NO HOUSING PROGRAMME TOO BIG FOR VANCOUVER

Vancouver is short of housing accommodation so acutely short that rents promise to soar to unexpected heights before the winter is over.

It has been conservatively estimated that Vancouver's population has increased during the last year—principally owing to the number of her warrior sons who have returned and are again taking up duties in civilian life—by at least 15 per cent.

Vancouver always rises to meet whatever condition confronts her in anything from a Victory Loan drive to a tax sale, and we believe that citizens can be sufficiently aroused to the importance of furnishing housing accommodations for her increased population.
