rought Victoria.

The perennial question in Victoria is that of water supply, and when as early in the season as his it becomes necessary to adopt drastic easures in order that citizens may have fficient water even for necessary domes- c purposes it is obvious that matters must ave gone pretty near to the limit. At e present moment only one thing can be one to prevent a condition of affairs aris- g which might be attended by the most rious consequences. It is impossible by y means to increase the supply of water is year, the only thing therefore is to sband the resources. To do this in- lves a certain amount of self denial, a rtue which every right-minded man is illing to exercise when the common good affected. Those members of the com- unity who can most reasonably be asked exercise this virtue at the present time, e the persons whose wealth enables them consume from 50,000 to 200,000 gallons water a month, whilst the average tizen who does not possess a metre is lotted 6,000 gallons. It is quite ob- ous that the latter cannot possibly econ- nize to any considerable extent, it is ually clear that if the former realizes s duty as a good citizen he will be will- g even though he does possess a metre d the rescriptive right to use water ad bitum, to curtail his own consumption in der that people less plentifully endowed th this world's goods may at least have fficient water for necessary purposes. e city authorities state that at the pre- nt time this excessive consumption by ople who have metres aggregates 500,- 0 gallons a day, which is one-fifth of e total average consumption of water all e year round. If so at least four-fifths this should be available for general dis- bution, and to give publicity to these cts should ensure its being placed at the sposal of the citizens.

e First stake.

The Week has hitherto been a strenuous supporter of "The Victoria Canadian Club," and has d the pleasure of complimenting the mmittee on the programme provided for entertainment and instruction of the mbers. This circumstance in addition a public duty justifies The Week in claring that on Thursday last the Com- ttee made their first serious mistake, d in order to prevent a repetition of mething amounting almost to a fiasco it just as well that the truth should be d. Mr. Archibald, the Dominion parole cer is no doubt an excellent man, em- ed with philanthropic ideas, and admir- y discharging the duties of a difficult d somewhat delicate position, but that es not constitute him a suitable person address the Canadian Club. The Com- ttee has hitherto secured men of note to iver its addresses and only such men be expected to attract a crowd of busy n in the middle of the day. The pre- us addresses have been listened to by wards of 200 persons, the number who nt to hear Mr. Archibald on Thursday, counting press representatives who nt as a matter of duty, was under fifty, ircumstance which furnished a sufficient nment upon the nature of the engage- nt. Criminology is not a subject of pub- interest, it is rather a hobby, or at any rate a study to be pursued under different conditions to those which prevail at a mid-day luncheon. In a tedious address most of which was read, Mr. Archibald threw no light on the subject. His address was mainly an appeal for sympathy for juvenile criminals and first offenders; add to this the statement that the Dominion Government is endeavoring to prevent these two classes of offenders from drifting into the habitual criminal class, and you have in a dozen words all that Mr. Archibald said in forty minutes. Since he did his best it would not be kind to criticise his obvious defects as a public speaker, but The Week is only stating openly what was quietly expressed by a number of those present, that while the speaker could not be blamed for finding himself a round peg in a square hole, the Committee would do well to see that more discrimination is exercised in issuing future invitations unless the attendance is to dwindle to a mere handful.

By THE LOUNGER

"Dulce et decorum est pro patria mori."

Horace Odes. III, 2: 13.

It must indeed be a sweet and becoming act to die for one's country, though I have never yet experienced this pleasure, although I have often wondered since being in this country, whether the famous Roman poet, whose own courage was found wanting on one occasion, would ever have penned the above words if the Romans had been in the habit of wearing hats. It is far easier to be patriotic in the full blaze of public enthusiasm; when volunteering for service confers a halo of glory; when loyalty is beating high in every breast, and when the aspirant to military prowess knows that if he returns, he will be received to the strains of "See the conquering hero comes." But when it is merely a question of showing loyalty in little ways, the question is different. Naaman, we are told, was angry because he was not asked to show his faith in Elisha's healing powers by some great act, which would doubtless have enhanced his own glory. In the same way Canadians are willing, and all praise to them for it, to prove their devotion to their King by fighting his battles, bearing hardships innumerable, and sacrificing their lives in his service, but apparently will not pay him the compliment of raising their hats to his representative, or to his guest, for whom he has particularly bespoken all honour. When the Roman Imperator returned in triumph, his course up the Via Sacra was marked with acclamations, decorations and festive attire. If the Romans had worn hats, would they have raised them? "Ay there's the rub." I think they would.

On Sunday, Lt.-Governor Dunsmuir, acting officially as King Edward's representative, was allowed to drive through a dense throng from the landing stage, in company with the Royal visitor in whose honour the city had been decorated, with scarcely a head being bared in respect to himself or to the Prince. There is an excellent letter bearing on this point in last Sunday's Colonist, signed by Mr. Ralph Leslie, in which the writer goes straight to the point without mincing matters, as to the apathy shown when the National Anthem is played. There are many who think it unnecessary that such little acts of courtesy should be shown, when it is well-known that at heart Canadians are as loyal as any members of the Empire. It is, however, merely a question of manners, and "good form."

There appears to have been much discussion over the examinations lately held for dental certificates, and there have not been lacking many opinions that the tests were too severe, and the Board of Examiners too anxious to create a sort of monopoly for themselves in this profession. Of this I know nothing, but I have mentioned it with a view to bringing another matter before my readers. There can be no doubt that nothing is more conducive to public safety than that those who wish to practise any profession should first prove themselves to be competent. As far as dentristy goes I remember the case of an old lady friend of mine who lost her life through the incompetence of her dentist. She had bought a set of false teeth, apparently excellent in manufacture, but, alas, the spring was weak. One day, having finished lunch, and desiring a little rest from the strain in her mouth, she removed the teeth and placed them in her pocket. A little later she thoughtlessly sat down, with the result that she was severely bitten, and in a short period died of hydrophobia. Such a case is indeed a warning as to permitting inept practitioners to make victims of an unsuspecting public.

But if this applies to the professions, how much more ought it to apply in cases where incompetence is a menace to the ordinary man in the street? And in this respect there is an anomaly in the law at present. It is necessary that every person having control of a self-propelled boat in the harbour or up the Arm should have a certificate as to his capability of managing the same. An excellent rule this, and one to which no one can make objection. This law is also mirabile dictu, actually enforced; there was a case lately where a heavy fine was inflicted for a breach of the regulation, and the delinquent, who had acted through ignorance of the law, eventually passed the necessary examinations without difficulty.

Under these circumstances is it not a little strange that no such protection is afforded to pedestrians from automobiles. Any fool, if he knows the steering gear from the break, is at liberty to take his car out onto the public street and experiment with it, to the imminent danger of life and limb. If it were only his own life and limbs which would be thus imperilled no one would cavil, but it is those of unoffending passers-by, or trusting passengers. It is not to say anything against the automobile industry that these remarks are made. On the contrary I feel confident that every member of the Motor Club in Victoria will agree with me, that it is to the best interest of the Club that there should be some weeding out done. One bad driver will place a larger stumbling-block in the way of motor advancement than many good drivers can take away. No man should be allowed to drive an automobile unless he has previously satisfied a Board of Commissioners that he is a capable chauffeur. Then such accidents as occurred not long ago, apparently through the ignorance of the driver as to the effect of greasy surfaces on rubber tires, would not be common.

I came across an article in a magazine the other day dealing with the probable health conditions of fifty years hence. The writer had assumed that hygiene, sanitation and antiseptic treatment would have become so common that there would be no chance of infectious diseases causing wholesale deaths in congested districts. Can the world imagine a greater calamity? Consider the mothers-in-law who would never die; the rich uncles who persisted in living; the enemies who would always be in the pathway. Life would become a night-mare and the Peace Conference would be non-existent, for wars would be absolutely necessary in order to keep population down. I can't see why there is all this fuss about keeping people alive. We all have to die, and the earlier the better; there will be less to pay for. And what is a matter of a few years, waiting for those who wish to meet again, in the contemplation of aeons? The philosopher is the only happy man, if he be also a soldier he will be doubly happy as said at the beginning of this article. But though he aspires to the former title, it is not in the ranks of the latter that you will find

She Was No Goat.

Dr. B——, a New York physician, was in his office one day, and while engaged in examining a patient an Irish woman carrying a child of four years was shown into the waiting room adjoining. The child began to cry in an unearthly manner and disturbed the doctor to such an extent that he opened the door, and addressing the woman said: "Madam, will you kindly take that kid out on the front steps for a few moments? I cannot hear for his noise." The woman arose with the air of an insulted empress, and in a most impressive manner replied, "Sir, I would have you know this is no kid, for I am its mother and I am no goat." Then she passed out of the front door with the steps of a tragedy queen.—W. D. B.

The Treatment of Sleeping Sickness.

The Journal de Bruxelles announces that Dr. Hollebeke, who leaves for the Congo on May 30 to practise upon native victims of sleeping sickness the experiments he has made on animals in Belgium, has communicated to the Academy of Medicine an account of a method for the treatment of sleeping sickness by atoxyl, the new remedy recommended by Dr. Thomas, of the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine. Since April, 1906, Dr. Hollebeke has treated seven Europeans suffering from sleeping sickness, with complete success.

Notes on Provincial News

Good News for the Boundary.

The latest news in connection with ning in the Boundary is that the ominion Copper Co. has provided fficient capital to double its outt. The course of this Company s of late years been one of conuous success, the result partly of high price of copper and partly the excellent management of Mr. M. Johnson, the Company's eneer. After paying off $200,000 in nds, paying for a new furnace at Smelter and meeting many other vy expenditures for development, Company still has $400,000 in the easury, and with the Smelter capay doubled, there should be a splenfuture before the Company. The undary is forging ahead at a great e.

Toronto Bitter Again.

Under the above caption the Nel- Daily News makes the following icious remarks on the subject of Cobalt boom. It is doubtful ether any other community will efit by the experience of Toronto e the ambitious capital of Ono persistently refuses to benefit its own experience:

The capitalization placed upon spects in Cobalt was nothing short a crime, remarks the Toronto egram.

The government of Ontario was erless. The newspapers of Ono were powerful on the wrong . If the government had restrictn capitalization of Cobalt properthe cry would have gone up that ital was being scared' and that ticians were interfering with min-

The capitalization of Cobalt proies scared capital out of the pockets of purchasers of stock in unproved properties.

"The sale of stock had nothing to do with mining. The money that people were putting up for stock did not go into the treasury to develop the mine. The money went into the pockets of a lot of stock peddlers who were seeking only to develop their own fortunes and leave the mine to take care of itself.

"Toronto has one more bitter experience. Hundreds of people have once more learned to the cost the folly of taking advice from the newspaper trumpeters of stock-peddling sharks, who grab the savings of the people.

Hosmer Is Happy.

The above heading does not refer to Mr. C. R. Hosmer, the well-known and popular director of the C. P. R., but to the new coal town on the Crow's Nest Ry., named after him. His Company has during the last two years expended half a million dollars in development work upon their coal claim, and by the time that the embargo is lifted, and they are permitted to place coal on the market, they will have expended a million and a half dollars. The works have recently been visited by Mr. W. D. Matthews of Toronto, a gentleman who made millions on the Grain Exchange, who is a Director of the C. P. R., and is now President of the Consolidated Mining Co. He was accompanied by Mr. W. H. Aldridge. Superintendent Brown is making a great showing here, and is fully justifying the high opinions formed of his professional ability when he came to the Province seven years ago. He is one of the most competent mining men in the West, and is as modest as he is capable.

Brazen Organs.

This is not an advertisement of a musical emporium, but the literary diction employed by the New Westminster News to designate the Conservative press. One forbears to comment beyond suggesting the obvious association of ideas aroused by reflecting that the great classical authority for the use of this phrase contrasted "sounding brass" with a "tinkling cymbal." If the Westminster News can gracefully accept the latter designation the Conservative press will endeavour to survive its use of the former.

Senatorial Appointments.

The Kootenay press is ventilating the subject of Senatorial appointments, and a Liberal press in particular which should know something of the Ottawa programme, is boosting "old man" Simpson for the position. The Moyie Leader said with truth that "no man in British Columbia who has fought and worked harder for the prosperity of east Kootenay and the Province as a whole. He has been a true friend to the party in power at Ottawa, and has spent time and money in order to do a good turn for that party, and it's now up to the Liberals to reciprocate." All this is probably true, but there are others and whilst there will be no kick coming from any quarter if the "old man" gets the plum, it may fairly be questioned whether there are not at least one or two others with greater claim. Mr. Simpson is still a young man and there is time for him to go up higher when the position has been held and vacated by men who were pioneering Kootenay settlements when the "old man" was learning his A. B. C. south of the line| While he may desire the position, and cherish an ambition which is on every ground laudabe, he is too fair minded to deny that such men for instance as G. O. Buchanan have far stronger claims.

It Pays to Advertise.

Just how widely The Week is read and how every item in its columns comes under observation may be gathered from the following little paragraph which appeared in the last issue of the "Kootenain":

"Victoria must be waking up. They have a restaurant there that keeps an orchestra to edify the diners."

It has reference to an advertisement running in The Week, but the editor in making his comment hardly does justice to our advertisers inasmuch as instead of Victoria boasting of one restaurant with an orchestra, it has two, the Poodle Dog and The Cosy Corner.

Nevermore.

The Cumberland News gets off a very good thing, anent Mail orders, which The Week has pleasure in commending to its readers:

"There was a man in Cumberland and he was awfully wise. He marked a silver dollar and then gave it to Bess; she went to the butcher shop and blew the dollar in—it was not long before the coin came back to him again. He took it to a merchant and bought a new dress for June, before the week had finished back came that plunk again. He spent that self-same coin quite fifty times or more, and always had the pleasure of spending it over and over. Each time it came back 'twas like meeting an old friend, but one day he sacrificed his dear old friend for a post-office order and sent it off to T. Eaton's store, back it came "nevermore."

A Clear Issue.

The Unionist party has, to all intents and purposes, staked its fortunes upon Preference. Nothing is so likely to gain for it the liking and sympathy of the British electorate as courage and thoroughness in proclaiming its doctrine and pursuing its purpose. Ambiguity and elusiveness in such matters are detestable to John Bull. They are not only detestable to the plain man with a vote to give, they are also apt to be fatal in Parliamentary Life.—The World.

Far Worse.

A Baltimore woman who had a perfect treasure of a cook was horrified when Maggie came to her saying:

"Plase, mum, I'm givin' ye a wake's notice."

"Why, Maggie!" exclaimed the lady of the house, "this is a surprise! Aren't you satisfied here? Do you hope to better yourself?"

"Well, no, mum," responded Maggie. "'Tis not exactly that. The fact is, mum, I'm goin' to get married."

No Bribes.

A certain traveling man was in the habit of sending boxes of cigars to his customers at Xmas time.

One customer returned the cigars promptly, with a note saying that he received no bribes from anyone.

The traveling man sent back the cigars, remarking that he neglected to send the bill the first time, which was for twenty-five cents. By return mail came this letter:

"Cigars received in good order. Please send 800 for price named," and the salesman sent them.—C. E.

Just As Old.

While in a small Alabama town, in talking to an ante-bellum "black mammy," the following conversation took place:

"Aunty, how old are you?" I asked.

"Fo'ty-two," she replied.

"Aunty, you don't mean to tell me that———" I began, when she quickly broke in with:

"Yessir, young marse, I does, too; ca'se my ol'est gal was nearly dat ole when she died nine years ergo."—N. S. Z.

Conditions at San Francisco.

It looks as though San Francisco has committed suicide. The situation there, as the result of the domination of the Union of Labour, can only be described as desperate. There is no doubt that the San Francisco newspapers and news agencies have engaged in a conspiracy of silence in order to prevent Eastern and foreign capital from being frightened away, but of course the truth was bound to come out, and it is coming out now. —London Times.

The Villa Palmieri.

The Villa Palmieri, between Florence and Fiesole, in which Queen Victoria resided in 1888 and again later, has been purchased by Mr. James W. Ellsworth, of New York, who has decided to furnish it entirely in 15th and 16th century style. The villa was the property of Lord Crawford.

Prince Fushimi of Japan.

Prince Fushimi of Japan, who was accompanied by Lord Tweedmouth, First Lord of the Admiralty, Lord Roberts, General Sir T. Kelly-Kenny, and others. on Friday visited Portsmouth, where he was shown over the Dreadnought, witnessed manoeucres of the submarine flotilla, and made a tour of the dockyards and establishments of the port. The Prince also visited the Victory. In the evening a dinner in his honour was given at Admiralty House, followed by a recepetion.

The Prince returned to London on Saturday morning and motored to Hatfield, where he lunched with Lord and Lady Salisbury.

Prince Fushimi on Monday morning visited the Chelsea and Albany street Barracks, and inspected the 3rd Coldstream Guards, the 1st Scots Guards, and the 2nd Life Guards. His Imperial Highness was accompanied by the Duke of Connaught and Lord Roberts. In the afternoon the Prince visited the Houses of Parliament, and gave a luncheon and dinner at York House, St. Jame's Palace.—London Times.

The Trouble on the Rand.

The strike of white miners on the Rand has reached and, it is believed, passed its climax, and the confidence of the industrial community in the will and power of the Transvaal Government to deal firmly with the rioters is already reflected in the improved condition of the South African mining market. The general opinion seems to be that these disturbances will bring about economic changes which have long been considered urgent.

How Cambridge Students Lost.

At Cambridge on Friday, the Magistrates heard an adjourned case of alleged fraud by cards against Vernon C. E. Musgrave, alias George Gordon, and Harold Collinge. Both defendants were out on bail, but Musgrave did not appear yesterday.

According to evidence, the two defendants and Collinge's wife arrived at Cambridge on April 21, and on the following day Mr. Caldwell, a Trinity Hall student, and a friend patnered in a game of cards against the defendants, and between them lost nearly £10.

At later dates games of bridge and banker were played by these undergraduates and others, when they lost about £40.

The student visited the defendants' hotel. Finding them out, he took possession of several packs of cards. Nniversity and various college arms were on the backs of one pack, of which the aces, kings, and queens were creased. In another pack the cards were more elaborate. At each corner of a card was a circle containing the figure of a man on a cycle with two birds flying overhead. The different suits were notified by the birds' tails, and the face values of the cards were represented by the shading or lines underneath the cycle. In addition to playing "points" they betted one sovereign a rubber.

Collinge, who pleaded not guilty, was committed for trial at the assizes.

Mrs. G. A. Fraser and daughter have returned to the city from a trip to Eastern Canada.

Piratical Legislation.

Under the present haphazard, happy-go-lucky Government, which was to teach the nation the art of clear thinking, set it an example of efficiency, and has done neither, the strong-willed Labour leaders are having things all their iron way, and English legislation is assuming a frankly piratical complexion.—Free Press, Singapore.

A strong Ministry, a popular Prime Minister, an overwhelming majority, and a real passion for democracy and reform—these were the assets with which Liberalism faced its task a year ago, and already the shadow of failure has fallen on its hopes."—Daily News.

Finland's Women Deputies.

The cynosure of all eyes were the nineteen women Deputies, generally plain, experienced, sensible persons, who may emulate Solon and Lycurgus, but looked as though they despised any less solid successes. There was nothing frivolous or vain about these earnest legislators, most of whom are members of the Social Democratic party, and looked it.—Daily Telegraph.

The Return of Winter.

In Glasgow the weather on Tuesday was bitterly cold, and it caused no surprise to learn that the hills in the Lockerbie and Moffat districts were covered with snow, and that there had been snow and sleet show-many of our best men.—Mr. Nasarvanji Cooper, in the Times of India, Bombay.

Conditions at San Francisco.

It looks as though San Francisco has committed suicide. The situation there, as the result of the domination of the Union of Labour, can only be described as desperate. There is no doubt that the San Francisco newspapers and news agencies have engaged in a conspiracy of silence in order to prevent Eastern and foreign capital from being frightened away, but of course the truth was bound to come out, and it is coming out now. —London Times.

The Villa Palmieri.

The Villa Palmieri, between Florence and Fiesole, in which Queen Victoria resided in 1888 and again later, has been purchased by Mr. James W. Ellsworth, of New York, who has decided to furnish it entirely in 15th and 16th century style. The villa was the property of Lord Crawford.

Prince Fushimi of Japan.

Prince Fushimi of Japan, who was accompanied by Lord Tweedmouth, First Lord of the Admiralty, Lord Roberts, General Sir T. Kelly-Kenny, and others. on Friday visited Portsmouth, where he was shown over the Dreadnought, witnessed manoeucres of the submarine flotilla, and made a tour of the dockyards and establishments of the port. The Prince also visited the Victory. In the evening a dinner in his honour was given at Admiralty House, followed by a recepetion.

The Prince returned to London on Saturday morning and motored to Hatfield, where he lunched with Lord and Lady Salisbury.

Prince Fushimi on Monday morning visited the Chelsea and Albany street Barracks, and inspected the 3rd Coldstream Guards, the 1st Scots Guards, and the 2nd Life Guards. His Imperial Highness was accompanied by the Duke of Connaught and Lord Roberts. In the afternoon the Prince visited the Houses of Parliament, and gave a luncheon and dinner at York House, St. Jame's Palace.—London Times.

The Trouble on the Rand.

The strike of white miners on the Rand has reached and, it is believed, passed its climax, and the confidence of the industrial community in the will and power of the Transvaal Government to deal firmly with the rioters is already reflected in the improved condition of the South African mining market. The general opinion seems to be that these disturbances will bring about economic changes which have long been considered urgent.

How Cambridge Students Lost.

At Cambridge on Friday, the Magistrates heard an adjourned case of alleged fraud by cards against Vernon C. E. Musgrave, alias George Gordon, and Harold Collinge. Both defendants were out on bail, but Musgrave did not appear yesterday.

According to evidence, the two defendants and Collinge's wife arrived at Cambridge on April 21, and on the following day Mr. Caldwell, a Trinity Hall student, and a friend patnered in a game of cards against the defendants, and between them lost nearly £10.

At later dates games of bridge and banker were played by these undergraduates and others, when they lost about £40.

The student visited the defendants' hotel. Finding them out, he took possession of several packs of cards. Nniversity and various college arms were on the backs of one pack, of which the aces, kings, and queens were creased. In another pack the cards were more elaborate. At each corner of a card was a circle containing the figure of a man on a cycle with two birds flying overhead. The different suits were notified by the birds' tails, and the face values of the cards were represented by the shading or lines underneath the cycle. In addition to playing "points" they betted one sovereign a rubber.

Collinge, who pleaded not guilty, was committed for trial at the assizes.

Mrs. G. A. Fraser and daughter have returned to the city from a trip to Eastern Canada.

Piratical Legislation.

Under the present haphazard, happy-go-lucky Government, which was to teach the nation the art of clear thinking, set it an example of efficiency, and has done neither, the strong-willed Labour leaders are having things all their iron way, and English legislation is assuming a frankly piratical complexion.—Free Press, Singapore.

A strong Ministry, a popular Prime Minister, an overwhelming majority, and a real passion for democracy and reform—these were the assets with which Liberalism faced its task a year ago, and already the shadow of failure has fallen on its hopes."—Daily News.

Under the English Government we Parsees have not merely enjoyed toleration; we have flourished and waxed mighty. We have ceased to be mere poverty-stricken tillers of the soil and drawers of toddy. We have gained a position of general affluence, relatively to numbers, which no other race in India has approached; and fame and honour have been won by many of our best men.—Mr. Nasarvanji Cooper, in the Times of India, Bombay.

Finland's Women Deputies.

The cynosure of all eyes were the nineteen women Deputies, generally plain, experienced, sensible persons, who may emulate Solon and Lycurgus, but looked as though they despised any less solid successes. There was nothing frivolous or vain about these earnest legislators, most of whom are members of the Social Democratic party, and looked it.—Daily Telegraph.

The Return of Winter.

In Glasgow the weather on Tuesday was bitterly cold, and it caused no surprise to learn that the hills in the Lockerbie and Moffat districts were covered with snow, and that there had been snow and sleet showers at Hawick. Much damage has been done in gardens and nurseries, fruit trees which are in blossom having suffered severely. Nesting on the moors will also be affected by the return of winter.

Sporting Comment

The midsummer race meet which was held at the Driving Park last week proved a grand success in every particular except financially. The races furnished very interesting sport and every person who attended the gathering was well satisfied with the results. That it did not prove a success financially does not reflect on the management in the least and had the meet been patronized as it should have been there would have been a balance on the right side. As it is the committee went a thousand dollars in the hole, which is guaranteed by the subscribers. Only about one-half of that promised will be used and the subscribers will have the opportunity of being paid fifty cents on the dollar, or depositing the remainder in a bank as a nucleus for a similar meeting next year. Horce racing like every other form of sport must be brought forcibly to the attention of the public otherwise it will never prove a financial success, but once the citizens become interested in the sport there is no reason why it should not prove a financial success. The committee in charge of the races deserve great credit for the manner in which they were conducted and if any omissions were made they were not made purposely and on another occasion those in charge will be better posted and will have the benefit of past experience to work on.

A very pleasing feature of the races last week was the performance of the horses which have been trained at the track. It has always been contended that Victoria possessed ideal advantages for horse training and the showing made during the races has borne out this contention. With one exception Victoria horses won in every event in which they were entered which is a record that will place Victoria among the front ranks of the training centres of the Pacific Coast.

The management committee of the British Columbia Agricultural Association, under whose guidance the fall fair is held is losing no time in making their attraction known to the people of the Province, and it is a good sign to see them allotting four days to horse racing. The committee has arranged a very fine program of races and it is expected that they will add materially to the enjoyment and success of the fall fair.

A race between Longboat, Shrubb. Chandler and Burns would form an ideal attraction for the Fall fair and the committee is to be commended for endeavoring to get them to race in Victoria.

Spectators at the race meet recently held at Oak Bay under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. were treated to a surprise when Seattle men romped home easy winners in practically every event, but what must be their surprise when it is stated that with two exceptions not a Seattle man got a look in at the meet held in Seattle last Saturday. A four-man team from the Olympic club of San Francisco captured the meet with Seattle second. When it is taken into consideration that the time made at the meet in Seattle was in many instances not as good as made at Oak Bay and that still the winners of the Victoria meet did not get a look in, it furnishes food for reflection. For instance the quarter-mile at Seattle was made in 51 4-5 seconds while in Victoria it was done in 50 seconds flat, and still the winner of this event in Victoria did not make a showing in Seattle. On the face of this it is very evident that there is something wrong somewhere. A mistake must surely have been made either in measuring or timing at one of the meets.

The intermediate Victoria lacrosse team will play its first game away from home on Dominion Day at Vanconver, and the boys will go over with the best wishes of all lovers of the Canadian National game in this city. The boys are to be congratulated for the fight they have made to get a team and if victory does not perch on their banners it will not be for the want of energetic work. According to reports the team is strong and should turn the tables on the team which defeated them during the Victoria Day celebrations.

After considerable agitation on the part of The Week the Victoria athletes have at last realized that they were making a mistake in not taking part in the various field meets which have been held this season. This city will be represented at Vancouver on Monday by a capable lot of athletes and it is safe to expect that some of the events will be brought home to Victoria. It is expected that at least three entries in the hundred yards will be made from this city and from the working of the runners the athlete who defeats them will have to do a little better than ten seconds. Good luck to those who have been first in taking up the gauntlet on behalf of Victoria.

There will be a baseball match at Oak Bay this afternoon and lovers of the American National game will be given an opportunity to shout themselves hoarse. The game will be contested by a team calling themselves Victoria Superiors and Bremerton. Although the team representing itself as Victoria has usurped that name, they are entitled to recognition and should receive the support of Victorians. The majority of the players are young men from Seattle who are in the game for the love of it and are not looking for what they can make out of it. They are practically all working in Seattle and their visits to Victoria will prove a very enjoyable outing. All that they are looking for is to pay expenses and it is up to the supporters of the game in this city to see that they do not lose. In taking several Victorians on their line-up they are giving the youngsters an opportunity to make good, which should not be overlooked and in playing with the Victoria Superiors they will be brought under the notice of the managers of the various teams in the Northwest League, who will see that chances are not wanting for the local players to get in fast company if they make good. The game this afternoon will start at 3 o'clock sharp and it is hoped that a good crowd will be present.

Both the Victoria and Oak Bay Cricket Clubs are playing away from home today and consequently both wickets are vacant. The Oak Bays will be at Tacoma and the Victorias at Vancouver. Both clubs will be represented by strong elevens and victories should perch on the shoulders of both local aggregations.

All local cricketers—for that matter cricketers throughout Canada—will learn with regret that L. S. V. York (International '05) has been ordered by his physician to retire from the game for good. It is to be hoped that the learned medico's opinion is too pessimistic and that Lew's ear will rejoice once again in the crack of the ball against the fence and the umpire's cry of "four" which he has so often heard in the past.

The fielding of the V. C. C. left something to be desired last Saturday. To use the Skipper's expression, "it was good in patches."

Meredith hit most brilliantly and proved that The Week's presentation bat had certainly gone in a most deserving quarter. Possessed of every physical advantage—including youth—Meredith is the beau ideal of a cricketer.

Warden says that two speed merchants at once are rather rough on the man behind the sticks and sighs for the return of W. P. Gooch. Both Barnacle and York bowled well, keeping a good length throughout.

The Rev. A. H. Collison who appeared for the University School against the Garrison on Thursday last obtained his colours at Bublin University for his fast bowling and is a smiter of reputation.

The Oak Bay Club gave the Garrison a severe drubbing on their home grounds on Saturday last. Francis for the Oak Bays made a brilliant showing, carrying his bat for a well played 91. The local club is coming strong and will cut a decided figure in the Vancouver tournament in August.

Astronomical Society.

A branch of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada has been formed in Victoria, and the following officers have been appointed: Mr. E. B. McKay, Surveyor-General for B. C., President; Mr. S. A. Roberts, Secretary, and Mr. E. Baynes-Reed Acting Treasurer.

The Astronomical and Physical Society of Toronto was incorporated in 1890; in 1900 the name was changed to The Toronto Astronomical Society, and in 1903, with the gracious permission of His Majesty the King, the name, The Royal Astronomical Society of Canada was assumed.

The objects of this Society are: (a) To study astronomical, astro-physical and such cognate subjects as the Society shall approve of and which in its opinion, tend to the better consideration and elucidation of astronomical and astro-physical problems, and to diffuse theoretical and practical information with respect to such subjects; (b) To publish from time to time the results of the work of the Society; and (c) to acquire and maintain a library and such real and personal property as may be necessary and convenient for the carrying into effect of the objects of the Society.

The annual subscription is $2.00 and this entitles members to receive all publications of the Society which at present consists of an Astronomical Handbook published annually and the Canadian Astronomical Record, published bi-monthly.

The headquarters of the Society are in Toronto and the following are the officers for 1907:

Honorary President, W. F. King, B.A., LL.D., Chief Astronomer, Ottawa; President, C. A. Chant, M.A., Ph.D.; Secretary, J. R. Collins, Toronto; Treasurer, George Ridout, Toronto; Recorder, Miss Elsie A. Dent; Librarian, A. Sinclair, M.A.; Curator, R. S. Duncan; Council, the officers and the following members: Joseph Pope, C.M.G., F.R.S.C., Ottawa, A. F. Miller, Toronto; Rev. D. B. Marsh, F.R.A.S., Springville; Alfred T. DeLury, M.A.; L. H. Graham, M.A., and Past Presidents Andrew Elvins, J. A. Paterson, K.C., M.A., and R. F. Stupart, F.R.S.C.

Ladies and gentlemen interested in the objects of the Society are cordially invited to become members; subscriptions can be sent to the acting treasurer, Mr. E. Baynes-Reed.

A large branch of the Society has been formed in Ottawa with Dr. King as President, and several other branches are being formed in Eastern Canada. It is confidently hoped that before long a branch will be formed also in Vancouver.

Unknown Authors.

By BOHEMIAN.

Somewhat akin to the subject of L'terary Appraisements which was dealt with in this column last week, is that of Unknown Authors. To some extent the placing of an author's work is a matter of literary instinct and the natural gifts which enable a man to discern literary merit come to his aid when he is endeavoring to classify and co-relate the work of different authors.

If literary appraisement is a difficult art, correct classification is even more difficult. It is true that every writer of note has a style, because style is personality, either in sincerity or in pose. It is also true that a competent literary critic must have mastered the style of all contemporary writers and familiarized himself with their characteristics. In a general way this is done, so that it is quite easy to describe the style of well known writers and to parody it successfully. Parody is really mimicry and the hearty reception which the latter meets with on the stage, as for instance in the portraitures of Cissy Loftus, is but the counterpart of the satisfaction with which the lover of letters greets a successful literary parody, such as has made the fame of Barry Pain.

We all have our ideas as to the leading features of contemporary authors. Some of them are so distinctly marked that the average reader can say with practical certainty, this is the work of Andrew Lang, or Hall Caine or J. M. Barrie, or Conan Doyle.

When one gets into the highest circles it is even more easy to pronounce with certainty who is the author of any production because the greater the master the more definite the style. For this reason few, even moderately familiar with books, would err in tracing the authorship of a product to George Meredith, or Thomas Hardy, and yet such judgment is not unerring and there is a quality in literary work, however artistic it may be, which differentiates it from that of the painter. An expert connoisseur in oils can hardly be deceived by a bogus production, whilst it is certain that not one such canvas in ten thousand could successfully avoid detection in a public auction room in London or in the company of half a dozen connoisseurs who could be named. As a matter of fact the sale of a picture depends far less upon the actual presence of the signature on the canvas than upon the expert recognition of its genuineness by admitted authorities.

It is hardly so with literary work, because in all ages the products of the pen have furnished a wide field for speculation, until at the present day there is amongst the highest authorities at least the vestige of uncertainty as to the authorship of one or more of Shakespeare's plays, to say nothing of the works of Chatterton, and the historic instance afforded by the letters of Junlius, although the latter problem has now been solved to the satisfaction of the majority of the critics.

The point is that the indefinable quality which enables a student to detect the work of the brush does not to the same extent remain a permanent and invariable factor in the work of the pen. The features which almost always characterize a writer may once in a while be conspicuous by their absence, hardly so the form and colour to which habitude has wedded the expression of the painter's art. The proof of this is that in the end the painter of every picture is run to earth, while many notable literary productions have never been correctly placed.

This is largely due to two causes, the greater temptation for the literary man to pose, because if the work be anonymous his reputation does not suffer; and the fact that the press is the readier vehicle for the expression of opinions which under emotion a man may desire to register, but which he would shrink from expressing in a more permanent form, or to which he would hesitate to devote the labour involved in the work of a painting.

It is a well known fact that popular authors of note have frequently had their unsigned productions refused, not because they were inferior but because the authorship was not recognized. Later on the same manuscript —signed—would be eagerly accepted by any publishing house to which it was offered and a high price paid for it.

With how little confidence even expert reviewers can pronounce upon an unsigned article is evidenced constantly. About ten years ago a novel appeared by Benjamin Swift, entitled "Nancy Noon." It was a clever piece of work, far above the average in form, conception and expression. It was profound, philosophical and epigrammatic. In addition it was characterized by remarkable phraseology, which to close students of George Meredith suggested the authorship of that master. When it was discovered that Benjamin Swift was a nom de plume the conviction was deepened that Meredith was the author, and no less a personage than Dr. Robertson Nicoll, who is one of the best living judges and an especial admirer and student of Meredith, endorsed the judgment. In less than a year Benjamin Swift published his second novel, which contained nothing Meredithian and possessed no merit. Then the truth leaked out that the supposition was an entire mistake, and that "Nancy Noon" was the work of a new writer.

Within the last two years a series of articles appearing in the European press were attributed by London reviewers to Tolstoi, and in this case the great Russian author himself denied all knowledge of the articles.

If such mistakes can be made with respect to stylists of the calibre of Meredith and Tolstoi, with what degree of certainty can the authorship of any ordinary article be predicted? And yet there are men—not at all distinguished in literary walks—who will not hesitate even dogmatically, to affirm or deny the authorship of any article in their daily newspapers or favourite weekly journal. Even if they are not prepared to aver positively who the author is they are sometimes most emphatic as to whom he is not.

It must always be interesting to study the characteristics of great writers, and the degree of literary culture involved in mastering their peculiarities until one can with a fair measure of correctness decipher them, is by no means an ignoble ambition.

The writings of men of lesser note, the average contributor to the magazine, the journal or the newspaper, may not be of any high importance. Such work in a humbler field, but all their finer fibre is not coarsened by contact with the hoi polloi. They still preserve shrines at which in secrecy they worship. They sometimes cherish ambitions which they lack the egoism to express, and oftener than not, to atone for the hack work by which they earn their daily bread, they lay an offering at the feet of their divinity culled from bye-ways along which the trailing garments of the night have swept or from glades in which fairies have tripped. But of course, all this is caviare to Bohemian.

LITERARY NOTES.

Arthur Heming, whose first book, "Spirit Lake," has just been published, has to his credit the discovery of a new field in fiction. Spirit Lake is in the Canadian Northwest, in the rich hunting country which is now one of the chief centers of the fur trade. The agents of the fur company who have spent their lives in this region dealing with the Indian hunters are almost the last survivors of the old hardy race of pioneers. The Indians, with whom they are in constant association, are still unaffected by too close contact with civilization, and preserve all their primitive customs and traits. Mr. Heming has spent many years of his life among these people; he has been adopted into the Indian tribes and has accompanied them on their hunting expeditions; probably no living white man, outside of the traders themselves, knows this country and its inhabitants so intimately. The story which he has written out of this knowledge is full of picturesque and dramatice adventure, while it is at the same time a remarkably faithful delineation of the life of these people of the wilnedrness. One achievement of Mr. Heming's is particularly worthy of note; the Indian characters in hi sstory are real human beings, instead of the stolid, wooden figures which have been made to do duty in much cheap fiction and melodrama. No less original and effective than the story itself are the illustrations which Mr. Heming has supplied. Already well-known as an illustrator, he has put his best work into these pictures, which add immensely to the appearance and effectiveness of the book.

President Arthur T. Hadley, of Yale, is the author of "Standards of Public Morality," the second book in the American Social Progress Series, recently inaugurated by The Macmillan Company. At the outset of this work President Hadley notes the contrast in the life of the American people between its standards of private and of public morality, and then examines into the reason for this contrast with particular reference to the two chief forms of organized social activity—business and politics. He discusses the ethics of trade and corporate management, the workings of our political machinery, and the political duties of the citizen, not from a merely theoretical point of view, but as a public-spirited citizen and practical man of affairs. The book is full of references to significant events of the recent past, yet its clear statement of principles give it a value that will endure beyond the moment.

A Lady's Letter

By BABETTE.

Dear Madge:

In the present controversy about work and play, it is significant that the men-folk have not only had the most to say, but that they are, on the whole, actively averse to toil. I believe that women work better and longer, and are more contented to work, than their husbands, sons and brothers. No man would be content to drudge from morning to night, year in, year out, rearing children, cooking, cleaning, washing and sewing, as do the wives of the proletariat. For these wives and mothers have no amusement or recreation whatever. Not for them, if they are respectable, is the "poor man's club" —that polite euphemism for the public-house; not for them the music-hall, the dancing-saloon, and the race meeting. It is the same with the girls and women of a rather higher class, such as typists, shop-assistants, postoffice clerks, and the like, hence their overwhelming numbers in City offices: the girl clerk toils assiduously at a lower wage, and wants no "amusements" which interfere with work next day. As to the ladies of the leisured classes, they are suffering from an unnatural exemption from work and a plethora of "amusement," a plethora which usually ends in boredom or nervous breakdown, unless the "amusement" is sought in the country.

Some time ago a Canadian gentleman just returned from London, wrote to the papers asserting that Londoners were not polite because a business man after lending his private telephone to a stranger, declined to stay and negotiate matters with the exchange. The writer must have been an Innocent Abroad, of the first water. I wonder how this Innocent would have fared in New York? The regions to which he would have been condemned are not to be named in polite newspapers. Compared with the average New Yorker, the Londoner is a Chesterfield in address. And the manners of American officials are on a par with the manners of the man in the street. A few years ago, in New York, a friend of mine had occasion to go to the General Post Office to claim a small parcel from London, which nothing would induce the officials to disburthen. After wandering all over the vast, shabby-looking building and inquiring at every turn, she was met with the most supreme indifference when not with actual surliness. No one knew—and no one cared—where parcels from England were secreted and held to ransom. The search was long and vain, until a youthful individual, in his shirt sleeves, strolled out of some inner room, folded his arms, looked her up and down, and finally drawled out: "Wall, 'p'raps you'll take a little walk with me?" She was about to hastily decline the proposed promenade when she realized that this was one of the officials of the United States Government, so she cheerfully acquiesced, and a march down endless passages with the young man in dishabille resulted eventually in the recovery of her errant property.

Women as a class are never satisfied. This is the deliberate conclusion that Carolyn Prescott has reached after a careful study of the sex. Woman, she says, after she has attained what she most wants, refuses to be satisfied and keeps on wanting more.

I suppose it is born in woman, just as curiosity and the love of finery and motherhood are. I never could understand why, but I suppose it was because Mother Eve, after she had gained possession of the apple, kept on wanting things, and we are but following in her footsteps. The woman who is poor always thinks she would be perfectly happy if she were rich. Just moderately rich. She wouldn't care about being a millionaire, or anything of that sort, but she would like to be comfortably well off. And while her husband is working away for dear life she is indulging in day dreams of what she will do when she is "well off." When she has reached the stage where she can take a cab instead of a street car, order a meal at a fashionable restaurant without looking at the prices of the dishes, can go into the largest establishment in town and have her purchases charged, she begins to think how nice it would be if she was the wife of a really wealthy man. Finally the husband may reach that coveted condition, perhaps after saving and struggling, and working harder than any man on earth ought to work. His wife's ambition forces him on, and on, until his very mind turns into money. Still the woman is dissatisfied. His fortune is not enough, neither would a million nor twenty millions be enough. When she has reached that height to which she has been looking forward, when she can order what she wants, and knows that there is money enough to buy everything in the world—almost—still she is dissatisfied. She sits down and sighs over the wreck of her ambition, and what does she sigh for? Not for more money, she has more now than she could spend in a lifetime. But she sighs for the old life, when she and her husband were poor—when they lived in a modest way, when she herself set the table, cooked the meals, did all the work of the little house. She tells herself she would be perfectly happy back in that little home. Until the day she dies she is dissatisfied. Always searching for the unattainable, never content. What's the reason?

I just asked a man friend of mine and he says it's a disease that is hereditary, that originated in the Garden of Eden. Is it that or is it curiosity?

Babette

The New Grand.

There is an excellent all-round show at the above theatre this week and one that has well deserved the bumper houses which have attended it. Garvin, Platt and "Peaches" present an extremely graceful, and at the same time humorous piece of comedy, entitled "The Stolen Kid," which latter part is undertaken by "Peaches" in a manner worthy of example by many of his biped rivals. The singing in this piece is beautiful, the two voices being far above the average, and blending most harmoniously. The "High-Toned Burglar" is pure somedy and very amusing, but it is evidently written for a larger stage than the Victoria vaudeville hall possesses. All the parts are well taken and elicited much well-merited laughter and applause. Dan Roby as a black-faced comedian delighted the audience with his jokes and songs and "caught on" at once. The Tanakas are wonders of cleverness, both as magicians and jugglers; the top spinning swung on string being something quite original. The Illustrated Song is a slight improvement on last week's, as are the pictures. Prof. Nagel's band scored a success with their overture on the opening night and were heartily applauded.

The Cosy Corner Tea Rooms have caught on, and the elite of Victoria appreciate the light, artistic, cool comfort which they afford, for luncheon and tea; this is now the choice rendezvous. The orchestra is also a great attraction.

Vancouver Social.

A very pretty wedding took place on the 19th inst. at St. Andrews Presbyterian church, Vancouver, B.C., when the pastor, Rev. R. J. Wilson, M.A., united in marriage Mr. Richard H. Zavitz, formerly of Vancouver, B. C., but now a resident of Winnipeg, Man., and Miss Ethel Estelle Douglas, daughter of the late Benjamin Douglas, of New Westminster, B.C.

Promptly at 4 p.m. the bride entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, leaning on the arm of her cousin, Mr. T. A. Muir of New Westminster, and was charmingly gowned in a travelling suit of grey with white vest embroidered in gold and wearing a white mushroom hat of silken straw and tulle with a crown of white violets edged with a wreath of white roses. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of bridal roses and wore a handsome diamond brooch as well as a gold bracelet, which were the gifts of the groom.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Audrey Lewis, who was prettily dressed in white and made a charming little flower girl, carrying a basket of beautiful pink roses and wearing a lovely pearl pin, which was the gift of the bride.

The groom was supported by Mr. E. M. Breed of Vancouver, who received as a present a diamond and sapphire stickpin.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple proceeded to the C. P. R. depot and left on the 5 p.m. eastbound train to spend the early part of their honeymoon at Glacier, Field, Banff, and the Kootenays, after which they will go direct to Winnipeg, where they will in future reside, the groom being the western manager of sales for the Allis, Chalmers, Bullock, Limited, of Montreal, with headquarters in Winnipeg.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, she being well and favorably known throughout Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster.

The annual club tournament of the Victoria Tennis Club will be held on the grounds, Belcher Street, commencing Monday, July 8; entries close on July 4, to the Secretary, Mr. S. J. Pitts, care Bodwell and Lawson, City. The events consist of mixed doubles, gentlemen's singles and ladies' singles.

St. Paul's Parish Church, Esquimalt.

On Tuesday, July 9th, at 3 o'clock, a garden party will be held by the members of the Woman's Auxiliary in the Rectory grounds, kindly lent for the occasion by the Rev. the Hon. T. R. Heneage. Refreshments will be served at moderate charges. There will be a candy store, a needlework table, a magic flower garden, specially attractive for children, a shooting gallery in charge of Quarter-master S. Hooper, Aunt Sally, and many other attractions. A musical programme will be rendered and in the evening the grounds will be brilliantly illuminated. By the courtesy of Capt. Allgood, the grounds will be decorated by the men of H. M. S. Shearwater. Admission free.

The Countess of Dalkeith on Tuesday performed the naming ceremony at the launch of the triple-screw turbine steamer Heliopolis at Fairfield. The new vessel, which has a gross tonnage of twelve thousand tons, will be the largest and fastest boat in the Mediterranean trade, and will ply between Marseilles and Alexandria, covering the distance in three days, and bringing Egypt within four days of London. At present six days are required for that journey.

Lord Armstrong said the Heliopolis and the Cairo, which were being built at Fairfield, would be the largest, fastest, and most luxuriously equipped passenger boats in the Mediterranean, and they would shorten the journey to Egypt by one and a half days.
