PINCHER CREEK

the originator of Winter Wheat in the Canadian N.W.T.

Twenty-four crops in succession and all averaged 40 bushels per acre.

PINCHER CREEK

the district that you can sow winter wheat any month of the year except May and June and harvest the following August. The wheat that you sow in May and June you can get a first-class pasture for your stock from the beginning of August till it freezes late in the fall, which makes May and June sowing of winter wheat as good as two crops. This is no experiment but has all been proven beyond the question of doubt.

PINCHER CREEK district has always got the moisture to produce a first class crop when all other districts fail.

NO IRRIGATION REQUIRED.

Parties looking for first class land should not miss coming here to see for themselves before deciding to settle elsewhere.

Dear Friend I received your letter today it did me worlds off good. you are as welcome as the flower in May it is to bad that you did not come out last fall it has been the finest kind off weathers till the first off this month it is kind off cold now and they are using slays but it is not good slaying. There is not much use off me saying anything about myself I have my Homestead duties done so I am through batching I have started a butcher shop in town here and it is not doing as well as I could wish but business will pick up in the spring and then I will be able to make good. I could tell you lots off news but you come out it might take two or three month to put you right but you will enjoy yourself all right. Every thing is changed here now more Fall Wheat grown than cattle last year was a very good year.
