am inclined to think that there is much truth in the phrase; consider the following and see if it does not go far towards proving the fact. There is a little paper printed in England for a penny, beloved of schoolboys and, for some reason or another which I have never solved, parsons. It is called "Answers" and is the product of the prolific firm of Harmsworth. Now "Answers" is a paper on which I have never set eyes since I left school, but the other day I happened to be waiting in a bookstall for a car, and idly turned over the leaves of the nearest periodical (that this was scandously dishonest I admit) which happened to be the auburn weekly in question. Whilst I was thus engaged my eye was caught by a paragraph which struck me as being so applicable to the fair city of Victoria that I found a dime and bought the paper. The paragraph to which I refer is printed below. Readers are invited to peruse it with care and to have their own opinion as to whether the originals of the characters were or were not taken from the number of our respected Councillors:

WHERE ECONOMY SHINES

The two town councillors were on a tour of inspection.

"This street, now," said Councillor No. 1, "seems all right. What had we better do?"

"Um!" Councillor No. 2 pondered. "Couldn't we have it up and lay a sewer?"

"Yes, yes. But wouldn't it be better to have it made up first?" suggested No. 1.

"Certainly!" Councillor No. 2 quite agreed. "Then after it's paved we'll have the sewer put in, and then it can be re-paved."

"That's it! Everything will be ready then for laying the gas-pipes. But after that? What ought to be done when all's straight again?"

"By that time," Councillor No. 2 said thoughtfully, "the street ought to be ready for widening."

"Good! An excellent idea! We'll make a memorandum of that," said No. 1.

Then they shook hands joyfully.

"After all," murmured No. 2, "there is nothing so essential in municipal economy, nothing so important, as care and system in the improvement of our roadways."

The Boy Scouts of Victoria are to be congratulated on their performance of "The Cruise of the Bilge-Bucket" which they have been playing at the A. O. U. W. Hall this week-end. It is always a pleasure to be able to write nice things about the Scouts, as they represent one of the finest innovations ever introduced for the youth of the Empire. There is something immensely attractive also in the thought that the boys are going to all the trouble incident to a production of this kind in order to be able to contribute something towards such a worthy charity as Sir William Treloar's Christmas fund for crippled children. The entertainment provided was indeed excellent and a crowded house on Thursday night testified to the appreciation which was felt. Although, of course, it is the boys whom one went to see and whom one applauded, it would not be fair to close any paragraph dealing with the performance without commending the self-sacrificing work of the gentlemen who have associated themselves so whole-heartedly with the Boy Scout Movement and who have at all times been willing to give up their time and energy to making it a success. Not only the boys, but the producers have worked hard to make "The Cruise" a happy one and it is satisfactory to be able to say that they have "made good."

You know what a "dodger" is. If you don't you are luckier than most people. It is a piece of paper containing news which you don't want to know and it is shoved into your hand when you are busy thinking about something else. However, thtre are times when a "dodger" comes out which bears really interesting information and the other day one came into my hand. It dealt with the barber's shop lately opened in the basement of the Brown Block by Messrs. Van Siecklen & Ritz, commonly known as "Van" and "Fred." I think that I may say that this is the most comfortable institution of its kind in the city and I am known as a man who usually takes a good deal of trouble to get what is most comfortable. I understand that the baths there are also up to the high standard of the most of the fittings, but as I am the fortunate possessor of a real bath in the house where I abide I cannot speak of these from experience. All that I know is that the barber's chair at Fred & Van's is a most excellent place for a

VICTORIA HARBOUR RAILWAY COMPANY

The Victoria Harbour Railway Company will ask at the next session of the Legislature for an extension of time within which to commence the construction of its railway and to spend fifteen per cent. of its capital. The Company is capitalised at one million dollars, of which $250,000 has been subscribed by some of the leading business men of the City of Victoria.

The concern is entirely a local one, and is not tied up in any way to any other corporation or individual. The Company has been dealing with the City Council for a number of months with reference to its plans, and has now about arrived at an understanding with the Council with regard to that part of its plans lying to the east of the Harbour. Until the Songhees Reserve question is settled by the Government the Company can do nothing with regard to its plans on that side of the Harbour; and, since it has to commence construction, etc., within one year from the date of its incorporation, which is the 15th day of May, 1911, the Company, as a matter of precaution has to apply for the necessary extension.

A NEW HOTEL

People who are on the look-out for a modern first-class hotel should consult the advertisement appearing on the back page of the current issue. The new hotel which is situate on Douglas Street close to the City Hall will be found to be in the very front class of Victoria hostelries.

Big Things

The Pyramids, Niagara Falls and the Giant Trees of British Columbia are numbered among the most wonderful and impressive sights in the world—why? Because of their mammoth size. G. H. Mumm & Co's Selected Brut Champagne is also one of the "Big Things" to be remembered. It is the very highest quality, made of selected cuvees of vintage years specially adapted for brut wines. The most sensitive digestion can drink this champagne without fear of any after effects, so common with inferior brands. Your dealer can supply you for home use. Mumm's Selected Brut is always to be found at the leading hotels, bars, clubs and cafes.

Mark Hambourg

It was but a scanty audience that met in the Victoria Theatre on Wednesday night to hear Mark Hambourg, rightly styled the successor to Anton Rubinstein, who arrived here fresh from his many triumphs on the Continent. For two hours the audience sat spell-bound whilst the eminent pianist entranced them with his performance. This being the centennial of Liszt, Mark Hambourg specialised on that composer and perhaps his best work was done in interpreting the notes of that great master. But where all was excellent it would be hypercritical to make comparisons.

The Fortune Hunter

On Monday night the Victoria Theatre was the scene of as pretty a little comedy as has appeared on the local stage for many months. A ge audience had assembled to see r. Winchell Smith's play and went ay delighted with the performance. thaniel Duncan, the young man o was to redeem his misfortune by 'marriage de convenance," but who ented in time, was most ably re-sented by Mr. Fred. Niblo, who s at the same time well supported Mr. Daniel Hamilton as Henry llogg. A big factor in the success the play was the acting of Mr. nk Bacon in the part of Sam Gra-n, the old druggist whose example rked out Nat's reformation. Miss ian gave a pretty and unaffected dering of the druggist's daughter l the remainder of the company asured up to the standard set by leaders.

GERTRUDE DALLAS IN "THE GAMBLERS" VICTORIA THEATRE, WEDNESDAY, DEC. 13th

The Three Twins

eldom has so large an audience embled in the theatre to meet with great a disappointment as that ch met in the local play-house last sday to see the much advertised, called musical comedy entitled ree Twins." The play may be nourous. It is an undoubted fact t there was a good deal of laughter oughout the house during its pro-ss, but the most fervent admirer the American stage would find it impossible to commend "Three Twins" as it appeared in Victoria. In the first place, as is so often the case, there was not a sign of a singing voice amongst the performers. In the second place, with one solitary exception, there was not one catchy air, and in the third and last place, there was only one member of the cast, Mr. George Ebner, who had the slightest conception of the duties of an actor. Ernest Geyer had a big opportunity to shine as a comedian in the role of the dyspeptic general, but his light, if he possesses any, was hidden under a very big bushel. A word of commendation is due the scenic effect of the electric swing at the close of the first Act, but that word of commendation is all that can be said in the way of praise.

Recitals

On Tuesday evening Mr. George B. Williams gave a Shakespearean in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Williams claims to have had a long experience; he is a good elocutionist and a fair reciter, but he is not equal to dealing with Shakespeare. Anything less like Falstaffe than his presentation it would be hard to imagine; in fact Mr. Williams is not in the class of those dramatic reciters who are entitled to attempt the task he undertook. Under the circumstances it is not necessary to attempt any detailed criticism. He furnished an evening's entertainment to those who were not students of Shakespeare and who were not sufficiently experienced to be either exacting or critical, and that is the best that can be said for Mr. Williams' so-called Shakespearean recital.

Momus.

The Empress Theatre

Harry Thomson is the big hit at the Empress this week; he is a delightful fellow and makes a splendid mayor. Victoria might do worse than offer him the job for life. Miss Buckley's dogs display an amazing amount of canine talent and must represent a Victoria might do worse than offer vast amount of patience and devotion expended in their training. Rawson & Frances have been presenting a pretty little sketch which gives the former an opportunity to disclose the possession of a tenor voice of exquisite tone. Miss Belle Dixon as a comedienne and Newell & Niblo as instrumentalists complete a very palatable bill.

The Crystal Theatre

The original films representing Dante's Inferno modelled on the well-known Dore pictures was the piece de resistance at the Crystal at the beginning of the week, and, judging by the crowds which were to be seen waiting an opportunity to enter, the management must have had as little cause for complaint as the patrons.

The Majestic Theatre

The management of the Majestic Theatre have been showing a full line of drama and comedy this week together with one or two films of an educational character and the weekly pictures of the world's events.

Romano's Theatre

An amusing film showing the triumph of a small girl over her governess kept the house in good humour on Wednesday night at Romano's. A film descriptive of Northern Italy was also much enjoyed. Now-a-days it is becoming increasingly difficult to get a good seat at Romano's, so popular is this moving-picture house.

A Dramatic Recital

On Tuesday next the Alexandra Club will be the scene of a dramatic recital given by Miss Eugenie Fox, who has already made such a favourable impression on Victoria audiences. Miss Fox has achieved considerable success in London where she has appeared at the Queen's Hall, St. George's Hall and the Palace Theatre. In choosing for her recital Dickens' ever-popular "Christmas Carol," Miss Fox has made a wise selection and the hope is expressed that there will be a large number in attendance on the evening in question. Assisting the reciter will be Miss Muriel Hall, a young Victoria pianist who has just completed a successful season at the Playhouse, London, with Mr. Cyril Maude. Miss Hall has made a specialty of drawing-room entertainments and on Tuesday next will contribute some of her musical sketches.

On Magazines

By Bohemian

This is an age of magazines and magazine reading, or perhaps it would be more correct to say, magazine skimming, because no one can read the average magazine and keep out of a lunatic asylum. I have sometimes wondered whether I could count up more magazines or more new brands of whiskey in the course of a year; I am still in doubt. All I know is that every month some cover appears on the bookstall to tickle the palate.

I think it would be a very fair critic who would write off ninety per cent. of the magazines as worthless, except for the purposes of time-killing. There was a time when I foolishly supposed that the publishers put them out in order to supply the public with reading matter. I have long ago learnt that the main object is to pad out a sufficient number of reading columns to carry advertising matter. The magazine, like the newspaper, has capitulated to the commercialism of the age.

I am a great lover of the short story. It has no equal as recreative reading. Such stories as distinguished "Blackwood" and "The Gentleman's Magazine" years ago were often entitled to be classed as literature. Then "Cassell's" and "The Idler" of those days could always be counted on to yield one or two striking stories in every issue.

Crossing the water I find that the best short stories that have appeared, at any rate during the past twenty-five years, can be credited to "Harper's" and "Lippincott," and today outside of these I cannot name a single American or Canadian magazine which can be relied upon to yield even a grain of wheat to the bushel of chaff.

In looking over a large number of magazines month by month I find that the same writers contribute to perhaps half-a-dozen, and not infrequently the same stories are running in three of four magazines concurrently. The demand seems to be for sensationalism. I fear that "The Strand" is responsible for starting this vogue with the "Sherlock Holmes" series. Now-a-days it is being worked to death and the detective story in some form or another is a leading feature in most of the magazines.

Next to this I think one may place the dialect stories, a circumstance which puzzles me exceedingly. I can only suppose that the editor thinks that in any event dialect gives local colour. I suppose also it leans a little in the direction of "human interest," but the trouble is that many of these stories have nothing but the dialect to recommend them, and it is a poor recommendation. One of the best dialect stories ever written was "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," but it owes its charm to the story and not to the dialect.

While this general characterization of the magazines must be admitted to be true, it also happens that occasionally one does find a gem buried under a great deal of trash. I unearthed just such a story in the Christmas Number of "The Story-Teller." At any rate I think it is almost a gem, and am willing to put it forward as a specimen of a short story which will always be welcome, and which helps to redeem any magazine from a charge of utter worthlessness. It will appear in our Christmas Number.

"Lippincott" always has good stories; "Harper's" still occasionally, and after these I will name "The Smart Set," because, although the average of its contents is not high, it somehow or another manages to get a smart story in nearly every month.

Every magazine puts out a Christmas Number, and I find on referring to the bill of contents that it presses into its service a whole host of literary hacks to write Christmas stories. As their usual vogue is the "cowboy" or "detective" line the result is appalling, and I do not hesitate in conclusion to advise my readers to turn to the English illustrated papers if they want to read a genuine old-fashioned Christmas story.

The Early History of Vancouver Island

Written Specially for the Week by Gilbert Malcolm Sproat

The Home Government having created, as I have shown, a medley in its grant of Vancouver Island to the Hudson's Bay Company, and in the appointment of Blanshard and Douglas under novel gubernatorial conditions, found itself, soon afterwards, confronted with the charge of having illegally established the colony without representative institutions. On referring this charge for the opinion of its official legal advisers (called in England the "Law Officers of the Crown"), the charge was declared by them to be true. It was not a question of constitutional policy, but of legal right. The case was this, briefly stated:

For practical reasons, in the starting of colonies generally, the function of initiatory administration and legislation was entrusted, at first, to the Sovereign in Council, whether the acquisition was through settlement or conquest. The duration of this, which is the embryo of the familiar term "Crown Colony," was according to the circumstances, in each case,—for instance, obligatory conditions in the acquisition, and whether the colony was, or became, distinctively British as to population, or the influential part thereof, and, again, whether it had a military or naval character. Hence the remarkable diversities in our colonial governments, to be seen up to a late period, and in the nature of things, still, largely apparent. British North America, however, in some respects, was in a class of its own, segregated by settlement-facts, and by special legislation towards the close of the 18th century. The Home Government, strictly, had not the right of internal legislation in the American colonies, settled, and mainly peopled, by the British, but it was permitted, by general opinion, to exercise, there, as elsewhere, an external right of regulating commerce and navigation. The reader, I daresay, remembers that it was the attempt to exercise the power of imposing taxation, asserted by Act 6, Geo. 3, cap. 12, that led to the loss of the American (now U. S.) colonies—the remedial, apologetic Declaratory Act of the Home Parliament, Act. 18, Geo. 3, cap. 12, coming too late to undo the mischief.

That Declaratory Act guaranteed the unalterable right of property to colonists, and renounced the claim of taxation on the part of the King and Parliament of Great Britain, in "all the Colonies, Provinces or Plantations in North America." It applied, consequently, to all colonies in British North America remaining to the Crown after the close of the Rebellion in 1784, as well as to those that might be formed, later, in such remaining continental dominion. It did not matter whether, in the chosen area, settlement was sparse or populous; the law, so far as unamended, was imperative. Authority to levy, and apply taxation was declared to be in the respective "General Courts or General Assemblies" of such Colonies, Provinces or Plantations. The Home Government, consequently, found itself in this position, in the Vancouver Island case; it had either to abrogate the colony, or give it representative institutions. The Whig administration of Lord John Russell was in power at home, from July 6, 1846, to February 27, 1852: then the Tories, under the Earl of Derby, had their short innings to December 28, of the latter year, followed by the Whig, or Liberal, administration of the Earl of Aberdeen up to February 10, 1855, when Palmerston, nominally a Liberal, was put in to retrieve alleged mismanagement of the Crimean War. But our affairs out here were not made party questions, in those times, at home, though, being, then, much about the Commons, as London correspondent of Provincial newspapers, I remember hearing censure of the Hudson's Bay Co. The immediate issue was, that, in order to cure illegality, an elective assembly for the Island was, in 1855, ordered to be convened. It met in 1856, and, in the opening speech of Governor Douglas, he, without a smile, assured those present that the occasion was the first instance of representative institutions in the infancy of a British Colony. I daresay he believed it. The political system established, of course, was not "Responsible" Government. It was, generally, on the lines of the Canada Act of 1791, and it lasted until 1866, in which year the Islanders were merged with the mainlanders, and subjected to the stiff "Crown Colony" rule existing there. That happened, exactly when the British Parliament was establishing the modern Federated Dominion of Canada, with the amplest statutory right of self-government. So far as I am able to judge, the Vancouver Island Assembly was a competent body during the 10 years of its existence, certainly not surpassed, in the individual quality of its members, by any Pacific Seaboard political, or municipal, body, to the present time.

The foregoing shows that the British Colonial system, on this continent, was really liberal when fairly applied. The United States practice in dealing with young settlements was, and is, harsher. Alaska, for instance, after more than half a century, with a population of 64,000, of whom 45,000 are Americans, and with imports and exports aggregating, in 1910, more than fifty million dollars, has not yet got an elective legislature. "True," said an American to me lately, "I do not defend my government, but, please remember, that "your British government, after 10 "years, cancelled representative government in Vancouver Island, and "bear in mind, too, the very long "pupilage of what you call the "North-west Territories of Canada." My reply was, that the people of the Island asked the Home Government to do what it did, and, in the case of the Territories referred to, the Canadian, not the Home Government, had control.

The reader, now, has before him (witness Admiral Moresby), some account of the initial period of Douglas' service under the Crown, and, from my point of view, the circumstances of the grant of representative government to the Vancouver Island colony. A third event of importance, in the fifties, awaits further mention, namely, the 1857 Select Parliamentary Committee on Hudson's Bay Company's affairs, which, in its Report, dealt with the Island Colony as part of the larger subject. The Company, so far as it was concerned, realized, in that year, the much complained of absurdity of the dual position of Douglas as Chief Factor and Governor, (anticipating the decisive remedial action of the Home Government, on that matter, in 1858). Alexander Grant Dallas, who had been in Jardine, Matheson & Co.'s firm at Shanghai, before becoming a member of the Company's London Board, and President of its Council in North America, arrived at Victoria, 7th May, 1857, practically, to supersede Douglas as head of the Company's Western Department. This was a setback for Douglas, who now had little before him but the governorship of a laggard, thinly peopled colony. True, he was well off, and the position was dignified, but, on the other hand, he was in his prime, a man born to rule, with his capacities fortified by some experience. He quickly got the opportunity he desired, as one effect of the discovery of gold in paying quantities on the mainland. Some of the broader aspects of that aftermath, I will deal with in my next, starting with the above Select Committee's Report.

Voluntary Acts and their Consequences

(Written for The Week by C. B. S.)

Voluntary acts and the individual enterprises of independent Britons form the foundation of the British Empire. Foreigners who try to eke out the secret of our success as the first colonizing power of the world at the present day throw up the riddle with the remark, "they muddle through somehow," and satisfy themselves that it is all "luck"; they won't credit us with knowing how to "play the game." King John wouldn't play the game but the barons got at him with Magna Charter and so the nobles had their innings. Charles I did not play the game but Cromwell headed the Commons, Charles lost his head and so this time it was the Commons who rescued the country, while quickly gliding over the most unpleasant episode in England's history we must credit our greatest Commoner with the great good he did for the country and her classes. Within the last few years Paul Kruger defied the suzerainty of our Monarch and issued an ultimatum which did much to prove the strength of the bonds of Empire of oversea dominions who by their voluntary acts assisted the Mother Country to settle the troubles consequent upon that ultimatum. Since then events have developed apace. Confidence in self-government granted to oversea dominions has been tested by Laurier, his test was a mistake but the object lesson was a good one; the people had their say and the people know best.

New Zealand and Australia have commenced their schemes for their own defence. Canada is maturing her plans for her security. The Boy Scouts first enrolled are growing into men, they do not live to fight but they will fight to live. This last, perhaps greatest voluntary act of all, is likely to do more towards safeguarding our Empire's integrity than any other. Who knows what it may result in; it must have a more powerful foothold in a country which has not committed itself to compulsory service, and so the youth and manhood will imbibe discipline by intuition, and their own voluntary act, far more than that discipline enforced by law.

What are the consequences of these voluntary acts of individuals? They have saved for the growing population of the Mother Country habitable areas. The "wooden walls of England" are things of the past; steel and coal are wanted now—it is only true economy to let trade follow its own inclinations; the little London has lost, other places have gained immensely in proportion. Whatever the expenses of the Boer War may have been in lives and money, the consequent gain has been probably greater to the Empire.

Oh yes, we muddle through somehow, but we don't stop still—we are learning to play the game better than ever. Our barons settled their affairs with their King, so did our Commons; and just recently our barons have settled their affairs peaceably with our Commons, whilst a just and energetic Monarch crowns himself among them and by his own voluntary act goes forth with his consort to crown himself again in India, where we know he will be received with the true rejoicings due to him and still greater rejoicing on his return. We don't doubt his safe passage, in spite of two European powers being in conflict though his sea path lies across their theatre of war.

Death of Mr. W. Clark Russell

We regret to announce the death at Bath on Wednesday, November 8th, of Mr. W. Clark Russell, the well-known novelist, at the age of sixty-seven.

He had been a great invalid for years, and since last April had been bed-ridden. He passed peacefully away in his sleep. He leaves a widow, three daughters, and one son.

Mr. Clark Russell was born in New York, but he was a thorough Englishman. At the age of thirteen he entered the merchant service, but after eight years he abandoned a sea life for literature. He had been practically a complete cripple for ten years or more, and attributed his bad health to the rough life he experienced at sea as a boy.

In his later days he could not walk or even write; he simply lay on a couch and dictated to his son. For some years after his retirement from sea he worked for the daily Press, and it was not until he was thirty-one that he published his first success, "John Holdsworth's Chief Mate."

A year later came "The Wreck of the Grosvenor," which made his name, although he himself said it was his worst novel. From that period he wrote almost incessantly—novels, articles, and latterly poetry.

Most of his novels were based on actual happenings to himself, and the motive of "The Wreck of the Grosvenor" was supplied by the court-martial which he witnessed of a dozen seamen who mutinied because of the wretched food supplied to them.

Mr. Clark Russell's father, Mr Henry Russell, it is interesting to note, was the author of "Cheer, boys cheer."—The Over-Seas Daily Mail.

TEUTONIC PHLEGM

A native of Germany was visiting an American friend in New York, and the latter bethought himself to take his guest on a visit to Niagara Falls.

The American, accustomed to bursts of wonderment and enthusiasm, was not a little astonished to see his Teutonic friend stand and gaze stolidly minute after minute upon the roaring cataract, without evincing the slightest sign of emotion.

Finally, unable any longer to conceal his chagrin and disappointment, the American turned to his companion and asked: "Don't you think that's a wonderful sight?"

"Vot?" asked the Dutchman.

"Why, that gigantic body of water pouring over that lofty precipice."

The German stood for a few seconds longer until he got that idea digested, then looked up blankly and asked:

"Vell, vot's to hinder it?"

New Wine in Old Bottles

The Relations of the Church and the New Democracy

Last week some reference was made in these columns to a notable address recently delivered by the Lord Bishop of London at Stoke-on-Trent. The address derives additional importance from the fact that it was a carefully prepared deliverance to the Church Congress and therefore may fairly be assumed to have been prepared with all the usual care and earnestness which characterize his Lordship, and which have made him one of the most influential members of the Episcopate.

In this address the Bishop set himself the task of presenting to his hearers what he conceived to be a true picture of the rising tide of democracy today. No one can complain that the subject is not one of overwhelming importance and, in its relation to the Church, it is easily the most vital topic that can engage the attention of her representatives.

Many men of lesser importance have bewailed the diminishing influence of the Church and have frankly admitted that in many respects it fails to satisfy the requirements of the present day, and especially that it is not "in touch" with the people. Thousands of sermons have been preached and thousands of articles have been written for the purpose of explaining the true inwardness of this condition. So many causes have been assigned that it would be no light task even to schedule them. A few of the most commonly quoted are the rapid increase of wealth among the industrial classes; increased worldliness among all classes; the antagonism of Capital and Labour, and the very wide-spread conviction of working-men that the churches have as a whole been more favourable to the former than the latter.

Perhaps, however, it may be conceded that Bishop Ingram is an authority; maybe, one of the highest authorities who could be quoted on the subject, because, in addition to being a learned and distinguished prelate, he has been a zealous and successful parish priest and slum worker. He therefore comes to a consideration of his subject with what may fairly be regarded as a complete equipment. His explanation of the situation, although it runs to four columns, is pithily condensed into the one sentence with which he commences his discourse. "Putting new wine into old bottles," and his solution lies in the reversal of this policy, for he advocates putting "new wine into new bottles."

It is not necessary to follow the expository portion of his address in which he analyzes the meaning of the well-known text which forms the basis of his address. It will be more profitable to outline the application, and to see in what respect he considers the old rule is being followed disadvantageously and the new rule should be applied.

The Bishop's argument is that the Gospel is still "the Power of God to Salvation"; that it is as young, as strong, as vigorous as ever; that this condition is aptly paraphrased in Canon Twells' well known lines:

"Thy touch has still its ancient power
No word from Thee can fruitless fall."

The fault is not in the "Word," but in the "earthen vessels" to which the treasure is committed.

Nor does he concede what so many fault-finding critics contend, that the weakness is in the character of the men themselves, but holds that it is rather in their methods. The Christian clergy and laity are as sincere, as devout and as desirous of spreading Christianity as in any preceding age, but they have not developed the intelligence to devise "new bottles." In other words they have not adapted themselves to altered conditions.

The age of subserviency and of serfdom has passed. The world is being educated; men no longer sit with their mouths wide open eagerly catching and swallowing every crumb that is thrown their way. Now-a-days, they think for themselves. The didactic utterance of the pulpit often falls on deaf ears in the pew; the congregation refuses to take everything for granted; the dogma of infallibility has long ago been exploded. There is a sense in which all men now-a-days "come from Missouri." They want "to be shown" and this disposition to enquire and search is not confined to the grown-ups. Even the boys and girls are apt to receive dogmatic assertion with a contemptuous "Yah!"

The Bishop's contention is that in consequence of these altered conditions it is impossible to deny that there is a strong new wine working in the hearts and brains of thousands today. The first effect of this exhilarating draught is that men believe there should be an equality of opportunity, and that grinding poverty and unspeakable conditions of life should come to an end. They are tired of hearing of a heaven in another world and believe that one was promised to them in this.

This is the dream which is at the bottom of the great Labour movement and no doubt lies at the root of that unrest which is mainly responsible for the development of modern Socialism.

Many people take a pessimistic view of the future because of the extreme action of some Labour leaders and most Socialists, but the Bishop does not so misread these great movements. He emphasizes their avowedly and definitely religious aspects and quotes extensively from the recent addresses of well-known Labour leaders in support of his contention. In this connection he specially mentions Mr. Thomas, M. P. for Derby; Mr. Peters, the national agent of the Labour party; Mr. Albert Stanley, M. P. for North Staffordshire; Mr. Clynes, M. P. for North-east Manchester; Mr. Adamson, M. P. for a great mining constituency in the North; Mr. Parker, M. P. for Halifax; Mr. Landsbury, Socialist M. P. for Bow and Bromley, and lastly the great Labour Premier of New South Wales.

The utterance of the latter is so emphatic and significant as to be worth quoting verbatim. He says: "We who believe from the bottom of our hearts that the nation and the people are going to be greater than formerly they were, place our reliance on God's Holy Word. We honestly believe that a Supreme Being is governing the Universe and we see in the nations of the world a gradual evolution—it may be slow, because it must not get ahead of the people; but it is sure from one end of civilization to another."

The Bishop contends with justice that men who speak like this must be religious men and that they must be animated by Christian ideas. The Bishop sees in such men the great hope of the rising democracy.

He then proceeds to consider the very pertinent question, why are not such men and their adherents members of the Church of England? Why has the Church so little influence when there is a great industrial upheaval, such as a strike? Why do not these religious men turn, as they naturally and logically should, to the Church? The Bishop believes that the first reason is that, consciously or unconsciously, the Church is still influenced by class prejudice. No one has a better right to make such a statement, and the Bishop in making it refers to his experience as a curate.

He declares that the clergy are largely drawn from one class, and the laymen, who have leisure to attend a Church Congress, are entirely drawn from that class. They are apt to like the poor so long as the poor "keep in their proper place," and he emphatically declares that there is a very true sense in which English people are equally as sensitive to the subtle "caste" feeling as the people of India, and that it presents an intangible fence between the Church and the toiling millions of the people.

His next point is that this "class prejudice" neutralises the work of the Church, and the only way to win the masses is by showing practical sympathy. Practical sympathy must go beyond vague generalities, it must go beyond conceding the right of every person, however, poor, to education, it must spell shorter hours, better wages, protection, especially for our girls, the saving of women from degrading labour in factories and smithies and the rescue of all mothers from toil outside the home, which is only another way of saying that the

SEISMOLOGICAL OBSERVATORY

The following correspondence has passed between the Hon. J. P. Hazen, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and Mr. F. H. Shepherd, Member for Nanaimo, and is published by permission of Mr. F. Napier Denison:

November 29th, 1911.

F. Napier Dennison, Esq.,
Meterological Department,
Victoria, B.C.

My dear Mr. Dennison:

I am happy to inform you that as a result of an interview with the Hon. the Minister of Marine and Fisheries with regard to your application for financial assistance in the purchase of self-recording instruments necessary in your researches in the relation of Seismological disturbances to coal mine explosions, Mr. Barnard and I have succeeded in getting a grant of $2,000 to be applied to researches on Vancouver Island.

I am enclosing a copy of a letter sent to the Hon. the Minister which is self explanatory.

You will see that I put the matter before him in such a manner that should he have occasion to refer it to the particular branch of the Department governing this line of research that they can have no possible objection to the grant, in fact the understanding is that the grant will be made so that you can avail yourself of it without unnecessary trouble.

With very kindest regards, believe me, yours very truly,

FRANCIS H. SHEPHERD.

November 25th, 1911.

The Hon. J. D. Hazen,
Minister of Marine and Fisheries,
Ottawa.

My dear Mr. Hazen.

I beg to enclose copies of correspondence and other data touching researches relative to the co-relation between seismic disturbances and coal mine explosions by Mr. F. Napier Dennison of the Meterological Office at Victoria, B. C.

These enclosures are self explanatory, and I wish to add that as a Mining Engineer and as late Chief Inspector of Mines for the Province of British Columbia, I am heartily in accord with Mr. Dennison's work upon this subject.

This is a subject upon which many valuable papers have been given to the mining world by able European writers, and I made a collection of these papers some time ago and gave them to Mr. Dennison in order to assist him in his very valuable researches.

As an example of the future value of the research to mining men, I beg to vouch for the fact, that at the recent explosion at Extension, B. C., where 32 lives were lost, the Seismograph at Victoria, 70 miles from the mine, at the exact hour of the explosion recorded a district disturbance.

The Western Fuel Company at Nanaimo, are co-operating with Mr. Dennison, by kindly taking periodical readings of a seismograph placed underground, and it is in this connection that I beg to request the co-operation of the Department. The instruments should be self-recording, and in order that Mr. Dennison may be enabled to follow his researches in an efficient manner, my colleague, Mr. Barnard, M.P. for Victoria and myself, respectfully request that you may be pleased to place upon the estimates, the sum of $2,500 for researches on Vancouver Island for the purpose of determining the relation between seismographic disturbances and coal mine explosions.

I would further add, that this work has been done by Mr. Dennison voluntarily, and without compensation, and this question may be brought to your kind consideration later. Mr. Dennison is in receipt of a salary from the Meterological Department, but this is a separate field of observation and research, and I think(and in this my colleague concurs) unfair to Mr. Dennison in his sincere efforts to throw some light upon a subject of vital importance to the coal mine workers of the world.

Trusting that the request will receive your favourable consideration.

Believe me, sincerely yours,
FRANCIS H. SHEPHERD.

Victoria, B. C.,
30th November, 1911.

To the Editor of The Week:

Sir,—I crave your indulgence, realizing that your paper is always the happy medium towards remedying defects in general conditions of life, and the conduct of municipal affairs in Victoria.

I don't think there is a man, woman or child resident in Victoria at the present time who is not aware of the deplorable condition of the streets; never in my life have I seen such a horrible quagmire,—not even in any of the villages in the West of Ireland—where the roads are in such a deplorable state, as that portion of the city highway on Government Street flanking the site of the Parliament Buildings.

But a moment ago, I heard the siren of one of the motor wagons of the Fire Department, and, upon going to the window, saw the vehicle embedded in this alleged public highway over its axles. After much difficulty, though indeed, in a very short space of time, the capable driver had backed the machine out on the road, more towards the car-line, and was enabled, with great difficulty, to get on his way, to a fire I presume.

I could not help but feel indignant at the sorry plight the firemen were in, and I am sure that their feelings

MONTHLY STOCK MARKET REVIEW

(Issued by F. W. Stevenson & Co., Victoria, B.C., Nov. 30, 1911)

New York Stock Market

October was apparently the turning point in the stock market and tnessed the lowest level of prices for the year so far, the announce-ent during the latter part of the month that the American Tobacco ompany's dissolution plan had been accepted by the Supreme Court as bmitted with modifications, proving a strong bull factor and relieving e tension caused by the government's prosecutions to a notable extent.

Money continues easy enough and is scarcely likely to harden ma-rially although, quoting an eastern exchange, there are one or two nsiderations which should be carefully kept in mind. "New York losing cash, principally to Canada, representing a kind of Indian mmer in the outward currency movement customary in the fall. ipments have taken the form of gold for the most part and we know at Canada has had a prosperous year and can handle a good deal of oney. In another respect the matter is not so satisfactory. London eginning to be anxious at the extent of the borrowings for all sorts corporations and public bodies, big and little, and at the land boom ich has spread all over western Canada. The latter is something ich the thoughtful business man should keep well in mind. A great l of money has been made in Canada on the advance in land values, an and rural. It has been made for the most part by new men, hout experience of a collapse. Those whose memory goes as far k as the last reaction or the appalling break in all such values erienced by Australia twenty years ago, when almost every bank on t continent suspended payment, will see the wisdom of closely watch-events in this respect."

There has been little change in the business situation. There ms to be a fair volume of business moving, but the demand is appar-ly chiefly confined to actual requirements. There is no rush or culation, the business world fearing that the reassembling of con-ss may mean drastic attempts to alter the tariff and that efforts may made to introduce other legislation of a revolutionary character. r this reason there is a disposition to go slow, general expectations ng for rather a dull winter.

During the month, all the active issues in the stock market, rails l industrials, have made substantial gains, due primarily to the eptance of the American Tobacco plans as previously mentioned, ile the improvement in metal conditions, both here and abroad, has n responsible for a good advance in Coppers. While current prices below the best prices attained for the month, due to realizing sales l the elimination of the short interest, the market presents a more lthy appearance and we believe that for the long pull, stocks should purchased on all weak spots.

Local Market

The local market has been more or less active during the past nth with trading generally distributed.

The Oil shares with the exception of Maricopa have been quiet l current prices are about the same or a trifle lower than last prices October. Rumours of the Maricopa Company having struck oil s responsible for the infusion of some life into this financially itened company's shares, but the movement flattened out quickly, rent figures showing a slight gain for the month.

Granby has sold up to $34 during the month and B. C. Copper at 50, due to the reported betterment of the metal markets and if the provement in metal prices continues these Shares should do much better. As these properties are unlike the majority of the local list inasmuch as they have real merit, we do not hesitate to advise their purchase at current figures.

Notwithstanding the fact that the International Coal Company's last quarterly dividend was not forthcoming, as we surmised might be the case, the settlement of the strike and resumption of work at the mines has resulted in the shares almost entirely recovering their loss of two months ago and current figures of 62 cents show a net gain of 14 cents from the low point recorded in the early part of October. We believe the next quarter will find the dividend forthcoming as usual and the shares should be a good buy at present prices.

The nearness of the semi-annual dividend period for the loan shares has caused an active demand for these issues, B. C. Permanent selling up to 130 and Great West at 125. The dividend returns on these stocks makes them attractive to a large portion of the investing public.

Conditions in the Portland district, as far as we can learn, are unchanged, with prices of the different mining companies about the same as last month. Talk of an amalgamation of the different properties of the district, which we mentioned last month as a possibility, has been responsible for some demand for shares, particularly Portlands, but the demand is light and not of such a character as to advance the price.

Standard Silver-Lead, one of the late additions to the local sheet, we believe, presents as good possibilities as any on the mining list. The company operates the Standard group, near Silverton, and shipments, which have been temporarily suspended, will shortly be resumed. Mining men acquainted with this property look upon it as one of the most valuable silver-lead properties in the Dominion and prophesy net profits for the company of over $1,000,000 a year. The company is capitalized at $2,000,000, current prices being about $1.60 for the dollar shares.

UNION BANK: PROPOSED TRANSFER OF OFFICE TO WINNIPEG

The question of the transfer of the head office of the Union Bank of Canada from Quebec City, where it is now located, to Winnipeg, will be submitted to the shareholders for decision at the next annual meeting. Honourable John Sharples, president of the bank, has issued a circular to he shareholders in which he states:—

"The rapid expansion of the bank's business necessitates ever increasing watchfulness and care on the part of its executive officers. We have now 245 branches, of which 159 are situated West of the great lakes, and the result of experience fully shows the desirability of having more central supervision than is possible under existing conditions. As we have only two offices east of Quebec, the head office is at present located at almost the extreme eastern end of the bank's chain of branches. Your directors have given this matter very grave consideration for two years past, and are unanimously of the opinion that the best interests of the shareholders will be served by removing the head office from the city of Quebec to Winnipeg, which is about midway between its eastern and western operations. Application will be made to the Federal Parliament at its next session for an Act amending the charter of the bank, changing its head office to the City of Winnipeg, at such time as the shareholders, having signified their approval, shall authorize your directors to give effect to such change. A resolution will be submitted to the shareholders at their next annual meeting to be held on December 18th, asking them to ratify the recommendation of your directors, and to empower them to take the necessary steps to change the head office of the bank to the city of Winnipeg when they deem the time opportune."

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE CANADIAN NORTHERN

The report of the Canadian Northern Railway Company for the year ended June 30 states that the gross earnings amounted to $4,990,347. Fixed charges absorbed $3,982,651, and after deducting interest at 5 per cent. per annum on the Income Charge Convertible Debenture stock there is a net surplus of $604,824. The gross earnings show an increase of $2,527,651, or 18.27 per cent., and net earnings an increase of $645,957, or 14.87 per cent., over the preceding year. During the year over 400 miles of newly-constructed tracks were added to the system, the average mileage operated being 3,383 miles. The operation of the Royal Line of steamships from its inception has proved the wisdom of engaging in the Atlantic trade. It is manifest, however, that a further addition to the fleet at an early date should be made, and negotiations are now in progress whereby all the business offered to the steamship company can be accepted. The land sales during the year were 279,151 acres for $3,345,499, an average of $12 per acre, compared with 246,996 acres for $2,561,073, an average of $10.36 per acre the preceding year; £47,000 of Land Grant Bonds (issue of 1909) were retired during the year, thus reducing the amount outstanding to £927,400, or $4,513,346. The company still has 871,866 acres selected lands unsold. Car Trust Obligations were created to the extent of $3,294,000 in connection with the purchase of locomotives, passenger cars and freight cars.

IMMIGRATION

Immigrants to the number of 265,833 arrived in Canada during the first seven months of the current fiscal year—April 1 to November 1. Of this number 172,260 arrived at ocean ports and 93,573 from the United States. These figures show an increase of seventeen per cent. as compared with the figures for the corresponding months of the last fiscal year which were 142,529 at ocean ports and 85,246 from the United States, making a total for the seven months—April 14 to November 14, 1910—of 227,775 persons. During October there were 23,002 arrivals, 13,646 of them having been at ocean ports, and 10,256 from the United States, as against 23,393 for October last year, 13,592 of whom were at ocean ports and 9,801 from the United States.

GET RICH QUICK

A Chicago promoter has a scheme which makes all other get-rich-quick propositions look like a tin horn trust. He proposes to establish a "cattery" and a "rattery."

The plan is nothing more nor less than to feed rats to cats, skin the cats and feed the cats back to the rats, in endless succession, the only break being the deduction of the cat skins, the sale of which is to supply the profits. The promoter, outlining his plan, says: "We will start a cat ranch, getting 1,000,000 cats. Each will have twelve kittens a year. Cat skins are worth 10 cents for white ones and 75 cents for black. They will average 30 cents each. There are 12,000,000 cat skins a year, a daily gross income of some $10,000.

"A man can skin fifty cats for $2, and it will take 100 men to operate the ranch, leaving our profit over $9,000 a day. We will have to feed the cats. How?

"Start a rat ranch next door. Rats multiply four times as fast as cats. We will have, therefore, four rats a day for each cat, plenty. How to feed the rats?

"Simple, feed them on the cat bodies—a fourth of a cat per rat—amply sufficient. Thus, you see, the business will be self-supporting and automatic all the way. The cats will eat the rats, and the rats will eat the cats and we get the skins and wealth."

TOO BAD

The only unoccupied room in the hotel—one with a private bath in connection with it—was given to the stranger from Kansas. The next morning the clerk was approached by the guest when the latter was ready to check out.

"Well, did you have a good night's rest?" the clerk asked.

"No, I didn't," replied the Kansan. "The room was all right, and the bed was pretty good, but I couldn't sleep very much, for I was afraid some one would want to take a bath, and the only door to it was through my room."

New Chief Geographer

Joseph E. Chalifour has been appointed chief geographer for the Dominion government. He takes the place of the late R. E. Young. This appointment is a promotion, as Mr. Chalifour has for three years been assistant geographer. The salary attached to this position is $3,000.

Build South

The Kootenay Central Railway Company will apply to parliament for an act authorizing it to construct a branch line from Galloway southerly in the direction of the international boundary, also for more time to construct the authorized lines.

Anxious to Resume

President Luther of the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting & Power company recently stated in New York that his company is most anxious to resume operations at Phoenix and Grand Forks, B. C., because the profits from these operations will be needed to finance the Hidden Creek property, recently purchased and now being developed by the Granby company.

He states that the Hidden Creek property contains 12,000,000 tons of developed ore of an average value of from 2 to 3 per cent. in copper. This is twice the tonnage that is claimed for the Granby company's mines at Phoenix. To put the Hidden Creek mine on a productive basis, the management desires to equip it with a smelter of a capacity of 2000 tons a day, which will involve an expenditure in conjunction with the mine development which has been planned, of $1,000,000.

The Granby company has available cash assets of about $500,000. At the present price of copper its earnings, if the plant were in full operation, would furnish capital required for the Hidden Creek property. For that reason the management was most anxious that the coal miners' strike in British Columbia should be settled, so that they may be assured of a supply of coke and be enabled to resume production.

On the basis of 2000 tons a day, which is to be the initial capacity of the Hidden Creek smelter, the Granby company expects to produce from that property 30,000,000 pounds of copper during the first year the smelter is in operation.

Important Order Handed Down

One of the most important orders yet issued by the Board of Railway Commissioners, namely No. 15,228, has been received by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. It directs railway companies to graduate their rates per hundred pounds under the lowest through tariff rate.

It is a practice of companies to charge more than one graduate, when a shipment carried by two companies is consigned to a point where there is no competition.

A "Beastly" Exchange

It is probable that an important addition will be made in the near future to the Stanley Park Zoo in the shape of two fine lions from the Dublin Zoological Gardens. Mr. S. McLay, who has just returned to Vancouver from Ireland, informed one of the park commissioners that the authorities of the Dublin Gardens stated that they were ready to part with a pair of African lions in exchange for two beavers. This exchange may at first sight seem disproportionate, but it must be remembered that beaver are fauna rara in Old Country "zoos."

Railway Charters

The C. P. R. will apply to parliament for a charter for a line from Sedgewick, on its Hardisty division, southerly to Township 40 or 41, range 12 or 13 west fourth meridian. The Kettle Valley railway company will apply to Parliament for a charter for a line from Vernon to Penticton.

Dangerous Sport

The city council of Rossland has passed a by-law prohibiting the practice of coasting and tobogoning on the streets of the city. Anyone doing so in future will do so at their own risk.

Many New Stations

Owing to the large number of branch lines constructed by the Grand Trunk Pacific this year, the company has had to build no less than 150 new stations. Of these 98 have already been established, 27 are in course of construction, while the balance of the number contracted for will be finished in the spring.

Hazelton a Central Telegraph Station

By a change in the system, the Hazelton office of the Government telegraphs has been made a central relay station. Henceforth all messages to and from points on the branch line which runs to Prince Rupert and the line running north to Dawson, will be taken to Hazelton and relayed to their destination.

Kill Beavers in East Kootenay

A. Carney, provincial timber inspector, who has just completed an official tour of East Kootenay, says that from all parts of the province reports are coming of heavy catches of beaver. In the Stuart lake and Fort George districts the Indians say the season is exceptionally good. In East Kootenay similar conditions prevail, one trapper taking as many as 16 pelts between Fernie and Hosmer. In the Clinton district the take is a light one, but few pelts having found their way to the trading post.

Transcontinental Assistant Engineer is Promoted

Duncan Macpherson, who for the past six years has been assistant engineer of the transcontinental railway commission, has been appointed assistant to R. W. Leonard, chairman of the commission. The promotion is an important one. It means that during the absence of the chairman Mr. Macpherson will have complete control of the work of the department. Who will be appointed assistant chief engineer to succeed Mr. Macpherson is not yet decided.

Build New Roads

At the Albertan legislature it was announced that the government would proceed with the construction of two railways from Edmonton to Mackenzie river through the Peace River country; one to extend from Athabasca Landing to Peace River Crossing; the other from Edmonton to Fort McMurray. Mackenzie and Mann will build and operate the new roads.

(8) And they, one and all, said "Yes"
(9) * * * How much is the damage?
(10) * * * And he replied to them "$5.00 per hour or part thereof."
(11) * * * So they en-gaged him and said, "Show us this beautiful city.
(12) * * * thereupon the "shov-ver" turned a han-del and something "klicked"
(13) * * * And the Tour-ists entered the "Kar"
(14) * * * And the some-thing still "klicked"—
(15) And after some con-sider-able time—during which the Shov-ver pulled and pushed at var-ious buttons and levers—
(16) * * * while the something still "klicked"—
(17) * * * they started—
(18) * * * and behold they went down a street named—
(19) * * * Government
(20) * * * till they came to the "Burnside Road"—
(21) * * * and on reaching this they behold an ancient board with this inscription—
(22) * * * "this street closed to traf-fic
(23) * * * by order of the City Engineer.
(24) * * * And the Tou-rists wished to take the tablet to place—
(25) * * * in the local Museum over the Wa-ter—
(26) * * * But the shov-ver said "No"—we must return—
(27) * * * "I will take you by another way.
(28) * * * So they returned—
(29) * * * and came to Fort Street—
(30) * * * and the something still "klicked"—
(31) * * * when they came to Fort Street
(32) * * * which had lately been paved
(33) * * * with some kon-koction known only to—
(34) * * * the Kanadian Min-eral Rubber Company—
(35) * * * they found that the kon-oction" had had a dispute with some street rails"—
(36) * * * the property of the B. C. E. R.—
(37) * * * and that the out-come had been a "split"
(8) * * * so the street was impassable—
(39) * * * and the something still klicked"
(40) But the "shov-ver said "No
(41) * * * I will take you by another 'root'"
(42) * * * So they turned back—
(43) and tried the other 'root'—
(44) * * * this time they went South down Government street
(45) * * * and behold all was well
(46) * * * till they passed
(47) * * * "the Causeway"
(48) * * * and the something still klicked"—
(49) * * * so they came opposite Par-lia-ment buil-dings"
(50) * * * but op-posite Par-liament buil-dings someone had—
(51) * * * forgotten to "tamp" a rain that—
(52) * * * had lately been laid—
(53) * * * and the front wheels of the "Kar" settled down in the drain—
(54) * * * to the "hub"—
(55) * * * then the shov-ver got out and looked—
(56) * * * while the something still klicked"
(57) * * * and then a B. C. E. R. car rang its bell—
(58) * * * violently—
(59) * * * but the "Auto" could not get—
(60) * * * out of the way—
(61) * * * so the traf-fic was held up * * *
(62) * * * and the B. C. E. R. car being
(63) * * * overcrowded—as usual—
(64) * * * there were many complaints
(65) * * * from the passengers—
(66) * * * some of whom said they would
(67) * * * write to the papers—
(68) * * * others — got out and walked
(69) * * * to their homes—a long way off—
(70) * * * and there happened to pass by—
(71) * * * a dray with a powerful team of horses—
(72) * * * and for a "con-sid-eration" the driver of the team
(7) offered to pull the "Auto" out of the mire—
(7) * * * which he did—
(75) * * * and the "consideration" touched the pockets of the Tour-ists—
(76) * * * and the something still "klicked"
(77) * * * then the "shov-ver said—
(78) * * * "We cannot go this way it is too—awful
(79) * * * "I will take you by a side street"—
(79) * * * and when they came to the side street they saw—
(81) * * * "this street is klosed to traf-fic
(82) * * * by order of the City Engineer"—
(83) * * * so they said to the "Shov-ver"
(84) * * * are any streets open?
(85) and he said—
(86) * * * "I don't think so."
(87) * * * and the something still
(88) * * * "klicked fur-ious-ly."
(89) * * * so they said this is indeed beautiful—
(90) * * * How can we see more?
(91) * * * and the "Shov-ver" said, "I have a cousin who is trying
(92) * * * an Aeroplane—
(93) * * * perhaps he can help you"
(94) * * * But the Tou-rists looked at one another
(95) * * * and at the dial of the "klicker"
(96) * * * which still "klicked wickedly"
(97) * * * and said "how much?"
(98) * * * and the "Shov-ver" said, "I can take you to the Bank, the amount is probably more than you have on you—
(99) * * * so he took them to the Bank—
(100) * * * where they drew all the money they had to their credit—
(101) * * * and returned home.

NEW WINE IN OLD BOTTLES

bread-winner of the family must be allowed to earn sufficient to keep his family. It is not till we realise that the world of labour today desires this with a passionate longing and the Church shares that longing with the same passion that it will be recognised as expressing true sympathy.

A third and very potent reason alleged by the Bishop for the ineffectiveness of Church work is the prevailing tendency of the clergy to magnify the importance of ritual. Church literature is altogether too much taken up with the discussion of ornaments, rubrics and art vestments, and, however important some of these controversies might be, the Bishop contended that it is hard to realise how trivial and petty many of them must have seemed to the toiling millions of our fellow-countrymen. "There they were, fighting and struggling for daily bread, here we were convulsed with the question of whether the stole was legal. There they were working out their own salvation as best they might, here we were ranged in two rival camps of High Church and Low Church, and too intent upon defeating one another to have time to attend to their growing hunger for life which could be in any sense called real life and a home which was indeed a home."

This is what the Bishop calls putting new wine into old bottles, and he contends that the whole texture of the Church must be altered. There is nothing wrong with the Church, or the Sacraments, or the minister, or the ceremonial; the masses of the people are not opposed to these in themselves, but the clergy must give up the "parish manner," and lay aside fatal "class prejudice" and "caste feeling" and break through that subtle network which consists in a sense of superiority and come out upon common ground.

If in this way the new wine were put into new bottles, new methods, new manners, new classifications, both wine and bottles would be preserved.

This is the briefest outline of a memorable address; one which cannot fail to have produced a profound effect upon the great gathering which was privileged to listen to it, and one which may be fairly accepted as the teaching of the most advanced section of the Christian Church with respect to the relation between the Church and the Democracy which has come to stay. W. B.

must have been more than could be described, even by a vituperative Irishman, in so far as to what their opinion was of the City Council and its endeavours to provide good thoroughfares for public traffic at one of the most important points in the City.

This complaint of mine may have, perhaps, as much effect as a dewdrop on the petal of a flower; nevertheless, I would personally venture to draw this matter to your attention, beseeching the inhabitants of this good and beneficent city to consider gravely how long, oh Lord, how long, will Victoria remain in the rut, literally speaking, so far as the conditions of the streets are concerned.

The way in which the condition of the street I have referred to, was brought under my notice today, is of most serious import when one considers the likelihood that not only was property in danger, but that perhaps human lives were at stake in a building, where delay of the brigade to any extent, might prove fatal.

I crave your indulgence in drawing this matter under your notice, and thank you for giving publicity to same through the columns of The Week.

Yours very truly,
ALBERT E. CRADDOCK.

HILDA LESSWAYS

Book Notes by W. B.

HILDA LESSWAYS. By Arnold Bennett. William Briggs, Toronto. $1.50. On sale by the Standard Book & Stationery Co., 1220 Government St., Victoria, B. C.

"Hilda Lessways" is the sequel to "Clayhanger," and the second in a series of three novels dealing with the same leading characters, the principal one being the heroine of the book under review.

The first matter that calls for notice is the manner in which Mr. Bennett has acquitted himself, because in the preceding book he had attained such a high level of literary craftsmanship as to hold out the promise of being the legitimate successor of our great novelists.

His rise to fame has been remarkably rapid considering that he did not achieve popularity in a day by the publication of a master-piece which startled the world, but rather that he attracted notice by a book which bore the ear-marks of originality and remarkable insight, I refer to "The Old Wives' Tales." This and "The Tales of Five Towns" formed the fitting prelude to "Clayhanger" which was on an altogether higher plane, being less morbid, or perhaps it would be more correct to say morose, less pessimistic and less like the terribly fatalistic and depressing work of the late George Gissing.

"Clayhanger" opened a vista of possibilities, without sacrificing any of the marvellous fidelity of detail which had characterised Mr. Bennett's earlier works; this book took on an added beauty, more colour, a truer philosophy of life and altogether left an impression which justified comparison, not so much with Dickens, as has been suggested, but with Thomas Hardy.

"Clayhanger" and now in a greater degree "Hilda Lessways," while suffering slightly in comparison with the best work of the great Wessex master, furnish chapters which might well be compared with their counterpart in "Tess of the d'Urbervilles" and "Jude the Obscure." The main difference is that Hardy's lines were deeper and heavier; he cut to the core; was more dramatic in form, and more fully visualised a tragedy.

Bennett uses more lines with which to sketch his picture, filling in infinitely more detail; but it is the monotonous detail of everyday life, and it creates an impression rather of gloom than of tragedy. It is tragic enough for the characters, but they are not as great as the men and women limned by Hardy, nor is Bennett quite as sure of his ground. It is this inevitable certainty which makes Hardy so convincing and effective.

Bennett, while both a philosopher and a thinker, is touched with the "New Thought" of the twentieth century, and is not yet quite certain that the wisdom of the ages comprises all knowledge and all wisdom. This is more apparent in "Hilda Lessways" than in any of his preceding books. He feels the pressure of the problem, and after piloting his heroine through enough experience to satisfy half-a-dozen ordinary women, he finally lands her in what should be a haven of repose, but, so little is the author satisfied with his work, that he promises a third volume to complete the sketch.

Hilda Lessways herself is a remarkable woman. She is devoid of physical beauty, but attracts by indefinable qualities. Her unusualness, her unexpectedness, her vivacity, her originality and her courage are the characteristics which prove irresistible? These are well-balanced by shortcomings, such as are invariably to be found in women of this type.

She worked her way from poverty to something approaching affluence. She married a man old enough to be her father because he had certain magnetic qualities which she could not resist, and although she knew that he was a trickster and a charlatan. But it needed not any exposition of Mr. Bennett's philosophy to determine that the more worthless a man is and the more unreliable his character, the more certain he is to be worshipped by the majority of women, and to be idolised by some woman who is ready to cast aside honest love for the spurious excitement which an alliance of this character affords.

Mr. Bennett endows his heroine with what he describes as "The most precious of all faculties, the power to feel intensely," and this is the keynote to her character. In the end she had to find that the man she married already had a wife hidden away, safely, as he thought. When this was discovered Hilda was disillusionised; the "intense feeling" evaporated; the chain was broken, and in the most matter of fact way she turned her face to the future without taking him into account at all; and as the sequel shows, turned to Edwin Clayhanger, with whom she had long been in love and for whom she had an affection that was more rational and therefore more abiding.

The final situation is well described in her own words: "At last her life was settled and mapped out. Destiny had been kind and she meant to be worthy of her fate. She could have swooned, so intoxicating was her wonder, and her solemn joy, and her yearning after righteousness in love."

I fear it must be conceded by the honest critic that the book as a whole is not quite up to the standard of its predecessors. It starts well and finishes well, but between times it drags terribly.

In dealing with the subordinate characters the author is not happy; in fact, it almost seems as if he has placed more puppets on the stage than he can manage. His cameos are not as clear cut; the impression they leave on the reader is not so distinct. After Hilda and her husband, Mr. Cannon, no doubt the most consistent character is Sarah Gailey, a pathetic figure of a widow dependent on a rich but heartless brother, and who throughout the book presents the picture of a woman "into whose soul the iron has entered."

There is in this latest book of Mr. Bennett's the usual amount of sordidness; he seems to revel in picturing the saddest aspects of human experience and while the result is sometimes pathetic, it is more often repellent.

In dealing with the character of Hilda Lessways the author is endeavouring to analyse a very complex soul. The result is profoundly interesting, if it is not altogether convincing, and leaves the lingering doubt whether he too must not be classed with the nearly-great novelists who have failed to understand feminine nature; or even to understand it sufficiently to avoid serious pitfalls.

He pictures Hilda as gradually becoming disillusionised with respect to her husband, and yet at the very same time "she was fond of him, perhaps getting fonder; but his domination of her senses was already nearly at an end, so that by virtue of this not yet quite bitter disillusionment she was coming to regard herself as his superior, as being less naive than he, as being even essentially older than he."

When the time came that she realised that in marrying this man she had dishonoured her high ideal, she reflected "this is not right; this cannot lead to good; it must lead to evil; I am bound to suffer for it; the whole thing is wrong, I know it and I have always known it."

How perfectly does Mr. Bennett picture a type of marriage which is, alas, far too common in these days and how admirably does he conjure up in one short paragraph the very epitome of such an experience.

"Already she was disappointed with her marriage. Amid the fevers of bodily appetite she could clearly distinguish the beginning of lassitude; she no longer saw her husband as a romantic and baffling figure; she had explored and charted his soul, and not all his excellence could atone for his earthliness. She wondered grimly where and under what circumstances he had acquired the adroitness which had charmed and still did charm her. She saw in front of her a vista of days and years in which ennui would probably increase and joy diminish. And she put her shoulders back defiantly and thought 'Well, here I am anyhow! I wanted him and I've got him. What I have to go through I shall go through'!"

When the crisis came upon Hilda and she knew that she had been deceived, she was "dizzied by the conception of the capacity of her own body and soul for experience. No factors, save her own body and soul and his had been necessary to the bringing about of the situation. It was essential only that the man and the woman should be together and their companionship would produce miracles of experience."

While Mr. Bennett has a certain streak of originality, it is rather in his treatment of his characters than in any wide departure from the respectable conventionalities. Thus he rounds out his book with punishment, the "poetic justice" which the vagaries of Hilda's conduct demanded.

"Only the tragic figure of George Cannon hung vague in the far distance of memory and the sight thereof constricted her heart. Utterly her passion for him had expired; she was exquisitely sad for him, she felt towards him kindly and guiltily as one feels towards an old error."

But the reader will not forget that by the time she had reached this semi-remorseful, semi-penetential stage she was already reviving memories of her youthful lover, Edwin Clayhanger.

As she looked towards the future she found "the tragic sequel to one adventure had not impaired her instinct for experience. On the contrary it had strengthened it. The very failure of the one excited her towards another. The zest of living was reborn in her. The moral beckoned her, golden and miraculous. The faculty of men and women to create their own lives seemed divine and the conception of it enfevered her."

From the foregoing it will be seen that in this book the author has concentrated his efforts on the development of one character, his heroine. She is attractive and fascinating, but there is nothing great about her, even her vices are commonplace and she neither grapples with new problems nor with the old ones in new ways.

Also it must be noted by the seeker for the epigrammatic and sententious that this book yields far fewer of such passages than any of its predecessors. It still leaves the author head and shoulders above his competitors, but not so indubitably isolated in excellence as seemed possible when he had finished "Clayhanger." It would be a thousand pities if he wrote himself out so early in a literary career which gave promise of being brilliant. One more book like "Clayhanger" and his position would have been assured; another as much inferior to "Hilda Lessways" as that book is to its predecessor and the dream will be shattered.

IN THE PRESS

Mr. Edgar Fawcett, one of the oldest and best known residents of Victoria, has been induced to collect his reminiscences and publish them in book form. The publication has been entrusted to the pioneer firm of Hibben & Co. and the book will be on the market within a few weeks. Mr. Fawcett's many admirers will be glad to know that the early history of Victoria has been dealt with by so competent an authority and will now be preserved in proper form. His reminiscences extend back to 1858 and cover every event of note which has occurred in the city since that time. Indeed, his book goes back to 1850, the year in which he reached San Francisco and the year in which a well-known editor was shot in the public street by a fellow editor named Casey who was tried and hanged. This was in the good old days when it was possible to have the penalty of crime enforced in California. Mr. Fawcett's book should have a large sale and it certainly will if its merits are recognised.

Character by Hand-writing

The Editor of The Week wishes to call special attention to this Department, which is conducted by an English gentleman, a 'Varsity man of high attainments. Character reading from hand-writing is a scientific study, entirely devoid of charlatanism and is possibly the most reliable index of all, because hand-writing records the development of character, and its index is not confined to natural traits. It is an interesting study, not merely in enabling us to see ourselves as others see us, but may be turned to important account in submitting the hand-writing of persons with whom we have business relations. Indeed, viewed in this aspect, it is only a reasonable precaution to learn all that the chirographist can tell us. Before deciding to institute this Department the Editor of The Week imposed the severest tests, submitting the hand-writing of well-known persons entirely unknown to the gentleman conducting this Department, who is a stranger to Victoria and a recent arrival. He is prepared to guarantee absolute accuracy and hopes that the readers of The Week will avail themselves of what is a genuine privilege.

RULES

1. All persons wishing to consult "Tau" must enclose a specimen of hand-writing, consisting of about four lines, written on unruled paper. It may be signed with their own name or not, but there must be an initial or nom-de-plume to identify the answer, which will appear in the next issue of The Week.

2. Each specimen of hand-writing must be accompanied by a P. O. for 50 cents or stamps for the same amount, and the outside of the envelope should be indited "Hand-writing." Absolute privacy is guaranteed.

REPLIES

Scot—You are a bit of a poseur. You have a very strong artistic sense, but not much developed. You are impulsive and energetic, but rather pessimistic in outlook. Temper strong, liable to outbursts. Enthusiastic and with a distinct scientific turn. Small taste for gardening, agriculture or the like, and prefer some more artificial pursuit. Broad minded, you have a good head for mathematics, but small stock of logic. Egotistical and not over candid, somewhat selfish, and will power is weak; so too, is the sense of direction. You are not very precise. I doubt whether your health was good when you wrote the script for diagnosis.

E. M. P.—A somewhat contradictory and irregular character. Has good artistic taste, fond of music, flowers and scenery. Strong impressions, usually well controlled. Strong religious sense but perhaps not orthodox. Naturally enthusiastic and energetic, not a pessimist and with good common sense. Affectionate and fond of home. Will power fair. Not very neat, nor over careful about personal appearance. Has a good head and can argue well but a poor sense of justice, inclined to be guided by jealousy and other passions. Somewhat inconsistent, imagination is active. An unbalanced character, and too liable to be swayed by the feeling of the moment against the dictates of reason and common sense. A strong advocate.

J. T.—Not much imagination here, nor a great artistic sense. Is neat and methodical, would be good at figures and very practical. Distinctly truthful character but sometimes careless. Temper level, inclined to be moody sometimes, some jealousy is indicated. Ambition is fair. Self control strong in spite of some lack of tact. Fond of outdoor life, fond of society. Good religious sense. Inclined to be niggardly. Should be good at games. A good thinker and with plenty of energy. Will power is good.

Heather—Not very artistic, fond of outdoor life and sports. A strong moral character, with deep religious feeling. Is careful, accurate and precise. Charity is rather lacking and you are apt to judge others too hastily. Observant and a good deal of imagination. Is the whole optimistic, a good manager and has lots of common sense. Fond of domestic life. Affectionate, loyal, and reliable, you are readily take up others' burdens. Slightly inclined to affection.

ECONOMISTS BOTH

"Nothing lost here but the squeal," declared the pork packer. "Are you as economical in conducting your business?

"Just about," answered the visitor. "I'm in the lumber business. We waste nothing but the bark."

Xmas Suggestion

What better present than a few fully paid up shares in a thriving enterprise engaged in building up the City of Victoria and managed by well known business men?

British Canadian Home Builders, Limited, with an authorized capital of $500,000 in $1.00 shares has been organized to do a general Building, Real Estate and Insurance business, and no better field exists today for such a Company than this same Victoria.

Companies run on similar lines elsewhere have proved phenomenally successful, making handsome dividends for their shareholders. Take for instance "Home Builders," Los Angeles, a Company which started with a capital of only $1,250 less than four years ago, today has assets of over $1,089,000, surplus $308,000, is paying 17 per cent. dividends, and its $1.00 shares are selling at $2.30.

Shareholders in British Canadian Home Builders, Limited, may conservatively look for a 10 per cent. dividend the first year, increasing thereafter, and a steady advance in the value of their shares, caused by the additional earnings placed to the credit of the reserve fund.

There are no promotion shares in this Company. All have paid $1.00 per share, some for as many as ten thousand shares and others for as few as fifty—all will participate in the profits equally according to their holdings.

Embrace this opportunity of a safe and remunerative investment in shares of a Company doing business in your own city where you know that new houses are badly needed, that values are increasing daily, and that you may depend upon receiving your proportion of the profits. Shares may be purchased at $1.00 each either for cash or on the instalment plan, $10 cash and $5.00 monthly purchases 100 shares.

The marriage was celebrated recently at Christ Church, Chatham, Ont., of Mr. John Forin Templeton, of the firm of Gore & McGregor, of this city, and Miss Helen Claire Rispin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rispin, King street, Chatham, Ont. The Rev. R. S. W. Howard officiated at the ceremony. The service was fully choral. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with pink and white chrysanthemums and ferns. The bride wore a very handsome gown of ivory duchess satin, with drapery of Venetian point lace and a semi-detached court train. She wore a tulle veil held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. The only jewelry she wore was a beautiful diamond and platinum necklace. The bride was supported by four bridesmaids, Miss Margaret Rispin, and Miss Jean MacLaren, of Toronto, gowned in dainty organdie frocks with pink sashes; and Mrs. Claude Kent and Miss Jessie Wilson, wore charming gowns of pink marquisette over pink satin trimmed with crystal fringe. They carried large sheaves of pink chrysanthemums, and wore old fashioned lace poke bonnets trimmed with pink ostrich tips. Miss Marjorie Davies of Detroit, acted as maid of honour, and wore a gown of pale green satin with a tunic of crystal and heavy hand embroidery. She carried a bouquet of tiny pink rose buds and lilies of the valley. The groom was supported by Mr. Frederick C. Lytle, of Toronto. A large reception was afterwards held at the home of the bride's parents.

The Police Ball

The third annual ball given by the Police Department of Victoria eclipsed its predecessors in every way. Successful as were the former balls given by the force, the results of arduous work on the part of the bluecoats during the past weeks were such as to overshadow anything previously attempted by the Victoria Police Department. Before opening the ball by leading the Grand March, Premier McBride presented the certificates won by various members of the Force during the past year who had passed examinations in first aid work, and concluded by presenting Dr. Donald, the instructor, with a handsome clock which had been subscribed for by the ambulance class as a recognition of his services. Mr. McBride performed this pleasing function, and after the Grand March the ball was opened, and remained open till the small hours. Never has the popularity of the Police Force from Chief Langley down to the latest recruit been more heartily proclaimed than it was on Wednesday night and the ball of 1911 will long be remembered as "the best yet."

Some C. P. R. Figures

When the two new ships now being built in England for the coasting service of the C. P. R. in British Columbia are completed, there will be a total of seventy-six vessels flying the Canadian Pacific flag. These vessels, if put end to end, would cover a distance of three and a half miles. The land and sea forces for the shipping department number 12,000 men, and 3,000 tons of coal are burned daily by the fleet.

A Big Strike

One of the biggest strikes in the history of the Red Cliff mine was made a few days ago in the northwesterly drift of the upper workings when high grade copper ore the whole width of the drift was run into, a large proportion of this ore will run 20 per cent. in copper. The mine was never in better shape than it is today and everything is running smoothly.

Si Sic Omnia!

Captain Montagu Yates, F.R.C.I., who has arrived in Canada from London, is interested in a company which will be formed shortly to establish in Canada places of amusements similar to the London Hippodrome, and it is expected that theatres for the staging of high-class British productions, will be opened in St. John, Toronto, Ottawa, Port Arthur, Moose Jaw, Regina and Vancouver.

Technical Education

Dr. J. W. Robertson, chairman of the Canadian Royal Commission on Industrial Training and Technical Education, has returned to Canada, after having spent some six months in Europe. The other commissioners returned to Canada some time ago, and are busy at work recording what they saw and learned during their visits to England, Ireland, Scotland, Germany, France, Denmark, Switzerland, and other countries.

Route Mapped Across Province

Although the Canadian Highway Association has only been in existence for about one month, the work it has accomplished in this short space of time is conclusive proof that the organization will be an important factor in the development of this country by the building of good roads.

Letters of encouragement have been received by the officers from many cities in the east, and from Hazelton, Dawson and Alberni, the latter the western terminus of the proposed Canadian Highway.

Alberni was recently visited by a travelling representative of the Canadian Highway Association, who found every business man in that town in hearty sympathy with the objects of the association. Nanaimo and Victoria have also been canvassed and each city has added considerably to the strength of the membership of this body.

W. W. Foster, Deputy Minister of Public Works, in a letter to W. J. Kerr, President of the Association, outlines the following route as the most practicable for the construction of British Columbia's portion of the Canadian Highway: Alberni to Victoria, via Nanaimo; Vancouver, Westminster, Hope, Princeton, Rossland, thence to Trail, crossing the Columbia by the new bridge now in course of erection, and via Summit Creek, along the Old Dewdney Trail to Creston, thence following the main Trunk Road into Alberta.

While this route cannot be considered final until all the reports from the surveyors and engineers have been submitted to the Department of Public Works, it is not likely that any important deviation will be made.

By his reference in his speech from the Throne at the opening of the House of Commons on November 16, His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught put the stamp of Royal approval on the plan to construct a Canadian Highway that will stretch from coast to coast. His intimation that the Federal and Provincial Governments would work hand in hand with a view to improving the highways of Canada has already been of great assistance to the men who are taking an active part in the work of the Canadian Highway Association, showing as it does that it only needs proper representation to the authorities in order to secure at once the commencement of this great national enterprise.

GOSSIP FROM THE STALLS

Judge; Mr. Fred Emery as Clerk of the Court; Mr. W. C. Cronk as Foreman of the Jury. The ladies who will take part are Mrs. J. Chapman who will play as Mrs. Bardell; Miss Moore as Mrs. Cluppins, and Miss Tomlin as Mrs. Saunders. The play is being produced largely under the stage management of Mr. George Morphy who has ably assisted the performers. Thanks are due to the Bar of Victoria for kindness in lending wigs and gowns. The members of the Bible Class have been devoting themselves to making the play a success and the public are assured of an entertaining evening.

The Gamblers

"The Gamblers," the most successful contemporaneous dramatic offering in America, which scored a remarkable run of over 200 performances at Maxine Elliott's Theatre, New York, comes to Victoria Theatre, Wednesday, December 13, under the management of the Authors' Producing Company, of which John Cort is President.

In this absorbing play by Charles Klein, author of "The Third Degree," "The Lion and the Mouse," "The Music Master," "Maggie Pepper," and notable stage successes, the story arises out of the operations of one Wilbur Emerson, who, with several associated with him in the banking business, uses the money of the depositors in an endeavour to fight several larger banks which are endeavouring to crush them.

Busy Izzy

Anyone who has ever thrown a leg under the mahogany and discussed a bottle and a bird with George Sidney, who this year is starring with a company of forty-five fun furnishers, in the new musical funbargain, "Busy Izzy," which is to be seen at the Victoria Theatre next Thursday, has set the actor down as a great "spender" and a prince of good fellows. This was in the old days. Of late he has developed a trait which has caused sorrow and astonishment among his cronies of former times. He has in fact become a pronounced miser and an "Indian giver." At night after the play he may be found chasing chorus girls to whom he has given money. "Come back here with those bills," he roars as he snatches the greenbacks from their dainty fingers.

The cause of the actor's niggardliness, it may be explained, is the sudden advance in the value of stage money, owing to a taboo placed on its manufacture last year.

NOTICE

NOTICE is hereby given that an application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of British Columbia at its next session for an Act granting to The Victoria Harbour Railway Company an extension of time within which to commence and continuously and effectually proceed with the construction of its railway, and also an extension of time within which to spend fifteen per cent. of its authorised capital upon the construction of its railway.

Dated at Victoria, B. C., this 4th day of December, 1911.

Solicitors for the Applicants.

EDITORIAL

extravagant, it shuffles out on the plea that it was thinking of American rather than Canadian unions, that in any event its criticism was justified by the Los Angeles tragedy and finally that it did not stigmatise "all" unions or union leaders in the opprobrious epithets which it used. To which any fair-minded observer will say that the original article does not contain the modification which Saturday Night reproduces in its later article. The original statement was absolute and unqualified, that labour leaders were crooks and blacklegs, not that "some of them" were. As to the other plea, it may go down in the East, but it is too subtle for the Western mind. For a Canadian paper could not by the widest stretch of the imagination claim that it was referring to matters outside its own country unless it said so. The lame defence of Saturday Night leaves it in a worse plight than when in a rash moment it set out to libel labour leaders.

CREDIT DESERVED—The Times has been trying to make political capital out of the impending visit of Mr. Coste, the Dominion Engineer. It would have the public believe that Mr. Templeman had something to do with it. As a matter of fact the Breakwater project was simply an election cry so far as Mr. Templeman was concerned, an eleventh hour idea taken up in desperation. The credit for prompt action on the part of the new Government belongs to two men, Mr. G. H. Barnard, M. P., and Mr. J. H. S. Matson. As Member for Victoria, Mr. Barnard put the Breakwater project in the forefront of his demands, but he was ably supported by Mr. Matson, who, shortly after the election, was in direct communication with Mr. Borden, and in an able and exhaustive letter dealt with a number of the principal requirements of the constituency and especially with the Breakwater project. In his reply to Mr. Matson Mr. Borden definitely promised prompt action, so that it is fair to give him a portion of the credit, which, in ignorance of these facts, might otherwise be ascribed entirely to the sitting Member. The Week is sure that Mr. Barnard would be the first to acknowledge the valuable efforts put forward in this matter by Mr. Matson, and in any event it is only common justice that the fact should be made known.

THE V. A. D. C.—Attention is called to the popular entertainment which will be staged at the Victoria Theatre by the V. A. D. C. on December 15th and 16th. This Club has been in existence a year and has made many promises to justify its existence. Little progress was made, however, until the Committee secured the services of Captain Taylor, an experienced actor-manager, who is an enthusiast in amateur dramatics. On his advice the plays originally selected were abandoned as unsuitable and one of the most amusing comedies entitled "A Pantomime Rehearsal" selected instead. The cast is one of the largest and most efficient which has been assembled in Victoria. The rehearsals are proceeding satisfactorily and the producer is hopeful that the Club will be able to present a performance which will be entirely gratifying and successful. The Week bespeaks public support for what is sure to be a thoroughly enjoyable entertainment.

The Week's Rumours and Humours

(By The Hornet)

That the C. P. R. did not show much consideration for the passengers on the Tees.

* * *

That as a rule a rescue means a straight run for home.

* * *

That the official who departed from this time-honoured custom displayed just a little too much zeal.

* * *

That Victoria is to have a break-water, which will establish a record in the fulfilment of pre-election pledges.

* * *

That for once the location and extent of the break-water is to be determined by the Coste.

* * *

That the Victoria Theatre Company is incorporated, and plans and specifications have been ordered.

* * *

That the Vancouver competitive syndicate, which secured a free write-up in the Times, balked at the first fence.

* * *

That the rocking-horse car is still running on Cook Street.

* * *

That between five and six o'clock it is easily able to carry 100 passengers.

* * *

That passengers for Cook Street are frequently unable to get out, and make the round trip to Foul Bay Road before debarking.

* * *

That the plea of Mr. Forrest Angus for lower car steps is a most modest and humane request.

That the asphalt on Kingston and Ontario Streets is rotten.

That this will not involve any loss to the city, as the contractors have to keep it in repair for ten years.

* * *

That street-cleaning has got entirely beyond the capacity of the Streets Committee.

* * *

That the new Street By-laws regulating traffic are now in force, but this does not apply to the regulation of building operations.

* * *

That the City Engineer should lay down a uniform rule governing this.

That the condition of Smith's Hill Reservoir suggests a paraphrase of an old conundrum, "When is a reservoir not a reservoir?—When it's a riddle."

* * *

That the Minister of Agriculture might do worse than import a few car-loads of milking cows.

* * *

That the quality of Victoria milk is as far below the standard as its quantity.

* * *

The salicylic acid and formaldeheyde are excellent preservatives and coagulents.

* * *

That it takes a Gladstone to fell a tree, though two hay-seeds may make an attempt.

* * *

That the tree was not the only thing that was rotten.

* * *

That when they saw what they had done the fellers both ran away.

* * *

That Stella Carroll has made good her threat: That no warrant could hold her as long as she had a dollar.

* * *

That she has made the courts and the police force look like thirty cents.

* * *

That she threatens to follow the example of the Princess Ferdinand and publish her reminiscences under the hackneyed title of "Men I have Met."

That the book will not be published by a local firm.

That the Union Jack flies nightly from the flag-staff at the Post Office Buildings.

* * *

That this is a concession to patriotism, which objects to the Union Jack being hauled down.

* * *

That the Postmaster's order to deliver letters according to their address was reasonable and he would have done well to stay with it.

* * *

That the remedy is a simple one; take the trouble to notify your correspondents how you want your letters addressed.

* * *

That it is a pity the Times should have instinctively blamed the Minister at Ottawa, only to be promptly corrected by the local postmaster.

* * *

That the reason it costs more to live in Victoria than Vancouver is simply because people can afford to pay more.

* * *

That the Times is flogging a dead horse in continuing its efforts to make political capital out of the disposition of the Songhees Reserve.

* * *

That professional 'soccer deserves better support than it has yet received in Victoria. Last Saturday's turn-out was not worthy of the game.

* * *

That if "Sid" Thompson gets good support he will show Victorians the best 'soccer played in the Dominion.

* * *

That the rural districts are not willing that Victoria should be made "greater" at their expense.

* * *

That the people who will really suffer the penalty in the McNamara case are the suckers who found the money for the defence.

* * *

That Organised Labour would have greatly strengthened its position if, when the truth came out, it had denounced the culprits.

* * *

That it was a short-sighted policy on the part of the Labour leaders not to do this.

* * *

That sometimes it requires a great deal of courage to do the obviously right thing.

* * *

That according to the New York Herald professional murder is almost as good an investment as life insurance—but not the Lloyd George kind.

* * *

That Major Taylor is carefully drilling the V. A. D. C. in "A Pantomime Rehearsal," and is bound to give the public a good show.

* * *

That the parts have been well distributed, but it has not been found possible to give everyone a part with a song and dance.

* * *

That the Victoria Theatre curtain may be a thing of "buty," but it is not a "jy" for ever.

* * *

That the face of the City Solicitor fell when he heard Mr. Justice Gregory's decision in favour of Mrs. Humphreys.

* * *

That the man in the street thinks this appeal has already been pushed quite far enough.

* * *

That it is unreasonable to object to boys engaging in rifle practice on the streets, especially if they are only using air rifles.

* * *

That the milk inspection would not require to be so rigid if the milk coolers were a little more frigid.

* * *

That there is a Provincial Inspector of tramway lines and equipment,—but we never hear of him.

That when the position was created, it was not expected to be a sinecure.

That by the transposition of a single letter, "s," the leader of the Suffragettes would be more appropriately named—Spankhurt.

That there is now a woman's club in Victoria; not the one habitually used on husbands.

* * *

That the Electric Light users of the City of Victoria are wondering when the promised reductions will be made.

* * *

That it is time that the accounts of the last Exhibition were published.

* * *

That Victorians are prepared for the worst, which may mean a big deficit.

* * *

That Big Turnips, Red Apples and Over-grown Cabbages, are not sufficient to attract a second visit to the Fair.

* * *

That Victoria manufacturers should be encouraged to exhibit.

* * *

That a mistake was made by the management in not offering free ground to the promoters of the Hockey Rink, in exchange for the use of the building for one month a year.

* * *

That recent events emphasize the importance of a Curfew by-law for Victoria.

* * *

That if parents will not exercise some control over their children there are cases in which the police should be instructed to do so.

* * *

That no newspaper can afford to print all the stories that are peddled to its editorial sanctum.

* * *

That a well-known public Institution has had a necessary, if somewhat belated, house-cleaning.

That one more undesirable can be spared and would be well advised to hie back to Vancouver.
