Monument Will Perpetuate Hope Road Glory of Royal Engineers, Our Pioneer Builders

THE Hope Road of the Royal Engineers—a dormant dream realized a century after—is to be honored and preserved.

A section of rock work at the Hope end, finest example of the Sappers' skill, is to be made into a historical park.

When the gold fever burst upon the monopolist solitude of the fur lords in the wilderness of the trading river vaguely known as British Columbia, and a motley horde unsatiated by California debouched at the Hudson's Bay Company's log wharf at Victoria,

Colonial officials at Westminster, the loss of most of Britain's rightful North-West to the Americans still smarting, wasted no time in formally establishing a Crown Colony.

Faced at once with a tremendous task of opening the desolate wilderness to civilian enterprise and of maintaining law and order and defence. they dispatched a detachment of that resourceful British regiment, the Royal Engineers as a dual garrison and development force.

Fewer than 200 in all, under command of Col. Clement Moody the first group of 20 reached Victoria 29th October, 1858. One of their first works was a "fortress town" on the Mainland—Sapperton, forerunner of NEW Westminster.

But the throngs wanted gold, and astute Governor James Douglas wanted them working.

Before the Engineers arrived, Douglas had sent John Fall Allison—an arrival from California—to scout placer resources in Similkameen. In 1860 Douglas set the Engineers to build a road to the Similkameen and Rock Creek diggings. In September of that year he himself visited the camps, was so impressed that he instructed the Engineers to push the road with all speed, chart a divisional town of Princeton on the Swan Lake flat (above the present town); it being his eventual plan to use barges on the Similkameen river and continue the road across B.C. as a link of a trans-Canada "Imperial Road."

Fickle gold fortunes soon shifted interest to the Cariboo. The Hope-Princeton road was abandoned and the Engineers transferred to the Cariboo Road — their major fame.

But they had surveyed a route to Similkameen and actually built some 25 miles of permanent wagon road.

In 1865 Walter Moberley completed the route to Princeton, as a modest pack trail, under government contract.

This, known as the Dewdney

Trail, served until the building of the railway in 1885 as the route to the Southern Interior.

For 90 years this area pressed in vain for the completion of the Hope-Princeton road begun by the Engineers as the pioneer Mainland road. Hopes were thwarted when in 1919 the government selected the Fraser Canyon route for the Interior road, but on 2nd November, 1949 the opening of the Hope-Princeton link and the completion of the in London a man was jailed for swiping salt. His name was — Lott.

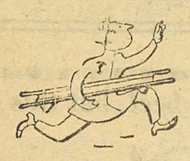
in Glasgow a man was digging a grave. It caved, he fell in, was buried in it.

in Barnstaple, Devon a man rushed in and demanded "Give me your dough." But it was not a holdup, it was a fire. The fireman used the baker's dough to patch a leaking gas main.



in Alsace, France a whole batch of sausage had to be destroyed because a new girl apprentice thought it was a washage machine and put her skimpies into it.

in a Rumanian school there was alarm over the notes the boys and girls were exchanging. The teacher told the police. They searched the school, found naughty notes; and in the mistress's desk a book from which they had been copied.

a liquor store in Denmark was burglarized. They took liquor worth $25—and a Great Dane watchdog worth $100.

an urgent message was received at the hotel to page an Indian delegate to the U.N. His name was SUBRAMANIAN DHARMAVENKATARAMAN.

a Northumberland woman has just spent the first night away from her house since she was married 30 years ago. Earlier that day the house had burned down.

in Boston a woman sued for divorce, said her brute of a husband had left her 26 times. She testfied on—and on. After half an hour the magistrate got a word in. "Case dismissed. This man has suffered enough."

POSTIES MADE WORK MERRY

And Your Chrismas Drudge —Old Wish for Old Folk

MANY things, but never merry things are suspected in the sometimes civil service. But few and rash are they who would accuse bureaucracy of sentiment; especially in the post office in the Christmas bourach. But this is Princeton; read and be proud.

Those evergreens that brightened your chore were the gift of the overtaxed staff—out of their own time and pocket.

And they added to their burden of sorting and handling a considerable contribution of their own. Went out in their own time and bought cards and addressed them, and stamps; then had the job of sorting them—cheerily.

GRAY GLORY

To every elderly person who gets mail here they sent one; and there was a dim eye or two in the surprise of receiving them. for not all remember the old folk who have more call to than our busy bureaucrats.

Sentiment for the Scrooges? Bah; But in the words of Tiny Tim, God Bless 'em!

★—POST SCRIPT—The Christmas spirit encompased the post master himself, who assiduously and charitably licked a great many stamps. He was heard to mutter: "Hm! Stil sarsparilla. But sooner or later the gum must be rum, chum!"

★ OVERLOOKED in the post office decorations was mistletoe over the wickets. But the busy bees are loyal To recuperate they went to Christmas parties and played—post office.

His Merry Christmas

KENNY SCHMIDT, junior senator in the postal service — they run from 15 to plus 70—got him an unwanted holiday from the Christmas rush. Riding his bike over the river ice he skidded one busted ankle. Kenny is now back at work. The river, too is getting back to normal.

CHRISTMAS TREE CUTTING IS CUT

CHRISTMAS TREE cutting, a booming and questionable new industry in Similkameen, has had a jolt.

Official Forestry policy looks not too favorably on it, chiefly out of its abuses. as a threat to potential timber revenue. No permits are issued for cutting on Crown land under this policy.

The trees bring a minimum of 60c to the cutter—retail at much more. Of this the government—and you—get but a half cent in royalties — mostly a losing proposition, costing more than it brings. And there has been considerable illegal cutting, both on Crown and private land.

There have been prosecutions in the past and a shipment was seized this year. Supervision will be much stricter in future.

Before cutting any tree you had best have a word with the forester. They take a very decent view of good intentions.

Green Harvest

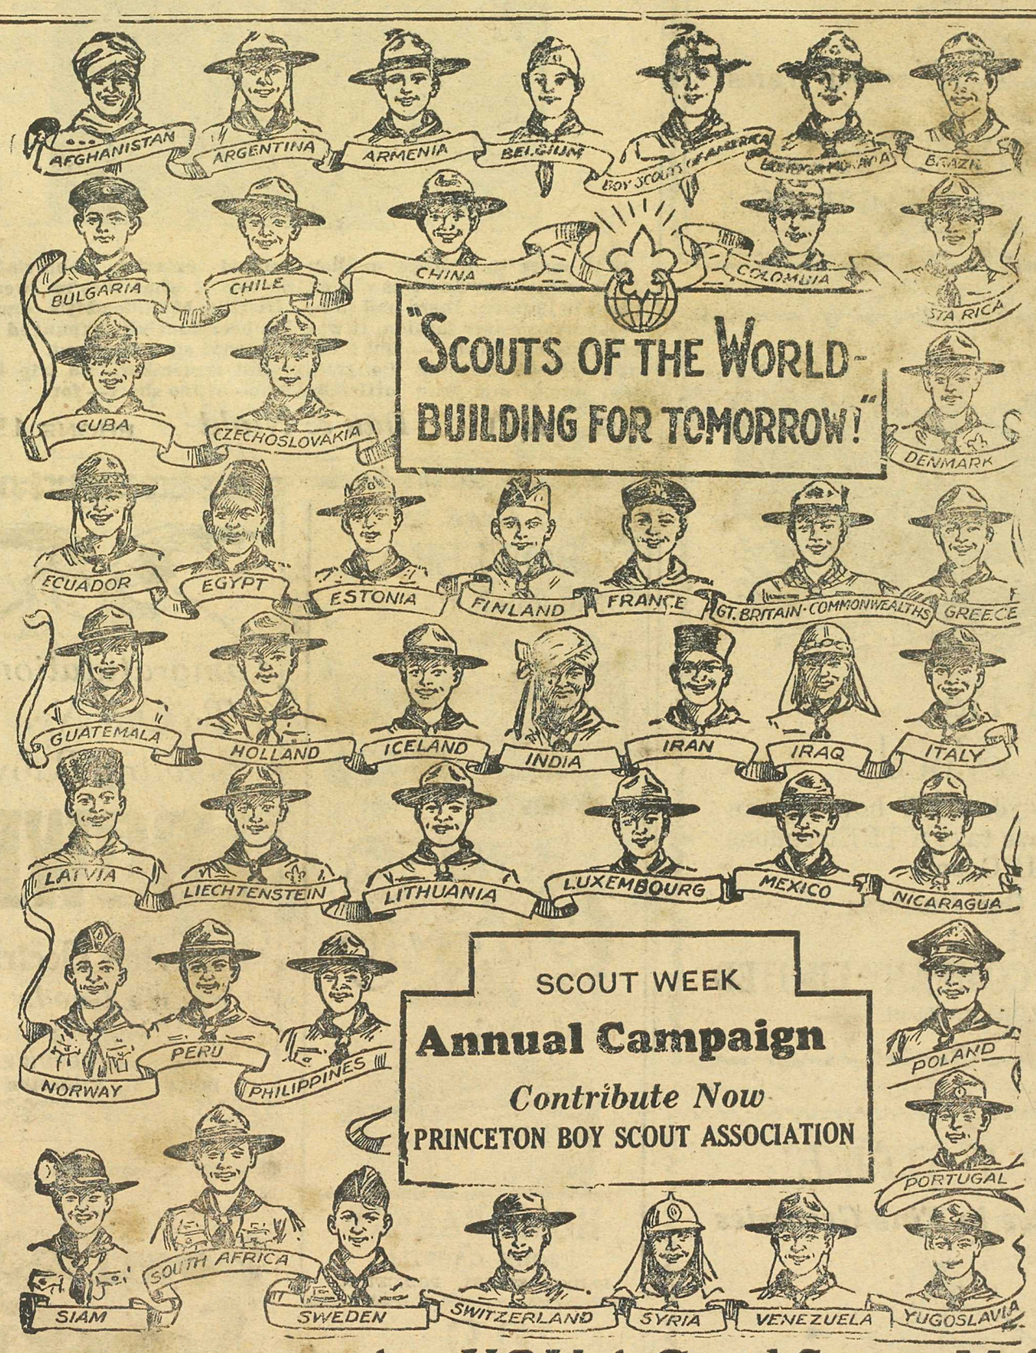
SIMILKAMEEN saplings spread Christmas cheer over an expanding orbit again this year. Christmas trees cut here find their way into homes well south of the border. Trucks piled high spice our own Christmas season.

Star Dusters Busy

A period of vigorous meteor activity is in progress over the North American continent. Sit in on the celestial extravaganza, visible in our western sky from about 10 o'clock these nights.

MERRITT ROAD PUSH

Considerable work is expected on the Princeton-Merritt road in 1953. It now carries a heavy volume as a Hope-Princeton Fraser Canyon link and this will be enhanced as the road is improved.



TIGHTEN UP ON TRAFFIC

And High Time; Only Nobody Has Noticed It Yet

TRAFFIC control will be tightened in Princeton, warns the village council, in the wake of its new traffic by-law.

Partly from an inadequate street plan and partly from drivers' licence, conditions tend to become chaotic as the town and its traffic thrive.

Provincial government put up signs, introduced parallil parking and maintains a patrol officer. Council has put up more signs.—only visible sign of improvement to date.

DE-SIGNS?

U-turns, ad lib parking, blocked entrances and lanes, parking on the wrong side all night and all winter; parking on private property, draining onto streets and private property, parking and piling on sidewalks; driving over them; speedways for bikes and kiddiecars. Never clear the snow. And you'd be surprised at the people who do it

Now all that has changed. Only no one has noticed it yet.

Here's How

Government sign crew visited Princeton short time ago putting up natty new highway signs, taking down the old ones.

—And where their caravan had rested, at a busy spot near the bus depot was picked up an interesting collection of atom age nails, all unbroken but some

Big provincial truck and municipal gargantuan approach busy intersection opposite ways. Stop sign. Duly stop. Drivers get out, hold leisurely chinwag. Finally remount, move on. Snarled traffic moves on.

AND to the valiant little driver of the big new (or second hand) noise making machine bought for our Christmas (out of our taxes) by our benevolent viallge dads, and used to maintain government miintained streets: Next time, after parking outside the Legion will you please oblige the suffering citizenry by driving IT INTO the drink.

PRINCETON LIT UP FOR THE SEASON

PRINCETON was all prettied up for the holidays. thanks to a service club—and your taxes.

Evergreens lined the streets and fairy lights were strung across — the main streets, of course, which, provincial charge as highway, seem to be all the village's concern.

The village and the club men clubbed to put the trees up; the municipal truck took them down

Like the election posters, the lights became a little out of season, but with power short and voltage low, finally co-operated by burning out. Some taxpayers couldn't afford lights themselves.

But it was really very nice.

★ DIM BULB—Pop, vintage of '85, says it is nothing new for Princeton to be 'lit up' at Xmas.

The law—and supervision—are tightening up. Formerly the trees were brought in to the forester. Now he examines them where they are cut and must clear them before they can be moved.

Are YOU A Good Scout, Mr? Youngsters Seek Service

WOULD you like to hoot like an owl? Do you know the hobo's secret signals? Can you cook schnitzels over a fire made without wood, water or matches? Would you like to tie a hangman's knot, particularly around the swanlike neck of your beloved mother-in-law?

Then the man you want to see

Then you want to see Duggie Stuart—in his short breeks without benefit of kilt or sporran. Doug, an Elk, will make an Eagle of you—on patrol, on parole.

Scouting is now firmly rooted in Similkameen, and though there are music hall jokes about the Boy Scouts, anyone of sound mind who takes the trouble to investigate will endorse the local effort. With the proviso of course that scouting is what you make it, just as with all the adult fraternities.

The movement here is still small and the policy of no compromise with quality for quantity is sound scout principle. A good heart will thrive.

The late Sir Robert Baden-Powell conceived the idea thro' service in the Boer War. The barracks - drilled British got rather a lesson from the bushmen Boers, and Baden - Powell was wise and generous a soldier enough to profit by it. In 1910 he launched the Boy Scout movement on the international thesis of service through sound knowledge of practical nature.

A scout pledges himself to serve humanity unselfishly, by making himself a true representative of what any nation ought to strive for—the personal responsility of universal good citizenship.

HORROR

3. A scout's honor is to be trusted
—Until he grows up and goes into business or politics.
4. A scout is loyal.

5. A scout is useful.

free enterprise countries move fastest

In wartime, government intrudes into business and industry because it must cut down on consumer goods and build weapons.

But in peacetime, it has been found, the return of a great degree of freedom to trade and industry is vital to welfare. Otherwise, living standards remain low. An "equal sharing" of poverty is not attractive.

Today, economic progress of the countries now recovering from World War II can be measured by the amount of freedom they have given business and industry to carry on commercial adventure in the hope of making a profit.

Dynamic free enterprise, based on confidence, is still the most powerful force for progress and better living standards the world has ever found.

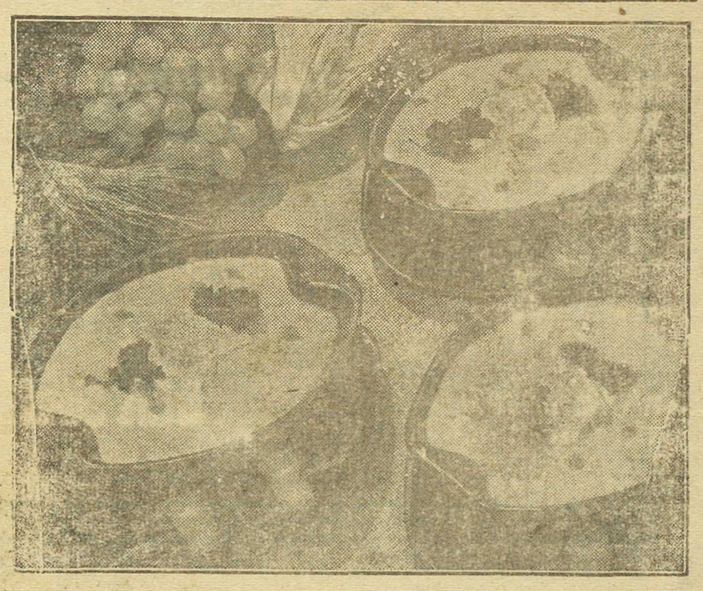
Soup Goes With Holiday Meals



A CREAMY soup with nuggets of mushroom has long been a holiday dinner tradition.

With condensed cream of mushroom soup, you're all set to serve the soup course without effort. And during the busy season ahead, you'll often have occasion to use this many-purpose soup. It's grand as extra gravy to have with the holiday bird or with baked potatoes; and use it too as the sauce in creamed turkey and other after-holiday dishes.

For your holiday feast, enjoy mushroom soup just as it comes from the can. Or try it in one of these taste-intriguing soup combinations:

Mushroom Consommé Soup: Blend together a can each of condensed cream of mushroom soup and consommé; stir in ½ soup can of water. Heat and serve with a puff of whipped cream on top. Makes 4 servings.

Mushroom-Chicken Soup with Sherry: Combine 1 can each of condensed cream of mushroom soup and cream of chicken soup; stir in 1 soup can of water and 1 of milk; add 2 or 3 teaspoons of sherry as desired. Makes 4 servings.

Mushroom Soup Garnishes: Try any of the following as a festive garnish for cream of mushroom soup:

Blue cheese (crumbled) — Onion salt
Nutmeg — Curry powder

SOUP SCOOPS

Combine Chicken, Cranberries in Muffins: Marvelous Chicken-Cranberry Muffins are these, made with condensed cream of chicken soup as the liquid: First chop 1 cup fresh cranberries and mix with ½ cup sugar. Then in mixing bowl sift together 2 cups flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt; make a well in center. Combine 1 can cream of chicken soup with 1 egg (beaten) and ¼ cup melted shortening; add to dry ingredients, stirring just until mixed. Stir cranberries into batter. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Bake in a hot oven (400° F.) about 20 minutes or until done. Makes 12 muffins.

* * *

Tomato Soup Is Welcome In Lunches: Hot tomato soup is a welcome item in lunch boxes on cool days. Use condensed tomato soup with an equal amount of milk for this good hot dish—it gives your luncher a double dividend in good food value. Cheese or egg salad sandwiches taste just right with the hot soup.

* * *

Can of Spaghetti Makes Short-Order Special: Need a speedy meal during the holiday season? You'll like ¼ pound of browned ground beef frizzled with 1 small minced onion, then mixed with 1 can of spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese. Use the 15 fluid-ounce can of spaghetti and there are 4 portions. Serve piping hot.

THE PROPER CARE OF YOUR AUTOMOBILE

Fenders

THE most common mishap among motorists is of a minor nature, damage to fenders, but is one which is liable to develop into a more serious matter if neglected. When fenders become scratched or scraped they should be retouched promptly to prevent rusting, because if neglected the rust is liable to eat its way through the metal. If the fender is black, it should be finished with an enamel which dries with a color and lustre closely resembling the newly baked enamel.

Before the scraped parts are retouched the metal should be thoroughly cleaned to remove all grease, dirt and rust. If the edges of the abrasion are smoothed down with fine sandpaper or steel wool it will give a better looking job.

It is wise, also, to retouch worn spots on the tire carrier, bumper fittings, shock absorbers, and other parts which are finished in black. If you also touch up bolts and nuts which are used for installing bumpers, license plates, etc., it will be easier to remove the nuts should they need replacement.
