Correspondence

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinion of correspondents as expressed under their signature.

Editor Post:

Your correspondent who signs himself "J. L. C." plainly does not belong to the order of athletes whom I alluded to in my description of the boxing raised at Abbotsford, nor to judge from his theatrical and extravagant outburst of denunciation does he possess any sympathy with athletic aims and pursuits. To describe boxing as an "abomination" and "preach on the name of a Christian nation" betrays an intolerance and ignorance of one of the finest traditions of the British sporting ring which would be indelible were it not so pitifully narrow minded.

Such condemnations, however, do credit to the writer's perivoid imagination and his fertility of picturesque invective and reveal an attitude of mind which would provide interesting matter for a psychological study. To confuse boxing when practised and pursued under proper conditions with the fight that took place at Reno between two professional pugilists shows either a desire to misconstrue the meaning of my remarks or an inability to differentiate between sport when it is followed merely for the love of sport, and sport when it is followed for the love of "fifty lucres."

I quote extracts from my letter with any reference to their full content was bad literary taste, deeply to be deplored. I can only endeavor to justify my former assertion that boxing is a "manly and scientific form of sport" by asking "J. L. C." to look in any standard dictionary, wherein he will find boxing described as the "art or skill of fighting with the fists which co-incides with the last portion of my description."

Being a manly recreation, all the universities, public schools and athletic associations in the world look with favor on boxing, and its devotees can be found in the highest officials of the church, army and state. This I think justifies the upholding boxing as a desirable art to cultivate by all athletes, but I fully realize that it is beyond the power of any human agency to get prejudiced people like "J. L. C." to understand or sympathize with an athlete's feelings.

With apologies for occupying so much of your valuable space and thanking you in anticipation for your cooperation.

Yours sincerely,
L. H. H. SPENCER

FERRY ACROSS THE FRASER

The secretary of the Mission District Board of Trade has received word from government to the effect that the first assistant engineer of the public works department at Victoria will shortly make an examination of the Fraser River and report on the establishment of a ferry across the Fraser.

It depends much upon Engineer Griffith as to what steps the government will take in the matter.

Mr. A. Cruickshank of Chilliwack was in town this week.

FRIDAY, JULY 15, 1910

The provincial government are not forgetting our little town this summer. The revenue of the town to the government is not at our disposal but judging by appearances at least the full amount of this year's revenue is being spent in sidewalks. If wrong we would like to be corrected.

The citizens of our town appear to appreciate the effort put forward to give a good sidewalk on each side of Essendene avenue, the main street, and also from main street towards the Great Northern station, which sidewalk we understand will be extended to the station once the hill is properly graded.

It is wonderful the difference in appearance the sidewalks make to the town. To those of us who use them every day, we begin to depreciate their value, but will add fully twenty-five per cent to the value of property in the town. It looks go-ahead.

There is talk of our neighbors across the line "going dry this fall" and the News believing that it would not be in the interests of Sumas to be a dry town has started in its own quiet way to educate the people. Here is what the editor has to say in a recent issue.

No legislative system has ever been more extensively or fairly tested than that of prohibition. During the last sixty years it has been tried on the state wide scale in many different sections of the country and under the most diverse social and political conditions, the period of trial ranging from three years in Nebraska to fifty three years in Vermont. By its own record by what it has done and what it has not done, prohibition must be judged. On every page of that record, from beginning to end, are written the words failure, folly farce. Nowhere and at no time, in all its history, has prohibition accomplished a single one of its avowed objects. Nowhere has it abolished the liquor traffic; nowhere has it prevented the consumption of liquor or lessened the evil of intemperance. Neither as a state wide system or under Local Option has prohibition ever made the slightest contribution toward the solution of the liquor problem. The one solitary service it has rendered to society is that of furnishing a warning example of the folly of attempting to legislate virtue into other men's lives.

The following gentlemen will go to Victoria with the deputation for the Sugar Works; Mr. Lucas for Agassiz, Mr. Windebank for Mission City, Mr. Kearn for Cloverdale. It is hoped that the remainder of the Valley can be canvassed during the next few weeks and the deputation made as representative as possible.

THE MARKET.

New Westminster, July 8th—A bumper market, one that has not been equalled for many moons, was what the buyers and sellers found when they got in on the commodious market. Last week the market was a failure because so many found it impossible or inconvenient to be present, but this week made up for it. Not only was a large attendance but there was a fine supply of fruit poultry and meats of all kinds. Although no new potatoes to speak of, were in sight and but few old ones, there was, on the other hand not a few currants in three colors and some other fruits.

One of the features of the day was the arrival of the Beaver loaded to the gunwales with chickens and other fowl. In fact she could not find room for her cargo in the ordinary spots, so she was forced to load stuff on her hurricane deck but as there were no hurricanes the stuff was not blown off.

The reason that potatoes are cheap is that last winter there was a good demand locally, the growers could not find laborers to dig the tubers out of the pits, so they were not brought in accordingly local wholesalers as well as retail dealers bought large supplies in the United States.

The meat supply was all that one could desire. There was a good deal of veal and a fair supply of pork. Mutton was also in evidence.

The following are the quotations:
Beef, hindquarters, per lb 19c
Beef, forequarters, per lb 8c

SPEAK KINDLY

Elbert Hubbard, of the Phisistine says;

Should the Angel Gabriel come to me and in a confidential undertone declare that a certain man, or any man or any angel was a villain of the truth, a snare to the innocent, a pilferer, a sneak, a robber of grave yards, I would say, "Gabriel, you are troubled with incipient paranoia—I do not believe a word of what you say. The man you mention may not be a saint but he is probably just as good as you or I. In fact I think he must be very much like you, for we are never interested in either a person or a thing that does not bear some direct relationship to ourselves. Then Gabriel, do you not remember the words of Bishop Begum, who said that no man applies an epithet to another that cannot with equal truth be applied to himself. When we remember that hoarse gutters. "Away with him,—away with him!" and when we recall that some of the best and noblest men who have ever lived have been reviled and traduced by so-called good men—certainly men who were sincere—how can we open our hearts to the tales of discredit of any man?"

Hubbard evidently believes that no man should knock any other man or company of men; every man no matter his profession or occupation should know his place in the community and keep it.

THE SACRED DAYS

The 17th of March and also the 12th of July recall dear old Ireland and St. Patrick's birthday, the patron saint of Ireland; and William of Orange and the battle of the Boyne the wearing of the green and the wearing of the orange it is well no doubt to keep in memory the good deeds of our forefathers and to speak the praises of those who have gone before. Patrick was a preacher of the gospel, a lover of peace and a good man. He brought Christianity of the Pauline type to the beautiful green isle, "Erin-go-bragh," and the superstitions of the inhabitants, who like the natives of England and Scotland were heathen, fled away on their reception of the gospel.

It is said that the snakes fled too and never returned. Happy Erin! Patrick brought freedom and joy to the people of the land of the Shamrock. William of Orange came to Ireland many, many years after Patrick—in 1690—on an errand of peace too although he carried a sword and robe at the head of an army, an army of Christian soldiers, some Catholic and some Protestant, names that came into existence long after the days of Patrick, and long before the battle of the Boyne. William was invited over from Normandy to lead the British forces that were fighting against a king who wished to be an absolute monarch and to rule the people without any reference to the House of Parliament. The Battle of the Boyne was the decisive battle in favor of the rights of the people and of their political freedom, a freedom in which Protestant and Catholic alike equally rejoice.

A "Protestant" is literally a person who objects to and speaks against what he thinks to be wrong in the teaching or life of others, and in this same sense every Christian whether English or Roman is a Protestant. In Canada we are a mixed people and need to cultivate the things which make for peace, the great things of faith hope and charity on which all agree. Ignorance, Prejudice and Bigotry are an evil brood and more and more as true religion progresses must give place to Knowledge and Justice and Tolerance. In essentials let there be unity, in non-essentials, liberty, and in all things charity. We are fellow-travellers on a short journey. We cannot afford to fall out by the way.
