FOREWORD

THE editors of the Student Handbook have asked me, in the absence of the President, to extend, on behalf of the Faculty of the University, a word of greeting to the student body and particularly to the members of the Freshman class.

In this instance the word of greeting will be one of congratulation rather than one of exhortation.

I would congratulate the student body, in the first place, upon the steady growth in numbers which would seem to show an increasing desire on the part of the youth of the present day to participate in that important part of our social inheritance which the University has especially in its keeping.

I would congratulate them also upon the advantages which the University is able to offer in the character and scholarship of its staff, and in the traditions of work, of sport, of comradship, and of public service which have already become noteworthy elements in the student life.

Finally, I would congratulate them upon the fact that at no other time in the history of the University as an institution has there been a greater need or a greater opportunity for an effective contribution to that element in University life which is expressed in ideas and ideals rather than in buildings and equipment. And this contribution, when put in concreite form, will mean for us all the daily practice of industry and good nature and honesty and self-restraint and a score of other rather homely virtues, without which education is a pretentious sham and a University a costly failure.

H. T. J. COLEMAN,
Acting President.

"TUUM EST"

Isolated from other Canadian Universities, and hampered by lack of many customary features of college life, the University of British Columbia has had to meet unusual problems in its short but rapid growth, and to meet them without the help of experience or tradition. In six years U.B.C. has gained her own experience and traditions through her own efforts.

Another exceptional influence was the war; when the University opened the men who should have been its leading students were at the front, and those of them who later returned to study were not in touch with the new university's difficulties and emotions.

But there are undoubtedly conpensations, although the future will realize their importance better than we can. It is scarcely possible to doubt that the war marked a decisive chasm in all branches of life and thought, and that we are today crossing with uncertain steps the threshold of a new era. Having come into existence at the same time as this new era, U. B. C. is in a position to feel its spirit and respond enthusiastically thereto, while other universities are restricted to time-worn institutions and customs.

The absence of suitable accommodation too, although responsible for the atrophy of certain features associated with college life, recalls the embryo universities of six centuries ago, and the outcome of such conditions should be an intellectual initiative and fervour lacking in many centres of learning today. On the other hand, U.B.C. has been in a position to select and adopt the best elements of university organization, which were elsewhere gradually accumulated through centuries of development.

For example, the system of student self-government was used from the outset, and is now firmly established, increasing in efficiency with every year. The returned soldier students brought to its administration a practical experience and broader vision which led to new successes.

It was perhaps only last year that these and other subtle influences began to produce their effect. Exceptional achievements in the realm of sport provided the enthusiasm which resulted in that communal feeling termed "college spirit." This is still tentative and undetermined; it will need the active co-operation of every student to maintain and develop it. The achievements of six years are tiny compared to the possibilities of the future, but they are in the right direction, and it is the duty of each generation of students to labor so that every session contributes to the progress, and no retrogressive or inharmonious element intrudes.

THE MARSHALL

The office of Marshal was created during the last session, and Mr. Sid Anderson, Sc. '22, the first occupant of the position, will be in charge of student events for 1921-22. The "college spirit" campaign of last winter demonstrated the need for someone to act as leader and organizer in general university events, where this spirit should be in evidence. It will be necessary for him to be at all times in close touch with student activities, and all plans should be immediately communicated to him.

He is responsible for all student organization, demonstration, and discipline, insofar as the authority of the Students' Council extends. It is his duty to keep before the student body that high "esprit de corps" which they should maintain.

His efforts are to be directed through the presidents of the undergraduate societies to the various class presidents, who provide in their turn the direct contact with the students. He is to be assisted by the "Yell King" and two assistant yell leaders, who conduct student demonstrations.

The Marshal is a member of the Students' Council, and it is predicted by some that the position will soon become the most important one in student affairs. His success during the early days of organization will depend largely upon the co-operation of all students, in providing the Marshal with the necessary information of all student activities, and then in hearty enthusiasm and good discipline in events which are held under his authority.

The "Ubyssey" (so spelled because it is the "Odyssey" of the U.B.C.) is primarily a newspaper. It is intended to give every student a knowledge of what is going on in the various departments of student activity. Contributions of a purely literary nature were last year published in two special supplements, which attained a high standard. The Publications Board is affiliated with the Pacific Inter-Collegiate News Service, and exchanges news from other colleges in Canada and U.S.A. is featured.

Membership in the Men's "Lit" is open to all male students. The society organizes the inter-class debating series, and holds an annual oratorical contest. Experience gained in these events is of great value to those intending to take part in intercollegiate debates, or in any branch of public speaking.

WOMEN'S LITERARY SOCIETY

Hon. Pres. .....Mrs. A. F. B. Clark
President ....Miss K. M. Portsmouth, Arts '23.
Vice-Pres..Miss A M. Anderson, Arts '23

Representatives appointed by classes

The chief aim of the W. L. S. is to furnish more opportunities for speaking in public. Debates therefore will fill the major part of the year's programme, and the emphasis will rest on these meetings. The one qualification for membership is a sincere desire to cultivate address in public speaking and a determination to avail oneself of every opportunity for practise. The executive feels that it will be a sufficient reward if a nucleus of an actively interested body is formed, willing and eager to take a personal share in the proceedings.

Varsity made history in Rugby last session, and the team proved itself beyond doubt the finest in the province. Its defeat of Stanford with the score 12-0 was the crowning achievement of a season in which the University team won everything in sight, and carried off the championship. The Intermediate team also played fine rugby, and came very close to being champions of the Intermediate League.

President .....K. Carlisle, Sc. '24
Vice-Pres. .....L. Bickell, Sc. '24
Sec.-Treas. .....H. O. Arkley, Sc. '24

Previous to the year 1920-21 the Varsity Hockey Club confined its efforts to the City Intermediate League, but last year entered Senior League competition. In addition to winning the Godfrey Cup, emblematic of the city championship, the pinnacle of B. C. hockey was reached in winning the Savage Cup, representing the provincial championship. At Grouse Mountain, the favorite haunt of Varsity climbers, the Outdoors Club has established its headquarters in the form of a serviceable shack, built by the members last Christmas. The Club takes charge of the annual picnic to Wigwam Inn, and provides plenty of hikes for the energetic. The Women's Basketball Club has hitherto been the most advertised of the women's athletic teams, and deserves it all, having gained the cup last year for Varsity, after winning a series of splendid games. The only open-air game in which the women of the University take part is grass hockey. Play must start as soon as the University opens, so that the matches may be played before the weather breaks.
