A Wonderful Discovery.

Histories of large trees.

IN THE BOUNDARY DIS-

A TAMARAC STUMP INTERVEIW ED.

The Editor discovered how to read the history of a tree by examining its stump. The tree discribed was a tam arac that grew below the smelter.

This tree was 350 years old, 38 inches in diameter. This tree began its life in 1551. In the year 1641 forest fire caught this tree. It was then 90 years old it made a bad wound and it never got well. The bark curved in and filled up the hole. For 160 years it got on well, and then the times grew hard for it. It grew less and less each year until it died 380 years old, and a monark of the forest.

To be continued in the next number.

A SAD CCCIRASCE.

ATTARLOST.

Mrs. Keffer's Sunday dinner, in the orm of a large rooster, ran away on Friday morning. The lucky finder will please refur him to our house. Feward 50 cents.

ABOUT TOWN.

The tennis tonenament was closed on Saturday. Mrs. Kirby and Mr. Gray won the loubles, Miss Tompson the ladies' single and Nr. Custance the gentlemens single.

Another furnace will be in operation at the smelter in about four months.

Owing to the trouble at the Trail smelter the ore from the B.C. mine will be shipped to the B.C. Copper Co's smelter. It will be about 100 tons per day. The first shipment is now being unloaded at the smelter.
