Still Sell Totems Plan Pep Meet

• A CROWDED Publications Board office, one day after deadline for Totem sales, has forced the business and circulation staff of the yearbook to abandon the Dollar Down Week scheme.

Storming into Brock Hall, students brought their dollars, and excuses for being late, asked for an extension.

Stunned by student apathy, harassed business and circulation staff members put heads together, decided that the solution to the problem was to remove the deadline on sales.

To impress upon those who were not aware of the fixed deadline, and to pamper students whose routine does not permit of a junket to Brock Hall, the staff is preparing a mammoth Pep Meet.

Starting next week, Totems will go on sale in the Caf. During noon hour, every day except Wednesday (self-denial) at a table set up near the entrance.

Red Cross Room Now Open Mon.

• SINCE THE Red Cross room is so crowded with workers on Tuesdays and Fridays that the overflow must work in the lounge of Brock Hall the executive has decided to open it on Monday afternoons from 12:30 to 4 p.m. as well.

Compared to last year's meagre showing of girls who turned out for the work, there is a vast improvement. Part of it is due in Dr. Hallamore's opinion, to the improved direction being given by Mrs. F. H. Soward and her associates, who do all the cutting.

Knitting seems to be favoured above sewing, since the girls can take it out and work at it in the caf and in lectures.

A.M.S. Has $1000 For Students

• THE BOOK EXCHANGE pays off. All money which is owed by the Book Exchange on traded texts will be paid to students on Tuesday, Nov. 4, in the A.M.S. offices.

Payments can be made only on this date, and anyone failing to appear at that time will have great difficulty in obtaining his money. Creditors are required to bring their vouchers to obtain payment.

Pub Team Eager To Meet Council Challenge Nov. 7

• "WE ARE, we are the Publications Men . . ." These words will resound throughout the gymnasium next Friday noon when the Publications Board men meet Council "men" to smash them to a pulp in the greatest pub-council game to end all councils in years.

Clad in strange garb, council and pub members will play pseudo-basketball, no holds barred. Official sources, including Mr. Joseph Q. Blotz, unanimously believe that the dirty nine will be annihilated.

Mr. Blotz stated "Council has not enough strength to lift a green pea, if that was being used for a ball. I believe wholeheartedly that no councillors could prevail over the superhuman strength of the Publications Samsons"

Clean-up Campaign Collapses

• UP TO NOW, the clean-up campaign has had very feeble support, especially from parking-lot offenders. Students who eat their lunches in cars continue to throw papers and orange peelings out the windows, while others seem unable to carry empty cigarette packages to one of the many receptacles.

A slight improvement has been noted in the Caf which is the most abused place on the campus. Here are a few rules which, if observed, would help considerably in eliminating untidiness there:

DON'T:

1. Leave lunch papers on the table. There are receptacles by each post.
2. Throw cigarette packages and butts on the floor.
3. Play with sugar containers and spill the contents on the table tops.
4. Leave empty bottles and used dishes on the table.

Cigarettes and tobacco account for a great deal of the untidiness around the campus. Much of this could be eliminated.

Harris Tells I.R.C. About Peace Group

• THE INSIDE STORY of a youth peace movement in Europe which gained impetus just before the outbreak of hostilities was told to the International Relations Club Wednesday night by Dr. Ethel Harris of the Department of Modern Languages.

Speaking on "An escape from Vichy, France," Dr. Harris told her listeners of an eight-month attempt to escape to Canada when the Germans occupied Paris.

"Before Hitler tore up the Treaty of Versailles, there were 10,000 Knights of Peace in western Europe, with 7,000 of them in Germany," she stated. This movement had tried to exchange war veterans as an aid to international understanding but the plan was disrupted by Hitler's invasions.

S.P.C. Studies War Problems At Fall Camp

• "THE ROLE OF YOUTH IN WAR TIME" has been chosen as the theme for the annual fall camp of the Social Problems Club, to be held at Horseshoe Bay this week end.

Those in charge of preparations are Peggy Reid, Ken Ralston, Elspeth Munro, and Jack Curry. Jack Curry is especially anxious to see anybody with a car that could take members to the Bay Saturday afternoon and home again Sunday night.

It's Free!

Madame Lilavati, exotic Indian dancer, will enthrall students at noon today as she writhes through her dances. She will wear genuine saris, the costume worn by women in India.

Totem Solicits Different Slogan

• "GOTTUM TOTEM?" "Totem Est".

For the past two years now, the Totem has had a slogan to use in its sales campaign. Now, again, the Business staff call for entries in its slogan contest. Entry blank will be found below.

Winning entry will be awarded a copy of the 1942 Totem. Entries will be judged solely on merit, and, although no limit is placed on the number of words used, entrants are warned to examine the two previous prize-winners, noting their brevity, and the connection made between the Totem and the University.

In 1940 the contest was limited to students of Psych. 7 (who were studying psychology of advertising) but since this course has been discontinued, the contest has been thrown open to everybody.

Campus organizations, Greeks, and clubs are urged to enter a group effort, since no limitation has been made as to how many people may collaborate on one entry.

Entries should be placed in the Entry Box in the Publications Office, Brock Hall, or given to a member of the Totem staff.

Prize winner will probably be announced at a pep meet to be held next Tuesday, Nov. 4.

Ira Dilworth Introduces Concert Series

• MONDAY NIGHT Ira Dilworth, formerly of the English department, welcomed a first-night audience to a new series of symphonic concerts to be broadcast from the Hotel Vancouver.

The program featured a composition of Arthur Benjamin's, "Cotillon"; a suite of dance tunes. Mr. Benjamin conducted the piece, which was played by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra last winter.

The next program will have as soloist the pianist Norma Gallia who will play Beethoven's 4th Piano Concerto in G major. Students who are interested can obtain tickets from CBR, the last Friday and Saturday of the month.

East Indian Dancer Is Pass Feature

• MADAME LILAVATI . . . the exotic East Indian dancer who charmed Vancouverites attending the Vancouver Folk Festival, recently, with her beauty, dancing and gorgeous "Saris" (Indian dress), will be presented to students Friday, as a noon hour pass feature, sponsored by the Radio Society and the Cosmopolitan Club.

Mr. Jacquillard, her husband, who was with an American bank establishment in Bombay, is now a master of the drums, an important part of the Indian dance and plays for his wife.

She toured the Orient recently, and prior to coming to Vancouver, was in San Francisco. In spite of her westernization, Lilavati still clings to Indian dress and has with her two trunkloads of elaborate saris, made of richly decorated materials.

Lilavati continues to wear her caste mark, which indicates the high caste of Punjab, from which she came.

At the Friday dance recital, Mr. Jacquillard will accompany his wife, and co-eds will model some of the enticing saris.

Ted Speers and Phyllis NeMetz, Radio Society executives, will describe the costumes and dance themes.

Date Bureau Invites UBC Applicants

• OPPORTUNITY FOR the lonely co-ed to meet the man of her dreams is offered by the Saturday Club Auxiliary which is sponsoring a date bureau in connection with the Y.M.C.A. Saturday Club.

A program of entertainments including swimming, ping-pong, and dancing will commence Nov. 8. Any girl interested in becoming a "date" for these functions should send the following information with a recent photograph to Mrs. Gordon Wilson, 777 Burrard Street: Colour of hair, eyes, complexion; height and age; hobbies and interests; any preference for type of male escort. If the applicant is under twenty-one years of age, the consent of parent or guardian must be included.

Tabby Fools Finder; But Not Cowan

• IT WAS ONLY a cat. Not even a rare kind of cat, but only a common back fence, keep-you-awake-at-night variety of feline. The skull of the creature was brought into the Pub early Thursday by a woman who claimed that it must be a specimen of some rare animal. Affected by her enthusiasm, the "rare" skull was dispatched to Dr. Ian McTaggart Cowan of the Zoology Department. After one casual glance he said the skull was of the genus felinus domesticus and explained that when translated this meant it was only a cat.

Palm Tree Disappearance From Caf Still Mystery

• LAST SEEN being carried across the Quad by a tall, dark fellow was the potted palm which until 5 p.m. Monday graced a fraternity in the Caf.

This plant originally smuggled out of his home by Dave Robinson, is reputed to be worth $100. Removed from his home to enliven Caf atmosphere, Robinson has found the atmosphere more hectic than he anticipated.

Late Monday afternoon the errant plant was sitting on the Zeta table but Zetes vehemently deny having laid hands on it, much less having carried away "any potty plant."

Lapointe Talks To Queens

• KINGSTON, ONT., (CUP). "A University which was founded as a venture of freedom and one which had to put up a fight against conservatism," was the description of Queen's University made by the Federal Minister of Justice, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, in an address at the Centenary Celebrations of that university held recently.

Highlight of the Celebration was the conferring of 24 honorary LL.D. and D.D. degrees. The degree of Doctor of Laws was presented to Lt. Gen. McNaughton, Commander-in-Chief of the Canadian Armed forces.

Replying to the toast of "Canada" during the banquet which followed, Premier W. L. MacKenzie King paid tribute to the United States for its co-operation and said that, indicative of the new unity of Britain and the U.S., was Churchill's assurance that, in the event of difficulties arising with Japan, the U.S. could count on Britain to be at her side.

On Saturday, the Governor General and Her Royal Highness, the Princess Alice received their honorary degrees. In his acceptance of the Doctor's position, the Earl of Athlone presented the complexity of modern international relations and expressed the hope that the present university generation might be able to solve the problem.

War Work Tea Dance Next Week

• FOLLOWING THE success of the Frosh Tea Dance, the Women's War Work Committee has laid plans for a similar function to be held on Wednesday, November 5, in aid of the Women's War Work Fund.

Another stag affair, every student is expected to beg, borrow, or steal one dime for their admission and tea. Tentative plans for the music indicate that a P. A. system will be used as at the last affair of this kind.

Arrangements are in charge of the Women's War Work Committee composed of Brenda Phillips, Dorothy Hird, Jean Cluayton, Bunny Arm, Amy Heckney, and Doreen Ryan. Self Denial Day will continue as usual.

Drill Corps Attracts Many Alberta Co-Eds

• CO-EDS AT THE University of Alberta, who have been looking for better ways to help Canada's war effort, have now been given the opportunity to enlist for military training. A corps has been formed which drills two hours a week under military sergeants. Response to the call for volunteers in this University Women's Training Corps has been enthusiastic. Other war work courses being offered include a St. John's Ambulance course, a transport course, and a course in signalling.

Airforce Training

Another cog in the growing machinery of our university war effort takes its place today and will begin its function of giving future airmen of the RCAF their initial training while working towards their academic degrees. We have finally followed other Canadian colleges into the University Air Training Scheme, and because of the lateness of the term will have to work doubly hard to catch up to them.

The rigid conditions of acceptance into the class has considerably narrowed it in numbers, but the turnout at the first meeting, and the figures of grads now in the airforce as compared to those in other forces, show that this branch of the service is most popular at the university.

Therefore, we feel that mention should be made to students of an unparalleled opportunity to see our airmen in action which is present in Vancouver now.

We refer to "Target for Tonight", the authentic story of a bombing raid on Germany filmed by the R.A.F. and opening today at the Orpheum theater. After seeing this picture at a special showing earlier this week, we are convinced that every man who has any intention of joining the airforce must see it and realize exactly what he is letting himself in for. Everyone should see it, because only by this means can they fully appreciate the news stories of raids which they read in the newspapers.

You actually see from the pilot's seat in a big Wellington bomber the landscape which unfolds before the "skipper" as he guides his ship over the Dover Straits, across occupied France and along the narrow strip which is the Rhine, to his objective at Freihausen. You feel your stomach take a loop as the giant bird swoops low with guns blazing death at the Nazi anti-aircraft batteries, dodging piercing searchlights and machine-gun bullets. You catch the spiff of the joyous air-crew when they see their bombs make direct hits on the railway and tank concentrations below.

Yes we really believe you will have more genuine pride and admiration for the kids who carry out these operations when you have seen "Target for Tonight".

We know it will make the fellows taking the training here all the more eager to be there doing their part.

Hyu-Ou

Energetic freshmen on the campus have come forward with an idea which has floated mysteriously around here for several years and have decided to make it a concrete fact in the formation of the Hyu-Ou. In English, this means they are going to form a men's Phrateres.

This is a most commendable move, and we hope the organizers will meet with success in their venture. Everyone will agree that the existence of such a club is a necessity.

However, several factors should be taken into consideration by the youthful exponents and by every male undergraduate. These factors will have to be discussed and agreements made if the Hyu-Ou is to stand a chance of succeeding.

Is this club going to materialize into an independent men's organization in direct opposition to fraternities? There is every possibility that it will, as have so many similar groups in the United States. If so, it will be unfortunate. Nothing which will stimulate dissent among members of the student body should be tolerated. There is too much of that already.

On the other hand, if the new club and the fraternities will co-operate to cultivate better understanding between all men on the campus, which they definitely can do, the result will be invaluable.

It is up to the fraternities. They are the old established organizations; Hyu-Ou is an infant composed mostly of new men. If they will get behind and push, a new day in college spirit will come into being.

The fraternities should open their houses to meetings of the Hyu-Ou on alternate nights. Give the new club the facilities which they can provide to get organized and firmly established. Show the freshmen they really want them to get going, and help them with active support.

In the long run, this policy would prove the best for everyone concerned.

One Man's Opinion

BY ANDY SNADDON

The old grads who attended the annual Alumni Dinner in the Brock about a week ago received a bit of a shock when Lieut-Gov. W. C. Woodward, guest speaker for the evening gave them an idea of what business men think of University.

According to reports in the daily press, Mr. Woodward did not mince his words. He told the grads that university professors and students were too partial to socialism and they painted an unfair picture of capitalism. He advocated the teaching of government and the tenets of democracy, and more stressing of spiritual education.

We are all for Mr. Woodward. This day and age sees capitalism and capitalists attacked from all sides, and very few capitalists ever reply in a logical manner.

So three cheers for Mr. Woodward. Let us hear more from the capitalists in defense of their system.

But let us also investigate Mr. Woodward's ideas. Let us consider the charge of socialism in the University.

First of all we think that it is safe to assume that even Mr. Woodward will admit that there are many things wrong with the present system. Then naturally we must consider what must be done to correct these faults.

The university carries many courses of study on the present form of government. It is only natural that the faults of the system are brought out in these courses. And, as most of the socialist theories have never been put to practical tests, the reds and light pinks have ammunition to attack without being attacked in return.

The value of the radical point of view, however, cannot be discounted. Very frequently in the past ideas which were called "radical" and "Communist", have turned up in a modified form in the platforms of conservative parties.

If we did not have radicals, things would not change for the better as quickly as they do.

Mr. Woodward's claim that the capitalists must be progressive to succeed is true. The trouble is that his progress is not always of benefit to the community. Certainly some people are born to be exploited, but the capitalist who feels that this exploitation should be carried to the point, where slums are an accepted part of our social set-up, is going too far.

So let us have our radicals and our socialists. They will provide the ideas that will set capitalism back on its feet.

The university, Mr. Woodward, represents a cross-section of opinion, in spite of the lack of practical training. Here at U.B.C. we have the sons of capitalists ready to follow in father's foot-steps, and we have men and women who are working their way through and who have seen the problem's of the other half—the half that crowds your bargain basements. So that a student with an open mind can gain much here. It is here that he is expected to listen to all sides of a question before making a decision. The student who comes here with a mind closed to all arguments but his own, will gain nothing and will lose out in the long run.

The others will go forward to become leaders in the community.

Capitalism is much at fault for the crimes with which it is charged by radicals.

So please don't judge a university by the few political screwballs it turns loose.

Rather please look around and note the number of university men who are doing their part in trying to aid the country out of the difficulties which it is in.

The writer feels that Capitalism is the best system for a democratic way of life, and that the democratic way is the best way. Thus I have been trained in school and university.

And please let us hear more in defense of your capitalists Mr. Woodward. Capitalism can use a defense and successful men such as yourself should come out more often and let the rest of the world have their view-point.

Receive Degrees

Sober-faced students listened attentively to speeches on Convocation Day, last Wednesday. From left to right they are: Walter Damen, Budd Devlin, Pit Desjardins and Jean Cushing.

The convocation commenced when the graduates, led by the speakers and professors, strode down the right aisle to solemn music.

Dr. R. E. McKecknie opened the convocation by addressing a few words to the graduates. He congratulated the parents of these graduates and concluded with a short epic of his own graduation.

Contrary to tradition, the main speaker for the event was an insider, the Rev. Dr. F. W. Norwood. Speaking on "The Darkness and the Dawn," "Darkness is enveloping the German culture," said he. "The forces of aggression are going on the defence."

Following this the solemn but colorful ceremony of awarding the degrees took place.

Concluding the convocation, the assembly adjourned to the Brock Hall for tea.
