The Catholic Mission.

On Sunday last Father Allard christened fourteen of the Indian children in camp, the service taking nearly three hours. Mr. Larry O'Connor stood as godfather and Mrs. J. Tallaire as god mother.

All these children are attending the Roman Catholic Mission and Home established by the Father some time ago. There a very earnest endeavor is being made by him to instil into the youthful mind the consolation and the help of a religious teaching, the necessity and advantage of an education and the virtues of cleanliness and discipline.

Very few people realize the enormity of the work Father Allard has taken upon himself. The instruction from the bible, the school book, and the supervision of the general welfare of the flock, fills out a round of duties that makes the day all too short. There is a possibility of government assistance being given to this deserving institution.

Bear in mind the Public Meeting to be held in Discovery, on Monday evening, at 8.30. Hon. Dr. H. B. Young will address his constituents.

The Public Schools of Atlin and Discovery will open on Monday, August 26th.

Mrs. H. Emes arrived in Atlin on Friday's boat to take a position on the nursing staff of St. Andrew's hospital.

Miss A. L. Sterling and Miss G. Pineo, two teachers for the public schools at Discovery and Atlin, arrived in Atlin on Friday's boat.

A. B. Taylor, of the Dominion government telegraph service, intends leaving Tuesday for a few week's visit to his family in Victoria.

Malcolm Robert James Reid, late principal of the Atlin public school, has received an appointment on the teaching staff of the Vancouver public schools. His many friends in the district will be glad to hear of his good fortune.

The climate of this district is all that could be desired, and the soil is rich and productive. Nat. Wheeling has raised luscious strawberries and currants this summer, and Charlie Bourne's new 'spuds' can't be beaten.

The sportsmen who went to the head of the lake during the week enjoyed a fine outing. It being the close season they could do no shooting at game. It is reported that Charlie Cole, allowed them to hunt the ducks on his lake, which he has domesticated.

Mrs. James Haslett and family left Atlin last Tuesday for Staggway. A great many friends were at the wharf to wish them 'good-bye,' some going over on the Scotia to Taku. Atlin has suffered a severe loss in the departure of this very popular lady and her estimable family.

On the evening of Labor Day, September 2nd, the employees on the A. C. M. Co.'s steam shovel and workings on Tar Flat, intend giving a Social Dance, in the A. B. hall, Discovery. The proceeds of the evening will be devoted to that very worthy institution St. Andrew's hospital.

Mr. James Lipscombe, president of the local tourist association, went out to Cariboo last Tuesday for a short trip. Incidentally, of course, if there are any tourists or visitors, or intending settlers coming into the district, Mr. James will see to it that everything is made agreeable for them so that they may have an favorable impression of our camp at the introduction. The association is to be congratulated upon having such an efficient and agreeable officer. He returned Friday.

It has just been discovered that a package of currency containing $500,000, which was shipped from a Denver bank to a bank in Chicago, has been stolen between Denver and some Nebraska point. The package has been missing for over a week and there is no clue.

The physicians of Seattle are urging that a campaign to exterminate rats be commenced at once, to protect the city from a visitation of the bubonic plague from San Francisco. Advices from San Francisco are to the effect that the plague is spreading there.

In his address to the people of Providencetown, Mass., on the occasion of the anniversary of the Pilgrims, recently, President Roosevelt declared that there would be no cessation in the fight against the trusts; he maintained that the declines in stocks on Wall street were due to the efforts made by the trusts to discredit the administration. Malefactors and wealth combined, he asserted, were what brought hard times, and it was idle to ask the administration to refrain from punishing criminals, whether rich or poor.

The Douglas Island News quotes the Cordova Alaskan as saying: "There being no reptiles in Alaska how can a man get snakes in his boots? The nearest approach that has been heard of was when the editor of the Whitehorse Star got ice-worms in his muckluks." We can hear that to a standstill in the Atlin district. At Taku there is a man who has two snakes in a bottle. He affirms that they are snakes although they were, in the first place, only horsehairs. When he made the statement a jocular friend remarked: "Well, that's all right old man, but everybody knows that all the snakes in this country come in bottles." He may be right.

Farewell Hop.

The gathering in the Kootenay hall Friday evening, to mark the departure from the camp of Miss 'Nurse' Blyth, was a very jolly and enjoyable one. Dancing started about 9.30. There was a good attendance, some of those present remarking that it put them in mind of old time to see so many at a dance 'going in' for the fun of the evening with such a hearty good-will. Refreshments, and very nice and daintily they were, were served about midnight; then 'on with the dance.'

During Miss Blyth's stay in Atlin she has made many many friends, both by her own personality and her devotion to her profession, which is one of the noblest and most self-sacrificing callings of women. Her friends are sorry to lose her, and wherever she goes the good wishes of the camp will follow her.

To The Miners—and others.

We do not wish to create a stampede, in fact, we do not think the people of the district would take a mean advantage of what we say.

It's something like this: An old timer in the district, whom we believe to be very reliable, visited us yesterday. He spoke his mind very strongly, too strongly, too reproduce in print. This was the gist of his talk, however.

There has been a lot of jumping and other dirty work going on in the district. A great many people do not take much notice of it because they are not directly affected. But, let someone encroach upon their ground, then there is a howl and a vigorous protest. Say, for example, the ground has been jumped because the stakes were not exactly four inches square on the face. It is a technical point and the jumper wins his case. But, wait a moment, that ground was staked eight years ago and the stakes were four inches on the face at that time. Constant exposure to wind and weather for many seasons causes a shrinkage of the smallest fractional part of an inch. Should a man lose his title to the claim for such a reason? Is there any excuse or reason for jumping? If a man may lose his ground on such a count 'tis high time something was done to prevent a recurrence. Any reasonable person, any person indeed, who is not biased, prejudiced or who is not honorable, will agree upon this view of the matter.

Many people who stake claims do not do it exactly right, very often it is through ignorance or misunderstanding, yet they work the ground and there are no questions asked. The reason is: Their intentions are of the best, and no one questions their right to the ground.

Such a state of affairs continues so long as there are men, and men only, in the camp. When another brand, or breed, appears on the scene everything changes. Is it decent? Is it fair?

Figure it out for yourselves you miners—how many of you have staked your claims exactly 'according to Hoyle'? How many of you are at the mercy of one disposed to 'jump' your property?

Just at the present time there is a state of excitement in camp over the staking made on Wilson creek and a great many claims have been staked over there. Quite a few of the stakers never before measured off a claim or drove a stake.

We have been assured by two or three old miners, who, we think, know what they are talking about, that there are very few of the claims on Wilson creek staked exactly as the Act provides. We think it behooves one and all to see to it that they are hedged in on all sides and protected at every point against the cavaller who slink around like a band of coyotes watching a chance to snap up something. Sometimes the coyotes meet with summary justice.

We do not think those in authority would, for an instant, recognize these intruders on claims staked anywhere near what the regulation calls for, especially when the owner shows good intentions. It is as well, however, to be on the safe side so following is what the Act calls for, and we think all should note carefully the requirements, and see that you have complied with same.

"Every placer claim shall be as nearly as possible rectangular in form, and marked by four legal posts at the corners thereof, firmly fixed in the ground. On each of such posts shall be written the name of the locator, the number and date of issue of his free miner's certificate, the date of the location and the name given to the claim. In timbered localities all boundary lines of a placer claim shall be blazed so that the posts can be distinctly seen, and underbrush cut, and the locator shall also erect legal posts not more than 125 feet apart on all boundary lines. In localities where there is no timber or underbrush, monuments of earth or rock, not less than two feet high and two feet in diameter at the base, may be erected in lieu of the said last-mentioned legal posts, but not in the case of the four legal posts marking the corners of the claim." 1901, c. 38, s. 10.

A strict observance of the above will save the miner from a possible chance of annoyance and expense.

In passing we pause to remark that, a little 'muscular christianity' has been known to produce splendid results. Remember, this is just a remark, and may be taken for what it is worth.

"Legal Post."

"Legal post" shall mean a stake standing not less than four feet above the ground, and squared or faced on four sides for at least one foot from the top, and each side so squared or faced, such measure at least four feet in length so far as square or faced. Any stump or tree stump shall be cut or faced to the above height and size."

Richard McBride.

What T. P. O'Connor writes of Premier McBride and British Columbia.

There are few names higher in the world of contemporary and political journalism than that of T. P. O'Connor. His opinions and views, as spread broadcast, among the people through the medium of his various publications, are always read with interest. His remarks, therefore, published in a recent issue of "P.T.O.," concerning the Hon. Richard McBride and the province whose cause he has been so worthily upholding in the chief city of the British Empire, will be read with appreciation here. In describing the Canadian banquet in London, Mr. O'Connor says:

"I allude to this Canadian dinner because it brought home to me, even more than I realized already, what a tremendous heritage this Empire has in that country. The mind almost staggers before the gigantic possibilities of Canada's future. I sat next Mr. McBride, the prime minister of British Columbia. Here you have an excellent specimen of the provincial ruler of Canada. They build their men in those young countries—at least the men who get to the top—on large lines. Mr. McBride is, I should say, over six feet high. His face, still looking almost boyish in its freshness, with a strong jaw, fine dark eyes, the mobile mouth of the speaker and the politician, is surmounted by white hair, the one mark, perhaps, of the strenuous life through which he must have passed to have got so high at so early an age. It was when you found yourself face to face with embodied British Columbia like this that you begin to realize what a Canadian province means, and what are the duties and responsibilities of a provincial prime minister. Have you any idea of the extent of British Columbia? Well, here is what it is: I quote from Chamber's Gazetteer.

"Area, 383,300 square miles, or nearly four and a half times as big as England, Scotland and Wales. Of the total land area, say 250,000,000 acres, only 900,000 are as yet occupied.

"Climate.—On the coast mild, like the south coast of England. In the interior subject to great variations, but the winter is short.

"History.—A Crown colony in 1858, and in 1871 entered the Canadian Federation. One instance of rapid growth is furnished by the city of Vancouver. In 1881, it was forest; in 1891 there were 25,000 inhabitants.

The Latest Magazines— at C. R. Bourne's.

"Population.—About 250,000. In 1881, 49,459; in 1901, twenty years later, 190,000.

"Minerals are very plentiful."

MR. MCBRIDE'S MISSION.

"In this colony are some of the biggest mines in the world. There are boundless tracts of virgin forest. There are millions of acres calling out for the plows and the strong British arms behind them. And yet the population is only a quarter of a million. Mr. McBride is here in connection with the business of his colony. He and the Dominion government have been carrying on a very polite, but very resolute fight for years, as to the contribution of Mr. McBride's province to the expenses of the Dominion, and I should think that even the subtle and suave Sir Wilfrid Laurier—who I am told, conceals under his beautiful eighteenth century French exterior, a will of iron—I should think that even Sir Wilfrid would have all his work cut out for him to beat this British Columbian young giant with his will of iron also underneath an agreeable exterior. Perhaps I look on the struggle with some additional interest from the fact that Mr. McBride is the son of Ulster parents, and I recognize in him some of the sturdy qualities of that robust and self-assertive race."

Spruce Creek Murmurings.

A representative of the Western Federation of Miners visited the creek on Tuesday with a view of inducing the boys to help organize a branch of that union in this part of the world.

Judge Faulkner has resigned his position as head timberman for Mrs. Callaghan. It is rumoured she will be closing down in consequence.

Cox & Miller are once again running full blast, after a temporary shut down owing to the mine 'taking weight.'

Mrs. McLean has returned from a tour of inspection of Wilson creek. Her report is by no means favorable for the future, of what we hoped would be a producer.

The Spruce Creek Power Company have moved their plant down to Lower Spruce and have once more commenced piping. They will now be in a position to work to greater advantage, owing to the facilities for dumping afforded by the falls.

The Hon. H. E. Young, held a meeting on the creek on Tuesday, in order that he might state to the miners his success in the struggle for their welfare. He received a hearty welcome from the few of us able to attend. Unfortunately owing to the fact that half our number work night shift, so the attendance was somewhat sparse, but those disappointed here hope to avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing the Doctor at the meeting in Discovery Monday night.

Never has the laundry business boomed as it does on the creek at the present time. Last Tuesday Jack Flynn bought a whole wagon load of white shirts and collars. Cupid must have discarded his bow and quiver and be distributing his darts with a gatling gun, so deadly are they in effect. Friendship has almost ceased; some who loved life dearly a week ago now contemplate flinging themselves into the icy and turbulent waters of the creek and 'end it all'; others are content to know ' 'tis better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all,' but the Lord help the man who is allowed a second piece of pie.

David "Twa" Todd was unfortunate enough to be burned out of home and contents last Wednesday afternoon, on Tar Flat. Along with the tent and the luxurious interior fittings 'Davy' lost his other suit of underclothing, three Sox and his handana, which he forgot when he went to work. He has the sympathy of his many friends.
