Oxon Movement Praised by Dean From Columbia

Rt. Rev. C. S. Quainton Describes Effects of New Religious Revival

Intense practibility and extraordinary power to change a man's life are the two great characteristics of the Oxford Group Movement whose aims were outlined by Very Rev. C. S. Quainton to a large and appreciative audience Tuesday, 3 p.m. in Arts 100.

From the outset, the Dean made it clear that the Oxford Group Movement was no common "revivalist" type of organization. On the contrary it brings a vitalizing and dynamic force into the lives of men because it gets back to the very foundations of Christianity. No religious "dogmas" are allowed. No talk as to the intellectual difficulties in the way of Christianity are permitted. Instead, members of the Group strive for the four "absolutes"—perfect love, perfect purity, perfect honesty and perfect humility.

And the miraculous thing about the whole movement is that the results it obtains. "When religion will make a man repay a debt of long standing, and then go to jail, it must have power," declared the speaker, who also cited other instances of the amazing potency of the Oxford Group Movement.

Dean Quainton traced the history of the Movement from its inception in the mind of Frank Buchmann, twenty-five years ago, and showed the central idea of it to be an absolute surrender to Christ.

Men go to the leaders of the Movement for advice on even the most intimate problems of Sex and Money. The leaders do not act as confessionalists, but they ask the simple question "What do you think about it?" Thus original thinking is required to those who would join the Movement but if anyone seeking help does desire to talk over any of his problems, he is directed to one of those members who has had similar problems and who has solved them.

The speaker stressed particularly the terrible blow given to the pride of a man who accepts the doctrine of the Movement, and in closing, he hoped that his hearers would keep an open mind concerning the Movement. Leaders from Oxford will be visiting the Coast in March, he stated.

Grotesque Art Display Coming

Modern art in some of its most grotesque and startling forms will form a subject of violent controversy amongst those students who see the newest exhibition of it, which will be on display in the Faculty Room of the Library next Tuesday.

This group is the second collection which has been loaned to this university by the College Art Association of New York, largely through the efforts and interest of Mr. Ridington, one of the most important sponsors of the U.B.C. Art Club.

The exhibition consists of forty oil paintings by members of the "American Salon," and to quote Mr. Ridington, "is likely to provoke even more student discussion than the collection of sixty water colors, on view a few days since."

Stadium Waivers

Stadium Waivers are now available at the accountant's office, Auditorium 303, and all students are urged to sign these in order that work may be got under way as soon as the weather settles.

The amount has been left blank so that students may decide for themselves just how much they want to give. It was felt that this plan would be more equitable.

There is some talk of organizing the distribution of these waivers among the students, but, so far, nothing definite has been done. An announcement in the next issue of the Ubyssey is expected.

Terpsichorean Revels Tonight

This evening sees the last all-University formal of the season with the Alma Mater Ball, taking place in the Crystal Ballroom of the Hotel Vancouver. Len Chamberlain and his boys will provide the necessary stimulus for dancing, which will take place between 9 and 1. Supper in the Hotel dining-rooms will split up the evening.

Acting host and hostess for the occasion will be Vic Rogers and Dorothy Thompson on whose shoulders has rested the responsibility of overseeing all arrangements. Lighting effects have been installed by the fellowmen, the results of whose labors are expected to surprise the guests agreeably.

Patrons of the affair are: Chancellor and Mrs. McKechnie, Dean and Mrs. Buchanan, Dean and Mrs. Clement, Dean Bollert, Dr. Sedgewick and acting Dean and Mrs. Turnbull.

Spiritual Lack In Technocracy Claims Speaker

Rev. Elbert Paul, of the First Baptist Church, spoke to a large audience at the open meeting of the Varsity Christian Union on Wednesday, February 18, on the subject "Christ and Technocracy."

The speaker suggested the double use to which the word Technocracy had been put, first to describe the exhaustive energy survey of North America made by a group of skilled engineers and second, to suggest the setting up of an economic system based on the rule of technological skill. He paid tribute to the immense value of their findings and said that many things disclosed and suggested by them deserved most thoughtful consideration and would be of undubted values in solving many aspects of our present complex economic prolems. He mentioned their advocacy of the abandoment of the price system and agreed that their contention as to the inedaquacy of that system and the need of one more vitally related to the processes of production in terms of energy was reasonable.

The speaker's criticism of Technocracy was directed toward the

Research Council Offers Bursaries

Of interest to the increasingly celebrated U. B. C. scienceman will be the announcement of scholarships to be awarded by the National Research Council this year.

They are divided into three types, bursaries, studentships, and fellowships. The first are valued at $600, and are open to applicants who have gradauted with high distinction in scientific study.

The studentships are for $750, and are open to applicants who have already done some original graduate research in science.

$1000 fellowships will be given to certain students who have gained distinct evidence of capacity to conduct independent research in science.

It is to be noted that owing to the Depression, the number of scholarships is reduced, and outside of the most outstanding students, no others need apply.

March 1 is deadline for applications.

Further information may be obtained at the Registrar's office.

STUDENT TICKETS FOR "IOLANTHE"

Student tickets for "Iolanthe" will be available at the Auditorium box office from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next week. These tickets are 25 cents each and are not reserved. One ticket will be issued to each student, although an additional one will be issued upon presentation of a signed order from some other student.

What People Are Saying

PEDAGOGUES CAVORT AT CLASS JAMBOREE

It seems that there was once an Education Class. And still is. Maybe the seniors aren't so hot, but watch those pedagogues 'speed. Not only are all their class fees paid—class treasures note—but the gymnasium fees, which are voluntary, are also collected in full from every one of the sixty members.

Moreover, when they throw a party it stays thrown. A theatre party at the Alma last Tuesday showed an attendance of fifty-eight, including patrons and patronesses. After the show the future instructors of our youth effervesced up to the home of Mains, the roof of which is however still in place at the time of going to press.

Canadian Books Are Institute Topic

"'Canadiana' from a collector's standpoint" will be the subject of an address to be given by R. L. Reid, Esq., K.C., at the forthcoming lecture of the Vancouver Institute to be held on Saturday evening at 8:15 in Arts 100.

All students, and others interested, may attend the meeting in anticipation of a lecture at once novel and educational in view of the fact that the speaker, besides being a member of the Board of Governors for the University, is sponsored by the Canadian Authors' Association, and is considered an authority on his subject.

Mr. Reid has a very valuable collection of material relative to Canadian Literature, and this, together with his knowledge of the subject, should provide a most entertaining evening for all able to attend.

UNEMPLOYED CAMPS NEED SCHOOL BOOKS

Honest-to-goodness students have put in a call for books. The Church Co-Operative Camp Council has hent word to Students' Council that many of the men in the relief camps are anxious to make good use of such texts as can be obtained for them. "Some of these men have attended University," says Mr. Alan Chambers, of the Council, "and I can advisedly say that all of them will make thorough use of any of these books which the Students' Council cotid provide."

A list of the required volumes follows:

Plunkett's Pretty Protegee Palpitates Pepster's Party

Ole Olsen and His Commodore Boys Add Zest to Programme Featuring "Dumbell" Stars

Varsity Peppers scored another tremendous triumph at Tuesday's Pep Meeting. At twelve ten, when the performance was scheduled to commence, the Auditorium was packed to capacity. At least fourteen hundred were present, every seat was occupied, even the sacred precincts of the publications pew being invaded. The aisles overflowed with sprawling sophomores.

The first choice item was the appearance of Ole Olsen and his Commodore Cabaret boys, playing "All-Canadian Girl." Harry Hill and Ole hisself next gave a sterling representation of "Goofus," Ole appearing in a simple smock of homespun and straw hat, Harry wearing a countenance that would have made Chang Suey green with envy.

Closely following this number, Al Plunkett made his appearance with a song and several sly remarks, delivered in the inimitable Plunkett manner. Audre Carlin next danced onto the stage wearing—well anyway "Roll on Mississippi, Roll On," was the tune she danced to. She received great applause, and the palpitating pepsters were only quietened when Al and Audre began a little skit. Audre won her way into the hearts of the freshmen when she appeared in a little girl's dress of pink whatyoumaycallit, with a bow in her hair. Al and Audre were enthusiastically endorsed following their appearance and the students brought them back again and again before they were allowed to leave.

It seems that when Pepster Lyle Stewart arrived at the Vancouvr to collect his guests the only person in sight was a man who, approaching, asked Lyle if he were waiting for somebody. "Yes," said Lyle, "for Al Plunkett, Miss Audre Carlin, and a pianist."

"I'm it," stated the man facetiously, and this delayed proceedings considerably. When Al, Audre, and several pepsters had safely gotten on the way, and were in fact halfway across Burrard Bridge, Al suddenly became uneasy. Looking around he said unhappily, "I'm afraid we've forgotten the music!" And then a light flashed to the brain of Lyle. "Migawd," he screamed, "we've forgotten the pianist!" The poor man was found wandering around backstage at the Vancouver, half distracted at the prospect of missing one of Varsity's far-famed Pep Meetings.

In the time that remained Bob Osborne introduced Varsity's Senior A team, following which Ellensburg appeared disguised as a scarecrow hung by the neck. Ole Olsen proved his ability as an orchestra leader and demonstrated the sterling quality of his band. "Hell's Bells,' "Pink Elephants," in which Harry Hill again panicked the students with his bacchanallian antics, under the most ghastly colors from the spotlight, and "Brother Can You Spare a Dime," were received with great applause. With the last number "It Don't Mean a Thing," the meeting broke up, everyone hoping that they had not heard the last of Ole and his boys, or of Al Plunkett and Audre Carlin either.

Dryer Proposed For British Trip

Victor Dryer, imperial debater, has been recommended by the Parliamentary Forum to Council for consideration by the N.F.C.U. as a candidate for a two-man team to tour Great Britain in the fall of this year. Neil Perry, his partner, was nominated as the alternative man.

The team will be composed of one representative from the eastern Canadian Universities, and one from the four western Universities.

The federation of students in Great Britain which is sponsoring the trip, has agreed to pay all expenses with the exception of tips, from Montreal back to New York or Halifax.

The members of the team will be chosen on the basis of scholastic standing, debating ability, and college achievements.

Parliament Bldgs. To Appear For "Iolanthe"

Not the most musical of the preparations for the far-famed Iolanthe are the actual vocal rehearsals, for slowly but surely, to the accompaniment of incessant booming and banging, the Parliament tBuildings are going up on the Auditorium stage.

J. McCance, stage technician, and J. Osborne, scenic artist, employed by both Players' Club for the past 16 years and the Musical Society are reproducing the scenery as it appeared originally on the Savoy stage in London in the D'Oyle Carte productions.

The first is a woodland scene representing an Arcadian landscape and the second the Parliament Buildings at Westminster with the Thames in the background. Both these are exact reproductions from photographs but about half the Savoy size. This, in the opinion of the Musical Society is its outstanding year, and it is accordingly making its greatest expenditure in scenery to date.

Stage direction is in the hands of Edgar S. Smith who has directed Musical Society productions for the past two years, and Margaret Cotter of Arts '34.

Expressionism In Modern Theatre, Discussed by L.C.

Two Papers Given; Scene From Elmer Rice's "Adding Machine" Read

"It means not troubling about the outside, except in so far as it expresses the inside," Jack Parnell quoted Galsworthy in an attempt to explain the theories and practice of Expressionism in the modern theatre to a tensely concentrating Letters Club assembled at the home of Mrs. F. G. C .Wood on Tuesday night.

The paper was read by Ronnie Howard, followed by a second one on the same subject by Don Cameron. The movement was initiated by young post-war Germany. "It was this upheaval of the national soul of Germany which explained the ecstatic, mystic, even apocalyptic nature of much of their literature produced in this period of chaos."

Expression was variously defined as "a new technique for the purpose of giving the most intense effect," "an attempt to give . . . a material abstraction of Reality," "a difference in approach to Art, transferring the emphasis from technical display and imitated surface aspects of nature to creative form."

A scene from Elmer Rice's "Adding Machine" was read as an example of expressionistic technique. Sound, color and lighting play important parts, although the dialogue in this play remains understandable.

Different types of expressionism were described by Don Cameron, and he elucidated several experiments which are being carried on by European and American theatres. In one type, the actors are picked out by strong spotlights, while the rest of the theatre is in complete darkness. In another, the auditorium lights are left up, so that the audience can feel itself and integral part of the action. One extremist deplores the use of human actors at all, attempting to express emotions by means of lights and plastic figures.

TEN YEARS AGO

(Taken from the files of the Ubyssey February 8, 1923)

In February 1923, some unique anonymous person (may his fame live forever) penetrated the offices of the Publications Board to use the telephone. Not a very unusual thing—plenty of '33 students do the same thing every day. Ah, but listen! When this paragon had left, the astonished Pub board found a nickel neatly deposited beside the phone. How about continuing this noble custom, students.

While the women frolicked at the 1923 Hi-Jinks the men, not to be outdone, held a smoker and banquet from which all women were excluded under threat of dreadful penalties. The highlight of the evening was an interclass blindfold boxing match. The three judges could not agree whether Lebinham '26 or Schell '25 won. So the two who disagreed were deposed and made to fight it out themselves. Prof. Angus struck out manfully for Arts '26 and Dr. Sedgwick gave him the decision after he had landed a neat punch in his opponents left eye.

CONSTITUTIONALLY SPEAKING

The new constitution, a draft of which appears on page 3 of this issue, is out. President Whimster assures the Ubyssey that every care has been taken in its compilation and that the wording is legal and fool-proof.

There will be an opportunity for students to ask questions concerning the proposed schedule at the Alma Mater Meeting next week, although no definite action can be taken till two weeks from today.

A careful examination of the constitution discloses the fact that Council is given slightly more power than they have had before. Whether this is good policy or not, is a debatable point.

It seems to us that if we are to have a centralized government, anything that tends towards putting more power into the hands of the board of directors should be considered a step in the right direction. On the other hand, is the question of whether the system of central control is the best possible system. We are inclined to say no.

Since centralization has been the objective of campus politicians for the past five years, it is almost hopeless to attempt to move towards decentralization.

We prefer not to take any definite stand on the new constitution just at present. We think it better for all concerned if the students consider this problem for themselves and come to their own conclusions, without the goadings of a set policy from the student newspaper.

LET'S SIGN A WAIVER

Once again students are requested to sign away some of their caution money. There is a feeling among some students that this continual demand for caution money has become a tiresome habit. Nevertheless the need is urgent and the whole student body should respond with their usual generosity.

Many students feel that the stadium problem is no concern of theirs. It is their concern. The stadium was built through student effort and it must be completed through student effort. As it stands it is a wasted investment. It requires only the price of two shows to make up the amount signed away in the caution wavers.

The stadium is your property. Even if certain students may never benefit from its use, they should realize that a completed stadium will benefit the university as a whole. With a little concentrated co-operation from the student body, the stadium should be ready for use next autumn, but only if there is wholehearted response to the plea for caution waivers.

How about it?

PUBLICITY AND YOU

A list of some of the brilliant achievements of chemistry graduates from this university was published in last week's Ubyssey. Facts such as those should be given widespread publicity throughout the province. The best way to spread this very necessary information is for the students themselves to see that it reaches the right quarters.

Last year the Student Publicity Committee did valuable work. It would be folly to let their work lapse for lack of initiative. The question of the government grant is bound to come up again in the near future and the student body should be prepared to present incontravertible proof to the public of this province that their university is really worthwhile.

Apes and Ivory

By Arthur Mayse

Occ. Obs. descends like an avalanche upon my book reviewer but she also gives me the poem that won for her the Letter's Club laurel, and is accordingly pardoned.

YOU WHO SEEK BEAUTY

You who seek Beauty, listen, I have found her,
Shining with star-dust, quivering like light;
Snowy, austere, in some grave glimmering mountain,
Or swirling skywards in a swallow's flight.

I have heard robins in the crystal morning,
I have smelt plum-flower in the white of noon,
I have seen trees against the sky at sunset,
And lawns spread softly underneath the moon.

And, for my solace, after days of discord—
To bring this gift the cool, far stars sweep low—
A silver hush upon a purple garden,
And lilac perfume in the afterglow.

"That's very nice," said Peter, looking over my shoulder. "What's next, Bill?"

"Go look in the drawer," I instructed him. "There should be something laid by."

Peter came back, face puckered tragically. "There isn't," he mourned. "What shall we do?"

"Give me that poem you were working on, and I'll try to write a short, short, short story."

Now here, set down in due order, are Peter's poem and my short, short, short story!

LAMENT

Where the blossoms sway under the moon
I and my friends went by,
Swinging along to an apeish tune
(Ape-folk singing under the moon!)
And the gladdest of apes was I .
(Here Peter, overcome by grief, leaves a break to be filled in by the individual reader.)
Homeless under the northern moon
I dream that my friends go by,
Breaking my heart with an apeish tune
(Ape-folk singing under the moon!)
And the saddest of apes was I.

—Peter.

TRICONIS

It was dark in the glacier, but when the party put on the rope in the shadow of the buttress the sky was lightened with predawn glory. Wes was growling to himself while the alpine rope that linked him to the next man snaked jerkily into the chimney.

He had joined this party in the dark, and they hadn't told him there was a woman in it until the last minute. Not that he had anything against women—but Hall's Fireplace was a climb for men, strictly for men, and for men only. This he announced audibly, swearing into his whiskers as he began the long vertical crawl. Back and knee—friction holds where one clung with chest and cheek and progressed mainly by will power—Wes wondered how long the woman, somewhere overhead in the grey light, would last. They'd get her there somehow, of course; the leader understood his game, and by the motion of the rope he knew that the man ahead was a veteran climber.

He was struggling with a bad stretch now, where the chimney narrowed to a mere slash hardly large enough for his body. Wes shortened the distance between them and waited, with the rope belayed precariously to a ragged spur in case of accidents. About the only part of his predecessor visible was his feet. Feet shod with heavy alpine boots, shapeless from previous batterings, but armed with a business-like set of triconis, the terrible climbing-nails that take one securely over crag and icefield alike. They were kicking fire from the chimney now, those triconis, clawing and scraping for a hold that would jack the climber up the near-overhang to the easier pitch above. Wes watched anxiously. One slip would pluck them both away like flies from a wall; the alpine rope, even with its high breaking strain, might not stand the vicious double jerk of two falling bodies. Not even if it were belayed above, which was doubtful. He breathed a sigh of relief as the climber squirmed slowly over by holds barely visible to the eye, then tackled the bad place himself, coolly enough, but swearing at every painful contortion. He slipped once. The rope tightened instantly, yanked at just the right moment, and by steady, skilfully applied help brought him through.

Wes appreciated that bit of work, for he wasn't exactly young, and a dive down Hell's Fireplace was rather a grim joke. Now that the worst was over he climbed in leisurely fashion, letting the rope lengthen again. The chimney spewed him out at last to the little rock platform at the top. He shook his hair from his eyes and looked about for his next-in-line—spotted him at once by the triconi-shod feet that projected from the shadows.

"Thanks, fella," he said.

"Don't mention it!" A slim, scratched hand offered him cigarettes, and the woman of the party grinned into his blank face over the match-flare.

Correspondence

Editor, Ubyssey,
Dear Sir:

We wish to draw attention to the most inconsiderate conduct of a certain class or group of Second Year Artsmen. They have not got the common decency to respect outside speakers who come out at noon hours to address the Engineering Society on the campus. Even an Artsman should realize that the time to arrive at a meeting is not more than 10 minutes late, and it is not exactly polite to slam doors and otherwise make loud noises so dear to the heart of a sophomore while a prominent engineer is addressing a meeting. These interruptions have been continued for several meetings, but last Wednesday they were particularly disgusting. If seats for lectures must be obtained, surely an open meeting of a campus organization does not have to be disrupted in the process. Hoping that this complaint will be read by and have its effect on these imbeciles, we remain

DISGUSTED

Editor, Ubyssey,
Dear Sir:

Occasional Observations does not agree with my "Spoutings on the Fountain." Well, that is only to be expected. Who ever heard of a women with any sort of sympathy for methaphysics. The review should have been entitled For Men Only. It was only that I did not want to appear to have assumed the banal garb of a "Mysogynist" that all "intellectuals" assume that I did not put this heading there. The regretable feature of this whole affair is that I am on the side of the majority of reviewers, truly regrettable! Nevertheless it is characteristic that perhaps the only intelligent woman in fiction, (charity forbids us to discuss life) is being berated by a woman as "boringly introspective."

Yours,

tendency on the part of some of its advocates to claim that all our social problems were technological problems. While admitting the vital effect of any economic system on the life of the people Mr. Paul affirmed that Christ represented a disclosure of attitudes and value essential to true living and that His challenge to men today was just as valid a one in the field of human and spiritual relationship as that of the findings of modern science in their particular fields of interest.

University Basketball Teams Make Complete Cleanup Tuesday: Senior A Down Ellensburg 35-27

THREE BLUE AND GOLD AGGREGATIONS BRING HOME THE BACON TO POINT GREY INSTITUTION

Senior "A" Outfit Displays Class

Half-time Score 21-8 As U.B.C. Team Runs Riot

By DAY WASHINGTON

Maybe it was some hidden power in Hooker Wright's long stockings; maybe it was the superlative exhibition of the Senior "B" team, or maybe it was something else that inspired Varsity's Senior "A" basketball team Tuesday night; but whatever it was proved to be so potent a force that the local lads fought their way to a thrilling 35-27 victory over the much-touted and heavily-backed Ellensburg Normal quintette, and won the admiration of every individual who was fortunate enough to be a spectator.

Local Boys Have Edge of Play

The U.B.C. team turned on the heat right from the opening minute of play and literally burned up the opposition with their smart, fast-breaking offensive plays, and their impregnable zone-defense. With the exception of about seven minutes in the second half when the Ellensburg squad staged a scoring rally that brought them to within one point of tying the score, Coach Allen's outfit had a decided advantage at all times, scoring from every angle after spectacular rushing plays.

Contrasting Styles of Play

A feature of the contest was the unfaltering speed of the Blue and Gold squad, contrasted with the comparatively slower and more methodical style of the Yankees. Varsity pinned their faith to fast-breaking plays and won, whereas the deliberate and much slower style of the Normalites proved their undoing.

It was not the case of one or two individuals starring, that won the game for the local boys, for the whole team functioned as a single unit and with nice precision. They reeled off 21 points to Ellensburg's 8 in the first stanza, but were outscored by 3 points after the rest period.

Ken Wright and Bardsley Top-Scorers

Individual honors go to Ken "Hooker" Wright who played a whirlwind game of basketball and accounted for 13 points. He lived up to his reputation and put in several baskets via the one-hand route to draw a big hand from the crowd. Smiling Jimmy Bardsley was next in the line with 8 points to his credit. He had the crowd in a frenzy in the first half when he snared three baskets in less than half as many minutes.

First Half All Varsity's

The first canto developed into a U.B.C. parade to Ellensburg's basket and back to centre again. Ken Wright opened the scoring after a minute of play on a well-timed shot from the side. Ellensburg retaliated with a long field basket that made things look dangerous, but Osborne and Nicholson each followed up with a basket, and the Yanks called time out.

With the resumption of play Wright scored again and Bardsley followed up with a brace of baskets to give Varsity a 10 point lead. Ellensburg called time out once more. A foul shot netted them another point, which was immediately overcome by Barsley's third successive basket. A score by each team left U.B.C. a 16-5 lead.

Varsity Sets Pace

Rann Mathison, tricky forward for Varsity, replaced Nicholson, and Ken Wright went to centre. Pi Campbell sneaked through to increase the local cagers' lead, and the teams traded a basket and a foul shot to make the half-time score 21-8.

Second Half Close

Ellensburg seemed determined to go places in the second half, and actually outscored the local quintette by three points, but they could not get through—by—around—or even under the Varsity defense to shoot from close in, and had to be content mostly with long shots.

They scored two baskets while U.B.C. were getting two free shots, but two unusual tallies, made by Osborne and Mathison, increased the Blue and Gold lead by two points, the score being 27-14.

Plays Good Game

LAURIE NICHOLSON

Ellensburg Stage Strong Rally

After this juncture the local fans were due for a most uncomfortable seven minutes, during which they were to see a 13-point lead melt away under a sustained Ellensburg onslaught, until Varsity was holding grimly to a slim one-point advantage.

Playing with remarkable calmness and deliberation, the Washingtonians gave a beautiful exhibition of ball playing; almost succeeded in disorganising Coach Allen's aggregation, and did succeed in making every one of the spectators' hearts miss a few beats.

With unerring accuracy the Ellensburg team passed its way to scoring position, and accounted for five baskets and three foul shots, while Varsity only marked up one point, to make the score 28-27.

Yankees Miss Chance To Tie Score

With only a one-point deficit, Ellensburg had a chance to tie the score when a double foul was called at the tip-off, but missed the shot. Varsity made good, and once again stepped away from their opposition. Ken Wright and Rann Mathison did the rest of the damage, Hooker scoring two baskets, and Rann two fouls to end the game 35-27.

The teams:

Ellensburg—Case, Hoch, Sill (6), Denslow (5), Haney (2), Hall, Fuller (2), Clough, Bailey (4), Hadley (8) —27.

Varsity—K. Wright (13), D. Wright, Matthison (4), Bardsley (8), Osborne (5), Nicholson (2), Campbell (3), Mansfield.—35.

Girls Beat Adanacs

The senior girls had the toughest game of the evening, and just managed to eke out a one-point victory over the Adanacs in the initial game by a 22-21 score.

Both teams dished up a poor brand of ball in the first half, neither side being able to take much advantage of openings, and after two periods Adanacs were ahead 12-8.

After the feast (?) of the cross-over, the co-eds came to life, and stepped away from the opposition. However, just when everything was looking rosy for Varsity, the New Westminster lassies decided to do things in a big way. Suiting action to thoughts, they put on a determined spurt that brought them closer and closer to their rivals.

Just when it looked as if victory was to be turned into defeat for the local outfit. Old Father Time stepped into the breach and handed the game to Varsity.. The final score was 22-21.

Gladys Munton played her usual good form, and was best supported by Dot Hudson.

Senior "B" Five Win; Score 54-16

Score 36 Points in Second Half—Girls' Team Wins

The Senior "B" Squad upheld their reputation on Tuesday night by swamping Lynnmore to the extent of 38 points. The boys did not get going till the second half, but then they became deadly, and nearly every shot found the hoop.

In the first half both teams were playing very poor basketball, and for a while it looked like anybody's game. A few times the Varsity worked the ball up the floor for a score, in something like their usual style, but their playing was not consistent. The half ended with the Blue and Gold slightly in the lead, on the better end of an 18-15 score.

The second half started off with a bang, when Sutton, Webster and Pringle made 6 points for U.B.C. in the first forty seconds of play. Varsity had it their own way for the rest of the game. The Lynnmore squad made a magnificent rally to score one point on a foul, but did not tally again that evening. The final score was Varsity 54, Lynnmore 16.

General Lucas showed his squad how to play basketball by turning in a fine game, and coming out on top as high scorer with 16 points. Sutton and McDonald were right in there with Lucas, and they worked the ball into the basket, time and time again.

Varsity—Sutton (8), McDonald (10), Pringle (6), Lucas (16), Webster (4), Bolton (4), McLeod (6), Stokvis.

Lynnmore—Strong (6), D'Easum (7), Stevenson (1), Fiddes (2), Atwood, Campbell, Jones.

Badminteers To Engage In Cup Battles

Varsity ..Tournament Next Week

Shaughnessy Military Hospital entrenched themselves still more securely in the top berth of the B Division when they defeated Varsity's entry by 11 games to 5 last Monday night.

Pat Cowan was absent from the Students' line-up, but his place was filled by Paul Kozoolin, who, teaming up with Jack Sparks, won the only Mens' Doubles of the match for Varsity.

Irene Ramage and Hope Palmer Win

Irene Ramage and Hope Palmer deservedly won their first doubles and gained points for their second, when their opponents defaulted. Irene made a fine partner for Ken Atkinson in the Mixed Doubles and the two were unlucky to lose to Ossie Ryall and his partner in the third set.

In the other games Oliver Lacey showed his mastery over the backhand strokes, but on the whole played below his usual standard. Margaret Palmer and Molly Locke, though losing their games, fought hard all the way.

(Refreshments served after the games were enoyed by all).

B. C. CHAMPIONS

Today and tomorrow Varsity's male shuttle stars will be taking a very active part in the annual B. C. Championships which are held at the Vancouver Badmintotn Club. Last year the collegians' attempts were most gratifying and this year they should be at least equalled.

Heading the title aspirants from Pt. Grey is Paul Kozoolin, the 1932 Junior Champion. Although he has played very little this season, Paul can nevertheless be counted on to give his opponents a real fight. If he fails Varsity can still rely on Oliver Lacey to bring back the laurels. Lacey, a Freshman, has been going great guns this year, having won the Junior Singles at Duncan, V.I., and, more recently, the Singles Championship of the Vancouver Badminton Club. He is a decided favorite to take the Junior title this year.

Atkinson Good

Another threat to all and sundry (so far as Badminton is concerned, at any rate) is Ken Atkinson, a veteran of many Ubysseasons. Present holder of the Varsity Singles crown, Ken has entered the Open Singles this year and should go a long way in the event. His usually heady play has improved still further this season and this fact, coupled with his long tournament experience, should pave his way to the latter rounds of the Singles event.

At the moment of writing it is not certain whether or not Jack Sparks and Pat Cowan have entered the Tournament, but if they have they are certain to give a good account of themselves.

Yet another Varsity student may bring glory to his Alma Mater: Gordon Samis, who turned out with the Students at the beginning of the present season, will be performing in the individual events. He was Lacey's partner last year and there is little to choose between the two. This is saying something.

As has already been announced, Varsity's annual Tournament will be staged on Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday of this week-day. A well-balanced list of events has been drawn up and the Club is anticipating a successful "Tourney."

VARSITY TOURNAMENT NEXT WEEK

Entry forms are placed on the notice boards in the Gym and in the Quad and will be taken off at 11 a.m. on Saturday, Feb. 11. The tournament is open to all University students, but the members of the first team are not allowed to enter the handicap singles and two members of the first team are not allowed to enter the handicap doubles together.

Ice Hockey Boys End 1933 Season After Tough Time

Varsity wound up their Ice Hockey season last Monday night, and hung up their skates for another year. Looking back over the past season not many bright spots show up for the students. Before the teams even got started it was found that it was impossible to put two teams on the ice. League authorities issued the edict that two of the teams entered in the Junior League were to be dropped, also two in the Intermediate division. Manager Dick Briggs, to prevent Varsity's coming out on the short end both times, provided with the high-ups that Varsity's Intermediate entry remain in the league, at all costs, dropping as compensation the Junior entry, with positive assurance that the Juniors would be provided with a berth in the League next year. As a result Varsity remained in the Intermediate League, and two other teams who might have proved meat to the Blue and Gold puckchasers, dropped out. That left three other powerful aggregations, with the formidable and experienced Maccabees at their head.

All season long the students hurled themselves undespairingly against this older and heavier opposition, but were unabel to do much about it. King MacGregor, star of several years standing on Varsity Ice Hockey teams, left Varsity temporarily in the first term. Rod McLeod, a member of last year's Intermediate squad, who graduates this year, couldn't find the time for hockey this year. Bill Sharon, who partnered Bill Fowler on defense, went well during the first term but had to drop out at Christmas.

But on the other hand some strong additions came to the Blue and Gold banner. Bill Fowler played, for the first year out of King George hockey circles, with Varsity, all season on defense. Gordy Livingstone, who by the way has also distinguished himself under the wing of Bill Castelton, went well as a forward, had more weight than any other member of the squad, and was about the only one that could give as hard a check as the rest of the leaguers. Chuck Symonds, Harry Horsman and Cec. Ramsden all went well as forwards. Ernie Carswell and Don Matthews used their greater experience to advantage during the season. Manager Dick Briggs, who is also President of the Hockey Club, was at hand at all the games and handled the boys with unquestionable wisdom.

Varsity finished the season in third place, and next year with the two berths open to them, and their lost material back again a different story will be told.

Classic Arts 20 Relay To Be Run Wednesday

Traditional Relay Race Promises Usual Excitement—Arts '34 Picked As Favorites To Win

By JIMMY MOYES

With a possible entry list of eighty-eight runners, representing practically every class and faculty in the University of British Columbia, the classic Arts 20 Road Race, scheduled for next Wednesday afternoon, this year promises to produce the closest competition seen for a long time. Interest in the event is running high, and at present the catchword on the campus is: "I hear you're running in the Arts 20!" As an inter-class attraction, it surpasses even the cross-country race, and should go a long ways towards deciding the winner of the Governer's Cup.

Change, Of Course

As in previous years, the start of the race will be at 12th and Willow, at 3:30 p.m. At a track club meeting at noon today, it is hoped that a change in the course will be effected. Instead of cutting from 12th to 4th avenues on Yew street, it is proposed to travel by 12th and 10th to Waterloo and then to 4th down Waterloo. General opinion has it that some way has to be devised to eliminate 4th avenue traffic dangers.

Regulations

The Track Club president has issued the following regulations regarding the various teams: Athletic representatives must hand in a list of their teams to Max Stewart on Saturday. Each team must arrange for cars for ten men, to be at the Gym. at 3:45 p.m. Wednesday. The cars are needed to transport competitors, officials, and the press to the starting line, according to the president, who earnestly requested support in this matter. Police permission and motor-cycle escort have been secured.

Arts 34 Favoured

It is expected that eleven teams will enter the event, four from Arts and four from Science, and one representing the Theologs, Aggies and Commerce. Each team consists of eight men each man to run a lap of one mile. Difficult as it is to predict a winning combination, Arts '34 at present look like the outfit to beat. And with Swift, Stewart, Barclay, Agnew, Dave and Laurie Todd, and Chris Dalton lined up, they certainly look as if they mean business.

But they will have to do some heavy plugging to better Science '33, headed by George Allen and John Smith, and the Aggies, last year's winners. The latter entry will probably center around Salisbury and Turner, soccer ace. Commerce too, with Stott, Brand, Farrington, Pugh, Houston, Andrews and Kirkpatrick, might spring a little surprise on the dopesters. George Sinclair will top a strong Science '34 list, while Northcott should do Science '35 an awful lot of good.

Theologs a Threat

Union and Anglican Colleges will in all probability combine, and this would decidedly strengthen their chances. Ward, Dobson, Loat, Cockburn, Harris, Thain and Addison will no doubt represent the would-be ecclesiastics. Both Arts '36 and Science '36 intend to enter dark-horse teams, and their candidates have not been disclosed. Grubbe, Milne and the Johnson brothers will run for Arts '35, and their work should make the race all the keener. No teams have as yet been dermitely selected, as it is the intention of many of the athletic representatives to stage eliminations as a basis of judgment. The final entry list will be posted in the Tuesday issue of this publication.

Officials

Points for this event will be awarded, 5, 3, 1, towards the Governor's Cup, for the first three teams finishing in that order. The Judges will be Doctors Davidson and Shrum, Profs. Logan and Lighthall, who will be assisted by Harold Wright, Bob Gaul and Jim Mitchell.

VARSITY TO PLAY IN ROYAL CITY TOMORROW AFT.

Varsity's senior soccer team is scheduled to resume after a five-week lay-off with a game against Westminster City at Queens' Park, New Westminster, on Saturuay. It is doubtful, however, that the game will take place, as the field in the Royal City is reported to be a foot deep in snow, and a thaw, at this time, appears rather unlikely.

Should the game be played, Varsity will present a somewhat re-arranged appearance. The place of Max Legg, who has left Varsity, will have to be filled. The new partner for McGill at fullback will have to be one of the half-backs, and will probably be Rod McLeod, who has had some experience in that position.

This shift will leave the half-back positions to be divided between Paul Kozoolin, Bill Wolfe, Russ Stewart and Ernie Costain. It is probable that the choce will fall on the first three with Kozoolin in the centre, Stewart on the left and Wolfe on the right. Kozoolin, however, has reported leg-trouble, and may have to be replaced in the centre berth by Wolfe or Stewart.

Max Legg's absence also leaves one less man available for duty on the attacking line. The choice rests between Dave and Laurie Todd, Hughie Smith, Otie Munday, Ernie Costain and Bud Cooke. Hughie Smith is the probable choice for the right wing post, while Laurie Todd will likely play inside to him. Otie Munday, absent in the last two games, will be back to fill the centre forward position. Dave Todd, who got his "terrific" drive functioning in the previous game, seems a certainty for the inside left berth. Ernie Costain and Bud Cooke are in line for the outside left job, and it is probable that the Cherubic one will start in this position.

TRACK CLUB MEETING

A meeting of the Men's Track Club will be held in Arts 106 on Friday, 12:15.
