EVERY DAY SEES THE REVIVAL IN MINING BECOME MORE SUBSTANTIAL.

Consolidated Company About To Instal Compressor And Tramway.

It is with genuine pleasure that we record a substantial revival in our staple industry. From the many mines which surround the once famous payroll centre come most excellent reports. We can truthfully write that at the present time at every mine in the vicinity the miners are working on ore. In some instances this is the outcome of a program of development and deep mining, sterling factors which have established the permanence of the values and the reputation of the banner silver-lead section of the province. For the past six weeks the arrival of miners to the camp has been steady, and these have immediately found employment at tip-top wages. But many more good miners are needed, the lack of which is retarding the progress of many property holders.

EUREKA-RICHMOND.

This well-known group, owned and operated by the wealthy Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada, Limited, is likely to prove the most potent factor in the resurrection of the industry in our midst. There are now about forty men on the payroll and good miners are being eagerly sought. At the mine there is an immense body of concentrating ore blockaded out, to treat which the company have in view the construction of a mill or the leasing of either the Ivanhoe or Slocan Star concentrators. Arrangements are also under way for the erection of an aerial tram, the proposed site for the lower terminal of which, together with a compressor plant, is the foot of the Star gulch, a point from which ore can be dumped direct from the bins to the cars of both the Canadian Pacific and K. & S. companies.

RECO.

This famous high-grade mine, after being closed down for some time, has once more been opened with a large force of men by J. M. Harris, and it will shortly enter the shipping lists again. The Reco trail is a busy one, pack trains making two trips a day. A large consignment of ore sacks went up on Tuesday. We understand that a new ledge has been located with a pay-streak of great richness.

LAST CHANCE.

This property was shut down two months ago when the ore body was showing up strong, but the legal proceedings which threatened to tie up the mine for a long time have been withdrawn, and Lieut-Governor Dunsmuir, virtual owner of the adjoining Noble Five group and the Last Chance company have agreed to submit the disputed point to arbitration. Work under contract, however, is being pushed at another level by William Findlay and a crew of men.

MCALLISTER.

At the conclusion of last season's work the local syndicate owning the group shipped 30 tons of ore which netted them $7,000. It was then agreed by the owners that to prove the value of the rich vein at depth, a 300 foot crosscut tunnel would have to be driven. This work is in progress, and when it is completed it will give them a vertical depth of 175 feet on the ledge. Extra miners are needed, as about the 1st of August it is intended to develop No. 3 level, running north and south drifts, which are in ore. The syndicate figure on shipping enough from the north and south drifts this fall to pay for the development. Geo. Clark, one of the owners, is superintending.

CANADIAN GROUP.

Work was resumed at this mine three weeks ago, and a good sized crew put to work. The property will enter the shipping lists again in a few days. The Towgood packing outfit have orders to begin on the first car.

MONTEZUMA.

Both mine and mill are working full handed, and gratifying results are reported. The output from the mill is on an average four cars of concentrates a month.

MOUNTAIN CON.

This is another of our high-grade mines which has been re-opened the past month. This property has yielded enormous profits to the owners from the grassroots. Ore is now being sacked by Howard Thompson and a small force.

MAJESTIC.

The lessees of this property, C. A. Bigney et al., have broken down a large quantity of A1 ore. A shipment of twenty tons will be made in a few days.

ELKHORN.

The lucky leasers of this ground made enough from their initial shipment to hold a substantial balance after putting in $1000 to exploit their holdings. A crosscut is being driven which when completed will give them a good area for stopping. There is a large quantity of clean galena on sight in the drift, which will be left standing until the crosscut tunnel is completed. A car of ore extracted in the process of development now lies in the bins.

ADAMS GROUP.

Neil and Alex. McMillan and Angus McGillivray of Queen Bess fame have just secured a lease of the above group from Brandon Brothers, and a start has been made. There is ore to begin on.

CHICAGO.

Two shifts are working at this mine, which is reported to be showing up fine. Messrs. Duck, Orchard and Baskerville, of Milwaukee, inspected the property a few days ago, and to our representative expressed themselves as delighted with the ore body and the development work proceeding. They also said that twenty men would be put to work in a few weeks. Mr. Duck, purchased for cash several interests in Cody mining property held by John McKaskill.

A steady output is kept up by the Sunset, and other mines in the Slocan district being worked from which good reports are to hand are the Corinth, Goodenough, Sunshine, Slocan Star, Moon, Bachelor, Ya-Ya, Alps, Rambler, Ruth, Redress, Farnum, American Boy, Slocan Bell, and Surprise.

Not a Fish Story--A Fact.

There is one lake in the Kootenay which contains myriads of rainbow trout, and he would indeed be a poor disciple of Isaak Walton who failed to lure a few dozen to his hooks at any time in Bear Lake. On Sunday last a party of Slocan anglers, Messrs. W. T. McClurg, S. J. Towgood, T. McAllister and J. J. Atherton journeyed down and whipped the water for several hours. On counting up the day's catch the net result was, McClurg, 849; Towgood 271; McAllister 88; Atherton 51. The poor catch of the last named is attributed to the fact of his cooking the lunch and having charge of the "bait." The total catch of 754 should be a sufficient inducement to any tourist who is looking for a quiet spot for a fair days' sport.

F. E. Archer and his plumbing staff were up from Kaslo Thursday to put a tin hat on the upper slope of the K. & S. dago mansion.

A. J. Curle, the man who is boosting Kaslo next best to our lakeside cotem., Assessor A. Lucas, and C. E. Stone, owner of the famous Lot 819, came up to make a flying trip to the burg. Owing to the dense crowds and traffic block they were unable to reach the depot in time to make the return trip.

Alex. Forrest, Pete McLanders and Billy Cliffe have been to Nelson this week to consult a solicitor re a big shipment of ore which was secured by them whilst working a portion of the Payne mine under lease, and through some flaw in the agreement they have not been allowed to sell to a smelter. The boys propose to fight the matter in the courts. Geo. Ranson, also went to Nelson to make things interesting for the company.

The famous Bon Ton in Jackson Basin is open for leasing. The property is owned by the Brandon Bros., of Silverton, who have as much as they can give personal attention to in the Canadian group. From a 25 ft. open cut on the Bon Ton four tons were shipped which gave the owners $1,242.00 profit above freight and treatment.

The best mining boat on the market: Leckie's. Macdonald sole agent.

The new time table of the Kaslo and Slocan Railway which came into effect on Monday last is as follows: leave Slocan 2 p.m., McGuigan 2.23, White-water 2.42, Sprules 2.55, South Fork 3.30, arrive Kaslo 4 p.m. The boat for Nelson departs on arrival of train. This arrangement permits of the boat arriving at Nelson forty-five minutes earlier than by the old schedule. The Sunday train is cancelled.

As proof positive that the wave of prosperity which rolls toward Slocan has already kissed this city, we might mention that one of our leading merchants informed us this week that his business for the past month more than trebled that for the corresponding month of last year, and that the present month's sales would double last month's. He claimed that last month was the best one with him for four years. He is a good advertiser, and we hope in five years he will own a departmental store as big, well nearly, as Timothy Eaton's.

Ten years ago there was a mining stock boom in B.C., and little attention was paid to fruit lands, lumber or real estate. The stock boom faded away, leaving many a sore heart perched upon a pile of gilt-colored certificates, but mining did not cease. It has gone steadily. The increase alone in the production of copper in this Province, the last decade amounting to over 800 per cent. All the signs now point to a veritable boom in real mining and the wise ones are already preparing for the advent that must come in '08 or '09.—Lowery in Saturday Sun-set.

Every newspaper wants to publish the news. The better the paper the more prosperous it will be. Local news items are especially hard to run down. How many times, dear reader have you been approached by the newspaper man for an item and told him you knew nothing of interest. Probably at that time your wife was away on a visit or someone from out of town was visiting at your home. Of course you didn't mean to deceive the scribe, yet when you received your paper you wondered why your wife or friends were not mentioned. A good way to avoid this is to inform us of the fact or drop a note in the Post Office to the paper. One item may not amount to much, but several columns of such news is the life of a local paper.

"I'd like to show you my new elastic cement," said the soft voiced man in the shiny black suit. "I make it myself, and I'll warrant it to mend anything that ever—"

"I don't need any," interrupted the man at the desk, "but if you will tell me the biggest lie about your cement I ever heard I'll buy a bottle of it merely to encourage you."

"I wouldn't lie to sell a thousand barrels of it," protested the other. "But I'll tell you of one thing I really did with it. You have heard, I presume, of the frog that tried to swallow itself up to the size of an ox. The skin of that frog, as you remember, was not equal to the strain, and it burst all to pieces. Sir, I happened to be on the spot, and I gathered up the fragments of that frog, patched them carefully together with my cement and made the creature as good as new—better, in fact, for it is a wiser frog. To prove to you that I am telling the absolute and exact truth I will show you the frog, which I have here in my valise."

"You needn't show it to me," said the man at the desk gloomily. "I'll take a bottle of your cement. Here's your money. Never mind the change. Good day."—Chicago Tribune.

Squealing a Bore.

One of the famous Rothschilds was once entertaining at dinner a distinguished party. The dinner went on admirably. Nothing marred the general enjoyment save the silly loquacity of one young man. This young man insisted on monopolizing the conversation. He insisted on talking about himself—about his books, his works, his love affairs, his automobile. Finally he jumped to his feet.

"By Jove!" he said. "I must show you my new caviar buttons. I got them this morning. They are malachite." And he passed from one guest to another, exhibiting the buttons. "Malachite," he kept repeating—"genuine malachite."

Baron Rothschild watched the young man's progress with a faint sneer. When the buttons reached him he touched them with his finger superciliously and drawled: "Ah, malachite, eh? It is a handsome stone. I have always liked it. I have a mantelpiece of it in the next room."

Mommsen on Languages.

The German historian, Professor Theodor Mommsen, was noted for the facility with which he acquired languages. The tongues of modern Europe as well as the classics were to him not studies, but the familiar tools of his daily work. An American reporter who was interviewing him some years ago asked to have a certain reference put into English, as he did not read German well.

"Not read German well? And you a journalist?" exclaimed the savant. "I do not see how it is possible. Young man, German is one of the four necessities for a student. The other three are English, French and Italian. Without them you can never know the tendency of modern thought. If you have them not, do not rest until you have learned them all."

Training a Horse.

The horse is a logical and therefore a teachable animal. Once convinced that a locomotive or any other object of terror is not really dangerous and he will never shy at it again. Every year accidents occur because the harness breaks or the vehicle upsets, and then the horse runs away. But such accidents are unnecessary. Any horse can, with a little pains, be taught to hold back a carriage by his hind quarters as well as by the breeching. To have wheels come off and straps and other things hitting his legs should be a part of every colt's education.

Daily Service On Slocan Lake.

CHANGE TAKES EFFECT AT ONCE, BUT SANDON GETS COLD SHOULDER.

C.P.R. Has Promised to Give Lake Towns "Just What Was Asked For."

When the Review joined the people of the Slocan in the fight for better terms from the C.P.R., it did so with its eyes open and fully cognizant with events which led to the reduction of the passenger service to a tri-weekly one, and we do not propose at this stage of the fight to throw up the sponge and cry quantum sufficit because the railway company has granted the prayer of residents of the four lakeside towns and reverted to a daily service. Slocan demands a daily mail service and it will continue to emphatically voice its demands, yea, even unto the Railway Commission. When Mr. Coleman visited the Slocan prompted by a spirit of enquiry, he unburdened himself in a communication to the Slocan Citizen's Committee as follows: "Will watch business closely, and first indications of revival will put on additional trains." That revival no one will deny has begun. During the past month we have kept close tab on the trains, and we feel confident the increased business will cause the Divisional Superintendent to redeem his pledge.

From the Nelson Daily News of the 19th inst., we call the published interview with Mr. D. C. Coleman:

"The result of the agitation started by the people of Slocan lake and of Slocan, which was backed by the Nelson board of trade was announced yesterday by Superintendent Coleman of the Canadian Pacific. He said: 'After a careful conference with Mr. Whyte and Mr. Basted and a careful examination of the whole of the circumstances we have determined to give the Slocan lake people just that which they asked for, which was a daily service. That service will start from Slocan City. On the three days in the week when the tri-weekly service between Rosebery and Nakusp is conducted, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, the steamer will leave Slocan City in the morning and will take up passengers to Rosebery to connect with the line to Nakusp. There they will be able to make connections with the Arrow Lake boat and go through to the coast. Calls will be made going up to Silverton and New Denver. The steamer will then turn round and go back down the lake, calling at both places on its way. In the afternoon, after the arrival of the train from Nelson, another trip will be made up and down the lake, calling at Silverton and New Denver. On the trip down the lake passengers coming in from Nakusp and the coast will be brought to any point on the lake. Thus on these three days there will be a double service as before the alteration. On the other three days of the week when the boat goes up in the morning she will not call at the way points. On her return down she will do so. Also on the afternoon trip, after the arrival of the Nelson train, she will call at all way points but will not do so on her return from Rosebery on the second trip of the day. This is arranged in this manner for the purpose of allowing the steamer to handle more expeditiously the freight which has largely increased of late. No, this does not mean that we are going to put in the winter schedule. Privately I am of the opinion that the winter schedule is the one that will, in the long run, come to be permanently employed, judging from the conditions of the country, but just now, at all events, we will handle the passenger traffic from Nelson and points east, as well as from Roseland and the Boundary by way of Robson and the Arrow Lakes."

"As far as the service between Rosebery and Nakusp is concerned, it will remain tri-weekly, although freight will go irregularly every day. A passenger may take chances if he cares to and avail himself of that. As far as Slocan is concerned there has been no alteration except in so far as the daily service on the lake has made the difference desired."

Commenting on the above the News goes on to say:

It is understood that the change will partly meet the desires of the Slocan people, but the chief alteration desired by Slocan was the laying over of the train from Nakusp at Three Forks, just below Slocan, rather than at Rosebery, but in this our esteemed contemporary is at fault. At the present time the train lays over at Rosebery, Three Forks being a flag station. We contend that the most economical and advantageous point for a roundhouse is Slocan. The train could leave here every morning for Rosebery, and a daily mail service and connection would thus be once again established at no great expense to the company and to the intense satisfaction of the public. For three days a week the train makes two trips a day from Rosebery to Slocan, but one of these trips—the first—is abortive for the reasons that there are no connections to make at such an early hour, and on account of the train laying over at Rosebery (nearly halfway between Nakusp and Slocan) which entails a useless trip to this city, after which a few minutes later it turns round and begins its real and legitimate days' business. Even if the company cannot see its way clear to running the train through to Nakusp, it can at no increased expenditure give this important point a daily connection with Slocan Lake by establishing a round house here. It follows that the freight could be just as expeditiously handled on the three off days passengers were not conveyed beyond Rosebery.

We commend this point to the consideration of the powers that be, as we have every confidence in the executive ability of Mr. Coleman to straighten out the tangle with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of the travelling public generally.

We snipped the following from the Cranbrook Herald:

"The Slocan Review is happy now that there is a prospect of better terms in the Slocan on the part of the C.P.R. The Review has done great work to bring this about and is entitled to a lot of the credit."

Our excellent contemporary has a very observant attitude, and it but echoes the sentiment of many admirers who have penned us cheery words of congratulations on Slocan's victory and for the strong stand we took in the fight. When we issued the first number of our now established weekly excitement our outlined policy was to stand as the spokesman for the people of the district, and in all matters appertaining to the common good to fight the good fight. During our eleven months existence we have had no cause to complain of the paucity of "scraps," in which by a combination of circumstances we have always managed to be at the winning end at the stick, but whether we will secure the "credit" which 'Brer Simpson maintains we are entitled to, the closing month will decide. There are those whose standing a's in this paper have been to us our existence. There are such, however, we regret to say, whom a goose couldn't graze after, but when they realize that we are merely enough to expect a quid pro quo for services rendered to the community as a whole they may jar loose. We wish to remark that the paper is not on a paying basis, and were it not for our rustling job orders and competing with cheap John outfits the Review would have been relegated to Gehenna or the literary bone yard some months ago. Now, it's up to you, Mr. Merchant and Messieurs Subscribers to commune with yourselves before this paper reaches its 52nd number. You can have every confidence in our doing the right thing, and we conclude by quoting from the Salutation in No. 1, Vol. I.: "We will do our part; will you do yours?"

A COMMUNICATION.

[It must always be distinctly understood that the Editor is not responsible for the opinions of correspondents, nor does he always agree with them.]

Dear Mr. Editor.—As a matter of public interest, I think the following should be inserted in your paper, and in asking you to insert the item I feel that were you to do so it might meet the eye of officials in high places and do some good.

On Wednesday evening last I travelled from Rosebery to Slocan by the C.P.R., and a man, whose name I afterwards ascertained was Brandon, also got on the train. He carried with him a grip and a hand saw, which he deposited under the end seat of the coach out of the way. Acting under instructions from the conductor, a brakeman swooped down on the articles to take them into the express car, but the owner rightly and strenuously objected to any such graft being worked, and he took the two articles into the seat with him. The conductor came along and prepared to seize the articles, but the owner refused to part with them. This brought about a scene, and the passenger was put in a most humiliating position. I heard him tell the conductor to either put him off the train or else go about his business and quit tantalizing him, but the conductor evidently thought it was his business to antagonize a respectable member of the travelling public, for to my way of thinking and the general opinion also of my fellow travelers, the conductor had no right to openly attack a passenger against whom it is asserted he bears a petty grudge. Now, sir, I am a commercial man, and I have travelled by rail very many thousands of miles, but I have never yet witnessed anything to compare with the autocratic action of the being who is head push on the Slocan-Nakusp run. My point, sir, is this, and one as a drummer I wish emphatically to emphasise, that if it is the custom on this run for the officials to take out of the possession of a passenger any small articles and levy express charges on them, then the sooner it is advertised the better. For my part I should refuse to allow the articles to leave my possession, and in consequence I should dread being put in the same humiliating position as my fellow passenger of Wednesday night. I am, dear sir, yours truly,

LOUIS E. DEVEREUX. Slocan, B.C., July 25, 1907.

A MAGISTRATE INVESTIGATES ZAM-BUK

SAYS IT IS A WONDERFUL HEALER AND DOES MORE THAN IS CLAIMED FOR IT

Probably no household remedy in existence has won such glowing tributes from people in high places as has Zam-Buk. Mr. Roger F. Perry, Justice of the Peace for British Columbia, recently tested this famous balm, and this is what he says of it:

"The Pavilion, Goldfields, B.C.

"To the Zam-Buk Co.

"Gentlemen—After a very fair trial I have proved Zam-Buk eminently satisfactory. In my case it cured a skin rash of five years standing which no doctor had been able to do any good for.

"I would certainly encourage any person to keep Zam-Buk in their home. It truly does even more than you claim for it. For my own part I would not now be without it in the house. Yours very truly,

(Signed) "Roger F. Perry,

"Justice of the Peace for B.C."

Zam-Buk differs from ordinary salves and embrocations, for while these mostly contain animal oils and fat, Zam-Buk is purely herbal. It closes and heals cuts, festering sores, ulcers, eruptions, boils, eczema, chafing sores, etc. In the household it is the handiest possible remedy for burns, scalds, children's injuries. It instantly cleanses any wound to which it is applied; prevents festering, inflammation or blood poisoning. It cures piles, varicose ulcers and fistula. All druggists and stores sell at 50 cents a box, or from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 6 boxes for $2.50.

CAT ADOPTS RABBITS

At the White Lion hotel at Spalding the landlady, Mrs. Betts, has a cat which is rearing a litter of young rabbits. Mrs. Betts has an Angora rabbit which died, leaving a litter of six 8-day-old ones.

At the same time she had a cat bringing up three kittens, at that time five days old. As an experiment two of these were taken away and two of the young rabbits substituted. As the cat took kindly to her unusual proteges the other four young rabbits were added, and the cat is now bringing up the litter of six young rabbits—London Standard.

CHILDHOOD AILMENTS

The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the home has a feeling of security that her child's health is safe. These Tablets cure such ailments as colic, indigestion, constipation, diarrhoea and simple fevers. They break up colds, destroy worms, make teething painless and give the child healthy, natural sleep. And the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that the Tablets are absolutely safe. Mrs. Robert Watson, Cambridge, Ont., says: "I find Baby's Own Tablets just the medicine needed to keep children healthy." Sold by all medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ABSENT-MINDED PAPA

A young bridegroom, after the wedding was all over, and the bride's old father had gone off to the club, began to search anxiously among the wedding gifts.

"What are you looking for, dear?" said the bride.

"That $2,500 cheque of your father's," he said, anxiously. "I don't see it anywhere."

"Poor papa is so absent-minded," said the bride. "He lit his cigar with it."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Where is Your Hair?

In your comb? Why so? Is not the head a much better place for it? Better keep what is left where it belongs! Ayer's Hair Vigor, now improved formula, quickly stops falling hair. There is not a particle of doubt about it. We speak very positively about this, for we know.

Does not change the color of the hair.

Formula with each bottle. Show it to your doctor. Ask him about it. Ask him about it.

Indeed, the one great leading feature of our new Hair Vigor may well be said to be this—it stops falling hair. Then it goes one step further—it aids nature in restoring the hair and scalp to a healthy condition. Ask for "the new kind."

THE EXPIATORY DEAD.

Inexplicable Fate of the Enemies of Dreyfus Revision.

"Always the dead!" Reineach cried bitterly. "Whenever we find a forger, a crime, always it is set to the account of a dead man!"

And he drew up a list, horrible in its eloquence, of the dead who strewed the dark path of this monstrous case of crime and cruelty and infamy. Yet there had fallen so many of the enemies of truth and justice that he might have called them the expiatory dead.

Three I have told you of—that poor wretch, Lemercler-Picard, "found dead" in his room in the Rue de Sevres; Henri, "found dead," with a closed razor near by; Felix Faure, "found dead" and smuggled into his palace.

There were many others. Captain d'Atel, who claimed to have heard Dreyfus avow his guilt to Lebrun-Reineach the day of his degradation, was "found dead" in a railway train, his corpse blue and already on the way to decomposition, though his journey had lasted but an hour. This pretended confession, which Dreyfus never made, d'Atel confided to his friend, Chaudo, a member of the chamber of deputies. Now, the deputy took train one day to visit his home. An hour later he was "found dead" on the railway tracks between two stations.

And Rocher of the prison guards, who also claimed to have heard Dreyfus say, "I am guilty, but I am not the only one!" died, and to this day no one knows where or how. It was as though eternal truth had reached down and slain this lie wherever it lifted its evil head.

The prefect Barreme was summoned to Paris by his government chief. He was "found dead" in his compartment when the train arrived at the Gare St. Lazare. Laurenceau, prefect of the north, was called to Paris to give evidence regarding the spy system on the German frontier. There was no accident on the journey. The next day he was "found dead" in his room at the Hotel Terminus.

Lorimer, one of Henri's most tireless agents of forgery and crime, was "found dead," hanged in a lonely barn; another, Guenee, was "found dead" on the floor of his room in Paris. Then there was Munier. His part in the conspiracy had been to falsify the meaning of a cryptic telegram sent by Parnazzardi to the Italian government, so that it affirmed the guilt of Dreyfus. And Munier was "found dead" in a railway train. Was it any wonder the world's friends began to see in these mysterious and opportune deaths the work of an avenging destiny? With grim emphasis Reineach declared, "Deicide! a fatalité est Dreyfusard!"—the very stars in their courses fought against the lie.—Vance Thompson in Success Magazine.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Remember that the money you squander won't work for you.

We are always too young to have known better if our mothers are the judges.

Men do a lot of things just as foolish as having their clothes button in the back.

Dreaming of what you would do if you had a large income is probably about the slowest way to get one.

The man who falls in his efforts to do something well is still more of a success than the one who never tries.

A mother worries if her daughters are not invited to parties and then sits up and worries because they are out late when they are invited.

Ever occur to you that you ought to dress up more and brush your clothes oftener? Most people as they become old neglect their personal appearance too much.

Jury Friendships.

"The eleven men in the world for whom I entertain a feeling of peculiar friendliness are those with whom I served on a jury once," said a broker.

"There isn't any other human tie just like that existing among jurors in a criminal case. There we are, twelve men, all perfect strangers to each other, with different tastes, temperaments and habits, picked up and bound together for days in the most trying circumstances. The hardships, the tragic phases of the situation, reveal us in a new light. Hitherto unsuspected traits crop out. We argue, we quarrel, we sympathize, we make up, in a manner that would surprise our closest friends. The responsibility that we share sets up apart from everybody else and establishes a bond of interest and sympathy that is pretty sure to last."

A Plea For the Indolent.

Men who fill unaccustomed positions exacting severe mental toll are almost sure to be short lived. Persons whose callings subject them to a heavy nervous strain ought occasionally to spend a day or two in bed. Even an afternoon nap is a tonic and may do much to lessen the wear and tear of nervous, anxious days. One of the ablest statesmen of modern times, when once reproached in early life for indolence, retorted, "I am storing energy."—William Matthews in Success Magazine.

Sunday School Convention

What promises to be the largest convention ever held in Manitoba will meet in the First Baptist church, Winnipeg, July 2, 3 and 4. The attendance at the annual conventions of the Manitoba Sunday School association has greatly increased during the past four years. Four years ago it was 225, three years ago 425 and last year 750. It is confidently expected that it will go up to 1,200 delegates, outside of Winnipeg.

No less than three outside speakers are to be present: Mrs. J. Woodbridge, Newark, N.J.; Rev. W. C. Merritt, Tacoma, Wash., both of the international staff and Marshall A. Hudson, Syracuse, N.Y., author of the Baraca and Philathea classes. Besides these, many of the Sunday school experts of the province will take part. The music will be an important feature of the programme. Single fares on all the railway lines will be given. For full information write W. H. Irwin, 511 McIntyre block, Winnipeg.

HEAD OF FLYING ROLLERS.

Is Madame Dis de Barr, Famous Woman Convict.

"Mother Elmor," sometimes known as Mrs. E. L. Mason, head of the Flying Roller Colony, of Detroit and Windsor, Ontario, has been proven beyond all doubt to be none other than the notorious Anne Dis de Barr. Also it has been learned that she was known in England as Editha Loleta Jackson, where she served time with a man reputed to be her husband for a serious offence.

The Editha Loleta Jackson, of London, was positively identified as the "Mother Elmor," of Windsor. F. E. Swinden, a member of Mother Elmor's cult, made the identification in a sworn statement.

Madame Dis de Barr was liberated last August on ticket-of-leave from Aylesbury Prison, in England, to which she had been sent on Dec. 20, 1901, sentenced to seven years' penal servitude for connection with an alleged immoral cult of which her reputed husband, Theodore Jackson, was the head. It was her third imprisonment during a singularly sensational career. For years she had been known as the "notorious" Madame Dis de Barr.

Her Trump Card.

The trump card of her life was probably played when Mme. de Barr wheedled Luther R. Marsh, the New York lawyer, out of a fortune and made him the laughing-stock of his old age. In the seventies she travelled about America representing herself as a medium who could reveal hidden truths. While living in Madison Square she met Mr. Marsh. By means of alleged spirit manifestations and spook-painted pictures she so infatuated the old man that he gave her large sums of money and decided to her his house in Madison avenue. There she officiated as a priestess of spiritualism, and got fame and more riches.

Finally she was sued for conspiring to defraud Marsh. The grand jury indicted her, the Gerry Society took her children, she was convicted and sent to prison. After experiences in Europe after her release she turned up in Chicago and under the name of Vera P. Ava was sent to the Joliet penitentiary for two years. Free again, she married William J. McGowan, in Chicago, in 1895. He had money but quiet domesticity didn't suit her.

Brotherly Love Colony.

In 1899 she was run out of New Orleans with Theodore Jackson, whose wife she claimed to be. They were spirit materializing again, and were also said to be running "fruitarian" colony in Florida. As "Helena" and "Horus" they performed in South Africa. Mme. Dis de Barr incidentally getting some money from a rich contractor to establish a brotherly love colony.

They turned up in London, where their Theocratic Unity scheme turned into a scandal, and wound up with their arrest.

Mme. de Barr has claimed to be the child of Louis I. of Bavaria and Lola Montez, a famous dancing beauty. She really was the daughter of a school teacher in Harrodsburg, Ky. John P. Embury, at the age of 14 she was taken by her father to Louisville, and soon became a "medium" of powers. She was born in the forties.

Flag For Canada.

A new design for a Canadian flag has been prepared by Mr. Ernest Girardot of Union Jack. The design includes a Union Jack in the upper left corner, a beaver and maple leaf below and perpendicular bars to represent the nine provinces of the Dominion. The groundwork of the flag may be either white or red.

"I think it is time, now that we have just added two new provinces to the great Canadian confederation, to adopt a new flag, a national emblem that every Canadian citizen may cherish and revere, one that has no objectionable features for any race or creed, and one on which every province is equally recognized," writes Mr. Girardot.

"Herewith is a design for a Canadian national flag which, in my humble opinion, embodies all the desirable features which should pertain to the flag or standard of the Dominion of Canada."

"The Union Jack on the upper left corner represents our fealty to England and the tie which binds us to her. Our maple leaf, the beaver, dear to all, are preserved. Each perpendicular bar represents one of the nine provinces. When any other province will be created another bar may be added to the flag."

"I believe I am saying the truth when I state that there is no flag, emblem or standard of the Canadian people who know or understand the semi-barbaric symbolism expressed by the coat-of-arms which appears on our present standard."

"We are asserting ourselves more and more every day as a distinct nation. The growing importance of our relations with foreign countries and the glorious success we have achieved through our participation at the Liege and Milan exhibitions, where we have given evidence of Canada's greatness and inexhaustible resources, demanded that we should without any further delay adopt a national flag, one which does not recall any conflict between any of the races which compose the Canadian nation or remind one of any tradition cherished by one class of people and hated by another—a flag which does not symbolize any particular creed, but one that is an emblem of peace and prosperity."

SANITATION IN CANADA.

Dr. Osier Says There Is Something Radically Wrong.

Publicists nowadays realize that the public health is one of the most important subjects that confront them for solution.

There are those who say that perfect sanitation would not only kill off many deadly bacilli, but would put a damper on crime.

Writers of fiction picture their morbid types always as flourishing amidst unclean surroundings, physical as well as moral.

The useful man is the healthy man. The useful community is the healthy community.

In ancient cities they had their frigidarium; their ice-cooled apartments and their sanitary appliances. The model city of town today is one laid out as is the model stock farm stable—clean, airy, presenting smooth, hard surfaces to resist dirt accumulation; a basic principle is to keep waste "on the move" to final excretion.

Are We Sanitary?

The United States, in parts, has taken cognizance of these truths. So have some European countries. Canada as yet would be called by many an unsanitary nation.

To be clean costs money. Before you spend the money you must want to be clean. Then you must hit on the right method.

The live mayor of a live town in Ontario has given considerable thought to these matters. He sought the opinion of a scientist of world-wide reputation, Mr. William Osier, who, though not resident in Canada, knows the situation here thoroughly.

Dr. Osier sent the following reply from the Regius Professor of Medicine, Oxford.

April 2, 1907.

Dear Sir,—Nothing I think is more important in the Canadian provinces than the sanitation of the small towns and rural districts. While, of course, Ontario has done a great deal, and he public health work has been splendid in every way, yet, as I said the other day in Toronto, the prevalence of typhoid fever indicates that there is still something radically wrong.

A million dollars contributed by the Government in improving the sanitation, if it only helped to get rid of typhoid fever, would be well spent.

(Signed) Wm. Osier.

Chance For The Government.

The Canadian mayor above referred to recently expressed himself as follows: "The increased immunity to the provinces from the Dominion Government, and the returns from the mines of Cobalt seem to indicate that the exchequer of Ontario will be in a flourishing condition for some time to come. No doubt there will be a thousand suggestions as to what the Government will be asked to do with this money. Much of it likely will be spent in a manner which will not benefit the people a full measure of benefit, which otherwise naturally be expected. I intend to point out a case which deserves the serious consideration of the Legislature as being not only urgent, but one which, if contributed to, will stamp the Whitney Government as being among the foremost, intelligent, and liberal bodies of the world."

"The sanitation of the towns and villages of Ontario is in a very backward state of repair; more especially in regard to a proper sewerage equipment. There are 450,000 people, mostly recruited from rural districts, who are congregated in these centres in such a manner as to cause the soil to be thoroughly fouled. The great need of these communities is drainage, but the cost is so great that they cannot undertake the work unless assisted by the Government. In all towns there are unsettled districts which cannot be drained from a frontage tax, and the expense, falling upon the general taxpayer, simply closes up any possibility of securing a perfect system."

Cost $4,000,000.

"It is estimated that $4,000,000 spent upon this work by the towns of Ontario would produce a fairly complete system of sewers. Towards this great work the Ontario Government would well afford to contribute at least $1,000,000, or 25 per cent. of the cost. The method of payment might be apportioned in a manner somewhat similar to that of building good roads in the rural districts."

The Giant Pine.

There is a species of pine tree which grows in California and is known as the giant pine which is the largest of the pine genus, often rising to a height of 200 feet, with a trunk twenty to thirty feet in girth.

Lily's Grammar.

The grammar longest in use in England was that of William Lily, first published in 1513. This grammar passed through more editions than any text book of the kind and was in use in St. Paul's school, London, up to forty years ago. The preface to the first edition was written by Cardinal Wolsey, the English rudiments by Dean Colet, the Latin syntax chiefly by Erasmus, the remainder by Lily, the book being then the joint production of four of the greatest scholars of the age.
