Visit to a Local Fruit Ranch

From time immemorial the tiller of the soil has been honored, especially the man who goes into the virgin forest and carves out a home for himself, thus although destroying the beauty that nature has so bountifully bestowed to the woods, hews out the trail that marks the forerunner to modern civilization. The man who thus employs his days may not always be honored by his fellow man by being promoted to the high positions in the state, but he is none the less respected and gives to his country a heritage both noble and true. He has also the satisfaction of knowing that history has honored his fellow-coworker and called him from the plow to help govern the state. The free independent life of the tiller of the soil has its many rewards, as well as the other occupations of life.

Two years ago fifty acres were purchased on the outskirts of Abbotsford and in March the first tree was fallen on what is now one of the finest small fruit ranches surrounding this prosperous burg of ours. To-day we find some 600 fruit trees two and four years old planted and in healthy condition This year 8,400 nursery stock was set out. Next year it is the intention to set out about 120 three year old trees, 100 two year old The ground is ready.

Out of the fifty acres there are are about fifteen acres under cultivation and some eight acres in pasture. Of the amount planted out there is one acre of those delicious strawberries which have made many parts of B. C. famous. There is also about 150 blackberry canes and 100 gooseberries, besides 1200 raspberries.

The owner has not neglected to add to his possessions a chicken run in which over 100 chickens of the very best kind have freedom to wander at their own sweet will The clover grown some five or six acres would be hard to beat anywhere in the Fraser Valley.

The above brief description of Mr. David Nelson's farm is given for two reasons—to demonstrate what can be done in the short time of two years by a man with limited capital at his command for the starting in the fruit business, and also to show that thehighland surrounding Abbotsford is adapted for fruitgrowing. Mr Nelson has gone into the business with enthusiasm and energy, and from now on will year by year reap the reward of his labors.

When a representative of the Post visited Mr. Nelson on Thursday last he was busily engaged in his packing house preparing his strawberries for shipment to Vancouver wher ehe has found a market for all his fruit. The pickers were silently engaged in picking the ripe and luscious fruit. The previous day some 24 crates had been shipped. He stated that he had no difficulty in marketing his fruit and so great did he find the demand that he was not in a position to meet that demand.

When Mr. Nelson purchased his land he paid some $50 per acre for it This year some adjoining land cleared and in fruit was sold for $300 per acre.

Mr. Nelson secured his stock of young fruit trees from the upper country and claims that they are much better than he could have secured at the coast. They are perfectly free from all disease and in a healthy condition to all appearances.

There is plenty of land in the district for others to demonstrate again what Mr. Nelson has done and in years to come no doubt the whole of the surrounding highland will present a picture of happy homes, where the owners will derive their means of livelihood by growing fruits and shipping to the ever increasing market for B. C. fruit.

DELIGHTED WITH B. C.

Mr. A. M. Ross formerly of Murray River, P. E. I., is visiting his old friend Mr. J. J. McPhee. Needless to say he is delighted with the little railroad town. In conversation with a reporter of this paper, Mr. Ross said that as soon as he arrived in Calgary, the two B. C. towns spoken most about as he travelled west were Abbotsford and Vancouver. He said this without cracking a smile.

BIG COAL EXCITEMENT

In the making of a new town in the west there are times when excitement runs high, and it is the fellow who gets in on the ground floor that has a chance of making a stake, although he often does not do so.

For many years if has been believed that there was coal in the Sumas mountain, but thematter of late years had never been thoroughly gone into until a week or so ago.

——o——

Mr. W. A. McCallum returned to town on Tuesday morning.

REACHING ABBOTSFORD

In the course of a week or so the B. C. E. R. will have the poles as far as Abbotsford. They are now between Clayburn and Abbotsford busily pushing the line along. The poles were this week being laid on the ground within the city limits. A switch is being put into the gravel pit and when completed the steam shovel will be put to work to excavate for the new station which they intend to put in.

——o——

SIDEWALKS NEXT WEEK.

Next week it is expected that the provincial government will be in a position to start the sidewalks in Abbotsford along Essendene Avenue. It is rumored that both sides of the street will have sidewalks, no partiality being shown.

——o——

THE CLAYBURN ROAD

The government work on Clayburn road is going along nicely. It appears that this is a very difficult piece of work and the progess is therefore slow. A good job is is being made and will when completed be a credit to the district.

A NEW SUB-DIVISION

Early next month the first subdivision for the district will be placed on the market by the Provincial Investment company of B. C. Some 700 acres have been subdivided into ten and twenty acre blocks. The C. P. R. and the B. C. E. R. run through the centre of the property. Arrangements have been almost completed for the placing of an electric car station on the property. The officials made a trip from New Westminster a few days ago for that purpose. Each ten and twenty acre block has high and low land and is well supplied with water. A proper and approved scheme of drainage has been arranged for each of the subdivisions Such an arrangement of land permits the settler to carry on two classes of agriculture that adapted to the high land and that adapted to the low land; and also gives him a good healthy situation for his buildings, and where he will have natural drainage.

When placed on the market the blocks of land should be easy to dispose of as it is understood the terms are very reasonable.

PEARDONVILLE NOTES.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Boost for Peardonville, and you will be boosting for something that has a genuine ring about it.

Some young ladies think walking preferable to riding in touring automobiles especially when gasoline is scarce.

Abbotsford was well represented in Peardonville last Friday with three of her most prominent men, Messrs Blair, McPhee and Cruickshanks.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner lost their house by fire some time ago.

Our school was suddenly closed on account of our teacher getting married.

Mr. Ivan Gardner and Miss Winnie MacRury were united in marriage on the 21st of last month and are living in Sedro-Wooley.

Little John Falkiner put his arm out of joint again.

The doctor seems to be in great demand in this vicinity lately.

Peardonville livery stable is closed, that is the reason the girls did not get to the last dance.

As usual the dance in Peardonville Hall last Saturday evening was a grand success.

Anybody caught riding other people's horses will be prosecuted according to law.

Peardonville is sadly in need of an ordained minister.

Mr. Groves of Peardonville has just returned from Vancouver from visiting friends.

Mrs. H. Llewellyn of Vancouver is spending a few days with her parents.

We all intend to celebrate a jolly first of July with Mt Lehman. We are assured of a pleasant time as over there they can make a good fellow feel at home.

We all wish the Post success.

——o——

Miss Crawford has resigned her position as principal of our school same to take effect at the close of the summer holidays. Miss Crawford has made many friends during the two years she has been in Abbotsford among the children and parents, who will be sorry to see her leave.

Mr. J. J. McPhee is one of the men that is supplying Abbotsford with city grown strawberries. It looks well to see a real estate agent engaged in fruit growing. It should be the means of selling a lot of the fruit land he has listed at his office, the Western Realty Company. Practical demonstration counts for much these days, and an intending purchaser neeeds only to be shown what can be done with time and patience to get results Mr. McPhee has created for himself a home market and is therefore able to lay aside the ordinary anxieties of the shipper to outside points.

FRIDAY, JUNE 10, 1910

Abbotsford needs a public library and reading room. How is it to be gotten is the question that presents itself to all. It will no doubt be easy to secure the travelling library from the provincial government at Victoria, but when this is gotten the work is only begun and the "long felt want" onpartly filled There are the papers and the magazines, which are always acceptable and form a very necessary part of any reading room. How are these to be gotten We would say by individuals donating one or more of these.

—o—

Suggestions as to the best way of having a good reading room and library will be thankfully received by the Post.

—o—

In speaking of public libraries it has often suggested itself to us that here is a work which the churches united could very well look after should they feel so inclined to do so. Yet so far as we know it is neglected and not looked upon as a duty by those in best position to do so and carry on the work successfully By the united co-operation of the churches in this matter, many a young man away from home would have cause to thank those who took the matter inhand.

—o—

The high school teachers have organized and possibly the very next we hear there will be a general strike if the children don't behave. They should have organized many years ago. There should be enough ability in the profession to make one of the very strongest organizations in existence. But will they ever do it?

—o—

An Everett man, in an interview with the Herald, advocated concerted action against tent caterpillars. It is almost toolate for such a warfare for the insects are beginning to scatter. But such a campaign must be undertaken eventually if fruit and shade trees are to be saved. Hundreds of the nests have this year been destroyed in many little orchards in the city. Last evening it was noted that a number of apple trees, which had not received proper care there were at least twenty-five caterpillar nests, and the trees had suffered severely. Spraying trees with a chemical poisonous to the worms but harmless to trees and the fruit is recommended as the easiest way of protecting them but how to get at the root of the evil—to destroy the caterpillars in their haunts, the alder groves and thickets, is another matter. Something must be done if not this year, then next year. There must be organized action to free vacant lots of the pest. If it can't be done any other way it might be a good idea to make each property owner responsible for his own land If he does not eliminate the pest from his own property it should be done at public expense and the cost assessed to him.—Herald.

LE ROI EST MORT

—o—

The following poem appearing in the Victoria "Week" is the work of an obscure B. C. poet, but has been greatly admired by the highest authorities as an Empire poem superior to anything which the mournful occurrence of the King's death has called forth;

Purple and black. Death's ghastly panoply,
Like the dull shadows of the falling night,
Surround us in the silent majesty
What man so thoughtless and what heart so light
But feels the touch of gloom? Far overhead
The flags fly half-mast high, mute signs that show
An Empire mourns, mourns that her king is dead.
Why is her heart so sad, her step more slow?
Because beneath the trappings of the State,
The crimson and the ermine and the gold.
No puppet moved, but a true king so great
He needed neither crown nor crimson fold
To mark him as the king. But not for this
Doth she revere his memory. 'Tis not awe.
That draws her to the bier to humbly kiss
The cold dead hand that well upheld the law
And toiled obedient to thepeople's will.
Not awe, but love. Love for the kindly heart
That stirred with pity at the sight of ill;
Love for honesty that scorned the part
Of canting hypocrite, but stood four square.
Before the world; love for his manly soul;
Love for the courage that would calmly dae
To do his duty, though the death knell toll;
Love for the tact that mended what was torn;
Love for his smile, his tears when all is said.
Love for the man himself. So let us mourn
With black and purple, for the King is dead.

Mr. A. Johnson's house in the east end is rapidly assuming the appearance of being a most handsome residence.

—o—

Some real estate agents resort to strenuous methods to keep on the good work. If you don't believe us keep your eye on Jim Nelson when he goes to the office for inspiration.

—o—

It is generally rumored that the Abbotsford Creamery will add to the staff next Wednesday.

—o—

Messrs F. Johnston and Tom Freeman of New Westminster were in town this week.

THE CHURCH, THE SCHOOL, THE HOME.

A happy home is one of the pretiest sights on earth. Each member of the home ought to bear his share in promoting its happiness Prosperous homes are secured by hearty co-operation of i s members In a new land much patience is needed in building up a home. The chief enemies of the home are impatience, idleness, extravagance, debt, intoxication, and love of a change.

——o——

The public school well conducted is a promoter of intelligence and happiness. Parents can do much to encourage or discourage teachers in their arduous labors by the care they exercise in sending their children to school.

——o——

The church is the foundation of the moral and religious life of the community and its best friend. It encourages all that is best, in society and helps to attain it. It frowns upon and scatters the evil habits that disintegrate and destroy society, that injure family life and hinder the individual making themost of himself. It greatly helps to make a place worth living in. It purifies the atmosphere and brings hope and joy into men's lives. Every earnest lover of his fellows will seek to promote the success of our schools, our homes and our churches.

——o——

The British Columbian has the following interesting note; "The Federal Government has passed an amendment which makes the Canada Temperance Act apply to B. C. What the temperance people could not get from the provincial government they have now obtained from Ottawa and will shortly decide which cities, towns and districts will make the first test."

——o——

Church union is being discussed in the annual gatherings of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches, and the prospects are bright for union of the Congregational Methodist and Presbyterian churches in the near future. It is specially felt in view of the great increase of our population and the scarcity of ministers in the western parts of the dominion that it is a false and foolish policy for these churches to be overlapping in their work and each sending a man into a field where one could overtake the work and neglecting places where no man is and where he is needed so much.

The over supply of potatoes was still in evidence at the market on Friday last at New Westminster and while the price did not lower any from that of last week the demand was sluggish and many tubers were left unsold. All lines of produce was well represented and found ready sale at quotations and displayed a slight tendency to lower and sold at the close of noted was in fowl which showed the market at from $1 to $2 below last week's quotations. There were The only material change in price many farmers from the district present but the majority only stayed a short time and left to see the the circus parade.

Meats of all kinds were present in fair quantities. Beef sold readily with fair supply. Lamb and mutton were comparatively plentiful and the price except for very prime meat dropped from one to two cents per pound from the former high level. Veal and pork maintained their level of last week and were in fairly good demand.

There was no change in the price of eggs which seem to have found their level for the present and are selling at 30 cents wholesale and 35 cents retail. Fowl was present in large quantities and sold readily. Young broilers were more plentiful than last week and were larger and better and the price advanced to from $9 to $10 per dozen Chickens were fairly plentiful and the price reduced from $1 to $2 per dozen.

Stephen Yarwood is receiving a great many inquiries from people all over the country in regard to this part of the country. He expects a number of people whom he has been corresponding with to arrive here soon. Mr. Yarwood is doing more than any one else here to turn some of the tide of immigration to the vicinity of Sumas He is fully satisfied that that Sumas offers better advantages and more for the money than any place he has been in before. He is located here to stay; has a large list of property listed and is going at the real estate business in the only practical way, with the understanding that it is a business that takes perseverance to win.—News

Judgement has just been given in the appeal of a case which aroused more than passing interest when it was tried about a year ago. The judgment given by Mr. Justice Irving in the case of McDonald vs. the V. V. & E. has been sustained by Hon. Justices Gallagher, Martin and Macdonald, who have handed down their decision in Victoria. Mr. A. H. McNeill of Vancouver acted for the railway company and Mr. G. E. Martin for the plaintiff.

Mr. Philip McDonald owns a hotel in Huntingdon and when the V. V. & E. surveyed its line thro' the town the right of way took in the yard of the hotel and part the building. The company wished to get in on the cheap and it would have avoided expropriating the building and yard by only using part of the right of way and that is what it has been doing up to the present time. McDonald entered suit against the company for the full value of the land and buildings on the right of way and whenthe case first came up for trial before Mr. Justice Irving his contention was upheld and the rail way was ordered to expropriate the full width of its right of way The case was appealed by the company and the judgment of Mr. Justice Irving is sustained.
