British Cruiser Sunk By German Submarine

Summary of News from Seat of War

Monday. Despatch from the Hague says Antwerp surrendered to the Germans at 2:30 p. m. Friday, October 9th. The war flag was removed from the Cathedral and a white flag raised in its place at 9 a. m., the actual surrender of the city taking place five and a half hours later. During all Thursday night Zeppelin airships directed the fire of the German artillery, the result of which was appalling. The fighting has been indescribable. The Germans brought into use no less than 200 guns of 11, 12, and 16 inch calibre, having effective range of eight miles.

British government announces that Antwerp was evacuated by Belgians yesterday.

French torpedo boats 338 and 47 collided near Isle of Porquerolles in the Mediterranean. Both vessels were sunk. Crews were saved.

A Rome despatch says troops suffering severely especially during the nights owing to cold. Snow already covers mountain peaks. Several Austrian detachments compelled to retire, unable to resist severe weather.

In latest fighting in East Prussia despatch says Russians took 10,000 prisoners and 40 guns.

Monday. No news received at this office owing to telegraphic communication with Ashcroft being interrupted.

Tuesday. Belgian government to be transferred to France, that it may have full liberty of action. Temporary offices provided at Havre. King Albert remains at head of Belgian army.

It is officially announced at Capetown that a command under Colonel Maritz has rebelled in north-west of Cape Provinces. Martial law has been proclaimed throughout the Union.

Germans took possession of Ghent Monday morning.

Teutonic allies and Russians are preparing for what may prove one of the most decisive contests of the war. Evidence points towards belief that great conflict will take place in Russian Poland. Russians have abandoned narrow point in Galicia between Przemyśl and Cracow for strategic reasons.

Wednesday. A news agency despatch from Lisbon says Portugal has declared war on Germany. No official confirmation. Report says Congress will be convoked on Friday to pass vote to mobilize Portuguese troops.

Reports received in London early today say Ostend has been captured by the Germans. These reports are unconfirmed from any official source but are permitted transmission by censors. German forces meet sharp opposition on the way to the Belgian seaport, but were allowed to enter the city unopposed once they reached the outskirts. It is reported that the Belgian army and British marines who retreated from Antwerp, proceeded south along the coast to join the left wing of the Allies.

Report from Berlin states that the Germans are preparing to lay siege to Belfort.

Austria, in a final and supreme effort to crush Serbia, and acting on orders from Germany, has concentrated on the banks of the Drina the greatest army yet sent against Serbia. Fierce skirmishes between outposts have already taken place and a big battle is imminent.

Tokyo despatch says arrangements are completed for all non-combatants to leave Tsing Tau today before final assault commences.

The fact that today is the anniversary of Jena, 108 years ago, is expected to cause a big action on western front. Only brief reports are being received from fighting lines.

Thursday. Official despatches from Petrograd confirm earlier report that the Austro-German army has met with complete defeat with enormous losses at the hands of the Russians, who captured thousands of prisoners. Russians also lost heavily.

Fire in government arsenal at Trieste, Austria, destroys a dreadnaught under construction.

Official bulletin says Belgrade is no longer in danger. State treasury returns there from Nish.

Allies are making considerable progress between Arras and Albert. High official declared this morning that the position occupied by the French army is most encouraging. The right wing of the Allied armies is showing activity, repulsing German attack and driving enemy back near Mulhausen.

Despatch from London says the position of the Allies left wing grows more satisfactory day by day from every point of view. The Germans have been pushed back as far as Courtrai where they are entrenching. An attempt by the Germans to make a dash on Calais was frustrated by the Allies near Cassel and St. Omer, the enemy being forced across the Belgian frontier.

According to a despatch from Copenhagen the Germans say that owing to the failure of Russians to make progress in the east, they intend transferring large masses of troops to the western front for an advance on Paris. Considerable sickness reported among German troops.

Success Attends Allies Right Wing

Paris, October 16.—The steady hammering which the German right wing has sustained at the hands of the Allies has brought them within cannon shot of the forts of Metz. The fighting on this end of the line is said to have been desperate during the past week. French troops are now in possession of the route Nancy to Metz as far as Dagny on the Lorraine border, and are now threatening the route from Verdun to Metz, thus endangering the lines of communication of the Crown Prince's army.

Enemy Within Ten Miles of Ostend

London, Oct. 16.—The Germans are reported as being within ten miles of Ostend. The steamer service has been suspended. The British press says that should the city be taken, as is expected, that it will be of little strategic value to them. Berlin reports say heavy fighting is expected in which British dreadnaughts will be used in defense of Ostend.

Italian Workmen Expelled

Rome, Oct. 16.—The governor of Trieste has ordered expulsion of all Italians employed on the dock where the fire occurred the other day. This action has caused considerable excitement.

Fishing Vessel Blown Up

Copenhagen, Oct. 16.—A German fishing vessel has been blown up by a German mine in the Langeland Belt, north of the coast of Denmark.

Fired the Magazine.

Amsterdam, Oct. 16.—The indirect cause of the war is recalled by a report from Vienna that the trial of the alleged assassins of the Austrian heir-apparent, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, and his consort, will open at Agram, November 5th.

Cruiser Sunk by German Submarine

London, Oct. 16.—The British cruiser Hawke has been sunk in the North Sea by a German submarine. Only fifty men out of the crew of four hundred were saved. The Hawke was an old ship of seven thousand tons, launched in 1893.

German Plans Again Frustrated

London, Oct. 16.—The Times correspondent says the Germans have abandoned the attempt to batter their way to Paris by way of Roye, and are also slackening their attack on the forts on the heights of Breumont near Rheims, where the Allies have taken several trenches. The attempt by the Germans to envelope Verdun has been frustrated.

The Express correspondent says the severe fighting which has taken place in north-west France during the last few days has resulted strongly in favor of Allies. Unless the Germans bring up heavy reinforcements, there is little danger of them reaching the channel ports.

Canadians Arrive In England

Given Magnificent Reception

Plymouth, October 16.—More transports bearing troops of the Canadian contingent arrived today. When the orders to disembark were suddenly received, the troops were given a magnificent reception as they marched to the trains which were to convey them to Salisbury plains where they will undergo a short final training before proceeding to the front.

Land Slide at Panama

Panama, Oct. 15.—A serious landslide occurred in Culebra cut late last night, completely interrupting all traffic through the canal.

Jottings of Bella Coola and District

S. S. Camosun arrived in port on Sunday last. Docking at the government wharf, she landed a number of passengers besides a consignment of freight, after which she proceeded to the cannery where she loaded some 3,000 cases of salmon.

Mr. C. H. Gibbs, representing the Computing Scale Co. of Canada, Ltd., spent the week in town on business with the local merchants.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Nygaard came in on the last steamer and will spend a couple of weeks in Road-superintendent R. Jennings left on the last steamer after an inspection of the road and trail as far as Constantia Ranch, some sixty miles up the valley.

C. Mills, representing Kelly Douglas & Co., and C. Garrett, of Gault Bros., left by the last south-bound steamer after a week's stay in the valley. Both gentlemen were well satisfied with their visit and report finding business quite brisk.

We draw the attention of our readers to a letter from Mr. A. D. Darlington of Shushartie Bay, which appears in this issue. Mr. Darlington has long contributed to the success and popularity of the Courier by his interesting contribution of news from Shushartie Bay and district.

As will be seen from his letter our esteemed correspondent has felt the call of his country and is now on his way to do his share in defense of our Empire.

While thanking him for his past favors, which have indeed been many, we take the opportunity of wishing him God-speed and a safe return. We look forward to hearing from him from time to time and trust that it will not be long before we will be able to again offer our readers some interesting matter from his able pen.

We are pleased to state that our readers are not to be deprived of the popular 'Shushartie Notes,' as another of our readers has kindly volunteered to keep us posted on the news from that quarter. The Courier tenders its thanks to this gentleman for his timely offer.

The crops throughout the valley have been abundant this year and the question is being asked on all sides "What are we to do with our produce?" This is becoming a serious matter with the farmers of this valley. There is no doubt that Prince Rupert would be only too glad to handle all Bella Coola Valley can produce, but how to get the stuff to the northern city is the question which confronts us. If Prince Rupert is ever to become the great distributing centre that it most assuredly should, it will devolve on the Board of Trade at that place to see to it that all outlying places to the north of Queen Charlotte Sound are brought into easy communication with that city.

Following on Mr. Fred Grant who left here a few weeks ago to offer himself for active service, Messrs. Locke and Adams, both of whom are well known locally as being connected with Mr. Robert Lowe's survey party, have gone to offer their sword-arm for the honor of their king and country.

Our readers will be pleased to learn that the several of our friends from this part who volunteered for active service in the first contingent all passed the final tests and are by now in training in England. This is, however, no more than we expected.

This week has seen considerable alteration to the interior of the Courier office, the work being done by D. C. Balfour.

The Gospel Services which have been held in the Mackenzie School every night during the week have been fairly well attended considering the inclemency of the weather. The last meeting of the series takes place at 7:30 this evening and it is hoped that there will be a large turn-out to say good-bye and God-speed to Capt. and Mrs. Stephenson and Mr. E. Whitehead, who are leaving for Alberta where they will spend the winter in evangelical work.

Rev. T. C. Colwell, B. A., Pastor

Shushartie Bay

(FROM OUR RESIDENT CORRESPONDENT)

The new cannery, completed only a matter of four months ago, has already justified its existence by securing over twelve thousand cases of salmon. Mr. Wm. Lord, the energetic manager, intends to considerably enlarge the plant during the coming winter, and already has men engaged on the necessary plumbing work. It is Mr. Lord's intention to purchase all kinds of fish which will be cared for by a large cold storage plant in connection with the cannery.

Mr. J. J. Skinner has had his large power boat re-modelled by Brown Bros. of the Shushartie Bay saw mill, and will shortly put her into commission in the halibut fishing business. Should circumstances warrant, Mr. Skinner is prepared to put several more boats into the same business.

Messrs. H. E. Wilson and D. Weyms have commenced halibut fishing.

This season has been the driest for many years in this district, and the settlers are all satisfied that they have chosen the best end of Vancouver Island.

Hard times are not noticeable in these parts. Work has been plentiful and the large payroll from the new cannery has been of great benefit to the community.

H. Idsardie, government surveyor, has with considerable difficulty secured a new gang of men, eleven of whom are farmers from Cape Scott.

The Time for Action.

Some time ago in an editorial entitled "After the War," the Courier suggested the present as the proper time for the earnest consideration of the question of dealing effectively with the large numbers of immigrants from Europe who can confidently be expected to come to British Columbia when peace is proclaimed, and the vast armies now engaged are demobilized. The question of unemployment has for some time past been a vexed one in this province. This winter will see the authorities in our cities again confronted with the question of providing employment for hundreds if not thousands of men.

The system followed up to now, has been to offer relief by providing employment on public works to a portion of the enforced idle and that very often at reduced wages. Then we have soup kitchens and other charitable efforts, which are all very well as far as they go. Such measures as these only deal with the effect and do nothing to eliminate the cause of the deplorable condition of unemployment.

We read much of the "Back to the Land" movement. But the question may well be asked, as regards this province, is there such a movement? Under present conditions is such a movement possible?

The Vancouver Daily Province in a recent issue says: "We call attention to a letter signed J. Griffin, in which the writer emphasizes the point the Province has made over and over again. The writer states:

"It seems unfair to expect the unemployed to avail themselves of any scheme for going back to the land under present conditions. For instance, I would be only too pleased to avail myself of the back to the land movement if it were possible to show me the land I can obtain. If I had the money to go on the land I should place myself out of the unemployed list. I have been trying to get back to the land for over eighteen months, but I cannot even get the train fares, let alone anything else. I was seven years on the prairies and know that the farm is the only place where the working man can get the full effects of his labor. The more he does, the more he reaps for himself and his family."

The above is only one case among thousands which could easily be relieved if land settlement in this province was on a proper basis.

The land question is one that will have to be faced sooner or later. It is of vital and paramount importance to the province as a whole, and to every individual in the province.

The time for laying back and talking complacently about the vast resources of British Columbia is long past, if indeed it ever properly existed. What is required now is action on the part of our government. Much public money has been spent in acquiring information by means of Royal Commissions and other methods and the public will very soon be demanding some return for the money expended.

Now is the time for some man or men to come forward with a vigorous policy tending to a complete revision of our present altogether inadequate system of land settlement. The question is, who will be the man? Can we look for much improvement from a government which in the past has shown nothing but indifference to the needs of the settler? Let us hope, however, that in this matter the unexpected will happen and that quickly.

Partisans Still Busy.

While political leaders of both parties in the Dominion are holding loyally to their decision to refrain from party strife and anything which smacks of partisanship, yet there appears to be some persons in the government ranks who do not hesitate to stoop to party trickery even at this time.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, as leader of the Opposition, declared that the Liberals throughout the Dominion were in hearty accord with the government and would give every assistance towards showing a united front to the common enemy.

As a result of this political truce, a military vote of fifty millions was passed without question or discussion.

It was further stated at the time that there would be no question of patronage, it being deemed unthinkable that party advantage be made of this crisis in Canadian affairs.

Evidencing the fact that some members of the government were false to their word, the Halifax Record publishes the following correspondence:

Warden's Office, Municipality of Cape Breton, Louisberg, C. B., Aug. 20, 1914.

Sir—Will you kindly inform me if supplies, etc., required for militia purposes in Cape Breton can be purchased on the advice of certain people in each community. I am, sir, your obedient servant.

H. C. Levatte, Warden Municipality of C. B. To A. E. Carpenter, Esq., Lieut.-Col. R. C. R., Commanding Defense Troops in Cape Breton, Sydney, N. S.

The reply to the above letter is as follows:

33 Charlotte Street, Sydney, C. B. August 26, 1914. To Warden Municipality of Cape Breton:

Sir—I have the honor, regarding your enquiry of date August 20th, to inform you that supplies are supposed to be purchased from friends of the political party in power, so long as their prices do not exceed current market rates.

A. E. Carpenter, Lieut.-Col. R. C. R., Commanding Defense Troops, Cape Breton.

No doubt this matter has been brought to the notice of the Premier and the parties concerned brought to task.

Contemptible Tactics.

For some time it has been persistently reported from Ottawa that pressure is being brought to bear by a certain group of politicians, under the leadership of Robert Rogers, upon Premier Borden with the intention of persuading him to bring on a general election this fall. They consider it good strategy to take advantage of the crisis through which the Empire is passing to make a bold bid for a return to power. Evidently they would feel no compunction in diverting a portion of the war loan loyally voted by a united parliament to their party campaign fund, imagining that the hands of the Liberals would be tied by their patriotism.

A significant hint of this in appeared in the form of an Ottawa dispatch to the New York press stating that the government would probably be forced to an immediate appeal to obtain endorsement of its policy in regard to Imperial defence. It further declared that the Liberal party was opposed to Canada's participation in the present war and that but for this opposition Canada would have sent 100,000 men instead of some 25,000. This despicable fabrication, base and contemptible as the mind of he who inspired it, was copied with relish by some government papers in the east.

The Canadian people know full well that Conservatives and Liberals stand united on the matter of the Dominion's participation in the war, and will treat this infamous suggestion with the scorn and loathing it deserves.

If there has been any criticism by the Liberal press, it has been upon the unfortunate delay in dispatching the Canadian contingent, and because more men should have been sent, in view of the many who were eager to offer their services.

Think to what depth of shame these low-live politicians would drag the country! What would the British people think were their government to take advantage of the present crisis to spring a general election? Think of our shame, when Ulsterman and Nationalist stand shoulder to shoulder. When the ministries of France and Belgium include factions which in ordinary times were constantly at each others throat. When even Russian nihilists are fighting for the Czar. Yet we find that there are men in our midst who would divide Canada into two hostile camps and make of us an object of contempt throughout the civilized world. What a yell of delight would be heard from Berlin, where the distorted report of a general election in Canada would be just what is required to encourage the Germans to further activity. In their effect, the falsehoods and suggestions contained in the despatch sent from Ottawa to the New York papers are nothing short of treason. If there are such contemptible beings in our country as would seriously advocate an election at this time, when our all is at stake, they should be regarded as a menace to the Empire's welfare, and should be either jailed or deported.

True Enough.

The following story is told of a couple of English tourists who were spending a quiet half hour in a German beer garden. The conversation turning to the subject of the monarch through whose country they were travelling, one of them remarking, "The Emperor is a fool." A German policeman standing near overheard the remark and approaching the Englishman requested that he accompany him to the police station. "What for," enquired the Englishman, somewhat startled at this turn of events. "Shust now, you say the Emperor vas von fool." "But I wasn't talking of your Emperor, I was speaking of the Emperor of Japan." "Nein! Nein! you ver not," expostulated the policeman. "Der vas be shust von Emperor dot ee's a fool."

A Future Problem.

Bits of gossip from abroad hint that Germany is ready to quit if guarantees are given of her future security. Since guaranty agreements are mere "scraps of paper," it would be interesting to know what Germany would consider sufficient to guarantee her safety.—Rochester Herald.

The Russian harvest is reported to have reached the enormous total of 64,285,000 tons. The Czar's soldiers ought not to want for food while the empire can produce such crops as this.

Going After Germany's Trade With Great Britain

One of the smaller manufacturing concerns of Canada, R. E. Thorne & Co., of Montreal and Valleyfield, has adopted an aggressive policy in view of present industrial conditions that might well be emulated by other and larger Canadian manufacturing industries.

This company operates the Canadian Bronze Powder Works, which supply most of the Canadian consumption of bronze powders, gold paints, and bronze liquids, as well as a portion of the demand of these articles in the United Kingdom. Germany has been the principal competitor of this company both in Canada and in the United Kingdom, and the company is making strenuous efforts to secure the trade in both countries that was Germany's. While one member of the firm remains in Canada to direct these efforts in this country, the other member is now on the Atlantic, en route to Great Britain, to take charge of an aggressive campaign there. In the meantime, in order to cope with the increased orders that are already coming in, double shifts are being employed in the company's plant at Valleyfield. If the expectations of the company regarding the extension of its business in the United Kingdom are realized further increases in its staff will be made.

Interviewed just before sailing for Great Britain, Mr. R. E. Thorne said:

"We have many enquiries from all parts of Great Britain for our products, and we expect that our business will be very much increased on this account. We are making arrangements, should this business warrant it, to increase our factory, and we expect to retain a good share of this trade."

This young Canadian industry has set some of its elders a good example in the matter of ensuring a supply of raw materials also. Until a few years ago the Canadian Bronze Powder Works was dependent upon Europe for most of its raw materials. The efforts of the company were directed to the securing of this raw material in Canada. As a result, much of it is now being made in the company's plant at Valleyfield, and practically all raw material required is produced in Canada. Thus this Canadian industry is practically self-contained, which is a matter of great advantage under present conditions.
