First B. C. Electric Trolley Arrives in Abbotsford

Another link in the future of Abbotsford's greatness as a town was coupled on to the already long chain of evidence which goes to show that Abbotsford will be the the business and manufacturing centre of the Fraser Valley south of the Fraser.

The electric tram has reached cation between this town and the the town. The work has been completed which enables communi- coast cities.

It was a great day for Abbotsford on Tuesday when the first trolley car reached the town. Every citizen had been watching for the happy moment for days, and loud and long was the cheering by those who witenessed the first electric trolley into Abbotsford.

The first passenger car is expected on July 4th

Fruit Report

Regina, Sask., June 20th, 1910

W. E. Scott, Esq.

Deputy Minister of Agriculture

Victoria, B. C.

Dear Sir;-

I have the honor to report as follows ;

Port la Prairie, June 9th—No B. C. Strawberries arrived at this point to date. Hood river straw berries here costing retail at Winnipeg $4.25 per case. Missouri strawberries also costing $3.00 per case. Express rate by C. N. R. and C. P. R. 60c per hundred pounds, or about 18c per case. Dealers here claim our straweberries do not arrive in as good condition; nor do they hold up as well after arrival as Hood River or Missouri, but prefer as to flavor. Idaho cherries in now, cost dealer Winnipeg $2.00, sell $2.50. Dealers all supplied from Winnipeg. No jobbing houses here.

Regina, June 13th—Agent Express Company here reported two shipments of strawberries arrived here from Mission; twelve on the thirteenth for McPherson Fruit Co and were refused by them being in poor condition. Were sold by express company for charges. First lot brought $15.00 and the second lot $17.00. Express charges to be be deducted from above. Twenty five cases more came in from Mission on the 11th, were only in fair condition. Twelve cases more came in on the thirteen h from Mission. These strawberries were bought by their own agent for Stockton and Hallison, some of them arriving on Saturday night and, by Monday morning in very poor condition. Quite a number of them had to be thrown out, being no good. Our growers and shippers must avoid shipping to arrive on Saturday night at any of these points as they will certainly suffer loss if more attention is not given to the time of shipment There is no difficulty in figuring out from time table the proper train and day to ship

Saskatoon, June 15th—Have had three carloads of strawberries in here this season, Hood River and Missouri. B. C. strawberries are coming in here daily. They do not arrive here in the best condition, stock is poorly graded and baskets not well filled, of those I saw at the Northern Fruit Company's warehouse. This stock is bought by their own agent at Mission. These berries are brought in all C P. R. by way of Kirkella to Saskatoon, being a longer time in transit than via Regina to Saskatoon Express rate via Kirkella $5.00 per hundred pounds; express rate via Regina $3.85 per hundred pounds. having to go over the C. P. R. to Regina, then C. N. R. to Saskatoon but a shorter time in transit. They refused one lot of forty cases that came in from Mission, and they were sold for charges.

The freight rate from mixed car loads from Lewiston, Idaho, is $1.53 per hundred pounds. from North Yakima $1.42 per hundred pounds.

Prince Albert, June 17th—In conversation with the retailers here I find a strong feeling in favor of B. C. fruits of all kinds. They have no jobbing houses here, and are supplied by the jobbing houses of Saskatoon and Regina although in past seasons they have had mixed carloads of B. C. fruits. Coombs &Co., Rogers & Co., A. F. Purdy & Co., And Handell & Co., all deal largely in fruit, co-operating together sometimes in the buying of the same. A few B. C. strawberries came in here from B. C. but it is a long and expensive trip. They have to go over two roads to get here, costing via Kirkella $4.00 a hundred pounds; via Regina $4.15 per hundred pounds, but they could not co-operate and handle mixed carloads of fruit by freight at this point successfully. This morning before leaving I saw some Vashon Island strawberries, came in from Winnipeg. Came in soft mouldy. Express rate from Winnipeg to Prince Albert $2.40 per hundred pounds.

There is certainly better feeling

FARMER—THOMPSON

Mr. S. H. Farmer, of New Westminster and of Chappel Brampton, Northampton, England, and Miss Thompson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson, of Mt Lehman, B. C., were united in marriage on Tuesday by the Rev. C. McDairmid, of Mission B. C. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's parents, the groom and his friends motoring out from New Westminster. Miss Celia Langley of Vancouver, attended the bride and Mr. Edgar H. Sands supported the groom.

After the ceremony the bridal party motoring back to New Westminster

Mr. and Mrs. Haywood Farmer left on the Seattle express en route to Vancouver Island, where they will spend their honeymoon.

COAL PROSPECTS MOST ENCOURAGING.

Abbotsford is in great excitement at the latest development on the coal seam which from all accounts is extremely encouraging.

THE BOXING FIASCO

Abbotsford "sports" were greviously disappointed on Saturday night. They had anticipated a battle royal between the two boxing exponents of the "Fighting Sailor" and the North Vancouver champion, Jack Thompson, but the encounter fizled out in a most ignominous manner. The fight was billed for twenty rounds, but before one round was fought the referee disqualified Sailor Jack for fouling and awarded the match to Thomson. From the outset it was evident that fight was meant by Sailor Jack, who had as his patrons two well-known Abbotsford residents, and neither contestant made much pretense of a scientific display of boxing. Clinches and wild swings were the order of the fight as far as it progressed, each man evidently trying to place a "knock out." Thomson got Jack once over up against the ropes and brought him to the floor and in one of the numerous clinches the sailor made furious upward jabs with his right The referee had all his work cut out to keep the fighters separated At last all pretence at boxing was discarded and in a rough wrestbout up against the ropes both men came to the floor. Here Sailor Jack lunged furiously at his opponent and the referee had difficulty in dragging him away. With his temper at white heat Jack again dashed at his opponent, who made no attempt to rise and at last helpers had to rush into the ring and hold the infuriated sailor in check. The referee had no option but to stop the fight and award the victory to Thomson. The crowd were indignant at the abrupt termination of the contest and raised their voices in lusty howls for "money back" but in this effort to obtain solace for their wounded feelings they were unsuccessful, despite their resource to closing the doors of exit. After the inevitable pow-wow, during which the fighting sailor obligingly intimated his willngness to "take on" the best man in the room and the crowd were dissatisfied and disgusted, the clamor by degrees became quieted down and the crowd left for their home. This is the third unsuccessful attempt to hold a boxing match at Abbotsford and many of those present at Saturday's exhibition declared it to be the last time they would lend the countenance of their support to such farcical proceedings.

Boxing when practised and pursued under proper conditions, and by those in whom the elementary rudiments of sportsmanship and fair play are implanted, is one of the most manly and scientific forms of sport recognised by athletes the whole world over, but indulged in under such circumstances as prevailed on Saturday night, it becomes a disgusting and degrading exhibition of the most vicous animal passions. Certainly nothing can be predicted with more confidence than that a repetition of such proceedings will do more to disgust sportsmen and influence public opinion against the holding of such meetings than the utmost efforts of those conscientious people who constitute the anti-boxing element of the community. The word "fake" has a nasty ring about it, but it was heard with peculiar insistence on Saturday evening. It is up to organizers, as well as fighters, to put up a clean bill of fare when such is paid for by a sport-loving public.

FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1910

In 1867, just forty-three years ago, the people of Canada first celebrated Dominion Day. This is the forty-third anniversay. How many who read this can remember the first anniversay?

Irrespective of party politics was it not a wise step for the politicians of that day to take? Were they not endowed with foresight in uniting the older provinces? Has it not been a grand thing for the country on the north side of the 49th parallel? It is safe to say that the twentieth century would not have been the growing time of this part oft he British Empire had not the British North America Act been so skilfully made so as to include the present day wants or needs.

Few of those old time politicians are here to relate how and what took place in the events previous to Confederation. But the work was nobly done.

—o—

What is being done in regard to the formation of an agricultural society? It would be the one event that would advertise Abbotsford. Push it along.

OUR LAND, OUR DOMINION.

—o—

We Canadians are coming to our own in nationhood. We have a glorious heritage. No nation ever possessed one more magnificent. All the world has discovered this fact and a countless host from every land is trooping in to share it with us. Their blood is to mingle with ours in the Canadian nation that is to be. The twentieth century is indeed Canada's. Now is a time of crisis, such as we have never known. Perhaps the largest element in this critical period, is the presence of, "The strangers within our gates." They are to share with us the boundless wealth stored up in mountain and mine and meadow, in forest and field and fishery. They are also to share with us the government and training of the nation of the coming day and in common with us to determine the ideals and institutions of our national life. Will their influence or ours dominate in this great work? Will they assimilate us or them? These questions may well cause us pause and serious thought. In 1901 the the total population of our dominion was 5,371,315 and last year it was 6,690,048 or an increase of 1,318733, and 1910 will add about 400,000 more

This increase of nearly two millions, whence comes it? From the British Isles, from the United States, from Europe, from Asia. We find in Canada many nationalities, many languages, many ideals. They are scattered over this broad dominion and are engaged in varied occupations. The largest numbers find their way into Manitoba, the North-west, and into British Columbia.

The problems these strangers within our gates present to the Canadian government and the Canadian church are many and serious and demanding immediate and earnest attention that a wise and happy solution may be found. Our Sabbath is imperilled, as a Rest and Sacred Day.

By the habits and the votes of these strangers the drink traffic may have a longer life than it otherwise would.

Poverty, especially in our cities may increase and as a consequence disease, immorality, and crime increase.

The white slave traffic, a black blot on our civilization, may become more enlarged. What are we teaching the new-comers by our words, our deeds, and institutions? Did you ever notice that when a Japanese, or a Chinese or a Hindoo swears or uses profane words it is in our language? Who taught them profanity? From us they may learn business dishonesty political trickery, and social intemperance, if we, as a people are not free from these vices.

Our duty is clear and imperative We must set before them a noble example, treat them like brothers and give them high ideals of thrift frugality and brotherliness. We must provide teachers versed in their varied tounges to instruct them in all branches of a liberal education, physical, intelectual and moral. Our governments, Dominion and Provincial, and the churches of all denominations will need to unite all their forces to overtake and fulfil this great and splendid task. The reward will be great even as the work is great.

Fruit Reports

on the part of the jobbing houses and retailers towards buying and handling our fruit this season. It is recognized that we have a good crop of fruit and they are also aware that it will come into these markets, and if they do not handle it they will have it in competiton anyway.

I am trying to impress upon jobbers retailers and consumers I come in contact with that we have an abundant crop of all varieties of fruit, and that it will be to their advantage to handle B. C. fruit for many reasons.

Another point our growers and shippers ought to bear in mind is the fact that although all our fruit might be marketed in the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, it will be advisable to market a percentage of our output in the province of Manitoba, for the purpose of not only selling our fruit but for the advertising of it, and also the possibilities of fruit growing of the province of B. C., removing the impression that exists in the minds of some that we are not growing or producing any appreciable quantity of fruit as yet.

It is to be hoped that our growers and shippers will use every endeavor to put up a good product this season for these markets, because prices will be ruled to a great extent by Oregon and Washington competitive prices, and we may be prepared to meet them. Prices f. o. b. there, plus the duty and any advantage we many have in freight rates will be the ruling prices for same variety and grade of fruit in British Columbia.

Yours truly,
(Sgd) J. C. METCALFE.

THE ABBOTSFORD MARKET

Lindsay Russell, the auctioneer, reports a fair yarding of cattle and horses on Tuesday last, but few buyers were in attendance and consequently prices ruled lower than the previous sales. A number of cattle were passed in but have been sold privately. A large amount of business in dairy cattle and horses have been put through privately during the week.

FREE TRADE WITH CANADA.

(By Elbert Hubbard, in the New York American).

When breezy orators point out with pride or view with alarm—as the case may be—let us all take heart and remember Halley His Comet that had no tail at all only a tail belief.

Nothing was side-wiped by Clamity Jake's prognostications. The twentieth century Pleiades didn't even hesitate.

As for America's greatness under a protective tariff—yes certainly. Also please glance at England's greatness under a tariff which covered only ten articles, none of which was produced in England.

When Richard Cobden made his heroic fight to abolish the Corn Laws, the accusation was made that Cobden was not a scholar, nor even a student—only a business man. If breadstuffs were allowed to enter England free of duty the farmers would be ruined, so said the orators. Cobden was aided by God Almighty who sent late frost in the spring and early frosts in the fall. Hunger hammered at the doors of parliament.

The Corn Laws were repealed.

The flood flowed in.

And increased ability to buy equalized the increased supply, so that farmers of England were really unaware of any change save as they read of it in the newspaper and counted increase of the jingling coin in their pockets.

Life is automatic or should be, and Natural Law is at work in the world of economics as elsewhere.

David Ricardo was a successful London business man—a Jew. He made money for himself and others He was an eminently practical man Men of his keen mental quality—men like Richard Cobden and John Bright—are sadly needed in Washington.

Three-fourths of our Congressmen are lawyers; The laws they make are for lawyers. They view everything from a sort of shyster standpoint. Their efforts are largely in the line of practice—that is of holding each other up; a lawyer's way of making money is to get yours.

Some has said that a committee is a thing which takes a month to do what any good man can do in in an hour.

We are moving fast towards the age of the business man. Even the lawyers—some of them—are beginning to realize that to conserve business and not dissolve, disrupt and disintegrate it is the wise policy.

We need business men at the head ofthis government, not attorneys for political parties. Business men!

Leaving the general subject of tariff for protection to be settled in these pages at another time, I want to say now that this country needs no protection from Canada, or Canada from the United States

This four thousand miles of guarded frontier with customs and gilt braid all along the route is an insult to the intelligence of the age.

The very fact that the frontier has to be guarded is a proof of the wrongness of the tariff law.

Things should flow to where they are needed. Especially does this apply to the people who are as intimately connected by language, literature and religion, social custom and blood ties as the Yankees and the Canucks.

We are one people and to block our friendly, natural, commercial intercourse is an error of lawyers and law makers.

Business men know better.

It was the States that taught Canada how to pass tariff laws. We legislated against her, she turned the other cheek and then gave us one on the jaw.

Up to only a few years ago Canada made gentle and discreet tariff advances in Uncle Sam's direction.

She was spurned.

Later it came our turn, and only a few months ago President Taft came down off his sway-back horse and bowed loud to the Lady of the Snows with her elevators full of No One Hard, and her big supply of pulp paper stock

It is now Canada's turn to be chesty.

It is a question of whether she will allow Uncle Sam to again chuck her under the chin and say 'I love my Columbia, but oh, you Canada!'

Uncle Sam must stand on the stoop and state his case with hat in hand.

My plea is for absolute full and complete free trade between Canada and the United States.

I have heard every argument for and against this proposition. The only argument against it is the neutralization of our tariff laws through goods being shipped into Canada from foreign countries and carried across the border.

To remedy this Canada and the United States might agree on the uniform tariff against foreign products; else the free trade could apply exclusively to articles made orproduced in the respective countries.

The States and Canada must get together. Common sense of the times demands it. Geography and topography demand it. The good of thepoeple on both sides requires it.

But is is a problem to be adjusted by business men not profession office holders nor politicians who feed fat at the public trough.

Business men three paces to the fore.

THE MARKET.

New Westminster, June 24th—The market today was only average. However trading was fairly active. Strawberries and cherres came in good quantities. It had been feared by householders generally that the heavy rains of the past week or so would seriously injure these crops, but these fears have not proved to be well founded. Wherever the growers used straw between the rows of strawberries they have not been been bothered with the grub that got busy during the recent rains. neither has the fruit been injured Cherries have by no means escaped the rain. Small globules of water form on the base of the cherry during continued rains and this splits the little globe open, which of course has the effect of rapidly deteriorating the fruit. A large quantity of cherries have fallen off the trees during the past week or two. In spite of these adverse circumstances there will be a fair cherry crop.

Old potatoes continue plentiful and cheap. Growers have planted a considerable quantity to get ridd of them. As the price was low this has been found to be a good method of disposing of them. New potatoes are now in, they are cheap too The reason for this is that old potatoes being so plentiful and also being at their best of a fairly good quality are used in preference to the higher priced new growth. One can see at a glance the difference in price—last year new potatoes brough five cents per lb. while this year they bring only two cents per pound.

Market clerk MacKenzie had the following to say;

"New potatoes were offered at 2c a pound wholesale, but old ones being so plentitul and cheap, they did not find much favor with the buyers."

"Prices remain at a satifactory standard and the demand such as to create a ready sale for produce offered."

"Pork was not soplentiful and short of demand with prices higher than for many years.

"Chickens were in poor supply and all sold readily."

"Broilers were in good supply and all sold at prices ranging in accordance to size."

Market is being held this week on Wednesday.
