Future Bright But Hard Work Needed

INTRODUCTION OF UNDER FEED STOKER WOULD PROVE BOON TO LOCAL COAL INDUSTRY SPECIAL BOARD OF TRADE SESSION FINDS

That while local coal conditions must bear to same extent the burden of depression shared by the industry at large through economic changes, there is no reason why some measure of relief can not be found by direct application of scientific and business methods to sales efforts; a movement which in time will bring the entire industry back to its deserved place among the most important in our modern civilization.

This was the finding of the special session of Princeton Board of Trade devoted to consideration of local coal difficulties, and the possible stabilization and expansion of operations with a view to community development.

The meeting was in itself something of a disappointment. The attendance was comparatively small, the mining interests were not well represented, and the discussion was at no time very profound.

H. E. Miard, government mines examiner, was present, but his attendance was by chance rather than by design, and while he was an interesting speaker, he did not come prepared. The Pleasant Valley mine was represented by Mr. Stubbs, who confessed he was interested in production rather than in merchandising; the Blue Flame Collieries were represented by Mr. Alstead, but he had very little that was new to contribute. TheTulameen Coal Mines were not represented at all.

Mr. J. G. Biggs, district mine inspector and chairman of the board mining committee, made a valiant effort, but he was the only member of the mining committee to participate. A mass of data had been collected, but very little was made use of.

METHODS AT FAULT

Frank criticism of the sales methods of coal producers in general was made by several speakers. Failure to keep abreast with scientific research and to use modern methods of research has allowed the industry to languish until it found itself facing the strong competition of fuel oil and hydro-electric power.

For the Princeton coal basin an important step would be, the meeting found, the disposal of slack and small coal to a self-made market obtained by the installation of modern underfeed combustion devices.

The Mines Committee of the board was commissioned to approach owners and operators of large public and private buildings in Princeton and immediate vicinity in an effort to interest them in the installation of such devices, at a great economy to themselves.

By disposing of slack and small coal to such a market the mines would realize a considerable saving. Under present conditions this material finds small market, and is generally waste. It forms up to twenty-five per cent of the output, and its disposal, even at a low price, would not only realize a tidy margin, but would also enable the operators to produce more lump coal, which finds a ready market. A general reduction in prices might reasonably follow, making competition against other coals an easier matter.

UNDER FEED STOKER

The under feed stoker is a comparatively new invention which offers complete combustion. Its advantages are convenience and economy. The coal is fired from the bottom, by air pressure, ensuring complete combustion of the heat giving portion of the product.

It is controlled by a thermostat which can be regulated from the room. It feeds itself, and requires practically not attention. It dispenses with plumbing and to a large extent with janitor's services. Because of the completeness of combustion there is very little smoke or ash.

Because it obtains the maximum amount of heat from the coal and burns the smallest size, which can be bought very cheaply, it cuts fuel bills from 20 to 50 per cent.

At present this machine is chiefly used for larger buildings, but its introduction into the ordinary home is only a matter of time. Its manufacture has increased tremendously, and a large plant is now being built in Vancouver where such machines will be made.

In 1925 one company's output was 500 machines. The 1931 output of the same company is estimated a 16,000.

That fuel oil was coal's strongest competitor was illustrated by figures presented by Mr. Biggs who showed that imports during 1930 were 120,000,000 gallons, increased from 98,000,000 in 1929. All this was of foreign manufacture and all was displacing coal.

Testimonials specifically sought by the board, and in some cases, directly examined, spoke well for the new heating method.

TEST SUCCESSFUL

At Merritt school a test was made over a period of five and a half days, two measured tons of coal being used for experiment. With the temperature at freezing and under outside, an even temperature was kept in the six classrooms of 72 degrees during the school hours and 60 degrees in the evening. Thirty-two k.w.h. electricity was used to ignite the coal, at 7 cents per k.w.h. One ton of pea and one ton of slack were mixed at a total cost of $4.75, with an additional $2.00 for hauling. Power during the 5½ days cost $2.24 This gave a saving over the old furnace system of $1.40 per day. In addition there were formerly two janitors employed during the winter and a heavy plumbing bill invariably had to be met.

At Penticton hospital a similar machine was installed October 11, 1930. Using Coalmont slack at $9.40 per ton the hospital was able to make a saving of form 25 to 30 per cent on fuel costs. It was pointed out that coal could be obtained at $2.00 per ton, or $4.00 landed in Penticton.

At Coquitlam in one building a saving of $6,000 a year is realized. New Westminster school is well satisfied with their machine, and will shortly install two more.

It is believed that if successful in having local men install this type of machine, it will be an easy matter to interest Okanagan and other consumers, thus directly contributing to the success of the industry.

The second big factor in the improvement of local coal conditions is the exploitation of the Okanagan market. Mr. Biggs pointed out that importations of coal from Alberta to British Columbia last year were 247,000 tons. Much of this went to the Okanagan. The coal is very similar in analysis to that of the Princeton basin, and the freight rate is $5.00 compared with $1.90 from Princeton.

CLEAN QUALITY COAL

Mr. Van Smith, formerly at Allenby mill, now engaged in mining research, was in attendance. He believed that the failure of local mines to supply a quality product was chiefly responsible for the loss of their market.

He remembered when Princeton coal had the bulk of the Okanagan and Spokane markets. Northport smelter was kept operating during the war on Princeton coal. But some terribly poor stuff was shipped, and the mines today were paying the penalty. He believed that today coal shipments were being systematically handled but to recapture the market would require time and effort. Local coal was now unconditionally guaranteed.

Mr. Smith gave an interesting account of the methods adopted in the United States to combat the inroads of fuel oil. There, with no hope of tariff barriers they had to compete on strict economic merits. They were doing so by research methods, applying science to heating and selling a uniform grade of coal best suited for a specific purpose. He outlined tests and processes at the experimental station of the University of Washington near Seattle.

Mr. Miard assured the meeting that Princeton was not alone in its difficulties. He was pleased to report that the industry as a whole was gradually becoming alive to the need to meet fuel oil competition on a sensible basis. He further gave assurance that the mines department of British Columbia was seriously concerned with the welfare of the coal trade in the province. As secretary of the permanent committee recently established Mr. J. D. Galloway was doing splendid work. The minister, Hon. W. A. McKenzie, member for the Similkameen, was also seriously interested in the welfare of the coal industry. With coal operators generally giving attention to new and necessary phases of scientific production and disposal, he held that good was bound to accrue. The coal industry must regard fuel oil with a great deal of respect. Fuel oil had excellent heating qualities—18,000 B.T.U.'s to the pound—was clean and convenient, and was aggressively pushed.

While coal was not always as high in heating value its price often made it a better buy. Thus at $8.00 per ton it would be good economy to buy Princeton coal, which carried 10,000 B.T.U.'s to the pound.

Princeton coal is lignitute and noncoking. It has a large moisture content, and is in consequence ideally adapted for domestic use in the ordinary stove.

It was often found that decisions made at one time with one purpose in view often reacted very differently in later years. Thus the "save the forests" campaign, directed at danger from sparks from locomotives and probably dealt the coal industry a heavy blow. There were other similar factors.

"There is a very bright future for the coal industry, but it is not yet," said Mr. Stubbs of the Pleasant Valley mine. He held that general economic conditions were chiefly responsible for the weakness in the coal industry.

Mr. A. E. Howse criticized vigorously the general laxness of coal operators. They had been downright careless and had allowed competition to enter and deprive them of a virtual monopoly. Failure to advertise was a big factor, he held.

AMONG THE FIRST

Princeton was one of the first places in the world to make use of pulverized coal. This fact was brought to light by Mr. Van Smith, now a noted mining research expert, addressing the Board of Trade Monday. Pulverized coal was burned in the manufacture of cement at the cement plant here about 1912. The cement plant was a gigantic failure. This however, was in no way accounted for by the use of powdered coal.

CHIEF PEASE MADE DEPUTY FIRE MARSHAL

Fire Chief C. A. Pease has been named district deputy fire marshal under the Fire and Escapes Act. This authority will be of distinct benefit to the activities of the Volunteer Fire Brigade.

This is the very latest picture of the chief; so late, in fact that it hasn't got here yet.

When The Bluecoats Won

Running liquor is like picking cherries in another man's orchard. It's nice and all that if you can get away with it. Generally it's a battle of wits. Sometimes the rum runner wins but this tim the customs men did. The illustration represents a haul on the Atlantic coast.

Telephone Co. To Build Here

Establishment here an important station of the B.C. Telephone Co. was assured yesterday when Jas. Hamilton, vice-president and general manager of the telephone company concluded negotiations for the purchase of the necessary property here. He secured a good location, opposite the Light and Power office. Mr. P. Russell was the vendor, the price being very moderate.

Construction of the station, it is understood, will start very soon. Princeton is to become an important link on the transprovincial and transcontinental telephone line.

Legion Official To Speak Here

Robert Macnicol, secretary of the B.C. Provincial Command, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., will be an important visitor to Princeton Monday, April 20, when he will address all interested returned men under the auspices of the Princeton Branch Canadian Legion.

Mr. Macnichol is one of the leading authorities in returned men's work in the province, and is sure to have much of interest to say to all returned men. A welcome is extended to all, whether members of the Princeton branch or not.

Double doses must suit Al Towries, manager of the Capitol. He had one last week and has booked another for next Monday and Tuesday. "The Man Hunter" and "Be Yourself" are two short full features.

If you like thrills and mystery you will be pleased with "Bulldog Drummond," starring Ronad Colman, here next week-end.

COUNTY COURT HERE MONDAY, APRIL 13

County court will be held in Princeton Monday, April 13, under His Honor Judge J. R. Brown of Grand Forks. Two civil cases and three naturalization applications are on the card.

Cook Estate vs. McIntosh (adjourned from last court) and Bush vs. B.C. Platinum Co. are the actions, while the following are seeking naturalization: Emanuel Brkich, Milan Cvetkovich, Walter Harris Lawrence

LODGE NOTES

The next session of the county lodge of the Orange Lodge will be held at Peachland.

D. C. Manly, grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias lodge was a visitor here last week, in the course of a tour through the province.

Massed Choirs In Fine Performance

PRINCETON UNITED CHURCH CHOIR ASSISTS IN MEMORABLE RENDITION OF SACRED NUMBERS

The choir of St. Paul's Church engaged with six other choirs in the presentation Good Friday of a memorable musical service. The impressive event, which was held in Penticton United Church, drew a large and appreciative congregation.

Besides the local choir those of Summerland, West Summerland, Peachland, aNramata, Oliver and Penticton were assembled under the baton of Mr. B. C. Gracewell, conductor of the Penticton United Church choir. Mrs. Manuel was at the organ.

"Gloria," from the "Thirteenth Mass" (Mozart); "Love for Thy Tender Mercies' Sake" (Farrant), and the Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah."

Solos were excellently rendered by Mrs. J. Sproson of Oliver "There Is a Green Hill" (Gonoud); and Mr Ben Newton of Summerland "The Majesty of the Divine Humiliation" (Stainer).

The evening address was delivered by Rev. J. C. Goodfellow of Princeton. Rev. H. Fier of Oliver read the scripture lesson and conducted the prayers. Just before the singing of the Hallelujah Chorus Rev. E. W. Mackay of Summerland pronounced the benediction.

UNIQUE SUCCESS

The event was in itself a notable achievement, the culmination of efforts launched many days in advance The secretarial work was undertaken by Miss Ursala Thom of Penticton with Mr. Bracewell, conductor of the Penticton choir, also bore a considerable share of the work of organizing, as did Rev. R. R. Morrison minister of Penticton church and the various ministers whose choirs assisted.

In the afternoon, following a joint rehearsal, the visiting choirs were entertained at a banquet arranged in their honor by the ladies of the Penticton Unted Church.

"Epitomising many comments heard after the service," states Rev. J. C Goodfellow. "I must express a general hope that this will not be the last service of its kind It might become an annual event The whole conception found a warm response. The organizing work must have been laborious, but the end achieved was worth it all. Under the leadership of Mr Bracewell the various units in musical performance was well worth while. Anthems were "Jesu, Word of God Incarnate" (Gounod); "Incline Thine Ear" (Himmel); "God So Loved the World" (Stainer); 'Seek Ye the Lord" (Roberts); became fused into a united choir and gave real interpretations of classic selections."

The result was as outstanding as it was unique Each choir worked under its own leader on the selections given The first and only joint rehearsal was at Penticton on the afternoon just prior to the service.

Looking It Over

(Our own and other people's views.)

MODERATION—IN PROFITS

British Columbia legislatures—bundle of paradoxes. Now it is to increase British Columbia's revenue by educating the young folks not to drink—or is it to drink?

Educational propaganda concerning intoxicating beverages and the evils thereof is actually under advisement, according to a statement in the house by Premier Tolmie himself.

But here is the real irony of the situation: this temperance campaign is to be promoted by the government which looks to liquor profits to carry out a large share of its projects, and is actually to be financed from liquor profits.

"Such an educational campaign would do a great deal of good toward teaching the young people the evils of excessive indulgence in alcoholic liquor," said Dr. Wrinch of Skeena He was backed up by another Grit A. M. Manson, former attorney-general, no less.

There is one good thing. It is not a party affair. Dr. Wrinch is a Liberal. Canon Hinchcliffe, whose duty it will be to inaugurate the campaign, is, one understands, a Tory.

It seems especially apt that the gentle minister of education is to be entrusted with the salvation of our youth. His university administration antics have shown how aptly he is fitted.

So the government IS interested in liquor. It recalls a memorable repartee in the house on the budget speech between Duff Pattullo and the inimitable "Pat" Maitland. When the latter was discussing education in general, the opposition leader shot in "and how about liquor administration?"

Maitland's reply-like thrust was characteristic: "I will leave it to the Hon. leader of the opposition to talk about liquor. I prefer to speak of education, a subject in which I am interested." Duff did not interrupt again during the speech.

A BULLY STORY

The other day Mayor Taylor, as he is wont to do, got someone angry Now this is a very bad fault of Mr. Taylor's and he should be roudly chastised. But after all, the other fellow GOT angry did he not?

The other fellow in this case was Mr. J. W. Berry, leading light among the lower Fraser milk breeders, if you will, and statesman at Victoria, of course.

Mr. Berry no doubt does not care for Mr. Taylor, and he will have many associates. But Mr. Berry evidently does not care very much for Mr. Berry either.

The story is trite. Mr. Berry, with a puerile show of enthusiasm, invited Mr. Taylor to visit the Berry farm (self made, mind you) and learn something about milk from the bulls using his red tie as bait.

And L. D. took him up. According to the press the erring but errant magistrate entered the field, and actually waved his flaming cravat at the biggest and best bull Berry ever established. But it was beneath his bovine dignity to talk milk with Mr. Taylor.

Of course Mr. Taylor's little heroism was just stage play. But it was effective stage play, and it got over because this is just the sort of thing anyone would expect a man like Mr Taylor to do. A mere bull worry L.D.? Not so he'd admit it. In private life Mr. Taylor may think about bull much as the average citizen does In public life it's just another set-up Credit that round to L.D.

THAT ROAD TO BLAKEBURN

Blakeburn has a bee in its bonnet The road, they claim, is in disgraceful shape. And they are apparently unanimous in this opinion, and not at all inclined to be submissive about it.

Why should they? Blakeburn, with all its faults, which is the worst one can say for it, is without doubt one of British Columbia's real supports. It is camps like this with a relatively large operation and small population that are the backbone of our taxation system. The Coalmont Collieries pays out close to half a million dollars annually in wages alone. This is only a guage for total revenue accruing to the provincial coffers from this industry.

Surely no one can say that Blakeburn is unreasonable when they insist on a good road. We should imagine they are entitled to the very best road that can be provided. What else can the government give them as a settlement? And what have they if they have not a road.

With a good road they are easily on the beaten track; without it, they are isolated on the hillside. It is a question of all or nothing.

The psychology of the miner should not be overlooked. He works hard, plays hard. And he feels he is entitled to. He is not likely to be satisfied with just a road. He wants a good road, and he wants a road at his convenience.

At this time we are not able to pass personal opinion on the condition of the road; but we have at other times seen it in pretty bad shape When one has several choices, some liberties may be taken, but where a road means everything to a camp, its upkeep should be the first consideration.

LED AND LEADING

Elsewhere in this issue we reproduce an editorial from the Wilkie (Sask.) Press, hitting one back above the belt for the newspaper. This sort of thing is bound to be very popular with the average newspaper, and we suppose it is sound enough, but we do not altogether give the impression that we are making it out battle cry

It has always seemed to us that the independence of a newspaper, irrespective of its size, was the brightest and best thing it could possess in consequence, we do not like to admit that the business men of a town are entirely responsible for the standard of their community publication We admit, however, they can make a whale of a difference.

Personality is not supposed to play a very considerable part in the make-up of any newspaper worth its salt; that is common acceptance. But show us the accomplishment of today that is not the product of personality.

What is meant in keeping personality out of the press is hardly that: it is to harness personality to community welfare. That is a far different thing from making the local sheet the mouthpiece of the local demigod, or whatever the small town editor is supposed to be.

We have always contended that a newspaper has to a large extent its making in its own hands. It has as much control over its community as its community has over it. The press has too grand a story, too noble an existence, to meekly say it is just what the man with the pawbee will let it be.

We think the average weekly paper is just as much a creation of that spirit of independence, of defiant defense of prime principle, as the greatest writer or reformer who ever lived And we are not content to admit that we are just as good as the support we get. hat would be to make the non-supporting unworthy citizen your master.

On the other hand, there is of course a great deal of truth in the theory. Independence and determination can do much but cold hard cash always has a hand in the proceedings.

When a merchant pays a newspaper advertising cash, however, he does not pay—directly—for the privilege of keeping a newspaper in the town He pays for a sales service specifically rendered. And he gets value, dollar for dollar, if the newspaper is worthy of its name. If not, perhaps it is better that it languish and die

At the same time, there is absolutely no doubt that he newspaper is dependent on the advertiser's dollar. It is a business presumption that it will be a worth-while medium for the advertiser and will do business as such. Naturally, if this fails to prove the case, the newspaper is handicapped

But then it is the merchant's funeral as much as it is the newspaper's and a double funeral at that, for at the same time the merchant forfeits

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

(By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.)

That the world's greatest selling power is advertising.

Advertising is the spirit of progress of the business world. Steadily it gives a complete victory over all obstacles, because t is dependable.

Year after year advertising constantly makes its successful appeal to the world on behalf of worthy business.

No power or influence can hinder or retard the growth of a business that is being built with the aid of steady, truthful advertising.

Business men who make a practice ofstudying the advertising and editorial pages of the newspapers and trade journals keep up-to-date and are better fortified to engage in the battle for better business.

Spasmodic advertising never brings as good results as continuous advertising.

Advertising and better business go hand in hand.

ST. PETER'S CATHOLIC CHURCH

The church on Easter Day was packed to the doors, the men and boys all round the altar during mass. There were fifty Holy Communions made, and twenty children made their first Holy Communions. There is no joy like the joy of Easter with its promise of Resurrection and newness of life. It is the time to make generous resolutions, and to be fervent in the practice of our Faith.

I shall be at Blakeburn on the 15th and at Coalmont and Tulameen on the 16th and 17th.

North, east, south and west—members of the family had scattered in all directions. They had enjoyed such a happy reunion, but now they were gone, their varied duties and interests taking them to widely separated points.

But actually they weren't going to be so far apart any more. They had promised to keep in touch with each other, regularly, by means of the long distance telephone, agreeing that the "personal touch" of a telephone call was the next best thing to seeing each other.

After this the telephone will keep the family together.

KIMBERLEY TO PLAY BALL IN VANCOUVER

Similkameen will likely have considerable interest in Vancouver's senior baseball race this summer. Cecil Kimberley is the newest addition to former Similkameen stars now playing on the coast. He will line up with B.C. Telephone, a new club which appears to be very strong. Abie Cross will be a fellow member. Lorne Campbell, another of Copper Mountain's former players, will likely again perform with the V.A.C. team.

Prepare Monday For School Sports Meet

ANNUAL MEETING SET FOR HEDLEY APRIL 13; HEDLEY TO DEFAULT SPONSORSHIP THIS YEAR

Preparations for the fifth annual track and field meet of the Similkameen schools will be started April 13 when delegates and officers gather at Hedley for the annual general meeting.

Somewhat later than last year in getting started, the school sport legislators will nevertheless have the advantage of the highly efficient machinery set up last year which was instrumental in providing the most successful meeting on record.

This year's sports, however, will not be held at Hedley, contrary to the permanent schedule set in movement last year. Due to local conditions Hedley intimates that it does not feel inclined to undertake this responsibility, and will likely ask to be excused the duty.

This will offer some difficulty, as the understanding was the schedule was definite and permanent but under the circumstances the meet will likely go to Keremeos, with Hedley forfeiting its turn for three years.

This is the first occasion that the annual meeting has been held out of Princeton, which is considered most central for all schools of the valley, but President Baxter of Hedley decided to give the south Similkameen the break for once.

Johannsen Wins At Vancouver

PRINCETON MAN AGAIN SHOWS WAY AT EASTER MEETING AT GROUSE MT.

Princeton's Ole Johansen, Canadian Class B champion, further added to his laurels when he carried off the combined class B championship at the annual Grouse Mountain Easter ski sport meeting.

Once again it was Johansen's expertness in the racing event which gave him the success. He failed to place in the jump among the first three but was an easy first in the race.

Norm Kaldahl of Vancouver again coupled nice form in both umping and racing events to win class A honors. The Hollyburn man took the race and gained third place in the jump. Hagen of Vancouver made the best leap, 123 feet.

E. Engen, captain of the Princeton club was one of the speakers at a banquet after the competition. Nels Nelson, famous Revelstoke jumper, was in attendance at the meet.

Princeton Golf Season Opens

PRESIDENT'S TEAM WINS FROM VICE-PRESIDENT IN ANNUAL OPENING FIXTURE

Princeton's golf season opened auspiciously and officially Monday with the usual ceremony of the President vs. Vice-president match when, true to local tradition, the president's side won but by the narrow margin of one game.

The event did not bring out a great number of players and was run along informal lines. Results were:

President:		Vice-president:
Ewart 1		Nathan 0
Coles Jr. 1		Sorenson 0
Coles Sr 0		Hooper 1
Forsyth ½		Waterman ½
Total 2½		Total 1½

The ladies opened their season with a medal play competition, honors going to Mrs. E. C. Lansing, by a very narrow margin. There were only three strokes between the first four in the standing and handicaps practically decided the match. Miss Freeman had the best gross score. Results

Curtain For Hoop Season

INTERIOR FAILS TO COP SINGLE BRITISH COLUMBIA TITLE AS SEASON CLOSES

With the rout at Trail by the Powell River stars of the interior winners in the men's senior B class, basketball honors in British Columbia were definitely settled for another season. At the same time Kamloops girls were losing to Victoria, and thereby the last championship hopes of the interior went aglimmering.

The interior cut a rather sorry figure this year, failing to win a single provincial title, in spite of bein particularly favored by the draw.

Penticton must be chagrined at failing to win a championship after so many years of endeavor, and to lose by just two points must make the blow more bitter than ever. Penticton's showing was somewhat of a disappointment. After their strong bid last year it was considered they would have a real contender for senior honors. Their intermediate team was from the start recognized as extraordinary. Penticton concentrated all efforts on these teams entering no others. Support also was discouraging.

Salmon Arm stands out as one of the most enterprising basketball towns in the interior, and its teams, though failing to go right through, again did well. Though the intermediate boys lost their title to Penticton, it was only by three points in a great series.

Trail again did very well, retaining its senior title, and stands the best chance of any to bring a provincial title to the interior.

Princeon swings to the list of hard luck clubs after a showing during the past two years that was far ahead of its ability to maintain. With its stars departed, the home-brews made as good a showing as was expected in senior C class.

Armstrong returned to the fold quite strongly, and though they failed to get past the first barrier in either of the two classes entered, considering it was a revival they did quite well.

Vernon, where basketball has never been popular enough to make the teams strong contenders, did about as well as usual. It made a good showing in all three classes entered. Of the newcomers and the smaller towns generally with only one entry or without entries at all. Merritt did best, going through to senior C championship. Rutland who were considered champions last year, did well in their own section. Keremeos made a very good showing which should keep them in the race. Kimberley found that interior honors take some shooting at, but may be more successful next year. Ashcroft got only as far as the first series in the only division entered.

Alogether the interior had a fairly successful year, though its showing against the coast was not what might be wished for.

The usual fluctuation of interest continued. Kelowna, Kamloops, Vernon and Salmon Arm are certainly on the up-grade. Penticton, Princeton, and Revelstoke are temporarily in the doldrums. A couple of seasons back it was just the reverse.

Harry "Pi" Campbell scored a unique honor for the interior when the scoring figures for the season were released this week. With 101 points the Kelowna native and Princeton star took first place, a long point ahead of Grant of Y Huskies. Had he not taken a trip home—and to play in Princeton—at Christmas, he would doubtless have held a larger margin. He missed a league game at that time and Varsity won it by a large margin.

"No Support= Poor Service=

A weekly newspaper, is or should be, a kind of business directory for the town in which it is published; a catalogue of the business firms located therein and the class of merchandise they carry. Of late years particulary this statement does not hold good.

Pick up any of the local newspapers published in towns of a population of 2000 or under and one will have a very poor idea of the service that town is actually able to offer. An outsider might well wonder where and how the needs of the community are served as he will not find advertisements of more than one-third of those actually engaged in business. The small-town publisher is at a distinct disadvantage to many other business firms. His field is limited to the confines of his town so far as his advertising revenue is concerned. True, he may occasionally get advertisements from district residents, but these amount to very little during even an entire year. He is supposed to stand loyally and four-square behind his local community and should he go further afield for advertising support and court the mail-order class of business he is branded as disloyal and a traitor. Many publishers today continue with their publications because they realize they are under obligations to their subscribers to produce paper week in and week out, having collected in advance in many cases for the service they promised to furnish---they must keep faith with their readers.

Inadequate advertising support results in curtailment of publication, because the publisher is unable to devote sufficient time or money to the accumulation of news. In order that all possible attention be given to the printing department of the business augmented by outside trade, the weekly publication is frequently skimped and quickly disposed of as it is unprofitable and does not show a wide enough margin of revenue to employ necessary extra help. This condition, while perhaps deplorable, is born of necessity.---Wilkie Press, Saskatchewan.

A change in the skyline of the town. Like every settlement, Princeton is moving. Progression or retrogression, wherever man is concerned, there must be movement. A man, a town, a country, cannot stand still. Business cycles may spell good times or bad, families, civic leaders, local problems, may come and go. But the town goes on despite mere individual alterations.

as the hub of the wheel of Similkameen progress, important possibilities portend. Each spoke represents a natural resource, a growing development. As the hub moves so move the spokes. And as the spokes move, so moves the hub.

For Princeton

Concentrated effort is the keynote of progress. It is the driving power of the vehicle of success. The Similkameen is a unit, by nature so endowed. Unless the hub carries the spokes and the spokes move with the hub, the best will not be realized.

Concentration is the keynote of success. The first effort must come from the hub, and as the wheel gains momentum, the spokes contribute their share and the velocity increases.

It should be the realization of every citizen that the prosperity of the Similkameen lies within him. He will be carried along with the speed of success as he contributes his morsel of driving power. There is no magic about prosperity. The plain formula is hard work along genuinely co-opeative lines.

B.C. DISTILLERIES SHOW TREMENDOUS GROWTH

Few British Columbia organizations have grown as steadily as the B.C. Distillery Co. Limited—few Brit[ish] Columbia products have enjoyed [a] steadily increasing wide [de]mand for the quality [pro]duced by this firm.

Founded in 1904 the firm's New Westminster plant, which embraces an imposing group of buildings, and represents a tremendous investment is acknowledged to be one of the largest and best equipped distilleries in the world.

During the past 27 years, this industry has contributed substantially to the welfare and prosperity of our province. An ever expanding payroll provides a great many B.C. men and women with steady employment—a large number of firms and individuals in B.C. prosper from supplying regularly the many requirements and large amount of equipment.

In foreign countries as well as in all parts of the empire, there is a growing demand for the products of the B.C. Distillery Co. Limited. Men who have acquired their skill and experience in world famous old distilleries supervise the production of these brands from the finest ingredients obtainable, in a plant furnished throughout with completely modern equipment.

a service he needs and should be glad to have and he stifles the expansion of his community. It is a part of business to sell your products though advertising just as much as it is to open your door in the morning.

The whine is about the last thing a newspaper should resort to.

Independence is the backbone of the press. It is and will be a vital institution in its community. Its place will be impossible to fulfill. It has a right to exist and flourish as a business proposition. Few businesses have a better right. And if there is any life in a community it will flourish. If not, it will not suffer any worse a death than the community itself.

So when the advertiser decides to take the blame? The best business economize or to spite the village scandal sheet—as even the best merchants do, at times, then of course he is just slipping the noose around his own neck. Tragic, and all that, but should the newspaper cycle is where each citizen buys and sells in proper rotation, using essential services in correct proportions The newspaper is a vital cog in the mechanism. It pulls for the advertiser in direct returns and for him indirectly, by pulling for a better community which will offer him more chance to prosper. Then who said the newspaper was a craven weakling?

Of course, there is always the sucker, who is content to share the advantages of a newspaper business market without paying for his part of the service. Whether a merchant advertises or not he is benefitting by the circulation of an advertising medium in his community. But there always was that type of gentleman, and generally speaking his other qualities are such that he is just an also ran, and doesn't get very much of the trade at any rate.

FIRST PRACTICE SUNDAY

Princeton's first football turnout is billed for Sunday when players and aspiring players are asked to be on hand at the Race Track at 3 p.m. It is proposed to operate a local series, and Princeton will no doubt again have a representative team also, though plans for the season have not yet been definitely made.

KAMLOOPS HAS SIX ENTRIES IN CITY LEAGUE

Kamloops is very strongly organized for the football season. The city league has jumped from four to six teams—an especially good representation for an interior town. Competing teams, already into their schedule, are C.N.R. Tranquille, K.A.A. Capitol Theatre, Rex Theatre and High School.

The Robertson Cup committee have decided to call for entries immediately with a view to getting the competition well over before the very warm weather.

CHAMPIONSHIPS MAY 25-26-27

REVELSTOKE.—May 25, 26, and 27 have been set as the date for the annual interior golf championships which will be held here. Arrangements are already under way for accommodating the big event.

THOMAS MAKES RECORD

Ralph Thomas, former Princeton athlete and Hedley schoolmaster, now Varsity sprint phenom, turned into fact what he had accomplished unofficially a few days before when he raced over a heavy track in the annual inter-faculty track meet at U.B.C. to set a new record in the 100 yard dash at 10 1-5 seconds.

Tommy equalled this feat in the trial the previous week, but only one timer caught him, and the mark could not be accepted as official.

Thomas, however, did not ditch his streak of hard luck, for he ran away in the hurdles only to find himself disqualified for knocking over some of the hurdles.

Bill Lucas, former team mate of Thomas on the Princeton basketball squad turned in a good performance in the pole vault, leaping over ten feet.

PRINCETON BANKERS ARE SLY

When F. J. Roche naively sidetracked two bandits who entered the Vancouver Heights branch of the Bank of Montreal lately, his actions had direct interest for Princeton. Mr. Roche was at one time manager of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, in 1926-7, temporarily relieving H. J. Collas.

Princeton had a similar connection last year when S. F. Petrie outwitted bandits out Point Grey way. On this occasion Mr. Roche told the bandits that he was unable to open the vault owing to the time locking device.

KASLO'S SUCCESS

KASLO.—A complete redraft of the bylaws was decided on when the Kaslo club had its annual meeting this week. H Giegerich, S. Green and F. S. Rouleau were appointed to undertake this task.

The club experienced a good season last year and will start the new season with $100 on hand. Directors named were H. Giegerich S. H. Green, Dr. Barclay, F. S. Rouleau, G. D. Bowker, E. H. Latham, R. Hewat. Officers include Hon. Pres., Jas. Anderson; pres., H. Giegerich; vice-pres., E. H. Latham; sec., A. W. Anderson; auditor, A. J. Curle; captain, F. S. Rouleau; vice captain, G. D. Bowker; grounds committee, S. H. Green, S. J. Reuter, W. Myers; finance committee, R. Hewatt and Dr. Barclay.

Dates for the annual handicap tournament for the Kootenaian cup and Bowker rose bowl were set for June 1 and 4; and for the annual championships Sept. 12 and 13.

A special arrangement was made to enable schools teachers to compete to July at half the regular fee. The tournament committee will work in conjunction with the ladies' section.

CRANBROKK'S GOOD YEAR

CRNABROOK.—An increase of revenue of $396.88 over the previous year, acquisition of a splendid new club house, and sale of the old site were encouraging items reported at the annual meeting of the Cranbrook Golf Club Ltd. and the Cranbrook Golf and Country Club.

The splendid new club house, with its cheery fireplace, its well, and an improved road, were welcome acquisitions. A splendid social season was also enjoyed. During the year the Crow's Nest tournament was accommodated on the Cranbrook links.

Directors were elected as follows: Mrs. F. Large, A. A. McKinnon, E. Home P. Klinkestiver, and Mrs. C O. Staples.

Considering that four families was inadequate representation, Princeton Board of Trade requested that Mr. J. G. Thynne, who is advocating a rural mail delivery to serve the ranchers of One Mile district, and Summers Creek circulate a new petition, and secure signatures of a better representation of settlers.

The board had previously been in correspondence with the district superintendent of postal service.

It was pointed out that the board had some years ago made a similar move in support of better mail service for the One Mile district, and stand prepared to do so again, when given a more adequate expression of the settlers involved.
