THE FOUNTAIN HEAD OF PINE, SPRUCE & McKEE CREEK GOLD

Supposed to Have Been Located --- Traced for Nearly Two Miles --- Over a Score of Claims Recorded --- In the Hands of People Who Will Soon Prove Its Value.

A great amount of secrecy was apparent as to the source of a shipment of three tons of sacked ore for which the Scotia was kept waiting for over an hour on Monday last. Nobody seemed to know where the ore came from, from whom and where it was going. Being an unusual occurrence this summer, enquiries were made, but without any direct result, except that the Bank of Commerce were the shippers, and their branch in Vancouver the consignees. However, piece by piece, fragments were found, and we herewith submit the jist:

It has always been anticipated, when the hydraulic companies got down to work under the many high benches, that valuable quartz deposits would be uncovered, and such is now the case. On Pine creek some extraordinary rich free-milling rock was found "in place," and the knowing ones proceeded to investigate; the result is that pieces of ore were broken off here and there and assayed. These assays are said to run into thousands of dollars to the ton, so the locators lost no time in proceeding to follow the ledge from the outcrops, with the result that a regular blanket of claims crosses the country from near Discovery on Pine, over Spruce and on to McKee creek; over thirty claims have so far been recorded. As only to those immediately interested is anything known as to the character of the rock, we can say nothing, but it is rumoured that such a showing has never yet been made, even in Australia, and it is said to be a veritable gold reef in the fullest sense of the term.

It is gratifying to learn that the locators are men of undoubted enterprise, and that if the returns of the smelter are up to anticipations, they may put a large number of men to work immediately and push the development with a vim hitherto unknown in the camp. If expectations are realized the fame of Atlin as a quartz country, in this one proposition, will be without a peer in the mining world.

VALUABLE CHARTER.

The Pine Creek Power Co., Limited

Receives Its Charter --- Valuable Concession to the Offshoot of a Popular Company.

Several weeks ago it was known that the Sunrise Co. had taken steps to have their water rights so consolidated and amended, as to enable them to deal with that large section of Pine creek hitherto unworkable for want of water, and that by obtaining the desired concession they would be released from the friction which has for the last two years been caused by other companies in the neighborhood. The charter applied for was passed by the Legislative Council, and the consent of the Lieut.-Governor obtained on the 29th ulto. The objects of the company are contained in the following paragraphs, taken from the B. C. Gazette of that date:

"(c.) This is to certify that the 'Pine Creek Power Co., Limited,' established with the object of carrying on business of a 'power company' within the meaning of Part IV. of the 'Water Clauses Consolidation Act, 1897,' in the Atlin district, Province of British Columbia, and incorporated on the 28th day of June, 1901, has submitted its undertaking to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council for approval, and that the said undertaking, as shown by the documents and plan filed, has been approved, and that the same is as follows:—

"To make available water for the working of a large area of placer mining ground which is at present unworkable. Beginning at a point approximately 18,000 feet above the Discovery claim, on Pine creek, to be known as 'point of diversion of water,' and proceeding thence westerly along Pine creek to its mouth, and extending laterally on either side of Pine creek so as to embrace the Pine creek water-shed, the Sunrise gulch, Twin gulch and the lower portion of Spruce creek below the discovery claim, embracing that part known locally as the 'Stevendyke.'

"That for this purpose the Company will acquire by purchase three thousand five hundred miners' inches of water, to be diverted from Pine creek, using the present channel of Pine creek to the point of diversion, 18,000 feet above the discovery claim, and thence by ditch and flume along the north side of Pine creek to and below the Sunrise gulch, and thence by a system of steel pipe line to reach Pine creek at and along parts approximately 9,500 feet below the intake, and again at discovery claim, 18,-

Publishers' Announcement.

ANTICIPATING the early completion of through telegraphic communication with outside points, the Publishers desire to announce that they are now entering into negotiations for a telegraphic service for the ATLIN CLAIM. It is the present calculation to issue a special bulletin every Wednesday afternoon and the regular issue every Saturday morning. As such an arrangement will entail very considerable cost, it is especially desired that every person intending to winter in the camp will become a subscriber, as upon the support of the public will depend the carrying out of our present intentions. In order to insure us in our endeavors, subscriptions will be received at this office or at E. L. Pillman & Co.'s, Atlin, at Taylor's and Stewart's stores in Discovery, and at J. A. Fraser & Co.'s on Spruce creek. It is to be hoped that the public will show their appreciation by entering their names on the subscription lists as soon as possible, in order that we may see our way clear to complete the arrangements we are negotiating and that the contemplated service may be immediately utilized.

AN ominous silence seemed to strike the people of Atlin last Tuesday afternoon, on the hoisting of flags at half mast, and the words were rather breathed than spoken, "The President is dead!" Despatches were received through Skagway that afternoon conveying the sad intelligence that President McKinley had succumbed to his wounds at 2:45 p.m., on Saturday, 14th inst, at Millburn House, Buffalo, N. Y. This makes the third martyred President in the history of the United States: Pres. Lincoln, April 15th, 1865, Pres. Garfield, Sept. 19th, 1881, and now comes President McKinley, on Sept. 14th, 1901. As he lived, so he died, his last words an index of his rule through life, "Not our will, O God, but thine.—O tempore, O mores.

"CONSISTENCY, thou art a jewel." That sage remark should apply alike to the Government and to the individual. The all wise Lieut.-Gov. in Council was pleased, under and by virtue of the Statutes of the Province of British Columbia, to grant a certain charter and certificate of incorporation, on Aug. 29th, to the "Pine Creek Power Company" of Atlin, B.C., which, from the moment of its approval and signature by the Lieut. Governor, became law. By the same boat with advice to the Gold Commissioner comes a telegram from a minister whose oath of office had barely left his lips, to not give effect to that law; result: the camp is paralyzed!

THE ENGINEER

Description of This Valuable Group

On Taku Arm From the Pen of the Consulting Engineer, M. M. Clere.

We are indebted to M. Maurice Clere, Consulting Engineer for the Engineer Mining Co., of Skagway, for the following description of the promising property of this company:

"The property is situated on the east shore of Taku Arm, about 8 miles south of Golden Gate and is composed of 11 mineral claims. Many ledges are known in the property, the most important being:

"1. 'The Main Ledge.' This ledge's strike is about N. 250° W., and its dip 5° N. It is traced fully 900 feet in length, with every indication of going further, and has an average width of 4 feet. The filling matter is quartz between walls of slate. The quartz in some places carries antimonio-sulphides, combines of silver. The slate, near the contact, is impregnated with sulphates, averaging $60 to the ton. The quartz itself is low grade, and assays of the cropping seem to give an average value of $4 to the ton.

"2. 'Mill Test Ledge.' Near the water edge of the lake. Strike about N. 200° W. The length of this ledge is as yet unknown owing to the difficulty of working in such close proximity to the lake. A shaft has been sunk about twelve feet. The average width is 3 feet. The quartz is mixed with a greenish matter in which the presence of tellurides is easy to detect and where free gold is to be seen scattered all through. The assays of the Mill Test ledge have been very satisfactory. Small samples have assayed from $100 up to $2000 to the ton in gold and silver. A mill run of 4 tons made in San Francisco gave $37 to the ton. This ledge will be developed when the water is low.

"3. 'Foundation Ledge.' This lode is traced some 600 feet in a direction about N. 200° W., with a dip of 5° toward the east. The average width is 18 feet. A tunnel has been started from the water edge to cut the lode which it struck about 150 feet below the surface. The quartz is white, mixed with small pieces of slate, and the ore is low grade, free milling, with occasional pay shoots. Values seem to be rather irregular, and a thorough sampling has been ordered to ascertain if all the ore could be put through a mill or if it would be more profitable to work only the richest parts. There are conservatively 50,000 tons of ore in sight in this ledge.

"4. 'Toronto Lead.' This lead runs in the same direction as No. 3, has about the same width and is traced by the croppings some 900 feet. Little work has been done on it, but some assays made last year gave $15 to the ton. Besides these ledges mentioned, numerous small ones occur though not yet studied."

OBSERVATIONS

What W. M. Brewer, M.E., Thinks of Atlin.

He Expresses His Opinion on What He Saw --- May Yet Be the Peer of Prominent Camps in the United States.

Among the many visitors to the district this summer was Mr. W. M. Brewer, M.E., British Columbia representative of the ENGINEERING AND MINING JOURNAL. The first communication to his Journal appeared in the issue of Aug. 24th, and deals mainly with his observations made on the trip from Victoria to Atlin. In a subsequent issue he promises to set forth his views on this district, which, when they appear, ought to make interesting reading. On his way out, a few weeks ago, Mr. Brewer was interviewed in Skagway, and is reported to have said:

"The formation around Atlin is a magnesian rock, usually found very much altered, and would be classified as a serpentine. In the valleys near the town immense beds of white material, which at a casual glance, would be taken as kaolin, but which Mr. Bromley, M.E., has had analyzed and finds to be magnesia, exist. These are due to the decomposition or degradation of the serpentine or other magnesian rocks. At the first glance it appears that the creeks, which have appeared to be gold bearing, all traversed the same formation, and it has been stated that the gold-bearing area of Atlin is confined to these magnesian rocks, but a closer examination, and especially a trip to the head of Spruce creek, demonstrates that a very large proportion of the formation on that creek is a graphytic slate, very probably belonging to the Pre-Cambrian period, and possibly derived from the metamorphism of Cambrian shales.

"Above the head of Spruce creek I was informed that a belt of limestone occurred, and was shown a specimen of crystalline limestone, which was said to have been taken from that belt. It is my impression that the slates belonging to the zone which Spruce creek crosscuts will possibly be found to contain extensive bodies of low grade auriferous material which, with a cheap fuel, will offer an opportunity for the camp to become a permanent lode mining one, possibly of very large dimensions.

"The other quartz propositions that I saw, including the Anaconda group, Monro mountain and the Yellow Jacket, Pine creek, are not yet sufficiently developed or exploited to warrant the expression of any opinion as to their future possibilities.

"During the few days I was in camp I visited Boulder, Spruce, Pine and McKee creeks and Willow gulch, besides the quartz propositions mentioned. With the exception of Spruce, I find the geological formation comprised the magnesian rocks which occur around Atlin as well as dykes of a fine-grained eruptive rock, most probably diabase. Hydraulic plants are being operated on all of these creeks, and the results of these operations will not be known till the end of the season, when the bedrock flumes into which the material is washed are cleaned up; but a comparatively few individual owners were working their claims, the greatest number being on Stevendyke gulch and Spruce creek. I visited several of these, and saw some partial clean-ups, which, according to the rule of every other placer camp in the world, showed good, bad and indifferent results. I noticed one feature in particular which was that comparatively very little typical gold DUST is found either in the sluice boxes or by panning.

"I consider that the prospects of the Atlin district, provided a cheap fuel is furnished, and the particular formation I have mentioned is thoroughly exploited and demonstrated to carry bodies of gold-bearing ore, either free milling or refractory, are the peer of those of several of the prominent camps in the United States."

Farewell to Rev. J. Pringle.

On Tuesday evening last an impromptu gathering assembled at the First Presbyterian Church to bid Mr. Pringle farewell and to wish him godspeed on his journey northward. Mr. John Williams occupied the chair, and in a brief and pithy speech eulogized Mr. Pringle since his incumbency to the pastorate of St. Andrew's church. He expressed deep regret at being called on to wish him farewell. Miss Hughes, Ethel Pillman, Messrs. Lumsden and Stables favored the company with well chosen selections, Mr. Stables' being an original one, sung to the tune and with the chorus of "Will ye no' come back again." Mr. J. D. Graham kindly lent his gramaphone for the occasion and treated the audience to some excellent pieces. Mr. J. A. Fraser, on behalf of Mr. Pringle's many friends, presented him with a purse containing a sum of money, and wished him every success and prosperity which the heart could desire. Mr. Pringle, despite the bitterness of his feelings in having to leave, gave a most pleasing acknowledgment of the kindness and respect he had ever received from all he had met since he came to the country, but this last material token of esteem was received in a manner that words could not express. The ladies had hurriedly prepared a sumptuous supper, and, in spite of the object of the gathering, an extremely pleasant evening was spent by all.
