LEGISLATURE MEETS.

Opening of the Second Session of the Ninth Parliament.

Volunteers to South Africa Act as Guard of Honour to Lieut.-Gov. Sir Henri Joly.

The first Legislature of British Columbia in this century, was formally opened at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of February 21st by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, in the presence of a very large number of spectators. A unique interest attached to the event through the presence of about forty men of the different contingents for South Africa hailing from this Province. The appearance of these strapping fellows evoked the wildest enthusiasm. Being at present unattached to any military unit, and being therefore an irregular force the militia department would not sanction the issue of arms to them. They paraded, therefore, in their weather-beaten and serviceable-looking khaki uniform, which will be forever associated with their deeds—and without arms of any kind. The Fifth Regiment, as usual, furnished the regular guard, while the khaki men formed a complimentary escort on either side of the center aisle of the chamber, up which the Lieutenant-Governor passed to the throne.

The Chaplain for the occasion was the Rev. R. B. Blyth, the new pastor of the Congregational church in Vancouver, who saw service the South African campaign as a corporal in the Canadian Artillery. His presence was a departure from the ordinary procedure and one which heightened the interest of the occasion.

The Speech from the Throne may be summarized as follows:

The preparation of an address of condolence to the Royal Family expressing sympathy in their bereavement by the death of our lamented Queen, and resolutions of congratulation to our new Sovereign, King Edward VII on his accession to the throne;

A measure authorizing the conveyance of land grants to the volunteers of the Province who served in South Africa;

A measure to amend the School Act;

A measure for consideration to offer inducements towards the encouragement of the wood pulp industry in this Province;

The fostering of dairying and general agricultural pursuits;

For the promotion of settlement a Bill will be introduced having in view an extension of the system of small holdings;

The question of encouraging and aiding the building of railroads (it is to be noted that there is one from the coast to the northern boundary of the Province);

Provision was made at the last session of the Legislature for the appointment of a commission to enquire into the working of the Mining Acts and much preliminary information has been obtained by the Department of Mines in anticipation of the commission being used; but it having been announced that the Dominion Government also intended issuing a commission with respect to our mineral resources, a postponement was deemed desirable in order to ascertain to what extent these commissions might be able to co-operate to the advantage of the Province.

Amendments will be introduced to perfect, as far as possible, existing mining laws, and

The Immigration Act will be further dealt with.

The Dominion Government will establish an Assay Office, similar to the one in Seattle, for the purchase of gold. It will be under the care of Mr. W. Pellew-Harvey.—What about the Mint?

BOULDER CREEK.

French Capital Secures the Pick of the Creek.

Extensive Operations Will Be Carried on This Season—The Plant to be Doubled.

Much has been written and said about Boulder and more will be written and said this coming season; it has in the past proved itself to be the greatest gold-producing creek in the district and future prospects bid fair to yield a total far beyond the expectation of the most sanguine believers.

The best part of the creek commences a little below Discovery, extending down stream to the canyon, and it is this ground that "the Big Parisian," Mr. E. Janne de Lamare, has now entirely secured, having bought out all the remaining interests of the leaseholders and of Mr. C. Christopher.

Mr. Lamare in connection with Mr. M. Clere, M.E., has the intention of doubling or even tripling the present hydraulic plant and a season of great activity will be the result.

Atlin citizens have reason to congratulate themselves in having a man like M. de Lamare at the head of so large a concern, as through him much French capital will find good investment in our district. The shareholders of Mr. de Lamare's syndicate are most fortunate and will surely reap a golden harvest. We shall be glad to see the "Big Parisian" back; he cannot come too soon.

The following letter, which is self explanatory, is copied from the KLONDIKE-REVUE, Paris:

To the Director of La Banque Francaise des Nouvelles Financieres:

DEAR SIR:—I have the honour to inform you that I have remitted through the care of Dr Barthelemy to Messrs. Marcuard, Krauss & Co., Bankers, Agents of the Bank of British North America the sum of 60,000 francs, being the first payment to be made to Mr. C. Christopher for the payment of the half interest in the Boulder creek concession and for creek claims bought by me, as per contract, made on October 18th last in Atlin, B. C. —Yours truly,

E. JANNE DE LAMARE.

ATLIN IN LONDON.

Splendid Offer Made by the British Columbia Review.

It Seeks to Place Buyer and Owner in Direct Communication—No Brokers Wanted.

A letter was received by the last mail from the Managing Editor of the BRITISH COLUMBIA REVIEW and NORTH AMERICAN MINING JOURNAL, of London, Eng., asking us to notify the public of this district that he is prepared to receive information concerning mining properties, quartz, placer, hydraulic, dredging, water right concessions, etc., for sale, which offer suitable opportunities for the investment of British capital. In the interest of the camp we will be pleased to receive all offers for transmission to London, but it would be well to remember that properties should be in such a state of development as to be in a condition for inspection and report by experts, should any be sent out to examine them, and the price asked should be in keeping with the prospects and the state of development. Suitable notice will be given, descriptive of the property, by the B. C. REVIEW absolutely free of charge, with the ultimate object in view of counteracting the present deplorable state of the Canadian mining market in England, by putting buyers in direct touch with owners.

The operation of the new Companies' Act (England) necessitates the disclosure of all middlemen's profits, and we believe that by enabling London firms to acquire properties at actual bed-rock prices a stimulus will be given to legitimate mining operations which will induce fresh, and more genuine interest in our section of the London Stock Exchange.

ATLIN CLAIM APPRECIATED.

The following letter has been received from the B. C. MINING EXCHANGE, Vancouver, B.C.:

The Editor, ATLIN CLAIM:

DEAR SIR:—Yours to hand with thanks, we shall be pleased to send you our Journal in exchange for the ATLIN CLAIM, which we consider as invaluable to the progress of the camp.—Yours faithfully

SATURDAY, MARCH 9th, 1901.

"NEXT week," says the WHITE HORSE TRIBUNE, "the hauling of coal from the White Horse mines to the White Pass & Yukon track at Dugdale will commence. The coal is to be hauled out for the railway company. It will be given a thorough test in the locomotives and if found fit for steaming purposes will be bought up in large quantities at good prices.

"The coal at 25 feet, Mr. Armstrong—one of the owners—says, is similar to Pennsylvania anthracite, and for heating and steaming purposes is superior to the coal now used by the White Pass & Yukon."

In noting this announcement it might be well to call the attention of our readers to the fact that there is a very strong probability that coal will yet be found in the Atlin district also. The geological features of that part of the district lying to the southeast of Atlin lake, below the Pike river valley, are akin to those of White Horse and Dawson, and a valuable find may be awaiting the perseverance and energy of our prospectors.

Nature, ever prolific in her largesse, seems to have placed this Province first among her favourites. The Kootenays have large areas of mineral and the coal with which to smelt it. The Coast has been equally favoured; nor have the new camps of Dawson and White Horse been neglected in this distribution of her gifts. The coal and the gold-bearing rocks lie practically side by side from the U. S. boundary to the south to the U. S. boundary to the north. With our extensive mineralized area and the indications at hand it can hardly be possible that this district has been overlooked.

WE would call special attention to the notice appearing on the first page of this issue announcing that the publishers of the British Columbia Review and North American Mining Journal of London, England, will give publicity, free of charge, to reports and particulars of any legitimate properties from this district offered for sale, with the end in view of restoring the confidence of the English investors so rudely shaken by recent failures.

WE hazard the opinion that the PROVINCE had other places in view than Vancover when the following appeared:

The news that a claim factory is to be established on Howe Sound will be received with satisfaction by all who joy in seeing Provincial industries increase. Besides there are one or two business men left here yet who do not advertise, and such a factory as this will be able to utilize them.

ATLIN DISTRICT.

Its Geology and Auriferous Deposits:

The Old Valley Gravels of Pine and Spruce Creeks.—III.

The auriferous gravels of the district are plainly of local origin, and for the purpose of this brief sketch may be divided into three separate and distinct classes, according to age, viz:

PRE-GLACIAL, or Old Valley Gravels.
GLACIAL GRAVELS.
RECENT or Stream Gravels.

In this order we will therefore consider them:

"OLD VALLEY" Gravels.—So far as at present ascertained these gravels are in evidence only in the valleys of Pine and Spruce creeks. There is reason to believe, however, that both Otter and Little Spruce valleys contain deposits of equal age.

The topography of the district seems clearly to indicate that the deep, parallel depressions, now occupied by the lake system so characteristic of the region, were cut down for the most part in pre-glacial times by ancient rivers, tributary to a mighty Yukon; whose sub-tributary streams, pouring in from the surrounding mountains, wore down in turn, and in the course of ages, the wide transverse valleys in which the district abounds.

Of these sub-tributary streams two drained the mineralized belt east of Lake Atlin, and to these we owe the twin valleys of Pine and Spruce creeks. Their gravels, yellowed by age and rich in gold, have been uncovered for miles in the companion valleys, and constitute the main secondary source of the placer gold found within their areas. Store has since been added in no small measure by the more recent erosion by glacial action of part of Spruce mountain, whose culminating point was formerly much nearer the lake shore than at present. Yet the fact remains that our richest leads are found where later streams have cut through the glacial drift and pre-glacial deposits to the floor of the ancient valley, concentrating or re-concentrating their golden contents.

In the valley of Pine creek, to which attention will be first directed, "old valley" gravels are distinctly traceable from the vicinity of Surprise lake to Nugget Point, a distance of seven miles, lying practically undisturbed in their ancient bed. From Nugget Point to the foot of Discovery basin they are still in evidence, although greatly disturbed, and their disappearance at this latter point is co-incident with that of the pay-streak in the present creek bed. Here and in fact the shallow diggings of Pine creek which extend as far eastward as the mouth of Gold Run and include that portion of Willow creek so far uncovered. Both of these later "runs" have cut through the pre-glacial deposit here and here only—above and below the present creek has proved practically barren, yet from this concentration upwards of $1,000,000 in placer gold has already been won, and the field is by no manner of means exhausted. Where the coarsest gold and heaviest nuggets have been found it is observable that the later stream has cut down into the old bed-rock for some little distance releasing and exposing its imprisoned gold, naturally the coarsest of its kind.

From Surprise lake westward the pre-glacial stream appears to have followed the flank of Spruce mountain, so that the present creek, which bears further to the northward, barely skirts its northern rim until it reaches the mouth of Gold Run where the ancient stream, turning northward, is pierced by the later stream. An earlier run of Pine appears to have followed Gold Run itself from the vicinity of Otter creek bridge and if its channel should be found it seems reasonable to anticipate from it as rich a concentration as that characterizing the present creek in its later course.

The old valley gravels, where practically intact have a depth of from 50 to 30 feet, gradually lessening as the valley descends, but the width of the present stream has yet to be definitely fixed. Neither of its rims have been reached, to my knowledge, either by tunnel or shaft. Surface indications give it a known width of two hundred yards at least, but it is more than probable that the glacial moraines lining the valley cover an additional area of these gravels equal to, if not indeed far greater, than that at present known. The depth of the deposit together with the great width of the valley at this point, two miles or more, would seem to indicate that the depositing stream was one of imposing size.

The values contained in this vast deposit cannot be estimated with any approach to reasonable accuracy. Its gold lies in pockets throughout the mass as well as on and in bed-rock. It is extremely course in nature and should be coarser the higher the valley is ascended. Its true "gutter" if struck should prove, in my opinion, especially rich and a drifting proposition of the most encouraging kind. As an hydraulic proposition it offers many discouragements. The head of water available at Nugget Point would not exceed one hundred feet and would so rapidly diminish as work progressed that less than one mile in the seven could be worked, even if dump were available. From Nugget Point to the canyon the grade of the present creek is less than one and half per cent, and to elevate tailings would require the entire head of water available. The entire flows of Wright, Otter, Birch, Boulder and Ruby creeks might assist in solving the proposition—after these creeks had themselves been fully exploited.

Dredging is an alternative. To give this most promising field up to the "dredger" in its present practically unprospected condition, would, in my opinion, be against the best interest of the district. That it would prove a most profitable venture is undoubted, but the time is not yet. A great proportion of its gold lies in bed-rock, and much of this would be forever lost to the camp once the dredger passed over it.

These observations are made that the camp may judge of the advisibility of taking steps, ere it be too late, to definitely ascertain and prospect the old "gutter." If found, and 250 foot claims were the law, there would be both summer and winter drifting in the upper valley for many years to come. That such operations should precede that of dredging, if the ground warrants it as late developments seem to prove, is, I think, a self-evident proposition. Give the individual miner every possible show.

It is somewhat doubtful whether this pre-glacial deposit contains sufficient values, apart from its gutter, to pay for drifting, owing to its spotty character. As a dredging or hydraulic proposition, so far as its cubical value is concerned, it should prove the peer of any in the world, the "quartz drift" of Klondike not excepted.

Information has been received that Mr. J. B. It will be remembered that when he was compelled to cease operations last fall there was a gap some thirty-five miles in length yet to be completed. This will be the first work this season and then the trail along the entire line will be widened, and inspection stations constructed. The branch line from Hazelton to the coast will then be constructed and will be completed by next fall.
