'Merrie England' Being Sung By Operatic Stars

The English Light Opera Company, the first to tour Canada this season, will present "Merrie England" at the Vancouver Theatre during the coming week.

The personnel of the company includes some of the best known comic opera stars in London, several of whom are also firmly established as grand opera and concert artists. Among them are Miss Kathleen Destournel, who was a protegee of Dame Melba; Leyland White, considered one of the finest baritones in England; Cyril Whittle, whose experience covers both grand and light operatic roles, and Merthyn Watkins, celebrated Welsh tenor.

The English Light Opera Company's personnel is declared by newspaper critics in cities in which they have already appeared as the finest light opera group ever sent here from the Motherland. Their productions of "Merrie England" and "The Beggar's Opera" have evoked praise from press and public. In both these famous operas not only is the atmosphere of the respective periods rigidly adhered to, but the members of the company are ideally suited to the roles they play in either of the operas. Both productions are on the same lavish scale as marked their most recent revivals in London, and both from the viewpoint of costuming and scenic investiture present a gorgeous spectacle. The company of over sixty includes a large chorus, and Mr. Henry Jaxon, well known London conductor, directs the performances.

GIRTON OFFERS SCHOLARSHIPS TO GRADUATES

Girton College, Cambridge, offers two research fellowships to women, the Jex-Blake Research Fellowship in Arts and the Alfred Yarrow Scientific Research Fellowship.

Both fellowships are open to all women who are graduates or who have taken honors in a final degree examination at any University. Each candidate shall describe a course of research which she intends to pursue and shall submit a dissertation or published work on any other evidence she may desire to furnish of her fitness to undertake the proposed course of research. The names of two persons who are conversant with the past work of the candidate, and to whom the electors may refer, should also be submitted.

The Jex-Blake Fellowship is offered for research in any branch of learning except Mathematics and the Natural Sciences. It is to the value

CHRISTMAS FARES

Standard forms for obtaining reduced rates on railway and steamship lines are now available at the Office of the Registrar.

These forms allow the holder to buy return tickets at one and one quarter times the one way fare when returning to his home-town for the Christmas holidays. Tickets will not be issued before December 1st nor after January 1st, but may be purchased by any students as soon as they have finished their examinations.

Those wishing to take advantage of this reduction are advised to get in touch with Mr. Mathews as soon as possible.

Totem Totters On the Brink Of Oblivion

That the situation with regard to the Totem is critical was the opinion voiced by Students' Council at the regular meeting Monday night.

Up to the present only 241 deposits have been received; unless at least seven hundred students have signified their intention of purchasing a Totem by Monday, November 30, Council does not feel that it would be justified in authorizing the expenditure of $1400 of student funds which the publication would entail.

A committee appointed to look into the cost of the Totem reported to Council at the meeting. Recommendations were presented which aimed at making the volume of greater general interest and at the same time reducing the cost. It is proposed to cut the size of some of the full page pictures and make use of a cheaper cover than appeared on last year's volume. The introduction of more scrap pages composed of student snapshots was also suggested as was the introduction of group pictures of all classes. The main idea running through the recommendations of the committee is to make the Totem of interest to the whole University instead of mainly to the graduating class.

Student Council urges all members of the student body to consider whether they can afford to purchase a book which will undoubtedly be of unusual interest and to make their deposits without delay.

Positively no one who has not made a deposit by Nov. 30th will be able to obtain a Totem.

Miss McIntyre Is Bright Star At Pep Meeting

Little Vivian McIntyre was the only bright spot in a Pep Meeting sponsored by the Business Staff of the "Ubyssey" in an effort to arouse the students to the necessity of supporting advertisers.

Her dissertation on the genus "husband" was presented with a stage presence that was truly astounding in one so young and many of the men present have vowed to turn over a new leaf and reform their ways.

A skit presented by the Vancouver Sun was spoiled by the students dribbling away to one o'clock lectures. The age old trick of a man impersonating a woman met with its usual stony reception, although there were one or two sparkling moments to relieve the drabness.

Earl Vance, president of the Alma Mater Society, was forced to extreme measures in order to quell some boor who had the temerity to emulate a porkine animal in public. "If the student who is making a fool of himself, has no respect for me, he might at least show respect for the office which I hold" stated the president in quelling the disturbance. Reg Price, Business Manager, stated that it was beneficial to every student to support the advertisers, in that this was the only way in which advertising could be increased and so cut down the cost of the Ubyssey to the students.

"Two minutes to go," sponsored by Spaldings Ltd., was only heard by the student reading it because of the bellowing of the unruly audience.

Confucianism Topic of Talk To P.A.D. Club

The Pacific Area Discussion Club held the last meeting of the term at the home of Miss Nobi Ishizaki, 1946 12th Ave. West, on Nov. 20. The speaker of the day, Mr. Shimizu, chose as his subject, "Philosophy and Religion of Japan."

There is no such thing in Japan as a uniform religion or philosophy, said Mr. Shimizu. Shinto, which is Japan's native religion, is a combination of several religious teachings such as Confucianism, Buddhism, and even Christianity. These various religions have undergone the process of adoption, transformation, and growth, before they finally became a part of Japan's philosophy and religion.

To assist the clearness of the subject, Mr. Shimizu gave a brief historical sketch of Japan, divided into five periods—ancient, or legendary; early medieval or reformatory; late medieval or a period of militant feudalism and chivalry; modern—where the most prominent features are the unification of Japan and a revival of Shintoism; and finally present—coronation and restoration of Japan's greatness.

The original Japanese religion, Shinto, which in translation means "the way of God," is the worship of ancestors. There is quite a difference between the popular and the state Shintoism.

Next stage of Japanese religion is the Confucianism which came to Japan from China, and which really is not a religion but a school of learning. One of these schools was founded by Chutze, and another by Dyoming, called "Socrates of the East."

The next great influence in Japan was Buddhism, which unlike Shintoism introduced images in temples. This new religion is famous for its intolerance. There are two ideas in Buddhism: depend upon yourself for salvation; salvation is in faith, not in deed. The last belief is the gospel of the people.

In Japan there is no definite idea of our God, but the sincerity of belief is overwhelming. There is one supreme Being, the ominipotent Kemi, and many local subordinate gods.

Another stage is Taoism—a philosophical idea of lawful order in universe, and the last step is Satori—or enlightenment—a combination of Confucianism, Buddhism, and Shintoism. It includes the idea of understanding, reality, repentance, decision, and penetration.

The negative side may be summed in one word—extreme pessimism, but it is overbalanced by its positive side—perpetual contentment.

Faculty Offers Seminar Room To Students

Attention is called to a notice on the Library Bulletin Board, announcing that the Faculty Room has been thrown open for student use. It is entirely by kindness of the Faculty that this has been made possible.

The room may only be used by grads and upper classmen, as its capacity is limited to forty. It is open daily from 9 to 5; Saturday from 9 to 1 only.

Those who use the room are requested to get all required books before commencing study, so as to avoid disturbing the rest of the library by running up and down stairs.

Arrangements have been made whereby the Seminar room will be available for honor student groups between classes.

It is hoped that these two measures will help relieve crowding in the Library.

Secure Nations Weaken League States Speaker

Criticizing Canada and other "secure" countries for helping to weaken the League of Nations, Dr. Mack Eastman surprised a large audience in the Auditorium Friday afternoon.

Dealing in "brutal truths" and unmasking erronious and sentimental conceptions of the League, Dr. Eastman stated that no more weakening influences than those of the secure nations could be exercised in the League.

The chief difficulty lies in the fact that Canada and similar countries insist upon fighting over unimportant issues. "Many attempts have been made to criticize parts of the Covenant, but if the League of Nations is to have power in outlawing war, its covenant must have the whole-hearted and unreserved support of those countries concerned," said Dr. Eastman.

It is understandable that nations such as Poland, Roumania and others in the danger zone should be alarmed at the situation into which the League is forced by the futile action of secure nations.

"Until united action is the rule, disarmament is still doubtful," declared Doctor Eastman. "One can understand the attitude of insecure nations in being unwilling to disarm if they have no assurance of support in case of emergency."

In a word, the weakness of the League of Nations lies in the attitude of secure nations in demanding disarmament, but being unwilling to accept certain clauses in the Covenant which call for limitation in armaments only so far as is consistant with prevailing conditions.

Reduction in armaments is of necessity a slow process, but before disarmament is even likely, nations must sink small differences and unite for a common cause.

In conclusion Dr. Eastman reminded his audience that it is up to the people of Canada whether their country will continue to weaken the League by a negative policy, or to partly on account of such fatal weaknesses in the League that the United States has not yet become a member, and if we want the support of one of the most powerful nations on earth, we must endeavor to fall in with the general policy at Geneva."

Big Block Club To Distribute Money Waivers

Men's and Women's Big Block Clubs are combining in a drive to circulate waivers which will legally transfer last year's caution money to the Stadium Fund.

Starting today Mary McLean, Irene Ramage and Phil Barratt will distribute among those members of the undergraduate body who have not yet collected their last year's caution money, forms which, when signed will transfer to the Stadium Fund those monies. The committee in charge of this drive is appealing to students to remember the motion of last year when all caution money was voted to the stadium.

There are still about a thousand students who have neither collected their deposit or signed it over to the fund. If this money could all be obtained it would mean an increase of at least two thousand dollars in the Stadium Fund coffers.

A letter of appeal published in the Ubyssey about a month ago has not brought very definite results but it is hoped that through the personal contact of members of the Big Block Clubs this money can be secured.

The Big Block Clubs are also sending letters to graduates of last year enclosing copies of the legal waivers. It is expected that by this means a considerable sum of money which has remained "frozen" will be released for the fund.

Professor Gives Talk On Orient

In an address on the recent conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations held at Shanghai and Hankow, Professor Smith of the History Department of the University of Alberta gave U. B. C. students his impressions of the work which the Institute is carrying on in the face of tremendous obstacles. He paid glowing tribute to the Chinese and Japanese Governments whose remarkable diplomacy and co-operation made the conference possible despite the strained situation in the East due to the Manchurian embroglio.

Professor Smith outlined the procedure followed by the officers in charge of arrangements for the conference explaining how the program committee prepared the material for the various round table conferences which were the basic units of the distinguished gathering, and told how the chairman of the different "tables" prepared a report of the problems discussed by their respective bodies so that each one knew what the others were doing, as the conference progressed. He stressed the aims of the Institute, stating that they were concerned primarily with the promotion of an intelligent understanding of the problems confronting the countries on the Pacific rather than the preparation of definite resolutions embodying a concensus of opinion regarding the various international questions under discussion.

In conclusion, Professor Smith spent considerable time in discussing the Manchurian situation. He gave as his opinion that Japan had erred in adopting the tactics of armed force in dealing with such a critical problem, and said that the reason that the League of Nations has failed to effect a settlement in Manchuria is because of its attempt to deal with the situation on the basis of the condition which existed prior to the bombing incident of September 18 instead of recognizing the facts as they stand at present.

Book Exchange Open Next Year

The Book Exchange will be open during the first week of the new term for the sale of second term books. The exchange will also be open on December 14th and 15th to receive the following English 2 supplementary texts, between the hours of ten and two:

Selection from Milton; Selection from Pope; Selection from Dryden; Johnson's Life of Milton; Johnson's Life of Dryden; The Roger de Coverly papers; Palgrave's Golden Treasury; Charles Lamb, Old China; De Quincy's Joan of Arc; Byron, Prisoner of Chillon; Coleridge, Ancient Mariner; Jane Austen, Pride and Prejudice; Sir Walter Scott, Old Mortality.

A limited number of texts in Mathematics 1 (b), Beg. German, Ec. 4, Ec. 6, and French 2 will be received as well.

The exchange will be closed until the end of the examinations.

S. C. M. Will Hold Discussion Camp During Holidays

The Student Christian Movement will hold a two-day Discussion Camp at the end of the Christmas holiays, on January 2 and 3, at the Y. W. C. A. Camp at Copper Cove. The topic for the camp, "Vocational Christianity," is to be led by Rev. F. W. Hardy of Columbia College, New Westminster. All students who are interested are cordially invited to come and spend an enjoyable week-end of fellowship and study. Registrations must be made in Aud. 312 before November 24. Watch the S.C.M. Notice Board for further information.

"How About a U.B.C. Blazer For Christmas?"

Spencer's Ltd. have kindly offered to handle the official University blazers for Students only, and are selling them below cost. A sample blazer can be seen in the business manager's office at any time. An order from the business manager must be obtained for a purchase.

Students Express Varied Opinions On Xmas Exams

Student opinion on the matter of Exam Schedules is running high, and many and varied are the thoughts aired on the changes in the time-tables.

Nearly all the students approached on the subject were of the opinion that three exams a day were altogether too many and they are glad to see it has been changed to rectify this. Bill Whimster, President of L. S. E. is the only one holding a contrary opinion. "It is only what the students have been used to. It would only take them a couple of years to get accustomed to having their exams all in one week. All the American Universities have a one week period of exams and there's no reason why we shouldn't He admitted that though it was tough, "there's no reason why a student can't write three, two hour exams, in one day."

Another viewpoint was suggested by Jean Whyte, Captain of the Women's Senior "A" Basketball team. "Is it just because the professors are trying to save themselves trouble that they tried to put all the exams into one week? I think the mental and nervous strain when a student is writing is so great that one exam a day is plenty."

Gordon Root, member of the Champion Canadian Rugby Squad, thought that, though a student doesn't get as long to work at Xmas time when more than a week is taken for exams, still it has always been two weeks before. Summing up his opinion of the last posted time-table, Gordon said, "It's a compromise that has the disadvantage of both the former one week timetable posted and the usual two week one."

The out-of-town students appeared to be quite satisfied with the schedule as it was last week, hav-

Science Awards Offered

The Royal Commissioners for the Exhibition of 1851 of London, England announce that three scholarships in Science Research will be awarded students at Overseas Universities.

These Scholarships are offered to postgraduates of established Universities, and are intended to enable students of Overseas Universities, who have already completed a full University course and given evidence of capacity for scientific investigation, to devote themselves for two years to research work likely to equip them for practical service in the scientific life of the Empire.

The Scholarships are of the value of £250 per annum and are tenable for two years. In exceptional cases additional allowance may be granted and the scholarship may be renewed for a third year if the student's work has been satisfactory, and its renewal is likely to result in work of scientific importance.

Until further notice the Royal Commissioners will offer eight scholarships annually, allotted on the following principle: three to Canada, two to Australia and one each to South Africa, New Zealand and the Irish Free State.

The Governing bodies of established Universities in the above countries are invited to recommend one or more candidates for the Scholarships allotted to their respective countries, who will be chosen in consideration of their relative merits with a view to becoming researchers above the average.

Candidates must be British subjects and students over twenty-six will be accepted only under very special circumstances. A candidate

Xmas Exam Schedule Extends Twelve Days

Owing to the fact that some confusion has been occasioned by recent changes in the timetable for Christmas examinations, the "Ubyssey" is publishing herewith a copy of the revised schedule. This timetable as printed here will be final except for possible changes which may be made by mutual consent of classes concerned. Anyone who wishes a change in any respect should get in touch with the committee through the office of the registrar.

Any student who has three examinations in a day should report to the Registrar at once, in order to have this situation removed.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

Few events this term have caused more excitement or discussion than the posting of the Christmas exam timetables. When it was discovered that some students might be compelled to write three papers a day there was much wailing and gnashing of teeth. Petitions requesting a reconsideration of this imposition were circulated for signatures. And then last Saturday a revised timetable appeared in which this three-a-day difficulty was largely overcome. The final timetable which is published in another part of this issue spreads the examination period over two weeks instead of one. There seems to be nearly as much fault found with this new arrangement as was previously evinced at the concentrated nature of the original timetable. All of which only goes to prove that it is impossible to please everybody. The interesting part of the situation, however, is that the new schedule was not changed because of student petition, nor was it changed in order to eliminate three-a-day episodes. It was altered because the committee in charge found out that in order to comply with calendar regulations the exams could not be finished before Thursday, Dec. 17. Furthermore, there is no essential change in the timetable, where students having three exams in a single day have reported the fact, adjustments have been made. This would have been done in any case so that the number of students having three exams in one day has not been materially reduced. At the time of going to press there was one reported case of a student with three papers in a day and that student had signified that the arrangement suited him. There are doubtless other cases but if they are not of sufficient interest for the suffering student to report they can hardly be considered as imposing any great hardship.

There are several commendable features embodied in this concentrated timetable. In the first place, two and three hour papers have been grouped so as to eliminate the interruptions which are prone to occur when papers requiring different times are written in the same room at the same time. Then the greater part of the student body will benefit by having longer holidays and where a student can obtain employment this is a material consideration. It has even been suggested that in the future the concentration of the exam schedule may make possible a review period between the cessation of lectures and the commencement of exams. Such an innovation would surely be welcomed by everyone.

A step of this kind must necessarily be in the nature of an experiment. Only time can tell what modifications may be necessary. It would appear, however, that the change from previous practice is a sane and reasonable move.

AU REVOIR, BUT NOT GOODBYE

This is the last issue of the "Ubyssey" which will be published this term—an announcement which brings great relief to an overworked Publications staff, however it may be received by the student body.

The paper will appear again on the second day of the new term, and it is hoped that classes and clubs will assist at that time by submitting all reports and notices immediately on return to the University.

The past term has been one of unusual difficulty in the history of the "Ubyssey," not because of external trouble, but owing to the fact that a sadly reduced staff has been left to cope with an enlarged publication. Four of the editorial staff were forced to resign during the term on account of unusually difficult courses, but their position will be filled before the New Year by those who have been undergoing a vigorous course of training for the last two months, and it is hoped that the standard of the "Ubyssey" will steadily improve as it has in the past.

PIPE AND PEN

BY—R. GRANTHAM

I admire the fellow who was first on the program at the Advertisers' Pep Meeting on Friday. He did not expect to appear before the audience at all, but through a megaphone was to give a take-off on a radio report of a rugby game. No megaphone could be found, so, coming out on the stage, he read his account, in spite of a constant uproar that spoiled the effect. It appears that most students do not believe in "giving a fellow a break."

Words of Reproof

When Earl Vance began to speak, it seemed that even the student president was not to be accorded a hearing. One particularly clever youth indulged in loud snoring. The president was forced to rebuke this person and ask that the respect due to his office be shown. The ovation he then received put an end to the nonsense, temporarily.

It was said afterwards that Sciencemen were the worst offenders, but I think the other faculties gave an equally poor exhibition of the good manners and sporting spirit that one expects of university people, even at pep meetings.

A Good Suggestion

Last spring a theolog suggested to me that the crests or coat-of-arms, or whatever they are, of the affiliated colleges should be placed with that of the University at the top of The Ubyssey's front page. As the theologs are now members of the Alma Mater Society, it seems an idea that merits consideration by the Publications Board and Council, and so I pass it on.

The League Of Nations

It is regrettable that more students did not hear Dr. Mack Eastman on Friday, when he gave an enlightening address on the League of Nations. He scored the sentimentalists, attacked Canada's equivocal adherence to the emergency article in the Covenant, deplored the absence of the United States, and advocated that the League have more power.

Because the Manchurian crisis has not been settled with spectacular speed, many are chanting, "I told you so," and disparaging the League. That is one reaction. Another is that we believe the League must stand between civilization and disaster, making possible the steady social and economic evolution that alone can save us, and that therefore we will do our best to arouse public opinion, so that governments may strengthen the efficacy of the League. Briefly, we can be quitters, or we can meet the challenge.

Student Speakers

No doubt because of the great intensity of preparation for examinations, attendance at the Parliamentary Forum dropped somewhat last Tuesday night. Advocating disarmament with the establishment of an international police force, the opposition ousted the government decisively.

Over half of those present took part in the debate. In this way the Forum will not only train debaters but give many students opportunities to improve their public speaking—and certainly there is great need of that. Most students, even leaders, feel it necessary to be slangy and sloppy of speech when addressing their fellows in public. And their humor! It may be coarse, heavy or stupid, but seldom can it be called witty or graceful.

Graduates continue the convention—I don't think I have yet heard a president of the Alumni deliver himself in uniformly good English at Homecoming Theatre Night. Possibly they are afraid the undergrads would think they were "putting on side."

To return to the debate. A young high school student who took the floor spoke with the best delivery of the evening. Boldly advocating Socialism, he seemed rather off the subject. Afterwards, he developed his ideas further to some of us. His belief is that disarmament is essentially a question of Socialism and Capitalism, and that while the latter lasts, peace will never be secure—a most interesting point of view.

Another Petition

A petition for disarmament by international agreement is being circulated. It is worthy of the support of the student body. Unless you take the attitude, as did one speaker at the Forum, that our civilization is not worth saving, there should be no objection to signing the petition. 500,000 names is the objective in Canada, and strong support in all countries will not be without its effect on public opinion and international relations.

The Terms Draws To An End

Christmas plays—Christmas exams—Christmas holidays. The plays are over, and I take this opportunity of saying that they were fine performances. High commendation is to be heard on all sides, and it is well deserved, for the choice of plays was very good, the settings were excellent and the acting was of a high standard.

The exams and the holidays are to come. In signing off until January, I wish readers of this column academic success and Christmas cheer.

I judge people by what they might be,—not are, nor will be.—Robert Browning.

Correspondence

Editor, Ubyssey,
Dear Sir:

In reply to the letter from "Realist" to "Sentimentalist," in Ubyssey, dated October 23, 1931, it would appear that the letter is written in the vein of sarcasm. It does, however, presuppose very definite false conceptions about the League of Nations. It is these conceptions I propose to refute.

Apart from the fact that it is impossible to divorce the element of sentiment from international problems, or any phase of politics, national or international, it is not correct to say that the League was founded on pure sentiment only.

It was founded on the lessons learned from the hard school of experience, the experience of the Great War. These lessons drove home to such men as Woodrow Wilson the practical need for international machinery whereby international problems might be more readily solved.

These statesmen were men of seasoned experience upon whom devolved the task of lifting the world out of the international chaos which reached its climax after the Great War. The issue forced upon them the practical need for a solution. The demand called forth a scheme of ideal internationalism. The ideal did not precede the demand. In other words the need was present and a practical solution had to be sought. Statesmen then were not entrusted with the destiny of nations because they were just sentimentalists. Most of them had piloted their nations in the War and this experience made them fully cognisant of a solution founded on a practical basis.

The need for a League of Nations was at its inception, as it still is, in keeping with the trend of the growth of internationalism. The idea was not new, but a most comprehensive machine for settling of international disputes was needed.

The idea of international cooperation and arbitration as a means of settling disputes had been partially successful in the nineteenth century, e.g. the influence of the Quadruple Alliance was not ineffective, therefore there was no reason why a similar or greater measure of succes should not be possible in the twentieth century.

As the idea had been partially successful in the past so the practical success of the League of Nations was enhanced by the enlistment into the ranks of its administration, experts in all its departments. Experts, including professors, are not regarded as sentimentalists.

The League of Nations could not have withstood the onslaught of criticism and cynicism of the world for twelve years if it had been mostly a sentimental institution. Much less could it have survived if it had been a "hollow sham."

The trouble is not due to excess waxing of sentimentalism as suggested in the letter. On the contrary the progress of the League so far as Universities are concerned is hampered by lack of sentiment. The emphasis on the intellectual approach to the principles of the League is over-emphasized. Although the attitude of the professor and student is naturally based on intellectual standpoint, nevertheless, the support and backing that might come from these people is nullified if reduced to a mere intellectual proposition.

The fact that the League has or has not been subjected to a vital test is no reason why it should not be supported. That it has not had a vital test, up to the beginning of the present Chinese-Japanese crisis may be true, but the very life of the League is dependent upon a progressive development of prestige and influence in the eyes of the world. And even if it has had a vital test and failed, that is all the more reason for a diagnosis of the defect and reconstruction anew. The greatest advocates of the League are ever ready to admit its imperfections. They ask, however, that the critic criticise from within. Let him become a member rather than remain without and criticise.

If the League does fail to solve the present Eastern crisis the fault may be partially due to its defective machinery as already admitted, but the remedy lies rather with the member nations of the League. They are the life blood of the League. In other words, the power of the League is derivative and not sovereign, and the League will not be one jot more or less effective than the nations of the world wish to make it.

Yours sincerely,
SIDNEY SEMPLE

Crown Counsel Concedes Case

McGoofus is a free man. His trial is over and he returns to the campus once more. At his trial yesterday he was acquitted of the murder of Z. Zilch. The jury, after being out for the count of nine, returned a verdict of "justifiable homicide."

The prisoner was the only witness to be cross-examined during the whole procedure. "Did you kill Zilch," he was asked by the prosecuting attorney. "I did," answered McGoofus.

Q. With what did you kill him?
A. I did it with my little Flit-gun.
Q. Why did you do it?
A. I didn't like him.
Q. Have you got a watch?
A. Yes.
Q. What is the time?
A. Three-thirty p.m.
Q. Why didn't you like the deceased?
A. He was a cad.
Q. Why was he a cad?
A. He was planning to cut the flag-pole in two.
Q. Since that alters the case entirely would you mind telling me what time it is now?
A. Okay, Butch! It's three-forty.

"Good," said the cross-examiner, I'll just have time to catch the three thirty-eight tram to Marpole." And off he went, creeping down the aisle of the court-room so that he wouldn't wake the sleeping judge and jury.

Schultz: Have you known her long?

Donaldson: Ever since we were the same age.

Moffat: Tell me what to do when I'm seasick.

Owen: It isn't necessary. You'll do it.

READ THIS AND HAIL

For the benefit of those students who do not know the words of "Hail U.B.C.," we are printing them once more.

We wear the Blue and the Gold of the victors,
We are the men of the U.B.C.
All other teams acknowledge us masters,
We are strong in adversity.
There's work for the day, and work for the morrow,
We are the ones who'll do our share,
Shouting in joy and silent in sorrow,
Bravery conquers care.

CHORUS:

Hail, U.B.C.,
Our Glorious University.
You stand for Aye
Between the mountains and the sea
All through life's way.
Let's sing Kla-how-ya, Varsity.
Tuum est wins the day,
And we'll push on to victory.

LETTERS OF A BANK CLERK

BY CYRIUS DE SCREPANCIE

Dear Willie:

The other night me and Benny went over to the Joneses place to play bridge, and Benny says to me, says he: "Be sure and remember that two taps is clubs and three is spades and one and four is hearts and diamonds."

So I said "O.K." and walked along the street with him. Pretty soon we come to the Joneses house and we went up to the front steps and rang the bell. Well, after about 10 minutes we heard a lotta whispering and pretty soon the door opens and Mrs. Jones appears and tells us to come in. Say, yuh shoulda seen her dress, it was a beaner. It was too low at the back and the same at the front and was too tight. Old man Jones was all dressed up in one of them there dress suits with a celluloid front and chocker collar. The rivetters had made a bad job of the studs too.

Pretty soon me and Benny sat down to play and for quite a while we was winning wholesale when Mrs. Jones intercepted Benny's foot and ran interference on it. Well, after that things weren't so hot. With that Jones dame's number nine in the way our signals went haywire and we broke even at the end of the rubber.

Well, after that we just played 6 more hands, and me and Benny was practically working to perfection. Just as Benny was dealing the last hand, pa Joneses shirt front broke loose from its moorings and rolled up and slapped him in the sneezer. Benny and me laffed so hard that we hadda wear a elastic band round our Adams apples for a coupla weeks.

On the way home, me and Benny was still laughin when we thought of how funny ole Jones had looked, and how easy we had trimmed them, when Benny says to me sudden like, "Say," says he, "Did that Jones woman pay you our winnins?" "No," I says, "I was laughin so much that I forgot to get it off of her." "Well thats funny," says Benny, "because she got me to sign a receipt for the money which she said you had collected, and when I said that signin a receipt was a funny way of doin it she said she did it so she could keep track of how much she lost." Ain't that the macaroni's adenoids? Next time we play the Jones were gonna put a cable around Daddy Joneses shirt front. Well, I guess I'll quit writin now, I'll pen to ya again when I got nothin else to do

Santa Reveals Gift Secrets

Although Santa Claus lives in a far-away part of the world, a correspondent of the Muck Page has been able to get in touch with him and get the dope on his annual midnight trip.

(By M. E.)

I prepared for the final dash to Santa's home in a hurry. It was getting late. I supplied myself with provisions and clothing to last for months. My sledge was loaded but my dogs were fresh. With ice-axe in hand and a bottle of Ungentine in my hip pocket I started off. "Muck" I yelled at the dogs. "Muck on." And on they mucked.

On this final dash we met many obstacles. There were three ninety-eight cent counters in our way and about four other bargain tables. (Garters—a snap at five cents.) And the elevator was packed. We reached Santa's home about half-an-hour later and I went in to see the old man.

It was his off-hour evidently, for there he was sitting in a corner of the room reading a book on the "New Humanism" and laughing at the wise-cracks at the bottom of the pages.

"Hullo, Santa," I interrupted him, "what you all going to bring us this winter?"

"Who's us?" he grunted as he spat into the gas fire-place.

"The university," I answered. "What are you going to give to Students' Council, Santa?"

He looked at me and winked. "Tickets to Victoria, I guess. They may want to go over with the rest of the university."

'And for Arnold Cliffe?" I queried.

"Who's he?" he asked and then added, "Ask me another."

"What about W. U. S.?" I asked.

"Clothing, of course. And for the C.O.T.C. I've got a disarmament petition; for Prof. Wood, the back files of the Muck page. I've packed away a new set of poker chips for the S.C.M., a football for President Klinck and a quorum for the A.M.S. That's all I'll tell you. Now run away and play."

When the man she detested suggested they wed; she said.
"Go to father."
Now she knew that he knew that her father was dead.
And she knew that he knew what a life he had led.
So she knew that he knew what she meant when she said—
"Go to father."

C. O. T. C.

On November 26th, in Room 100, Agriculture Bldg., at 12 noon, Colonel W. W. Foster, D.S.O., Brigade Commander of the 22rd Infantry Brigade, will continue the lecture of last week to members of the Canadian Officers Training Corps, subject "Marne to Rhine." It is hoped that the past lecture has stimulated sufficient interest to make the attendance even greater than before. Any member of the faculty, or students, who are interested are welcome to attend.

Members of the Corps are reminded of the parade at Beatty St. Drill Hall next Wednesday, at 8 p.m.

Dress and equipment carried will be the same as last parade. This being the final parade before Christmas it must be as strong as possible.

Members wishing to take part in the training at Work Point Barracks from December 26th to January 3rd are requested to sign their names to the list in the Orderly Room as soon as possible, in order that particulars of transportation may be attended to without delay. An order will be posted on the notice board later giving the particulars of what is to be taken with each member on this trip.

CHEMISTRY SOCIETY

Dr. J. Allen Harris will address the open meeting of the society on Wednesday, Nov. 25th, at 3 p.m. in Sc. 300. His subject will probably be "Inorganic Poisons." Everyone interested is invited to attend.

MATHEMATICS CLUB

Owing to the close approach of the Christmas Exams the meeting of the Mathematics Club that was planned for Thursday, Nov. 26, has been postponed till next term.

PHILOSOPHY CLUB

The meeting of the Philosophy Discussion Club will be held Nov. 26, 1931, at the home of Miss Helen Fairley, 2875—29th West.

Miss Gwen Hutton will give a paper on "The Encouragement of Creativeness."

Zilch's Funeral Proves Success

The body of the late lamented Zero Zachariah Zilch has been lying in state and a pair of pyjamas was conveyed to the cemetery late last night while nobody was looking.

The vehicle from the city pound arrived at 11:49¾, E.D.S.T. After Mr. Zilch's body had been deposited by fifteen—count 'em, 15—weeping pall-bearers, the city's luxurious truck drew away after the anchor had been raised by a committee composed of several members of the U. S. Senate (or was it the Peruvian Senate? I forget which).

It was escorted part of the way by the aristocratic figure of our own beloved Sitting Bull. Unfortunately, this noble officer espied a speed-demon hurrying to an Eng. 2 lecture, and promptly gave chase.

Mr. Zilch was buried in a beautiful costume of purple and green organdie, cut on the bias and gored. We also noticed that it had one of the new square-cut neck-lines; also—and may we say that this is quite new in burial costume—it was actually shirred at the waist! We predict that this will become quite popular in the very near future. Everybody will be dying in them.

of £250 a year, and provides for three years residence at the College.

The Alfred Yarrow Scientific Research Fellowship is to the value of £300 a year, tenable for three years. The Fellow may be re-elected annually for a further three years. It is offered for research in Mathematics, Physics and Natural Sciences. This includes such Sciences as Chemistry, Engineering, Botany, Geology and Agriculture.

Applications should be sent to the Secretary of the College so as to reach her not later than February 1, 1932. Fuller details may be obtained from the Registrar's office in a very short time.

Chicken Pox May Spread: Contracted By Two Students

The students and other people attending the University have been exposed to infection from chicken-pox during the last ten days, according to the University Medical Authorities, which means, that any person among those exposed, who has not yet had chickenpox, is liable to come down with it, and should report at once to the University Health Service.

A student in Third Year Applied Science developed an eruption on November 17 and failed to report this condition at the time; an Arts student came down about the same date.

In these cases the students were attending lectures at the University and thus exposed everyone that they encountered.

Any person therefore, who has been in contact with these students and who has not had chickenpox previously will possibly come down with the disease within the next two weeks.

Any one suffering from the so-called "Common Cold" or the slightest indisposition, is requested to remain at home and have a telephone message sent to the University Health Service immediately.

SCIENCE RESEARCH ENCOURAGED BY SCHOLARSHIPS

must have been a student of science in a University for a period of not less than three years, and have spent one full academic year ending not more than twelve months prior to the date of application, at a University.

Candidates for the Breit Fellowships must have done work to show high promise of capacity for advancing Science which is the main qualification for the Scholarship.

The scholar awarded a Fellowship will be required to devote himself to research in pure or applied science. The scholarship may be held at any Institute approved by the Commissioners but will not be permitted, except in special circumstances, to conduct investigations in the Dominion in which he has received his scientific education.

Scholars who are unable to travel at their own expense or for whom it is not possible to obtain a free passage, may make application for aid towards payment of his fare from his home to his place of study.

Three Breit Fellowships, tenable at the Imperial College of Science and Technology in London will be awarded, the awards to take place on or about July 15. Application forms will be available to students interested at the Registrars office in the near future, and recommendations for consideration must be received by the commissioners not later than June 1, 1932.

ing everything over before the 12th. Herb. McGregor of Penticton states that, "Its expensive to stay in Vancouver. It makes about $15.00 different in our pockets for every week longer, and near Xmas like this it should be counted as a consideration." He also thinks that one gets all keyed up to get exams over within one week. "If you have two or three days before an exam you can't keep the tension up during that time."

It is the opinion of Ralph Thomas, President of the Track Club, that, "it is an injustice to have three in one day, but as the time-table now stands it cuts out one week from our stay at home."

Dorothy Wismer, a freshette, while she thinks its much easier having the exams spread over a period of ten days, yet feels she'd like to get them over as soon as possible and appreciates the longer holidays.

Jean Andrew, member of the Class of '29 taking her M. A. this year, expressed the most constructive criticism. "Follow the Harvard system. They make out the exam time-table and have it included in their calendar. Then, when you choose your course for the next year, you take the exam schedule into consideration before deciding on the classes you will take." Jean thinks that "Its better to be through on the seventeenth than to be writing up to the 23rd the way we used to do." Apparently things could be worse.

Margaret Rathie expressed herself very strongly on the much talked of subject. "There should have been more notice. Here it is just two weeks before Exams and we have only got our final time-table now."

Cece Long, Secretary of Students' Council, thinks it is fair enough as it stands now. "It may not allow for a lot of cramming but I think it'll give the students a fairer chance to do their best when they only have a maximum of two a day."

Journalistic Ethics Discussed By I.P.A.

(Special to the "Ubyssey")

Eugene, Ore. Nov. 23—A real newspaper man never breaks a confidence—his code of ethics is as important to him as that of any other well-regarded professional man. . . .

Long an accepted part of the journalist's creed, this ideal last last week was again brought to the attention of news men representing twelve Pacific Coast colleges at the annual convention of the Pacific Intercollegiate Press Association, which met on the campus of the University of Oregon here.

The counsellor who sounded a warning against any violation of the creed was Hal E. Hoss, Oregon's secretary of state. He addressed the convention on "The Newspaper Man in Public Affairs," emphasizing the importance of the journalist's correct interpretation of events and movements. Such an interpretation, he pointed out, often depends upon the individual reporter's ability to build and maintain confidences, which, if broken, might bring about more harm than good.

SOCCERITES SUFFER 2-0 TROUNCING

Varsity Senior Soccerites took a 2-0 drubbing at the hands of the Sons of England on Saturday at Dunbar Park. The team showed the effects of a two week lay-off and lack of practice. Moreover, they did not take their opponents seriously enough, evidently expecting an easy win. The students played well enough at times but they lacked that final bit of pep which they show against more formidable opponents.

The play in the first canto was fairly even. Varsity has served opportunities to score but their shooting was far below par. The play ranged from end to end for about twenty-five minutes. Then the Sons took the lead through a neat goal by Robb, their centre-forward. This player was the mainstay of their attack. He started many brilliant attacks on the Varsity citadel, and was full value for his goal. This reverse spurred the students to greater efforts, and they came close on several occasions, but could not reduce the deficit. Half time came with the Sons leading 1-0.

After the interval the students were put on the defensive by the continued attack of their opponents. It was a steady attack on the Varsity goal, with few counter attacks to relieve the tension. Frattinger in goal was called on repeatedly to put back the invaders, and thanks to stellar work on his part the score was kept down. About midway through the period, the Sons converted a foul kick from just outside the penalty area, to put them two goals up. The game ended with play in mid-field.

Kozoolin and Waugh were the only players who showed their usual form. Both these men played a great game, and had the rest of the team been as effective, the result would undoubtedly have been different. Frattinger, in goal, played well, but the Englishmen's second goal was not unstoppable and he might have saved it. McGill and Grant were good at back but they did not rise to the form shown in the game against the Regents. Laurie Todd was the only forward who played up to his usual standard. Dave Todd showed some fine touches, but was not as effective as usual. Munday started well, but fell away in the second half, while Costain was below his usual form, although he was unfortunate in not scoring on two occasions in the second half, just missing by inches.

The team — Frattinger, McGill, Grant; Waugh, Kozoolin, McDougal; Smith, Munday, Costain, D. Todd and L. Todd.

SPORTORIAL

OSTRACIZED!

Outraged at the appaling conduct of the Varsity Basketball Club in not agreeing to the schedule as dictated by the V. and D. League executive managers of the Senior "A" teams have decided that the students shall be ostracized. "We would not defile ourselves by playing even exhibition games, with a team so wholly devoid of righteous principles." This, it seems, was the tenor of feeling expressed at a recent V. and D. League meeting. So wicked Varsity is in disgrace and will have to look elsewhere for competition. We learn from a press report of this meeting that the "alibis" which the students put forward were pulled to pieces by speakers. It has occurred to us that the Blue and Gold Basket squad ought to be shaking hands with itself for having got out of a league where it was necessary to use "alibis" to protest against a schedule which was not only inconvenient but unreasonable.

It is, of course, regrettable that the University and downtown sporting executives cannot cooperate to their mutual advantage, nevertheless, it is high time that the city moguls discovered that running Varsity sport is not one of their functions. The Student Basketball Club appears to have suggested this by its actions and we hope that while the members thereof are away winning games in the east they will not lose too much sleep thinking of the V. and D. League fighting over the distribution of gate receipts.

The problem of Varsity students playing for outside teams came in for a good deal of discussion last year. There are undoubtedly weighty arguments to be presented for either side of the case. However, the M.A.A. finally decided that it was best to insist on students playing exclusively for college teams. It has been suggested that a current case of the application of this ruling is working an injustice on the student affected. It is quite possible that an occasional instance may arise where an individual suffers. Nevertheless, such instances were considered when the ruling was made and the M.A.A. cannot be criticised for enforcing a mandate which was enacted only after exhaustive discussion and enquiry. Recent rumors, however, lead us to suggest that they should be extremely careful to enforce it impartially. That is, they should take care not to overlook any infringements of the rule even though they occur in minor or sub-minor sports.

Hockeyettes Win And Lose Games Over Week End

The Blue and Gold ladies won and lost in two grass hockey games played at the week-end. U.B.C. defeated Ex-Magee 2-1, while Varsity was trounced by North Vancouver Grads to the tune of 9-1.

The U.B.C.-Magee game was played on frozen, slippery ground, but the teams were even and play was fast. Early in the game Carol Sellars of Varsity broke away and made a hot shot at the goal. The goalie saved nicely, but Hope Palmer came up fast and sagged the hemp on the rebound. Magee retaliated a few moments later to even the scoring, which remained at one all at the half-way mark.

Ex-Magee rained shot after shot on Varsity's goal in the second half of the game, but the College goalie made brilliant saves, and prevented any further scoring. With two minutes to play, Bea Sutton, of Varsity, dribbled the ball half the length of the field, and beat the goalie with a hot shot which won the game for the Co-eds.

Bea Sutton and Elfni Teppo starred for Varsity.

In the Varsity-North Vancouver game, the Blue and Gold team was two players short, and considering this handicap, gave a good account of itself. The first period was nothing but a series of North Vancouver offensive drives which netted the North Shore Grads six points. In the second half, Varsity played a better brand of hockey, and held their opponents to three tallies, while accounting for one themselves. Isobel McArthur and Marjorie Finch were outstanding for Varsity.

The teams:—U.B.C.—M. McDonald, E. Teppo, I. Wallace, M. Lang, M. McKee, M. Brown, B. Sutton, H. Palmer, C. Sellars, L. Rowntree.

Varsity:—R. Mouat, D. Johnson, D. Lawrance, M. Finch, M. Brink, R. Uchiyama, M. McDonald, I. McArthur, E. Allchin.

The U.B.C.-Varsity game will be played on Wednesday at Connaught Park at 3:30 p.m. Members please notice that this is a league game, and all players must turn out. The last games of this season will be played on Saturday, Nov. 28.

Student Grid Squad Downed 3-0 By Magee

The Varsity junior gridders suffered a defeat at the hands of the Magee H. S. grid machine on the Vancouver College campus on Saturday afternoon, and lost all chances of winning the interscholastic rugby trophy. Tom Ferris of Magee was the sensation of the game, and his spectacular kicking was responsible for all of the winners' points.

Varsity started the game with a march down the field only to lose the ball on a fumble. Magee took the pigskin and completed a forward pass which netted them a clear forty-five yards, and immediately afterwards, Henderson of U.B.C. was rouged while trying to return Ferris' punt, putting the Magee squad a point to the good.

Early in the second quarter Ferris booted another long kick behind the Varsity line where Hisette was rouged for Magee's second marker. The Blue and Gold aggregation then came into the picture when Van Morrison, veteran half-back of the Collegians, intercepted a forward pass and carried the ball thirty-five yards in a sensational run before he was nailed.

With the score 2-0 in their favor at half-time, Magee started an aerial attack after the interval which proved ineffective, and the third canto ended without further scoring.

Play was fast and featured by hard tackling in the last quarter, with neither team getting away for any outstanding gains, although Ferris added Magee's third and last point is this frame with a kick to deadline.

Twiss Buerk and Ferris shone for Magee while Dawyer, Rush, Hisette, and Morrison were outstanding for Varsity. Hedreen officiated as referee and Watson acted as umpire.

The teams:—Magee—Buerk, Twiss, Fullerton, Neff, Black, Colquhoun, Greg, Nichols, Falconer, Wilson, Vine, Ferris, Pollack, Fladgate, Pretty and Logan.

Varsity:—Hisette, Henderson, Wood, Newson, Morrow, Odlum, Dwyer, Knight, Rush, Crysdale, Young, McCrimmon, Mather, Lougheed, Poole, King, Parker and Holden.

EX-KING'S VICTORIOUS SATURDAY

Varsity's original 2nd Division team played the heavy ex-King George squad Saturday. Despite the frozen ground the team put up the best game they have played this season, the score of 14-3 being no indication of the play.

Varsity started the first half minus two men, but this in no wise daunted their play. After a fairly ding-dong battle, Ex-King finally broke away to score. Varsity returned to the play and eventually after a good forward drive, Pyle went over for 3 points. They failed to add points on the kick. Just before the close of the half Ex-Kings scored again, this time to convert.

The second half was but a repetition of the first with Varsity slightly on the defensive. In this canto, Ex-Kings went over twice.

The feature of the game was the hard tackling of the Varsity three-quarters, who time and time again prevented sure scores. The forwards, outweighed to a man, were untiring in their efforts to keep on the ball.

The noticeable point in this team is their never-say-die spirit. Although beaten every time they never admit it until the game is over.

The team for Varsity — Grubbe, Cowan, Stirling, Smith, White, Falls, Rolston, Moffat, Lee, Ryle, Beddall, Summer, McArthur, Harcourt.

Island Trip In Sight For Basket Squad

It looks like Varsity's Intermeriate basketers are going to get a break. Doug Reid and Eric Benson, peppery managers of the Intermediate "A" and "B" teams have drawn up a temporary schedule of towns they hope to visit on a proposed Island tour, and will present the schedule to Gav Dirom sometime this week for official Student's Council sanction.

If Council looks favorably on the venture, ten men, including the two managers, will leave Vancouver December 18 and will return about the 23rd, playing in four towns on the Island. Letters are being written to Nanaimo, Ladysmith, Duncan, and Alberni, and those in charge are sure that terms can be arranged, as Varsity has proved a sure-fire draw in all the towns named. In Alberni last year, a match was arranged with Varsity's Senior "A" team on about a half-hour notice. In three hours the whole town was summoned and they packed the hall to watch their home town squad hold the championship team to a 32-28 score. Now their cry is "Bring on any Varsity team!" Nanaimo, Duncan ad Ladysmith, too, turned out en masse on the last Varsity tour, and as each town is represented in the Upper Island league, they will be anxious to see which one can "take" the students.

Reid Benson and Co. are confident that replies will be favorable, and are scouting about for the eight men that will make the trip. For the most part the team will be chosen from Intermediate "A" men, but it is heard on good authority that at least two of the "B" team will also be picked and players of both teams are anxiously awaiting Council's decision.

Intermediate Basket Squad Beaten 25-19

The highly-touted McKenzie and Fraser Intermediate "B" basketball team had a tough time maintaining their unbeaten record on Friday night at U.B.C. gym when they squeezed out a 25-19 win over Eric Benson's Varsity five.

For the first time this year the "B" boys really hit their stride. From the outset the boys played inspired ball, with the result that at half time they were on the right end of a 15-8 count. Hyland, Harper, and Richardson were working well together on the forward line while Hardwick and Keate at guard kept the opposition at a safe distance. Norm Hyland was decidedly "on" and the forwards were not long in piling up a 9-point lead.

Opening the second half, the students found the going much tougher the New Westminster aggregation forcing the play. Soon after the opening Art Harper was banished on personals. Lafon went on for Hardwick at guard and McLellan replaced Harper in the forward line. The McKenzie and Fraser gang was quick to take advantage of the shift and proceeded to run in baskets almost at will. After a time-out the students went back to rally for 4 points, but the whistle ended any hopes the boys had of catching the opposition.

Capt. Norm Hyland was high man for Varsity, snaring 9 points. The game as a whole was fast and productive of good teamwork rather than individual stardom. Varsity showed marked improvement, perhaps because of that Island trip that is looming.

The Varsity line-up:—Keate, Lafon, McLellan, Harper (2), Hardwick (2), Richardson (0), Hyland (9).

Junior Soccer Team Loses To Richmond 5-0

Varsity's Junior Soccer squad were outscored to the tune of 5-0 by Richmond Canadian Legion at the upper playing field Saturday.

The play was very fast, many spirited rallies on the part of both teams causing the ball to range from end to end of the field with great rapidity. Shots on both goals were numerous and powerful, but brilliant saves by both custodians kept the scoring down.

Varsity had the better of matters in the first canto but failed to chalk up any counters. The forwards sent in a barrage of shots which kept the Richmond net minders in a state of constant agitation. Never, in the first forty-five minutes was the Varsity citadel in any great danger and the first half ended with no score. The game having started late, the referee decided to change ends immediately and continue the play. Richmond sent in two substitutes, Hampson and Taylor, to replace Henderson and Gilmore. This proved a wise move, since both the newcomers gave an excellent account of themselves, and were responsible for three out of five goals scored.

After fifteen minutes of fairly even play in the second half, Hampson opened the scoring with a nice shot from the edge of the penalty area. In the twenty minutes immediately following this episode the Brighouse boys chalked up four more counters, Taylor and Publes each scoring twice. Varsity however carried the game to their opponents many times, forced three corners, and gave the Richmond defence no end of trouble. The final whistle found U.B.C. pressing hard.

On the whole, Varsity turned in the best exhibition of the season. They had most of the play, and were somewhat unfortunate in not scoring on several occasions.
