(SPECIAL TO THE CLAIM.)

St. Petersburg, June 21.—An imperial ukase has just been issued abolishing the present Duma and ordering an election for a new Duma under a new regulation which provides against "Submergence of Educated Classes by the Uneducated Masses." An order has been issued prohibiting the press of the country publishing anything inimical to the government. Some of the papers have suspended publication. There were over 700 arrests in one day.

Washington, D. C., June 21.—The United States government can only sit back and watch the gradual undermining of their cordial relations with Japan. The Japanese ministry has been influenced by the outcry for an apology, this has the effect of magnifying into an international incident the recent regrettable attack on the Japanese restaurant by hoodlums.

Tokio, June 21.—The constitutional party has passed a resolution on the question of the assaults by the American people on the life and property of the subjects of the Mikado. The resolution recommends calmness and prudence and asks that the matter be left in the hands of the authorities, trusting to the government to bring about a satisfactory solution to the difficult situation.

Frederickton, N. B., June 21.—The Emerson-Crockett libel trial began last Tuesday.

New York, June 21.—Mrs. Duffreche, of New Orleans, claims to be a daughter of the late Silent Smith, the eccentric millionaire. She has signified her intentions of contesting the will.

Canyon City, Col., June 21.—C. W. Ding, a very important witness in the Haywood case died yesterday of heart failure about an hour before a telegram arrived summoning him to Boise to attend the trial.

Ottawa, June 21.—Alexander Henderson, the new Commissioner of the Yukon, was sworn in to office last Tuesday.

Edmonton, June 21.—A sudden and very rapid rise in the Saskatchewan river has caused a big loss to the lumber men of the district. An immense quantity of logs has been swept away by the high water.

Boise, June 21.—In their endeavor to save Haywood the defense will try to show that the assassination of Governor Steunenberg was due to a desire for personal vengeance on Orchard's part, and that the other murders he confesses to are the result of his suffering from "murder mania."

Seattle, June 21.—An shocking tragedy by which five lives were lost occurred near this city a few days ago. A small boy who was playing near the edge of Lake Sammamish tumbled into the deep water. His two sister who were nearby and witnessed the occurrence plunged into the water to his rescue and immediately disappeared from view. Then their mother followed by an aunt, in an agony of frenzy and fright, leaped in to save the little ones. They were all caught by the undertow and drowned.

San Francisco, June 21.—The jury on the Schmitz case have returned a verdict of guilty. The sentence has been reserved until June the 27th.

Boise, June 21.—The state prosecution expects to conclude all the evidence in the Haywood case this week.

Masons at Divine Service.

Atlinto Lodge, No. 42, A. F. & A. M., will attend divine service in full regalia at the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening next. The brethren will assemble at the hall where the lodge will be regularly opened, and thence walk in procession to the church where services suitable to the occasion will be conducted as follows: Opening hymn, reading by the Worshipful Master, prayer followed by a hymn, reading by the Immediate Past Master, solo by Mrs. Judge Young, a hymn and then the sermon, prayer, while the collection is being taken up the choir will sing, the closing hymn and the benediction will bring the services to a close. The brothers will then return to the lodge-room and the lodge will be closed. A special selection of the old and familiar hymns will be sung during the service.

Though the sermon is to the masons all members of sister societies and all individuals are extended a sincere and hearty invitation to be present.

Were half this country given me,
From the centre to the sea,
One wee hut in distant Erin
Would be dearer far to me.
There with dear old Irish Molly
My sweet faced Colleen Bawn
We would lead a life so jolly;
It would just suit old Tom Vaughan
We would ramble o'er the mountain
To where Tara's minstrel sang,
And beside each sparkling fountain
Sweetest woodland music rang.
I'd forget about Sam Johnston's
And the Fourth of July creek,
If I lived again in Ireland
Long enough to make a week.
I will live in hope, and surely
I'll see Ireland once again
When I sell my claim and scurry
From the district of Atlin.

Soon the disciples of Isaac Walton will be busily engaged coaxing with fly or bait the finny tribe from limpid depths or purling stream. The Atlin river is a favored spot and Fred Wrong, of the Dawson hotel at Taku, has a full line of bait on hand.

J. M. Ruffner's steam ditcher arrived during the week and was taken up the creek. In all the machinery, etc., weighed in the neighborhood of thirty tons. The scow on which the ditcher is to be placed was launched last Wednesday into Pine at the in-take of the Deek's ditch. The dimensions are, about 18 feet beam by 70 feet long.

The new bucket, equipped with the "Panama tooth," was put in position last Sunday on the A. C. M. Co's. steam shovel, on Tar Flats and the dirt is 'moving some' now. Mr. Harris, the manager, has a big staff of men on and is pushing the work night and day as energetically as possible. A small hydraulic has been installed and the shallow ground is being piped off. An ingenious method has been adopted to obtain additional water power. A large centrifugal pump has been placed in the creek worked by electric power more than doubling the pressure of the water in the ditch. Although operations were somewhat delayed at the outset of the season by the non-arrival of the teeth every effort will be made to make the summer's work and results a record breaker.

Police Court.

On Thursday morning the case of Baker vs. Callaghan was called before Magistrate Fraser. Charles T. Baker, charged Patrick Callaghan with assault with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

And this is the way the story runs: Last Sunday night Baker was in Mrs. Callaghan's cabin talking over the sale of a piece of property. Callaghan came along and sought admission but was denied. He looked in at the window and saw a man's hat. The demon of jealousy was aroused and the blood of Irish kings surged back and forth in Patrick's pumping station. Gadzooks! I'll have his gore! In up-to-date parlance meaning—I'll knock his block off. Such wicked thoughts ran riot in his head. He backed away up the hill and then returned on the run charging full tilt at the door. He carried everything before him. Once inside he proceeded in true Donnybrook style to put Baker out of commission. This did not suit the Britsber, who repulsed the intruder by giving him the ju jitsu landing him gently on the couch. They exchanged a few courteous remarks and then activities were resumed by Patrick trying to kick in his opponent. He struggled desperately but Baker proved too much for him getting the decision in the second round. Mrs. Callaghan had in the meantime gone for reinforcements, who arrived in time to see Baker sitting astride the prostrate form of the belligerent husband.

A council of war was held 'Griff' Thomas was chairman and Alex Allott secretary, Mistress Callaghan was the advisory board, and Charlie Baker executive committee with power to add. While the meeting was being convened Baker still retained his position, using Pat after the fashion of a mattress. It was finally decided to rope him, and this they did. 'Griff' Thomas' experience as a deep sea man coming in very handy.

The police were sent for but when they arrived on the scene the bird had flown. He was, however, run to earth by the sleuth-hounds of the law and confined to barrick in Atlin.

After examining a few of the witnesses Thursday the case was laid over till next Monday.

The Gold Fields of Atlin.

The Atlin Gold Fields occupy the extreme northwest corner of British Columbia, Canada, lying between latitudes 59 and 60, and extending from longitude 132 to 134-30 west of Greenwich, in all an area of 6,000 square miles.

It comprises within its boundaries the whole drainage basin of Atlin lake, together with the adjacent country to the east draining into Teslin lake; and that to the west tributary of the Taku Arm of Tagish lake: a mineralized zone of unrivalled possibilities in the very heart of the northern continental Gold Range, and situated midway between the famous placers of the Klondike and those of no less famous Cariboo, both of which it rivals in richness.

Eight years of continual prospecting and development work in this rich district, in place of exhausting its placer fields, as has been the case with so many of the world's goldfields, has only served to bring to light new and more profitable areas of auriferous gravels of so uniformly increasing value that the output of placer gold from this district during the past eight years has been one of upward progression. That it occupies so unique a position in the history of the mining industry seems due to the extreme variability of its resources, for here hydraulic and dredging ground of superior adaptability exists side by side with shallow placers of unusual richness, all offering remunerative returns to judicious development.

The general elevation of the lower lake and valley system comprising the lakes Bennet, Tagish, Taku Arm and Atlin lake is about 2,206 feet above sea level. The highest peaks of the district do not exceed 7,000 above sea level.

Generally speaking, the mountain tops are from 5,000 to 6,500 feet above the sea. Contrasted with the rugged granitic barrier of the Coast range the district offers easy exploration. The upper portions of the mountains above timber line are grassy and open, without, as a rule, much obstruction to travelling. Extensive slopes and wide valleys are scantily timbered with banksian pine, spruce and balsam.

Pine creek may be said to be the principal gold bearing stream east of Atlin lake, as having precedence of creeks discovered later. It drains Surprise lake, and has a length of eleven miles with a fall of about 830 feet. There are many streams tributary to Surprise lake and Pine creek, the chief being Birch, Boulder, Ruby, Wright, Otter and Spruce all of these carry more or less placer gold. The valley of Pine creek is high and broad and has many terraces.

Farther south is McKee creek, and the new system recently opened up in the Dixie valley, comprising Wilson, Bull, Fox and Dixie, all tributary to O'Donnell river, which empties into Atlin lake about sixteen miles south of Atlin. The extensive valley of O'Donnell river affords great opportunities for prospecting and is the centre of an entirely new system of mining operations.

The mineral resources of the Atlin goldfields are as extensive as they are varied. Strong, well-defined ledges and large deposits of free-milling and other ores abound throughout the district; these, in many instances have been found to carry high values in gold, silver, copper and other metals; and many hundreds of claims have been located during the past few years in different parts of the district. On the majority of these claims development work has been rather slow, due probably to want of proper facilities in the district for treating the various kinds of ores, also to heavy transportation rates and to insufficient capital on the part of the owners of these claims, rather from want of merit in the property themselves. Extensive deposits of free milling gold bearing quartz are known to exist in various parts of the great Pine creek valley and tributary localities, at the southern end of Atlin lake, and around the different branches of Taku Arm, whilst the numerous discoveries would seem to show that those regions are still imperfectly prospected. Large deposits of copper ore are in evidence at the south end of the lake and in Torey inlet.

The improving conditions with respect to transportation rates and the gradual cheapening of food-stuff are all in favor of increased development in this branch of mining. A splendid field is here open to the experienced prospector, and grand opportunities are offered for the profitable investment of capital.

Official reports and maps have been compiled of the district, and may be obtained on application to the Geological Survey of Canada, Ottawa.

The climate of Atlin is remarkably healthy. The summer is bright and warm. Atlin lake freezes over about the 1st of January; and the ice leaves the lake about the 1st of June. Garden vegetables of the hardier kinds grow well.

The forest growth is rather light. It is principally composed of the white spruce, banksian pine, and balsam. White spruce is found in damp valleys and on stream deltas. Banksian pine clothes the dry valleys, low slopes and terraces up to 4,000 in some places above the sea. Balsam fir occupies the rougher, rocky ground near the timber line up to 5,000 feet above the sea in a few places. Cottonwood occurs commonly at the mouths of streams. White poplar is fairly common on flats and low hills. The native fruits found most abundantly towards Teslin lake, are: raspberry, black and red currant, gooseberry, and cranberries.

The country in the Atlin, Teslin, and Bennett districts affords unlimited opportunities to the sportsman and tourists. It is beyond dispute that in these unmolested tracts of mountain, valley and lake, there is one of the finest game belts to be found in Northern Canada. Fish, birds, large and small game and fur-bearing animals abound and are even found within easy reach of the town of Atlin; at no time need the sportsman be beyond the reach of telegraphic communication with the outside world. On the Pacific watershed the rainbow trout, malma, salmon and grayling are found; while in the lakes and streams on the Yukon slope pike, namaycush, grayling, whitefish and cisco abound. The namaycush, or lake trout, are often taken with the fly or spoon and afford great sport. They attain great weight, varying from five to thirty-five pounds.

Amongst the land game birds are the ruffed grouse, foolhen, or Franklin grouse, and three varieties of ptarmigan. Ducks, geese, swan, plover and snipe are visitors to this district when migrating to and from their breeding grounds. The moose has his permanent home in the wooded valleys and mountain slopes. Everywhere signs of his presence are to be found, but except in the rutting season or when pursued in the deep snows, he is most wary and difficult to hunt. Bear—black and brown, roam the whole district, but are more numerous in the Nakina and Teslin localities, and at the south end of Atlin lake around the glacier. Other fur-bearing animals found are the lynx, wolf, wolverine, otter, fox, (red, black, cross and silver gray), marten, and ermine. Goat and mountain sheep abound on the mountain ranges; of the latter there are two species found in the district, the Ovis Fannini and the Ovis Dalli.

The flesh of the mountain sheep is equal in flavor to that of the best mutton of the domestic sheep.

Facilities are at hand in Atlin for outfitting hunters, and guides and pack animals are procurable at very reasonable rates.

Hon. Clifford Sifton, ex-minister of the interior, who was in England in connection with the fast steamship service has returned. Asked for his views on the proposed steamship service on the Atlantic and Pacific. "The idea," said Mr. Sifton, "is for a twenty-four or twenty-five knot service on the Atlantic, with improved railway facilities across Canada, and an eighteen knot service from Vancouver to China and Japan. Lord Strathcona will control the financial arrangements. His high position and financial standing in London will render valuable assistance. If carried into effect the project will be of vast benefit to the co-operating parties, and especially to the Dominion of Canada. Every province from the Atlantic to the Pacific will be benefited. It will place Canada on the main commercial highway of the world, and will introduce capital and new industries, the extent of which at the present time no one can foresee. The present time is opportune for a gigantic undertaking of this character."

Spruce Creek Murmurings.

Another accident occurred on the creek last Saturday, the victim this time being Tom White, whose arm was broken above the elbow by the falling of the derrick. The cause of the accident was a defective cable clip at the guy plate. The miners on the creek who are using derricks cannot be too careful of their rigging. At times they hoist over a ton in weight and that is no child's play for home made appliances.

A Broc is now working with Pat Callaghan and J. Gigler. If a photo could be obtained of one of Andy's streaks of energy it would make a splendid illustrated advertisement for a patent breakfast food.

Prescott & Company will soon get a start on their creek ground which adjoins that on which MacNaughton and Doyle made such good money last year, so they have rosy prospects for a successful season.

President Roosevelt is putting up a strong fight endeavoring to get New York state to back Taft for the presidency for the coming election. Former Governor Odell is backing the present incumbent, Governor Hughes, for the presidency, and doing his best to win New York over to that side. Newspaper reports say that it is a life and death struggle.

Brigadier T. Howell, of Toronto, secretary of the immigration and transportation departments of the Salvation of Canada, in an interview recently said: "This year so far we have landed 10,000, and have six ships chartered, five of which have landed their first batch of passengers, and the sixth one is expected to arrive on the 8th of this month. We expect to place another 10,000 before the season closes, and in fact the number is only limited by the lack of accommodation. What do I mean by that? Why the steamers that we have chartered are not sufficient to carry the people, and we have already secured all the available space on the C. P. R. boats, the Allen liners, and the regular Dominion ships, but, even with this the accommodation is not sufficient. If we had more facilities for transporting the people we could by now have landed 15,000, and before the season closes and bad weather begins could have landed fully 25,000 souls in Canada.
