A Budget of Interesting News From Many Quarters.

SPECIAL TO THE CLAIM.

Montreal, Dec. 6.—It has been semi-officially announced that a gigantic rubber deal has been put through. The Canadian Consolidated Rubber Co., with a capital of $5,000,000.

Montreal, Dec. 6.—Robert Walter, the young man who shot Detective Lebequet three times with a revolver on September 30, in the Stark Hardware Company's warehouse, was sentenced to twenty years. He pleaded guilty to burglary and attempted murder.

Hamilton, Dec. 6.—Pending the outcome of arbitration the street cars are being operated by non-union men. No one is patronizing them but they are running undisturbed.

New York, Dec. 6.—At the Soccer football tournament yesterday the Toronto University men played all round their opponents. The score was 7 to 0.

London, Dec. 6.—The Daily Mail has taken up action and urges, editorially, the appointment of a Canadian as the ambassador at Washington, D.C., to succeed Sir Mortimer Durand. The Mail says that Canada has suffered enough through the ignorance and shortcomings of British diplomats, and that Canadians are more conversant with the existing conditions and relations between their country and the United States. The time has come when Canada must be recognized.

Washington, Dec. 5.—The funeral of the late President Samuel Spencer, of the South Railway, who lost his life in the collision, took place Sunday. During the funeral hour all machinery on the entire Southern railway was at a standstill.

New York, Dec. 6.—Andrew Carnegie, the chief guest at the St. Andrew's banquet in New York, in the course of a speech said that the Scotch people were better employed and better off than ever before. The young men now realized that they were fit for something better than food for powder. As a consequence less than a thousand of them had enlisted in the British army during the past year. He was strongly rebuked by Sir Mortimer Durand who said "thank God some Scotchmen do not think themselves too good to be British soldiers. A Scottish soldier is one of the noblest works of God."

Portsmouth, Dec. 6.—The admiralty order yesterday directs a trial by court martial of Lieut. Bernard St. George Collard, to whose order "on your knees" the recent mutinous outbreak was attributed.

Swansea, Wales, Dec. 6.—The South African football players defeated the full strength of the Wales team here, 11 to 0. The interest was so intense that even the courts adjourned to see the game.

London, Dec. 6.—Exceptions have been taken to the statements of Andrew Carnegie at the banquet in New York. The Pall Mall Gazette heads it's comment "An Alien Insult," and says that even if it is true it is the worst of manners in an alien who elects to make frequent use of British hospitality. Sir Mortimer Durand's "vigorous rebuke" to Carnegie is applauded by the press.

Madrid, Dec. 6.—The second new ministry has been formed within the last ten days. General Weyler, who was known as "the butcher" in Cuba, has been appointed minister of war.

Washington, Dec. 7.—President Roosevelt's message recommends that naturalization be granted to the Japs who remain the United States. The Pacific coast states and all the Western delegations announce that they will never cease to fight such a bill.

Congressman Slayden, of Texas, has introduced a resolution that all negro troops in the United States army should be mustered out as they are certain to entertain the inherent race hostility. He considers them a greater menace than a regiment of armed Indians.

Bisbee, Arizona, Dec. 6.—The dam on the San Francisco river broke yesterday. A wall of water rushed down, obliterating the town of Clifton. Buildings were crushed like egg shells. Fifty people are dead as a result. Some of the bodies were carried miles. The total loss of life in the district is placed at 300.

Seattle, Dec. 7.—The game warden here announces that he intends to prosecute all women wearing the plumage of game birds in their hats.

New York, Dec. 6.—Jerome has asked the commission to take the disposition of Ida Simonton, of Pittsburg, who is now studying the monkeys in the jungles of South Africa. If this be granted a postponement of the Thaw trial, for several months, will be asked for. Thaw's attorneys have strongly opposed the request.

Seattle, Dec. 7.—The railroads have promised plenty of coal for next week. The prices will remain high all winter.

Kansas City, Dec. 7.—Wm Anderson, the teller of the First National bank here, went on a hunting trip last Monday and has not yet returned. He is $9,000 short in his accounts.

Victoria, Dec. 7.—The paymaster's office at Esquimalt was robbed a couple of night's ago of $1,700. Detectives are searching the crew of the cruiser Egeria.

Accident to Mr. E. Ridd.

Mr. George Sinclair brought word to town Wednesday noon that Mr. Ed. Ridd had been hurt, by a tree falling on him, in the woods at Tory Inlet. Mr. Sinclair had a most trying time getting to Atlin. The injured man was carried to the steamer Blair Athol, steam gotten up and she was under way in a short time. Unfortunately ice was encountered. An attempt was made to go around the south of Goat island, with the same result. The ice made faster than it could be cut.

Mr. Sinclair and Mr. Jones started to walk to Taku, calling, on the way, at McKenzie and Conroy's camp, but the boys had left Monday morning. Continuing their journey they reached the Atlintoo river about dusk Tuesday afternoon. Building a fire they managed to attract the attention of Fred Wroong and Bob Pelton. These gentlemen tride to cross the river but only succeeded in getting to the island. They then put their boat on a sleigh and dragged it to Atlin lake. Here they found it too rough and in the dark could not get Mr. Sinclair's whereabouts. Right here it seems but fair to Wroong and Pelton, to say there must have been a misunderstanding, or they would hardly have allowed Mr. Sinclair to remain in the woods all night, as he did, expecting them to make another attempt in the morning. Mr. Jones in the meantime had started back to the scene of the accident, to relieve Mr. Johnston Woods, who had been left to look after Mr. Ridd.

Wednesday morning Mr. Sinclair signalled Taku Jack, who happened to be in camp nearby, and was brought by him over to Atlin.

As quickly as arrangements could be made Dr. Young, Captain Bragg, Dan McKenzie and Billy Conroy left to render assistance. A dense fog hung over the lake and a biting north wind was blowing. They left Atlin at two o'clock and reached the ice in Tory inlet in less than forty-five minutes. From there they had to "mush" on the ice and along the shore of Goat island to where the steamer lay. Mr. Ridd was placed upon a sleigh and taken back to the sail boat. After four hours hard rowing they made McKenzie and Conroy's camp. Here they had something to eat and looked after the comfort of Mr. Ridd, placing hot water bottles around him to keep him warm while crossing the lake. A head wind had to be bucked and the fog was so thick at times they could not see a boat's length ahead, added to this the thermometer registered somewhere about 20 below zero. Atlin was reached at 11.30. The return journey occupied over seven hours. A number of citizens were in readiness with a stretcher and sled. Mr. Ridd was immediately taken to the hospital. The captain and crew enjoyed a warm and substantial meal at

Mrs. Mitchell's, thanks to the thoughtfulness of Mr. Rcesselli.

At the present time Mr. Ridd is resting as easily as can be expected. His injuries are of a serious nature but as yet no alarming symptoms have appeared. The right hand had to be amputated. The shoulder bones are badly broken and some ribs on the right side broken.

Local Events.

A. J. Burnside, of the Bank of Commerce staff, left for the outside the beginning of the week.

Dan McKenzie and Billy Conroy left yesterday for their camp across the lake, after a week's visit.

Charley Baker and Dick Smail, of Spruce, were in town this week. Charley intends taking a trip outside as soon as the ice makes.

The Rev. A. M. Ross leaves next week for a trip to home and old acquaintances in Manitoba and Ontario. When he leaves he bids farewell to his bachelor quarters.

G. S. Cummings and Jim Stokes came in from Gold Bottom Sunday last. They enjoyed the trip, both felt so good they occasionally turned somersaults or stood on their heads. G. S. says snow shoeing is splendid exercise.

Messrs. McCulloch, Johnson and Auld have a shaft 42 feet on their property at the mouth of Gold Run. Louis Clarke is in charge of the pumping and hoisting gear. They are waiting for timbers and lagging.

There is a rumor to the effect that Tommy Fletcher has entered the pugilistic arena and is willing to take on all comers, 'Bob' Jamieson preferred. Tommy stipulates that 'Bob's' costume must be of the very lightest, and he would rather have the fight come off in the open with the thermometer about 45 below.

Jack Fox and 'Vic' Ericson came in last Monday from Conrad. Dalton's property is the only one being worked, he has six men doing development. The showing in the Venus, on the upper level is very good, the lead is from two to four feet wide. Four shots brought down 100 sacks.

It is said that the reason of the closing down of the Conrad mines was that too much money was spent in needless outside work instead of actual development. There is plenty of good ore and it assays high. When work is started again it will probably be under different management.

Mrs. Giddy—Now, there's our little Harold; he isn't a bit like his father—has neither his looks or his disposition. There's no accounting for some children.

Mrs. Gaddy.—No indeed—ah—not without embarrassment.

Cheap Labor.

The question of cheap labor seems to be agitating the minds of some people in lower British Columbia. They are, principally, the fruit grower and the lumberman.

The fruit grower says he must have cheap labor, therefore demands the rescinding of the law re the Chinese head tax, so he may have swarms of the almond-eyed laborer dumped into British Columbia, and the price of labor cut in two. In consequence the fruit grower waxes rich, and the toiler—well he's a toiler, that's all.

The lumberman and boss logger says: I must have labor, labor of some kind. If I could get white men I would rather employ them at their own prices, but they are so scarce. The white man in the woods is far superior to the others. He can do more work and do it better. But we must have labor to carry on our business.

If an individual or a company wants anything and wants it badly they make the want known to others and the word spreads. We imagine the same might apply to the wants in the labor market. Why not advertise the scarcity of good, intelligent labor in our province? The word 'labor' is used advisedly, because the laborer is what we want. There are thousands of good, honest laborers in the older countries; Scandinavians, Germans, French, Swiss, the British and Irish, who would be glad to come to our country to better their condition. These are the kind of settlers who help to build up our country by becoming of us. Working and saving their money and investing it in land or industry. People to whom we do not hesitate to hold out hands of welcome and fellowship. People who will help to make a firm foundation on which we may build a nation as strong and as rich as the republic to the south. The same republic that is to-day sending us tens of thousands of the right kind of settlers.

Look at the other picture. Contrast the yellow man with the foregoing, as a laborer, as a citizen, as a man, and 'where do you get off at?' They come to this country with no idea of settling here. They work, in fact, they slave, the majority are in a state of bondage, and as their savings accumulate it is sent back to China. This money leaves the country and we are so much the poorer. Only in very few cases do they invest, even then, the greater profits, in the end, go home. If in life they save enough money they go home to spend the eventide of their existence on a few cents a day. Should they shuffle off the mortal coil their bones are sent back. They are parasites and vampires. They live in hovels and filthy dens, fairly reeking with disease and corruption. They will never assimilate. They will never adopt our manners customs or beliefs.

Is there a white man in our country, be he ever so far down, who will acknowledge a Chinaman his equal? It would be an insult to ask. Yet what are we coming to? In lower British Columbia the Chinamen who came to the country years ago and brought wives with them have raised families. These Chinese boys and girls go to our schools and sit alongside our sisters and brothers, and our children, and they demand equality. In a generation or two there will be many more. They are born in Canada, under the British flag, and are British subjects. As such they have equal rights with any of us. In time to come they will be a peril to this country the same as the colored man is today a thorn in the flesh of the United States. It will be a case of separate schools, separate cars, separate hotels and restaurants, till, bye and bye, we will have to separate them with something stronger than the law.

This glorious country of Canada is growing, growing fast, and she has a healthy growth, why pollute her. For the sake of ourselves, our children, and our national pride let us have only the best people other countries can afford, but let us have no strain of the inferior races within our borders. Canada for the best, the best for Canada.

A man in an official capacity should rise above petty personalities. He should do what is expected of the office never heeding the futile criticisms of a weak intellect.

John S. Featherstone, now in the provincial jail at Victoria, is to be hanged on Tuesday next, for the murder of Mary Ann Dalton, at South Wellington, B. C. Thus works justice her decree.

At a real estate sale the other day in Vancouver, a block of Point Grey property brought $87,000. This was only the first installment. Vancouver's city limits will soon be extending to Hastings.

It is pleasing to be able to note the promotion of Sir Charles C. Drury, K.C.S.I., to the command of the Mediterranean fleet, succeeding Lord Charles Beresford. He was born at Rothesay, New Brunswick, in 1846, and entered the navy at the age of thirteen.

So far only one body has been recovered of those drowned on the steamer Dix. The inspectors intend to hold a rigid examination in order to ascertain who is to blame. There is something rotten somewhere. Either in the marine law or the regulations, or in the lax way in which they are enforced. The death toll is constantly increasing. Hanging is too good for whoever is to blame.

Passing Comment.

There are some pretty good men on old Mother Earth, and some mean ones to. About the most contemptible is the individual who mingles with his acquaintances; he has no really true friends, telling them what a power he is in the community and how the whole business would go to smash if he had not stepped in and saved it. Should an election be talked of this individual fairly revels in a halo of his own home-made glory and importance. He thinks that his services to either party are so essential that a victory without him is impossible. Which ever way he throws his weight the other party must go down to defeat. With these notions under his hat he approaches the men of both sides at different times. His first move is to sidle up and very confidentially ask how much there is in it for him. Discovering that his importance is not appreciated and his help not sought after, he turns rusty and declares he will simply 'throw them down' if he does not get what he demands. Because a good man is not put out of office and this 'far-head' installed, he threatens to destroy. This performance is gone through with the other party with the same result. He is in a quandary. Act two is to fawn and lick the hand of anyone who will promise him position or spoils. In this act he resembles a mongrel that crawls on it's belly for a bone, the while cringing in expectation at any moment to get the toe of a boot. Both parties have had experience with just such creatures. They are not confined to any particular locality. We are sorry to say Atlin has not escaped. A man who has the courage of his convictions and the good of his country at heart, one cannot help but admire. He will give you open and fair fight. But the other, the Judas, who would betray party and country for a few shekels or an easy job, is a thing to be looked upon with contempt and scorn.

According to the New Westminster market, prices are: beef 14c, 4 1/2c; h. q., 8 1/2c; mutton, 13c; pork, 9 1/2c; veal, 10c; eggs, 60c. dozen.

The Grand Trunk Pacific has purchased a million feet of timber in Vancouver, to be used in company buildings at Prince Rupert.

U. S. capitalists have purchased 15,000,000 feet of timber on Graham island and will erect a large mill at once.

We, in this Northern country, have a lot to be thankful for. No floods, no tornadoes, no epidemics, and nobody goes crazy with the heat. If a man shows a willingness to work there is work for him. Work is beneath the dignity of no man and in this country of ours it is realized and recognized to the full.

Forest Protection.

Such indorsement and recommendation as the following, from an entirely non-political and non-partisan journal, is worthy of reproduction:—

It is understood that Hon. R. F. Green, commissioner of lands and works, has almost completed his plan for the protection of the forests of the province from destruction by fire. The outline of the plan has already been published in The Lumberman and Contractor. It is believed that it can be satisfactorily worked out and be the cause of saving much of the forest wealth of the province. Mr. Green has given the question of forest fires a great deal of attention, and the McBride government will be able to put the measure he has fathered into execution. For this he and the government will deserve the commendation of every man in the province who believes in conserving the forests, one of our greatest natural resources. It is, so to speak, the 'ready money' of the province. The 84,000,000 of people of the United States have reduced their timber limits to a very small area, and the time is not far distant when they will be compelled to rely on Canada for nearly all of the lumber they use. Already the price of lumber has advanced to high figures, owing to its scarcity in the United States. From now on the outlook is that lumber will keep increasing in value with each year. The demand will be so great that British Columbia will be paid vast sums for her timber. Timber will materially aid in enriching the people of the province. It is a wise and statesmanlike measure of precaution on the part of Mr. Green to endeavor to save as much of our timber limits as possible from destruction.

The A. B. Smoker.

The Arctic Brothers held a concert in Discovery last Tuesday. The guests of the evening were the A. O. U. W., and others. The hall was not overflowing with hosts and even when the guests arrived from Atlin there was still room for more. However, those who were there enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

A good programme was given. Arctic Chief Frank Mobley opened the proceedings with a neat little speech, bidding welcome and calling upon those present to help make the evening, just what it was, a success. Dr. Young, on behalf of the A. O. U. W., made some very terse remarks as to the good accruing to the lodges and the individuals by such meetings. It promoted a good brotherly feeling and was the means of bringing out the best in men, the best in their natures and their talents. The orchestra then tuned up and 'played a few' for the delectation of the boys. They were good—the orchestra, they always are, and always obliging. Tom Hauna gave a violin solo and then he and Jack Cartmel played a cat-gut duo. W. G. Paxton appeared in a character sketch. Mr. Paxton was the chief entertainer of the evening and he surprised and delighted all by his versatility. R. McKay then gave a skit on the bag-pipes and every foot in the room started to pat time or waga. 'Bob' was called upon to 'blow' several times during the evening. C. R. Bourne rendered a violin solo which was a treat. Charlie is not heard often enough. Songs were sung by George Pollay, J. Cartmel, J. Dick, J. Prescott, B. Nichol and C. L. Cullin. 'Judge' Faulkner made a declaration, and—'he'd like to see the — — — etc.' Refreshments were served and the meeting resolved itself into an informal gathering. Stories and reminiscences were told and enjoyed. At the call of the chair God Save The King was sung and a most enjoyable evening brought to a close.

A meeting of the Atlin Hockey Club is called for Tuesday evening next, at the O. K. office. The business of the evening will be the proper organization of a club, election of officers, etc. It is sincerely hoped that as many as possible will attend. Only by united effort may success be attained. Those who wish the game well even though they do not take an active part, are invited to be present.

The result of the fifth meeting of the Atlin whist club is as follows: Table 1, Vickers-Gigot gain 1 over G. S. Cummings-Cullin. Table 2, Bourne-Rorke gain 5 over Dowling-Williams. Table 3, Cameron-Smith gain 2 over J. Cummings-Pillman. Table 4, Fraser-Faulkner gain 1 over Anderson-Wheeling. Everyone present enjoyed being there, the warm and comfortable quarters contrasting pleasantly with the inclement weather outside. Those who have not yet participated are extended a cordial invitation.
