MUNICIPAL FATHERS HEAR ABOUT SCHOOLS

J. W. Berry, Chairman of Langley School Board, Talks on Educational Matters.

At the meeting of the Municipal Council on Saturday last, at Murrayville, a very concise and lucid presentation of school matters in Langley municipality was presented by Mr. J. W. Berry, the board's efficient secretary. Mr. Berry pointed out that the urgent need of more school accommodation made it imperative to take immediate steps to go ahead with the policy the board had outlined, which would at least bring some relief to the present serious situation, which he summarised as follows:

At Murrayville and Langley Prairie there were 200 children on double shift; Otter school was taking twice as many pupils as there was accommodation for. Milner was full and West Langley overcrowded, and the position in the east portion of the municipality must be adjusted now. Authority would be asked to include the extension work, demanded this year, in a by-law, which would provide for the raising of at least $40,000.

The programme mapped out would allow for a six room school half mile east of this town, three rooms to be used for school purposes, thereby relieving Murrayville, and two rooms to take the overflow of three senior classes from Langley Prairie school. Another room at South Otter was needed and a two-roomed school at Sperling, which was central, and would relieve the pressure at East Langley and Springbrook. The Provincial Government might be persuaded to take more than a third share of the expense. At South Otter, a 50 per cent. allotment should be obtained, as so far no grant had been secured for that district.

In the eastern portion of the municipality, said Mr. Berry, it was proposed that the municipal district arrangement for school purposes be disregarded and that Matsqui children join with Langley and attend where municipal facilities exist on either side of the municipal boundary.

A teacher would be installed at Willoughby, where the use of the Community Hall had been secured for school purposes. West Langley would thereby be relieved and Milner would also benefit by this arrangement.

Mr. Berry was given a most attentive hearing throughout his remarks.

ROAD IMPROVEMENTS.

The question of road improvements loomed up large in the Council's deliberations, several deputations attending to press their claims for better roads.

The land owners of Ward 1 handed in a petition, praying that a ditch be cut for a distance of 800 feet to a point east of the Chiens road. The petitioners agreed to assist in putting the work through. The engineer and Councillor Bray were directed to make a report.

The estimates were held over for another fortnight.

HAPPENINGS IN SURREY MUNICIPALITY

Cloverdale—Ex-Reeve T. J. Sullivan, and Mr. H. Bose headed a deputation which attended the meeting of the Surrey Council on Saturday and put the case forward for grants from the Council in aid of the Surrey District exhibit at New Westminster fair, and the Surrey fair. The Council voted $500 for the district exhibit, $200 of that sum to be made available at once; and made a grant of $250 in aid of the Surrey fair.

The Opera House was the scene of a very successful dance given by the High School girls, in aid of the basketball team, last Monday evening. Dancing commenced at 8 p.m. and continued until midnight, when a sumptuous supper was served. About fifty couples danced to the exquisite music furnished by Messrs. Woods, Timms and Wilson, of Langley Prairie.

Another Game Necessary.

A record breaking crowd gathered at Mission City last Saturday to witness the football game between the Langley United and Clayburn teams. The Pak-eham Cup, emblematic of the championship of the Fraser Valley, was at stake, and both teams were out to win, the result being that a grand afternoon's sport was dished up. After ninety minutes of labor neither side had scored. The game went into overtime, but in the thirty extra minutes played so evenly were the teams matched that time was called without a tally. Local fans attended, and although they howled themselves hoarse in spurring their favorites on to victory, it was not to be.

The game is to be replayed this afternoon at Mission, and from all accounts the Langley boys are pledged to bring back the bacon, even if they have to use a cannon.

Who's the Better Man?

The Milner branch of the United Farmers are coming down to debate with the local branch as to to who is the better business man—the farmer or city man? Milner will argue for the affirmative while Langley Prairie will defend the negative. There should be a large attendance. See bills for further particulars.

$200,000 TO BE SPENT BY GOVERNMENT

Continuation of Work on the Pacific Highway to be Proceeded with Immediately.

Mr. A. D. Paterson, M. L. A. for Delta, passed through Langley Prairie on Saturday last, on his way to his home near Ladner, from a visit to Biggar Prairie, where he had been looking over the proposed land reclamation proposition at that place.

In course of conversation Mr. Paterson intimated that it was his intention at the close of the present session of the Legislature to visit the different municipal Councils, to confer with them in regard to the distribution of the provincial grant to the Delta district. The programme is expected to include the hard-surfacing of the Pacific Highway, from Cloverdale to the Serpentine flats, at an expenditure of some $200,000. The detour at Cloverdale will be along the McLellan road to Johnston road to the hard-surfaced portion of the highway at the green timber. An effort will also be made to hard-surface the Yale road from Langley Prairie to Murrayville.

Incidentally Mr. Paterson mentioned that his "job" at Victoria was no snap, and was considerably more strenuous than farming. He is on four important committees which with his other duties, keeps him at work long beyond accepted union hours. However, Alex. is a glutton for work and he has a reputation for getting results.

Spring Planting.

The Timms Market Gardening Co. are busy with their spring planting and this week some five acres of Cuthbert raspberries are being set out. The work has been carefully done and with proper attention from now on the venture should prove a profitable one. The inside crops are all planted and making splendid growth towards maturity.

Social and Personal.

A surprise party paid a visit to Mr. and Mrs. W. Cambridge on Tuesday evening, when a very pleasant time was spent. Progressive whist was indulged in, interspersed with vocal selections. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. T. Calow, Misses J. Michaud and M. Logan, Messrs. O. Lee and O. Thorne. The happy gathering broke up about 1 p. m.

Mr. R. J. Wark, claims agent for the P. G. E. railway, with headquarters at Victoria, visited his old home in Langley Prairie on Saturday, returning to Victoria on Monday.

CONDENSED NEWS OF GENERAL INTEREST

Mr. R. H. Brown is opening a carpenter shop in the premises now occupied by the Langley Service Garage. He expects to be ready for business about the 10th of April. In addition to handling all classes of joinery and store fittings, Mr. Brown will carry a line of sash and doors.

The fortnightly dance given by the Clayton buds was held on Wednesday night. The music, supplied by the "Langley trio," was the big feature. Of course the "eats" made a big hit, as they always do. The next dance will held on April 13th.

Mr. W. Brandow, who is operating two trucks in transfer work, has just obtained a jitney licence and will shortly trade in one of his trucks for a baby grand Chevrolet touring car. He will specialize in trips to White Rock and other pleasure resorts this summer.

Mr. F. Pollard is moving his tinsmith business to the premises where the Service Garage is vacating about the 10th of the month.

Mr. A. Fitchet has sold his chicken ranch at Hunter station to Mr. Reed, who has just arrived from the Prairies. Mr. Reed will take possession immediately. This is further evidence that the Fraser Valley has the climate and the soil that attracts.

There is to be a general meeting held at Abbotsford on April 13th, in the G. W. V. Rooms, to discuss forming a lacrosse and baseball league in the Valley. A good attendance is necessary in order to ensure the success of the undertaking.

The premises now occupied by F. Pollard across from the B. C. E. R. station will be taken over by C. Finch, who intends branching out into the real estate and insurance business. Mr. Finch expects to move in about the middle of April.

Mr. J. W. Berry left on Thursday for Ottawa, where, among other matters, he will lend his assistance to the Dominion Government in straightening out some of the many problems affecting the soldier settlement question in this Province, with which he is familiar.

Don't forget the auction sale on Tuesday April 5th, at Brandow's barn. The sale is held under authority of the Soldier Settlement Board.

A good crowd were in evidence at Mr. Lundy's weekly sale held here Thursday last. There was a large amount of furniture, which found ready sale. Pigs and poultry also realized good prices.

On Wednesday evening the Fort Langley basketball team journeyed to Murrayville and got trimmed to the tune of 19 to 10.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

If it is good business for the nearby cities to stage a "buy, build and bank in your home town" campaign, why will not the same idea work out to advantage right here in Langley Prairie? Let the local merchants take hold of the idea and make it worth while for local buyers to spend more of their money at home. Too often money is spent away from home for goods that the local merchant can supply at city prices, and often at a lower figure. Newspaper advertising is the big factor in the case. Let the people know through the local press what you are offering to get and hold their trade. Make it so interesting they can't afford to overlook you. "Buy, build and bank in your home town" is a good slogan to nail to the masthead. The local merchants are entitled to every support, and by helping them you are helping yourself.

"Our young women are spending as much to-day on personal dress and decorations as their grandmothers spent on the household, and their demands are becoming so great that young men are unable to contemplate marriage." Thus saith a well known Montreal divine. We have not seen any reply to this accusation as yet, but surely some champion of the fair sex will be forthcoming to remove such a slur upon them. Surely it is not the truth? What have the girls of the Fraser Valley to say about it?

It now transpires that the finest of wine can be brewed from the Canadian thistle. This will be glad tidings to the man who has worked overtime trying to exterminate this pest. Now it will be different. He will assiduously cultivate his arch enemy and delight in the after effects.

"Yesterday—strong and robust, in the best of condition; To-day—mourned by loving friends and relatives:—that has been the fate of many men who recently took out North American Life policies." —Extract from the company's literature under the caption, "The Uncertainty of Life." Not a very pleasant prospect to hold out for a chap who is fondly clinging to old mother earth and looking forward to one continual round of pleasure. It certainly sounds rather sudden like to us.

We all pride ourselves on the glorious traditions of British justice, etc., but right here we rise to exclaim that the manner in which Magistrate South, of Vancouver, has been handling it, is likely to make most loyal subjects blush for shame. This man South should get a taste of the medicine he so unmercifully handed out to the unfortunate drug slave Kehoe—24 lashes and imprisonment; while one Bussey, a confessed trafficker in opium and kindred dope, goes free with a paltry fine. Are the people going to stand for such an unequivocal travesty on justice? It is more than likely they are.

Brooding, Rearing, and Management of Young Chicks

(By H. E. Upton, Supervisor in Poultry Husbandry)

(one-half inch mesh) 12 inches high and 12 inches wider in diameter than the hover itself, completely around the brooding apparatus. The chicks will then be prevented from getting too far from the brooder during the first day or so, and become chilled. This may be gradually enlarged and taken away at the end of the first week.

Ventilation: Much criticism has been offered in respect to the brooder house described herein because of no ventilators being provided. Results, however, are the things looked for and better results have been obtained in this house than in 8 other types, too elaborate to mention.

Any person knows that a body of heat attracts a body of cold. Therefore, the fresh air will be continually attracted into this wooden house through the cotton mesh. Openings in other parts of the house create draughts and cause chilling. In warm weather all the openings will be used. The cone on the top should be left open to allow of continual air circulation through the house. A duck and wire door should be built, to take the place of the wooden door, for summer use.

Length of Time to Give Heat:

There have been many chicks killed even by old-time poultrymen by taking the artificial heat away too quickly from them. Heat should be supplied growing chicks until they are at least six weeks of age. In fact, in the ordinary B. C. season, it is well to supply heat for at least eight weeks. When the heat is to be taken away, the same should be done gradually and some method provided to give a form of weaner or artificial brooding apparatus for young chicks to gather round until they are ready to go to roost of their own accord. Perches should be provided in the brooder house when chicks are six weeks of age. We usually find that a small wire hoop, when constructed by putting an old blanket across the same and letting it hang down round the edges in the form of a circular hover, and secured firmly from the ceiling, so that the blanket will just barely touch the chick's back when standing up, will act as an artificial weaner. A system of forced roosting is elaborated on by the Board and a description of same can be had on application after the end of February.

What Age Chicks to Put in Brooder: Chicks of the one age only should ever be placed in one brooder. It is cheaper to run another brooder than to put two different lots of chicks hatched even a week apart in the one and same brooder.

Feeding Chicks: After chicks are from 48 to 60 hours of age (preferably 60 hours) the operator may then give them the first feed. There are several preparations advised for the feeding of baby chicks, but the best to advocate is as follows:

We prefer dry bread soaked in sour skim-milk, the milk squeezed out, and the bread, which should be of a crumbly wet consistency, placed on a shingle for fifteen minutes only, four or five times a day from the first feed (chick two days old) to the fourth day of feeding. If this cannot be obtained, feed well-baked johnny cake, crumbled up fine or coarse oatmeal. After the chick has become four days old, the chick feed, either commercial or made up of the following constituents, should be fed:

Cracked wheat15 lb.
Pinhead oats or granulated oatmeal10 lb.
Fine-screened cracked corn15 lb.
Broken-rice 2 lb.
Fine cracked peas 3 lb.
Chick grit 5 lb.
Fine charcoal 2 lb.

Or, this formula may be used with as good results, yet not giving so much variety:

Fine cracked corn15 lb.
Cracked wheat15 lb.
Pinhead oats10 lb.

both these should be thoroughly mixed before being fed to the chicks.

The above mixtures may be fed as often as five times a day. In fact, smaller quantities fed more often give better results to growing chicks, as it induces them to take more exercise. When one is raising chicks on ground where they may secure worms and insects, they can feed this chick-feed alone with good results in the early spring, if some sour milk or buttermilk is provided.

The chick-feed may be given two or three times a day, and bran and rolled oats (equal parts) or johnny cake may be fed twice a day, alternating the chick-feed and dry mash. After the chicks are a week old, the mash may be gradually richened by adding more rolled oats to the bran, and introducing middlings or low-grade flour into the mash; a good grade of sifted beef-scrap should also be gradually introduced into the mash.

All changes, both of mash and hard grains, should be made gradually, allowing three to seven days for the change to be accomplished.

One should gradually change from the bread-and-milk formula, cutting down the number of feeds per day and gradually introducing the following formula, which can be used from the age of seven days to three weeks:

Parts by weight—
Wheat-bran4
Corn-meal3½
Sifted beef-scrap2
Middlings½
Rolled oats or oatmeal2

This must be mixed well in a dry form before being fed to chicks, and be placed in small grain pans at intervals.

From three to eight weeks of age, a mash composed of the following con-

Any of the stoves sold to care for 500 to 1000 chicks are recommended for a house about 10x12 ft. in measurement. This house should have the brooder stove placed in the centre so that the house can be moved about from place to place as well as insuring plenty of dry floor space for the chicks.

Anthracite coal must be used in operation of these brooder stoves and in this section we are forced to use what is termed "Banff Anthracite Coal." This coal will cost about $28.00 per ton. Directions are usually given to the operator of the stoves on the setting up of the same. The purchase price of a "Buckeye No. 19" Stove this year is $45.00. In conjunction with the stove, the operator will have to buy five pieces of flue-pipe, one roof plate and one cone cap for the flue. These extra appliances usually cost about $2.75.

The stoves should be operated for at least three days before the baby chicks are to be placed in the brooder house, so that the required temperature would be maintained when the chicks are ready to go in the house. The proper temperature at the chicks' back should register 95 degrees first week; 90 degrees the second week, and 85 degrees the third week.

It is to be recommended to the operators of these stoves that they lay a piece of asbestos in under the brooder stove if such is possible. Where this is not possible, the operators should provide themselves with a piece of tin to lay in front of the brooder stove, when cleaning out morning and night to prevent fire.

In actually operating the stove itself, the process is the same as building any fire in the initial stages. The Thermostat should be watched and so regulated that the damper will open when the thermometer at the chicks back registers 90 degrees. After the fire has been started it will have to be cleaned and re-filled every 12 hours. When re-filling the practice is, first to shake down the stove until red coals are noticed in the ash-pan. The ashes should then be removed, and the fire itself poked down upon the grate. The brooder damper should be left off the stove, so that the coals in the fire-pot will burn brightly for a few moments before re-filling. After the coals have burned brightly new coal may be placed upon the top of the fire, poking the same down firmly so that there will be a compact bed of new coal on top of the fire. The damper should still be left off for a few moments, until the operator is assured that the fire is burning brightly. As soon as this assurance is given, he may then put the damper on the bottom of the stove and not look at the same for a half-hour. The operator should then go back to see that the stove is burning all right, and will as a rule not have to bother with the stove again for 12 hours.

There are many other types of brooders which burn oil, gas or electricity. There is also a type known as the fireless brooder, but these types of brooder are not to be recommended to the settlers' at present.

Litters: There are various kinds of litter which the ordinary farmer or poultry man can use. Dry-clean litter to the depth of 1½ inches should always be present on the wooden house floor. The most recommended type of litter is termed "oat hulls." These oat hulls are a refuse from the mills that make different Oat preparations. If the same can be secured at an ordinary cost they will be found to give very good satisfaction. For farmers this must be mixed well without adding any liquid.

The same may be placed in hoppers before the growing stock all the time if on a good range. From this time on the mash may be changed to suit the needs of the stock as their development will indicate. All changes in feeding must be made gradually.

After chicks become six or eight weeks old, the practice of feeding commercial chick-feed may become either too expensive or the chicks may have attained such a size that the chick-feed will be so small that the birds will not relish the same. Should this be the case the following mixture may be substituted:

Medium-size cracked corn200 lb.
Cracked wheat100 lb.

This should be fed until chicks are large and old enough to handle a larger-size grain, which is usually at the age of from eight to eleven weeks. At this time, it is advisable to feed two parts of hen-size cracked corn to one part of wheat in conjunction with the dry mash recommended.

Chopped lettuce, carefully sprouted oats chopped fine, lawn-clippings and dandelion-leaves will answer for green food. Later on rape, kale, clover, alfalfa, cabbage and mangels are good. Chopped green onions are very beneficial.

Plenty of grit and occasional feeds of charcoal should be given growing stock. Chicks should always be kept scratching if one is to have good results. Clean, fresh water, in clean utensils, is essential. Even if sour, skim or buttermilk is provided in abundance, water should be placed in front of the chicks from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily during the first three weeks.

Church of England services will be held in the following places Sunday, April 3: Langley Prairie, 11 a. m.; Otter, 2.30 p. m.; Fort Langley, 7.30 p. m. Rev. Mr. Allen, of North Vancouver, will conduct the services.

Successful Whist Drive.

The extensive preparations to which the ladies of the local Institute went were more than justified by the large turnout to their military whist drive and dance held Thursday evening in the Langley Auditorium. Upwards of seventy participated, whilst Italy were the victors, their traditions being upheld by Mesdames Woods and Deadmarst (who received leather photo frames as prizes) and Messrs. Browne and C. Winget. The gentlemen were presented with arm bands. Denmark finished second best. Misses K. Johnston and E. M. Brown were among the also rans, and should be able to do considerably better sampling with the aid of the booby toothpicks. Bachelor buttons were passed to Messrs. DesBrisay and Clarke. To Mr. Clarke we say "nobly fought, nobly died!"

Mrs. E. I. Johnson, Mrs. Wise and Mrs. Barnes, who composed the committee in charge of the arrangements, are to be highly congratulated on the success of the evening. Of course the dance which followed was greatly enjoyed by all who danced or listened to the music provided by the "Langley Trio."

Something out of the ordinary and not on the bill of fare was staged during the card games when the accountant from the Royal Bank catapulted himself through the door registering rainbow hues all over his profile and in staccato tones announced that the lights had suddenly failed in the bank and that he had left the teller and remainder of the staff in the dark armed to the teeth groping for the supposed thugs responsible for this shock to their dignity. Mr. Swain was conscripted to give expert assistance, when it was found that one of the plugs was loose. Too bad fellows, Plug and thug sound much alike; but there is nothing like being prepared.

Mr. Cyril G. Firth, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. G. Y. Timms, of Langley Prairie, accompanied by his bride, extended their honeymoon trip here for a few days this week, before settling down to every day life in their home at Nanaimo.

66th Anniversary.

Just sixty-six years ago to-day, Mr. G. Y. Timms, the well known local exponent of the art of printing, apprenticed himself to the firm of Hall & Son, leading printers of the university city of Oxford, Eng. Apprenticeships in those days were something quite different from that prevailing to-day. You were hedged about with hard and fast rules in and out of shop that would take all the seeming joy out of the present day youth's young life. And Mr. Timms received for his first day's work one whole shilling, with a raise of one shilling a year for seven years, in lieu of paying £100 premium. But at the end of his term he knew his business. One of this grand old champion of the art preservative's most cherished possessions is the parchment containing his articles of agreement to serve his master faithfully and well in all things

There is to be a meeting in the S. S. building next Tuesday night at 8 p. m. of those interested in the formation of a local Board of Trade. Delegations are coming from Vancouver and Surrey organizations to assist in getting the home Board off to a good start. It behooves the well wishers of Langley Prairie to show by their presence they appreciate the advantages of having a progressive Board of Trade in their midst. Get behind the movement and help make it a go.
