Surveyors to Finish Task in Two Weeks

Vancouver, May 6.—Surveyors working on the Howe Sound branch of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway will complete their work within two weeks, according to figures compiled in the local engineering offices of the railway. Five separate lines have been run from Newport to Point Atkinson, a stretch of forty-two miles through what is described as the most difficult territory in British Columbia. The running of these lines has been made with the greatest difficulty and some times at the risk of the surveyors' lives. On one occasion a surveyor fell over a mountain side into Howe Sound and narrowly escaped death. The construction of the railway down the Sound is estimated to cost $100,000 per mile and more. The preparation of the road bed will not be undertaken till the survey is completed to Fort George.

Act Respecting Hudson Bay, Peace River and Pacific Railway Passes Third Reading

Ottawa, May 9.—An Act respecting the Hudson Bay, Peace River and Pacific Railway Company passed its third reading without amendment. This Act provides for the increased capitalization of the Company and allows an extension of time for the commencement of construction. It is anticipated that the government will give its attention to the matter of guaranteeing the bonds of the Company at an early date.

Morning sittings are now being held, which means that business will be rushed, and there are predictions that the House may finish by June 1st.

Dr. Friedmann Sells to Syndicate

New York, May 8.—Admission that he has sold the American rights to his alleged tuberculosis cure has been made by Dr. Friedmann, the Berlin scientist.

"The main contingency upon I agreed to enter into this arrangement" said Dr. Friedmann, "was that poor persons should be treated free. That provision is in the contract, and it is also understood that the first institute is to be opened here soon."

Amundsen Accepts

Washington, May 8.—Raoul Amundsen, the Arctic explorer has written to Secretary Garrison expressing his purpose to avail himself of the privilege of passing through the Panama Canal this fall with the Fram, the vessel in which he is to make his latest Arctic trip. The Fram is now at Buenos Ayres.

Strike of Coal Miners Interferes with Business

Victoria, May 7.—The coal mines at Nanaimo, Coal Harbor and other places are closed on account of a strike of miners and business is in a state of stagnation.

A representative body of citizens have taken the matter up with the Provincial Government seeking a termination of the conflict between employers and men. If continued the present state of affairs cannot but prejudicially affect the commercial interests in the coal producing centers.

Mr. Hazen Denies Compact With Nationalists

Ottawa, May 7.—The Minister of Marine denies that the Conservative party ever entered into any compact with the Nationalists, and asserts that the story of the government agreeing to repeal the Naval Service Act is entirely without foundation.

Canadian Pacific to Spend $100,000,000

Ottawa, May 7.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy since his arrival in England read the announcement that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company intended spending $50,000,000 on western equipment and now cables that for the whole system the expenditure will be nearly $100,000,000, exclusive of new rolling stock. The expenditure, he says, will not involve another appeal to the London financial market.

Drastic Anti-Alien Law Passes in Arizona

Sacramento, May 7.—The Anti-Alien Law passed by the legislature of Arizona is much more drastic than that adopted by California.

Japan shows little anxiety as regards the Arizona Land Bill, but realizes that California lands are more productive and afford a natural outlet for the surplus population for their over-crowded island. Hence her pride is severely touched in this regard.

Crown Jewels Mystery Up Again

London, May 8. The Daily Mail learns that the mystery of the disappearance of the Dublin crown jewels will be revived in London shortly by libel action, which one of the officials who left under a cloud of suspicion, is to bring with the object of vindicating his personal honor. The case, it is stated, will involve the publication of the inner history of the mystery.

Attempt to Wreck St. Paul's Cathedral

BOMB DISCOVERED BY VERGER

London, May 7.—An attempt to wreck St. Paul's Cathedral was fortunately frustrated early yesterday morning. The Verger making his rounds about eight o'clock heard suspicious ticking sounds near the high altar, and on investigation found a bomb wrapped up in a suffragette newspaper.

The bomb, which was hidden under a chair beside the Bishop's throne at the head of the choir, was painted black and contained two powerful detonators attached to an electric battery, it was filled with an hard black substance resembling coal.

The placing of the bomb is attributed to militant suffragettes, who probably seized an opportunity while the verger was conducting sight-seers through the edifice the day previous, although the Dean who conducted the evening song, near to the Bishop's throne, did not notice the parcel under the chair or hear any suspicious sounds from that quarter.

More Wireless Operators Strike

Marconi Company Insist Regular Service is Being Maintained

San Francisco, May 7.—The Marconi Company continues to ignore the demands of strikers and insist that a regular service is being maintained despite all complaints that no messages are obtainable from ships after leaving port.

Sixteen more wireless operators struck work yesterday, materially affecting the departure of ten vessels, the stewards refusing to feed the strike breakers and the engineers also refusing to supply the necessary electrical power. One operator named King was forcibly taken from a tug and prevented from joining a steamer about to leave port. All freight steamers carrying wireless have been ordered to transfer operators to passenger vessels.

China to Protest Against California's Alien Bill

Washington, May 7. China is preparing to follow the lead of Japan in protesting against the California Alien Land Bill. The ownership of lands in California by Chinese has diminished considerably during last few years.

Government Poultry Breeding Station for Bella Coola

The Department of Agriculture has decided to establish a poultry breeding station at Bella Coola, same to be in charge of Mr. S. Le C. Grant of Aytoun Ranch.

Mr. Grant expects to receive from the Department fifteen settings of eggs (15 to setting) which he will dispose of to any person owning or renting land in the Valley. One setting only will be sold to any one person. Those desirous of obtaining a setting of these eggs should send in their names to Mr. Grant at once.

Timber Cruisers Arrive

Mr. Mark Smaby and a party of timber cruisers, who have been in the field estimating timber holdings for the Ocean Falls Company along South Bentick Arm since the middle of March, came up last Wednesday to continue the work throughout Bella Coola Valley.

This, it appears, is the first thorough estimate of the Company's timber limits, and is being made with a view of ascertaining the amount of timber suitable for lumber, also how much will be available for the manufacture of pulp. It will take the best part of two months to finish the survey.

Six Big Launches for Forestry Department

Victoria, May 8.—Six powerful launches, which will be used in carrying provincial timber cruisers to points along the coast which are impossible to reach by other means of transportation, are nearing completion at the yards of the Hinton Electric Company at Rock Bay, Victoria. The launches will be used this summer in the inland waters of B. C., by the provincial department of forestry.

Private Flights Are Forbidden Germans

Berlin, May 7.—Owing to the ill-feeling aroused in France recently by the landing of German air craft at Luneville and Arras, court officers of the German army are notified they are forbidden to participate in the future in private flights or competitions involving any possibility of crossing a foreign frontier.

Jottings of Bella Coola and District

S. S. Princess Beatrice arrived at this port on Friday last, bringing among other passengers, Mr. W. Lang of the well known firm of Turner, Beaton & Co., of Victoria, and Mr. T. J. Stephens representing J. Leckie & Co., Ltd., of Vancouver.

Both these gentlemen displayed their goods in the commodious sample room of the Grand View Hotel and succeeded in lifting substantial orders from the local merchants.

The passenger list of the Camosun arriving last Saturday included Messrs P. Keough, T. Jacobsen and H. Schulstad.

Mr. Roy Collard left on the last Camosun for Peace River, where he intends to make his home.

Much regret is being felt at the departure of Mr. Collard, especially by the members of the Liberal Association, of which organization he was one of the most influential and active members.

The "Courier" joins with Mr. Collard's many friends in wishing him every success in the new country to which he is bound.

Ed. Wheeler who has been temporarily in charge of a gang employed in repairing and enlarging the government wharf, has given place to foreman Keough who has been in charge of all such work in Bella Coola for several years.

Mr. Wheeler is at present assisting his partners in the firm of Robinson, Wheeler and Robinson in the construction of a new residence for Mr. R. A. Teebay.

Among the outgoing passengers by the last south-bound Princess Beatrice was Rev. W. H. Gibson who is attending the annual Methodist conference in Vancouver.

Mr. Gibson who is president of the Development League, took away with him a cheque for a very substantial amount, where-with to purchase prizes for the sports meeting billed for May 21.

Antoine Capoose, of Anaham Lake fame, has gone south taking with him a valuable bunch of furs including several silver-grey foxes.

Mr. Roy Mosher, who is in the employ of the Yukon telegraph line, has installed a telephone in Capt. W. Stevenson's house some twenty miles up the Valley.

This station is now open for business.

Mr. Keough returns to take charge of the construction of the several bridges which are included in the appropriation for this year.

The Bella Coola Cannery has finished can-making and is all prepared to commence spring salmon fishing in the course of a couple of weeks.

Preparations have been made for a very large pack, and it is said that record speed was attained in can-making this spring.

Fishery overseer G. Saugstad, and staff, left with the power launch Merlin for Rivers Inlet.

Mr. R. A. Teebay is at present engaged preparing architectural plans for the building about to be constructed for the use of the Bank of British North America.

Mr. Teebay is an architect of considerable experience, having been in practice in Liverpool, England, and Cape Town, South Africa, where many samples of his work stand as evidence of his pronounced ability.

The Development League has the arrangements for Empire Day celebrations well in hand.

Many entries for the different events have been received and no doubt exists regarding the success of the occasion.

Interior Indians continue to arrive with numerous furs. They report the trail in good condition but for a number of wind-falls, which are to be attended to by Mr. Geo. Young and gang, who will probably leave during the week.

Road work continues some little distance out of town where foreman Draney and gang are engaged straightening out the road. The bridge over the Paisley River has been moved.

Extreme quiet reigns at Ocean Falls most of the employees having left for the south. The large supply of stores has been sent to Vancouver and one might easily believe that the suspension of operations will be of considerable duration. This, however, is not generally anticipated.

NOTICE.

The Grand View Hotel will supply SPECIAL PICNIC LUNCHES on the occasion of the 24th May celebration. Orders must be received not later than May 21.

Tea and Coffee will be furnished on the sports ground. Special attention given to orders by mail.

Forces Minority Rule

Majority of People in Canada Voted Against Borden Tribute Bill

In his effort to force his Naval Tribute Bill through the House of Commons by using the closure, Mr. Borden shows a certain cunning. He has good reason to prefer coercing the Parliamentary Opposition rather than appealing to the country, since a very slight study of election figures will show that a majority of over 200,000 Canadian electors voted against his tribute policy.

At the last election the total popular voted showed:

Conservatives	669,557
Liberals	625,096
Conservative majority	44,461

That is Mr. Borden's total backing in Parliament, in other words, counting pro-tribute Conservatives and pledged anti-tribute Nationalists together only represents a popular majority of 44,461.

But Mr. Borden's present Nationalist allies were returned to Parliament on a platform of absolute opposition to any form of Imperial assistance or naval construction without an appeal to the people. Although a section of them have chosen to stultify their electors and disregard their solemn pledges on this point it does not alter the situation so far as the people are concerned.

When the vote on Mr. Borden's Naval Bill was taken, 7 Nationalists remained true to their pledges and voted against the Bill. These 7 represented 17,140 votes. There were 13 Nationalists in the House who voted against the instructions of their electors and their own pledges and supported the Naval Bill. These, with Hon. Mr. Monk (who was not in the House but stated that he would have opposed the measure) represented 41,631 votes. Thus, had the members of Parliament all properly represented their electors and carried out the pledges which won them their seats, Mr. Borden's popular majority would have been wiped out and a majority of many thousands been registered for the Laurier policy.

A Confession and a Conclusion

CONFESSION.—"A parliament should not sit, as we have sat, for nearly five months since the 21st day of November last, and practically accomplish nothing at all in respect to the public business which is before it. If parliament can be detained in that way for five months without making any substantial progress with the program of the government of the day it can be detained for twelve months, or fifteen months, or eighteen months. Parliamentary institutions under such conditions would be practically useless."

Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden in speech in House of Commons, April 9, 1913.

CONCLUSION.—It all depends on the government and who is at its head.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was Prime Minister for 15 years, but never once was obliged to make a confession of incompetence either on his own or his government's behalf.

Ousting Sir Wilfrid

Some parliamentary humorist has started the story going in Conservative newspapers that Hon. Dr. Pugsley is trying to oust Sir Wilfrid Laurier from the position of leader of the Opposition. It is only interesting in that it indicates an appreciation of the general fighting strength of the Liberal party as represented in the Commons.

Everybody who has watched the battle in the House has remarked on the array of debating talent on the benches to the left of Mr. Speaker. The Liberals, under Sir Wilfrid Laurier, have in the last few months proved themselves the best fighting machine that the Canadian Parliament has ever had.

At least half a dozen men have shown capacity for leadership, and each has developed a speciality. Dr. Pugsley has proved himself to be a master at parliamentary tactics, and in this connection has scored to an extent that has now brought down upon him unintentional tribute from the Conservative press.

But to suggest that Dr. Pugsley or anyone else is trying to oust Sir Wilfrid from the leadership of the Liberal party is to reach the height of absurdity. Sir Wilfrid's success, both before and after 1896, has been in no small measure due to his knowledge of men. The great leader, whether in finance, or in commerce, or engineering, or manufacturing industry, is he who has the capacity to select assistants best able to help the cause.

Dr. Pugsley and the other Liberals who are bearing the brunt of the fight in the House of Commons today are men who were called to the standard by Sir Wilfrid. They have been trained in his school and they revere the master. They are carrying on his work with a whole-soul interest. They are battling for the rights of the people as Liberalism has ever done. They are pulling together with a unanimity that has been surprising to those whom they are opposing.

When that day shall have come for the master to lay down his baton, and all pray that it will be long hence, then and then only will be the time to consider the selection of his successor.

The Pall Mall Gazette, one of the leading British Conservative dailies, in commenting on the passage of the Naval Bill, says: "It is much to be regretted that Mr. Borden should have found it necessary to propose the introduction of the closure on a matter of the deepest imperial consequence."

All the Nationalist boasting about freedom was just bluster after all. They all voted for closure.

The latest information which has leaked out regarding the ill-fated Scott expedition indicates how terrible must have been the sufferings of the party.

Captain Oates, it is now stated, had already lost both feet from frost-bite before he went out to his death, and the others were so attenuated as to be unrecognizable.

It was surely a martyr's death for each of the gallant little band.

King George of Greece objected to Sleuths

The late King George of Greece was particularly adverse to being under the surveillance of detectives, and he often derived amusement when travelling abroad in concealing his movements from the men who were assigned to watch and protect him from just such attacks as resulted in his death at the hands of the assassin at Salonika last month.

French detectives tell many stories of the King's devices to elude them. It was his majesty's custom to go every year to Aix-les-Bains for the waters, and the French government always took upon itself the responsibility for his safety. The king would from time to time seek out the men charged with his protection and expostulate on the futility of following him. The answer always was an apology, coupled with the explanation that the orders of superiors had to be obeyed.

One day at Aix-les-Bains, King George was walking along the road up Mount Revard when he noticed two men of the Paris political police shadowing him. Here was an opportunity to play the sleuths a trick. The king entered a little roadside wine shop, placed his hat, stick and gloves on the sill of an open window, sat down at a table just out of sight of the window and ordered a glass of beer. In a few moments he slipped quietly out through the back door, pulled out of his pocket a cap to take the place of the hat he had left behind, climbed a fence and got away unnoticed.

They are calling W. J. Bryan's proposals for world's peace the "sober second thought." Sort of morning after the night before reflections?

Says the Boston Transcript: "Senator Chamberlain's bill to abrogate the Hay-Pauncefote and Clayton-Bulwer treaties would elevate us from the role of pick-pocket to that of highwayman."

A recent press despatch makes mention of one Arghyropolous. The telegraph operator suggests that we whistle it.
