Local Farmers Make Good Show

TWENTY-EIGHT FIRST PRIZES CAPTURED AT PRINCE RUPERT EXHIBITION

Small Exhibit But Distinctly High-Class

That local farm produce compares very favorably with that from other points in B. C. has been fully demonstrated by the number of prizes which the Bella Coola exhibit accounted for at the recent Prince Rupert Exhibition.

Owing to the difficulty in getting produce from Bella Coola to Prince Rupert on account of the necessary transshipment, the local farmers were naturally somewhat discouraged and consequently the exhibit was small.

The following list of prizes won by our farmers is sufficient proof, however, that though the Bella Coola exhibit was small the quality was of a high standard:

Apples: O. T. Kellogg took three firsts, Baldwin, Northern Spy, Duchess; A. K. Oveson, first, Gravenstein; A. Svidahl, second, best five of any other variety; A. K. Oveson, first and diploma, collection of five varieties, five of each; diploma and medal for best district exhibit in this class was won by Bella Coola.

S. Le C. Grant was awarded nine firsts, seven seconds and a diploma, summary:—first, celery, dwarf red; carrots, largest unblemished specimen; cucumbers, frame or greenhouse and best pickling; leeks; onions, red globe and largest unblemished; artichokes, white jerusalem; sunflowers, three heads; everlasting flowers. Seconds, celery, dwarf white; cucumbers, ridge or garden; onions, one pint pickling; tomatoes, green and collection of three named varieties; parsniips. Diploma, collection of thirty-six potatoes.

O. T. Kellogg succeeded in lifting three first prizes in the potato class, also first for the best twelve plums.

B. F. Jacobsen won the special prize for the best bushel of potatoes.

Opening Ceremony

MR. WILLIAM MANSON DELIVERS AN ADDRESS

The proceedings began as usual with an address from the president Mr. J. Widsten, who complimented the valley upon its display and remarked upon the steadily increasing area under cultivation. After welcoming all our visitors and deprecating that the weather should have kept a few away, a program of music was entered upon.

During the interval in the program Mr. William Manson, the Provincial member, who had come in specially for the occasion, then addressed the gathering, remarking that he felt he could honestly compliment the inhabitants of the valley upon their enterprise, the conditions and the prospects of further advancement.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Saugstad gave a violin and organ duet. Miss B. Fraser and others contributed to the general enjoyment, the music being thoroughly appreciated.

At the close Messrs Tomlinson and Walker, judges of the exhibits, expressed their pleasure at being present and offered hearty congratulations at what had been already accomplished, with the hope that any assistance they could give was at the disposal of any member of either the Farmers' Institute or of the community.

ANNUAL EXHIBITION

Rain Interferes But Exhibits Pass All Previous Records

The annual exhibition of Bella Coola farm produce and various other industries was held in the Colony Hall on Thursday last. On account of the difference in date of the exhibition this year naturally the exhibits in certain branches were hardly in the same state of forwardness as last year, but taken all round the produce on exhibit would more than hold its own with the best of any other community, and would, undoubtedly, be a credit to a district of vastly greater area than is contained in our valley.

Particular attention was paid to some tomatoes, which, in their size and condition came as a surprise to even many of the farmers themselves. A squash exhibited was, from its size, (it weighed more than fifty pounds,) a most distinctive and striking object. But it is somewhat invidious for us to single out special articles; for, we living in the valley have always known of what our soil and our farmers are capable.

It is to the outside world we wish to convey the same information, and the people of Bella Coola will be glad to learn that a large sample of the produce of the valley will be sent to Vancouver and exhibited in the windows of Mr. Martin Ravey.

The Women's Needlework Par-Excellence.

Particular mention must be made of the specimens of needlework exhibited by numerous ladies. The taste and beauty of the Hardanger work above all could not be excelled by any exhibition in the world. In this department also it is questionable whether any community anywhere could compete with Bella Coola—a fact which might lead to this becoming a profitable branch of valley industry.

Messrs Walker and Tomlinson, the judges, are respectively agricultural and horticultural government experts, and the standard shown certainly came as a surprise to them.

Bread, grain of every variety, vegetables of all kinds, preserves, butter, floral displays, all came up to the level of what is now an exceedingly high average, and the method of arrangement so that all the exhibits should have fair play could hardly be improved upon.

Mr. Manson, M. P. P. at Hagensborg

Hears Scathing Denunciation of Local Road Superintendent

Mr. Manson's meeting at Hagensborg on Thursday evening will be long remembered by those present, especially by the Member himself and his pampered wire-puller, the local road superintendent.

The people, for the first time at a local Conservative meeting, were granted the privilege of free speech, which resulted, in each and every case in a scathing denunciation of the person in charge of public works in this district. Nor was Mr. Manson himself spared for his connivance in the matters which have led up to the present unsatisfactory conditions.

Owing to lack of space in this issue a full report of this memorable meeting will appear in our columns next week.

Jottings of Bella Coola and District

The S.S. Princess Beatrice arrived at this port on Friday night, after having loaded a considerable consignment of salmon at each of the Kimsquit canneries. The passenger list which was quite lengthy, included Constable Broughton, Messrs E. Williams, T. P. Saugstad, M. Nygaard, A. H. Oveson, C. C. Mills and W. Birch.

Mr. E. Williams of the Bank of B. N. A., who, early in the summer, took temporary charge of the local branch in the absence of Mr. J. N. Cran on vacation, has returned for a couple of weeks' hunting.

T. P. Saugstad, M. Nygaard and A. K. Oveson are home from Kimsquit where they have been engaged during the fishing season.

Messrs Saugstad and Nygaard will shortly return to their respective canneries as caretakers during the winter months.

It has been announced that the Princess Beatrice is withdrawn from this run until further notice.

The steamship Venture docked here Sunday morning bringing the following passengers: Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Walker, The Misses Crawford, Messrs J. Nelson, J. Forseth, M. E. Graser, G. H. Graser, B. F. Jacobsen and P. Evanson.

Mr. H. T. Walker, provincial government agriculturist, accompanied by Mrs. Walker have spent the last week in the valley, Mr. Walker acting as one of the judges at Thursday's Fall Fair.

Mr. G. H. Williams is visiting at Hagensborg as the guest of Mrs. Nordschow.

The Dominion Government Fisheries power launch Merlin, having on board Overseer and Mrs. G. Saugstad and officer R. Saugstad, arrived from Rivers Inlet on Tuesday last, and is to be laid up for the winter.

William Manson, M. P. P., Fred Grant and A. H. Tomlinson, provincial horticulturist, arrived by gasoline launch on Wednesday.

Mr. Manson is the guest of Mr. S. Le C. Grant.

BASKET SOCIAL.

Under the energetic supervision of Mrs. Livingstone the ladies of Bella Coola held a Basket Social in the Mackenzie School on Friday the 26th inst.

The function was held on behalf of the funds of the W. C. T. U., of which Mrs. Livingstone is travelling organizer. Despite the weather and notwithstanding the temporary absence of many residents from home, Mrs. Livingstone was able to announce that their evening's entertainment had added $75 to the funds of a very praiseworthy society.

The feature of the evening was an elocutionary contest, in which the prize was a silver medal presented by the W. C. T. U. Considering the opportunities of practice in this branch of a most useful art the standard of the different recitations was surprisingly high and the task of the judges was by no means a sine-cure. The medal was awarded to Miss Jennie Blayney and the success of the competition and the standard set up might well serve as a spur to the young men of the valley.

There was a very enjoyable program of singing, the songs rendered by Miss Roberts and the recitation by Mr. Lord being thoroughly appreciated. Good prizes were paid for all the baskets; the daintiness of their decoration and the tastefulness of their adornment made a beautiful note of color in the useful but otherwise prosaic looking building. Mr. Gallienne acted with his usual persuasive ability as auctioneer. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Livingstone presented the Development League with $20 as a subscription towards the funds for erecting a hall.

Geoffrey K. Burnett, B. C. L. S., is expected in on Sunday's boat.

The saw-mill at Rivers Inlet is at present out of commission owing to the recent destruction of the boiler house by fire. Arrangements are being made for the early reconstruction of the building, when the mill will be again busily engaged in supplying the ever increasing demand for lumber.

Coastal Communications

The end of a road or the end of a river is a good place to settle—if you choose the right end. In Bella Coola we are at the ends both of a road and a river; the river, however, is somewhat longer than the road, though this is no absolute need that this condition should persist for ever. It remains evidently with the Bella Coola people to point out to its government some very obvious truths. Needless to say when these truths are pointed out, and when it is explained to the government that good will result to Bella Coola and the Province from carrying these truths into practical execution, the government will at once see that action is taken. We know that it always has been so. It is so! Will anyone affirm that if the government is shown how the settler may be benefitted that the government will refuse the settler anything?

When the towns have been satisfied; when real estate dabbles and speculators in Vancouver, and particularly Victoria, have been fully contented: when the great railways, and purchasers who can hold up a few million acres—till the settler is forced to pay their price; when, in fact, the big interests of every kind, the members of the government themselves, the friends of the members of the government, and when the friends of their friends; when all have been fully fed and the fragments thrown to,—well—Mr. Matson might explain about some of those fragments—then, after these, the settler is the undying and unwearied concern of our paternal government. Nothing indeed is too good for the settler: and that is precisely what he gets—nothing! or less. For he has to pay to defend himself or his property from bears.

At least we know precisely what to expect, when Premier McBride has the effrontery to declare that "it is not the policy of the government, to which he has the honor to belong, to encourage settlers to flock into the country."

Evidently, unless the settler asks he will not get—he may not get even then; but it is worth the trial. A government, even the present Conservative government, is only the trustee of the people. The people do the work, they make the money, and they allow the government to spend it for them. It rests with the people to see that the money they earn and bring into this country is spent properly. A good business man puts his money into his business—a good money into his put their money into their country—they develop it and encourage its industries. The interests of a country and the interests of the people are inseparable—the interests of their government also should be inseparable from those of the country. It is for the people to see that this is perceived and acted upon.

The first need of any country is free communication with its different areas and with its neighbors; and freedom of communication means numerous connecting links: British Columbia with a coastline as great as that of any province or country in the world, with fisheries whose importance demands numerous ports, with minerals and lumber and incipient industries which must all depend for their prosperity upon easy access to the coast: British Columbia which must become one of the maritime powers of the world on account, not only of its own value and importance, but because it has all Canada behind and all Asia and Australasia in front; British Columbia has only two routes leading to its coast. Two lines of travel to carry the wealth of half the world—one around Vancouver, one to Prince Rupert.

In all the circumstances a third route would not be excessive; and this third route is waiting—patiently waiting. The map shows it clearly; a few gentlemen have talked of it; the government—the Conservative government (which knows everything) also knows it—must know it. The Courier will never cease to urge it until it is an accomplished fact.

Two hundred thousand dollars have been spent upon 45 miles of road in Bella Coola. Two hundred thousand dollars spent from the end of the wagon road at Tatla Lake which connects with Alexis Creek and therefrom to the Cariboo road, will give British Columbia its third route to the markets of the world.

If it were twenty million to Mackenzie and Mann we should have more hope of its prompt disbursement. It is not our fault, however, that only $200,000 are needed. Understood of course that they are properly spent. The advantages of such a road are too evident to need even statement—there would then be settlers from Bella Coola along the road into the interior—they would be able to market their produce and transact business while developing the country. The difficulties in constructing such a road are nil: even a road foreman could do the work. There is only one part—at the Precipice—where actual road making and building is required. This road is necessary, it would be cheap, it would benefit the settler, the community, the province and Canada.

We presume, therefore, that since everything is for it and nothing against it—it will NOT be done.

The Canadian Liberal Monthly.

From Ottawa comes a copy of The Canadian Liberal Monthly, a publication which has been started in the interest of Liberalism and the Liberal party in Canada.

This new publication, which will contain articles from the pens of the ablest writers and most original thinkers in the home of Liberals in the country; nay, even more, in these days when political thought is striking out into new and startling avenues, this monthly, whose purpose is purely educational and formative, should find a place in every home in Canada.

Prominent in this initial number is an article on "Principles of Liberalism," from which we quote:

"A man's political faith, like his religious faith, lacks the vitalizing germ unless he can give a reason for the faith that is in him." It is true that in politics, as in religion, one is 'born to the faith.'

"But the Liberalism or the Conservatism that continues to be founded on the accident and prejudice of birth, and that believes in 'my party and my father's party right or wrong' is the real cause of the discouraging inertia of public opinion that often allows the self-interested few to practically control elections and governments, that prevents or retards reform and makes of a free democracy a bureaucratic tyranny. Liberalism is a positive, reasoned belief, and every Liberal should be able, apart from opinions as to the government or the issues of the day, to justify his faith according to cardinal principles of good government."

A Menace to the Community

We understand from Dr. Cavanaugh that the camping of Indians on or near the townsite is likely to result in more than mere inconvenience to the community. It is well-known that the Indians from the Interior are many of them afflicted with phthisis—and consumption of course is simply tuberculosis. Without going into too unpleasant details it may be stated that these Indian camps, after the departure of the Indians, leave the ground and vegetation teeming with germs. This applies also to Hagensborg where there is frequently an Indian camp at the cross roads. Cattle in this valley are allowed to graze free and it would naturally be expected that such cattle will become infected with tubercle.

Tuberculosis in its many forms kills one person out of seven in every civilized country in the world, and it acts as a weakening influence on an immensely greater number. It kills and disables more men, women and children every year than were ever killed by the black death or any other of those dread plagues which have been names of dread throughout the history of the world. In every country now the greatest amount of attention is paid to tuberculosis—far more than to all other diseases put together—and the results of this attention is seen in the medical records and journals, in the numbers of sanatoria everywhere and the universal crusade which is being directed towards its prevention.

Everywhere the cry is for pure milk, for it has been proved that the infection, especially of children, is most frequently contracted through contaminated milk. Everywhere also herds of cows are tested by tuberculin to prove whether they are infected or not, and in every great city no milk from infected animals is allowed to be sold.

The matter is evidently of the highest importance to our community, and in order that the matter should be placed beyond the region of theory and settled beyond dispute we asked Dr. Cavanaugh quietly to investigate the subject. He reports to us that he found unmistakable tuberculous disease in one of the valley cattle.

It is clearly necessary, therefore, that if we are to keep our cattle clear of disease and our children free from contamination, the one cause of infection which is evident to us, must be removed. For the sake of the health of the community cattle must not be allowed to graze where they are sure to acquire the germs of the great white plague, and infected Indians must not be allowed to camp at our doors.

The Times has not criticized Sir Richard McBride for discussing the Oriental immigration question in London. Nobody objects to him talking on this subject there or in Tunis or Tripoli if he wants to. But we have criticized him for confining his advocacy of a white British Columbia to speeches instead of using his influence towards bringing this consummation about. Why does he not prevent the employment of Asiatics in coal mines? Here is something he can do. The laws of the province, which he is sworn to enforce, afford him a striking opportunity to prove his sincerity on the question. Again, why has he not attempted to induce Mr. Borden to carry out the policy of which he vaunts himself so ardent a champion? Has he made any representation in that quarter, where he is supposed to carry considerable weight? Can it be that the solid seven, the perfervid exclusivists of a few years ago, decline to back him up? -Victoria Times.

I t'ought I couldn't see de Valley
For locomotive steam:
I saw de station crowded thickly,
Felt it shake an' quiver—
"All aboard good people quickly
For Atnarko River."

W'at's de trouble Bella Coola?
W'en conductor spoke
I saw de train an' all de people
Disappear in smoke.
Let us leave dis idle dreamin',
Let us make a vow
To trust de good ole hoss for teamin'
An' to draw de plow.

W'at's de trouble Bella Coola?
Everts'in' dat grows
Gives you all your want in summer
An' buys de winter clo'es;
Lots of roots, an' fruits, an' berries,
W'at's you wanting more?
Think of all de plums an' cherries
You can keep in store.

W'at's de trouble Bella Coola?
Goin' to build a jail?
Better leave de winders open
An' fill it full of kale.
Dat's one trouble Bella Coola.
Dere's something wrong within.
You're fightin' Tom, an' Dick, an' Harry
An' playing games with sin.

W'at's your trouble Mr. Writer?
Nothin' frien's today!
I lost de track of troubles counting Blessings on de way.

—S. LE C. GRANT.

The Season's Salmon Pack

Fishing in northern waters has now ceased, nets and boats are stowed away, and the fishermen and cannery hands are dispersing to their homes. Soon the can-neries, which all summer presented such scenes of activity, will be deserted, save for the solitary caretaker.

The season just closed has been somewhat disappointing to the cannerymen, the pack in most cases being distinctly short, while the wet weather of the last few weeks has occasioned considerable discomfort to the fishermen.

The total pack at the Bella
Coola and Kimsquit canneries amounts to about 31,000 cases, comprising 11,000 cases of sockeye, the remainder being miscellaneous, as against last year's 40,000 cases, which included only 9,000 cases of sockeye.

At Rivers Inlet the total pack for the season amounts to 65,000 cases, of which all but 5,000 are sockeye.

The Indian Motorcycle

Anybody who has ever ridden a bicycle can master the "Indian" in five minutes. You need no mechanical knowledge or skill. You need only to become familiar with the control devices, and in the "Indian" they're very simple. A twist of the wrist applies and releases the power, and absolute control is assured at all times.

The leading feature of the 1913 model is the new Cradle Spring Frame. There are several models ranging in price from $290.
