

March 13th 1933.

Dear Mr. McAllister.

The figures contained in the enclosed letter are taken from my working papers so as to get the information to you. It may be two or three weeks before our annual statements reach you.

There is better movement to domestic market than expected and there will be very little fruit dumped. The Export market however is returning poor prices.

I have again become a Director of the Associated Growers. From now on I should have up to date information as to market conditions.

With the idea of being able to drive our operations a little harder, I have constructed a room in the tractor house where I am going to have my office. This move I hope will give us more efficient work.

I last wrote you on Jan 11th and have no word from you since then.

Yours sincerely,
Jim G.
