ELECTRIC SMELTING.

Experiments Would Seem to Have Been Successful in Canada.

A report demonstrating that electric smelting of Canapian ores is now a commercial possibility will be issued early in the year by the mines branch of the department of mines. It wil cover the results obtained from the use of the 100-ton electric furnace that was installed at Sault Ste. Marie in 1906 for experimental purposes. In addit on, the perfecting of the process as carried out in Sweden will be dealt with.

Such an announcement is of great importance to Canada, and especially to Ontario. Hitherto, the extensive iron deposits in Ontario have been scarcely touched, for two reasons: first, Ontario has to import all its coal; second, Ontario iron ores contain a relatively high percentage of sulphur, which could not be removed by the blast furnace. The new process will eliminate both these objections. Electricity will not only smelt the ore, but, by means of the greater heat that it will provide, i will volatilize and drive off practically every particle of the sulphur. The country surrounding the important iron deposits possesses valuable water power resources, which, for the most part have not yet been developed. It is thus easily seen that the introduction of an economical electric smelter will make possible an industry of vast importance to Canada.

TULAMEEN NOTES.

Tulameen, Nov. 15.—I see in your last issue a good report from Leadville camp, and it is all very true; but, now, let me speak a word for the men who are doing the hard knocks. and judge whether they are deserving of any mention. On Jenson's contract, the Indiana tunnel, two shifts are driving a little less than three feet a day. On the Treasure mountain tunnel two shifts are driving over three feet a day. Both are in now close to 100 feet. The Indiana is all in ore, a 6-foot tunnel; the other is a crosscut. This tunnel will cut a lead before reaching the one already opened up, which they are running for. 'I say this, knowing that boosting is neither necessary nor desired.'

Now, for the packers, without whose work all would soon come to a standstill We have here a man of experience on mountain trails, and who is not afraid of snow or hard work 'Buffalo Bill,' 'Death on the Trail,' 'Burning Daylight,' and others are not in it with J.O Smith and his little gang of hostlers. Think of dragging T-rails over a crooked and and stumpy, steep and clifty trail, through two to three feet of snow, a distance of 25 miles. To see them descending a long, steep stretch, and short, crooked trail; here dodging a stump, and there a tree; raising over a swell and sinking in a hollow, looks like a ship in a storm, steering clear of rocks.

Of course, the rails are small, twenty feet long, weighing 100 pounds. The rails were bent up on both end, leaving a chance behind for a man to steer them. much as a man steers a plow From six to nine rails were bolted together—one man and a horse to a bunch. In wrestliing all day with these rails they get soaking wet, and after eating a hurried supper, and an hour or two warming or drying, they are in their blankets—and up and at it by daylight. They feel interested and are staying with it. They have made two trips and have some more to make. Of course, it is hard on horses as well as on men. So far, they have had but one horse disabled. Billy Wade is as good a trail pilot as there is in the gang of four. They have a man to pack and cook for them. There are two other men, and good ones at it, packing to the camps from here. They have been making two round trips a week, with seven to ten pack horses. It is likely they will rawhide some now. On our way down this trip today we met a man going in to sample one of the properties other than those mentioned. In conclusion I will say there is still room for more.

BANK OF MONTREAL.

The removal of the Bank of Montreal to its handsome new premises in the Swanson block, on the northeast corner of Bridge street and Harold avenue, shows that institution to have faith in Princeton and the surrounding district. The banking room presents a very pleasing appearance, the fixtures being of coast British Columbia fir and plate glass. The vaults are roomy and built so as to be absolutely fire proof, and the safe is of the latest design.

BASKET BALL.

The match and ball given by the Princeton Basket Ball club was successfully carried out, and netted the club $20. Games will be gived every two or three weeks during the winter. Following is the lineup, the score standing 6 to 2, in favor of All Blues. Mrs. N Thompson was coach and doorkeeper; Gladys Lyall, referee; time keeper and umpire, Teddy Richardson.

White Collars, Forwards—R F., Edna Lyall; L.F , Miss Howell; center, Gladys Lyall; R.G., Miss Pavie; L.G., Miss Burpee.

All Blues, Forwards—R F , Miss Scott; L.F , Miss Leighton; center, Glady Coulthard; R.G., Miss Irwin; L.G , Miss Knutson.

Eugene Durfee, architect, Victoria, and James Smyth, heating and plumbing contractor, Spokane, Wash., were in town this week in connection with the big Princeton hotel block, now almost ready for the reception of guests A full write up of this hostelry will be given later.

THE WIDE WORLD

Creditors of the defunct Midway & Vernon railway are now to receive full settlement of their legitimate claims. The amount involved in this latest distribution is $14,552, leaving about $2,000 to be yet disbursed

Trainmen on the Great Northern have received a raise in wages of 5 per cent, beginning Nov. 1.

Louis Hill, ehairman of the Great Northern board of directors, states that 79 000 people have emigrated from the United States to Canada during the past five months taking with them $110,000,000 worth of household goods and machinery.

Louis Cyr, the Canadian champion strong man of the world for twenty years, is dying of Bright's disease. His greatest feat was lifting a platform holding 25 men, totaling about 4,500 pounds.

It is estimated 16,000,000 votes were cast in the United States elections on the 5th inst., of these 600,000 were women.

The dasheen is a tuber, said to be a good substitute for the potato. The U. S. department of agriculture is distributing 1,000 bushels of dasheen seed that it may be grown south of Mason and Dixon's line. The vegetable is semi-tropical.

GRAND ANNUAL BALL.

The annual ball of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows will be held on Friday, November 29, in the I.O.O.F. hall, Princeton. Tickets, $1.50. Supper will be served by the ladies of Rebekah lodge. Good music will be given by W. Knight's orchestra. This annual event is one which affords an opportunity to spend an evening of pleasure and entertainment, and is sure to attract a large number. The date—Friday, November 29, 1912.

MINES AND MINING.

The Granby company has taken an option on the Carmi mine in the valley of the Kettle river.

September was the record month so far this yesr for the Granby company: Copper, 2,083,018 pounds; silver 34,901 ounces; gold, 5291; net profits, $181'000.

The Shaake Machine Works, New Westminster, have received an order for the construction of a Rochford dredge to be used in gold dredging operations on the Fraser river near Hope. It was ordered by Mr. A. E. Hansford, of Seattle, an old gold miner from Alaska. The dredge will cost about $30,000 and will be ready by the first of 1913. When completed it will be towed up river as far as possible by a tug boat, and will be taken the rest of the way by the use of winches and hawsers attached to trees on the river bank. The deputy mining recorder at Hope has issaed the license for the operations. It covers five miles of the river immediately above Hope. The remainder of the river between Hope and Yale has already been taken up by simi lar leases.

PUBLIC MEETING

A free public meeting addressed by by J. W. Whitely, organizer of the Loyal Orange Asssociation, will be held in the I.O O.F. hall, Princeton, Nov. 20, at 8 o'clock sharp. His subject will be, 'Aims and Objects of the Loyal Orange Lodge.' A cordial invitation is extended to the public. Mr. Whitely is a fluent and interesting speaker and his subject is of growing importance with the large numerical increase of the order.

PROSPEROUS CANADA.

The Domiuion financial statement for the month of October shows that Canada's prosperity continues anabated. Consolidated revenue for October aggregated $14,758,946, an increase of over $2,000,000 over October of last year. For the first seven months of the fiscal year the aggregate revenue was $96,137,597, against $76,291,178, a similar increase of $20,000,000. The revenue for the year will eclipse all records and promises to reach $160,000,000. The expenditure on consolidated account in the seven months was $51,271,395, an increase of $11,000,000, and on capital account $12,000,000, a decrease of $2,000,000. During October the net debt was decreased by $4,022,000.

Rev. R. J. McLean will conduct Presbyterian service next Sunday in the court house at the usual hours.

The unsettled condition of the office resulting from carpentry has again delayed the issue and caused considerable local matter to be left over.

R. Fitzgerald, trapper and prospector, reports a strange phenomenon in the hills, swarms of butterflies being observed flitting about on the snow. Weather is warm and a mild winter is predicted.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

R. H. Carmichael, manager of the Bank of Oommerce at Keremeos, was a weekend visitor to Princeton

W. H. Edmonds, registrar for the Similkameen and other districts, died recentiy at Vancouver. He belonged to one of the oldest families in New Westminster.

Typical November weather has prevailed since it opened—a conglomeration of sunshine, cloud, rain, snow, slush, mud, anything you like or dislike. Real winter would be preferable. Weather forecasters say that an open winter is probable.

Some idea of the progress Princeton is making can be gauged by that certain barometer, the schools. A few years ago the school population was easily taught by one teacher, now it requires two, and the number of scholars on the rolls is about 100.

Geo. W. Aldous and sister are going to California to winter after a summer of active mining labor at Voigt Camp and Copper Mountain.

A PROGRESSIVE POLICY.

The railway policy of the B.C government, formulated by premier Sir Richard McBride when the province was at a standstill, has been amply tried in this, the third year of its existence. As a practicable and progressive policy it has met all that was predicted of it and cast to the winds the ridiculous criticisms of the opposition vituperative press and the 'honest' old lady farmer who led the Grits to ignominious slaughter on that fateful November Thursday, 1909. Turn where one will there are the undeniable evidences that this policy has been the cause of wonderful expansion in industrial and commercial activities. Previous to the 'coming' of Sir Richard the province had lain dormant, without the necessary roads to open up the mineral and agricultural districts and without railway transportation to promote and encourage industrial centers All has been changed under the McBride administration. The trans provincial trunk road, alone worth many millions to the province in attraction of tourists and investors and affording inter-communication necessary for development of trade between districts. Trails that were only fit for a goat to pass over have given place to splendid highways. A netting of good roads ramify the whole province and the result has been corresponding expansion and prosperity. The railway policy Sir Richard McBride enunciated in 1909 has made good on its merits alone. Its critics have been lost to view in the jungle of backwoods journalism and grandma Oliver no longer commands serious attention from anyone but the 'Setting Sun.' With four years yet at the helm of state our gallant captain and crew will continue to sail on the silvery tide with the banner of progress proudly floating at masthead, and having the pilot of the Similkameen as advisor on the legislative ship all danger of shoals and sunken rocks will be obviated.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The prairie provinces are about to initiate legislation that will make it illegal to grant a bonus to any railway or other public enterprise. Right here Star wants to plant itself 'fourfooted' as being strenuously opposed to bonus, subsidy, pap, or any of the scheming devices whose aim is to fleece the people—to make the few rich at the expense of the many poor. It is enough that railway and other corporate bodies 'cut melons,' 'increase capital' and 'declare surplus dividends' without imposing the requisition for a bonus upon the people. We are in full sympathy with any move that will abate the bonus nuisance.

There can be no question as to the right of victors to the spoils. In any effort of individuals the rights of conquest are not denied, whether it be the outcome of physical prowess or the triumph of some question involving mental superiority. In the case of the Turco-Balkan war now in progress the thought is not to be for a moment entertained that the intrepid Bulgarians or Servians shall be shorn of a single glory or right of victory. These and their allies must not be interfered with when terms are dictated to the van quished. The Turks have ever been a menace to the peace of Europe, their religion, commercial ineptitude, habits and customs being at total variance with surrounding nations. The Mohammedan Turks never could assimilate with christians, and it is this propensity which bars the heathen to any social-political neighborliness. No Mohammedan to the west of the Dardanelles would be a sane dictum in any settlement of the present war and to Germany it would advise 'hands off' or serious trouble would follow.

The continual cry of British statesmen and warriors that the German wolf is ready to pounce upon the English and devour them sounds a little odd to the Canadian who has met the wolf and the bear on their own ground. It has been always understood that man for man the Anglo-Saxon is as good as any other nationality in the world. If, however, such men as 'Bobs' go preaching inferiority of our race and armament it is possible that a skulking fear may overcome some and they will vamoose before the wolf calls. Any Canadian or Britisher with a grain of national pride will not relish any attempt to belittle the army and navy. Put away fear and one of the greatest war irritants will have disappeared.

The Montreal Gazette is the oldest and most influential of Conservative newspapers in Canada. Any opinion it may offer on the German war scare or naval questions should receive attention. Its article, 'Another Rebuke to Jingoes' on another page, will be read with interest.

INDUSTRIAL DISEASES.

Danger of the Use of Lead in Paint—Substitutes Should Be Found.

Occupational diseases and accidente are a very serious feature of modern industrial life. Almost every industry presents some danger to the employes engaged in it. Is fortunately true that these dangers have in many cases been reduced to a minimum, but, on the other hand, there are some forms of employment where but little progress has been made in this regard. One of such occupations is that of the painter. Lead poisoning is now a well recognized disease. In some of the countries of Europe it is true that almost drastic measures are being taken to stamp out the disease.

According to an article in a recent number of the Labour Gazette, lead poisoning is engendered by the entrance of the lead through the skin. the lungs and the alimentary canal. The presence of the metal itself in the form of shot or a bullet in the body has resulted in lead poisoning years after the date of injury The symptoms of lead poisoning include pallor, sallowness, distaste for food, sickness, constipation, lassitude and several minor ailments

The causes for excessive lead poisoning among painters may be traced to a variety of removable conditions, as well as to others which will exist so long as carbonate of lead is used for paint, and red lead for making gas joints. Painters too frequently fail to realize the seriousness of the dangers to which they are exposed. Such lack of care as holding between the teeth a tool to which lead paint adheres; taking meals without properly cleaning the hands, and various other practices which permit of lead entering the system, make the subject to the disease.

Effort haoe been made to find a finished substitute for poisonous materials. So far, however, nothing of a satisfactory nature, has been discovered, although zinc pigments have been found to be fairly satisfactory for interior work. It is interesting, however; to note that a number of European carrying on investigations, with a view to obtaing substitutes so as to eventally prohibit the use of white lead for interior work. and the use of red lead for all painting work.

THEIR LONG TRAMP.

J. R. Campbell, the druggist of Princeton, and W. M. Mason, from Oklahoma, walked in from Quesnel last Tuesday midday, apparently none the worse for their trip. They arrived at Quesnel from Ashcroft in Blair's machine too late to make connection with the regular stage leaving for this point. Both men talked the matter over and, as Campbell is a 9¾ man on his feet, they decided to walk the 110 miles. Leaving Quesnel in the morning they arrived at Goose lake at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, where the balance of the day and night was spent. With an early morning start the travelers made Blackwater at 3 the second day, where comfortable quarters and meals were obtained. The third lap, from Blackwater to Smithy's road house, this side of McKenzie's stopping place, a distance of forty miles, was made in ten hours, arriving there at 6, where they say they had a spanking good meal. An early start from Smithy's the morning of the fourth day brought them into town at midday. The roads were not the best for walking, though there was no snow on the ground. Goose lake was frozen over. They could have loaded a wagon with the game they saw; but they had no gun.—Fort George Herald

ANOTHER REBUKE TO JINGOES.

Sir Edward Grey, secretary of state for foreign affairs, speaking in the house of commons, and following the lines taken by his cabinet colleague, Mr. Walter Runciman, the other day, has condemned as unwise and provocative the speech made at Manchester by Lord Roberts, wherein the 'German menace' was referred to as a reason for a hasty increase of British armaments. When, before the recent recess, the military estimates were being considered in parliament, Mr. Asquith, the prime minister, formally declared that good relations existed between Great Britain and Germany and implied that it was the desire of the government that they should continue. His utterances were those of a statesman anxious for the well being of his country. They were welcome wherever sober men had influence. Some seem to have had it in their heads, however, that by making a noise they could create a semblance of a sentiment in opposition to the prime minister and compel the government to enter upon a swashbuckling noisy demonstration that, as far as it could have effect, would tend to make a war between Great Britain and Germany possible or even probable. Mr. Runciman, speaking as a cabinet member dealt with these in no gentle way. He condemned their work as deplorable and pernicious. He spoke of it as having behind it a small group of journalists, a few soldiers, some makers of armament, and a section of people who believed the dignity of the nation was raised by irritating its neighbors. It can be believed that this classification is correct. No sensible Englishman, knowing what war is and what its cost may be, would advocate what would be calculated to bring it about. Now, Sir Edward Grey, who ranks in a way next to Mr. Asquith in the leadership of the government, adds his word of censure, and it is both straight and strong. It should help to check the mischief makers, those who have selfish interests to serve in promoting preparation for war, those who pose as patriots for the sake of the temporary attention they can attract, those who think nations exist to sustain armies and navies, and those who, exaggerating one idea, convince themselves that what they demand is necessary to the safety of the state. Preparation for war, whether it be general or special, can best be made by men who have a sense of responsibility, both for what they say and what they do. The navy jingoes do not have this. The Asquith government, like its predecessors, has shown no inclination to shirk its duty in the matter of national defence. The navy today in the number and efficiency of its vessels, is greatly superior to anything in its history and to anything in the world. What the government has done in the past is evidence that what it will do in the future will be equally satisfactory, whether as regards its own work or in conjunction with that which the colonies, in the fulfilment of their duty are ready to assume.—Montreal Gazette.
