Float and Ledger Matter

By JAY-JAY.

On the 31st of August next, one of our most popular men will retire from public life in this city. Mr. C. E. Lyons who has faithfully held the joint positions of Chief of Police, City Clerk, Assessor and Collector for six years will on that day relinquish them, and upon the city duds rests the onus of securing a competent man to fill the vacancies. But this will be no easy task, as the qualifications necessary for the joint offices are not possessed by one in a thousand. In Mr. Lyons the city has a most efficient servant. As City Clerk he has proved his ability both as an accountant and business man. As guardian of the peace he has won the confidence and esteem of sinners and saints, and his other thankless duties of tax assessor and collector have ever been accomplished with tact and success. The Council as a body feel they are losing their right hand man, and fair words have him stay, but Ed. Lyons' talents need greater scope and he is willing to exercise them in a new field. We cannot speak yet with assurance as to Mr. Lyons' ultimate destination, but wherever he may decide to hang up his hat, there he and his estimable wife will be followed with the good wishes of the people of Sandon to a unit.

Put it down in your pocket book. Sandon will celebrate Labor Day in a lavish manner. The full program will be announced probably next issue.

Now is the time of the year when the wild berries ripen and the thoroughbred hobo hobbles into our sanctum on crutches to present his compliments and his "card."

That era of prosperity awaited by the good people of Nakusp has come at last. There's a reason. Nakusp has the goods, and settlers are arriving by every boat to take up future orchards. The real estate and fruit lands men of Winnipeg knew a good thing when they saw it and to say that the new arrivals are pleased with the soil, location and possibilities of fair Nakusp and its environments is to put it very mildly.

It looks as if the people of this province will have a color problem on their hands within the next generation. The influx of Japanese is a summing such gigantic proportions that it behooves every man to interest himself in discovering a method of averting the great danger. A month ago there were not less than 5,000 little brown men in the province; two weeks ago a bunch of 400 came in on one day; and according to dispatches from the coast, 1,177 coolies attempted to land last week, and thousands more are awaiting transportation from Honolulu to this land of milk and honey. To Ottawa we must look for constitutional legislation to solve the ticklish difficulty—ticklish because Japan and the mother country are allies, but Ottawa at the present time is too busy attending ice-cream socials and strawberry functions to pay any attention to the needs of the Great West beyond the Rockies.

The Japs are going some and getting frisky some more. Over at Vancouver the other day they were demanding the inauguration of a Japanese post-office. Sure thing. Give them the keys of the city and throw to them the mineral wealth of the province as a bonus. And while we are at it why not an Irish post-office, and a Scotch post-office, and a post office for the man from Missouri? While we are howling our damndest for a daily mail service in Sandon, it strikes us we are the wrong color and too lengthy of stature to tickle 'em up the right way at Ottawa.

A canny old Khan ran a cannery, another old Khan ran a tannery, and 'twas said: "The old tannery Khan can tan." As well as the cannery Khan can. Now the canny old Khan of the cannery fought the other old Khan of the tannery, and the cannery Khan was the Khan that got tanned. While the tannery Khan was the Khan that was tanned.

We venture to assert that of all the newspapers which find their way to the desks of B.C. editors, the first to be reached for is the Nelson Daily News. No, gentle peruser, this is not "taffy." In or out of season—that is politically—the News has a charm peculiarly its own. Its utterances are powerful and candid, perhaps too much of the latter thrown in to suit us at times, and withal, to the point and influential. If the Nelson News is as popular in its home town as it is on the outside it should be a great money maker, but we often reflect that were Deane to give the people of Nelson value for money received, it would be a pretty pink daily sheet dished up. We but echo the sentiment of interior critics when we remark, "tis a credit to a city of Nelson's proportions, and the newest daily sheet, bar none, in the interior."

If perchance a copy of this paper should fall into the hands of any who are in search of a new location—a place where church, school and social advantages are given emphasis, and where you can live out your allotted number of years without fear of pestilence or famine, we say, like one of old, "Come thou with us and we will do the good," without emphasis on the "do."

Writing from Atholstan, Que., M. Rowatt informs us that Rev. W. G. Brown, late Presbyterian pastor for this district, is suffering greatly with rheumatism, and is not improving as rapidly as they could wish. We trust that with the arrival of the baby girl to the household of the rev. gentlemen, the accompanying joy will act as an antidote to the excruciating pains of rheumatiz.

The editor of the Calgary Chinook has been taking the wrong kind of dope. There's blood in his eye, murder in his heart, wheels in his grey matter, and a "big stick" in his mitt. He has a hunch that he is the one man who is to go down to posterity as the savior of the north-west, and he forthwith throws down the gamut to all and sundry "lumber combines" to come up to have the stuffing pounded out of them. In monster black headlines on the front page of his literary bubble he gives "Fair Warning to Lumber Combines," and goes on to remark:

"After careful consideration I have decided that if the price of lumber is not reduced to a proper and just basis before August 31st, I shall immediately ask the consent of the Attorney General of Alberta to lay an information against every lumber manufacturer and retail lumber dealer in Alberta, who are known to be members of these illegal combines." And what do you suppose the Attorney general of Alberta will say in answer to he of the kinked topnot? Why something like this: "My dear little misinformed ink slinger, you are in a very bad way. Try lots of fresh air and exercise, and the 'jim-jams' will depart in company with the hosts of pink devils in tin hats who are now dancing a pas de quatre on your eyelashes. Falling, try a rest at Halcyn Hot Springs."

But our friend says he "fully realizes the seriousness of the step he is taking and that he has waited patiently for some time." Of course, they all do.

He also adds: "I have considered it my duty to give you fair warning and time to adjust matters, but remember that the time limit is August 31st at 12 o'clock noon."

That savors very much of "this account is long past overdue," or "I shall immediately place the bill for collection in the hands of my solicitor," but the last quarter of the moon fades away on the 30th prox., and one noon Saturday is reached, we feel assured our friend will feel letter if he will only keep out of the sun, and refrain from reading the current issue of the Calgary Eye Opener.

The Moyie Leader rises to remark, under the caption of "Where is Peck MacSwain?"

"When the editor of the Leader went east some three weeks ago, he left the paper in charge of Mr. J. Peck MacSwain, famed the world over as a printer, poet and philosopher. But Peck's stay at the helm was brief, and up to the hour of going to press his whereabouts are even entirely unknown to us. Grave fears are entertained for his safety. Many theories are advanced for his sudden disappearance. When last seen he was at Kingsgate and was headed south. May be he was thirsty and simply strolled down to 'Dutch Jake's' at Spokane for a schooner of beer. Then, again, he may be on the trail of some good news item with a 'scoop' in sight. But probably something more serious has happened to him. Could he have been kidnapped, like Charlie Ross, Eddie Cudahy or Ellen Stone, and be held for ransom in some wild cavern near Bonner's Ferry? Or, have some bold, bad man murdered him for his money (he was known to have a roll when he left here) and thrown his body in the Moyie river to be devoured by the fishes? Apparently time alone can solve the mystery."

But the mystery has already been solved, for we can read correctly between the lines. We would stake our reputation as clairvoyants that Peck has had several "rolls" besides the one he was heading south with, and possibly a few tumblers too. In the same issue of the Leader, among the editorials, occurs an item which helps us out in our deductions considerable. It is a panegyric (?) effusion devoted to boozers, artists, printers and things, and we consequently conclude with fatherly advice:

Oh! J. Peck MacSwain, You have hit it again The hops on your brain have been rising small Cain. But you'll go on the bum And sure lit kingdom cum If you don't cut your hops and act sane, Peck MacSwain.

What if the doctor did get a lemon—he has a pretty good draw to a full house, anyhow. Three of a kind is not to be sneezed at.

Do you know that the people of the prairies who are howling about "lumber combines" are never known to mention "sheep trusts." They are too wise. The high price of flour and grain doesn't. Man wants but little here below, primarily bread, next shelter. We get it in the neck first, the prairie farmer next, and the C.P.R. gets the over—and the profit.

Some drummers are awful liars, and mean enough to sing hallelujah over a dead tot. We have in mind one of this fraternity, who on a recent visit to Sandon belted up to the bar and chattered around for seventeen beers and a pocketful of cigars—all gleaned on a butting in process; and yet when he struck the next town following morning he said there was nothing doing at this burg, in fact it was deadlier than a wet Sunday. When a deadbeat nuses thus, it is time the local paper handed him a bonquet. Besides, its ten for a dollar here, and somehow, we got overlooked in the invitation to irrigate, which was good for us and evidently bad for the drummer.

Those who questioned our seriousness in remarking some time back, that Alfred Shubb, the English long-distance champion, could for any distance between a mile and twelve show a clean pair of heels to any runner on this continent, may find food for reflection in the fact that he is in the States and anxious to get on a match with either Sherring or Longboat; also that at Boston on July 23 last, he lowered the American professional record at the Locust street grounds against a number of the best runners in this section, and being pressed hard he went the distance in 9 minutes 34 3/5 seconds. The old record was 9 minutes 38 seconds made by Jim Grant in 1890. The track which Shubb ran on is 8 laps to the mile and was not in the best condition. Our ability to judge was questioned when we remarked that Shubb would break not less than three existing American records before he returned to the old country.

"One."

While the Sandon branch of the W. F.M. did not indulge in any combined procession to celebrate the acquittal of Haywood, there was much hand-shaking and many toasts drunk to the health of Judge Wood, the jury, and the man who had come unscathed through as vile a plot as was ever conceived by the brain of man. Looking at it as one may, it was a direct attack upon organized labor, and taking into consideration that this man's life would be forfeited if the jury could have been shown that an inner circle existed, it is a glorious victory for the workers. With the arrayed forces of wealth and unscrupulous cunning clamouring for this man's blood, it is little short of miraculous that he should come through the terrible ordeal unscathed. But the prosecution butted up against truth, and that will ever prevail. The many links of evidence which were to be welded into a chain to drag this man to the place of execution proved useless, for in no essential point of Barrabas' story could they be connected. And the judge, honest man, so directed the jury; and they, good men and true, did their duty fearlessly in pronouncing for Truth.

And now the question arises: What will they do with the self-confessed many times murderer, Harry Orchard? Surely in this age of graft and class war none will be found who will espouse his release. The "chair" is too respectable for him, the hangman's rope too delicate a necklace. However we are quite prepared for any old bogey being trotted out, and will all wink knowingly when the morning papers will announce big letters in a few months that Harry Orchard has died in jail. Something like this will be read with interest in the papers.

"On going to the cell of Harry Orchard, this morning, Warder Fakenbush was horrified to find the stark body of the murderer of ex-Governor Stuenkel, lying flat upon the cold slabs of the prison floor. It was known that since the famous sensational trial his health had been none of the best, but it was never for one moment imagined that his days, yea even hours were numbered, and that remorseless grim death even then held a mortgage threateningly above him. However, it has come, and although some there will now be who will regret he has cheated the executioner, it is the consensus of opinion that things are best as they have happened," etc., etc., etc.

Then will follow a few days later, how the lifeless remains of all that was pristine were laid to rest in the precincts of the jail. Owing to its being strictly against the rules of the penitentiary to admit relatives or press-representatives to the interment, the obsequies were conducted in the presence of the governor and a state official," etc., etc.

Then when the affair has blown over what will happen? Orchard, yet on top of the ground, will be given a roll of bills and told to skin—perhaps to Canada, when he might perform the old trick of claiming a Canadian's protection under the British flag from extradition papers. These are possibilities, but whether they will be actual probabilities time alone will tell.

This is a story of four ladies and a boat, not forgetting a gentleman, a dog and a bull. Behold, we have four charming daughters of Eve fresh from their multifarious duties as school marm in the city of Nelson, wooing the sparkling waters which kiss the peaceful hamlet of New Denver, and verily their fair forms create many flutterings beneath the vests of the village mashers. Cometh one, more handsome and staid than the rest, and with him Bolivia, he of the long body, miniature legs, ears which trail the ground, and padigree a yard of it. And lo, the gilded swains of the hamlet are consumed by the all fed demon of jealousy as the boat containing the quintette, not forgetting "pie-shop," is cast from her moorings by he of the sturdy frame. Drifting along the lucid waters, sweet harmony is borne upon the zephyrs to the ears of the dudes on shore, and behold much fiendish glee is manifested by them when it is observed that the boat is heading for a point whereon an angry bull morneth am k. But still from the boat in the distance cometh faint music: "Row, brothers row, the stream runs fast, the landing is near, and the danger is past," and as the boat touches the landing, verily many field gasses are levelled in their direction, but deponent sayeth not the number of married men with telescopes. Observe, "hen, the happy quintette, not forgetting the "sausage," tripping merrily from the boat, and he of the sturdy frame wandering off to a nearby house in pursuit of delicious cream and luscious strawberries. But behold, the lord of the manor, his majesty the bull, starting forth on a rampage, espieth the fair damsels and forthwith lashes his narrative and paws the earth. Verily, as he bears down upon them does much screeching prevail, and in the reckless flight for the safety offered by the waters of the lake much industry is shown. These things and many others were witnessed by those on shore. Returneth he with the delicacies and the thousand dollar Bologna at his heels, horrified to witness his fair companions in the water up to their armpits, and the infuriated bull, defeated for the nonce, preparing to pay his compliments to him, and oh, horror, his beloved Bolivia.

Dropped he to earth berries and cream. Clutcheth he Bolivia, and "tag" prevaileth, the bull "it." One false move and he findeth himself with a punctured tyre up to his armpits in the icy pool, while Bolivia is held on high as if for an eternal sacrifice to appease his majesty. Loud and prolonged are the shrieks of terror, Susage adding his mite, while his majesty snorteth and farneth at the brink.

Cometh there one, Dame Cropp, with a Winchester, and to she beateeth him sick and canse much howling. Emergeth there shortly from the waters a disconsolate quintette, not forgetting the dog; but four pairs of scornful eyes gazeth at the hero's, and all depart various ways to dry their apparel.

Observe, or perhaps we had had better not, the fair damsels in this act behind a raspberry bush; observe our dauntless hero wringing out his only pair behind the sheltering branches of a weeping willow, while from between his chattering teeth come the words in a vain struggle for song:

Moer may I go out to swim? Yes, my darling daughter, Hang your clothes on a hickory limb, And don't go near the water.

Mrs. Howard Thompson came in from the Coast Wednesday and will reside here until the winter.

Jimmy McKenzie has returned from the coast.

Miss Alma Thomas left this morning to visit her mother at Trout Lake City.

Miss Johnson has returned from a visit to Nelson.

Miss Margery Atherton returned Wednesday from a week's visit to Miss Delaney at New Denver.

George Butler is home again from Halcyn Hot Springs feeling 100 per cent better.

See those "Bronko" gloves at Macdonald's. The best yet.

Mrs. Torgood and family have returned from a visit to Mrs. Ransom at Denver.

Local and General.

Picked up by Butting in Everywhere.

H. M. Adams, of Seattle, asst. traffic manager of the Great Northern railway, accompanied by his wife and P. H. Burnham, district passenger agent, came in on company business on Monday. Both gentlemen expressed themselves as highly gratified at the increased business in freight and passenger traffic.

Arthur Nichols, a slag-pot mender at the smelter was unfortunate enough to get one thumb taken off when at work last Tuesday.—Grand Forks Gazette.

We wonder if it is our old friend from Sandon who is the unfortunate. If so all will sympathize with him on his accident.

Boxes.—At the Manse, Atholstan, Que., on July 8th, to the Rev. W. G. and Mrs. Brown—a daughter.

The best mining host on the market: Leckie's. Macdonald sole agent.

The famous Bon Ton in Jackson Basin is open for leasing. The property is owned by the Brandon Bros. of Silverton, who have as much as they can give personal attention to in the Canadian group. From a 25 ft. opening on the Bon Ton four tons were shipped which gave the owners $1,242.00 profit above freight and treatment.

W. G. Clark came down from the McAllister on Monday. He reports the property looking excellent.

Boxes.—At Sandon, 31st inst., to Dr. W. E. and Mrs. Gomer, a daughter.

Henry Tyo, mayor of McGuigan, was the star visitor Wednesday.

Harry Lea, Rod McMillan and Angus McGillivray came in from Slocan Wednesday. The three are interested in several leases here.

Nick Nicklovitch is able to walk around again, but he is still an invalid at the hospital. The veteran prospector and miner has had three months' sickness.

Herbert Redfern, of Nakusp, has grown on his ranch, some of the largest and most luscious strawberries it has been our lot to behold. We handled some this week, the largest of which measured three and a half inches across the top, and the smallest two and one-eighth inches. That's a sample of what they can grow in Nakusp.

The many friends of Jesse Prank, the popular conductor of the Great Northern Cordwood Limited, will learn with pleasure that he is recovering from a protracted spell of inflammatory rheumatism.

Dist. Supt. Walsh, of the Great Northern, paid us an official visit on Wednesday.

A. C. McCormick, the well-known Calgary lumberman, was here Tuesday.

E. A. Baker, representing the Wilson Paper Co., of Vancouver, was doing business here yesterday.

Daily Service Begun on Lake.

The daily boat service on Slocan Lake, details of which we announced last week, has been inaugurated, and the change is greatly appreciated.

Making a Mine of the Flint.

To the lessees of the Flint all credit is due for the manner in which they are developing the property. Starting out with not enough ore value in sight to flag a bread wagon they have driven two crosscuts through hard granite formation, one for a distance of 170 feet which tapped the ledge at a vertical depth of 90 feet, and another of 420 feet which when completed will bring them 180 feet below the surface showing. In No. 1 level they took out from an up-raise and a 30 foot shaft three cars of ore which assays from 40 to 400 ounces silver to the ton, and this is now being shipped to a smelter. The value of the ledge may be estimated when we say that after cutting it, three men took out and sacked in 72 days over 73 tons of pure silver-lead ore. This was done in the slow process of sinking a shaft, which, however, was in one all the way down, but at the same time they were considerably hampered with water, and being poor men their method of conveying the dirt from the face to the portal of the tunnel was by a crude wheelbarrow. The foot of the shaft being in clean ore the men felt justified in starting the long crosscut. This is now in 420 feet, and allowing for dip and pitch it is estimated that thirty feet more will cut the ore shoot, when we hope to be able to record that they have attained the success they so well merit.

Two cars of high grade ore were shipped from the Payne on Tuesday. This ore is the property of leasers, all local boys, who have experienced some trouble in obtaining permission to ship it, owing to some legal difficulty associated with the old Payne outfit. The ore was shipped in the name of the Bank of Montreal.

Rev. W. Chalmers conducted services in the Presbyterian church on Sunday. They were well attended.

The annual United Sunday Schools Picnic, New Denver, was held on Wednesday, the 24th inst., in the picturesque vicinity of the Bonnu mine, where a most enjoyable day was spent by the scholars and other friends, who were favored with delightful weather.

The pleasure was enhanced by the kind and generous provision made by the ladies of the camp, and also by their presence and assistance.

The various churches were represented as follows: Catholic, Mr. Vallance (in the absence of the Rev. Father Jeanotte) Anglican, Missioner Barnes; Presbyterian, Pastor Chalmers; Methodist, Mr. Blumenauer.

Geo. McCleary made a flying trip to Slocan City on Friday night. Needless to add he went by the All-Dad route.

Beverly of Graustark by GEORGE BARR M'UTCHEON. Author of "Greenback."

(Continued) CHAPTER XXI. THE next morning Aunt Fanny had a hard time of it. Her mistress was petulant; there was no sunshine in the bright August day as it appeared to her.

"It's too hot," she protested, when he announced himself ready for the game. "Nobody plays poker when it's 92 in the shade."

"But, your highness," complained the count, "war may break out any day. I cannot concede delay."

"I think there's a game called 'shooting craps,'" suggested she serenely. "It seems to me it would be particularly good for warriors. You could be shooting something all the time."

"He went away in a decidedly irascible frame of mind. She did not know it, but Baldos was soon afterward set to work in the garrison stables, a most loathsome occupation, in addition to his duties as a guard by night."

"After mature deliberation Beverly set herself to the task of writing home to her father. It was her supreme intention to convince him that she would be off for the States in an amazingly short time. The major upon receiving the letter three weeks later found nothing in it to warrant the belief that she was ever coming home. He did observe, however, that she had but little use for the army of Graustark and was especially disappointed in the set of men Yette retained as her private guard."

"I don't sleep a wink, confound it," grumbled Beverly, rubbing her eyes and turning on her back to glare up at the tapestry above the couch.

"Yo' wasn't winkin' any when Ah rust come in do' room, lemme tell yo'," cackled Aunt Fanny, with caustic freedom.

"See here, now, Aunt Fanny, I'm not going to stand any lecture from you this morning. When a fellow hasn't slept—"

"Who's-a-lecturin' anybody, Ah'd lak to know? Ah'm jes' tellin' yo' what yo' was-a-doin' when Ah came into do' room. Yo' was-a-sleepin' p'etty doggone tight, lemme tell yo'. Is yo' goin' out to yo' walk befo' breakfast, honey? Cause if yo' is, yo' all 'il be obleeped to climb out'n dat baid magist quick-like. Yo' baf is ready, Miss Beverly."

"Beverly splashed the water with unreasonable ferocity for a few minutes, trying to enjoy a diversion that had not failed her until this morning.

"Aunt Fanny," she announced after looking darkly through her window into the mountains above, "if you can't brush my hair—ouch!—any easier than this I'll have some one else do it, that's all. You're a regular old bear."

not the real power behind the Iron Count? A light drizzle began to fall, cold and disagreeable. There were no stars, no moon.

"The Venus of Milo in the Louvre, Paris, is supposed by some to be the work of Alexandros, one of the Asiatic Greek sculptors. It is said that the base of the statue bearing the artist's name was destroyed for the purpose of causing the king of France to believe that the work was more ancient than it really was."

VENUS OF MILO.

The Famous Ancient Statue in the Louvre at Paris. The Venus of Milo in the Louvre, Paris, is supposed by some to be the work of Alexandros, one of the Asiatic Greek sculptors.

It was discovered on the island of Milo in 1820 by a peasant. It was in a niche in a wall which had been buried for years. The Marquis of Riviere bought it and gave it as a present to Louis XVIII. of France.

As it now stands it has two blemishes, which have been repaired by modern artists. The tip of the nose was broken when it was found and also the foot which projects beyond the drape.

In point of fact, it has a great deal more resemblance to a goddess than to a beautiful woman. At one time it was dressed in clothes of a modern sort, and the effect was anything but pleasing.

Why He Did Not Marry. As a reason for not marrying Brahms once wrote to a friend: "At the time when I should have wished to marry, my compositions were either binned at or at any rate very coolly received."

Convenient Arrangement. "I am looking for some present to give my wife on her birthday. I tell you, making presents costs a heap of money."

Like Calling For a Drink. A hard drinker was told by his doctor that he could be cured if every time he felt that he must have a drink he would immediately take something to eat instead.

Miraculous Cures. Reginald of Durham, who wrote a chronicle some time before 1155, asserts that a young English nobleman was cured of leprosy at the shrine of St. Cuthbert in Durham cathedral.

It Didn't Break. A little girl held a mirror up before a visitor's face and asked, "Do you see yourself in it?"

Tragedy Became Real. The rehearsal for bioscope purpose of a "thrilling train-wrecking scene," on the Brighton railway at Purley, England, had a tragic ending.

Performer's Death. The rehearsal was arranged by the proprietors of a film company of Croydon, to whom it occurred that the incidents leading up to a train wreck would prove an excellent show.

King Edward's Perquisites. Among the most curious of his Majesty's perquisites is his right to every whale or sturgeon captured on the coast of the United Kingdom and brought to land.

Another of the King's perquisites is a certain number of magnificent cashmere shawls, which are despatched to him every year from the kingdom of Cashmere.

Musketry Fire. At Waterloo the musketry fire of the foot guards, armed with the old clumsy Brown Bess, was so fatal that the heads of the charging French columns melted away before it without advance.

Alfred de Musset. Alfred de Musset fell in love with George Sand, and when she tired of him, as she did of every one else, he took to absinth and soon succeeded in drinking himself to death.

Magistrate Cured by Zam-Buk
Magistrate Perry of Goldfields testifies to the wonderful merits of Zam-Buk, the great herbal balm, as follows:
"Gentlemen—I have proved Zam-Buk eminently satisfactory. In my case it cured a skin rash of five years standing which no doctor had been able to do any good for. It truly does even more than you claim for it. For my own part I would not now be without it in the house. Yours very truly,
(Signed) "Roger F. Perry, J.P."
Zam-Buk is a sure cure for all skin sores, sore feet, insect bites, sunburn, blisters, heat rashes, eczema, ulcers, itch, abscess, etc. Relieves piles quickly. All stores and druggists at 50c a box, or by mail, Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 6 boxes for $2.50.

During the salmon fishing season an Englishman was the guest of a Highland laird, and one day he looked a fine salmon. Being inexperienced as a fisherman he became excited, and in his struggle with the fish fell into the river. The keeper, seeing that he was no swimmer, hooked him with the gaff and started to drag him ashore.
"Where are ye about, Donal?" cried the laird. "Get haud o' the rod an' look ta' the fish. Ma friend can hide a wee, but the fish winna!"—Kansas City Independent.

"I fell," said the uncertain citizen, "in the government service—turned me down on 'gography, an' spellin', an' 'rithmetic, an' now I dunno whether to go to teachin' school, or practisin' law, or editin' of a newspaper. I jes' can't decide which one o' the three to tackle."—Atlanta Constitution.

Seven-year-old Johnnie was driving with his father and younger sister. It was a beautiful starlight night, and a new moon shone brightly. After some minutes of silence Johnnie asked:
"Papa, what do they do with all the old moons?"
Without a moment's hesitation his smaller sister answered:
"Why, don't you know? They cut them up and make stars out of them."—Chicago Tribune.

The Crick in the Back—"One touch of nature makes the whole world kin," sings the poet. But what about the touch of rheumatism and lumbago, which is so common now? There is no poetry in that touch, for it renders life miserable. Yet how delighted is the sense of relief when an application of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil drives pain away. There is nothing equals it.
"Money doesn't always bring happiness and peace of mind."
"You are right there, answered the man with an anxious look. "Sometimes it tempts you to buy automobiles."—Washington Star.

PHOTOGRAPHING STARS.

When Done With Ordinary Camera They Show as Lines, Not Specks.
It is an easy matter merely to photograph stars. The trouble is to picture them as points and not as streaks, for as the earth rotates it carries the photographic apparatus with it, and the light from the star makes a line, while the astronomer wants a point. He must therefore devise a machine that will counteract the movement of the earth and so keep the light steadily in the same place on the plate. Elaborate clockwork must turn the lens backward to keep it on the star and at the same rate as that at which the earth moves forward.

PEN-ANGLE Underwear
One kind of underwear, and only one, fits right, wears out slowest, and satisfies you from the day you buy it. That kind is trade-marked (as above) in red, and guaranteed to you by stores that sell it and the people who make it. Made in many fabrics and styles, various prices, in fancy-fitting sizes for women, men and children. Look for the PEN-ANGLE.
Dust Laying
The Duke of Westminster has begun an experiment in dust laying on six miles of drives in Eaton park. The process adopted is known as Transpa, which has for its basis pure tar. The tar is sprayed in the form of a filmy vapor at a steam pressure of 170 pounds, which drives it two inches deep into the road formation, and will, it is believed, not only hold down dust in dry weather, but make the road waterproof in wet weather.

An astronomer at the Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., is quoted in St. Nicholas as saying that "many of the most important results of astronomy have been derived from the use of an ordinary camera. On a clear night point one of these toward the north pole, and it will be found after an exposure of one or two hours that the stars which lie near the pole have drawn arcs of circles upon the plate. This is due to the fact that the earth is rotating upon its axis at such a rate as to cause every star in the sky to appear to travel through a complete circle once in twenty-four hours. The mere act of photographing is not much more difficult than a short exposure out of the window of a moving car. Any one can try it. Let the exposure be for at least five minutes if the camera is pointed overhead and for at least one hour if directed toward the pole star. The camera may be left out all night if pointed at the pole, but must be taken in just before daylight. The longer the exposure the longer the star "scratches." Develop the plate as long as possible.

Do not delay in getting relief for the little folks. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is a pleasant and sure cure. If you love your child why do you let it suffer when a remedy is so near at hand?

The discouraged housewife could not keep her mind and her conversation long away from the servant problem.

DRIVING THE LOGS.

Skill and Activity of the Expert Riverman in Action.

First and foremost your true riverman can ride a log. This does not mean merely that he is able to stand upright or to jump from one to another without splashing in, though even that is no mean feat, as a trial will convince you. That is the kindergarten of it. His saw log in the water is not only his object of labor, but his means of transportation. Your true riverman or drive seldom steps on land except to eat and sleep.

A journey down stream is to him an affair of great simplicity. He pushes into the current a stick of timber, jumps lightly atop it, leans against his pole and floats away as graceful and motionless as a Grecian statue. When his unstable craft overtakes other logs he deserts it, runs forward as far as he can, the logs bobbing and a wash behind his spring, and so continues on another timber. Jack Boyd once for a bet rode for twelve miles down Grand river on a log he could carry to the stream's bank across his shoulders. Fully half the time his feet were submerged to the ankles.

Nor does quick water always cause your expert riverman to disembark. Using his peavy as a balancing pole and treading with squirrel-like quickness as his footing rolls, he will run rapids of considerable force and volume. When the tail of a drive passes through the chute of a dam there are always half a dozen or so of the rear men who out of sheer bravado will run through standing upright like circus riders and yelling like fends.—Stewart Edward White in Outing Magazine.

Marriage Expenses.

Careful observation, extending over a period of forty-two years and supplemented by thousands of interviews with storekeepers, hairdressers, modistes, milliners, collectors and others, leads us to believe that the average cost of a bride's trousseau in this country—taking the rich with the poor—is the sum of $96.38. Equally careful observation convinces us that the average cost of a bridegroom's sartorial outfit is slightly less than one-third that amount, or, to be exact, $22.01. Thus we have $88.39 as the cost of the garments worn by bride and bridegroom at the average wedding and in the course of the average honeymoon.

Long Lived Razors.

"How long have you had this razor?" asked the barber.
"A dozen years,"
"Well," said he, "that is not bad. It's no record, though. Lots of my customers have razors that they've owned twenty and twenty-five years and used too. Why, one old man gets me to house every three months a razor he bought over forty years ago. And it's such a good razor yet that this old man's son, whenever he wants a velvet shirt, goes to his dad and borrows the veteran razor. A razor that with good use won't last twenty-five years is no razor at all."

Yourselves.

If you wish to be miserable you must think about yourself, about what you want, what you like, what respect people ought to pay you, and then to you nothing will be pure. You will spoil everything you touch, you will make sin and misery for yourself out of everything which God sends you and you will be as wretched as you choose.

Pure Love.

When a woman chooses a man with a bald head, a pair of bowlegs and a Saturday night pay check of $10 you can't accuse her of marrying for anything but pure, unalloyed, uncontaminated, unquestioned and undying love.—Lamar (Mo.) Democrat.

Opposed to It.

"Really," said Mrs. Subbubs, "we ought to have one of those burglar alarms put in."
"Whatt?" exclaimed Subbubs. "Anu have the thing go off at night and wake the baby? Not much!"—Philadelphia Press.

Unavoidable.

"The trouble with that man is that he takes small matters seriously."
"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne, "but you could not expect him to do otherwise without sacrificing his self-esteem."—Washington Star.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cured a Severe Case of Anemia and Weakness

Anemia—poor, watery blood—is due to the cause of most of the misery which afflicts mankind. The household especially finds an easy prey to it. The long hours and close confinement necessary in performing her household duties sap her strength. She becomes run down and often suffers extreme misery. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the housewife's friend. They make new blood—lots of it—and pure blood banishes all women's ailments. Mrs. E. St. Germain, wife of a well known farmer of St. John de Chailions, Que., found new strength through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says: "A year ago I was extremely weak. I could not attend to my work. I suffered from dizzy spells; my head ached; my blood was poor; I had a bad cough and the doctor feared I was going into consumption. I followed their treatment for some time but without relief. I grew discouraged and finally gave up in despair. I was strongly advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, so procured six boxes. Before they were all gone I felt relief. My headache and dizziness became less frequent and I felt a little stronger. I continued the pills for a couple of months, at the end of which time I had gained in weight, the pains had left me, my appetite was good and I felt as strong and well as ever. I certainly say too many in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for I decidedly owe my good health to them."

As to Blizzards

Some philologists were wrangling over the origin of some commonly accepted words. "Blizzard" came up and was explained in several ingenious ways. Bartlett's dictionary of Americanisms was consulted, and his definition found: "Blizzard—posser; not known in the Eastern States." Albert Matthews, of Boston, a learned philologist and word analyst, found "blizzard" in the Virginia Literary Museum of 1829, where it was defined as a "violent blow." Murray's English Dictionary, the latest out in the lexicographical line, says: "Blizzard—U. S.; a modern word." Then follows the usual song and dance. Blizzard is in reality English. "May I be blizzared" is a common oath in the Midland counties. In Pennsylvania it has been in common use for nearly three-quarters of a century, being used to designate force, sudden violence, spikeness or vindictiveness.—New York Press.

Designed for Sprinting

The Austrian war office has published a bulletin calling attention to the fact that the available list for non-commissioned officers of the Imperial Guard has grown so small that only comparatively few names remain upon it, and aspirants for the coming vacancies are asked to report for examination. "In doing so," says the order, "it should be remembered that the trousers worn by guardsmen are of the Hungarian infantry cut and the wearer must have perfectly formed legs."

A Remarkable Dog

"What can Mitch do?" repeated Frank of this city. "Everything but talk, and to me he talks a language that is intelligible."

Mr. Clark says Mitch opens doors, pulls down the shades in his master's house in the evening when he is ordered to, smokes cigars, drinks whiskey, and bowls. Mr. Clark belongs to a lodge of Elks, and Mitch is as good an Elk as any of the order. At 11 o'clock he drinks to the departed and then strolls home. When his master visits a bowling alley he joins in the game, pushing the balls along the alley with his nose and veering into the gutter when the ball has sufficient speed to make a strike or spare.

Mitch is a swimmer, and last summer in Harvey's lake he held a drowning girl's head above the water until his master arrived in a rowboat.—Wilkesbarre dispatch to N. Y. Herald.

LIQUOR LAWS IN NORWAY.

Private Profit Eliminated—Consumption of Alcohol Decreased.
New Norwegian liquor laws are successful. The Soudag system gives power to municipalities to grant all the retail spirit licenses which they deem necessary to a company which would bind itself to carry on the traffic in the name of the community, with a fixed annual return of not more than 5 per cent. on its paid up capital.

A Link With the Past.

An interesting Derbyshire "link with the past" is mentioned by Mr. J. I. Sharpley, of Hatfield College, Doncaster, in a letter to The Sheffield Telegraph. He says: "In 1872, when a boy, staying at Hülland Ward, Derbyshire, I called on an old woman, Elizabeth Durso, then 97, widow of a farmer who had a frontpiece picture of a man—a distant relative—who had witnessed the execution of Charles I. The old woman then took out of a corner cupboard an old prayer book, bound in black leather, which was, I fancy, of the time of Queen Anne, for I remember, 'I had the company of a person in gown and bands, wearing a long wig, saying prayers in a 'three-decker.' Opening it at the form of service for Jan. 30, she showed me a piece of coarse linen, of the color of a dead lead, which she said was a portion of a handkerchief which had been dipped in the King's blood, and was given to her grandmother by the above eye-witness. When it first passed into her possession it was nearly entire, but her children had played with it, and this was all that she had managed to preserve."—Derby Telegraph.

When Kipling Was Ill.

Bishop Brewster, in talking to Yale students on "Robust Religious Faith," told a story of Rudyard Kipling, when he lay ill in New York some years ago.

British and Germany.

The Briton is still prosecuting its enquiry into the international situation, and now its London correspondent gives an account of an interesting conversation with Sir Charles Dilke, who professes no anxiety on the subject. Sir Charles assured the writer that there was not one man in the United Kingdom who would favor an attack on Germany, and that he certainly did not believe that Germany dreamt of attacking England. What harm could Germany do to England, who possessed, and would retain the supremacy of the sea? If Germany built more and more ships, England would do the same, and as she was richer than Germany she would win in that game. He was convinced that the peace of Europe would last many years.

Cocoa Plant.

The plant producing the cocoa of commerce is a tree seldom grown to a height greater than seventeen or eighteen feet, but is sometimes known to reach a height of thirty feet. It is known to botanists as Theobroma cacao. It bears an oblong fruit measuring from six to ten inches.

WHEN YOUR HEALTH FAILS--WHAT THEN? Better to Guard Against Such Emergency by Keeping Vitality at High-Water Mark by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Good health is the capital of perishing nerve force begin the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and with a few weeks' treatment you will be able to restore the vitality of the body to high-water mark, remove the cause of nervous disorders, and prevent serious results.
Miss Mary Letch, Coulson, Simcoe County, Ont., writes: "When I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food my nervous system was all run down, and I suffered terribly with nervous headache and sleeplessness. Sometimes I could not sleep for three or four nights in succession. By the use of several boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food these troubles were entirely overcome, and I consider this preparation an excellent nerve tonic."

Fellow Travelers.

A Greenwich man tells of a Connecticut farmer who after having driven a lot of hogs to Greenwich sold them for precisely what had been offered him before he left home.
"You don't seem to have made much by bringing your hogs down here," remarked the man who tells the story.
"Well, no," replied the agriculturist dejectedly, "I ain't made no money but then, you know," he added, his face brightening, "I had the company of the hogs on the way down."—Harper's Weekly.

What He Prays For.

"Who's that, pa?" a little Kansas youngster in the senate gallery at the capitol inquired as a magnificent looking old man rose before the opening of a session.
"That," said the father, "is Edward Everett Hale, the chaplain."
"O-h," said the boy. "He prays for the senate, doesn't he?"
"Well, no," said the father, "not exactly. He gets up, takes a good look at the senate, and then he prays for the country."—Woman's Home Companion.
