VANCOUVER, B.C., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1954

5 CENTS

NO. 6

TRUE BLUE 3 "B" Dr. Gordon Shrum, head of UBC's Physics Department, leaves no doubt in anyone's mind that he is a booster from away back. Like all loyal Thunderbird boosters, the Professor is sporting a beanie, a button and a balloon. Incidental to the proceedings is his demonstration of the sound physics principle concerning hot and cold air.

Pepsters To Stage Gigantic Meet

The Pep club's first pep meet this year will be staged in the Auditorium Friday noon.

The production is designed to entertain and to promote school spirit among the usually apathetic members of U.B.C.

INTRODUCTION

Bob Solloway will introduce the Master of Ceremonies, Dal Richards, orchestra leader at the Hotel Vancouver.

Lorraine McCallister, wife of Richards, and popular singer at the "Roof" will do musical comedy numbers

BOP BANJO

Wally Peters and his bop banjo, the feature entertainer at the recent "Frosh Reception," will also appear at the gala show.

Two more added attractions of the show will be Bud Henderson and his piano interpretations and Bus Totten, comic violinist.

DONATION

All time at the show has been donated and the ten cents admission fee will be used to pay the union cover charges.

In the corridor outside the auditorium, the members of the Big Block Club will be selling Athletic Cards.

Mussoc's Operetta Big Secret

An air of mystery surrounds this year's UBC Music Society operetta scheduled for February.

The name of the operetta, only twice before produced, is being withheld, Mussoc president Gerry Lecovin said Wednesday, "until promotion gets underway."

The year's program was outlined at the first meeting of the Music Society Wednesday noon and was described by Lecovin as "one of our most ambitious years."

The first concert, a combined effort of UBC Glee Club and Symphony, will be staged the third week in October. An increase in concert numbers, CBC concerts and perhaps a bid from CBU television, is anticipated by the executive.

University of California Institutes Loyalty Oath

BERKELEY—(CUP)—Signing a loyalty oath is now a compulsory requirement for physically fit American male students at U.S. Universities which have Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

In an editorial, The University of California "Daily Californian" cogently rips apart another piece of American legislation which is, in the opinion of the editorial, setting a dangerous precedent.

As the paper points out, "the university atmosphere is traditionally one of free and unhampered enquiry," the loyalty oath demand is little more than martyrdom for a few especially idealistic students..."

The editorial was prompted by a test case at the University of California involving an English student who refused to sign the oath.

UBC Grad Posted

The appointment of UBC grad Carl Tolman to the post of vice-chancellor and dean of faculties of Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri was announced last Friday.

Frosh Urged To Vote For Council

Jerome Angel, co-ordinator of activities, urged Wednesday that all Frosh take part in the Frosh Undergraduate Society Executive elections to be held Friday.

One election sign is allowed in each polling booth. All other signs must be down by Thursday at 4 p.m., warned Angel.

Polling booths will be located in the Brock, Library, Quad and in front of the bus stop.

Voting will take place from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Library cards will have to be presented when voting.

AMS General Meeting To Hear Bray, Athletes

EDITORIAL

This newspaper today will ask student support in what is a matter of vital concern to them.

If the Men's Athletic Committee continues to proceed in secret, students will continue to be left in the dark as to the athletic situation at UBC. It is a very interesting situation. It always has been.

The Ubyyssey was disappointed when the MAC barred its news editor. We knew there is hardly an administrative body in existence which would not prefer to conduct its meetings in camera. But here is hardly one in existence which would dare to attempt to.

Barring the press is barring the public. At UBC this is particularly reprehensible, because a lack of politics on the campus has left students without any way of considering issues except by reading—in The Ubyyssey—reports of opinions and decisions handed down at meetings.

The committee argues that its minutes are open to scrutiny by anyone—that they really do not operate in secret. However, those of you who are familiar with the drafting of minutes know how much they really do—or don't—contain. The very fact that MAC wishes to meet in camera guarantees that much goes on which does not appear in its minutes.

MAC also argues that it is a president's committee, and hence entitled to meet in camera. But it is a president's committee only because students asked it to be.

Complete student autonomy was relinquished because students realized they could not operate an adequate athletic program without the co-operation of the administration.

The committee is still concerned almost solely with student athletes.

MAC contends it can best conduct student business with the absence of reporters; that some issues discussed—such as the capabilities of individual coaches—are best kept from the glare of publicity.

Here, we believe MAC is entitled to a concession. There are some things, such as discussions of personalities, which should not be aired in the press.

But there is nothing to stop MAC from adopting the procedure used by all administrative bodies—including Student Council—when such subjects arise: Committee of the whole.

This device allows a council to conduct parts of its business in camera on the ground that the subject is really a committee matter.

If not abused, this is an excellent solution. The Ubyyssey would not oppose its reasonable use.

But a cloak of secrecy over all proceedings is a violation of all democratic principles.

In fact, AMS treasurer Ron Bray has admitted that MAC wishes to remain a "benevolent dictatorship."

There is no such thing.

Three Names Appear On USC Election Slate

Three nominations for Undergraduate Societies' Chairmanship were entered Tuesday after the deadline had been extended.

The deadline was first set for Monday, September 27, but was extended when no nominations had been filed by 4:30 that afternoon.

NOMINEES

The three nominees are Jim Killeen, Teacher Training; Victor Leo Isfield, AS4, and Walter Douglas Young, Arts 4.

Young, a scholarship winner is an executive member of Parliamentary Forum and last year won the Legion Cup Debates at UBC.

A bursary and scholarship winner, Isfield served for three years as a missionary in Brazil before returning to UBC.

Killeen last year served as chairman of the High School conference committee. He is a graduate student on scholarship.

OPENING

The post was thrown open when Monte McKay, elected chairman last year, was declared ineligible for the position.

Candidates will deliver campaign speeches at Thursday's AMS General Meeting which will be held in the Armouries at noon.

Election of USC chairman will be held Friday.

Exchange Students Greeted

Five exchange students from Eastern Canadian Universities were welcomed to UBC Wednesday by National Federation of Canadian University Students Committee Chairman Jim Craig.

At a meeting in Brock Hall the students discussed problems regarding scholarships, academic courses, and participation in student activities.

Exchange students at UBC are: Janet Goodman, McGill; John Rayburn, Waterloo College; Lillian Forgrave, George Francis and Gerard Van Tets, University of Toronto.

Under the same plan, three UBC students are attending eastern Universities. Daniel McDonald and Sarah Robertson are now enrolled at McGill; John Bovey at the University of Toronto.

Tips for Teens: To hide those unsightly adolescent blemishes simply cover your face with a twong pouch.

Ubyyssey To Present MAC Protest Motion

Athletic organization, fraternity discrimination, The Ubyyssey's financial setup, and treasurer Ron Bray's budget are the main issues to be considered at today's semi-annual general meeting of the Alma Mater Society.

In addition, The Ubyyssey will present a resolution asking that reporters be allowed to cover meetings of the Men's Athletic Committee.

The meeting, to be held at 12:30 in the Armory, will also include campaign speeches from candidates for the chairmanship of the Undergraduate Societies Committee, introduction of exchange students, a presentation to the Rowing Crew, and announcements.

Here are the main considerations:

1. Men's Athletic Directorate chairman Bob Brady will seek approval of a new constitution for the Men's Athletic Committee—composed of faculty members as well as students.

At present, the School of Physical Education is responsible for, both the physical fitness of students, and for extra-mural athletics.

The new plan will switch intercollegiate sport to the jurisdiction of MAC. This means complete control of all games—including gate receipts and the hiring and firing of coaches.

2. Report of the Fraternity Investigation Committee will be given by temporary Undergraduate Society Chairman Monte McKay.

3. The Ubyyssey's new advertising contract will be submitted for approval. Formerly, all advertisements in the Ubyyssey were sold by Standard Publishing Co., an affiliate of College Printers Ltd. printers of the Ubyyssey), and revenues retained by the firm in exchange for reduced publication bills for The Ubyyssey.

Under the new contract, all advertising revenues go to The Ubyyssey, which now pays College Printers Ltd. the full costs of printing The Ubyyssey.

In effect, The Ubyyssey is now published by the Alma Mater Society rather than Standard Publishing.

USC to Receive Cut

Another highlight of Bray's budget is a cut in the grants to undergraduate societies of 10 cents per student. Undergraduate Societies will now receive $1 per student.

5. The Ubyyssey will ask the AMS to request MAC to lift its ban on the press. The move follows the ousting of Ubyyssey news editor Stan Beck from a MAC meeting last week.

Resolution will be presented on the ground that MAC is conducting student business—including the spending of $18,000 of student money—and hence must be prepared to allow students to know of all its activities and proposed activities. The Ubyyssey contends that this can only be done through The Ubyyssey, published by students for this very purpose.

First item on the meeting's agenda is the speeches to be made by candidates for the chairmanship of the Undergraduate Societies Committee. These are: Walt Young, Jim Killeen, and Vic Isfield.

Four foreign exchange students, here on World University Students exchange scholarships, will be introduced to the meeting.

Members of UBC's famed rowing crew, who upset the powerful British eight in the British Empire Games, will also be introduced. They will be presented with commemorative silver trays by AMS President Dick Underhill.

Public Relations Officer Danny Goldsmith will tell students about the forthcoming UBC blood drive, and urge their support.

A motion will also be introduced to close the agenda. If passed, it will mean that no business other than that on the agenda can be taken up.

This is to prevent small factions from railroading resolutions through after most people have left the meeting.

Minutes of AMS Meetings

(These are pertinent excerpts from the minutes of last year's two final AMS General Meetings.)

MARCH 18, 1954

Mr. Feltham in the Chair.

10. Moved Feltham, seconded Goldsmith: "That By-Law 12, section 7, subsection (i) be amended by the deletion of 'Judicial Committee after regular proceedings set forth in section 8 below' and the substitution of the words 'Student Court' 'That By-Law 12, Section 8 be deleted.'" Carried.

13. Minute No. 35 of March 15, 1954: Moved Goldsmith: Whereas it is in the best interest of the University and Alma Mater Society to commence construction of a roof to the Memorial (B.E.G.) Swimming Pool as soon as possible after the British Empire Games of 1954 in order to prevent deterioration of a valuable asset, and to provide immediate use of a swimming pool for the University and the adjacent community, and whereas in the event that the University cannot raise sufficient funds to commence immediate construction it is desirable that the Alma Mater Society be in the position, if necessary, to take the appropriate action to ensure that a roof be constructed immediately; and, whereas a swimming pool is part of the approved plans of the War Memorial Gymnasium for which the students have already allocated $5.00 out of the AMS fee.

Therefore be it resolved that the Students' Council be given authority to negotiate with the University or any other party to ensure the roofing of the Swimming Pool, and, if necessary, to borrow additional funds on the security of fees already allocated to the War Memorial Gymnasium and Pool." Carried.

15. Moved Lusztig: "That the meeting adjourn." Carried.
Ann Cooper, Secretary
* * *

APRIL 2, 1954

Mr. Underhill in the chair.

1 Moved D. Goldsmith, seconded Lindsay: "That the rule against discrimination shall not prevent religious clubs from restricting membership to those of their specific religious beliefs."

"Hahvud?" I enquired casually, although he didn't really look like Harvard in his laven-suit. Yale, maybe.

"Listen, buddy," he snarled, "my girls are working this section of town. G'wan back to the Penthouse."

Giving my beanie a swipe with his switch knife, he sent me on my way. Doubt was beginning to enter my mind.

"SECLUSION" . . .
But suddenly I realized where I belonged. I would go out to the University, and live MY kind of life, among MY kind of people, dwelling in scholarly seclusion, the casual, cloistered well-bred environment of West Point Grey, far removed from the coarse ugly life of downtown.

Ignoring a drunken tourist who breathed heavily on me and enquired about girls, I boarded a bus, and assumed an air of aloofness to the snickers that folowed me down the aisle. I even ignored the small boy who asked, in loud tones, "Why has that boy got girl's shoes on, Mommy?" "Shhh, dear, he's probably from University," she replied.

As I stepped off the bus the late afternoon sunlight slanted goldenly through the russet trees, casting long shadows on the close-cropped grass. White-haired professors doddered across the Mall . . . healthy young people strolled hand in hand, their diamond-encrusted fraternity pins sparkling . . . It was a world of peace, of quiet, and of order . . . mine.

Two Hours

The two hours from 12:30 to 2:30 today are the most important two hours of the fall term as far as the 5700-odd fee-paying students on this campus are concerned.

The semi-annual meeting of the Alma Mater Society, the Society which takes $18 from each and every one of you to run student affairs, will take place during these two hours.

Far too many students are content to let the AMS carry on their business without knowing just what that business is.

As in all forms of democratic government, the governed must keep a constant vigil on the governors. If the students are not interested in the AMS, its workings will ultimately reflect this disinterest.

Students CANNOT afford to be disinterested in today's meeting.

The 1954-55 budget will be presented by Treasurer Ron Bray for your consideration. This is the only chance you will have to register approval or disapproval of how your money is being spent. It will be too late tomorrow to complain that your money is being misused.

The first report of the committee set up at last year's spring meeting of the AMS to investigate discrimination in fraternities will be given. This is one of the most contentious issues to be put before the student body in the history of the University. Today you will have a chance to hear just what the AMS intends to do about it and once again register your approval or disapproval.

The new constitution of the Men's Athletic Committee will be presented. This constitution if passed, and The Ubyssy feels it should be passed, will replace the Ostrom Plan. This constitution heralds the advent of a completely new deal in student athletics. Every student should be in the armoury today to hear just what this "new deal" is, and add his voice in assent or dissent of it.

The Ubyssy will present a resolution that if passed will allow a reporter to attend Men's Athletic Council meetings. Only then will you, the students who provide the funds for the maintenance of the athletic program, know how that program is being implemented. We urge your support for the passage of this resolution.

See you at the meeting.

My Dog Has Fleas

By ROD SMITH
SANDY ROSS

I never gave much thought to buying a pair of white buck shoes, but it seemed the next logical step after I learned to play the ukulele.

All the boys at the big Eastern colleges wear them. I saw them in a battered copy of Esquire I found at work last summer . . . Handsome ivy-league fraternity men, lolling on the steps of their ivy-covered fraternity houses, nostalgically strumming ivy-league songs on their ukuleles, as the harvest moon climbs slowly over the ivy-covered Library tower.—They were wearing white bucks.

. . . I was jolted from my reveries by my boss who snatched the "Esquire" from my hand. "Get back to work," he snarled, and make sure the urinals are clean this time."

Decision Made

But I didn't care what he said; that afternoon I scrubbed and shined with a will, singing as I worked. For I had decided that I too was going to own a pair of White Buck Shoes.

As soon as I had sold the hubcaps from the family car, I went downtown, and walked into a shoestore. Already I could see myself, walking hand in hand with my sorority sweetheart, down stately tree-shaded walks, swinging my tennis racquet and scuffing the piles of dead leaves—with my new White Buck Shoes.

"I want a pair of white bucks," I said to the clerk. "Hey, Larry," he shrieked, pointing his finger at me, "C'mere and see the kid what wants white buck shoes!!!!"

Larry came from the back of the store, swinging his hips and giggling. He passed one moistened finger over his eyebrow, winked at the other clerk, and motioned me over to a seat. "Well, Liberace, what is your pleasure?"

"I want a pair of white buck shoes," I said, averting my eyes. I wondered if those boys back East went through this every time they bought a pair of white bucks. Maybe they had them sent from the factory in plain wrappers.

Larry stopped his simpering, and strode into the rear of the store. In a moment he returned with a dusty box. "Here, put 'em on," he said. I put them on and turned to a mirror to view the effect. Six inches below my knees, my legs disappeared into a huge expanse of dazzling white. There was still room in those shoes for the previous occupants.

"They're a wee bit too big," I suggested shyly. "Only pair we got," he said. "We don't get much call for them since Mulligan closed down the Castle Hotel."

"But I'm from University," I protested. "So was Mickey Jolke, kid. Now give me your money and scam. We got other customers."

I sauntered down the street undaunted, admiring myself in every store window. Of course, I didn't look exactly like those boys in Esquire, but then, they weren't wearing Caribou Brand bib overalls. Perhaps, if I got a pipe. . .

As I gazed at my reflected image, my eye caught another pair of White Buck Shoes approaching me. A fellow sophisticate, I thought. With that instinctive camaraderie that distinguishes the true cosmopolitan from the common herd, I extended my hand in a gesture of well-bred welcome. I hoped he wouldn't notice my McGavin's Quarterback Club beanie.

The Committee shall issue progress reports at the Fall and Spring General Meetings of the Alma Mater Society.
6. Moved D. Goldsmith, seconded Riopel: Motion as Amended Carried.
7. Moved A. Goldsmith, seconded Angel: "That the meeting adjourn." Carried.
Diane Driscoll, Acting-Sec.
