

To Swim Lilypond

Sweetie Swims Again

Canada's honeybun, Carol Gregory, will attempt to conquer the treacherous, storm-swept waters of UBC's Lilypond, October 25, in a daring channel swim sponsored by the Ubysey and the Pep Club.

College students all across the nation who thrilled when the spunky, 14-year-old marathon swimmer stroked her way through the oily, tide-tossed waters of Little Mountain reservoir will have a chance to see first-hand a demonstration of the powerful swimming technique and the indomitable courage that made her a champion.

Carol will be coached for the gruelling feat by UBC Coach Grank T. Gnup.

Gnup and Carol chose the noon-hour of October 25 as "C-Day", since tide and weather conditions are expected to be most favorable at that time.

Stakes are high in the Thursday noon marathon. "I get a bottle of Johnny Walker black label just for putting my toe in the water," Carol simpered when interviewed Wednesday. "And if I reach the other side, I get another bottle."

Swimming Coach Gnup was confident of victory Wednesday. "Carol's been on a strict training schedule for months," he said, "and she's in peak condition."

"The little girl's a real champion," he said.

Carol, a shy, winsome student at UBC, began her swimming career in 1953, when she spent the summer at Spanish Banks.

Ubysey Editor Sandy Ross and Pep Club President Mike Jeffery, co-sponsors of the swim were jubilant on Wednesday. "Carol will make it, we're sure of that," Jeffery said.

Starting exclusively in Tuesday's Ubysey, Carol will write her daily diary of the exciting events leading up to the swim from her training camp at the Old Charming Pubbe, in Victoria.

Ed School Baptism

The Honorable Les Peterson, new Minister of Education, and the Honorable Ray Williston, Minister of Lands and Forests, will officially open the new College of Education at 2.30 today.

The ceremony, which will be held in the auditorium, represents official recognition by the provincial government of UBC's new school.

Dr. H. L. Campbell, deputy minister of education, will bring greetings from Premier Bennett.

Also participating will be President N. A. M. MacKenzie, Dean N. F. Scarfe, Dean W. H. Gage, and Professor F. C. Boyes.

The College now has a total enrollment of 925. Of these, 567 are prospective elementary school teachers.

The inauguration will be followed by a sod-turning ceremony at the site of the new Arts Building.

Mr. Peterson and Mr. Williston will participate in this ceremony also. The building, which should be completed by September, 1958, will accommodate 2950 students.

AMS President, Don Jabour, has predicted — probably correctly — that today's meeting will be the "quietest in years," but rumours reaching the Ubysey offices indicate that not every Council measure will go unchallenged.

Unconfirmed reports reaching the Ubysey offices state that Engineers will present a motion that would remove Councillors' present privilege of free attendance at any AMS function.

And Agriculture Undergraduate Society officials say they will definitely contest AMS Treasurer Al Thackray's $125 budget allocation to the AUS.

"If we don't get satisfaction at the meeting, we may do something drastic," AUS President, Bill Davis, warned Wednesday.

Constitutional revisions proposed by Council are of a relatively non-controversial nature, and are expected to pass with little discussion.

One revision will specify that Roberts' Rules of Order will henceforth govern procedure at AMS meetings. Roberts' Rules has been used in the past, but constitutional specification may avoid procedural hassles, such as occurred after last Fall's General Meeting, Councillors feel.

World University Exchange students, at UBC on WUS scholarships from all over the world, will be introduced at the meeting.

Toronto Rejoins NFCUS

TORONTO — University of Toronto Student Administrative Council voted 17-3 to apply for re-entry into the National Federation of Canadian University Students Wednesday night.

The Ubysey was informed of the move Wednesday night by wire from Peter Gzowski, editor of the Varsity, University of Toronto daily newspaper.

Toronto withdrew from the Federation last year but led many of the proposals for revision of NFCUS which were accepted by the Montreal conference last week.

External Affairs commissioner Jerry Helleiner to organize a pre-conference for "emphasis, simplification and decentralization," of the Federation.

UBC Students' Council Monday night voted to stay in the Federation.

WIDE-EYED AGREEMENT with Communist Labor Leader Jack Phillips is shown by LPP club president Jim MacFarlan, as Phillips knocks Quebec Padlock Laws. Phillips spoke to an audience of twenty-five in Arts 100 Tuesday noon.

Padlock Law Hit

"It is a sad state of affairs when any ignoramous of a police officer can come into a private home and padlock it" Jack Phillips, Communist labor leader told a meagre audience in Arts 100 Tuesday.

Phillips was speaking at an LPP-sponsored meeting on the Quebec Padlock Laws.

Phillips condemned Quebec Premier Maurice Duplessis who was returned to office last month after "one of the most corrupt elections ever held in Canada" for the provincial law.

The law states that any building used for meetings of organizations or unions which have Communists on their executive may be padlocked, and any "subversive" literature seized.

Phillips hit Duplessis for introducing the law, and for making it retroactive ten years "in order to hold a club over some of his political enemies."

"It is the most vicious law ever passed by a country in the British Commonwealth" Phillips added.

He quoted Duplessis as saying that the law is meant to include "thousands and thousands of people who are Communists and are not aware of it."

The penalty for conviction under the law is three months in jail and payment of court costs.

"This has led to the wholesale intimidation and repression of a lot of people who would like to participate in free discussion," Phillips said.

He urged students present to study the law. "You fellows here can study it over a long period, and decide whether it is democratic or not" he concluded.

Let's Appeal It

We were rather happy to see AMS Treasurer Al Thackray politely corrected at Students' Council meeting Monday evening.

The argument which Thackray lost concerned the size of the AMS grant to be allotted to the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society. Thackray had originally answered an ASUS request for funds with a token grant of $50. He would give no more, he said, until ASUS had "proven itself." ASUS President Tom Wilson quite properly labelled the $50 grant "ridiculous," and protested to USC Chairman Robin Scott. Scott persuaded Thackray to up the grant to $125, but Wilson still wasn't satisfied. Monday, he appeared before Council, and asked for more. Over Thackray's protests, ASUS emerged with an initial grant of $200. This amount, we think, is more like what ASUS deserves.

But it disturbs us to think that ASUS received its rightful due not through, but despite the AMS Treasurer. And it disturbs us still more to wonder how many other campus organizations have been beggared by Thackray's budgeteering, but haven't bothered to fight back, as ASUS has done.

In all fairness to the Treasurer it must be stated that ASUS' record of achievement last year was not admirable, and that a "wait and see" attitude was certainly justified. But Great Caesar's Ghost, not to the miserly tune of $50, or even $125.

Can it be that Mr. Thackray just plain doesn't like any Undergraduate Society except the Engineer's? The Aggies, for instance, are squawking, and with good reason; others, with far more reason, may be keeping silent.

The AMS Treasurer, we are convinced, is doing not merely a competent job, but a superior one. He is doing his level best to allocate AMS funds as he sees fit. But it's possible for anyone to commit an error of judgement, just as Thackray has done in the ASUS case.

The only moral to be drawn from this little tale is that students and student organizations, who disagree with Councilors' decisions, don't necessarily have to submit meekly to their fate. Certain channels of appeal are always open to them, and these channels should be utilized.

What A Shame

It is unfortunate in several ways that today's Fall General Meeting promises to be of a quiet and relatively non-controversial nature.

In the first place, the Meeting might not achieve a quorum. It's unfortunate but true that most students regard the General Meeting as a sort of circus; and if no-one is being led to the lions that particular day, the UBC electorate tends to go somewhere else to eat their lunches.

A quorum, to be sure, is desirable, but not wholly necessary. We've got along without one several times before, and unless some malcontent challenges tomorrow's assemblage, we'll probably get along without one this time.

To our minds, a placid General Meeting at this stage of the game will have a far more unfortunate effect: the glaring deficiencies of the General Meeting system as it now stands will not again be demonstrated to UBC students.

Last Spring's ghastly farce must surely have impressed a number of students with the fact that UBC has grown too big for one hundred-percent democracy. A repeat performance might impress a few more; and after several such scores, students might be sufficiently disturbed with the situation to do something about it.

Unhappily, today's General Meeting isn't likely to disturb anyone unduly. So it's doubtful that we can look for any widespread campus reaction against the present antiquated system for some time yet.

Too bad.

Boo On Movie Taboos; Let's Face Reality

(Editor's Note: The AMS Coordinator, who books dozens of movies onto the campus every year, here sounds off against movie taboos in general, and taboo-mongers of the "Iratus" ilk in particular).

By BEN TREVINO

The recent furore created by "Iratus" over the campus showing of "Martin Luther" is in itself nothing to worry about. But as a fact of the all too prevalent belief that Art should never offend in the slightest, it gives real cause for concern.

To subscribe to that idiotic premise is tantamount to saying that Art should say nothing.

Cinematography is an art form, but unfortunately Hollywood's main concern has been with the fast buck. It has listened to Iratus and "its" ilk and has consequently lost its virility. Compromise has meant castration.

With very few exceptions, we have seen a procession of movies that have affected us like a sugar-coated laxative. Boy meets girl, boy loses girl over some insignificant and asinine argument, boy wins girl back and they live happily ever after.

Everything is peachy-dandy, life is just a bowl of cherries, God's in His heaven and all's right with the world. We have been lulled into a smug, self-satisfied complacency that purges us of thought and indignation.

SMOTHERED

Each time Hollywood has tried to give a realistic presentation it has been smothered in protests from small-minded, humorless people whose sensitivity knows no bounds. Show a tip-hungry, officious waiter and receive indignant protests from the Waiters' Union. A greedy priest brings protests from the Catholics.

An amoral Baptist preacher brings walls from the Baptists. "Oliver Twist" was picketed by the Jews (but "Gentlemen's Agreement" was lauded).

Show the inside of a woman's thigh and the picture is banned in Boston. Too much cleavage brings a protest from the presumably bosomless Mothers of America.

"Lost Weekend" was condemned by the WCTU because it "glorified" alcoholism. Show the birth of a buffalo and the movie is labelled "obscene" in Saskatchewan. Show any Negro performer except as a shoe-shineboy, waiter, porter, or Aunt Jemima housemaid and the picture is banned in Tennessee. On and on, ad infinitum.

Just what kind of world is Hollywood expected to portray? Carried to its logical conclusion, characters would have to be nameless (names show ethnic origin, and often religious beliefs), faceless, and naked (the clothes might not carry union labels). Their actions should always be good, and kind, and Assisi-pure.

HOMOSEXUALITY

To make matters worse, this attitude extends into the other arts. "A View From the Bridge," by Arthur Miller, has been banned from the London stages because of references to homosexuality. And remember Vancouver's plunge into purification when it banned "Tobacco Road?" Henry Miller's greatest works cannot be bought in Canada or the United States.

Architects are still asked to design "something with Greek columns," and artists are commissioned to paint a Christ with "blond hair, blue eyes, and typically Anglo-Saxon features."

How can a culture flower in a climate characterized by a criticism of details and ignorance of the basic issues of Form, Texture, Integrity and Truth? Frank Lloyd Wright called this phenomenon "mobacracy."

What H. L. Menken called it would give Iratus heart failure.

But we think it has been around too long. We yield to no man the right to think for ourselves.

Come And Get It

Praises Be To The CBC; 'Gooseberry's' Made It

By TONY GAMBRILL

For those fortunate viewers who can only pick up CBUT on their television screens, a new, all-Canadian, wide open space adventure series will be appearing before your bleary eyes in the very near future.

I refer to "The Adventures of Radisson and Grossie" (anyway, old gooseberry to use the more familiar misnomer). This is the story of two dirty, double-crossing, thieving fur traders who operated a mink-for-drink racket around the Hudson Bay. Those were the good old days when Cecil B. de Mille hadn't discovered Hollywood yet and papooses ran wild on the site of the Empress Hotel.

ALLEZ VITE

The Canadian Broadcasting Company, sticking monotonously close to the truth, are even now paying off the last of the cast of thousands used in the series. Before long, the cry "mush, you huskies" and roughly translated: "allez vite, vous chiens de la neige" will echo through your bathroom, particularly if you have your TV set in there, and the neighbourhood kids will start selling beads to the American tourists.

But enough of this idle speculation. The problem on hand today, students, is that once again British Columbia is left out of the limelight, once again it has been proved that Canada ends at Winnipeg, once again our Western heritage has been thrown in our faces (and without a cry of 'smear' from Premier Bennett, or doesn't he read the TV news?). What is the answer to this new aspect of the old problem?

ELVIS THE PELVIS

The Ubysey, in conjunction with the Blubber Bay Historical Society, is presently filming "Load Up Your Muskets, Me, the Indians Want To Trade," a television drama of the Old West in 645 episodes depicting the peaceful intrusion of the white man into God's gift to the Social Credit Party (formerly known as British Columbia). The production will star Premier Bennett as Long John Silver, Jean Howarth as Sadie Thompson, Don Jabour as Rin-Tin-Tin, and Elvis Presley as Man Friday.

Roughly, the series will bring to the screen such interesting historical material as the Great Fire in Chilliwack, the notorious Victoria Tea Party (not to be confused with the All-Night Party), an intimate look at the lives and wives of James Douglas, the founding of the first home for unwed mothers, the Battle of Lost Lagoon, and a brief glimpse of the Hanging Judge as a pioneer evangelist.

These are just a few of the moments of British Columbia history that will leave you breathless. As a special bonus, episodes 237 to 323 will be taken up with a description of the beginning of the cold storage industry in the province.

Settings have been selected in Ioco, Point Roberts (the part where Captain Vancouver does a little white-slaving), Spanish Banks and Sacred Cut (formerly Chetwynd's Bluff).

UBC CAMERA

Thousands of UBC students have been engaged for the series to be completed for B.C.'s centenary. Working on a five million dollar budget voted for the project by the students under "Miscellaneous" last year, the filming crew can be seen most days of the week hunched over a Brownie Camera in the Men's Showers plotting clever angle shots and posing pioneer cheesecake.

So "Davy Crockett" and "Radisson and what-his-name" are things of the past, as The Ubysey again proves that money is no object, crime doesn't pay, elephants never forget, and numerous other hoary sayings. A usually reliable informant recently revealed, "The Ubysey and this television series are the two biggest things to appear since Gina Lollobrigida."

WILLING AND ABLE volunteers line up to give blood. Don't forget you could get caught with your slide rule down or slip in the manure that the Aggies plan to dump in front of the Armouries hut and need a transfusion. By donating you you build up a reserve in case of future need. Who knows you may get your own blood back. So exchange your blood for a coke, a smoke, and a kiss at the Armouries today . . .

UBC Bleeds Right Along With The Goriest Of Campi

By BARRIE HALE

"Blood! Blood?" quavered the little freshette, shrinking lower into her convertible. "What do they want with my blood?"

"First they take my money, then they want my blood! What will they take from me next?"

A unhealthily red-nosed individual, clad only in beard and rope sandals snickered lewdly at this last remark.

Genial, gentlemanly Bob Tulk, co-chairman of the Blood Drive, was standing nearby, proudly displaying a punctured vein and intoning forthrightly to the passers-by: "And you, sirrah, have you bled yet?"

"Listen baby-doll," rasped the bearded one, sidling up, "let's you and me go over to the library and deface Biology texts."

"Oh I can't," she lisped pettishly, "They want me to give blood." She shuddered prettily and made a move.

"Ahagh," sheered the beaver, "all a feelthy commerce plot. They want red ink for their ledgers. I foxed 'em." He strutted about, taping his forearm. "I slipped a tomato up my sleeve." He cackled hideously.

"Fie, Sirrah, Fie!" cried Tulk, who had overheard. "It is because of people like you that some poor anemic child may die for want of blood. Because of you that we are shamelessly behind our quota. What sort of man are you that you will deny this priceless gift of life to some small child?

What, sir, what?"

"I didn't know what I was doing," cringed the beard. "I'll do as you say."

"There's a god fellow," said Tulk, luxuriously squeezing his bulbous red nose. "Now I want you to go in there and BLEED!"

"We get quite a few like that every year," smiled Tulk. "Some folks just don't realize how good it feels to have a good bleed every now and again."

Suddenly the beard emerged from the armories, a changed man. His step was brisk, his gaze steady. A crowd of small children clamoured around him, kissing his hands.

"Fine fellow!" cried Tulk. "How do you feel, man?"

The beard drew himself up with pride. "Brother, I have bled," he said quietly.

Adaskin Enlivens Initial Concert

By FRANK JOY

The initial concert of the noon-hour Beethoven series was a highly entertaining occasion, without any doubt.

To begin with, the appearance of Harry Adaskin on any stage packs a delightful wallop. Harry talks, moves and looks like a prizefighter, and when that tough little middleweight of modulation cracks out his reasons for loving music, you listen and love it.

FEW, MORE GIFTED

There are few people more gifted in the art of explication than Harry Adaskin, and anyone interested in seeing a long-haired performance get off to a rousing, football start, should turn out and watch this tiger operate.

In the second place, Mr. Sumner bore, throughout his whole performance, a face of fantastically comical aspect. Fellow listeners will concur, I'm sure, that only one impression could be gained from watching that face through the whole 9th Sonata: Mr. Sumner was itching to tell someone a slightly bawdy story. Waiting eagerly, I noticed with some disappointment, that during the 15th Sonata he forgot the joke and turned his attention with a sense of suspicion, to the music.

I am convinced, and history may perhaps affirm, that at that moment he began to doubt the authenticity of the composition. He was a picture of hauteur and ridicule.

Regretably, during the 3rd movement, all further possibility of concentrating on the music was shattered by the thrice-stealthy entrance of the Ubysey photographer, directly on stage. What seemed most unfair of all was that he had Sumner at a disadvantage. He was creeping up from behind and Sumner could not hear a thing for the racket.

A brutal and unprovoked attack was then averted by the firm intervention of Harry Adaskin. Nevertheless, few of us could relax, fearing another attempt. People who know, say the music was lovely, but I, to speak truly, have decided it lacked "mission."

FIREMEN AIDED

University fire department officials breathed a sigh of relief yesterday when the Vancouver fire department was authorized to provide additional protection to the university grounds.

It has long been contended that the staff and equipment provided to fight fires on the University Endowment Land is far from adequate.

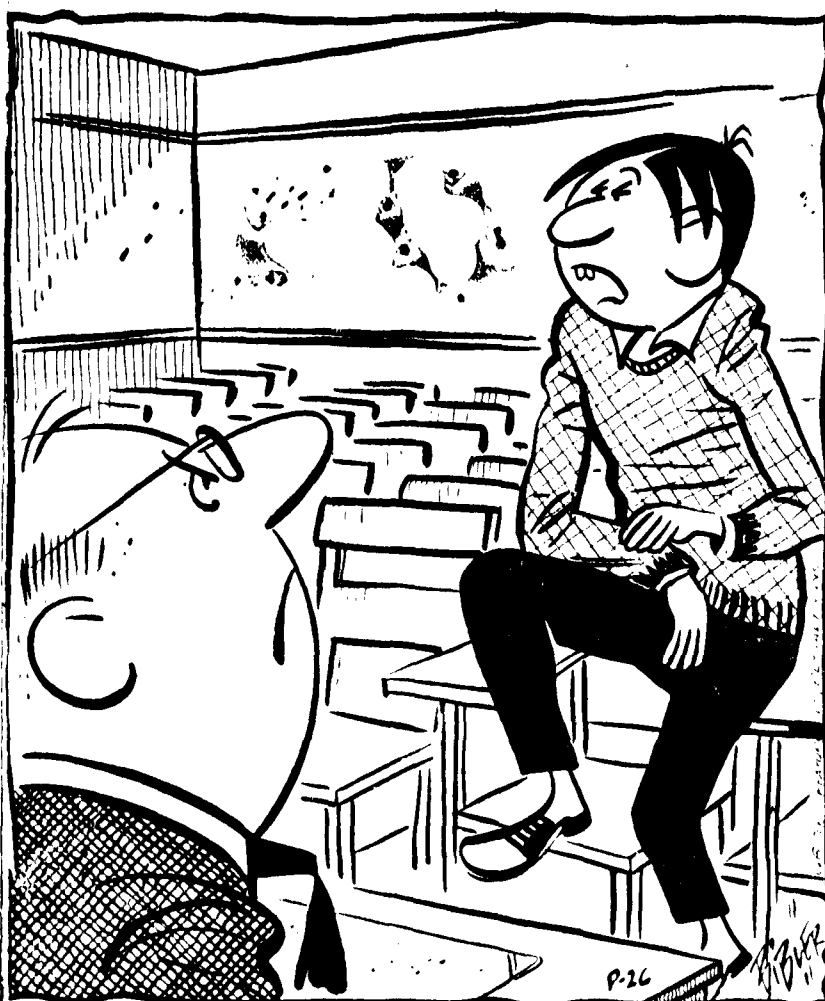

Only two weeks ago a fire department official stated that the present facilities were completely inadequate to cope with an outbreak of major proportions.

City council earlier this summer authorized the fire chief to give protection to UBC but later rescinded the order when corporation counsel Russell Baker reported that council did not have the necessary power under the city's charter.

UBC president, Dr. Norman MacKenzie, yesterday said insurance protection up to $10,000 had been arranged by the university to cover the city.

Girl Crazy Auditions

Auditions for mussoe's production of Gershwin's "Girl Crazy" are being held next week.

Singers are desperately needed for the production to be directed by Harry Price, James Johnston and Grace MacDonald.

For the past 27 years, Mussoe productions have been of the highest calibre. The society is in danger of losing its high standard this year, however, if the SOS for singers is not answered.

So if you would like to see your name on the program, rush right over to the Mussoe club-room, behind the Brock, and sign up.

AMS To Handle $500,000 This Year – Thackray

The following budget is my proposal of what is the most equitable way to distribute your money during the coming year. Each student pays $18.00 to the Alma Mater Society, and revenue from sports and activities adds a like amount. With the outstanding bank loan for erection of the Brock Extension being $300,000.00 you can readily see that the A.M.S. will this year be handling nearly one half a million dollars. I urge you to take an interest in how it is handled.

STATEMENT RE-ESTABLISHED

Students' Council Policy

By DON JABOUR

A.M.S. President Brock Extension

Though discontinued these last few years, the habit of setting out the Council's policy for the coming year is one which should be re-established for the information of the Council and the general Student Body. Rather than administering A.M.S. business from day to day just as it comes along, the Council should progress under certain principles and policies. This will put some meaning into its work, and will let all students know on what and why their money is being spent.

The policies of the students' Council are traditional, namely:

- (a) To maintain and make firm student autonomy in its affairs.
- (b) To guard student interests on the campus, and to provide as many opportunities for student activities and enjoyment as possible.

Since the first policy can be pursued too strongly to the point where we become bull-headed about co-operation with the Administration and Faculty, care must be exercised to determine when it is best to "go it alone" and when it is best to heed good advice. For student autonomy is a two-edged sword. It carries with it freedom and responsibility—not only to the student body, but to the welfare and good name of the University itself.

The second policy includes everything from ensuring that student use of Brock Hall is not interfered with, to increasing coverage on our Accident Benefit plan.

Regarding these tenets as our guide in managing the A.M.S. for 1956 and 1957, we are undertaking many plans to fulfill our responsibilities both to the students and to the University general.

(1) Our main concern is the compensation of the Brock extension. Schedule for opening next March, the new wing will contain a Games room with billiard and ping-pong tables; special club facilities for Film-soc, Hamsoc, Radsoc, Mamooks, Camera and Photography Club; Alumni offices; further lounge and dance areas; Art Gallery; Barber Shop; enlarged College Shop and Totem offices. Planned by last year's Council, the job falls to us to arrange financing of this $310,000 structure. Total cost including interest will be around $360,000. A colored sketch of the new wing is in South Brock Hall. Mr. B. C. Binning is planning the interior decor.

Accident Benefit Fund:

(2) Plans exist to extend our Benefit Fund privileges. As you know, we run an Accident Benefit fund on campus to aid those who are injured while participating in campus activities. This is not an insurance plan guaranteeing aid to the injured, but this is a fund from which you may receive aid upon application. All claims are decided upon by our Accident Benefit Fund Committee. Sixty-five cents per student goes into this fund each year, and while we cannot offer every kind of coverage we would like, each year we try to expand a little.

For instance, this year we will be prepared to make payment on eyeglasses broken while participating in an organized university function in which it is necessary to wear eyeglasses or contact lenses.

Future plans call for extending the benefit to cover accidents sustained while skiing while you are a student at U.B.C., and our ultimate aim is to be able to extend the benefit to cover any injury whatsoever, no matter how or when it is caused, to students as long as they are registered at U.B.C.

Student Facilities:

(3) Each year a sum calculated on the basis of 65 cents per student is put into a fund which we call Student Facilities. This fund enables us to provide increased facilities and improved benefits to the student body.

One such improvement was turning the Double Committee Room in South Brock Hall into a Television room, and for this purpose, a 24-inch TV set has been purchased and the room will be open until 10 p.m. every night.

All requests from clubs for equipment and furnishings are applied against this club.

Athletics:

(4) Our plan is to press for a Western Canadian Inter-Collegiate Athletic Union. If Manitoba can come through with a football team, I am assured that we will be in a Canadian league within two years. However, until Manitoba does come through with a team, neither Saskatchewan, Alberta or U.B.C. is willing to play on only a 3-team basis.

Until that time, however, we are planning a thorough investigation into our present athletic programme. This mainly football, for we feel it is time to do things right in football.

Public Relations:

Feeling that one of our many duties is to encourage student interest in university activities and to promote goodwill off the campus, the Students' Council is planning to produce a half-hour Public Relations movie. This movie will show the various facets of student life on the campus, plus a full run-down on the academic courses offered here. It is planned that this movie will be circulated amongst all the high schools in the province, and will be shown to interested groups in Vancouver to generate interest in and goodwill for the University.

A further step along this line is being taken by various students along with our P.R.O. They are presently negotiating to present seven student-produced half-hour shows over CBUT this coming year. These shows will be completely student actors, musicians, artists and student films, and will not only concern itself with UBC activity, but will also show what students can do in the field of drama, music and art.

Student Wages:

The Students' Council is also planning to press for a raise in the minimum wage for students working on the campus. All costs to students have gone up these past years, and we feel that the present minimum of 75 cents an hour is too low to be of any help to the students. The aim will be to raise the minimum wage to $1.00 per hour.

College Shop:

The opening of the new Brock wing will see increased facilities of the College Shop, and because of this, great plans are being laid to expand the line of goods which the College Shop now handles. In the future we hope the College Shop will supply nearly all the needs of students on the campus.

Homecoming

An experiment this year will be held with the Homecoming Dance. In an attempt to bring civilized drinking back to the campus, the Alumni Association has agreed to invite the graduating class to its own dance which will be held in Brock Hall. At this dance, the Alumni Association will run a bar and it is hoped that the mature use of this bar will prove to the University officials that the students can behave themselves properly when liquor is allowed on the campus.

Student Representation On University Committees:

In order that the wide interest which students have for the welfare of the University may be felt by the Administration, we are undertaking to increase student representation on University committees. In this way, we hope to be able to accurately present general student opinion to the University administration on problems of mutual interest, and we hope to be able to protect student interests on the campus.

This is a very sketchy outline of projects being undertaken by this year's Council. Aside from these special projects, the Council still carries on its regular duties of Frosh Orientation, Leadership Conference, and all the many administrative duties of trying to keep our student system of government working smoothly.

A few other projects are being planned at present, but nothing definite can be said at this time. The most important thing that might be touched on is that you have not heard the last of the proposals which appeared in last week's Ubysssey, about a new Student Great Trek to Victoria to impress upon the Government our needs as a growing University.

Survey Shows Pelvis Disliked

by ROSEMARY KENT-BARBER

UBC students do not like Elvis Presley.

What's more most of them wholeheartedly agree with Tuesday's Ubyyssey editorial describing his voice as "a toilet bowl with hiccups."

The results of a Ubyyssey spot survey conducted by this writer show 90 per cent of students against the guitar-twanging Mississippian.

Opinions ranged from a mild "don't like him but I think he's here to stay," Henry Albert, 3 Commerce, to "I hate his guts," Dave Robertson, 2 Arts.

Oddly enough it was the Frosh who were the most outspoken. He's got a good voice but he doesn't use it," was the way Carle Bowron, 1 Education, put it, while Norman Ebacher, 1 Arts, added "I don't like his bellowing."

APPEARANCE

Frosh criticized his appearance more than his singing generally. "I think he should use a handkerchief instead of his sleeves and he could draw his belt tighter and pull up his pants too," Malcolm McCaw, 1 Arts, said.

"If he had a haircut and stood still he'd be all right," a 2 year course at the downtown Nurses' residence commented. She refused to give her name for fear reprisals. "Everybody down here likes him except me," she said.

"He looks like a dope addict," muttered Gail Carlson, 2 Arts, indignantly. "I don't think he's any kind of an example to anybody," she said.

NOT MUSICAL

"His beat isn't musical, it's just loud," Barbara Blair, 1 Arts, pointed out. "He can't carry a tune," Patty Darling, also 1 Arts, added.

What's Elvis Presley? a 3 year Russian reading student wanted to know." What is the right word," snarled a Philosophy major sitting near him. He's got a power to draw crowds through something but it's certainly not this." He held up his copy of the New Testament. Both boys declined to give their names.

Meanwhile the few Presley fans in existence at UBC were rallying to his defence. "I like 'Love Me Tender' and 'Don't Be Cruel,'" Dianne Waters, 2 H. Ec., said. 'Elvis sounds really sincere there."

"His music has a nice beat," Jerry Kingsley, 2 Arts, said. He's not exactly relaxing but I like listening to him," Robert McHardy, 3 Arts, added.

SEX APPEAL

Presley's sex appeal? "What sex appeal?, Eleanor Toren, 3 Arts, wanted to know. "He's got lots," Bob Rowan, 1 Arts, countered. He's a good money maker too," he added.

"He's not exactly good looking but he's got piles of oomph," Frances Manning, 1 Arts, agreed. "I like him, but I don't like his style of singing," she explained.

And UBC's Jazz Society's views? "As far as the showman goes, Presley's good," Jack Reynolds, Jazz Soc President said. "But music-wise he's absolutely nothing," he said.

Presley's not a guitar player, he professes to be a singer, but I feel he has a long way to go before he even begins to make it in either field," Reynolds said.

Paul Seder, Musical Appreciation Society President agreed with Reynolds. "The Ubyyssey editorial was pitched too strong for something that has no interest for students," Seder said. "The lack of responsibility Presley fans exhibit is the only aspect of his singing that really disturbs me," he said.

EXECUTIVE OF EDUCATION Undergrad Society will be out en masse today to see Minister of Education Les Peterson and Minister of Lands and Forests Ray Williston open the new College of Ed. building. Pictured are President Dave Hemphill, vice-president, Ian Parker, Secretary Judy Boyd, Treasurer Sally Robertson, and yearly representatives Lorraine Rook, June Whalley, Jaquie Dinsmore, Gordon Lloyd, and Alex Stronach.

Filmsoc Portrays Campus Life For Future Students

Filmsoc is now working on a full length documentary of the University in conjunction with the Students Council, which will be shown in schools throughout the province.

Embarking on all out production this year, Filmsoc has been doing CBC newsreel shots and films for athletic teams. They are now working in conjunction with Ian Smyth for seven UBC shows to be shown on CBC TV.

The Production Department, headed by George Pearson, has bought new equipment this year which is worth over $3000. With the use of the Brock extension Filmsoc is waiting to set up and really go a head in production.

The new equipment, purchased in August and early September, is completely a student venture financed by students' council monies. It will be paid off over a period of years.

Filmsoc hoping some time in the future to be able to do its own printing and processing. At present they are handicapped by lack of equipment and poor working space. They are now using a ticket booth in the auditorium for production of films, newsreels and features.

A film appreciation club in 1937-38, Filmsoc became known in its present form with complete editing and sound facilities started in 1946, purchase of arc-projectors in 1947 and the acquisition of a camera in 1950. President Bill McAllister stated "we were either going to spend a lot of money or we were going to call it quits" this year.

The past ten years have been good to British Columbia. They've brought new businesses and industries, new jobs, bigger pay cheques, better living.

One of the big reasons for B.C.'s growth is a plentiful supply of cheap electricity. Electricity to expand old industries and attract new ones. Electricity to bring better living to our homes.

During these ten busy years, the B.C. Electric has invested some $300,000,000 to more than double the supply of electrical power available ten years ago.

With dozens of new projects under way, and more planned, the B.C. Electric continues to invest in B.C.'s future. It's doing its part to make the next ten years just as bright, or brighter, than the last.

MARGARET MEAD

NEW JERSEY.—Dr. Margaret Mead, world-famed anthropologist, speaking at Princeton University, accused today's college students with complacent assumption of status quo.

She warned that "students are making their future plans under the assumption that the next two decades will see little change in the present national way of life."

She deplored the "present stagnant ambition to become a junior executive in a large, well-established corporation," which, she declared, was the chief lifetime goal of most undergraduates.

A person planning for such a goal, she said, would have to assume there would be few social changes during the next 20 years.

A review of the past two decades, she continued, would show that great changes have taken place in the U.S., and can be expected to continue to happen.

Among the changes she noted were the nation's increased importance in international relations, the general turn toward religion, and the present trend of earlier marriages and larger families.

ALBERTA AMUSED

CUP.—The Gateway, student newspaper of the University of Alberta, reported October 5th, that "Student Council members were amused" by Pat Shewchuk's report on the Pacific Students Presidents Association meeting held in Vancouver last spring.

SHORT RANGE POLICIES

CUP.—THE DEAN of Education at the University of Manitoba blames the "short-range policies since the British North America Act" for the shortage of teachers today.

CUP.—DR. M. E. LA ZERTE, newly appointed Dean of Education, replaces Dean Neville V. Scarfe, Dean of UBC's new School of Education.

In an interview with The Manitoban, U of M's student newspaper, Dr. Milton advocated "that we make a degree compulsory for a teacher."

He said the lack of teachers today is "absolutely clear and evident" and "of over 100,000 teachers in Canada, 10,000 have no higher qualifications than Grade 11."

"We tend to solve shortages too easily. How? By lowering the standards of a teacher. This is a step in the wrong direction," he said.

"What we must do is make teaching a profession," he said, and added that "I do believe in 'certificate holders'".

In closing, he said he believes "that ultimately, in perhaps 25 years, we will be able to say that every teacher in our Canadian system has a university degree."

THINK OR SINK

CUP.—DOCTORS of Engineering, Medicine and Arts and Science at McGill University recently fought to prove himself worthiest of survival at the third annual "Think or Sink" professors' raft debate, Doctor Chipman, representing Engineering, declared the Engineer "to be one of the lowest forms of the human being, 'pointing out that from this position, 'he had the furthest to rise and therefore the greatest future,' making the engineering species of society 'the group most worthy of survival.'"

Dr. Scott of the Medical Department proved MD's superiority by pointing out that "the Engineer, will, in a few years, be quite adequately replaceable by one of his own electronic computing machines."

Professor Culliton, representing Arts and Science, pointed out "the root of the university system is its school of arts and science" and charged that "it's only the saps that go into the branches."

LIBERAL EDUCATION

CUP — NEW YORK — A two year survey of the status of the liberal arts in American undergraduate professional schools is being undertaken by the new Columbia University Institute for the Study of Higher Education.

The study is to be directed by Dr. Earl J. McGrath, former Commissioner of Education of the United States.

Dr. McGrath stated that "most professional and technical schools can well afford to give more time to liberal education. Whether the future engineer can see his work and profession in broad relation to our whole culture and world developments will depend in part on his grasp of the social sciences and humanities."
