ST. ANDREWS' DINNER.

Scotchmen and Their Guests Spend a Happy Night at the Queen's.

On St. Andrew's Day, year by year, the Scotsman's patriotism ever warm and hearty rouses itself to enthusiasm. "Brother clasps the hand of brother" the wide world over, and severance by several thousand miles of land and sea from the fair countree "ayont the Tweed" counts as nothing for the name, so vivid are the views imagination fondly stoops to trace anent the old home and the old people. St. Andrew's Day, however, falls this year on a peaceable Sabbath. It was therefore celebrated by many Caledonian Societies in anticipation last night, whilst others are yet to make merry on Monday. The Scotsmen of our city chose the former alternative and rallied together a corps of friends, intent one and all in doing ample justice to the viands of that skillful caterer, Host Glencross of the Queen's Hotel. It was nearly 10.30 ere the festive throng were comfortably seated at the two long tables running the whole length of the spacious hotel dining hall. Shortly before this hour the word was passed round, "All is ready," whereupon Chief Benson headed the large party of guests, among whom were many visitors in addition to the members of the society, and all, as on business bent, marched rapidly to their alloted places. The chief was then observed at the centre of the principal table having on his right Mayor Brown, M. P. P., Captain Peele and Mr. Peter Grant, whilst on the left sat Judge Bole, G. E. Corbould, M. P., and Captain Townley. Mr. R. G. MacPherson occupied the vice-chair at the other end of the room, having on his left the Rev. Thomas Scouler, and on the right Mr. H. M. Stramberg, B. A., principle of the High School. Among other prominent gentlemen present we noticed Messrs. S. T. Mackintosh, John Hendry, W. H. Ladner, H. Hoy, A. Robertson, Sergeant-Major McMurphy, D. J. Munn, J. S. C. Fraser, A. B. Mackenzie, G. Gibson, R. Townley, F. Laidlaw, A. Forin and T. Muir.

The Rev. Mr. Scouler opened with a short prayer at the request of the chairman.

Then followed a keen discussion of a decidedly interesting part of the programme in the form of the following elaborate

Altogether one of the best menus ever given at a palace dinner in this city, where Mr. Glencross has already in a few short weeks made for himself a name. The well pleased jury of the guests, on this occasion, declined to take advantage of the national privilege of a majority decision, and came to a verdict unanimously to the effect that the haggis was really grand, and reflected credit not a little upon Mrs. Benson, the lady who had so scientifically superintended its culinary development as on previous similar occasions.

One might almost have heard the chimes of midnight, did the Royal City possess any, ere all felt that justice had been fully done to a right royal spread, and Chief Benson called his fellow guests to order. All were at once silent when that gentleman in a few well chosen words thanked the members for placing him at the head of the Mainland St. Andrews' Society, and thus evinced their confidence and kindly regard. Many were better able to hold the important position than he. [No! no.] Everything the late chief, Mr. Ewen had undertaken, had been successful in the extreme, and he should be indeed well pleased, if at the end of his career as chief, even half as much might have been attained.

The Chief then announced that letters of regret for unavoidable absence had been received from His Lordship the Bishop of New Westminster, Mr. Justice McCreight, Mr. Wylde and others. During the evening the following telegram had also been received from their brethren in Victoria: "Our warmest feelings are with you tonight," and the following sent in reply: "We're a' Jock Tamson's bairns."

The toasting then began and the chairman proposed the health of "The Queen," after honoring which right loyally, the company sang "God Save the Queen" in lusty style.

The Governor-General and the Dominion of Canada were next proposed, the name of our worthy member, Mr. G. E. Corbould, being coupled with the toast.

Mr. Corbould responded, thanking them for the manner in which the toast had been received. He considered it a great honor to speak for a land of such dimensions as the Dominion of Canada. The Scotch were a very progressive people, and no matter where they settled ever equal to the occasion.

Sir John Macdonald, the Premier of the Dominion, was himself a Scotsman (a voice, and a member of this society) and he "ran" this great state. "In fact," said the speaker, "you get there every time." [Hear, hear, laughter and applause.] He remembered the condition of this society eight years ago when it was yet in its infancy, and if the Dominion grew relatively as fast and substantially it would be indeed all right. The Dominion would some day become a power on the earth, and, as he believed, second to none. [Applause.]

The vice-chairman then proposed "The Lieutenant-Governor and our Province," coupling therewith the name of Mr. J. C. Brown, Mayor and M. P. P.

Mayor Brown upon rising was greeted with loud cheers. He thanked the Scotchmen for honoring this toast as they did, and proud he was to speak for it. He was proud of being called upon to answer the toast of our present Lieutenant-Governor, Hugh Nelson, with whom he had been intimate many years, for both were pioneers of the province. Loyalty was undoubtedly characteristic of every Scotchman, and on no more auspicious occasion could they exhibit it than on this. There had been an almost indescribable amount of progress in this country during the past few years and within the period of a short decade they might see this the premier province of the Dominion, in wealth if not in population also. The words "go ahead," he thoroughly believed plowed in the veins of every Scotchman, they take the lead everywhere. Even the present Premier of the Province, the Hon. John Robson, was a Scotchman, and the Lieutenant-Governor only was just one step higher, an Irishman. [Laughter.] Speaking of New Westminster, there was no reason why it should not become the largest city in the province, and if they all pulled well together to gain that glorious end they would not be long in getting there. There might be Scotchmen, Irishmen or Englishmen, but when they got here they should all be British Columbians, and work as such for advancement. Some day the province would be very proud of belonging to the great Dominion of Canada. [Applause.]

Mr. R. G. McPherson, second chief, proposed the army, navy and volunteers, which was drunk amid great enthusiasm, Mr. G. F. Gibson singing the "Red, White and Blue," and the whole company joining in the chorus.

Captain Townley was flattered at being called upon to respond to so noble a toast. [applause]. He was proud to see Sergeant Major Murphy present, and also the Chief, wearing their medals, [cheers.] These were honorable trophies. The Scotchmen were famous warriors, and wherever the fighting was the thickest there would the Scotch soldier be found. But he was a Canadian and gloried in it. He eulogized the famous figures in Scottish warfare and literature. He concluded with the remark that he would be pleased if the Scotchmen present would urge, whenever they have a chance, the authorities, the need of a new drill shed in this city [applause and laughter].

Captain Peele thought Great Britain had the finest army and navy in the world. They have 365 ships, and during the year, out of that number, they had had only two casualties. That showed the wonderful efficiency of the navy [applause]. Pointing to the pictures of battle scenes hung upon the walls, he commented, amid hearty applause, on the glorious victories which they depicted.

Sergeant McMurphy, on rising, was greeted with a round of prolonged cheering. "God bless the English army," he said. He had seen the army and navy at their best [loud applause]. He recounted some of his experiences in the Crimea and elsewhere, saying he had seen the Highlandmen at work, and when they went into the battle shoulder to shoulder, nothing could turn them.

Chief Benson proposed the learned professions.

Judge Bole expressed his gratification at being present at this meeting of Caledonians, although he was only half a Scotchman. He envied them, however, for they had the happy knack of getting a great deal and keeping it when they got it, (laughter). He was half a Scotchman and perhaps that was the reason why he had been only half successful in this world. Perhaps his Irish half would be rewarded in heaven [renewed laughter]. He continued in this happily facetious manner for a time, and then devoted his remarks to the functions of the government, the legislature, the judiciary and the bar, all of which were among the most important in any nation. He deprecated the system in the United States, where the members of the judiciary had often to appeal to the criminal classes to retain their positions. He eulogized the system in vogue in all British possessions, which was the greatest bulwark of our liberties, and a country that was free could not but be great.

Mr. J. A. Forin followed in a short and good natured speech, concluding by a reference to the distinguished position occupied by Scotchmen the world over in the legal profession. No less than all other departments of the affairs of men.

Mr. McPherson proposed the commercial interests.

Mr. E. H. Port responded in a brief and pointed speech, pointing out the progress that the business men of this province, and particularly the young men, were making.

Mr. T. Allan followed, saying that he had observed that Scotchmen, wherever they were found, took a leading position in business affairs.

Mr. McPherson proposed a toast to "The Land we Left."

Rev. Mr. Scouler was called on to reply, and was received with applause. He said he would rather preach a sermon than make an after dinner speech. But he was glad to be present with them. Most of those present were Scotch, or part Scotch. All who had come from Auld Scotia, were proud of their country. It was a beautiful country and was famous for its historical associations. When a boy, he had met a lady at home who had come across the ocean, the land of Burns. He wondered at it then, but he did not now, for none who had read the bard but must long to see the land. The Scotch were an industrious people, which was evidenced by the wonderful variety of their manufactories. They were a liberal and generous people, and whenever a good cause presented itself, they were ready to stretch forth a generous hand. The speaker then gave instances of the foremost positions held by Scotchmen in the church, in literature and in commerce. He concluded with the reading of the following verses:

Old Scotia! hail! with love for thee
My raptured bosom swells;
Land of the bold, the good, the free, of woods and flowery dells.
Land where the thistle proudly blooms
Fresh as the rising morn,
I'll love till time thine heart consumes
The land where I was born.

Hail! land of song, whose minstrels lure
Have tuned the heavenly lyre,
Where Tannahill's wild streams were heard
To blend with Burns' fire.
Where Scott in peerless splendor reigned and
Hogg awoke his horn,
Till echo swelled through wood and glen,
Bright land where I was born.

Land of my love, land of my joy, land where my life began,
Land where I rambled as a boy, and left it
when a man.
Land where the eagles cleave the sky and view the plain with scorn,
I'll breathe thy name in life's last sigh,
Great land where I was born.

Mr. G. Robertson sang in fine spirited style "Scotland's Hills for Me," which was loudly applauded.

Mr. McPherson proposed "The Land we Live in."

Mr. Forin in responding said that with this great Dominion what we gloried in as Canadians, was our national sentiment. Canadians felt the same throbbings of patriotism when Canada was mentioned as a Scotchman did when Scotia was mentioned, or an Irishman when the country of his birth was alluded to. He continued in an elegant reference to the greatness of Canada and the splendors of the future in store for her. He believed that Quebec, which was often spoken of as a source of discord, would yet be a great strength to the Dominion. Commenting upon the various provinces, he believed that British Columbia was the richest in natural resources, its development would be rapid, and he hoped that the moral and intellectual development would keep pace. The speaker concluded with a reference to the distinguished position occupied by Scotchmen in Canada.

Mr. W. Urquhart sang a patriotic song in capital style.

The toast to "British Scots Where'er They Be," brought Mr. P. Peebles to his feet. He felt himself rather handicapped by the fact that no statement had been made to provoke a feeling of hostility. The speakers had all been extremely complimentary to Scotsmen. [Laughter.] The toast embraced a wide field, and it would take him two hours to name all the places where Scotsmen could be found. He continued at some length in a racy speech that much amused the company.

Mr. A. B. Mackenzie sang an Irish ditty with great effect, and Mr. McLean followed with another in the same strain that provoked much merriment.

"The Nicht an' a' Wha Honor It," was responded to Mr. Peter Grant in a racy speech which concluded with the reading of a very humorous letter in the Highland dialect.

Mr. Gibson also gave a reading which was well received. Then came the toast of the Press, whereupon Mr. W. H. Ladner sang the praises of the daily paper in a little original ditty which was greeted with applause.

Mr. McLean sang an Irish comic song, and Mr. Laidlaw gave "Be Kind to Auld Grannie." Mr. Robertson and Mr. Gibson each contributed a song.

Mr. W. H. Ladner drew attention to a curious oversight in the programme of toasts, which was that "Agriculture" had not been honored. This was really the most important interest in the world.

Mr. Ladner's hint was promptly acted upon, the toast was duly proposed, and Mr. Ladner being called upon to respond, was greeted with ringing applause. He made a capital speech, of which it is to be regretted the late hour at which it was delivered, did not permit the extended report which it deserved.

Mr. ———, sang, "The Old Black Watch," and Mr. Forin, "Never Take the Horseshoe From the Door." The gentlemen continued the merriment away into the wee sma' hours, and separated with the feeling that a most successful celebration of the occasion had been carried out to the satisfaction of all.

A Marvel of Strength.

Louis Cyr, Montreal's strong man, has succeeded in breaking the record for putting up the 100-pound dumbbell. The previous record was twenty times, which Cyr not only beat, but actually put up 103 pounds dead weight. The first twenty-seven were pushed up fairly, but the twenty-eighth was not considered fair. The exhibition took place in the large room of the Rialto, when about thirty persons were present. The first part of the performance was the holding out 103½ pounds at arm's length. Then there was a five minute's rest, after which lead enough was tucked on to the dumbbell in the shape of bags of lead to make the weight 100 pounds. This weight was put up straight at arm's length above the shoulder twenty-seven times, and even in the twenty-eighth attempt, the weight went up, but was not considered fair, and only twenty-seven were allowed.

San Francisco News.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 28.—Local whaling men have been wondering for some time what has become of the three truant sailing vessels, the Hart, Grampus and Nicoline. All three left here at the commencement of the regular season and it was presumed that they would return with the incoming fleet. Days and weeks went by and no tidings came. Yesterday information reached this city that all three were ice bound in the desolate Arctic, and would not come back until the ice melted. The vessels, however, were not accidentally ice bound. It was an instance of a novel and somewhat perilous departure from the usual method of whaling vessels wintering in the north. The Hart, Grampus and Nicol were seen in whaling grounds late in the season by the master of the bark Alton, which has since arrived here. They had not been very successful, and it was intimated that they would spend the winter in the north. The captains had heard that bowheads were so thick in the Arctic that voyagers could walk along on their backs for miles at a stretch. The present location of the three whalers is at the mouth of the McKenzie River, by far the highest winter point reached by a whaling fleet. They are distant about 1,000 miles from the North Pole, and are bound on every side by walls of impenetrating ice. The principal peril attached to the isolation is that the vessels' provisions may give out. It is presumed that the Hart and Grampus are supplied with stores sufficient to last during the winter. Whaling steamers going north next year will visit these icebound voyagers, take their cargo and deal out new provisions.

ROYALTY EN ROUTE.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 28.—News is brought by the steamer Australia that King Kalakaua, of the Hawaiian Islands, is now on his way to this city on a vacation trip. The cruiser Charleston left Honolulu a few days ago and the king is aboard as a guest of Rear Admiral Brown. Major MacFarlane, the King's chamberlain, is with him. Respecting the tour, a Honolulu journal says: His Majesty's visit is intended solely for recuperation and greatly needed rest, and while it is not understood that the King is in any way seriously ill yet his physicians have advised a change of climate to the bracing and invigorating airs of the Pacific Coast, where he will remain some time. After His Majesty has been officially received in San Francisco he will quietly travel about California, perhaps extending his visit to Oregon and British Columbia. As the king has some trouble with his eyes he will take advantage of his stay in San Francisco to seek the advice of some skillful oculist. As far as the king's proposed visit to Washington is concerned, which was spoken of lately, it is a matter which will be decided upon the receipt by His Majesty of future advices from the Hawaiian colonist. If it is determined that His Majesty shall visit the American capital, he will not remain more than a week or two at the most there, as the main object of his vacation is to recreation rather than duties of business and affairs of state. During the absence of His Majesty from Hawaii Her Royal Highness, Princess Liliuokalani, heir apparent, will act as Regent. The Charleston is due about Thursday next.

YOUNGS ARRIVES.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 28.—It was learned on good authority today that Jack Tremer, the well known oarsman of McKeesport, Penn., is in San Francisco. Tremer, or is said to have arrived here yesterday. Mike Quilligan, the well known Australian trainer, was asked if he had seen Tremer. He replied he had. He is going to Australia, I believe, and will in all probability take passage on the steamer Alameda, which leaves here December 13.

STEAMER ATTACHED.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 28.—The City of Puebla is still in the hands of the sheriff, but it is now thought she will be released to take her usual fortnight trip. Joseph Simon, the receiver appointed by the Senate, is on his way down from Portland, and it is expected on his arrival he will be able to arrange all outstanding claims and release the steamer.

PARNELL'S MANIFESTO

INVOLVES MEN OF GOOD REPUTE AND STANDING.

Archbishop Walsh Writes Parnell an Evasive Letter—Dillon and O'Brien Have as Yet Returned No Reply to the Cablegram Sent to Them—The Freeman's Journal Comes out for Parnell.

LONDON, November 28.—Parnell has issued the following manifesto to the Irish people: "The integrity and independence of a section of the Irish Parliamentary Party having apparently been sapped and destroyed by wire-pullers of the Liberal Party, it has become necessary for me, as leader of the Irish Party, to take counsel with you, and having given you all the knowledge in my possession, to ask your judgment upon the matter, which it now devolves solely upon you to decide. The letter of Gladstone to Morley, written for the purpose of influencing the decision of the Irish party in the choice of their leader, and claiming for the Liberals and their leaders the right of veto upon that choice, is the immediate cause of this address to remind you and your Parliamentary representatives that Ireland considers the independence of her party as her only safeguard within the constitution, and above and beyond all other considerations whatever. The threat in that letter repeated so insolently on many English platforms and in numerous British newspapers that unless Ireland concedes this right of veto to England she will indefinitely postpone her chance of obtaining Home Rule, compels me, while not for a moment admitting slightest probability of such a loss, to put before you information which, until now, so far as my colleagues are concerned, has been solely in my possession, and which will enable you to understand the loss with which you are threatened unless you consent to throw the English wolves now howling for my destruction."

DILLON AND O'BRIEN NOT HEARD FROM.

LONDON, November 28.—Up to the hour of 2 o'clock this afternoon no reply had been received in response to the inquiry cabled to Dillon and O'Brien and their Nationalist companions now in America, requesting their opinion as to the course to be pursued in the present crisis. The reply is momentarily expected. The relations existing between the two sections of Nationalists are constantly becoming more strained. Supporters of Parnell complain that unusual methods are being used against him by his opponents. It is also claimed by them that after the Nationalist conference on Wednesday a misleading summary of the proceedings was privately forwarded to the Irish delegates in America. It is further asserted that intrigues are now on foot in the House lobby to withdraw Dillon and O'Brien and other delegates from their support of Parnell. Anti-Parnellite members of the Nationalist party are more hopeful, and assert that they have private telegrams from Ireland which show that they have the support of the Irish people and priesthood. They maintain that if Dillon and O'Brien join Sexton and Healy's forces against Parnell as they expect them to do, the tide of opinion against Parnell will prove irresistible. The Press Association says it is authorized to state that the announcement that the action by the Irish Catholic hierarchy was hostile to Parnell is premature, and that statements made in connection therewith are altogether speculative.

ARCHBISHOP WALSH TO PARNELL.

LONDON, November 28.—Archbishop Walsh writes Parnell: "The matter is altogether too grave to enable me to feel warranted in making any public statement of my opinion in reference to it until I have had an opportunity of consulting my Episcopal brethren. I understand that the Irish Parliamentary party will meet Monday to decide what action shall be taken in the lamentable crisis wherewith it stands confronted. It is easy to conceive that the decision of our Parliamentary representation may have the effect of opening up a new phase of the Irish National movement, and that the situation resulting from that decision may be one that will put upon Bishops of Ireland collectively, as well as individually, a very grave duty in considering whether, or how far, it may be in their power to continue in future to place in the Irish Parliamentary party the confidence which, as a body, we have felt justified in placing in it in the past." He concludes mysteriously: "Let me in conclusion say that for the last few days certain events of a not very remote occurrence which seem, however, just now to have passed from public attention, have been very prominently before my mind with recollection of those before me. I am yet to feel convinced that we are even now in a position to form final judgment on the case out of which the present unhappy crisis has arisen. In this, I may be illogical, but it is better to be illogical than to run the risk of being uncharitable or unjust. At all events, this is a matter that, in circumstances of time, must now be decided one way or other before many days."

AN IRISH ORGAN'S VIEW.

DUBLIN, November 28.—The Freeman's Journal today advocates that no decisive steps be taken at the proposed Nationalist meeting on Monday. It believes that the Irish members of the House of Commons should again postpone their decision in regard to the relation of Parnell to the party, in order that matters may be permitted to develop and to give sufficient time to enable the Nationalist delegates, now in America, to convey their opinion to the conference by one of their number, who would deliver them verbally. It is contended by the Journal that the main point is that Ireland should preserve the efficiency of her party. English Radicals, it contends, must take care of their own interests and Irish Nationalists must mind their own business. As to Gladstone, it begs to ignore the ravings of canters and hypocrisy of recalcitrants who are powerless for evil without him. When success comes to him these classes will again crawl to his footstool. The Journal continues its article by saying: "Davitt should remember that when Parliament howled for his punishment, Parnell stood up for him and faced the storm. When the nine days wonder is over he will be surprised that it ever entered an Irishman's head to depose his captain at the most critical hour of the political combat."

Dynamite Explosion.

LOCKPORT, New York, November 28.—A terrible boiler and dynamite explosion took place on the trench sewer in the First Ward this morning. Edward Manning, 29 years old, one of the workmen, was killed, and R. Vaughan, engineer, badly injured.

The Truth

Daily Edition.

ENGLAND'S UPPER HOUSE

One grave abuse affecting the House of Lords is that there is no machinery for depriving a disreputable member of rank and right to sit. There are some seven or eight (among more than 500 peers) who have thus forfeited every moral claim to rank and place, though they, as a rule, neither sit nor vote with hardly more than the one exception of the reckless but able Duke of Marlborough. Every effort is made by their brother peers to ostracise those, who publicly discredit their order, but the fact remains that legislative action must ere long be taken to exclude and degrade the offenders, and in other respects reform and strengthen the Upper House. Public opinion is quietly maturing on the subject, and Conservatives as well as Liberals, consider a change eminently desirable. Mr. HOWARTH, M. P., quite a representative English Tory Commoner, spoke publicly to this effect only the other day. The men who, as a matter of fact, do the real work of the Upper House, are not only well reputed, but as a rule, of more than average ability, as the House includes and by right of birth men as capable as the Duke of Westminster and Lord Rayleigh, second and senior wranglers respectively of Cambridge University; the Duke of Argyll, who would have made a great scientific professor, and Lords SALISBURY, SPENCER, GRANVILLE, DERBY, ABERDEEN, ROSEBERY and many others who might be named as clever men. As a matter of fact, too, more than half the members of the House of Lords have sat at one time or another as popular representatives in the House of Commons. But notwithstanding this, reform of the Upper House is needed, great as are the capacity and the character of a very large proportion of the members.

THE CIVIC ELECTIONS.

There is remarkable quietude over the coming Aldermanic election in this city. Few citizens seem to care much how we are to be governed next year, for the list of candidates as yet out is by no means strong. One or two Aldermen are retiring, but it can't be said that there is any great sign of their replacement by men of any special calibre. This is not as it should be in a city of such growing importance as ours. In Vancouver, on the other hand, there seem to be candidates and excitement in abundance. Indeed, some of the retiring Aldermen and their competitors all but got to blows the other night. This is, of course, an example not to be commended or imitated, but even it is better than utter apathy.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The temporary breach between the Parnellites and the Gladstonian Liberals has enabled the British Government to pass the first reading of their land purchase bill after a few hours debate, instead of as heretofore finding several days occupied in eager discussion of the preliminary stages of the bill. What was still more surprising was the fact that the Parnellites, who have hitherto sternly opposed the measure, on this occasion supported it and the government. There is a strong probability that the measure will pass this session, and now, apparently, more promptly than was anticipated. Its main proposal is the advance, under government loan of millions of pounds to a multitude of Irish tenants ready to purchase their lands from the owners. The loans being repayable, principal and interest, by 49 instalments, averaging three and a quarter per cent. upon the advances made, the usual effect is that a purchasing tenant is able gradually, to acquire full ownership of his land whilst actually paying, and this during 49 years only, a less annual amount, by fifteen to twenty per cent., than his former rental. This is, of course, a result of British credit, which enables money to be borrowed on government security at rather under three per cent. The £10,000,000 previously authorized to be lent similarly to Irish tenants have now nearly all been so bestowed, hence the bringing in of the new Bill to render available another large sum. The tenants' loans already made, have enabled at least 14,000 persons to buy their holdings on easy terms, and what is very satisfactory, few indeed have made the least default in their payments. No money is however, advanced, unless an official valuer reports the purchase as a cheap one, justifying the loan of the money, as amply secured by the worth of the property. What makes such a Government loan scheme the safer is the fact that after a few years the tenant has paid in a sufficient sum on account of his purchase to make him very careful not to forfeit his holding mortgaged to the Government. The purchase scheme has now been in operation several years, and it is reported that not a single property of any real account has, through tenants default, been taken over by the Government. Sir CHARLES GAVAN DUFFY, the Australian statesman, who is a strong Irish Nationalist, and as such a political opponent of the British Government strongly supports its Land purchase proposals.

The abnormal increase in the exports for September, due to the desire on the part of our producers to get their goods into the States before the McKinley tariff went into operation, is offset by a decrease of $2,000,000 in the value of the October exports as compared with those of October, 1889. The following is the statement for the month:

Produce of the mine	$ [illegible]
Produce of the fisheries	[illegible]
Produce of the forest	[illegible]
Animals and their produce	[illegible]
Agriculture	[illegible]
Manufactures	[illegible]
Miscellaneous articles	[illegible]
Coin and bullion	6,704
Total	$12,0[illegible]

The total for October last year was $14,024,274. For the four months, however, there is an increase in our exports of nearly half a million, the figures being:

1890	$47,238,9[illegible]
1889	46,826,46[illegible]
Increase	$ 412,4[illegible]

The imports for October were valued at $10,118,955, and the duty collected at $2,035,783, and for the past four months imports $41,155,950, and duty collected $8,397,717, against $41,043,174 and $8,442,835 in 1889, a decrease of about half a million on the imports and an increase in the duty collected of $155,882.

Commissioner Adams, of the Salvation Army, who is about to visit this city, has just been interviewed at Vancouver. He spoke at length of General Booth's great scheme for reforming the lapsed masses of England and Scotland. The general hopes to establish in Canada, a colony for reclaiming such folk if possible, and for this purpose, an agent is already in Ontario negotiating for 3,000,000 acres of land. Without wishing to deprecate Mr. BOOTH's great scheme of social reform, the planting of a large colony of European failures in Central Canada will awaken in the Dominion more than a little misgiving. Such a colony will require the most adroit management to safeguard the public interest, for unless it succeeds in reforming most of its settlers, their incoming may be as dangerous to Canada as the immigration of the vicious has proved harmful to the United States. If, however, the scheme is approved, the Provincial Government of Ontario will doubtless hedge it in with many precautions.

"America," a Chicago news print of ideas big as its name, has just prepared an artistic device for a new United States flag, on which the stars of the several states are to be well displayed within a corner shield. The plan provides for the addition of other stars, as more territories enter the American union as states. Not only is the accession of Utah and New Mexico thus anticipated, but the banner designer, with the characteristic "previousness" and bounce of a Chicago man, rearranges his shield to meet the time when "we," as he says, "begin the dismemberment of the British Empire, by annexing New Brunswick and Nova Scotia." How fond some of these westerners are of this safe sort of tailtwisting of the British Lion! These good friends of ours might meanwhile look nearer home, where the Anarchist wolf is again beginning to howl anxiously. When they have finally settled how it will be time enough to "take on" the British Lion after tramping underfoot the maple leaf.

A movement has just been inaugurated in England to promote the further taxation of teetotallers. So large a proportion of the revenue of Great Britain and Ireland is raised by drink duties—nearly one-third in fact—that abstainers do not contribute very largely. On the other hand teetotallers make but slight demand upon the state for things, which occasion no little expenditure of public revenue, it being notorious that crime and pauperism are amongst abstainers of small proportions. The new movement has no chance of success, there being no form of taxation more justifiable than drink duties.

MORE TAX PAYER'S MONEY TO BE SQUANDERED.

EDITOR TRUTH: Sir, I understand that the city has decided to appeal the Brighouse case. After this case had dragged its weary way along for ten months, a trial was reached, and a fair and just verdict was rendered for the plaintiff. I was present in the Court House when the case was being tried, and I think that His Worship, Mayor Brown, and some of the Aldermen, looked very much out of place fighting a poor lone woman out of her just rights. This case could have been settled by using a little common sense and judgment, for a few hundred dollars, whereas it has now, with award and costs, come near $2,000.

It is rumored that the City Solicitor advised the Council to settle this matter before trial as they had no case, and now if Mayor Brown and the Council have decided in pure bigheadedness to further annoy this poor woman, and appeal a case that has not a leg to stand on, they all deserve to be turned out of office and men with a little more common sense and judgment elected. I can tell the poor tax payers now that this appeal will only cause to be squandered another $1,000, which will cause a total loss to the city of about $3,000, whereas, if the case had been one in which a business man had been concerned, a few hundred dollars would have settled it.

A POOR TAX PAYER.

New Westminster, November 28, 1890.

An Undertakers' Combine.

The Kansas undertakers have concluded that there are enough men engaged in that business in the state to bury all the dead and propose to form a combine against new firms. Some hundred or more of them have been quietly in convention, and a scheme has been formulated by which the men now in business will monopolize the trade. No publicity has been given the meeting, and when questioned by newspaper correspondents they declare the organization was simply to "elevate the business."

In speaking of the business transacted one of the members said: "We simply perfected an organization which will keep down the number of men in the state who engage in the undertaking business. Our scheme will be to boycott those firms which sell to them, and frown down in every way on new firms. It is simply a matter of self protection for us, as there are already more undertakers in the state than the business demands."—Cor. Kansas City Times.

An Extraordinary Tow.

The Leary raft towing venture is about to be cast in the shade by an ocean journey with a fleet of flat boats. The powerful ocean tugs Haviland and Heiperhausen have left the harbor here for the purpose of towing the great Nicaragua canal plant to the scene of operations.

An ocean voyage with a mammoth dredge and a dozen scows will be made along the coast to the West Indies and thence to Greytown, Nicaragua. The dredge is now awaiting the big propeller at Charleston, S. C., where it was constructed. After the big tugs put to sea with their burden it is estimated that three weeks' tugging will be necessary to bring the unwieldy burden into Greytown harbor.—New York Telegram.

Early Autumn.

The country lanes are bright with bloom,
And gentle airs come stealing through
Laden with native wild perfume
Of balm and mint and honey dew,
And o'er the summer's radiant flush
Lies early autumn's dreamy hush.

In wayside nooks the asters gleam,
And frost flowers dance about the sod,
While, lapsing by, the silent stream
Reflects the hue of golden rod,
That flower which lights a dusky day
With something of the sun god's ray.

The grapevine clambers o'er the hedge
In golden festoons; crimson tufts
Like torches on the distant ledge,
Or light the lane at every turn,
And ivy vines everywhere
In blood red banners on the air.

A purple mist of fragrant mint
Borders the fences, drifting out
Of tattering cornrows, and its tint,
As half of cheer and half of doubt,
Is like the dear delightful haze
Which robes the hills these autumn days.

And strange wild growths are newly seen,
Old things but little prized of yore,
Like some old jewel well reset,
Take on a worth unseen before,
As rock in spring a graceless weed,
Is brilliant in its autumn seed.

The cricket and the katydid
Pipe low their sad prophetic tune,
Though airs pulse warm the leaves amid,
As played around the heart of June,
So minor strains break on the heart,
Telling age as years depart.

... story of the year
... toward its close,
... on the ear
... of ...
... all so sweetly ...
As comes the autumn time again.
—Dart Fairthorne in Harper's Bazar.

A Shotgun Toll Gate.

A bold highwayman appears to have established a shotgun toll gate in the Pipestone pass, about twelve miles south of Butte, Mont., and is demanding his tolls with a regularity that smacks of the good old days.

About a month since a slender, soft voiced young man, wearing a piece of overalls for a mask, commenced asking for contributions from people passing this point, and all were made tributary, not even the wood haulers being exempt, and he made up in numbers what was lacking in individual amounts. This was kept up for a few days, then the Pipestone was deserted, and the Champion stage was brought under the persuasive influence.

Today word comes to this city that this modern Claude Duval has returned to Pipestone, and that five new victims have been added to the list. The amounts taken in each instance have been small, but the frequency of the demand has made it burdensome, and the people living in that section are organizing to endeavor to discourage his efforts in that line.—Cor. Minneapolis Tribune.

A Clock You Need Never Wind.

T. G. Farrar, of Columbus, O., has invented one of the most peculiar clocks of the Nineteenth century. It consists of a plate glass dial suspended from the ceiling, and all the parts of it that are visible are the two hands, the pivot upon which they swing and the dial. Mr. Farrar worked on the invention for six years before he succeeded in perfecting it. He alleges that the only motive power is the gravitation of the earth, and that the clock will run on forever without winding.

The hands are of tin and are hollow, and perfectly balanced on the pivot. Mr. Farrar says that they are moved by the gravitation of the earth, and it puzzles the spectator to account for the power that raises them after they reach 6:30. All kinds of theories are afloat to account for this. But Mr. Farrar keeps his secret. He insists that electricity is not the motive power.—New York Journal.

A Rattlesnake's Skin for a Belt.

Capt. Wright, the raisin superintendent for Logan & Adams, had a close call the other day. He was running a hand basket along under the vines, and throwing Muscats in it as he picked them. Suddenly he heard a click or snapping sound, as though some part of the basket had broken. Lifting it up he was surprised to find an ugly, wriggling rattlesnake follow. It had struck Capt. Wright's hand and buried its fangs in the wicker handle of the basket an inch from the captain's forefinger. No time was lost in killing the deadly reptile, and its skin is now being fashioned in a belt for a Phoenix journalist's sweetheart.—Phoenix (Cal.) Herald.

Deer Slaughtered by a Locomotive.

The Eastern Minnesota railway's limited train left Mansfield north bound twenty-seven minutes late. Five miles this side of the station, while the train was running nearly sixty miles an hour, an immense herd of deer dashed across the track at the entrance of a cut. It was too late to stop, and the train struck into the herd, killing a great number. The train passed through the herd, throwing them right and left, but did not stop. When the train arrived here a magnificent specimen buck deer was found dead on top of the engine pilot. The engineer estimates the herd at over 100.—Duluth Cor. St. Paul Globe.

Raising Turtles.

A Dexter youth has recently been engaged in a novel enterprise. By hook or crook he captured a pair of dignified mud turtles and confined them in an old tub. One morning when he went to examine his treasures he discovered that the turtlette had industriously laid a nice batch of eggs. The boy kindly remembered his friends with ovate souvenirs of the occasion, and contemplates an extensive system of hatching, as far as the remainder of the litter is concerned.—Dexter Gazette.

The slight market for fancy waistcoats is to be accounted for in the fact that the vest openings are so much larger than used to be the case, and the neckwear is so much more voluminous that there is really no necessity for the display.

In Bloomfield, N. J., a few days ago was buried Adam Metz, a well known citizen. In accordance with his dying wish his funeral procession was headed by a brass band, and fourteen societies and about one hundred coaches followed.

Didn't Want a Pension.

John Parkhill, of Portland, who has made himself famous as being the only man in the United States who did not want a pension, passed through Astoria on his way to San Francisco to the volunteer firemen's reunion. Mr. Parkhill, who is over 90 years of age, served through the Seminole war in Florida in 1838, and also in the Mexican war.

He was one of the handful of frontiersmen who raised a company to fight the Mexicans before the United States took the matter in hand, and afterward served all through the war. He refused to enter the War of the Rebellion because he thought it was too much like fighting brothers.

For years pension agents have made life a burden to him in their endeavors to secure a pension for him. He fought them manfully for a long time, as he said he was able to make his living. Finally the papers came and with them his back pension, and it has been coming ever since, actually forced on him against his will.—Astoria (Ore.) Columbian.

No New Coins for the Present.

Superintendent Bosbyshell, of the mint, received from Washington a communication from E. O. Leech, director of the mint, conveying the disappointing intelligence that the department at Washington would not take any action until next summer in regard to providing new designs for coins, under the bill recently passed by congress. Director Leech explains that he is so busily engaged in the preparation of the report of his department and the secretary of the treasury's time will be so much occupied for some months that the matter of changing the models and designs of coins cannot be taken up until late in the spring.

Since the bill became a law Superintendent Bosbyshell has been in receipt daily of letters from persons anxious to enter into the competition, showing a widespread interest in the subject. As it was hoped to change the five cent nickel piece and get rid of the buzzard dollar as quickly as practicable, the delay will be received with universal regret.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Irish Rack Rents.

The trouble about the Irish rent question is that the Irish people generally consider a rent contract as having no moral obligation. The truth has been handed down from generation to generation that their ancestors were wrongfully dispossessed of their lands, and that the title of the large landlords, while legally perfect enough, is in its last analysis based upon robbery. The rent is therefore considered not so much a pecuniary burden as a patriotic grievance.

With our forefathers it was not the price of the tea, but the principle of the tea tax, that led to the revolution, and in like manner, as the Irishman looks at it, the rent is not so much a financial as a political question, though when the crops fail payment of the rent is an impossibility. To the extent of considering it a political question the English government agrees with him, and hence the recent arrests. If pounds and pence only were involved it would have left the landlord to take care of himself.—New York World.

Coachman Williams' Luck.

Coachman John Williams, who guards the horseflesh of E. C. Howe, of Bristol, is in luck. He has just returned from a trip to California, where his uncle died recently, leaving a large estate. The interest on $7,500,000 was bequeathed to John and his brother William, who lives at Blackburn, N. Y. The wealthy decedent, Theodore Luderick, immigrated to America from Metz, Germany, in 1849, during the gold excitement in California, and he went to that state with only enough money to pay his fare. He got into the mining business and prospered. In 1876 he was worth $10,000,000, but during the panic in 1877 he lost heavily. Before his death he left several millions to charitable institutions in his country.—Philadelphia Record.

NEWS OF THE CITY

Mrs. Carruthers Contradicted.

Mr. Carruthers called at this office yesterday afternoon to contradict emphatically Mrs. Carruthers' story about himself. He came here, he said, from Calgary last March at his wife's suggestion, she persuading him that there was better opportunity for him in New Westminster as a skilled painter and decorator. He then temporarily left her behind in Calgary with the assurance that he would soon write for her to follow him to Westminster and send enough money for the purpose. She, meanwhile, sold the things; and he found, as he asserts, that she then went with a man named Jones to Lethbridge. Mr. Carruthers, however, overlooking this, induced his wife to come with him westward, which she did reluctantly, as she wished him to stay at Medicine Hat. Meanwhile Jones also came to New Westminster, and Mr. Carruthers' own sister then found a letter addressed to the wife from that man, she being styled, "Mrs. Thomas Jones."

And now, complains Mr. Carruthers, "my wife has left me altogether to live with people whom I don't like for very good reasons, when she might instead have comfortable rooms at her own sister's." Mr. Carruthers admits that he went further than he should on meeting her the other night when angered by her conduct, but asserts that he never gave her cause for such complaint as she makes. He is, he emphatically asserts, not a drunken man, and has been in the habit of giving nearly all his money to his wife when in regular work, at which times he earns $21 a week. He now declines to have anything more to do with her, and will not be responsible for her debts so long as she lives away from him, as he has several times offered her a comfortable home. Such is Mr. Carruthers' version of a series of very unfortunate occurrences.

Their Latest Blunder.

A large number of the members of the Sons of England Benevolent Society are very much grieved over the unpardonable blunders contained in Thursday's issue of the evening sheet concerning the whereabouts of their popular president, Mr. Allen. If ever there was a clear case for criminal libel this is one, and the Columbian's proprietors will in all probability hear more of the case upon the return of Mr. Allen, for a copy of the paper has been sent to him. Mr. Allen told a large number of gentlemen in this city that he was going to England, and would in all probability be called away by cablegram at a moment's notice. Before starting on his journey the popular president of the Sons of England left the management of his affairs in this city to Mr. Reginald Blaker, of Messrs. H. G. Ross & Co., whom he appointed his agent. When last heard of Mr. Allen was in Brandon, Manitoba, at which place he posted a card while the train stopped at the station, and by this time he has reached his destination. Mr. Blaker was told to telegraph his client whether any shortage would be apparent on a contract he had taken, and the money not in any case more than $500, would be immediately returned. The mill people from whom Mr. Allen obtained his lumber say there was no cause in the world for his sudden departure, which the evening paper considers a sign that he wished to leave his creditors in the lurch. Mr. Allen has gone to Nottingham, England, on private business, and will turn up in this city when he is due.

The C. P. N. Co's New Steamer.

It will be remembered by our readers that a few weeks ago mention in these columns of a fine new steamer about to be built by the Canadian Pacific Navigation Company for the Westminster-Victoria route. Mr. Briggs, the company's agent here, has just received a copy of the plans of the proposed new steamer which will make the round trip between the two ports six days out of every seven, and judging from the appearance, it will be a great improvement, though similar in design to the Islander of the Vancouver route. The length of the new boat will be 200 feet, with 47 feet beam and 15 feet six inches depth of hold. Provision has been made for fifty state-rooms opening into the large saloon on the upper deck, which will be surrounded by a promenade. The smoking room, as usual, is in the fore part of the same deck. From midship, a stairway leads below to the dining saloon which has seating capacity for 102 persons. There will be four water tanks from which the boiler will be fed; two of these are in the after part; the others in the fore part of the vessel, and will hold something over 8,000 gallons of water. The steamer will be propelled by twin screws, and her machinery is of the latest designs. It is probable that the new vessel will be constructed by the firm that built the Islander or the Clyde, and sometime during next summer, she may be expected to make her first trip on this most important route.

To the Skeena by Rail.

The North Pacific Railway is a projected line from Winnipeg to Port Simpson at the mouth of the Skeena River, B. C. It is well backed up by capital, and there seems now a great probability that construction will be begun in the early spring. Last week Mr. A. J. Belcher started out from Winnipeg to make a complete survey of the proposed route. The promoters of the project are some of the leading Canadian capitalists, all of whom have great faith in the road. Others, too, share their confidence, as is evidenced by the fact that at Port Simpson, the western terminus of the line, and along the Skeena speculators have bought all the land that might be suitable for town sites or the purpose of a terminus, and are holding it at $300 per acre. The general course of the road is northwesterly, crossing the Saskatchewan River near the forks of the north and south branches, thence to Lac la Biche and Lesser Slave Lake to Dunvegan, in the Peace River district. From Dunvegan the line runs westerly along the Peace River valley to the valley of the Finlay River, thence on a westerly course to the Pacific Ocean. The adoption of this route was once considered by the Canadian Pacific, and it was favored by many engineers.

Davidson vs. McDonald.

Before His Honor Judge Bole.

The defendant was arrested on a writ of capias for debt alleged to be due by him to plaintiff and was lodged in the jail at Westminster on Monday last. Mr. Gaynor moved that the capias should be set aside and the prisoner discharged on the ground that the affidavit in support of the capias did not verify the cause of action. The affidavit only averred a debt due by the defendant to the plaintiff while the summons served on the defendant showed that the debt was in part for goods supplied by plaintiff to defendant and in part consists of assignment of debts due by defendant to other parties and assigned by them to plaintiff. His honor held that the commission to verify the assignments by the affidavit was fatal and set aside the capias and ordered the discharge of the defendant. Messrs. Armstrong, Eckstein & Gaynor for the defendant, Mr. Forin, instructed by Drake, Jackson & Co., for the plaintiff.

Scandal in Social Life.

Victoria has lately had a plethora of domestic scandals. The most recent is an alleged bigamous marriage of a man named James J. Daly, a fancy goods storekeeper and an ex-secretary of the local Young Men's Christian Association. He married a Miss Gregg, of Victoria, (by whom he has two children) several years ago, but the pair have lately separated, through the husband's maltreatment. And now the Victoria police learn by a letter from a Mrs. Norah Daly that he left her, his wife, and five little ones behind in New Zealand, six years ago, in circumstances of the utmost poverty. The police cannot prosecute without Mrs. Daly's evidence, and she cannot afford to come across the Pacific to Victoria. Daly denies the charge, but says that he must leave Victoria as he cannot fac the scandal. Daly's second wife and the highly respectable family to which she belongs are meanwhile much to be pitied.

Police Court.

(Before T. C. Atkinson, P. M.)

William Harrison, an elderly man, was sorry he was compelled to be introduced to His Honor, but under the circumstances it could not well be helped. William had a birthday and proceeded to celebrate it in a manner suitable to the auspicious occasion. But just in the height of his jollification one of those horrible cop's put in an appearance and the proceeding were brought to a sudden close. All Mr. Harrison added to the treasury was $2.50.

Robert Dretch happened to be in a similar predicament as to inebriety, but was sleeping peacefully when he was nabbed. Bob will be in durance vile for a month. Jim, an Indian, hailing from Fort Rupert, then faced the music. He was charged with supplying his woman with the contents of a bottle of 'sky. Of course James wouldn't do such a thing, according to his own statement. All the same he will sojourn for four months in prison.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

"It is a matter of some weight to know what to do with the mud scraped off Columbia street. To cart it away is both expensive and slow; and, of course, Lytton Square cannot be moved along the street as the scrapers go to make a convenient receptacle for the moist earth." That is what the Columbian of last night says, and it would almost appear that our contemporary is seeking to "bear" the mud market in order to get a large supply at cheap rates of an article of which it is a very large consumer. By all means, let them have it.

Rev. Mr. Wade, Birchall's spiritual adviser, in reply to the question "Do you intend making a statement touching the question of Birchall's guilt and confession he is now generally supposed to have made to you?" said he did not think it necessary to make a statement at present, but in the event of circumstances arising that rendered such a course desirable he would probably do so.

It is likely that there will be a large number of tenders put in for the position of city mail collector. Whoever obtains the contract will have to collect the mail from all the letter boxes, commencing at eleven o'clock a. m., and have them in the central post office by 12:30 o'clock p. m.

As this evening will be the last opportunity before nomination for a committee meeting, Mr. Townsend will be pleased to see as many of his friends and supporters as can make it convenient to meet him at his Committee Rooms on Front Street. 380-1t.

By advertisement in another column it will be seen that a Bazaar will be held in Herring's Opera House on December 10, 11 and 12, under the auspices of ladies of St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, and in aid of the Sisters of St. Ann's Convent.

It is Actionable.

With characteristic mendacity, the Columbian of last night states that the "Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias," intend giving a grand ball on the evening of December 28 (Sunday). A more utterly false and malicious statement could scarcely have been concocted. There was never the remotest intention on the part of the Knights of Pythias to desecrate the Sabbath in any such manner as the Columbian alleges, and the members of that society, which by the way, is one of the most respectable secret organizations in existence, are asking why their reputation should be traduced thus vilely and persistently by a newspaper against which they have expressed no feelings of enmity whatever. It is not impossible that a suit of criminal libel will grow out of this matter, for the Knights must take some strong measures to shield their reputation from these atrocious falsehoods.

SHOT AND KILLED.

Tragedy in a Nanaimo Saloon—Drink Did It.

Yesterday Mayor Hilbert, of Nanaimo, telegraphed THE TRUTH as follows: "A man was shot in the Italian saloon yesterday. Murderer captured this morning." The particulars of the killing as given by an eye witness are to the effect that four men named George Dunbar, — Whitfield, J. Marshall, (the murdered man) and S. Luperini (the murderer) were playing a four-handed game of "seven-up" for the drinks in the bar of the saloon. James Marshall and S. Luperini had a bet on the side of $1.50 each, the stakes $3.00 lying on the table. At the conclusion of the game a squabble arose, and Luperini grabbed the $3.00. Marshall immediately endeavored to regain the money by force, and waited on the other side of the table for the purpose of striking Luperini. The latter, however, quickly pulled out a revolver, and without waiting to deliberate, fired a shot at Marshall, who immediately fell to the ground, exclaiming: "He's killed me." These were the last words the murdered man uttered and expired in about ten minutes. The shot entered his right side, just a little above the hip. The blood flowed freely for a few minutes, but soon ceased when life was extinct.

The murderer, Solferini Luperini, (an Italian) had not long been out of jail, where he served a term of six months imprisonment for robbery and seduction of his cousin. He is a small set man of about 40 years of age, black hair tinted with grey, one eyes, one of which appears to be closed, and speaks very little English. Immediately after the shooting he made his escape from the saloon. The police were at once notified by telephone, and before morning had tracked and arrested the murderer. The murdered man Marshall, who is a single man about 33 years of age, is well known in Nanaimo, and many expressions of regret have been heard for his untimely end.

PERSONALS.

The Bechlofsky Case.

Registrar Falding, of the Supreme Court, yesterday showed a TRUTH reporter the writ of capias on which Mr. Bechlofsky, of Vancouver, was arrested and imprisoned. It is duly signed by Judge Drake, and if the report that was mentioned in these columns yesterday is true that Bechlofsky has entered an action on the ground that the writ was issued in an irregular manner, he is evidently laboring under a serious misapprehension. It may after all only be that Bechlofsky is about to proceed against those who made the affidavit on which the writ issued.

A Step Forward.

Before very many weeks have passed Westminster will have a second postoffice to accommodate the large and increasing population of Sapperton, the pretty suburb of which the residents of this city may well be proud. The situation of the new branch office will be, we are informed, in the Brunette saw mill office, which, though in a very good position, might, in the opinion of some, be improved upon. Many residents of Sapperton think that the postoffice should be placed somewhere on the main street.

McLean-McKay Boat Race.

No doubt a good many Westminsterites will go over to Vancouver today to witness the sculling race between McLean, of Pitt River, and McKay, of Victoria. The event is to come off on the inlet some time after 3 o'clock, and will be followed by the race between Sloan and Johnston, for the Mainland amateur championship. Mr. J. M. Powell has been appointed referee in both events.

Ward No. Five.

A meeting of the ratepayers resident in Ward No. 5 will be held in the Orange Hall, Sapperton, tonight, at eight o'clock. The object is to have a discussion of municipal affairs and to choose candidates for aldermen to represent the ward next year. The candidates most favorably spoken of just now appear to be Messrs. W. H. Keary and J. T. Kennedy.

The Cariboo Stage Robbery.

Now that the alleged robber has been arrested, there is, according to the Vancouver World, likely to be a quarrel over the reward, which is claimed alike by F. W. Foster and F. Jones on the one hand and John Wilson, familiarly known in Ashcroft as the Doc., on the other.
