Our Electric Light.

Lights out at 1 a. m., tonight,—was the word passed round by the genial superintendent of the Electric Light Co. on Thursday. Mr. Hartshorn, with a large force of men and teams, started at that hour yesterday morning to remove the engine and electric apparatus from its present position at the north end of town to its new location in connection with the Atlin Lumber Co. Both concerns have been merged and are now under the one management. With the additional power that will now be had, the citizens may rest assured that they will be given a light system second to none.

Atlin Curling Club.

On Thursday the Atlin Curling Club cleared a space on the slough adjoining the Rinks and there enjoyed the first game of the season.

The Curling Rink is being enlarged to accommodate the increasing membership and in about a week is expected to be fit for use.

The Skating Rink has been greatly improved and as soon as Jack Frost breathes strong enough, fun for the skaters will begin.

The Managing Committee have an order for providing for the increased membership of the Club, so that any one wishing to join may now do so. The Club has sent out for nine pairs of new stones, which, with those already on hand, will supply all wants.

The Spruce Creek Orchestra will give a Grand Ball on Monday, 26th December, at the Grand Hotel, Atlin. Further particulars next week.

Anyone having original Christmas work, in the shape of hand-painted cards, Repoise, Poker or stamped leather work, and any kindred art work, and wishing the same sold, write THE ATLIN STUDIO, Claim Block, for terms for exhibition and sale of same. An Art Room will be opened on the 21st inst. Watch for ad. telling about it next week.

Important Fire Meeting Tonight.

The Fire meeting in the Court Room this (Saturday) evening promises to be an interesting one. An appropriation is being made by the Government towards its upkeep, and as it is probable that the office of Fire Chief and Watchman will be combined, with a suitable salary, there have been several applications made for the position. Names already in are: Thos. J. Urquhart, Wm. Bartrim, Angus McDonald, Bob Webster, and there will probably be others.

Chas. T. Baker Disappears.

The mysterious disappearance of Chas. T. Baker is causing considerable alarm. He was last seen on Friday night of last week when leaving Discovery for his home on Gold Run. Search, by the police and others, of every likely place where he might have gone or where an accident could occur, has revealed no trace of him. The dam near the Pine Tree Hotel was hurridly dragged, but being covered with treacherous ice, it is feared, was not examined thoroughly, and another search is being made there. Mr. Baker was a man of about sixty years, a native of England, and with his three partners, was doing well on their mine on Gold Run.

ATLIN GOLD FIELDS.

Topography.

The general elevation of the lower lake and valley system, comprising Lakes Bennett, Tagish, Taku Arm and Atlin Lake, is about 2,200 feet above sea-level. Generally speaking, the mountain tops are from 5,000 to 6,500 feet above the sea. There is also a second system of depressions or upper valleys and plateaux which isolate the mountains into groups having a rounded and worn appearance. The main lake system lies in depressions more or less in a north and south direction, following the general trend of range and valley as seen all through the more southern portions of British Columbia. These principal north and south valleys are connected by wide depressions.

Exploration Not Difficult.

Contrasted with the rugged barrier of the Coast Range, the District offers easy exploration. The upper portion of the mountains above timber line are grassy and open, without, as a rule, much obstruction to travelling. Extensive slopes and wide valleys are scantily timbered with Banksian pine, spruce and balsam. The general appearance of the District somewhat resembles the Kootenay by its north and south lake system, but the mountain ranges are less rugged, appearing as low rounded groups with wide valleys or low slopes between them. The greater portion is readily accessible either by boat or pack animal. Bunch grass is abundant along the upper benches.

Principal Rivers.

Pine Creek may be said to be the principal gold bearing stream east of Atlin Lake, as having the precedence of creeks discovered later. It drains Surprise Lake, and has a length of eleven miles with a fall of about 830 feet. There are many streams tributary to Surprise Lake and Pine Creek, the chief being Birch, Ruby, Boulder, on the north; Wright, Otter, Spruce, McKee, on the south; together with the new system recently opened up in the Dixie Valley, comprising Bull, Fox, Dixie, all tributary to the O'Donnell River, which empties into Atlin Lake about sixteen miles below the City of Atlin. The Valley of O'Donnell River presents greater opportunities for prospecting than either the Pine or Spruce Valleys, being wider and longer than either of these valleys and is the centre of an entirely new system of operations.

THE ATLIN CLAIM PUBLISHING CO.

A. C. HIRSCHFELD, PROPRIETOR.
JAMES STAPLES, MANAGER.

SATURDAY, NOV. 19, 1904.

The Atlin Claim is in existence today,—a witness to the outside world of the verity of the Atlin Mining Camp and its many and varied resources.

The Claim aims at being a live, interesting journal, and if its readers would wish to help it along to this desirable end—they will send in news of interest for publication.

Within a few days, when arrangements are perfected, The Claim will have correspondents on each creek, whose duty will be to report on development and progress of work.

In future a column will be devoted to the publication of the placer and mineral claims recorded, mining leases and water rights staked, and to general Government Office business,—this news should be heartily welcomed by all who want to know what ground and rights are being acquired, and will relieve many of an otherwise necessary walk to Atlin.

The Claim also desires to open a correspondence column, in which it invites its readers, especially on the creeks, to discuss therein the many questions of importance relative to the mining industry. Public meetings, called to discuss and pass judgment upon the mining laws, rarely arrive at any conclusion of value, for the reason that in such meetings so many conflicting views are expressed and so few come prepared to speak. We feel sure, however, that to many, writing from the quiet of their own cabins, suggestions of infinite value will present themselves,—so write these down and send them for publication. Remember it was from the back woods of Indiana that Ab. Lincoln arose to save the Union. We believe that the miners themselves, coming as they do into contact with the practical working out of the mining laws, are in the best position to suggest remedial legislation.

Will some one start the ball rolling.

While people in the East have been experiencing fearful blizzards, we habitants of a clime 30 degrees further north—have been enjoying almost spring-like weather. On the lower elevations, sluicing operations could be unremittingly carried on to date,—no lengthy period of cold having come to interfere with active work. During the past fortnight we have witnessed the anomaly of delayed mails—undoubtedly owing to heavy trails—while at the same time the lakes lie free of ice.

We believe that the Dominion Government would do well to put a small steam launch on the lakes to carry mail during the transition stage—between close of regular navigation and such time as the trails are good and safe. The boat would bring in a good revenue during the summer months.

Notice to Drifters.

Your pictures taken in your drifts or by your cabins—and produced on post-cards to send your friends Christmas time. $4.00 per doz. Send orders to THE ATLIN STUDIO.
