HE IROQUOIS DISASTER

Twice within one month coffin ships ave carried their human freight out to a and left their victims scattered like the otsam and jetsam of the ocean. Mr. limsoll's historic phrase was never more otly applied than in the case of the Se-elt and the Iroquois. There are many en still living who remember the historic casion when, pleading on the floor of the ouse of Commons for the poor mariners ho had no protection against the cupidity ship-owners, Mr. Plimsoll was so over-me that he burst into tears and though s speech broke down, the sensation pro-ced by this human touch furnished the cessary impetus to carry the Merchants' ipping Bill safely into port.

Cupidity of Shipowners

The lives which have been sacrificed to e cupidity of the owners of the Sechelt d Iroquois were just as precious as the es of the thousands of British sailors, e loss of which Mr. Plimsoll deplored. arely have Victorians been so deeply oved; for although marine disasters of r greater magnitude have unfortunately en chronicled on our coast, happily not e is characterized by such sordid fea-res as have aroused popular indignation connection with the loss of the Iroquois. ere has been a very general demand for e arrest of Captain Sears, and it would pear from the published accounts of the cident in the columns of the Colonist at there should not have been the slight-hesitation in locking him up. It is fficult to speak of his conduct in meas-ed terms. The annals of Britsh sea-nship barely furnish a parallel instance bad judgment, callousness, cowardice d neglect.

Misgivings of Safety

In the minds of several passengers, of veral observers, and of one or two at st of the crew there were the gravest sgivings as to the safety of the boat be-re she left the wharf at Sidney. Some ssengers refused to embark, and re-rned to Victoria. Others, including the o ill-fated English ladies who hesitated til the last moment, were induced to go oard by the assurance of the captain that would be all right. The purser is re-rted to have said that "he didn't like look of things," and the engineer or man that "if anything happened it uld be all up." One would bave ought that these incidents would have l some weight with the captain.

Grasping for Dollars

But no; in his grasping for a few extra llars he loaded his boat, stowed the cargo ere it would cost the least to handle it, ced ten tons of fertiliser right in the m of the boat and some twenty bales hay on deck. He claims that there was ixty mile gale blowing; if so, the greater criminality in taking out the boat al-dy top-heavy with a deck load which t only increased the instability of the ssel but offered additional obstruction to gale.

The Wreck

One witness stated that the ill-fated ssel was taking water within three min-es of being in the water. At any rate she d not covered half a mile before the mis-ced cargo shifted, the boat listed and ver afterwards recovered. From then it was a mad plunge and a frantic ef-rt to head back and reach the shore. The te and purser both acquainted the cap-n with the condition of affairs. He d them to attempt to readjust the cargo, t beyond that gave no further instruc-ns for the safety of the passengers or r dealing with the situation.

That Precious Six Minutes

He claims that about six minutes elapsed from the time he was informed of the exact condition of affairs until the deck-house broke away and the hull of the vessel sank. What might not a resource-ful and competent captain have done in those six minutes, if he had attempted to organize some measures of relief? Of the circumstances connected with the launch-ing of the first life-boat one fact stands out that the captain did not instruct a competent seaman to enter the boat and endeavour to navigate it, and to this cir-cumstance may be due the fact that it speedily foundered.

Abandoned by the Captain

When only a few remained clinging to the wreck the captain launched the second life-boat and got into it himself, leaving at least three men behind. Several joined him. There is a conflict of testimony as to whether he invited the remaining ones to enter the boat or not. Mr. Hartnell, one of those who clung to the wreckage, declares that the captain told him to stay where he was clinging to a floating door and he would drift to shore all right, and even in the face of the evidences of the terrible disaster which surrounded him the captain called to one of these poor victims to push him an oar which lay floating on the water. The captain and the two or three men who were with him in the boat got safely to shore and then, following up the apparent callousness of his previous conduct, the captain went home and ac-cording to one witness, at any rate, did so without giving any instructions or taking any steps towards rescue work.

A Question of Salving

One does not wish to judge him too harshly with the loss of twenty-one lives to account for, but it came as something little less than a shock to learn that while the bodies of many of the victims were still unrecovered he was busy telephoning to the B. C. Salvage Company as to the possibilities of salving his vessel, apparent-ly oblivious of the fact that he owed at least some duty to the sorrowing relatives of those whose lives had been sacrificed by his negligence. If the former recital, carefully checked from the published ac-counts of the disaster, and from the evi-dence given at the inquest before Coroner Hart do not more than justify the arraign-ment of Captain Sears, then indeed is there no protection for men who go down to the sea in ships, and no penalty for callous indifference and grasping greed on the part of the owners of coffin ships.

A Prompt Enquiry

Short of the arrest of the captain, which is the least concession the Government might have made to an outraged public opinion, nothing will tend to appease popu-lar indignation except a prompt, exhaus-tive and competent investigation. This is of course the duty of the Marine Depart-ment of the Federal Government and in view of the fiasco which resulted in the case of the Sechelt, when the most import-ant witnesses lied about the seaworthiness of the vessel, it is greatly to be regretted—if true as stated in the Victoria Times of Wednesday—that the same officer, Cap-tain Eddie, is to conduct the enquiry into the loss of the Iroquois.

A Whitewash

However good his intentions may have been he utterly failed to get at the truth in the former case and the owners were "whitewashed" by unreliable evidence. The Week is but voicing a very general opinion when it endorses the suggestion of the Colonist that the Judge of the Ad-miralty Court, assisted by the usual expert Assessors would have been the proper tribunal to deal with such a serious case. Whoever may conduct the enquiry it may be taken for granted that the Provincial Government will be represented by the best legal talent procurable, in order that some measure of justice may be done to the rela-tives of those who have been so heartlessly sacrificed.

GEORGE KIRK & CO., LTD.

A few weeks ago comment was made in these columns on the prosecution of a man named Lehmann for stealing coal. The prosecution was undertaken by the firm of George Kirk & Co. Ltd. After a careful hearing the case was dismissed and some not altogether complimentary remarks were made about the conduct of the prose-cuting firm. Since then various rumors have been flying round and it is under-stood that at the present time enquiries are being made as to deliveries of coal by this firm to Work Point Barracks. No doubt this side of the question will receive every attention, and The Week is not con-cerned with it at present. But there is another side of the question in which every lover of freedom is vitally interested and that is as to the possibility of a man being locked up on two separate occasions and kept in a prison cell, the first time for five hours, and the second time twelve hours, without any charge being made or any in-formation sworn, and all this on the initi-ative of a private firm which was able to induce the police to adopt a course repug-nant to every fair-minded man and inimi-cal to the principle of personal liberty. This was done by some kind of an arrange-ment, of which the full details have yet to come to light, between the firm of George Kirk & Co. Ltd. and Police-Con-stable Heather. Such particulars as The Week has been able to glean are set forth in a statement printed in the current issue and duly signed and attested by all the parties therein referred to. The readers of The Week are urged to peruse this state-ment and to bear in mind that both Leh-mann and Bromsen are poor men, practi-cally without a dollar in the world, and that they were at the mercy of a firm with money and influence at its command. There can be no question of the illegality of the proceeding, and whilst allowing a great deal of scope to the police in the dis-charge of their difficult and onerous duties, The Week is positive that the authorities never contemplated the treatment of a British subject in such a manner as Brom-sen was treated in the present case. This is a matter of supreme interest to the pub-lic; it involves not merely the rights and liberty, but the safety of the individual. Incarceration under such circumstances is a species of Third Degree torture, which will never be tolerated where the British Flag waves. The Week gives publicity to the facts as deposed, in the firm belief that the proper authorities will take the matter up and see that the offenders are suitably dealt with. It would appear to The Week that the Attorney-General and the Police Commissioners should have something to say.

AUTOMOBILE SPEEDING

Attention is directed to a letter from Mr. Herbert Cuthbert which appears in the current issue of The Week. Mr. Cuth-bert is of opinion that he received scant justice at the hands of the Police in con-nection with his recent trial for "speed-ing." Of that the readers of The Week must judge for themselves; the letter is inserted solely because the Colonist, to which it was at first tendered refused to allow Mr. Cuthbert the opportunity of ac-quainting the public with certain aspects of his case. The Editor of the Week may be a "motorphobe" but he believes in fair play, and the columns of The Week will always be open for the discussion of both sides of a question, especially when, as in the present instance, the writer has the courage of his convictions and is not ashamed to sign his name to his communi-cation.

Stories of treasure hunters always possesses a special interest for the average person, but it is not often that citizens of a quiet and prosperous city have the opportunity of seeing the hunters at work. The very idea of treasure hunting conjures up in the mind visions of cutlasses, red handkerchiefs, wooden legs and skulls. The red handkerchiefs are still in evidence amongst the treasure-hunters in the Government Street ruins, but the rest of the romance is lacking. To me the sight of Mrs. "Lo" patiently delving with her fingers amongst the rubbish is a pathetic one. I try to trace the descent of the Red Man from the days when he stalked the plains and forests of his heritage, through the vicissitudes of his later career down to the present day, when with dignity thrown to the winds, he permits his squaw to grub amongst the white man's refuse, if perchance she may find a tinkling glass or a beaded ornament. And I compare my own state with theirs, and, remembering that each family has thousands of dollars lying to its credit as a result of the recent agreement, I feel indignant that I also cannot sit down and play in the dust.

It is good news to learn that a reform is to be worked at the Free Library on Yates Street. For some time past the catalogues have been in a most unsatisfactory state. There are at least three different lists compiled, some being labelled "Fiction," others "Non-fiction," others again, "Fiction and Non-fiction." In some the books are arranged alphabetically, in others according to their authors. Owing to carelessness on the part of the public, these catalogues are often torn, and always dirty. Moreover, under the existing arrangements, it is sometimes hard to get hold of any sort of a catalogue owing to the crowd around the counter awaiting their turn to attention. Last, but by no means least, hitherto it has been impossible to pick and choose except by means of the catalogue.

Now I contend that there is only one person in a thousand who goes into the library with more than one definite idea as to what book he or she wants to get out. Most people are anxious to obtain one particular book, and when they find that it is already out, which it always is, owing to the natural law of "cussedness in general," they look over the catalogue to see if there is any other which attracts their attention. This is where the annoying part comes in. Just because you like one book by an author, there is no certainty that you will like another. You can't judge by the name of a novel any more than you can by the binding. Personally, I always like to glance through the pages of a book before I take it out, but as things are at present, this is impossible, unless a patron has the nerve to ask for a book, go through the formality of changing cards, etc., look through it and if dissatisfied, ask for another. Apart from the nerve required there is the time wasted to be considered. Catalogues are all very well for choosing books on serious subjects, and for directing the attention to novels which may be worth considering after a preliminary inspection.

But, when all is said and done, ninety-nine per cent. of the users of public libraries use them for fiction, and not for heavy stuff. Very foolish of them, I know; but what will you? It is human nature. It comes as a great relief then to know that within a very short time we shall be allowed to roam amongst the shelves and pick and choose our novels for ourselves, aided thereto by new catalogues, systematically arranged. This is the only sensible and really satisfactory method of dealing with a public which is quite willing to own that in the matter of fiction it rarely knows its own mind, and is easily prejudiced for or against a book by the tenour of the opening, or in the case of the ladies, of the closing paragraphs.

And whilst on the subject of the Free Library, there is another point which I would like to make. In order to protect the trustees and to ensure that books are not taken out by irresponsible persons, an introduction is demanded signed by a property owner in the city. This is reasonable enough and provides for the cash value of the books if by chance they are not returned. But why should it be necessary for the property owners to make a personal trip to the Library for the purpose of effecting the introduction? Surely the same results could be attained if he were to fill in the required form at his own house or office. So long as the Library posseses the signature of a property owner, over which he declares himself responsible for any book borrowed on his introduction, what does it matter whether the lineaments of his physiognomy are known to the attendant or not? The reason I make this complaint is that would-be borrowers frequently find it difficult to obtain an introduction. It is asking more than a small favour to request a busy man to walk up all the way to the Library just to sign his name.

It has long been the boast of Victoria that she has been singularly immune from the presence of crooks, thieves and other noisome pests of similar type. Doubtless her situation on an island has been a big factor in this happy state of affairs, together with the vigilance exercised by the local police in looking out for undesirables on the boats. But it would appear that just at present this proud boast is to be denied us. Undoubtedly there is a clever gang of sneak thieves at work whose specialty is that of hotel robbing. This class of thief is particularly hard to catch in a country where the general laxity in regard to hotel inspection is so great. Many men of unimpeachable character are accustomed to use hotels more like clubs than as hotels; they make appointments there, write their letters and rest their bodies all at the hotel's expense without feeling called upon to do more than buy a drink, if even that. Under such circumstances it is easy for a "crook" in the guise of a gentleman, to make himself sufficiently at home to allow of his wandering round the up-stairs corridors and making the best use of his time whilst up there.

The only remedy which can be suggested is that visitors should be more strongly impressed with the advisability of depositing valuables in the hotel safe. The mere act of locking one's bedroom door is of little avail. An ordinary door lock will not keep out any determined man who wants to get in. Of course, it is annoying to have to keep on depositing valuables and taking them out again, but it is one of the pains and penalties of travelling or leading an hotel life. There have been two recent cases in Victoria which should serve as an example to many. A lady was robbed of valuable jewellery, which was taken out of her bedroom during her absence, in one hotel, and a man who was accustomed to sleep with his door open, was robbed of a gold watch in another. In cases like these no possible blame can attach to the hotel management, provided that they afford their visitors every opportunity of depositing goods with the clerk, who will then undertake the responsibility for them.

But not only is Victoria suffering from the depredations of this class of criminal. There is another pest abroad, who, though not quite so criminal in point of fact, is every bit as amenable to the law. I refer to the automobile borrower. This enterprising gentleman would not style himself a thief, probably not even a criminal. He is quite aware that he could never get away with a car. No, he is an ingenuous individual, and when he feels like going for a ride, he politely borrows a neighbour's car, only omitting the preliminary courtesy of asking permission. He is a dangerous fellow this, because the very fact of his being able to drive a car argues that he is a man of intelligence and practical attainments. A case in point was brought to my notice on this very day of writing. A gentleman well-known in Victoria left his car in his barn, which acted as a make-shift garage, taking the precaution of seeing to it that his engines were inaccessible. After his departure the car was taken out and used by some person at present unknown, who was sufficiently an expert to be able to run the car by means of some improvised implement (not knowing a thing about cars or machinery I cannot speak technically), made out of a piece of old brass, to use it and incidentally to do about $75 worth of damage. It is to be hoped that the public may be able to lay their hands on some of these unlicensed "borrowers," and that a severe sentence will be passed on them.

It is some little time since I have had to chronicle any instances of women being molested in the public streets, and if the blackguards who venture to insult girls and women could be treated in future as the one of whom I am about to tell, it will be a long time before I shall have to chronicle another. An Old Country girl in service in Victoria had occasion to go to the post-office the other evening. Whilst there she noticed a man hanging around with no ostensible business, who on her exit bade her "Good-night." Taking no notice of him she walked on, and being of a robust frame and healthy constitution she chose to walk home instead of taking a car. Judge of her surprise when she found at the corner of the road in which she lived the same man, who had evidently taken the car with the object of meeting her again.

"Good evening," he said.

"What do you want?" asked the girl.

"Oh, nothing," he responded; "I just wanted to make your acquaintance."

"And do you mean to say that you have come all the way from the post-office to say that?" flashed back the girl.

Then came the finale. The girl, as I have said, was robust above the average, and the noisome beast got it right in the eye. There was nothing for him to do but to fall back into the gutter where he belonged, and where he may be now for all that the girl knows or cares.

Now that's all right. But has it come to this that here in Victoria our young women must attend the gymnasium, or take lessons in jiu-jitsu or spend money on attaining the physical culture degree? Of course we all know that a few months ago such outrages were almost unheard of in the city, and that they have only been in evidence since the policy of non-segregation was carried into force, but what is to happen if they continue? All our women are not young giantesses with muscles in proportion. It is to be hoped that this incident to which I have given some publicity may serve its purpose in scaring the next cur lest he also may find the iron hand beneath the velvet glove. That some young woman may have the strength of hand to catch and hold the next offender and the strength of mind to hand him over to the gaol whence he may depart for the whipping-post is the pious wish of the said the first scientist. "Here is conclusive proof of all our theories. See this rock, it is as round as a barrel and just about the same shape and size. It must have rolled for ages in the bed of some swift stream. Note how smooth it is."

Said the second scientist, "It is unlike any rock we have met with before in British Columbia. It must have been brought from a great distance, probably by some mighty iceberg in the ages that are gone."

Said the third scientist, "There are some foothills of mountains here, it may have come down in a glacier."

Said the fourth scientist, "It is unlike any rock to be found on earth. It must have dropped from the Moon or Mars. Here comes a native of the soil, I will ask him if there are any Indian traditions concerning it."

"See here, my good man, do you know anything about this strange rock?"

"Aw, yaas, I think so," drawled the Goldstream man, "That there used ter be a bar'l o' cement the Power House folkses av the B. C. Electric Railway left here some timer go."

"Eureka!" That's what many a man ejaculates upon his first glass of G. H. Mumm & Co.'s "Extra Dry." So different is it from other champagnes. And hereafter he always calls for the bottles with the pink cap.

"The Lily," David Belasco's dramatic sensation of last season, will be one of the early attractions coming here from Mr. Belasco's own theatre, New York, with Nance O'Neil, Chas Cartwright, the famous Belasco company, and presented exactly the same as during its run of an entire year in New York City.

With a record unsurpassed and probably unequalled by any contemporaneous musical comedy star, Miss Marie Dressler, under the direction of Mr. Lew Fields, opens at the Victoria Theatre Tuesday night, April 18, for a two-night's engagement, presenting that unique musical play "Tillie's Nightmare," which last December completed the hitherto unheard of feat of playing 389 consecutive performances to practically absolute capacity at Lew Field's Herald Square Theatre, New York. The fact that Miss Dressler never has been seen in Victoria has occasioned much curiosity and friendly anticipation, for her reputation as being "the funniest woman on the English-speaking stage" has preceded her. And it also is interesting to note that in this whirlwind tour, which has embraced only a few

"The Lily" receives its title from a class of women well recognized in France, but little known as a special type in America; they are the women who have been denied the joys of love and matrimony, simply to appease the traditions of sex. In France everything is sacrificed for the advancement of the sons, while in this country it is for the sake of the daughters.

Around this sex distinction is woven a drama that for dramatic intensity and absorbing interest, nothing like it has been seen within the last decade. Mr. Belasco, with a consistency that has characterized his big productions in the past, will in addition to sending his original company, send the massive Belasco production intact.

Nance O'Neil never gave a greater exposition of her marvellous powers than she does of "The Lily," Odette; a scholarly, sincere and artistic delineation coloured by physical vigor and emotional intensity. Charles Cartwright, the eminent English actor, of the largest cities of the United States and Canada, with only two others on the Pacific coast save Portland—namely Los Angeles and San Francisco—Miss Dressler is surrounded with identically the same cast of principals and chorus as during the memorable New York run.

"Tillie's Nightmare," like the star herself, stands unique in theatrical annals. Miss Dressler has played the role of Tillie Blobbs, a boarding house drudge, for ninety-two consecutive weeks, without missing a single scheduled performance. And the play itself, written by Mr. Edgar Smith, with music by Mr. Baldwin Sloane, posseses a consistent and coherent plot—something unusual in these days of made-over-night musical comedy. Miss Dressler, as the household drudge, falls asleep while reading the magazine section of a Sunday newspaper, and dreams wondrous dreams

Easter

BY BOHEMIAN

The circling years bring with them many reminders of the flight of time, not a few of which have historic associations of the most important character. To the Christian the associations of Easter are historic in the fullest sense of the term. Whatever garb romance, poetic imagination and religious fervour may have woven around the great Christian festival, it is upon its authenticity as a historic episode that the Faith of Christianity is built, and it is on each recurrence of Eastertide that the overwhelming significance of the Resurrection is brought to many millions of men.

The greatest theologian and logician of the Christian Church, St. Paul, conceded that "if Christ be not risen then is our preaching vain and your faith is also vain." It cannot, therefore, be too emphatically reasserted that the crux of the Christian Faith is the Resurrection of its Founder from the dead. In the storm of criticism which has waged around the Scriptures, especially in these latter days, this impregnable fortress, though frequently assailed, has never been shaken. Indeed, despite the sweeping away of not a few of the fetishes which men in their blindness had cherished for ages, human grip on this cardinal doctrine has strengthened. And not unnaturally, for the floating away of the spars has left but the Rock of Ages to cling to, and upon that Rock the Christian Church is built.

But all the exquisite theology which has been evolved during two thousand years contemplation of the sacred mystery of Eastertide will be expounded during the coming season from every pulpit in Christendom. It is to the simpler, every-day lessons that the mind will more easily turn. A contemplation of the stately lily, which is now universally associated with this season, and which symbolises in its broadest sense the principle of Resurrection, will remind a struggling world not less of the renaissance of buried hopes than of the ultimate union of severed friendships.

Man cannot live by bread alone, neither can he live in a world of sorrow, suffering and disappointment, unless the seed of hope is for ever germinating and fructifying in his breast. The most terrible sight in the world is the sight of a face which denotes that all hope has fled. The finest sight in the world is the sight of a face which bespeaks conviction in the triumph of right, and a determination to emerge from the darkest clouds into another, and mayhap a successful, struggle for the ultimate goal. The psychology of the human soul correctly analyzed is a recognition of this elementary truth, and of the fact that all the enterprises of mankind upon which they stake their very existence, are dependent upon the survival of Hope and the deep-rooted belief, which no disaster can eradicate, that ultimately they must triumph.

Ordinarily men would refer this creed to the general impression induced by success in the affairs of life. They have reduced it to scientific, and not infrequently to economic principles, arguing that certain results must of necessity follow certain lines of conduct. In other words, that on the sum total of human achievement may be inscribed a universal "quod erat demonstrandum." This is the half-truth which is so misleading; just as misleading as the philosophy which in the grim exactitude of its logic excludes Faith. It takes no account of the vital spark of Hope, the predominance of which means so much to every human life.

It is safe to say that no two men achieve precisely the same results though they may proceed by the same rules. The difference is due mainly to the vibrations in the pendulum of Hope which are as constant and definite as those sensitive earth tremors of which seismography takes account. Every clouding of Hope, however tenuous, imposes a check, and when these checks, of which life is so full and which come in the form of disappointments, disasters, weakness or bereavement, break down the spirit, men lose their grip and plod along wearily, with downcast eyes, no longer "looking to the hills for strength."

This is the true significance of eternal hope, the one uplifting and elevating influence in human life, which is as essential as the air we breathe, and which survives all the buffettings of time and sense.

Many men have despaired. The records of human endeavour which are only partly written in books, but which are unerringly engraved in "eternal brass" will one day reveal how many lives have expired when hope was snuffed out, but the same records will also show how a firm faith in the Resurrection has ever been the sheet anchor of despairing ones, and how all faith in the destiny of the race and the ultimate triumph of good has in the last issue been based on the historic truth of the great Easter happening and humble reliance on a Risen Lord.

Victoria, B.C.,
April 12th, 1911.

We, the undersigned, William Blakemore, Editor and Manager of The Week, and Leonard McLeod Gould, Secretary of the same, hereby certify that the following statements were made to us in the office of The Week, at 1208 Government Street, Victoria, on Wednesday, April 12th, 1911, there being also present F. R. Lehrmann.

A Hindu named Bromsen stated that on Wednesday or Thursday, the 22nd or 23rd of March last, at the time when the case of George Kirk & Co., Ltd., against Lehrmann was in court the said Bromsen was visited at his place of residence by a police officer accompanied by a son of Mr. George Kirk, the same son who gave evidence in court. Kirk addressed Bromsen and said: "You saw Lehrmann steal coal. You can give evidence of that." Bromsen replied: "No, I did not see him steal coal." Kirk then said: "I shall go and fetch a policeman to put you in gaol if you don't say you saw Lehrmann steal coal." He fetched a policeman. The policeman said to Bromsen: "God damn you, what's the matter with you that you won't tell you saw Lehrmann steal the coal? God damn you, you show me where Lehrmann steal coal and you won't go to gaol." Another Hindu, who was present named Inda Singh became annoyed at this and asked: "Who are you calling God damn?" and offered to fight if he would come down to his place. He heard the conversation between the officer and Bromsen. On Bromsen firmly refusing to give evidence against Lehrmann the officer took him to the cells. This would be somewhere about 10 o'clock at night. He was kept locked up till next morning; no information was laid and no charge made against him. Next morning he was taken into court by a policeman but was not called upon to give evidence and was not further detained in custody.

Bromsen further stated that about noon on Thursday, March 16th, he had been taken to the police station by a detective and locked up for five hours, but no information was laid and no charge made. Bromsen also states that Mr. Kirk, senior, said to him: "If you will say you saw Lehrmann stealing coal I will give you some money." He also said: "I will raise your wages from $2.00 to $2.25 a day and give you regular work."

Automobile Speeding

[This communication was refused insertion by the Colonist.]

Sir,—I desire to take exception, through you, to the remark made by Magistrate Jay after my case was dismissed yesterday morning to the effect that he hoped that the Auto Club would caution me against speeding as published in this morning's issue.

The cases which have been brought against me in the Police Court for speeding were both grotesque. In the first case, when I was served with a summons, I telephoned to the Police Court for information as to the time, and was told it was half-past five o'clock, which would be when I was going up Rockland Avenue. I told the policeman at the time that that was absurd as my car would not go up the hill in its then condition at that speed; but when I came to defend the case the time was changed to within a few minutes to six o'clock and it was stated that I was going down the avenue, while as a matter of fact, proved beyond a doubt, I was not in the avenue at all within twenty minutes of that time; and our evidence showed that I was going very slowly—my own evidence that I was not going ten miles an hour. Yet I was fined for speeding, which was simply absurd.

The second case is a most outrageous example of police methods. I charge now Constable Beltinck with giving evidence which was absolutely false, and I claim that he must have known that it was false when he gave it; that he laid information against me for which there was no justification whatever, and in order to justify that, swore to things which were absolutely untrue.

In the public interest, this matter should be sifted to the bottom. I was charged by him with driving at the rate of 25 miles an hour. I knew myself that I was not going above eight, but would have had no means of proving it, and would have been convicted HAD IT NOT BEEN FOR THE DISINTERESTED, VOLUNTARY EVIDENCE OF AN EYE-WITNESS WHO, UNKNOWN TO ME, SAW MY NUMBER TAKEN AND REALIZING THE INJUSTICE OF IT, VOLUNTEERED THE INFORMATION THAT I WAS "DRIVING SLOWLY, CAREFULLY AND IN A LEISURELY MANNER.

Now, Sir, I claim this is a gross injustice. A policeman who will swear falsely, or even stretch a point, and has such rotten judgment as to be unable to tell the difference between ten and twenty-five miles an hour—especially in a public park in the middle of Sunday afternoon when there are hundreds of people around—should not be allowed to remain in a position where he can do the same injustice to other people.

This is very distateful to me, but I consider that I have a duty to perform to the public just as much as

A., a pioneer of the northland, has obtained permission to pave part of an Edmonton street using asphalt, which he will freight up the Athabasca River from Fort McMurray, and pack in by Indians. The experiment is to demonstrate the asphalt resources of the north, which Cornwall says, will supply all of Canada's needs for the future.

Flying the Flag

Hon. William Pugsley, minister of Public Works, has issued an order to the effect that the Union Jack must be flown from every public building in the Dominion on every day of the year except Sunday. A short time ago an order was issued authorizing the flying of the flag on the public buildings of border towns and seaports, and this has now been extended over the whole Dominion.

Music in the House

One of the most unique occurrences in the history of the Canadian Parliament marked the adjournment for dinner last Thursday, when the Sheffield choir, which is touring the country, sang a few selections for the members and their friends. Their magnificent rendering of the National Anthem, caused the House to break into cheers. The scene was one of the most inspiring ever witnessed in Parliament.

G. T. P. Laying Out a Townsite

Howard Douglas, commissioner of parks, recently returned to Edmonton from the Yellow Head Pass, where he arranged to lay out a park townsite in the new Jasper park at Fitzhugh, a divisional point in the G. T. P. sixteen miles west of the Athabasca. The townsite will be laid out this year, and it is exptcted the G. T. P. will undertake the erection of a tourist hotel next year. The Alpine Club will hold a camp in the park this summer.

The Granby Company

The Granby Company has begun work on nine claims on Copper mountain near Chesaw, Wash., bonded several weeks ago. The bond is for two years, and involves the payment of nearly $120,000 in case the property proves good. Camp quarters were established last week. As soon as the roads will permit heavy hauling, a diamond drill outfit, compressor and power drills will be installed.

A Million in New Steel Rails

The G. T. R. has ordered 40,000 tons of steel rails from the Sydney, Cape Breton, mills to replace 260 miles of its tracks in Western Ontario. The order amounts to more than $1,000,000. The company will ship 209 miles of displaced track to the west for yards and sidings on the G. T. P. Some of these rails have been in use since 1869.

Earl Grey Coming to Winnipeg

Earl Grey, accompanied by the Countess Grey and family, and vice regal suite will spend two weeks in an official visit to Winnipeg this month. They will reside at the Government House. The primary object of the visit is to attend the annual competition for the Earl Grey musical and dramatic contest, which takes place here during the week of April 24. The visit may also include the musical festivals of the empire, in which the SSheffield choir will take part.

Still Coming

It is estimated that between two and three hundred settlers a month are coming into the Fraser Valley. New Westminster gets, on the average, about fifty a month. These people are coming from such distant points as Nottingham, London and Glasgow, and some few are from the Canadian Northwest. The new arrivals are of a fine type, a large number of them being retired military and naval officers, who take up land for investment and possibly with a view to doing some farming on a small scale. The majority have a moderate amount of capital.

C. P. R. to the Rescue

It is believed that satisfactory arrangements have been made whereby a Kaslo syndicate will purchase the Kaslo & Slocan line from the Great Northern Railway, secure Provincial Government aid in rebuilding it, and turn it over to the C. P. R. for operation. Mr. S. Griffiths, Government consulting engineer, has gone to Kaslo to make an examination of the property, on behalf of the Government authorities, it is understood. It is also asserted that before he left for Winnipeg, Mr. F. W. Peters, assistant to Mr. William Whyte, vice-president of the C. P. R., who has been on the coast for some weeks in connection with various matters, took up with the Government the question of operating the road.

New Boating Club

A boating club has been formed in Chilliwack for the purpose of making extensive improvements on the Hope River, a branch of the Fraser River, which skirts the city on the north. During most of the summer months it contains sufficient water for boating, but becomes shallow when the water lowers in September. It is the intention of the club to raise a two-foot dam at the mouth and to clean the river bed, removing all the snags and bars. A tract of land will be purchased and a boathouse erected. It will probably be necessary to secure the consent of the various property owners along the river before the water can be raised, but so far no objections have been made, while several owners have expressed themselves as favoring the project, including the Indians, whose reservation fronts the river.

Great Coal Fields of Graham Island to be Developed by Victoria and Vancouver People

The British Pacific Coal Co., Limited, offers limited block of shares at 25 cents, par value $1.00 each

As early as the year 1878 the late Dr. G. M. Dawson, perhaps the most eminent geologist ever actively engaged in historical research in Canada, visited and most thoroughly explored, among other portions of the Province of British Columbia, Queen Charlotte Islands.

Unless the readers of this advertising announcement have familiarized themselves with our northern country it will not be possible for them to fully comprehend the great wealth of this northern empire.

The Queen Charlotte Islands, consisting of hundreds of smaller islands and in the major portion Graham Island to the north and Moresby Island to the south, rise up out of the Pacific Ocean, sheltering a great portion of the main land of British Columbia and form the western boundary for what is known as Hecate Strait.

Dr. Dawson, in his report on the coal measures of Graham Island, emphasizes not only the quality of the coal but the extensiveness of the field.

Graham Island, named after an officer of the Hudson's Bay Company, is the largest and most northerly portion of the Queen Charlotte group and is immediately opposite Prince Rupert, the Pacific terminus of that great transcontinental railway now almost completed, the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Prince Rupert is six hundred and fifty miles nearer Yokohama than Victoria or Vancouver and five hundred miles nearer Alaska than Vancouver Island.

From Skidegate Inlet to Port Simpson or Port Essington is one hundred and fifteen miles while it is but eighty miles to Prince Rupert city. This means that the coal properties on Graham Island not only control one of the greatest fuel markets in the world, but on account of its extensive frontage on salt water with a deeply dented coast line has at its command the cheapest of shipping facilities by boat to most of the world.

Skidegate Inlet was discovered in 1850 by Major William Downie. Since that time this portion of Graham Island has received more or less attention of prospectors and miners visiting the northern part of the province.

Mr. Alexander Faulds, M.E.M.; M.E., consulting engineer of Vancouver, on October 27th, in the year 1910, submitted a most comprehensive report on the property now controlled by The British Pacific Coal Company, Limited.

In his report Mr. Faulds, using as a basis of calculation 8320 acres, estimated the coal tonnage at thirty-six millions of tons.

This estimate is based on one seam of coal only. There are five other seams, in the property not included.

Herewith is an extract from Mr. Fauld's report:

APPRAISAL

Your properties are very valuable, being of adequate commercial assemblage and magnitude and excellently located, with their transportation facilities, the potentialities of which, from the estimated quantities of coal they are likely to contain are very vast and practically unlimited in depth.

"The value of 36,000,000 tons of bituminous coal in your properties for one coal seam 6 feet thick should be not less than $120 per acre, and anthracite not less than $180 per acre, the mean or average of which would be $150 per acre, exclusive of agricultural and timber value."

These are most important facts, absolutely essential to the appraisal of these properties towards industrial enterprises.

These 8320 acres or thereby are an excellent and adequate commercial assemblage for colliery operations capable of producing a daily output of 1000 tons for about 144 years.

Taking the capitalization a t$1,500,000 at 16 2-3 per cent. gives $250,000 per annum, and taking an output of 1000 tons daily or 250,000 annually at a profit of $1.00 per ton would produce $250,000 per annum, or the capital recouped in six years, adding another year for contingencies, making seven years, or say altogether at the utmost a period of eight years.

"Taking the estimated tonnage of 36,000,000 during the life of the mine at $1.00 per ton would give a clear profit of $36,000,000, or $22.50 for every dollar invested."

The assembled area of about 8320 acres reported upon are held under licenses from the Provincial Government, which includes the coal rights and surface, with unpurchased or unleased timber thereon.

The coal in the property of the British Coal Company, Limited, is commonly known as anthracite, which is the character of the coal mined in Pennsylvania and in a number of the Old Country mines. It is the hardest quality of coal mined in the world, does not disintegrate on being exposed to the air, and will not soil the hands. There is a noticeable absence of dust, so distasteful in the household and the streets, and the minimum quantity of ash, gas, soot, or clinker in burning.

The very fact that this coal is so desirable for domestic and manufacturing purposes will place a premium on the output of the mines of this Company, since the anthracite coal belt in British Columbia is very limited.

This means a very wide horizon to the anthracite coal market, and wherever obtainable will naturally be given a preference by the consumer.

The expense of marketing is no greater than that of the inferior grades, since a ton of coal is a ton, no matter of what quality.

The fact that the British Pacific Coal Company, Limited, may ship its output by water, places the Company in the enviable position, not enjoyed by many other coal companies in the United States or Canada. That is, there can be no shortage of cars, no excessive freight rates. The Company can load direct from its bunkers, either into its own boats or those of competing shipping companies.

PROPERTY CARRIES VALUABLE TIMBER.

There is sufficient timber on the surface of the Company's property to build, if required at any time, boats or barges to handle the coal output of the mine; also to supply all the timber required in conjunction with the working of the mine, the construction of all the mine buildings and surface structures, also wharves and piers.

A limited block of shares in the British Pacific Coal Company, which are held by the Trustee, T. R. Morrow, are now offered for subscription, the proceeds of which are to be used in further developing and equipping the property.

The opening price is 25c per share. No applications shall be received for less than 100 shares. All cheques and applications must be directed to T. R. Morrow, Trustee. The terms of sale of shares are: 10 cents per share cash with application, balance in three equal monthly payments.

On the completion of the sale of the 25-cent issue the price will be advanced to 35c, 40c or 50c per share at which new price but a limited block will be offered to the public.

These shares should be worth and sell for $1.00 inside of one year. The shares have a par value of $1.00 each and are fully paid up and non-assessable.

Eminent engineers say that coal may be shipped from the property in profitable quantities within six months' work.

This proposition will bear the closest investigation. Every element of chance has been eliminated.

Those who desire to acquire shares in the British Pacific Coal Company, Limited, during the present 25c issues should make their applications early, since, judging from the number of inquiries, the 25-cent issue will only be on the market a few days.

The Victoria offices of the Trustee, J. E. Morrow, and the Company are situated at 617 Trounce Ave. - Victoria, B.C.

Cat and Dog Plague

It would appear that an epidemic of a little known disease is sweeping through London, dealing death to hundreds of cats and dogs. The ailment, which is comparatively new to England, having made its first appearance in Bristol a few years ago, is known to veterinary surgeons as Stuttgart, or contagious gastro-enteritis. At present the epidemic is most marked in the southern suburbs, but several valuable cats whose homes are in the West End have in the last few days died from this mysterious malady.

Sir Hiram Maxim's Future

Sir Hiram Maxim recently announced his resignation as a director of the firm of Vickers, Sons & Maxim, which took effect on February 5 last, his 71st birthday. Interviewed Sir Hiram said: "They say we ought all to retire when we are over 70, but we're not going to. Some of us are going on working. With me it is a case of returning to my first love—flying machines. I am only retiring from Vickers, Sons & Maxim to have more freedom to devote to this. My retirement is not a complete retirement either, for I am still the firm's consulting engineer, and have a large interest in the business."

Southampton's Huge Dock Scheme

The Bill promoted by the Southampton Harbour Board for the deepening of Southampton water has been passed by the Committee of the House of Commons. Mr. Balfour Browne intimated that the board had decided to proceed with the Bill despite the elimination of the clauses proposing additional charges. He explained that the project for deepening Southampton Water was not absolutely imminent, but said that when larger liners were constructed it would be necessary to secure a depth of 38 feet. The board proposed to do so far as possible out of their own revenue, and when that was exhausted they would desire powers to borrow £200,000.

Death of An R. A.

The death of Mr. Ernest Crofts, R. A., keeper of the Royal Academy, occurred on March 19 last from heart failure. Trained for his art in London and at Dusseldorf by a pupil of Horace Vernet, Mr. Crofts, who was born at Leeds in 1847, made his first appearance at the Royal Academy in 1874 with a painting entitled "A Retreat," an episode of the Franco-German war. From that time he devoted his main energy to the art of battle painting, and principally to the Napoleonic and the English wars. He was elected to the Associateship in 1878, and became a full Royal Academican in 1896, his diploma picture being "To the Rescue," an episode of the Civil Wars. An admirable draughtsman, with a sound knowledge of human and equine anatomy, and always reliable as regards his archaeological facts, Mr. Crofts was a vivid illustrator rather than a "painter" in the true sense of the word.

The "Kynge's Beastes"

The restoration of Henry VIII's stone bridge at Hampton Court has received its final touch by the erection, on the pinnacles that rise from the parapets, of ten "Kynge's Beastes," bearing shields, with the arms, badges and devices of King Henry VIII. and his Queen, Jane Seymour. That regal splendour is thus restored to the western front of the Tudor building, and especially the great Gatehouse, which it possessed for 150 years, but has been absent during the last two centuries. Thus the bridge, begun by Henry VIII., for his "owne darling," Anne Boleyn, finished by him for her successor, Jane Seymour, covered up by command of William and Mary, discovered in the reign of Queen Victoria, and excavated and repaired by direction of King Edward VII., now receives, by order of King George V., its final restoration to its original appearance of 375 years ago.

BIG ADDITION TO VICTORIA'S SEWER SYSTEM

At an early date the ratepayers will be called upon to vote on by-law authorizing the raising of the sum of $290,000 for surface ains. The city council at its first meeting since the elections st night adopted in principle the report of the city engineer recomending that the above amounts be expended. The engineer reorted that he has had levels taken and estimates prepared for the rnishing of sewerage facilities for the unsewered sections of the y.

He divides the city into sections. The sewerage from the rtheast section lying north of Edmonton road and east of Cook ad and east of Cook street naturally drains eastward to Oak Bay, here for obvious reasons it cannot be discharged near the shore, t must be carried to a point near Todd Island where the tidal rrents are strong enough to ensure a thorough dilution of the wage. It is proposed to carry the sewage in three submerged el pipes encased in concrete to the point of discharge, appproxiately 2,200 feet from the shore of Oak Bay. This system has en designed for a population of 30,000 in the city and 24,000 in k Bay.

The northwest section is bounded on the north and west by city limits, on the south by the Gorge road and on the east by a e between Stevenson place and Cook street and comprises an a of 280 acres. The sewerage system for this section is designed a population of 10,000 persons. The levels show that the land ins naturally into a deep ravine, discharging into Victoria har- at a point on the Gorge road east of Washington avenue. This stem will also be a gravity one and will be discharged from septanks at the mouth of the ravine.

t is proposed to drain the Victoria West (Burleith sub-division) m septic tanks into the Victoria Arm at the foot of the Crescent. e engineer estimates the cost of this work at $190,000 for the rtheast section; $40,000 for the northwest section; $10,000 for the rleith section, and $50,000 for filling in sewered streets.

Alderman Moresby pointed out that it will be necessary to erview the Oak Bay council and ascertain what portion of the t of the system of the northeast section the municipality will for that portion between Foul Bay road and the sea. He obted strongly to permitting sewage to discharge into Victoria m. Anything that would tend to pollute the waters of the har- would hurt one of the city's finest assets. Despite what some ople state Alderman Moresby believed that even sewage treated septic tanks should not be allowed to discharge in the harbor.

Mayor Morley explained that three years ago when the city deed to permit owners along the arm to use septic tanks it was the understanding that such tanks should be done away with en a proper sewer system was installed.

Alderman Langley, and in fact all the members of the board pressed themselves strongely against permitting any discharge sewage into the harbor.

The engineer's suggestions were referred to Aldermen Moresand Gleason for further information and report.

BUSINESS DEAL OF IMPORTANCE

An important transaction in local business circles, one which will result in the taking over by the J. N. Harvey Company, Limited, of Vancouver, of the business of the B. Williams Company, clothiers, hatters, etc., Yates Street, will take effect on May 1. The deal was finally arranged last Saturday afternoon when Mr. J. N. Harvey, president and general manager of the purchasing company, arrived in the city on the afternoon boat, accompanied by Mr. Alfred Shaw, auditor of the J. N. Harvey Company, Limited. Mr. W. T. Williams, proprietor of the local concern, will become a member of the J. N. Harvey Company and form one of the Board of Directors, becoming local manager.

To many Victorians the B. Williams Company has been a household word for many years. Founded in 1881 by Mr. Benjamin Williams, it has occupied an important position in the local business world. In 1885, when the founder of the firm died, Mr. W. T. Williams, his son, took charge, leaving school for that purpose, and he has been proprietor ever since. The recent rumor that Mr. Williams was going out of business was contradicted by Mr. Harvey, who said he would become a member of the J. N. Harvey Company.

The Board of Directors of the new concern will be composed of Mr. J. N. Harvey, president and general manager; Mr. J. A. Harvey, K. C., of Vancouver; Mr. George H. Waterbury, of Waterbury & Rising, St. John, N. B.; and Mr. W. T. Williams.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS

Among latest real estate deals are: The northeast corner of Blanchard and Broughton Streets, $20,000; a 60-foot frontage on Pandora Avenue, near the Metropolitan Methodist Church, $20,000 and a 30-foot frontage on the north side of Government Street, east of Discovery Street, $10,000.

VANCOUVER CUSTOMS REVENUE

The Vancouver Customs revenue showns an increase of over 50 per cent. over the last fiscal year. The Customs collections for 1910-11 totalled $6,230,000 as against $3,832,338 for 1909-10. So great has been the rush of business that the departmental staff has been greatly increased in order to have the demands met immediately. Land Registry returns show the same satisfactory progress, the total for the fiscal year being $233,820, an increase of 15 per cent. over last year. The building total for the month of March was over $2,000,000, another record. Thus Vancouver takes the leading place on the continent, when the size and population of the city is taken into account. Even on a straight comparison the record places Vancouver among the leaders in the building line.

ANOTHER SIGN OF THE TIMES

In order to accommodate the tourist and general traffic of Kootenay Lake and the west arm, which has been increasing so rapidly during recent years and which is expected to become of still greater volume with the opening of the new tourist hotel at Balfour about the middle of May, the C. P. R. have decided to build a new steel boat for operation between Nelson and Kootenay Landing.

The new boat will in many ways be an improvement upon the latest of the levithians of inland waters, the steamer Bonnington, which is now being completed at the Nakusp Shipyards for use on the Arrow Lakes. Plans of the new craft for Kootenay Lake service were forwarded to Winnipeg recently by Captain J. C. Gore, superintendent of the British Columbia Inland Lake and River Service, for consideration by the executive officials of the company. Until they have been passed, no definite statement can be made as to the exact construction of the boat. She will, however, be built at the local shipyards.

Size of New Craft.

In size she will be 200 feet long and with a beam of 39 feet. The present largest boat on Kootenay Lake is the Kushanook, which has a length of 183 feet. The new boat will be fitted with tandem compound condensing engines, which are expected to effect a great economy in fuel, and she will have berth accommodations for 160, with an accommodation for upward of 1,000 persons on her three passenger decks.

Special Observations Cabins.

A feature of the new craft will be the special observation cabins at the fore and aft. The latter will be specially reserved for ladies, and both will be so constructed that an uninterrupted view of the glorious passing scenery may be obtained.

The boat will have a speed of from 18 to 20 miles per hour, and will be, altogether, the most modern stern-wheeler of the build on this continent.

SPOKANE RED HOT WITH ENTHUSIASM FOR B. C.

"Spokane capitalists are just red hot with enthusiasm for British Columbia mines and I expect to see a large influx of capital from the Northwest States into the Slocan and Sheep Creek districts, especially during the coming spring and summer," said Mr. A. J. Becker, manager of the Lucky Jim mine, who recently returned to Nelson from the Inland Empire capital, where he went for the purpose of concluding the deal for the Molly Hughes mine, which has been purchased for a substantial cash consideration by Spokane capitalists.

"It was Spokane capital," continued Mr. Becker, "which first developed and drew attention to the Slocan country, and after the slow times of recent years it will be Spokane capital that will again attract the eyes of the world to the great silver-lead and zinc regions of the district. In the early days a few capitalists from the Inland Empire metropolis were the first to realize the enormous wealth that lies beneath the surface of the mountains of the Slocan, and then it was only a matter of a short time before capital from the East, the extreme West and the Old Country began to flow in. And I foresee a similar movement within three or four months now."

Big Development Planned.

Mr. Becker stated that the Molly Hughes was finally closed, that a company was being organized and that a force of from 25 to 30 men would be at work on the property within the next three weeks. A compressor plant and hoist for sinking a 1,000-foot shaft will be erected immediately, and rapid development of the well-known Slocan lake dry silver property commenced.

The new shaft will be sunk from the present lowest tunnel, which is right on the water's edge and from which the ore has been shipped directly aboard the barges for transportation to the Trail smelter. This shaft will give a depth of 1,000 feet below the level of the lake. Mr. Becker will be manager of the new company, and will supervise all operations.

With regard to the Lucky Jim, Mr. Becker stated that the prospects for a record output this summer were excellent. The mine was, he said, in good shape for commencing shipments directly the C. P. R. had built the projected line in from Three Forks and plans were all completed for the erection of the new mill.

Confident of K. & S. Operation.

Asked concerning the K. & S., Mr. Becker said: "While I am not in a position to make any detailed statement I may say that I am perfectly confident that the Kaslo syndicate, which has an option on the system, will carry their plans to success, and that it will again be in operation."

ENORMOUS TONNAGE OF LEAD SMELTED.

That the sum distributed by the Dominion Government in lead bounties during the fiscal year ending on March 31 will be in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million dollars, was a statement recently made by Mr. G. O. Buchanan, lead bounty supervisor. Mr. Buchanan is hard at work, assisted by a staff of three stenographers, making out the returns for the year, and does not expect to have the work completed until the end of this week. The amount of lead produced in the Kootenay district upon which the bounty is paid, will total approximately 17,000 tons.

Last Month's Returns

Mr. Buchanan has received by express from the Trail smelter the returns upon the lead smelted during March. The net weight of the ore was about 6,000 tons, while the lead contents were a trifle over 1,500 tons. The figures in detail, giving the mines shipping, and the ore smelted and the lead contents in pounds, is as follows:

BIG ENTERPRISE—FRUIT & NURSERY CO. INCREASES ITS CAPTIAL TO $200,000

The largest and most important real estate transaction ever consummated in the Boundary Country was closed last week. The growth of the Grand Forks Fruit & Nursery company has reached the stage where it has been deemed advisable to increase the capital stock from $25,000 to $200,000, the object being to increase its holdings and extend its business.

The decision of the directors to take this step was ratified at a recent meeting of the members of the company, and for some weeks past negotiations for the acquisition of new properties have been pending. On Friday last the papers were signed transferring J. D. Honsberger's ranch and Mr. Honsberger's option on Martin Burrell's ranch to the company. These two ranches are the most highly developed fruit producers in the valley. Mr. Honsberger's orchard, which is the largest shipper in the valley, includes seven acres of prune trees from which a handsome revenue has been derived during the past seven or eight years. Mrs. Burrell's orchard has long been pointed out as a model of perfection, owing to the fact that Mr. Burrell is one of the leading authorities on horticultural matters in the Dominion. While the consideration for the transfer of these properties has not been made public, it is known that the Honsberger ranch has been valued at $70,000 for some time, and the Burrell orchard and land has been held at $20,000. It is therefore conjectured that the sale price was somewhere in the neighborhood of these figures. Mr. Honsberger will retain his interest in the new orchard and nursery company.

The total acreage of the new company is 485, of which over 200 acres have already been transformed into bearing orchards, consisting of 15,000 trees. Within a year 125 acres more will be planted to trees, thus making the Grand Forks Fruit & Nursery company one of the largest, if not the largest, fruit growing enterprises in British Columbia, the possible exception as to size being the well known Coldstream ranch in the Okanagan country.

The directorate of the new company is exceptionally strong, being composed of Messrs. J. D. Honsberger, G. M. Hill, Jos. Tweddle, H. W. Collins and A. B. Tweddle. Mr. Honsberger, who becomes general manager of the company, has successfully conducted a 160-acre fruit ranch on the Covert estate for the past eight years, and is regarded as one of the most capable and enterprising horticulturists in the valley. A. B. Tweddle has been managing director of the Grand Forks Fruit & Nursery company for the past three years, and Mr. Collins is an experienced fruit grower, having been the owner of an orchard on the Covert estate for a number of years. Messrs. Hill and Jos. Tweddle are prominent fruit and nurserymen from Ontario.

The enlargment of the scope of this company, taken in conjunction with the definite plans which have been formulated for irrigating the major portion of the land in this neighborhood, should give a decided impetus to the fruit growing industry in the valley, and a substantial increase in land values may be looked for in the near future.

WASSERMANN BROS. ON C. P. R. LANDS

Wassermann Bros., the C. P. R. bulls, are sending out a circular on the property. They estimate the land account as follows:

1. Present undivided surplus $43,000,000
2. Proceeds of sales in three Provinces..... 98,000,000
3. Proceeds of land in British Columbia, about.... 22,000,000

Total $163,000,000

"On these figures we do not think that it is over optimistic to anticipate the potential values of the lands held by the Canadian Pacific Company are equal to $180,000, or an equity of $100 per share."

A BROKER ON THE CIRCULAR ISSUED BY C. P. R.

Commenting upon the C. P. R. circular published in Saturday's Star, Hayden, Stone & Co. say:

"It might be estimated roughly, that the value of the extraneous assets is equal to about $100 per share for every share of C. P. R. outstanding at present. This circular holds out no suggestion of the segregation of these assets other than to place them in a sort of trust under which the income will be annually distributed among the beneficiaries—to wit, the shareholders.

"The Canadian Pacific is a very remarkable property, and on a par with the best in this country, without doubt. At the present moment, it seems to be in the way of a boom in its far northwest territory, surpassing anything of the kind yet seen in that section, and equal in intensity to anything of the kind ever witnessed in this country. Nothing has so amazed the railroad world as the increases in the earnings of the C. P. R. during this current fiscal year, and following a year of supposedly bad northwest Canadian harvests. With a further large acreage planted this year and with a better out-turn of the crops, the gross earnings of this property may be expected to break all records, year after year, for the immediate future at least.

"There will naturally be some valuable rights on Canadian Pacific shares in the not distant future."

he person who voluntarily came to ive evidence on my behalf, feeling he responsibility towards me and the ause of justice.

Hence, Sir, I claim the Police Ma- istrate has no grounds whatever for ssuming that I need to be cautioned gainst speeding, because I do not onsider that there is any owner or river of a motor in this city who is ore considerate of the public safety an I have shown myself to be in the st.

But just a word in reference to the olice Court "mill." It is a pretty rd combination. As soon as in- rmation is laid by a policeman— d I have shown above how slim d unreliable that information is— ere seems to be a combination of l the officials to convict the accused, spite of everything. Everyone ems to assume that he is guilty, and o stone is left unturned to prove m so. The young man who acts public prosecutor, both in his man- r and procedure, would suggest a ndictiveness which should not pre- il. The defendant is treated as a ilty person, and very little reliance placed upon his evidence—the hole idea of the Court seeming to , not that he is telling the truth, giving a plain statement of fact, t that he is evading a conviction of hich he is presumed to be deserv- g; his sworn testimony to say the ast of it is treated very lightly, and less he can get independent testi- ony, which in nine cases out of ten absolutely impossible, the evidence the police is taken for gospel, and s is discounted.

On behalf of justice for all who me after me in such cases in the olice Court, I feel that it is my ty to draw the attention of the thorities through the press to the xisting state of things, which is oth unfair and unjust.

I think any reasonable man will realize that no business man who knows himself guilty of such an offence, is going to incur the great loss of time—which in these days means money—in defending a case of this kind, as it would be much cheaper and a very much easier way out of the difficulty, to pay the fine and have done with it. But a man cannot plead guilty to something of which he knows he is innocent—even for the sake of saving money.

Yours truly,

HERBERT CUTHBERT.

of wealth and splendor, in which she is transported to the gay places of the earth, accompanied by her friends. In many of the scenes almost the entire strength of the concerted organization is employed, resulting in a series of brilliant stage pictures that tax the capacities of the most generous stages. But in Victoria everything as given in New York will have full scope, and playgoers are assured a genuine treat.

Mischa Elman

What may be called a genius in any art or pursuit is a rare occurrence in world's history. There may be great artists who approach perfection in technique and interpretation and whose performance is magnificent in finish and grandeur and personal charm.

Kreisler and Ysaye and the rest of the big violinists are perfect artists, but Elman, boy though he is, is more than the more perfect artist; he is a genius.

Topical Trifles

XXII

(By Onlooker)

Everybody writes about women and women's skirts, both hobble and harem. It is noticeable in every paper and magazine one may happen to glance through, and the outcry seems to be particularly vehement against the harem skirt. It is claimed that the harem skirt is hideous and inartistic, but this may be because we are not yet accustomed to it. A voluminous skirt flapping in the wind and severely hampering a woman's gait is anything but artistic, and a skirt made somewhat after the fashion of the garment hitherto monopolized by selfish man is, after all, based on comfort and common sense. Men are loth to find both their clothes and habits completely emulated by the fair sex, and doubtless they fear that even that one very special perogative, namely, putting the hands in the trouser pockets, will soon no longer be left to them.

The Victoria Cricket Club has enrolled a number of lady members. What will Victoria hubbys do if their little wify-pifys go to a "bat" every week? We suppose they will have to look after the "bawls" at home.

The Hunt Club held a very successful gymkahna last week. Society was out in full force, and the ladies agreed that the jumps were really just too twee, and everybody had a perfectly "diffy" afternoon.

If the art of criticism can be cultivated Victoria ought to be unusually proficient. It seems to some people, however, that we shall not be in possession of all the facts until after the official investigation into the loss of the Iroquois has taken place. Half-drowned people in the terrior of what must have been an awful experience, can scarcely tell all there is to know. Whatever the circumstances, the sympathy of all is with both the survivors who, after an experience full of horror, mourn the loss of friends and relatives, and with all those who have suffered bereavement through the untimely fate of the Iroquois.

In Maine

Speaking of the determination of the people of Maine to repeal their Prohibition law at the earliest opportunity, the "Lawrence, (Mass.), Tribune" remarks: "No law enacted in any state in the Union has ever proven such a farce as has the prohibition in the State of Maine. The constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacture or sale of alcoholic stimulants was a sop thrown to the real temperance people of the state when they had grown weary of the loose and hypocritical manner in which the statute law was enforced. It did not dawn upon the people who wanted the law honestly enforced or repealed, that as a constitutional law it was feeble and inoperative, as there could be no penalty attached to its violation. In the city of Bangor, with less than 25,000 population, over one hundred saloons were running wide open year after year. High sheriffs of the various counties were always notified to "ease up" prior to elections, thus making the law a shuttle-cock between the rumsellers and the Republican party."

Sudden Demise

On Tuesday last the death occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital of Reginald Jaegers, who was well known in Victoria and Vancouver. Mr. Jaegers first came to Victoria from Liverpool six years ago, and was occupied in business in this city for about two years, after which he went to New York, whence he is believed to have travelled to Australia, returning to this Province by way of Mexico. For the past year Mr. Jaegers has been extensively interested in timber lands, having cruised many districts in the Interior. On Friday he entered the St. Joseph's Hospital suffering from the effects of a fall whilst rinking, and immediately developed acute erysipelas, from which he succumbed five days afterwards. With the exception of Mr. Thornton Fell of this city, who was distantly connected by marriage, deceased had no relatives in the Province. He was a man of reserved manners and habits, strictly honourable and reliable in business matters, and greatly respected by all who knew him. He leaves a mother, sister and two brothers to mourn his loss in Liverpool. The funeral took place on Wednesday from the B. C. Undertaking Parlours.

One se is the much lower bust. ores are now set in from the the corset to the waist line, g the upper part of the figure e much lower in the corset than formerly, the hips at the same time being kept as slender as possible. This lowered bust, together with a slender hip measurement, is not compatible with a small waist. Flesh must go somewhere. It cannot be squeezed out of the way altogether, and consequently the waist is much larger in the new models. No sensible woman nowadays chooses her corset in the old hit-or-miss fashion of going to the corset department and taking whatever the saleswoman recommends or what some friend has worn with sucecssful results. The best of the new models have very few bones, and these are set in exactly the right locations in foundations of coutil or brocaded stuffs, that are supple yet firm. Silk tricot corsets, as soft as the fabric used for silk gloves, are shown among novelties, and these dainty affairs are trimmed with Chantilly lace. There are all sorts of reducing devices, chief among which is the silk-ribbed elastic addition which fits over the end of the corset and comes far down o nthe thighs, giving a beautiful line over the hips and preventing the heavy look below the corset with which some women are afflicted. When rightly adjusted the corset should be firm and tight around the hips and abdomen, but the figure above the waist should be able to sway and bend with utmost flexibility. To produce this very desirable effect the corset is first put on very loosely with the laces pulled far out. These laces, by the way, are in three sections; one extending four or five eyelets down from the top; another the same distance from the bottom, and the third and most important lacing in the space between the waist line.

The girl who wants blouses that will wash and not need repairing every time she puts them on will find the cotton marquisette just the fabric for which she is looking. She can make it into a peasant waist if she likes the ease and simplicity of this pattern—and provided she knows how to cut these square sleeves so that she can lift her arm—or she can adopt the conventional pattern with its armhole and shoulder seam. A few tucks at the shoulder in the front give fulness over the bust, or the flat quarter-inch plaits from shoulder to waist give flatness. She chooses whichever style suits her figure best. The fastening is down the front—for which the designers be praised—and the buttons are of silk, cloth, or enameled studs. There is a movement on the part of some women to use the flat pique stud such as men wear in their shirts. The edges of the front, whether it is arranged in a box plait or not, are hemstitched, then finished with the plaited frill, which has come back into favor. This frill is made of net, in that coarse variety which we call Russian, or it is of the marquisette itself, finished with a half-inch hemstitched hem. There is no doubt that the fashion for hemstitching which was so strongly brought out in all the gowns of last Winter will be continued this Spring, especially in thin white blouses. One model of cotton voile that shows a good deal of it has a hemstitched boxplait down the middle of the back and front, there is a wide sailor collar, square in front, that is also hemstitched, and the sleeves are finished in the same way. At the same time that hemstitching came into fashion last Autumn also came the colored sailor collars. These were of chiffon cloth, but in various shapes and attached to blouses and one-piece gowns. They will make their appearance at once on white blouses for everyday wear, and the idea is a most attractive one.

The Canadian Magazine

There is a seasonable flavour in the first article of the April Canadian Magazine. It is "Easter at Jerusalem," by A. R. Carman. Mr. Carman gives a most readable account of what one sees at the great centre of Easter festivities, and the illustrations are excellent. Other articles of special interest are "The Philosophy of Tipping," by Phil Ives, with pen and ink drawings by C. W. Jefferys; "The Art of John Russell," by Newton MacTavish, with reproductions of some of the artist's paintings; "The Ethics of Titles," by George Clarke Holland; "Rosebery and the Lone Furrow," by H. Linton Eccles; "Old Military Buttons," by R. W. Geary, President of the Lundy's Lane Historical Society; "A Newspaper at Quebec," by W. S. THE WORLD'S PEACE

"I do not see why questions of honour should not be submitted to tribunals composed of men of honour who understand questions of national honour, to abide by their decision, as well as in other questions of difference arising between nations."—President Taft.

The movement in the direction of International arbitration and peace advances, both in its elemental and ethical aspects, by leaps and bounds, while in its political features the past few weeks have afforded ample demonstration that the fruit of this movement is at last beginning to ripen. Many factors have been at work in the education of International thought during the last half century. The great peace movement which was raised to a dignity of fine idealism by the addreses of John Bright in the House of Commons, and advocated with justifiable reserve by Gladstone, went forward in spite of almost disastrous defeats in Africa and the Far East. The greatest sinners have been the countries that have spoken loudest in favour of the arbitrament of reason, including the United States, the striking utterance of whose President is responsible for the great impetus which the cause has recently received. Then came King Edward with an olive branch for his sceptre, a statesman-King who kept the Throne free from all party taint and made it at the same time a fulcrum for turning the thoughts of the nations toward the conquests that may be won by the weapons of respect, conciliation, conference, and mutual intercourse. The Hague Tribunal registered the progress of this spirit in the councils of Europe and America, and the settlement of the long-standing disputes between Great Britain and Canada, on the one hand, and America, on the other, has prepared the way for the deliverances of Sir Edward Grey, Mr. Arthur Balfour, and leaders of civil and Church opinion on both sides of the Atlantic. We are moving on. Armaments increase, controversy upon International difficulties is carried on in a national and parochial spirit, and no nation in Europe has so far shown its hand as to warrant a neutral Power intervening to promote something nobler and far-reaching than an agreement between two English-speaking nations. Nevertheless, the transcendental power of peace as a tributary of national prosperity is being recognised, while the mere weight of armaments compel the Cabinets of the world to doubt whether war even to the victor would be a gain. The Flag of Peace and Goodwill is, for the hour, in the ascendancy, and all patriots will pray that the statements of present-day leaders in America and England will be followed up by an immediate conference for the purpose of giving effect to the proposal made by President Taft, and so eloquently endorsed by the Secretary for Foreign Affairs. For what is the position? Between America and England there is only one form of rivalry, and that is purely commercial. We have no quarrel with the American policy in the Philippines, the Cuban problem has been apparently settled, we have recognised that the Panama waterway will be protected by the States for the navigation of ships belonging to all nations, and we dare to add that if the Reciprocity Agreement is finally endorsed by Canada and America it is impossible to imagine that any difference is likely to arise between Great Britain and America that could not be amicably and honourably adjusted by such a tribunal as is proposed by President Taft. The signs of the times are for peace. Behind the proposal there is evidently for the first time in many years a sentiment that is as enthusiastic in the United States as it is united here. There are those who discount the value of paper agreements when it comes to International affairs. When a nation feels that its honour is infringed, or that some stealthy manoeuvre has been resorted to by one of the contracting Powers, with the object of securing some selfish advantage, then the people forget and denounce the agreement and act as if it had never been conceived. Others point to what seems an inconsistency on the part of America. While desiring to establish a workmanlike organization for the settlement of differences with England, she is swarming the borders of a friendly State with her soldiers. Then, while Great Britain responds in commendable language through the mouth of its Foreign Minister, she, too, is discussing increased Navy Estimates. But these criticisms are superficial. It will be time enough to offer objections to measures of this kind when this peace policy has been translated into the clauses of a protocol. What we have to note is the sincerity of all the projectors of the latest attempt to cement the relationships of two nations possessing so much in common in the bonds of an enduring peace. When a statesman of the analytical cast of mind of Mr. Balfour declares, 'I do not see any particular difficulty in carrying out as between particular nations President Taft's suggestions," we may at least conclude that the moment is opportune for taking another step. As with the British Parliament, so it is likely to be with the Churches. They will speak with the voice of one man upon the wisdom and rightness of the proposal. The Bishop of Southwark connotes the speech of Mr. Balfour. Canon Henson expects, if the agreement is put into formal language, "a great advance in the ethics of International intercourse." Leading Nonconformist ministers, speaking in their own name and in behalf of the Free Church Council, have appealed to their brethren in the United States to see that the tide of peace that has carried already so many publicists will sweep all classes on to a happy consummation of the ideal. It is the opportunity of the two greatest Christian and civilized countries in the world for setting the pace to a higher and nobler policy among nations that are not based upon the same constitutional unity as are England and America. It is contrary to the letter and spirit of the British attitude that the proposal should be amplified with one in favour of a defensive alliance, and it is satisfactory to learn that the principle of International arbitration is to be the basis of this bold and humane and wise master-stroke of constructive statesmanship.

BUSY AT OTTAWA

Mr. G. H. Barnard figures in the Hansard of last week in connection with a matter of importance to his constituents, the construction of a light-house and buoy steamer for the Pacific Coast at a cost of $200,000. The dimensions are—length 200 feet; beam 43 feet; draught 12 feet; speed 12 knots. The steamer is to be constructed of steel. Mr. Barnard asked the Minister if it would not have been more advantageous to have used the Kestrel for this purpose and to have built a proper Fisheries Protection cruiser. He could have built a cruiser for the same amount of money and thus have provided a Fisheries Protection Service. Mr. Barnard went on to urge the necessity for at once providing permanently for better fisheries protection on the Pacific Coast; he pointed out that the fishery poachers were again operating, apparently without very much attempt on the part of the Department to stop them. The Kestrel has been within hailing distance of these poaching schooners but was too slow to catch them, and they were not interfered with. American poachers have built a fast schooner to engage in this trade knowing that she can out-foot the Kestrel or any similar cruiser. Last year a tug-boat was chartered by the Department for fisheries protection at a cost of $21,645.00, but this is an extravagant and ineffective method, and the only way in which poaching can be stopped is by a regular control. Mr. Barnard wound up some very pertinent remarks by charging that the Minister and his Department had so far neglected to stop this poaching that they have brought the Administration into contempt and not only into the contempt of the business people of the Province but into the contempt even of the Indians who are not supposed to know very much about it.

MR. PERCIVAL'S LETTER

No more admirable contribution to the discussion on the loss of the Iroquois has been made than the letter of Mr. Spencer Percival printed in the Colonist of Wednesday. It is doubtful if the practical suggestions he makes for the protection of human life can be improved upon and it is almost certain that they will be endorsed by any tribunal which is called upon to investigate. The Week has pleasure in reproducing them.

1. The inspection of boats should prevent those being used which are not only unseaworthy, but also those which in any degree approach the danger line in regard to being top-heavy. Competent ship building engineers should know what proportion the upper works should have to the length and beam and for safety the estimate should be on the conservative side.

2. When a boat is licensed to carry passengers and freight it should be stipulated where the latter is to be placed and the amount.

If deck cargoes are to be allowed, the certificate should say so, and state the quantity, and the certificate should be placed where the passengers can see it; so that they may know if the owners are exceeding their powers.

3. Prevention of owners and part owners acting as captains of the vessels which carry passengers to eliminate risk of profit taking precedence of safety of those who trust their lives to the captain.

FEDERAL POLITICS

The Victoria Times, as the Colonist has pointed out, has boxed the compass on the subject of the Order in Council amending the Land Laws, but it has achieved the same feat in dealing with the present condition of Federal politics and the leadership of the Conservative party. It is rather amusing to notice the pertinacity with which Liberal papers generally stick to their laudation of Mr. R. L. Borden. A few days ago the Times quoted a very eulogistic article from the Toronto Globe, as if the Toronto Globe would do anything but eulogize Mr. Borden. At present it is the most essential feature of the game to praise the man who is leader of the Opposition, in order if possible to make him stiffen his back and stand pat. Equally assiduous are the efforts of the Liberal press to convince the public that Mr. Sifton may become a Conservative leader. Three times a day the Liberal quidnuncs are handing him over to the Conservatives. They are not only willing to make a present of him, but even to offer a bonus with him. By and by they will learn that the Conservative party does not want, and would not accept Mr. Sifton at any price. He would be far better placed as Chief Commissioner in London, or even as Special Ambassador to the Orient.

AN EXCELLENT APPOINTMENT

The Appointment of Mr. W. W. Foster of Revelstoke to the important office of Deputy Minister of Works is easily one of the most excellent selections which the Government has yet made. When Mr. Foster was selected for the position of President of the Provincial Conservative Association, The Week took occasion to say some nice things about him which were not at all too flattering. Mr. Foster is one of the brightest, most honourable and most competent young men of the Province. There are too few men of his type in the Public Service. He will distinctly raise the tone of the Service, and is bound to make his mark in a position which calls for exceptional ability and industry. But it must not be supposed that Mr. Foster's talents will be buried in a Deputy Commissionership for long. He is destined for high office, and those who know him confidently predict that while he will be of invaluable service to Mr. Taylor, his respected Chief and to the Government, it will be found that his talents qualify him for a position of greater distinction and usefulness.
