Brief Summary of the News.

A statement has been made by Rufus H. Pope, at Nelson, B. C., that the vacant British Columbia judgeship was for sale for $7,000. All Vancouver is talking about it. The scandal is assuming such proportions it is likely the law society will call a meeting and make an investigation. J. H. Senkler and F. C. Wade, K. C., are spoken of as candidates for the position. It was stated that certain Vancouver barristers of standing have been so impressed with the gravity of the situation that they had put the full facts before the minister of justice at Ottawa.

The steamer Pheasant, Captain Bousier, has been totally wrecked, on the Skeena river. No lives lost.

Chas. D. Taprell, manager of the C. P. R. hotel at Vancouver, has secured a fifteen-year lease on the Alberta hotel, Calgary.

Numbers of the Hindus arriving at Vancouver are going over into the United States.

Mrs. Hanfield, a crazy woman in New York, threatens to shoot J. D. Rockefeller, if he does not cash a million-dollar cheque. There is a method in her madness.

The Grand Trunk Pacific expect to get through the Yellowhead pass with a maximum grade of four-tenths of a foot rise to the hundred.

Ten of the most desperate prisoners in the Long Island jail escaped by sawing their way through the window bars, afterwards climbing the jail wall.

The $11,500 reward for the apprehension of the C. P. R. train robbers, 'Bill' Miner, 'Shorty' Dunn and Colquhoun, was divided up a few days ago in Vancouver. Five members of the N.W.M.P. got $1,350 each. Provincial Constable Fernie $1,350. Provincial Constable Pearse $800. E. R. Parker $500, and three Indians $700 each.

At the New Zealand exhibition at Christchurch, the chief commissioner, G. S. Monro, said: Canada is a model exhibitor. Canada was first on the ground, and the way in which Canada set to do things—the style and aptness, the perfectly good taste—fixed a standard and keyed up the whole exhibition. I feel that I owe a lot to Canada, and the gentle modesty of these Canadians makes me glad to admit the debit.

A movement is on foot to amalgamate all the shipbuilding concerns and docks in the province into one large company, with headquarters at Esquimalt, B. C. The movers are members of the richest Scottish and English shipbuilding company's.

It is rumored that the Timothy Eaton & Co., Ltd., of Toronto, have purchased Weiler Brothers' general house furnishing establishment in Victoria, B. C. The purchase price was $700,000.

The activity in Victoria real estate is unprecedented. Over a million has been invested in property during the past fortnight.

The sentiment in Cuban industrial and financial circles is in favor of establishing an American protectorate over the island.

The greatest enthusiasm prevailed at the American Federation of Labor meeting at Minneapolis. The political stand taken by Gompers was upheld by all. Two million votes will be polled as a single one, in Labor's cause.

About ten per cent of the Hindus arriving at Vancouver are affected with tuberculosis. Medical men predict many deaths before long.

The V. W. & Y. railway company is buying up all the land at the head of False creek. They paid $35,000 for one block a few days ago.

The following speaks for itself: "Log Cabin, B. C., Dec. 14, 1906. D. H. McDonald, Atlin, B. C.—Arrived five yesterday trail from Teepee badly drifted open places.—F. T. Hamshaw."

"The last trip of the mail carriers was a trying one. From Log Cabin to Otter lake the snow is deep. On Otter lake the ice has formed and the going is good. From Otter to Taku the conditions are not so bad. The crossing of Atlin lake proved to be the most difficult and dangerous part of the trip. It took five hours to cross. In the boat were four people, eleven dogs and a sled, and over 600 pounds of mail and baggage. Arriving close to the Atlin shore slush ice was encountered and a slow and tedious passage effected. Taking into consideration the battle against the elements, the mail carriers are doing well, and there is no 'kick' coming.

Pine City Paragraphs.

Hans Gundersen was confined to his bed this week on account of rheumatism.

Harry Brown and O. F. Conley went down to Atlin Wednesday to attend the A. O. U. W. meeting.

George Pollay left on Tuesday for the outside. He will, while out, endeavor to interest capital in his property on Wright creek. Assays show good and there is a mountain of the quartz.

It is said that a ghost, or some uncanny thing, is prowling around the Pine creek bridge leading to Spruce. "Take a tumble," boys, and don't get caught by the spirit. The guardian of the law has a clue. He is always willing to oblige the ladies.

The Discovery rink has been thrown open on Monday afternoon and evening for skating only. The balance of the week there is both curling and skating. Curling practices are going on all the time. The Discovery boys expect soon to be wearing the scalps of the Atlin players at their belts.

An interesting lazy-stick contest is looked for in Atlin Christmas eve, between 'Billy' Conroy and Phil Hampton. Fifty dollars a side has already been wagered. 'Billy' is in training across Atlin lake, pulling up stumps, in company with Dan McKenzie. Phil has an old windlass rigged up in the cellar, with Tom Machel on the handle. Take your choice, gentlemen.

A young gentleman of Boulder, accompanied by a young lady, visited Discovery a few days ago. They were, rather late, returning to the creek, consequently the 'bee of the woods' was alarmed and a search was instituted. The missing party turned up all right, the delay being caused by a bad trail and many tumbles in the snow.

Parties who are thinking of eloping please take notice that Atlin lake is not yet frozen over.

Al. Toots is laid up with goldicitis. He was struck on the back part of his anatomy by a nugget falling from the roof of the tunnel.

I, ---, hereby solemnly pledge myself to do no more "knocking" and I also will do all in my power to eradicate the pernicious habit, by refusing to become a party to a conversation where "knocking" is going on. I have buried the 'hammer' and from now on intend to 'saw wood' except where I see a chance to 'boost.' Any individual wishing to join may read the foregoing over, to himself, filling in his name. ### Esprit de Corp.

In Atlin, as in all other camps of a similar nature, shut in as we are for months at a time, there should be accord and harmony in our midst. Little personal differences should be buried in a common and united effort for the good of the community. Our pleasures are few and there ought to be, on the part of those residing here, an endeavor to keep them preserved, if possible adding to and suggesting others. In doing such each and all rise above petty things and littleness and become men in the broad true sense, worthy citizens. Occupied with business during business hours, and pleasureable pursuits during our leisure hours, the time passes, and the otherwise long and dreary winter is over before realized. This is as it should be.

On the other hand, dissension creeps in. Little differences of opinion grow into dislikes. Cliques are formed and all possible chances of harmony are destroyed. Wherever one goes is heard the sound of the 'hammer.' Knock! Knock! Knock! Shakespeare says: "'Tis true, 'tis pity, an' pity 'tis 'tis true.' To what can we attribute this? Let us cogitate. Let us think. In time we come to this conclusion:— It can only be the results of the "knocker." Webster and other authorities have not as yet added the word to their vocabulary. At the same time everyone knows what a "knocker" is.

He goes about, not like a roaring lion, but like a braying jackass, seeking whom he may "knock." Nothing is good, nothing is right. He will sit in an arm chair, or perchance stand before the bar in easy and graceful attitude. As long as he has a listener he will talk. His jingle is but the excrement of a festering mind. He tells how mighty he is in speech and deed. He carries tales, most of them the off-springs of his own distorted imagination. This specimen is the worst kind of a "knocker." There are several kinds. Number two stands in his place of business and tells how much superior his establishment is to any other. In fact he wouldn't take the other man's "damp" as a gift, and he cannot understand how the poor devil makes a living. Number three does not say much. He is the sly and slick "knocker." He draws attention to things with a sagacious nod of head. When listening to a tale from another "knocker" he winks and thinks he is looking wise, or he shrugs his shoulders and purses up lips, which is intended to mean—"well, what did I tell you."

Now, for the sake of the district, our interests in it, and our dignity as men, let this "knocking" be a thing of the past. Ding it! dang it! dum it! quit it! So long as the other chap is attending to his own business, keep busy with your own. Quoting somebody wise we say:—A man should be judged by his charity and industry; your liberty ends where his begins and his ends where yours begins.

This article is a "knock" and a hard one, but it is good medicine for those who need it. A newspaper should be a sort of guardian of the rights of all citizens. Good citizens need no touching up, the others, well—"a word to the wise is sufficient."

Following is a beautiful piece of satire, written down to date.

Knock and the world knocks with you,
Boost and you-boost alone.
When you roast good and loud
You will find that the crowd
Has a hammer as big as your own.
Buy and the gang is with you,
Rent, and the game is all off,
For the lad with the thirst
Will see you first,
If you don't proceed to cough.
Be rich, and the push will praise you,
Be poor, and they'll pass the ice,
You're a warm young guy
When you start to buy,
You're a slob if you haven't the price.
Be flush, and your friends are many
Go broke, and they say "Ta-Ta."
While your bank account burus
You will get returns,
When it's out you will get the
"Ha-Ha."
Be gay and the mob will cheer you,
They'll shout while your wealth endures.
Show a tearful lamp
And you'll see them tramp,
And it's back to the woods for yours.
There's always a bunch to boost you,
While at your money they glance,
But you'll find them all gone
On the cold grey dawn,
When the fringe shows up on your pants.—Lowery's Claim.

The value of the fruit crop in British Columbia for 1905 exceeded $1,000,000. Ten years ago she did not grow enough to supply her own population.

Speaking of British Columbia, His Excellency, Earl Grey, Governor of Canada, in a speech at New Westminster, said: "Gentlemen, here is a state of affairs which appears to offer the opportunity of living under such ideal conditions as struggling humanity has only succeeded in reaching in one or two of the most favored spots on earth. There are thousands of families living in England today, families of refinement, culture and distinction, families such as you would welcome among you with both arms, who would be only too glad to come out and occupy a log hut on five acres of a pear or apple orchard in full bearing, if they could do so at a reasonable cost.

A Poem of Passion--A Song of Ruin

The following beautiful portrayal of a soul's mad revel and laugh, is published, for the first time, owing to the kindness of one of Atlin's residents.

Who cares for nothing, alone is free,
 Sit down, good fellow, and drink with me

With a careless heart, and a merry eye,
 He laughs at the world, as the world goes by;

He laughs at power and wealth and fame;

He laughs at virtue, he laughs at shame;

He laughs at hope and he laughs at fear,

And at memory's dead leaves, crisp and sere;

He laughs at the future, cold and dim;

Nor earth, nor heaven is dear to him;

Oh! that is the comrade fit for me;
 He cares for nothing, his soul is free.

Free as the soul of the fragrant wine,
 Sit down, good fellow, my heart is thine;

For I heed not custom, creed or law—

I care for nothing that I ever saw,
 In every city my cups I quaff;

And over my liquor I riot and laugh;

I laugh like the cruel and turbulent wave;

I laugh at the church and I laugh at the grave;

I laugh at joy, and well I know
 That I merrily, merrily laugh at woe;

I terribly laugh with an oath and a sneer

When I think that the hour of death is near;

For I know that Death is a guest divine

Who will drink my blood as I drink this wine.

And he cares for nothing, a king is he;

Come on, good fellow, and drink with me

With you I will drink to the solemn past,

Though the cup that I drain should be my last.

I will drink to the phantom of love and truth,

To ruined manhood and wasted youth;

I will drink to the woman who wrought my woe—

In the diamond morning of Long Ago,

To a heavenly face of sweet repose

To the lily's snow and the blood of the rose,

To the splendor caught from Orient skies,

That thrilled in the orbs of her hazel eyes,

Her large eyes, wild with the fire of the south,

And the dewy wine of her warm red mouth.

I will drink to the thought of a better time,

To innocence gone like a death-bell chime

I will drink to the shadows of coming doom,

To the phantoms that wait in my lonely tomb.

I will drink to my soul in its terrible mood,

Dimly and solemnly understood;

And, last of all, to the Monarch of Sin,

Who has conquered that fortress and reigns within.

My sight is fading—it dies away.

I cannot tell—is it night or day?

My heart is burnt and blackened with pain,

And a horrible darkness crushes my brain.

I cannot see you—the end is nigh,

But we will laugh together before I die.

Through awful spasms I plunge and fall,

Your hand, good fellow—I die—that's all!

The closing exercises of the public school, for the fall term, take place on Friday next, at 1.30 p. m. sharp.

The funeral of Colin McKenzie, infant son of John Black, of Boulder, took place last Monday. Rev. A. M. Ross officiated at the church and cemetery.

After two energetic attempts, G. Pollay, A. M. Ross and F. T. Hamshaw managed to cross the lake last Tuesday. They had to cut through the ice for nearly half a mile, on the other side of the lake.

H. Pyman paid Atlin a visit this week. He is working his ground on Spruce, the Millwall group, on a lay, in company with F. Sutherland, G. Hackett and B. Williams. They are getting out a dump. The prospects have been very satisfactory indeed.

The Atlin Hockey club has been re-organized for the season 1906-7. Dr. Young was elected president and Mr. Frank E. Gigot secretary-treasurer. An executive committee composed of E. Rosselli, F. W. Dowling and C. L. Culling was appointed to make all necessary arrangements and look after the personnel of the team.

Last Monday night the Atlin warblers held a practice. They are willing to supply music for weddings or 'wakes.' The next time the club meets the members will try carols and glees, to be in readiness for the Christmas holidays. Gallery seats may be obtained from the management—of the Kootenay.

The request for the transfer of the license of the Kirkland hotel to Alexander Smith was omitted from the advertisement of formal notice of "Applications for Liquor Licenses." Mr. Alexander Smith has formally applied to the board of licensing commissioners for the transfer of the license held by John Kirkland, to the said Alexander Smith, of Atlin.

Fletcher T. Hamshaw, manager of the McKee creek mines, left on Tuesday for the outside. Speaking re operations on McKee the coming summer he said: The top dirt will be piped into the creek, leaving about twelve feet of gold bearing gravel. This, with about three feet of bed-rock, will be taken up by the steam shovel. The dump boxes will be built near the canyon, giving a drop for the tailings of 110 feet. The creek here has a 13 per cent. grade and a sufficient head of water to guarantee no blockade. There is three years' work on the virgin ground in the bed of the creek before the benches need be touched. An 11-inch pipe, under a 50-foot head, will be run the entire length of the dump boxes to wash the heavy gravel and boulders before passing over the grizzly. The plant will include fully a mile of railroad, the necessary motive power, and thirty 6-yard cars.
