Communications Received

From the General Superintendent of the B. C. E. R. stating that they were willing to permit a crossing at the north boundary of the N. W. 1-4 of Section 22, Township 16 without a formal order from the Minister of Railways and that they would plank the track, put in the cattle guards and necessary grading and provide for the present drainage together with the necessary culverts to be put in. The clerk was instructed to reply that the council is willing to do the grading necessary up to their right-of-way.

Also, stating that the matter of the deepening of the culverts and of the improvements asked for at the Riverside road crossing will receive their attention.

From Royal Columbian Hospital, advising that Mrs. H. Rigg of Rand, Frank Taylor of Clayburn and Albert Patterson of Mt. Lehman had been admitted therein as patients.

ABBOTSFORD'S BIG DAY

Abbotsford will this evening end the second annual May Day celebration by an entertainment in the Alexandria Hall by the children and their friends and it is expecteed that there will be a crowded house.

Th dawn of day gladdened many a little heart in and around Abbotsford for it bespoke an ideal May Day. The day is all that could be desired and there are hundreds of visitors in town from outside points, all enjoying themselves to the fullest extent. And why should they not as there is no place better for a right good holiday than Abbotsford.

A full report will appear in our next issue.

If we gave a nice report in this issue, holding the paper over to do so it would give our Pro-German editor of the Whatcom County joke sheet copy for his next issue without effort. You remember how hee grabbed it last year.

HAZEL STREET CROSSING

On Monday Surveyor Taylor was busy surveying for the much talked of Hazel Street crossing.

The Railway commission will shortly sit in Vancouver when the question of a crossing over the C. P. R. and B. C. E. R. on Hazel street will be brought before the commission by the provincial government.

This question has been discussed by this paper on several occasions and the general opinion of the people is that the crossing is a necessity.

JOHN CARLSON DIES INSTANTLY

On Monday last as John Carlson was driving home from Abbotsford to his home on Matsqui Prairie, his horses probably becoming frightened at something alongside the road, started to run away, and the driver Mr. Jno. Carlson was thrown out and instantly killed. It was probably only about five minutes from the time he was thrown out until he was picked up. Medical aid was summoned, but the spark of life had gone.

He was buried at Hatzic on Wednesday.

The deceased was a wealthy farmer of Matsqui and highly thought of by neighbors and friends.

From S. A. Cawley, M. L. A., stating that he was taking up with the Minister of Public Works the question of the loan of the rock-crusher now at the Colony Farm, and will communicate further after hearing the result of the application for its use. Filed.

From the Registrar of the County Court, stating that the Matsqui Road Tax By-law 1914, Amendment Bylaw 1915 had been duly registered. Filed

From the Columbian Company Ltd expressing regret that through lack of space they were unable to print the minutes of the council meetings more fully. Filed.

From McQuarrie, Martin, Cassidy & Macgowan, submitting copies of the judgments handed down by the Appeal Court Judges in Mackensoe vs. Surrey. In the lower court, Judge Clement, sitting without a jury, had awarded the plaintiff damages to the amount of $360 for personal injuries sustained in being thrown from his vehicle while crossing some puncheon which had become displaced on the Jerichi road, a by-road which had been built by the early settlers and which had been allowed to become in dis-repair. The Court of appeals unanimously reserved the decision of the trial Judge, holding that the municipal council was not guilty of misfeasance but of non-feasance only. Filed.

From Robert Butler, applying for permission to erect a telephone line for his own use from the N. W. corner of the N. W. 1-4 of section 2, township 13 to connect with the Farmers' Line to Lynden.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. William McNab, a baby girl.

Mr. Ted Barrett was a visitor in Vancouver on Thursday.

The Misses Annie anl Selma Nelson returned home from a visit to Victoria on Tueslay.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvine of Vancouver were week end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mains.

The Rev. J. C. Alder will occupy the Presbyterian pulpit at both services on Sunday next.

Mr. Charles Bell is building a new garage on the hillside. He will always be able to get a good start.

Mr. John McCallum of Vancouver was a week end visitor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. McCallum.

Miss Edna McMaster, telephone operatr is back gain at her duties having recovered from her recent indisposition.

The Rev. Mr. Campbell and Mrs. Campbell left on Friday for their trip to the Eastern cities. While away they will bid farewell to their son George who is about to leave Toronto as a member of the medical army service for the front.

The vestry meeting of the St. Matthews Church was held on Monday evening. The Rev. Mr. Yates intended being home from Calgary in time for the meeting but his trip has been unavoidably delayed. He is expected home next week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Salt returned home from their wedding trip on Sunday to reside in Abbotsford, where Mr. Salt is attached to the staff of the Canadian Customs. The following evening many of the friends of the couple, visited their home and gave them a royal welcome in honor of the event.

Four members of the B. C. Horse P. D. McLagan, W. Wells, John Fraser and J Gordon left here on Tuesday for New Westminster where they took part in the military parade in conection with the great annual May demonstration held in the Royal City next day.

"The Soul of a Nation" was the appropriate and profound theme of a brilliant address given by the Rev. Principal McKay here last Friday evening in the presence of a crowded auditory. Terse and piquant references to the war and its significance to the civilized world, whose nations like individuals at times convincingly prove they have souls, formed part of a very able, academic address. The lecture was given in the Presbyteriaon church.

Miss Forester has returned home from Vancouver and has resumed her duties with Messrs James Ross & Co.

AMERICAN EDITOR MAY BE ARRESTED

There is an undercurrent feeling that the editor of a certain American paper may be arrested one of these days on account of his Pro-German articles, when he appears on Canadian soil. He says he's Irish but don't believe it—however there might be a little Irish in him on occasions However he can rest assured that the board at Vernon is said to be good.

SUNDAY SPORTS

Whether sports should be allowed to be played on the school grounds on Sundays has been a topic discussed for some considerable time past. A short time ago when the school trustees passed a resolution prohibiting the use of the schoolgrounds for sports on the Sabbath. Now it is announced that a meeting of ratepayers will be held in the Alexandria Hall on May 15 when the school trustees will invite the citizens to express their opinion on the wisdom or unwisdom of the resolution passed

INTERESTING SOCIAL

A very interesting and enjoyable May Day social was held at the residence of Mrs. J. F. Boyd on Saturday afternoon and evening when there was a large and representative gathering of townspeople present to enjoy the social attractions provided An unique feature of the social was the refreshments which were served in dainty May baskets. Twelve dollars were realized in aid of church funds.

RATEPAYERS' MEETING

A meeting of ratepayers of Abbotsford townsite will be held in the Alexandria Hall on Saturday evening when various municipal matters, including the incorporation proposals, will come up for further discussion.

DYKING COMMISSIONERS MEET

Sumas Prairie Dyking Commissioners met at Whatcom Hall on Wednesday evening. It is said to have been a private meeting to grant an extension of time to the Rice Co. According to current talk many of the landowners are against any extension being made as the scheme proposed is not popular More feasible plans are it is said, ready to be put forward by Mr. F. N. Sinclair, of New Westminster, once there is a favorable opportuity for these being placed before the commissioners.

Sons and Sires

When that thin khaki line doubled on itself and the Canadian soldiers stood back to back, so that they might face the foe encircling them, they performed deeds of valour which will lead posterity to link them up with the "thin red line" of the Crimea, which Kingslake has immortalized in his great history, writes the editor of the Victoria Week. Then it was the sires who refused to be broken by the overwhelming masses of Russian troops. Now it is the sons, who with the same indomitable spirit and at the point of the bayonet have driven back the Prussian hordes, who thought they had snatched a victory from unseasoned troops. The Canadians, although beset with deadly shrapnel, and asphyxiating gas, refused to retreat. They took their last stand, and prepared to yield the last life in defence of the Empire, and when it seemed that their sacrifice would be accepted, relief came, and a battered remnant struggled from the "jaws of death", as their fathers had struggled in many a conflict for the same principles, and for the undying honour of their country and their Empire. Of Sons and Sires it may with equal cogency be asked: "When shall their glory fade?" They have solved a problem which for the British-born needed no solution, and in doing so, have demonstrated to the world that the Empire over which the Union Jack floats does in reality consist of congeries of nations with one heart and one soul. The glory of the action which for Canadians in particular has consecrated the soil of Flanders, opens the way to the great heart of the Motherland, brings us all home, and gives us for the first time in this war and the first time in history, an equal place with those whose deeds have won the Empire.

AN ADVERTISING AGENCY OR A MANUFACTURER'S ENTERPRISE

A committee of the Canadian Manufacturer's Association is endeavoring to raise money to advertise Made-in-Canada goods. In theory the proposal is excellent but in practice is it really wise? Most Canadian manufacturers take a pride in their products, put their names on them and turn out something that is equal to and in not a few cases superior to anything of the kind produced in the world. On the other hand there are some Canadian manufacturers who unfortunately think their own interests are best served by making the cheapest and most inferior article they can force upon the buying public. They think a slightly better immediate profit better than building up a reputation for high-grade goods. These experiences and the exposures in connection with inferior qualities supplied to all war orders show that there are some Canadian manufacturers who ought to be behind the prison bars as the Premier suggests.

Even members of the committee recognize this weakness. Only the other day one of them placed an order amounting to several thousand dollars with a United States firm though the same products are made by another member of the association in a nearby town. The first manufacturer would much prefer to buy Canadian make but he knows from costly experience that his neighbor is too indifferent to take pains and turn out a satisfactory quality.

A general campaign of advertising Made-in-Canada goods would be paid for largely by the firms who are making high-grade goods, while the benefit of such a general campaign would be derived chiefly by the men who are trading on Made-in-Canada reputation and producing inferior goods to sell at slightly lower rates.

The committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association would be far better occupied and could be more real good for Canadian manufacturers if they were to devote their energies to improving the quality—by moral and other influences—of the goods produced by the scoundrels who would injure the good name of the reputable Canadian manufacturers.

Canadian manufacturers who produce an article of which they are proud, behind which they will stand, should let the public know of it. They should advertise it extensively over their own names and not pay and be sponsors for the firms who have no care for their own or our national reputation. On the other hand the newspapers should, as far as possible, refuse to insert advertising of any but satisfactorily made products and by their editorial policy make it unprofitable for the chronically disreputable manufacturers to stay in business.

A RED CROSS APPEAL TO THE FARMERS

Our country with its Allies, is waging a great war for justice, for the protection of small nations in the enjoyment of their rights, for continued and growing freedom, and for the maintenance of its pledged word of honor. Much destruction and desolation are being caused. Lives are being lost by the thousand. Canada's first contingent is now in the thick of it. Some will fall sick; many may be wounded; some will pay the last full measure of devotion to their country and its cause.

The Red Cross Society exists to succor the sick and wounded in war. The need of Red Cross service is great and growing greater as the war goes on. The price of progress towards everlasting peace is very, very dear. It cost lives, homes, health and much besides. Canada's part in the process of payment, through giving for Red Cross work, is mercifully light and easy, even when all have given to the extent of really feeling it.

The soldiers and sailors pay the price extracted by desolating struggle from week to week. What they paid in blood and did in sacrifice a month ago was not enough for them. Shall we say it was enough for us? What they are doing and suffering and achieving have put aside, for the time, all their thoughts and plans for individual welfare, comfort and safety. They don't hesitate to establish precedents. But they are precedents of heroic sacrifice for our country and its cause, for our principles and ideals that they may be upheld.

Farmers, individually as well as through their institutes, clubs and cheese and butter factories, are in a position to help very greatly. Their business does not suffer from the war. Prices of nearly all farm products have gone up. While labor is scarce there is time to think of the boys at the front and to send the Red Cross Society a gift to be spent for the sick and wounded.

Farmers are generous in sentiment and generous in giving when their hearts and heads point the way This is a case where they do so clearly, persuasively and urgently. In this crisis, in the lives of nations and in the lives of stricken soldiers, none can pray too much, do too much or give too much.

I appeal to farmers to send me sums from $1 to $50, during the first week in May. Every $50 provides one additional hospital bed with the giver's name over it. By sending me about $10,000.00, you would serve your country well, bring credit to yourselves, and make all of us very proud of you. For the sake of the wounded boys, make the gift substantial. It will be an investment towards the recovery of some Canadian soldies who stood in our stead that our cause might be upheld.

Faithfully your friend
JAS.W.ROBERTSON,
Chairman,
Red Cross Society at Ottawa.

AIRCRAFT AND THE PART THEY PLAY IN THE WAR

The March number of the United Empire has just come to hand and among many very interesting editorials on the war situation is one on the part of the air craft of the various nations is playing in this great struggle. The following is an article which we believe will of interest to our readers:

"One of the surprises of the war has been the success of British aircraft. There was a general impression that, as a nation, we were behind both the French and the Germans in this department, which had not, apparently enjoyed so large a share of government support as it deserved. Probably very few outside a small body of experts realized the possiblities of aircraft in modern war fare; but whereas the Germans placed great reliance on huge dirigibles, capable of carrying and dicharging shells enough to wreck a city, experience seems to show that this type of airship is comparatively useless. The dropping of bombs on a few undefended towns in Norfolk, and half a doz en other equally inglorious and futile episodes, hardly seem justification for the energy and expenditure necessary for the building of the much vaunted fleet of Zeppelins. The fact that these big air vessels were, with few exceptions, only launched in good weather during peace times, rather obscured their dependence on meteoroligical conditions. The recent fate of three of them, wrecked on the Danish coast and in the Adriatic, shows that they are chiefly fair-weather craft, and one is said to become unmanageable owing to the weight of snow deposited on her upper surface These accidents bring the total Zeppelin losses since war began to four with a possible fifth. In practice it appears that the large airship must fly too low, and therefore presents too easy a target for air-guns to be an effective war weapon. On the other hand, the mono-and bi-plane types have been invaluable for reconnaissance purposes, and probably this scouting duty will remain their most useful functions. Here and there a lucky shot by a daring airman may damage some enemy property which is of value, and is otherwise inaccessible, and where massed attack is possible, as in the case of the raids on enemy coast-line (first by thirty-six British aeroplanes, and then by forty, supported by eight French) the damage should be considerable. The British aviators have every reason to be proud of these two concerted actions, the first of their kind in the history and carried out with the loss of only three pilots. An even more striking sight, not alluded to (for obvious reasons) in the press at the time was the departure of a much larger number of military air-craft to France (where all arrived safely) the imagination was stirred by the thought that man has at last accomplished the conquest of the air. The strict embargo placed on any spectacular flying by the members of the military and naval flying corps prevented the public from realizing their existence, but since the war broke out they have far surpassed the expectations of their friends, and have administered some sharp surprises to the enemy."

RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS TO ARRIVE AT COAST SOON

The solicitor to the City of Vancouver has received a communication to the effect that the Dominion Government Railway Commisison cannot reach the Coast before May 21, as there is a large docket of cases for the attention of the Board at Edmonton, and which has delayed the scheddle.

"Church Work in Northern Canada" was the title of the very excellent address given by the Rev. J. Wilson, of Vancouver in the church here on Wednesday evening. A collection was taken in aid of the church building fund.

Those Who Stay at Home Should Be Busy

In time of war, prepare for continued war is equally good advice as the old saying "In time of peace prepare for war" Now that the Empire is very much at war and will undoubtedly be so occupied for a long time it remains for those of us who cannot go to the front to do all in our power to assist in this Empire struggle, assist for the providing for the maintenance of those who play the Empire's part on the battlefield.

We can do much, Our fighting force is dependent entirely on those engaged in productive enterprises, those tilling the soil, operating the mines and factories and allied work. Deprive our armies and navies of food for ten days and what would become of the Empire? If our army and navy was deprived of ammunition for two days we could look into the future of darkness and depression. The Empire must live. It will be the application of human energy properly directed, in every home throughout the Empire that will sustain the great structure and make our armies strong enough well provisioned and su.ciently equipped to win. Every citizen of the Empire that can make two ears of corn grow where only one grew before, or better still can make grains grow where grains never grew before, will be doing a real service to the Empire. It is within the reach of everyone to do something. The industrious laborer spending his spare moments in the cultivation of his own garden lot is doing something to increase the world supply of the first necessity to sustain his life. Every pound of edible grain, vegetables, fruits, milk or meats that is produced by the man of small means will do its part in sustaining life and make possible a greater quantity of food stuffs for export Every pound that we can export means money to keep the machinery of business moving at home. Every foot of land that is made productive will help to swell the stream of export. Some may think that the small areas will not count, but all big things are made up of small parts the vacant lots and neglected gardens of our cities, towns and villages would produce, if well tilled, sufficient vegetables to feed the entire population, leaving for export the product of the larger areas to the Empire centers of distribution

The people of British Columbia have done well in response to the patriotism and production call, for this season, greater areas are planted to food producing plants and greater efforts are being expended toward the increase of animal products than ever before. But there is still an opportunity for greater increase; many small areas are lying idle, someone should make an effort, that all tillable lands should be productive this year, and failing that, through unpreparedness of the land, then provision for soil preparation can not begin too soon this season.

The Empire struggle may be a long one, greater demands will be made next year than this, more food stuffs will be demanded by the Motherland and the Allies than ever, this year, next year and for years to come. Canada's prosperity after the war will depend upon the exportable quantities of soil products or their derivatives.

What can the Fraser Valley do if her people were to make a big effort such as the Empire needs at the present time? The cleared lands of this Valley are capable of producing sufficient in grains, fruits and vegetables and animal products to provide for the needs of her people and leave a big surplus for export. Why must our coast cities import grains, meats, dairy products and fruits from distant parts, to supply the wants of her people? Why is it necessary to bring grain from the East and West? Why bring butter from New Zealand and eggs from China, and fruits from the United States, when we have the soil, the climate, the tools and the muscle to produce them here at home? All we need to do is just to exercise the muscle and do it. By doing so one performs an Empire service. The Motherland needs the food, our own organizations and factories need the money.

THE FARMERS AND THE RED CROSS SOCIETY

We publish today a second appeal on behalf of the Red Cross Society, by Dr. James W. Robertson.

Dr. Robertson is still best known to the farmers of Canada as Professor Robertson. He began his official public service at the Ontario Agricultural College nearly thirty years ago.

Twenty five years ago he went to Ottawa as Dairy Commissioner for the Dominion. The Dairying Service of the Department of Agriculture soon became known and trusted throughout Canala. From Prince Edward Island to Alberta, farmers profited by the Illustration Dairy Stations and the Travelling Instructors. The output of cheese and butter in Canada added to the reputation of its rural workers.

Other public services of continuing and growing value were inaugurated, while Professor Robertson was Commissioner of Agriculture. Among them were the Live Stock and Storage Branches, the Cold Storage Service, the Seed Grain Competitions, Trial Shipments of Fruit to the United Kingdom, and Extensions of markets.
